can be said to have arrived during the late 60s as a fit subject for the western cinema, producers having toyed gingerly with it for the previous three decades. During the 40s, there were clear intimations of it in The Maltese Falcon, Victory, and Rope. The 50s brought Strangers on a Train, I Vitelloni, Serious Charge, Germany's The Third Sex, and Suddenly Last Summer, and the decade was rounded off with two productions of the life of Oscar Wilde. Cat on a Hot Tin Roof 58 and Spartacus 60 were probably the last Hollywood movies to have homosexual inferences deliberately removed from the original. In 1962 the subject came right out into the open with Victim, a well-intentioned thriller about the blackmail of homosexuals; A Taste of Honey featured a sympathetic homosexual; and both Advise and Consent and The Best Man concerned allegations of homosexuality against American politicians. On the other hand Lawrence of Arabia was so reticent about its hero's sexual make-up that it was difficult to know what estimate was being made; but for good measure Peter O'Toole was raped a second time in Lord Jim. Universal romantic comedies now began to make fun of the subject: in That Touch of Mink Gig Young's psychiatrist thought he was in love with Cary Grant, and in A Very Special Favour Rock Hudson deliberately made Leslie Caron think him effeminate so that she would 'rescue him'. The floodgates were now open: in rapid succession we had A View From the Bridge, with its male kiss; The Servant, with its odd relationship between master and man; The Leather Boys; Stranger in the House; The Fearless Vampire Killers, with its young homosexual bloodsucker; the miscast and unhappy Staircase; The Detective, which made New York appear to be a very gay city; The Gay Deceivers, in which two young men avoided the draft by pretending to be queer; Reflections in a Golden Eye; Midnight Cowboy; The Boys in the Band, the first sympathetic homosexual comedy; The Boston Strangler and Funeral in Berlin, with scenes in transvestite bars; If, Young Woodley, Tea and Sympathy, Riot, The Sergeant and Villain, which revealed camp goings-on in school, prison, the army and gangland. Girl Stroke Boy revealed the plight of parents who could not tell whether their son was engaged to a girl or a boy. In Myra Breckinridge homosexuality was almost lost in a welter of more spectacular perversions. Historical figures such as Richard the Lionheart and Tchaikovsky had their sexual pecadilloes explored in The Lion in Winter and The Music Lovers, and Billy Wilder jokingly investigated The Private Life of Sherlock Holmes. TV movies invaded the territory in 1973 with That Certain Summer. There wasn't much further to go, especially as 'gays' had their own porno films. 1978 brought the last curiosity: A Different Story, the love affair of a homosexual and a lesbian. There was a celebration of extraordinary individuals in TV's The Naked Civil Servant, Kiss of the Spider Woman, based on Manuel Puig's novel steeped in 40s Hollywood, and Harvey Fierstein's semi-autobiographical stage-hit Torch Song Trilogy, which had less impact in the cinema. It went hand in hand with the camp sensibility and frivolity of The Rocky Horror Picture Show, La Cage aux Folles and its sequels, some of Andy Warhol's films, like Lonesome Cowboys, and the work of John Waters. There was the particularly British repression and love across social classes exemplified by A Month in the Country, Maurice, based on E.M. Forster's long-unpublished novel, and We Think the World of You. The mood changed towards the end of the 80s as AIDS (not, of course, restricted to homosexuals) became more prevalent and began to kill many young and talented performers. Early Frost, made for TV, dealt with the problems of a lawyer explaining to his family that he is gay and dying from AIDS. Bill Sherwood made the much-praised Parting Glances on a similar theme, and the bigger-budget Longtime Companion explored the subject sympathetically. British director Derek Jarman reacted by making his films more militantly homosexual, culminating in his modern-dress version of Christopher Marlowe's Edward II. Younger directors, working outside the mainstream, proclaimed a 'New Queer Cinema', making films aimed at gay audiences or attempting to reclaim themes from mainstream cinema: Tom Kalin's Swoon ('Puts the Homo back in Homicide' according to its publicity) dealt with the Leopold-Loeb murder, tackled in Rope and Compulsion, from a specifically homosexual viewpoint; Todd Haynes's Poison contemplated sexual and social deviance with the equanimity of Jean Genet; Gregg Araki's The Living End had two HIV-positive homosexuals taking revenge on the straight world; Christopher Münch's The Hours and the Times dealt with Beatles manager Brian Epstein's love for John Lennon; Mark Rappaport's Rock Hudson's Home Movies took a witty look at the actor's performances from a gay perspective. Gus Van Sant enjoyed success with My Private Idaho, about a narcoleptic hustler; British director Isaac Julien's Young Soul Rebels had a black and white male couple as its protagonists; Spanish director Pedro Almodóvar's films, displaying a camp sensibility, were box-office hits around the world; and Jonathan Demme's Philadelphia was an Oscar-winner in 1993, though it managed to upset many AIDS activists. Stephen Fry in Wilde 97, reminded audiences of past persecutions, while Rupert Everett concentrated on present pleasures in his scene-stealing performance as Julia Roberts's gay companion in My Best Friend's Wedding 97. But it is television that has dealt with the subject most openly in the British series Queer as Folk and its US re-make.

Books: 1986, The Celluloid Closet: Homosexuality in the Movies by Vito Russo; 2002, Screened Out: Playing Gay in Hollywood from Edison to Stonewall by Richard Barrios.

See also: AIDS; lesbianism.

❝ I would really like to find a single actor whose career was harmed by playing gay. They usually end up winning Oscars and Tony awards. – Paul Rudnick

Actors like playing gay roles because they haven't played those characters before and they get to have fun in a new way. Or, for a lot of them, a way they're very familiar with. – Paul Rudnick

Hopalong Cassidy,

the genial black-garbed hero of scores of western second features since 1935, was created by novelist Clarence E. Mulford. William Boyd was his only screen and TV personification.

Book: 1992, Hopalong Cassidy by Bernard A. Drew.

horror

as a staple of screen entertainment really emanates from Germany (although Edison shot a picture of Frankenstein as early as 1908). Before World War I Wegener had made a version of The Golem, which he improved on in 1920: it was this second version which directly influenced the Hollywood horror school stimulated by James Whale. What is surprising is that Hollywood took so long to catch on to a good idea, especially as the Germans, in depressed postwar mood, relentlessly turned out such macabre films as The Cabinet of Dr Caligari (with Veidt as a hypnotically-controlled monster), Nosferatu (Murnau's brilliantly personal account of Bram Stoker's 'Dracula'), Waxworks (Leni's three-part thriller about Ivan the Terrible, Haroun-al-Raschid and Jack the Ripper); The Hands of Orlac and The Student of Prague. Most of the talents involved were exported to Hollywood by 1927; but the only horror film directly resulting was Leni's The Cat and the Canary, which was a spoof. California did encourage Lon Chaney, but his films were grotesque rather than gruesome; and John Barrymore had already been allowed in 1921 to impersonate Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde (a role to be played even more for horror by Fredric March in 1932). By the end of the 20s, the European horror film was played out except for Dreyer's highly individual Vampyr; the ball was in Hollywood's court.

In 1930 Tod Browning filmed the stage version of Dracula, using a Hungarian actor named Bela Lugosi; shortly after, Robert Florey wrote and James Whale directed a version of Frankenstein that borrowed freely from The Golem. Both films (see individual entries) were wildfire successes, and the studio involved, Universal, set out on a steady and profitable progress through a series of sequels. In 1932 Karloff appeared in The Mummy, and in 1933 Claude Rains was The Invisible Man; these characters were added to the grisly band. In 1935 the studio made Werewolf of London, which led five years later to The Wolf Man giving Lon Chaney Jnr a useful sideline. By 1945, despite the upsurge in supernatural interest during the war, these characters were thought to be played out, and in the last two 'serious' episodes they appeared en masse. In 1948 they began to meet Abbott and Costello, which one would have thought might ensure their final demise; but more of that later.

Meanwhile other landmarks had been established. Browning made the outlandish Freaks, and in 1935 the spoof Mark of the Vampire. James Whale in 1932 made The Old Dark House, an inimitably entertaining mixture of disagreeable ingredients. Warners in 1932 came up with Doctor X and The Mystery of the Wax Museum (remade as House of Wax) and later got some mileage out of The Walking Dead. Paramount went in for mad doctors, from The Island of Dr Moreau (Island of Lost Souls) to Doctor Cyclops, and at the beginning of World War II produced scary remakes of The Cat and the Canary and The Ghost Breakers. RKO was busy with King Kong and She, MGM with The Devil Doll. In the early 40s Universal began a listless anthology series under the title Inner Sanctum, and later failed in The Creature from the Black Lagoon to add another intriguing monster to their gallery. By far the most significant extension of the genre was the small group of depressive but atmospheric thrillers produced by Val Lewton at RKO in 1942-45, the best of them being The Body Snatcher, The Cat People and I Walked with a Zombie.

After the war, little was heard of horror until the advent of science fiction in 1950. After this we heard a very great deal of nasty visitors from other planets (The Thing, Invasion of the Body Snatchers), mutations (The Fly, This Island Earth), robots (The Day the Earth Stood Still, Forbidden Planet) and giant insects (Them, Tarantula). To please the teenage audience, fly-by-night producers thought up fantastic horror-comic variations and came up with titles like The Blob, I Married a Monster from Outer Space and I Was a Teenage Werewolf; such crude and shoddy productions cheapened the genre considerably. The Japanese got into the act with rubber-suited monsters like Godzilla and Rodan; then, surprisingly, it was the turn of the British. Hammer Films, a small independent outfit with an old Thames-side house for a studio, impudently remade the sagas of Frankenstein, Dracula et alia, marked by a certain bold style, lack of imagination, and such excess of blood-letting that several versions have to be made for each film (the bloodiest for Japan, the most restrained for the home market). Britain also produced commendable screen versions of The Quatermass Experiment and other TV serials.

Since 1955 horror has been consistently in fashion, at least in the world's mass markets, and film-makers have been busy capping each other by extending the bounds of how much explicit physical shock and horror is permissible. (This, of course, does not make for good films.) If Franju was revolting in the detail of Eyes Without a Face, Hitchcock certainly topped him in Psycho and was himself outdone by William Castle in Homicidal, and by the perpetration in the 70s of films like Blood Feast and Death Line. (Psycho also gave the screen an inventive horror-writing talent in Robert Bloch, who has since been kept as busy as he could wish.) And the cheapjack American nasties at least provided a training ground for producer-director Roger Corman, who between 1960 and 1964 made a series of Poe adaptations much admired for style and enthusiasm if not for production detail. The trend in the early 70s was towards the compendiums of graveyard horror typified by Tales from the Crypt and The House that Dripped Blood, and towards such combinations of spoof and nastiness as Theatre of Blood, Shivers and Squirm.

The video craze of the early 80s revealed a significant and rather worrying minority of people who doted on excesses of horror, not only on the recent wave of teenage assassination thrillers like Friday the Thirteenth, Hell Night and Terror Train, but on 'nasties' such as Driller Killer and I Spit on Your Grave, which seemed to have been made explicitly for the new medium. This cheap rubbish, with neither style nor imagination, had nothing at all to do with the great achievements of the genre, though indications of talent were found by some in the work of John Carpenter (Halloween, etc.) and David Cronenberg (The Brood, etc.). The success of George Romero's Night of the Living Dead in 68 encouraged many similar low-budget horrors, some made by Romero himself. From the time of An American Werewolf in London 81, with its startling transformations from man to beast, make-up and special effects experts such as Rick Baker and Rob Bottin have grown in importance and some, like Chris Walas (The Fly 2) and Tom Savini (a remake of Night of the Living Dead), have even become directors. From the 80s, though, the predominant influence was that of novelist Stephen King. His first novel, Carrie, became a successful film in 74 and his second novel, Salem's Lot, became a TV movie in 79. After Stanley Kubrick made The Shining, based on his third novel, in 80, the pace quickened so that by the 90s even a seven-page short story was being turned into a full-length film, The Lawnmower Man, and King's name was above the titles and usually in bigger type than those of the stars. His British rival, novelist Clive Barker, turned director with Hellraiser, a film that has so far spawned two sequels and turned one of his hellish characters, Pinhead, into something of a cult figure – though nothing so far to rival the extraordinary and outlandish appeal for many of Freddy (Robert Englund), the child murderer of the A Nightmare on Elm Street series that ran through most of the 80s and into the 90s. By the mid-90s, the genre was attracting notable actors and directors, with Francis Ford Coppola's big-budget and overblown Bram Stoker's Dracula, Mike Nichols directing Wolf with Jack Nicholson and Michelle Pfeiffer, and Kenneth Branagh making Mary Shelley's Frankenstein, which had Robert De Niro surprisingly stepping into Boris Karloff's built-up shoes. Horror became deconstructed in Scream 96, in which Kevin Williamson's script mocked the clichés of 80s slasher movies while demonstrating that they still had the power to shock. Two sequels, Scream 2 and Scream 3, followed, becoming so self-reflective that they meant little to audiences who had not seen the first movie. Perhaps as a result, a parody Scary Movie 00 was a great popular success, despite its feeble jokes. But the film that scared audiences most was the one that showed the least. It was the power of suggestion that enabled the deliberately amateurish and apparently abandoned footage of The Blair Witch Project 98 to become possibly the most profitable movie so far made. At the turn of the century, Japan produced the most innovative horror movies, notably with Takashi Miike's Audition/Odison 99, which many audiences were unable to stomach, and the Ringu trilogy that Hollywood remade as The Ring and The Ring 2. Hollywood also remake two other Japanese horrors: The Grudge 04 and Dark Water 05.

Best books: 1968, An Illustrated History of Horror Films by Carlos Clarens; 1973, A Pictorial History of Horror Films by Denis Gifford; 1980, Caligari's Children by S. S. Prawer; 1985, The Aurum Film Encyclopedia: Horror, ed Phil Hardy; 1988, Nightmare Movies by Kim Newman; 1994, The Monster Show by David J. Skal; 2000, English Gothic by Jonathan Rigby; 2000, The Encyclopedia of Fantastic Film: Ali Baba to Zombies by R.G. Young.

horses

have in several cases risen to the rank of star. All the great cowboy heroes had their familiar steed: Trigger for Roy Rogers, Topper for Hopalong Cassidy, Fritz for William S. Hart, Tarzan for Ken Maynard, Tony for Tom Mix, Silver for Buck Jones, Blackjack for Allan Rocky Lane, Koko for Rex Allen, White Flash for Tex Ritter, Champion for Gene Autry. Other movies strongly featuring horses have included National Velvet, The Red Pony, Red Stallion, The Black Stallion, Crin Blanc, King of the Wild Horses, My Friend Flicka, Green Grass of Wyoming, Thunderhead Son of Flicka, Sand, Fury, Black Beauty, Shergar and the animated feature Spirit: Stallion of the Cimarron.

hospitals

have been the setting of many films. Life Begins and its remake A Child is Born were set in the maternity wards, No Time for Tears in the children's wards. Young Dr Kildare started a whole series about a general hospital, and soon they were Calling Dr Gillespie. Other general hospital dramas include White Corridors, The Lamp Still Burns, Behind the Mask, Life in Emergency Ward Ten, Emergency Hospital, The Kingdom/Riget; thrillers set among the wards include Intent to Kill, The Sleeping City, Green for Danger (the best of all), Eye Witness, Coma, Extreme Measures and The Carey Treatment, which last is in the vein of savage black humour evidenced in the early 70s by such films as The Hospital and Where Does It Hurt?

Gentler hospital comedy has been found in Doctor in the House, Twice Round the Daffodils, Trio, and several episodes of the 'Carry On' series which have specialized in bedpan humour.

TV series on the subject include Medic, The Nurses, The Doctors and the Nurses, Doctor Kildare, Ben Casey, Dr Hudson's Secret Journal, Dr Christian, General Hospital, West Side Medical, Trapper John, Quincy, St Elsewhere, Casualty, ER, House MD.

hotels

have frequently formed a useful setting for films wanting to use the 'slice of life' technique. Thus Grand Hotel, Hotel for Women, Stage Door, Hotel Berlin, Weekend at the Waldorf, Separate Tables and Hotel itself; while Ship of Fools is a variation on the same theme. The hotel background was a valuable dramatic asset to films as varied as The Last Laugh, The October Man, Don't Bother to Knock, Hotel du Nord, Pushover, Honeymoon Hotel, Room Service (and its remake Step Lively), Hotel Reserve, Hotel Sahara, The Horn Blows at Midnight, Hotel for Women, Hollywood Hotel, Paris Palace Hotel, Bedtime Story, The Best Man, The Greengage Summer, A Hole in the Head and The Silence. Hotel security did not prevent attempts on the hero's life in Journey into Fear and Foreign Correspondent. The most bewildering hotel was certainly that in So Long at the Fair; the most amusing hotel sequences may have been in Ninotchka, The Bellboy, Hotel Paradiso, A Flea in Her Ear or The Perfect Woman. And hotels which had no accommodation to offer sparked off quite a few comedies during World War II, including Government Girl, Standing Room Only and The More the Merrier (later remade as Walk Don't Run). The hotel format endeared itself to television, which brought forth such variations as Love Boat, Fantasy Island and Paradise Cove; 1983 brought back Hotel itself, with shooting in San Francisco's Fairmont. The hotels no one would wish to revisit are those which sheltered Janet Leigh in Psycho and Jack Nicholson in The Shining.

The Hound of the Baskervilles has been filmed more times than any other of Conan Doyle's stories featuring Sherlock Holmes. V. Gareth Gundrey directed a dull version for Gainsborough in 1931, starring Robert Rendel as Sherlock Holmes and Frederick Lloyd as Watson, with John Stuart as Sir Henry Baskerville and Heather Angel as Beryl Stapleton. Twentieth Century-Fox did better in 1939, when Sidney Lanfield directed the classic teaming of Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce as Holmes and Watson. Hammer offered a Gothic verison 20 years later, directed by Terence Fisher, with Peter Cushing as Holmes, André Morell as Watson and Christopher Lee as Sir Henry. A lamentable comic variation was made by Paul Morrissey in 1977, with Peter Cook as Holmes and Dudley Moore as Watson. Denholm Elliott was also among the cast and popped up in a more faithful retelling in 1983, directed by Douglas Hickox, with Ian Richardson as Holmes and Donald Churchill as Watson.

House on Haunted Hill

was originally made by producer-director William Castle in 1958, and was billed as being in Emergo, which turned out to refer to a glowing skeleton on wires that was suddenly trundled over the heads of the audience at scary moments. It starred Vincent Price as a millionaire who throws a party in a house where there have been several murders. It was remade in 1999 by director William Malone, starring Geoffrey Rush as the man who promises his guests $1m each if they survive the night in a former mental institution. Castle's daughter, Terry Castle, was co-producer of the new version.

houses

have been the dramatic center of many films: there was even one, Enchantment, in which the house itself told the story. The films of Daphne du Maurier's novels usually have a mysterious old house at the crux of their plots, as in Rebecca, Frenchman's Creek, Jamaica Inn, My Cousin Rachel. So in Dragonwyck; so in House of Fear; so, of course, in Jane Eyre and Wuthering Heights. Both Citizen Kane and The Magnificent Ambersons are dominated by unhappy houses, as is Gaslight. Thrillers set in lonely houses full of secret panels and hidden menace are exemplified by The Spiral Staircase, The Black Cat, Night Monster, The House on Haunted Hill, The Cat and the Canary, The Ghost Breakers, The House that Dripped Blood, Whatever Happened to Baby Jane? The Beast with Five Fingers, Ladies in Retirement and And Then There Were None. Haunted houses are rarer, but those in THe Uninvited, The Unseen, The Innocents, The Enchanted Cottage and The Haunting linger vividly in the memory. So for a different reason does the Bates's house in Psycho: happier houses of note include the rose-covered cottage in Random Harvest, the family mansions of Forever and a Day and Enchantment, the red-decorated Denver house in The Unsinkable Molly Brown, the laboriously built country seat of Mr Blandings Builds His Dream House, the labour-saving modern house of Mon Oncle, the broken-down houses of George Washington Slept Here and Father Came Too, and dear old Rookery Nook. And filmgoers have various reasons to remember The House on 92nd Street, The House on Telegraph Hill, House of Strangers, House of Horrors, House of Bamboo, House of Numbers, House of the Damned, House of the Seven Hawks, House of Women, House by the River, House of Dracula, House of Frankenstein, House of Wax, Sinister House, The Red House, Crazy House, The Old Dark House, The House of Usher, The House of the Seven Gables and the house in House and House II. The house in Malpertius brought little comfort; come to that, nor did the noble pile in Brideshead Revisited, or the crumbling property in The Money Pit.

Hubie and Bertie.

Cartoon mice created by Chuck Jones. Their voices were supplied by Mel Blanc and Stan Freberg.

The Aristo Cat 43. House-Hunting Mice 48. Mouse Wreckers (AAN) 49. Cheese Chasers 51. Mouse Warming 52, etc.

The Huggetts.

Cheerful cockney family first featured in the film Holiday Camp 47. Its success inspired a radio series, Meet the Huggetts, featuring the film's two stars, Jack Warner and Kathleen Harrison, as Joe and Ethel Huggett, which ran from 1953-61, as well as three further films: Here Come the Huggetts 48, Vote for Huggett 48, The Huggetts Abroad 49.

The Hunchback of Notre Dame.

Victor Hugo's novel, Notre-Dame de Paris, about the cathedral's deformed bell-ringer Quasimodo and his love for the gypsy Esmerelda during the reign of Louis XI, has proved a potent source of inspiration to film-makers. Lon Chaney, giving one of his best performances, starred in a silent version in 1923, while William Dieterle directed the definitive Hollywood version in 1939, with Charles Laughton rampant in the title role. A crude remake appeared in 1956, starring Anthony Quinn and Gina Lollobrigida. Walt Disney made an animated version in 1996 which tried to turn it into a Broadway musical with Gothic overtones. It has been twice made as a TV film, in 1982 starring Anthony Hopkins, and in 1997, with Mandy Patinkin. Other versions include two French silents, in 1906 and 1911, an English silent in 1906, an Italian in 1911 and an American in 1917, The Darling of Paris, with Glenn White and Theda Bara. Parodies include The Hunchback Hairball of L.A. 89, and The Halfback of Notre Dame 96, an updated teen TV movie about a clumsy football player.

hypnosis

on the screen has mainly been a basis for melodrama. Svengali was its most demonic exponent, but others who followed in his footsteps were Jacques Bergerac in The Hypnotic Eye, Boris Karloff in The Climax, Bela Lugosi in Dracula, Charles Gray in The Devil Rides Out, Erich Von Stroheim in The Mask of Dijon, Christopher Lee in The Face of Fu Manchu, Orson Welles in Black Magic, and José Ferrer in Whirlpool (in which, immediately after major surgery, he hypnotized himself into leaving his bed and committing a murder). In Fear in the Night and its remake Nightmare, De Forrest Kelley and Kevin McCarthy were hypnotized into becoming murderers. Comic uses are legion, the perpetrators including Lugosi in Abbott and Costello Meet Frankenstein, Karloff in The Secret Life of Walter Mitty, Gale Sondergaard in Road to Rio, the cast of How to be Very Very Popular, Yves Montand in On a Clear Day You Can See Forever, Alan Badel in Will Any Gentleman, Mildred Natwick in The Court Jester, and Pat Collins in Divorce American Style. The chief serious study of the subject has been Freud, though one might also count The Search for Bridey Murphy.

impresarios

presented on film include Sol Hurok, by David Wayne in Tonight We Sing; Rupert D'Oyly Carte, by Peter Finch in The Story of Gilbert and Sullivan; Walter de Frece, by Laurence Harvey in After the Ball; David Belasco, by Claude Rains in Lady With Red Hair; Lew Dockstatter, by John Alexander in The Jolson Story; Noël Coward by Daniel Massey, and André Charlot by Alan Oppenheimer, in Star!; and Florenz Ziegfeld, by William Powell in The Great Ziegfeld and by Walter Pidgeon in Funny Girl. Of fictional impresarios, the most memorable were those played by John Barrymore in Maytime and Anton Walbrook in The Red Shoes.

in-jokes

were especially frequent when Hollywood was a parochial society, and many must have been so private as to escape the general eye. The following, however, seem reasonably typical. The Black Cat (34): Boris Karloff as a devil worshipper has to be heard reciting an invocation to Satan, which to please the Hays Code is made up of such Latin phrases as 'cave canem' (beware of the dog), 'cum grano salis' (with a grain of salt), 'in vino veritas' (in wine is truth) and 'reductio ad absurdum est' (it is shown to be impossible). Bride of Frankenstein: Ernest Thesiger repeats a line ('It's my only weakness') from his previous role for the same director in The Old Dark House. Mad Love: a statue apparently comes to life, and a frightened onlooker says 'It went for a little walk', which is a line used of the monster in The Mummy, the same director's previous film. His Girl Friday: Cary Grant refers to the execution of a fellow named Archie Leach, which is Grant's own real name.

Hellzapoppin: Olsen and Johnson see a sledge on a film set and remark 'I thought they burned that', a reference to Rosebud in Citizen Kane. Song of the Thin Man: William Powell finds a razor blade and remarks 'Somerset Maugham has been here', a reference to the author's current best-seller The Razor's Edge. The Maltese Falcon and In This Our Life: Walter Huston plays uncredited bit parts under his son John's direction (one of innumerable similar instances). On the Town: Frank Sinatra is subjected to good-nature joshing about his real-life marriage to Ava Gardner. Arise My Love: Ray Milland, asked whether he was a test pilot, replies 'No, that was Clark Gable', referring to the recently released Test Pilot. Northern Pursuit: Errol Flynn, then in the middle of a real-life rape case, tells the heroine she is the only girl he has ever loved, then looks at the audience and says: 'What am I saying?' How to Marry a Millionaire: Lauren Bacall, then married to Humphrey Bogart, says in conversation 'That old man in The African Queen, I'm crazy about him'. The Big Store: Groucho tells the audience: 'This scene should have been in Technicolor but Mr Mayer said it was too expensive'. (Again, many similar instances exist, notably in the Road films, which are full of studio gags such as 'Paramount will protect us 'cause we're signed for five more years'.) Another Dawn: in the 30s, whenever a cinema canopy was shown, it usually advertised a non-existent film under this title; but in 1938 Warners were stuck for a title for their new Errol Flynn film, so they irrelevantly and cynically called it Another Dawn. Some Like It Hot: Tony Curtis has to impersonate a millionaire and as part of the disguise gives a devastatingly accurate impression of Cary Grant's voice, only to be told scathingly by Jack Lemmon 'Nobody talks like that!' In the same movie, and also in Singin' in the Rain, a gangster tosses a coin in imitation of George Raft in Scarface. The VIPs: asked for her home phone number, Elizabeth Taylor gives 'Grosvenor 7060', which is the number of MGM's London office. Star Spangled Rhythm: the harassed and excitable producer played by Walter Abel is named G. B. de Soto, in imitation of B. G. de Sylva, then a Paramount producer. The Wings of Eagles: the film director, John Dodge, is played by Ward Bond as an imitation of John Ford, who directed The Wings of Eagles. Irma La Douce: the pimps' union is called the Mecs' Paris Protective Association, or MPPA, which also stands for Motion Picture Producers Association, an organization which gave director Billy Wilder some trouble. Caprice: heroine Doris Day goes to the movies and sees a Doris Day movie. One Two Three: James Cagney threatens a girl with a grapefruit, mimicking his own action thirty years before in Public Enemy: he also steals from Little Caesar the line 'Mother of mercy, is this the end of Rico?' The Entertainer: reference is made to Sergeant Ossie Morris; the film was photographed by Ossie Morris. Finian's Rainbow: Fred Astaire has a short speech which consists, with different emphasis, of the words of one of his old songs. The House that Dripped Blood: Geoffrey Bayldon as a mad scientist is made up to look like Ernest Thesiger in Bride of Frankenstein. How to Marry a Millionaire: Betty Grable fails to recognize a Harry James recording (she was married to him at the time). For the First Time: there is reference to a convict named Cocozza, which happens to be star Mario Lanza's real name. Connecting Rooms: Bette Davis passes a poster mentioning stage star Margo(t) Channing, the name of the character she played in All About Eve. (The name is also used for one of the unseen characters in Sleuth.) Pete 'n' Tillie: Walter Matthau takes his girl to a cinema showing Lonely Are the Brave, one of his own earlier films. Aaron Slick From Punkin Crick: a waiter in a café scene calls 'Give that Perlberg-Seaton order special attention'. (Perlberg and Seaton produced and directed the film.) Road to Utopia: Bob Hope says Bing Crosby's voice is 'just right for selling cheese', a reference to Bing's then-current radio show, Kraft Music Hall. Godfather II: Troy Donahue plays a character called Merle Johnson, which is his own real name. Dames: Dick Powell is told 'Miss Warren, Miss Dubin and Miss Kelly are outside', a reference to songwriters Al Dubin and Harry Warren and dress designer Orry-Kelly. Strange Boarders: Tom Walls sees a picture of Disraeli and says 'Good old George, what a make-up', a reference to George Arliss' penchant for playing historical characters. What's New Pussycat: a stranger who bumps into Peter O'Toole in a nightclub turns out to be Richard Burton, who asks 'Don't you know me from someplace?' West of the Divide: in this 1934 quickie western John Wayne assumes the identity of a bandit whose image (i.e. his own) he sees on a wanted poster. The poster appeared in two other Wayne films that year. A Chump at Oxford: Laurel and Hardy foil a raid on the Finlayson National Bank, a clear reference to their favourite supporting player, James of that ilk. The Lady in the Lake: Crystal Kingsley, the character who never appears because she is dead, is listed as being played by Ellay Mort ('elle est morte'). Gold Diggers of 1933: a songwriter is told, 'Dubin and Warren are out! You're writing the score!' (Dubin and Warren wrote the score.) Weekend at the Waldorf: Walter Pidgeon imitates John Barrymore and Ginger Rogers says, 'Why, that's right out of Grand Hotel!' (from which Weekend at the Waldorf was adapted). Trent's Last Case: Orson Welles, who had played Othello in London a year previously, says: 'I saw Othello in London last year, but the fellow was not very good.' The Howling: most of the characters bear the names of horror film directors. Quo Vadis: Peter Ustinov as Nero says as he dies 'Is this the end of Nero?', echoing Edward G. Robinson's line at the end of Little Caesar, 'Is this the end of Rico?' In Paul Cox's Lust and Revenge, photographs displayed of Baba Thomas, the leader of an eccentric religious sect, are actually those of fellow director Rolf de Heer.

incest

has scarcely been fashionable film fare, though the theatrical acceptance of it goes back to Oedipus Rex (filmed in 1969) and one supposes The Bible (filmed in 1966) which fails to explain how else Adam and Eve's two sons propagated the species. It has been implied in a handful of American films from Scarface to Toys in the Attic, and more or less clearly stated in Mourning Becomes Electra, A View from the Bridge and Chinatown. Its full flowering came with the British Country Dance, but as expected the French had beaten us to it with Souffle au Coeur, though it became more explicit in La Luna. My Lover My Son is another example. Close My Eyes deals with an affair between a brother and sister, as does The Cement Garden, The Miracle with a son unwittingly attracted to his mother, and U-Turn a daughter abused by her violent father; War Zone 98 dealt with a boy discovering that his teenaged sister was being abused by their father.

The Incredible Hulk.

The comic book superhero, who was created in 1962 by Stan Lee, was the alter ego of mild-mannered research scientist David Banner. As the result of the usual freak accident involving radiation, Banner changed at moments of stress into a gruesome green giant with primitive responses. A TV series starring Bill Bixby as David Banner and Lou Ferrigno as the Incredible Hulk ran for four years from 1978. Some TV movies with the same cast followed the demise of the series: The Incredible Hulk Returns 88, The Trial of the Incredible Hulk 89, The Death of the Incredible Hulk 90. An animated TV version of his adventures, aimed at children, began in 1982. The Hulk, a movie costing $120m, followed in 2003, directed by Ang Lee and starring Eric Bana.

The Incredible Journey.

Sheila Burnford's story of two dogs and a cat who are left with a friend and make a journey of 250 miles across the Canadian wilderness to their old home was first filmed by Disney in 1963 with a voice-over narration by Rex Allen. It was remade in 1993 with the animals being voiced by Don Ameche as a labrador, Michael J. Fox as a terrier, and Sally Field as the cat. A sequel followed in 1996.

Indians:

see Red Indians.

insanity

in the cinema has usually been of the criminal kind: Robert Montgomery (and Albert Finney) in Night Must Fall, Keir Dullea in Bunny Lake is Missing, Bette Davis in Whatever Happened to Baby Jane? and The Nanny, Franchot Tone in Phantom Lady, George Brent in The Spiral Staircase, Joseph Cotten in Shadow of a Doubt, Edward G. Robinson in The Sea Wolf, Robert Ryan in Beware My Lovely, Ivan Kirov in Spectre of the Rose, Robert Mitchum in Night of the Hunter, Douglass Montgomery in The Cat and the Canary, Anthony Perkins in Psycho, Hywel Bennett in Twisted Nerve, Oliver Reed in Paranoiac, Brember Wills in The Old Dark House and hundreds of others. Indeed, most screen villains have been, if not psychopathic, at least subject to an idée fixe: and many a tortured hero has had a mad wife in the attic. Insanity has however been played quite frequently for comedy, notably in Harvey, Miss Tatlock's Millions, The Criminal Life of Archibaldo de la Cruz and Drôle de Drame. Serious studies of insanity and its effects are on the increase, not only through fictitious situations as shown in A Bill of Divorcement, The Shrike, Suddenly Last Summer, Of Mice and Men, David and Lisa, Shock Corridor, Shock Treatment, Diary of a Madman, One Flew over the Cuckoo's Nest and Cul de Sac, but also in more clinical investigations such as The Snake Pit, El, Labyrinth, La Tête contre les Murs, Morgan, Pressure Point, A Child Is Waiting, Lilith and Repulsion. A mixture of attitudes is found in the scientific fantasy of Charly; while Bedlam was a curious attempt at a horror film set entirely in an asylum, a setting later used by The Marat/Sade. In King of Hearts the insane are shown to be wiser than the rest, like Mr Dick in David Copperfield.

insects

on the screen have generally been of the monstrous kind: Tarantula, The Black Scorpion, The Wasp Woman, The Fly, Them, and The Monster That Challenged the World come to mind. Of course, normal-sized ants can be monstrous enough if seen in quantity, as in The Naked Jungle, or if you are as small as The Incredible Shrinking Man. Giant spiders are perhaps the most popular breed: there was a particularly loathsome one in The Thief of Baghdad. But even normal-sized ones caused trouble in Arachnophobia. Friendly insects have included those who went to the 'ugly bug ball' in Summer Magic; and the dancing caterpillar of Once upon a Time. The most symbolic insect was certainly the butterfly in All Quiet on the Western Front; the most abundant, the locust in The Good Earth. A documentary feature about insects of the most dramatic kind was The Hellstrom Chronicle. Another documentary, Microcosmos 96, showed in startling detail a day in the insect life of a French meadow. And in 1998 came two computer-animated features, DreamWorks' Antz and Disney's A Bug's Life, in which the heroes, for once, were ants.

Inspector Hornleigh.

A detective whose interrogation of witnesses always led to a slip that gave away the criminal. Created by Hans Priwin (aka John P. Wynn), he was first featured on radio in 1937, which led to magazine stories and a stage play, followed by three films starring Gordon Harker in the title role: Inspector Hornleigh 39; Inspector Hornleigh on Holiday 39; Inspector Hornleigh Goes to It 41. A later radio series in the late 50s and early 60s from the same writer featured an identical detective except that he was now called Inspector Scott, but he failed to make the transition to the cinema.

insults.

A choice selection, from scripts and from life.

“ Tony Curtis, about having to make love to Marilyn Monroe:

It's like kissing Hitler.

George Sanders to Anne Baxter in All About Eve:

That I should want you at all suddenly seems to me the height of improbability.

Louis B. Mayer to Greta Garbo's agent:

Tell her that in America men don't like fat women.

Monty Woolley to Mary Wickes in The Man Who Came to Dinner:

You have the touch of a sex-starved cobra.

Charles Winninger to Fredric March in Nothing Sacred:

The hand of God reaching down into the mire couldn't elevate you to the depths of degradation.

And in the same movie, Walter Connolly to Fredric March:

I am sitting here, Mr Cook, toying with the idea of removing your heart and stuffing it - like an olive!

Billy Wilder, after listening to Cliff Osmond singing for a part:

You have Van Gogh's ear for music.

Jan Sterling to Kirk Douglas in Ace in the Hole:

I've met a lot of hard-boiled eggs in my time, but you - you're twenty minutes!

Walter Matthau to Barbra Streisand on the set of Hello Dolly:

I have more talent in my smallest fart than you have in your entire body.

And later:

I have no disagreement with Barbra Streisand. I was merely exasperated by her tendency towards megalomania.

Mae West of W. C. Fields during the filming of My Little Chickadee:

There's no one in the world quite like Bill - thank God.

inventors

have been the subject of many screen biographies; indeed, Don Ameche had to live down his invention of the telephone in The Story of Alexander Graham Bell and of the sub-machine gun in A Genius in the Family. Mickey Rooney appeared as Young Tom Edison and Spencer Tracy as Edison the Man; James Stewart was Carbine Williams; Robert Donat played William Friese-Greene, inventor of the movie camera, in The Magic Box. Joel McCrea in The Great Moment invented laughing gas; The Sound Barrier covered Sir Frank Whittle's invention of the jet engine, and The Dam Busters has Michael Redgrave as the inventor of the bouncing bomb, Dr Barnes Wallis. That prolific inventor Galileo was played in an Italian film by Cyril Cusack and more recently by Topol. In I Aim At the Stars Curt Jurgens was Wernher von Braun. Benjamin Franklin was portrayed not by an actor but by Disney's cartoonists in Ben and Me. Charles Coburn later took over in John Paul Jones and Howard da Silva in 1776.

The Iron Man

W.R. Burnett's 1930 novel of a promising young boxer who becomes involved with a femme fatale has been filmed three times by Universal Pictures. Tod Browning directed the first version in 1931, with Lew Ayres being destroyed by Jean Harlow; in 1937 Milton Carruth directed Some Blondes are Dangerous, with Noah Beery Jnr being undone by Dorothy Kent; the 1951 version, directed by Joseph Pevney, starred Jeff Chandler and Evelyn Keyes. No version rose above the routine.

The Island of Dr Moreau.

H. G. Wells's novella, published in 1896, about a shipwrecked scientist operating on animals to give them human characteristics, was filmed by Erle C. Kenton in 1932 under the title Island of Lost Souls, with Charles Laughton giving a rip-roaring performance as the mad naturalist, Bela Lugosi as his mutant servant, and Kathleen Burke as the Panther Woman, who was chosen after the stunt of a nationwide search for an actress to play the role. With its heated publicity – 'Out of the dark fantastic madness of his science he created her – the panther woman – throbbing to the hot flush of new-found love!' – it was banned in England, on the grounds that it was 'against nature', and in some parts of America. It was remade in 1977 by Don Taylor, with Burt Lancaster as a somewhat stolid doctor, and in 1996 by John Frankenheimer, with Marlon Brando. A version that does not credit Welles was made in the Phillipines by Gerardo De Leon as Terror is a Man 59, starring Francis Lederer as a Dr Girard.

Jack the Ripper.

The unknown murderer of London prostitutes in 1888-9 has stimulated several flights of film fancy. Pabst brought him in to carry off the heroine of Pandora's Box 28. Two years earlier Alfred Hitchcock had directed the first film adaptation of Mrs Belloc Lowndes' novel The Lodger, but in this version Ivor Novello was found not to be the Ripper after all. Further versions were offered by Maurice Elvey in 1932 (Ivor Novello), John Brahm in 1944 (Laird Cregar) and Hugo Fregonese in 1953 (Jack Palance as The Man in the Attic). Further slight variations were posed in The Phantom Fiend 35 and The Strangler 64, while the long-standing puzzle was 'solved' in Jack the Ripper 58, A Study in Terror 65 and a TV 'Thriller' episode called Yours Truly Jack the Ripper. The Ripper was used as an alibi by Dr Jekyll and Sister Hyde 71, and the sins of the fathers were passed on in Hands of the Ripper 72, with Angharad Rees as the Ripper's daughter. In The Ruling Class 72, the aristocratic Peter O'Toole was cured of the delusion that he was Jesus Christ, only to become the Ripper. In the 70s there was a German variation with Klaus Kinski, and in Time after Time the Ripper landed in modern San Francisco via H.G. Wells's time machine. In 1988, a TV film starred Michael Caine as a policeman on the track of the killer; nine years later, in another TV films, the policeman was played by Patrick Bergin and the killer was a member of the royal family. In 2001, Johnny Depp was ■ psychic cop investigating the murders, and falling for a prostitute, in From Hell.

James Bond,

the over-sexed one-man spy machine created by Ian Fleming, first came to the screen in the guise of Sean Connery in Dr No 62. Connery continued in From Russia with Love 63, Goldfinger 64, Thunderball 65, You Only Live Twice 67; David NIVEN appeared as 'Sir James' in Casino Royale 67. George LAZENBY took over for On Her Majesty's Secret Service 69; CONNERY came back for Diamonds Are Forever 71; Roger MOORE signed on for Live and Let Die, The Man with the Golden Gun, The Spy Who Loved Me, Moonraker, For Your Eyes Only and Octopussy. In 1983 Connery returned as Bond in Never Say Never Again. Moore's last outing, in 1985, was A View to a Kill. Timothy DALTON took over for 1987's The Living Daylights and 1989's Licence to Kill. Pierce BROSNAN took over the role in GoldenEye, Tomorrow Never Dies, The World Is Not Enough and Die Another Day. Daniel CRAIG replaced him in Casino Royale.

In terms of admissions, Thunderball in 1975 was the most successful Bond film, being seen by more than 74 million and taking $63.6m at the box-office, followed by Goldfinger, seen by more than 66 million, You Only Live Twice, From Russia with Love, Tomorrow Never Dies, The World is Not Enough, GoldenEye, Diamonds Are Forever, Moonraker, Octopussy, Dr No, The Spy Who Loved Me, Live and Let Die. The least successful, in terms of admissions, was The Man with the Golden Gun, seen by an audience of just over 11 million.

Books: 1996, The Complete James Bond Movie Encyclopedia by Steven Jay Rubin; 1989, The New Official James Bond Movie Book by Sally Hibbin; 1998, The Essential Bond: The Authorized Guide to the World of 007 by Lee Pfeiffer and Dave Worrall.

❝ James Bond is a blunt instrument wielded by a government department. He is quiet, hard, ruthless, sardonic, fatalistic. – Ian Fleming

Jane Eyre.

Charlotte Bronte's novel of a governess who falls in love with her master, Rochester, a man with a guilty secret, has been popular with film-makers from the early years of the century, although no version has yet captured the romantic spirit of the original. Christy CABANNE tried in 1934 with a cast that included Virginia BRUCE as Jane Eyre and Colin CLIVE as Rochester; it was followed in 1943 by a classier version starring Orson WELLES and Joan FONTAINE, directed by Robert STEVENSON and with Aldous HUXLEY among its scriptwriters. In 1970 came another lacklustre attempt destined for TV showing and directed by Delbert MANN, with George C. SCOTT and Susannah YORK heading the cast. The newest version was directed by Franco ZEFFIRELLI, with a script by Hugh Whitemore. Novelist Jean Rhys wrote a prequel, Wide Sargasso Sea, explaining how Rochester met and married his first wife, which was lushly filmed in 1992 by John DUIGAN. The theme was also explored earlier, in Jacques TOURNEUR's 1943 film I Walked with a Zombie.

jazz

has been featured in American movies since the earliest days, with the first jazz band to record, the Original Dixieland Jazz Band, appearing in the silent The Good-for-Nothing in 1917; the word 'jazz' began to appear in the titles of many films of the period, used to evoke an atmosphere of fast living. Most famously, it was used in the title of the innovative semi-talkie The Jazz Singer 27, starring the vaudevillean style of the blackface singer Al JOLSON. The first films to feature jazz proper were shorts: St Louis Blues, featuring Bessie SMITH with James P. Johnson, and Black and Tan Fantasy, featuring Duke ELLINGTON and his Orchestrra with Fredi Washington. The coming of sound and the popularity of big bands, heard nationwide on radio and records, led to their appearances in many musicals, or movies with nightclub settings, typified by Paul WHITEMAN in the late 20s, and Benny GOODMAN and other exponents of what came to be called 'swing' in the late 30s. 'Swing' featured in many movie titles of that period, as 'Rock' would in the late 50s and 60s when rock 'n' roll became the popular music. During the 40s many bands also appeared in short movies and 'soundies', brief films shown in special juke-boxes. As the swing era passed, nostalgic biopics of leading figures of that time began to be made, and occasional films about the lives of fictional musicians became popular. Many composers of film music have their roots in jazz, including Terence BLANCHARD, Quincy JONES, Lennie NIEHAUS, Nelson RIDDLE, and Pete RUGOLO.

Jazz biopics include: The Benny Goodman Story, Bird (Charlie Parker), Bix (Bix Beiderbecke), The Fabulous Dorseys (Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey), The Five Pennies (Loring 'Red' Nichols), The Gene Krupa Story, The Glenn Miller Story, Is Everybody Happy? (Ted Lewis), Lady Sings the Blues (Billie Holiday), Sven Klangs Kvintett (fictionalized account of the life of Swedish saxophonist Lars Gullin), St Louis Blues (W. C. Handy), Scott Joplin, Young Man with a Horn (a fictional version of the life of Bix Beiderbecke, with soundtrack trumpet by Harry James).

Films with jazz interest include: Atlantic City (Louis Armstrong, Dorothy Dandridge, Paul Whiteman), Ballad in Blue (Ray Charles), Birth of the Blues (Bing Crosby, Jack Teagarden), Blues in the Night (Jimmy Lunceford), Cabin in the Sky (Louis Armstrong, Duke Ellington et al), Carnegie Hall (Harry James), The Connection (Freddie Red, Jackie McLean et al), The Cotton Club (Bob Wilbur), The Gig (Warren Vache), Great Day in Harlem (documentary of the taking of Art Kane's Esquire magazine photograph of 50 leading musicians), Hellzapoppin' (Rex Stewart, Slim Gaillard, Slam Stewart), Hollywood Hotel (Benny Goodman), Jam Session (Louis Armstrong, Charlie Barnet et al), Jazz on a Summer's Day (Jimmy Guiffre, Anita O'Day, Thelonious Monk el al), Kansas City (Joshua Redman, James Carter), King of Jazz (Paul Whiteman), Make Believe Ballroom (Jimmy Dorsey, Charlie Barnet et al), New Orleans (Louis Armstrong, Billie Holiday), New York, New York (Georgie Auld), Orchestra Wives (Glenn Miller), Paris Blues (Duke Ellington, Louis Armstrong), Pete Kelly's Blues (Peggy Lee, Ella Fitzgerald), Round Midnight (Dexter Gordon), Stormy Weather (Fats Waller, Cab Calloway et al), A Song Is Born (Louis Armstrong, Benny Goodman et al), Sweet and Low-Down (Benny Goodman), Syncopation (Rex Stewart and Bunny Berigan on the soundtrack), Sun Valley Serenade (Glenn Miller), Top Man (Count Basie, Bob Crosby et al).

Films with notable jazz or jazz-influenced soundtracks include: Alfie (Sonny Rollins), Anatomy of a Murder (Duke Ellington), Assault on a Queen (Duke Ellington), Blow-Up (Herbie Hancock), The Cool World (Mal Waldron), Le Départ (Krzysztof Komeda), I Want to Live (Johnny Mandel), Jack Johnson (Miles Davis), Last Tango in Paris (Gato Barbieri), Lift to the Scaffold/L'Ascenseur pour l'Échafaud (Miles Davis), The Man with the Golden Arm (Elmer Bernstein, Shorty Rogers), Odds against Tomorrow (John Lewis), Too Late Blues (David Raksin), The Sweet Smell of Success (Elmer Bernstein, Chico Hamilton), Les Valseuses/Going Places (Stéphane Grappelli), When the Devil Drives/Saît-on Jamais? (John Lewis).

Book: 1981, Jazz in the Movies by David Meeker.

jewel thieves

were fashionable with Hollywood film-makers in the 30s, the heyday of Raffles, the Lone Wolf, and Arsène Lupin; they were the subject of LUBITSCH's best comedy, Trouble in Paradise. In the 60s they seemed to come into their own again, with To Catch a Thief, The Greengage Summer, Topkapi, The Pink Panther and Jack of Diamonds. In the 90s, they were back in Ice 93, Place Vendome 98 and Snatch 00.

Jews

and their plight in Europe under the Nazis were the subject of So Ends Our Night, The Great Dictator, Professor Mamlock, Mr Emmanuel, The Diary of Anne Frank, M. Klein, Docteur Petiot, Schindler's List and The Pianist. The problems of the new state of Israel were treated in Sword in the Desert, Exodus, The Juggler, Judith and Cast a Giant Shadow; while looking further back in history we find many versions of Jew Süss and The Wandering Jew, also The Fixer and the Fiddler on the Roof. American films about Jews used to show them as warm-hearted comic figures: Kosher Kitty Kelly, Abie's Irish Rose, The Cohens and the Kellys. Gertrude Berg continued this tradition on TV in the 50s. Recently films set in Jewish milieux have treated their characters more naturally, if with a touch of asperity: No Way to Treat a Lady, I Love You Alice B. Toklas, Bye Bye Braverman, Funny Girl, The Night They Raided Minsky's, Goodbye Columbus, Portnoy's Complaint, Hester Street, Lies My Father Told Me, The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz, The Chosen; while TV revived for the world the plight of Jews under Hitler in Holocaust and Playing for Time, and Woody ALLEN has found a vein of internationally appreciated mordant humour in the foibles and follies of Jewishness. See also: ANTISEMITISM.

Joe Palooka.

The dumb boxer hero of the famous American comic strip was first on screen in 1934, played by Stuart ERWIN. Ten years later Joe Kirkwood, an amateur golfer, played him in a Monogram series, with Leon ERROL (later James GLEASON) as his manager Knobby Walsh.

The Jones Family.

A 1936 second feature called Every Saturday Night started off a series of 17 about a small-town American family in which Pa was Jed PROUTY and Ma was Spring BYINGTON. They had four years of popularity without ever quite equalling MGM's Hardy family, which had more sentimentality.

Judge Dredd.

Comic-book hero, a tough, shoot-first-ask-questions-after cop who also operates as judge and jury in Mega-City One. The creation of artist Brian Bolland and writer John Wagner, he first appeared in 2000 AD magazine in 1977. In 1995 he made it to the big screen played by Sylvester STALLONE.

Juha

Juhani Aho's novel about a country girl who is lured into a life of prostitution in the city has been filmed at least four times, notably by Mauritz STILLER in 1920 and by two Finnish directors. In 1999, Aki KAURISMAKI released a new version, a black and white silent accompanied by an electronic score.

The Jungle Book.

Rudyard KIPLING's story of Mowgli, a boy able to converse with animals, was a role that might have been written for SABU who played it in Zoltan KORDA's version in 1942. Disney turned it into one of its most popular animated features in 1967, using to good effect the voices of George SANDERS, Phil HARRIS, and Louis PRIMA. In 1995 came another live-action version starring Jason Scott LEE as Mowgli, which was followed by a prequel Rudyard Kipling's the Second Jungle Book: Mowgli and Baloo 97, with Jamie Williams as Mowgli.

Jungle Jim.

This sub-Tarzan character began as a comic strip, and in 1937 Forde BEEBE directed a serial on his exploits. In 1948 began the rather tired series tossed off for Columbia, with a paunchy Johnny WEISMULLER in the title role; it started ineptly and quickly became ridiculous.

The Keystone Kops.

A troupe of slapstick comedians led by Ford STERLING who, from 1912-20 under the inspiration of Mack SENNETT at Keystone Studios, made innumerable violent comedies full of wild chases and trick effects. Abbott and Costello Meet the Keystone Kops 55 was a somewhat poor tribute.

Kid Galahad.

A boxing drama, thought at the time of its release to be one of the best of its kind, directed by Michael CURTIZ, starring Edward G. ROBINSON and Bette DAVIS and introducing Wayne MORRIS. It was remade in a disguised form as The Wagons Roll at Night 41, with Humphrey BOGART; then it turned up again in 1962 as an Elvis PRESLEY vehicle, directed by Phil KARLSON.

kidnapping

has been the subject of a great number of films; apart from the various versions of Robert Louis Stevenson's Kidnapped, examples include Nancy Steele Is Missing, No Orchids for Miss Blandish, Ransom, The Kidnappers, A Cry in the Night, Cry Terror, Tomorrow at Ten, High and Low, My Name Is Julia Ross, Seance on a Wet Afternoon, The Collector, The Happening, Bunny Lake Is Missing, Bonnie and Clyde, Big Jake, The Night of the Following Day, The Grissom Gang, Murder on the Orient Express, The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing, Night People, Funeral in Berlin, Sugarland Express, The Wind and the Lion, Orphans, The City of Lost Children, The Gingerbread Man, Buffalo 66, Ransom, The Abduction Club, and on TV The Longest Night and The Lindbergh Kidnapping Case.

King Arthur:

see ARTHUR.

King Kong.

The most famous screen monster remains after more than 50 years the most impressive in the 1933 production. Willis O'BRIEN's trick photography created a believable great ape and the film, produced and directed by Merian COOPER and Ernest SCHOEDSACK, holds together as a splendid adventure, with suitably throbbing music by Max STEINER. The same production team made a further visit to the mysterious island for Son of Kong 33, but the giant gorilla was played for laughs and the trick effects were skimpy, as they were for the similar Mighty Joe Young 49. The 1976 remake of the original story totally lacked charisma, as did its sequel and Japanese versions that have pitted Kong against robots and Godzilla. Peter JACKSON directed a spectacular version in 05 that used computer graphics to create a convincingly realistic giant gorilla, though he still lacked the charm of the original.

King Solomon's Mines.

Rider HAGGARD's African adventure novel was less than adequately filmed in Britain in 1937, directed by Robert STEVENSON, with Cedric HARDWICKE as Allan Quatermain. MGM's 1951 remake with Stewart GRANGER was an unsatisfactory mishmash; there was so much spare location footage that a semi-remake, Watusi, used it up in 1959. Harry Alan TOWER's 1975 version, King Solomon's Treasure, makes its predecessors look like classics. A 1985 version, directed by J. Lee THOMPSON and starring Richard CHAMBERLAIN, was little better, and was followed by a lamentable sequel, shot at the same time, Allan Quatermain and the Lost City of Gold.

kings and queens, of England at least, have been lovingly if not very accurately chronicled in the cinema. We still await an epic of the Norman Conquest, but in 1925 Phyllis Neilson-Terry went still further back to play Boadicaea, and in 1969 David Hemmings played Alfred the Great. Henry II, played by Peter O'Toole, was protagonist of Becket and The Lion in Winter. Richard I (Lionheart), also in the latter, was a shadowy figure of do-goodery in scores of films from Robin Hood to King Richard and the Crusaders; his brother John was just as frequently the villain of the piece, as in The Adventures of Robin Hood. Edward IV made an appearance in Tower of London and Richard III, but only as a pawn in the scheming hands of Richard III (Crookback). Henry IV appeared in Chimes at Midnight; Henry V was a notable role for Laurence Olivier; Henry VII-to-be was played in Richard III by Stanley Baker. Henry VIII was for long personified by Charles Laughton, who played him in 1933, but there have been other contenders: Montagu Love in The Prince and the Pauper, Robert Shaw in A Man for All Seasons, Richard Burton in Anne of the Thousand Days, Keith Michell in Henry VIII and his Six Wives, and James Robertson Justice in The Sword and the Rose. Similarly Elizabeth I was identified with Bette Davis (Elizabeth and Essex, The Virgin Queen) until Glenda Jackson played her on TV and in Mary Queen of Scots, though she was also personified by Flora Robson (Fire over England, The Sea Hawk), Florence Eldridge (Mary of Scotland), Irene Worth (Seven Seas to Calais), Cate Blanchett (Elizabeth) and Judi Dench (Shakespeare in Love). The unfortunate Mary of Scotland was notably played by Katharine Hepburn, Vanessa Redgrave and Fanny Ardant. Young Edward VI was in The Prince and the Pauper. The early Stuarts were a dour lot, but Charles I was impersonated by Alec Guinness in Cromwell; Charles II, the merry monarch, has been personified by a number of actors including Cedric Hardwicke (Nell Gwyn), George Sanders (Forever Amber), Vincent Price (Hudson's Bay), Douglas Fairbanks Jnr (The Exile) and Sam Neill (Restoration). Of the Hanoverians, George I was played by Eric Pohlmann in Rob Roy and Peter Bull in Saraband for Dead Lovers, George III by Raymond Lovell in The Young Mr Pitt, by Robert Morley in Beau Brummell and Nigel Hawthorne in The Madness of King George. Prinny, the Prince Regent, later George IV, was undertaken by Cecil Parker in The First Gentleman and Peter Ustinov in Beau Brummell. Victoria to many people still looks like Anna Neagle, who played her three times; other actresses in the role have included Irene Dunne (The Mudlark), Fay Compton (The Prime Minister), Mollie Maureen (The Private Life of Sherlock Holmes) and, notably, Judi Dench (Mrs Brown). James Robertson Justice played Edward VII in Mayerling, and Richard Chamberlain Edward VIII in a TV film, The Woman I Love. In 1982 two American TV movies about the romance of Prince Charles cast well-known actors as the current royal family: neither was shown in the U.K.

Foreign monarchs who have been notably impersonated include Catherine the Great of Russia (Pola NEGRI, Elisabeth BERGNER, Tallulah BANKHEAD, Bette DAVIS, Marlene DIETRICH); Russia's last Czar and Czarina, Nicholas and Alexandra (Michael Jayston and Janet Suzman); Peter the Great; Ivan the Terrible; Queen Christina of Sweden (Greta Garbo, and Liv Ullmann in The Abdication); Louis XI of France (Harry Davenport in The Hunchback of Notre Dame, Basil Rathbone in If I Were King); Charles VII of France, by Jose Ferrer in Joan of Arc; Marie Antoinette (Norma Shearer); Louis XIV, by John Barrymore in Marie Antoinette; Louis XVI, by Robert Morley in Marie Antoinette and by Pierre Renoir in La Marseillaise; Louis XIII, by Jean-Pierre Cassel in The Three Musketeers; Philip II of Spain (Paul Scofield in That Lady, Raymond Massey in Fire over England).

Kismet.

Edward Knoblock's rather stolid Arabian Nights play has been filmed five times. In 1920 Louis Gesnier directed Otis Skinner; in 1931 William Dieterle directed Gustav Frölich in a German version; also in 1931 Otis Skinner played in a talkie version directed by John Francis Dillon; in 1944 Dieterle had another crack at it, with Ronald Colman in the lead; and in 1955 the stage musical with themes from Borodin was filmed by Vincente Minnelli, with Howard Keel.

The Ku Klux Klan

was sympathetically portrayed in Griffith's The Birth of a Nation, a fact which has never ceased to provoke controversy. The villainous actuality has, however, been displayed in Black Legion 36, Legion of Terror 37, The Burning Cross 47, Storm Warning 51, The FBI Story 59, The Cardinal 63 and The Klansman 74, among others. It was treated as a joke in O Brother, Where Art Thou? 00.
See also: lynch law.

labour relations

is too downbeat a subject to be very popular on the screen; but strikes have been treated with seriousness in Strike, The Crime of Monsieur Lange, Black Fury, How Green Was My Valley, The Agitator, Love on the Dole, Chance of a Lifetime, The Whistle at Eaton Falls, The Angry Silence, F.I.S.T. and Last Exit to Brooklyn; with humour in A Nous la Liberté, Modern Times, Carry On at Your Convenience, The Pajama Game, and I'm All Right Jack. The classical comical strike of women against their husbands, led by Lysistrata, was depicted in the French Love, Soldiers and Women and Americanized in The Second Greatest Sex.

Lady for a Day.

Robert Riskin wrote and Frank Capra directed, in 1933, this Runyonesque fantasy about an old flower seller who is helped by gangster friends to deceive her visiting daughter into believing that she is comfortably placed. In 1961 Capra remade it as Pocketful of Miracles, but not even Bette Davis could save it from tedium, and Capra's direction seemed tired.

Lassie.

The first film featuring this intelligent collie (actually a laddie, as were his successors) was Lassie Come Home 42, based on Eric Knight's novel; the dog was called Pal (1941-59), and continued his masquerade in Son of Lassie 45 and Courage of Lassie 46. The original was remade as Gypsy Colt 54, which substituted a horse for the dog; The Magic of Lassie 78; and Lassie 94. Other films in the series include Lassie's Great Adventure 62, Lassie: Adventures of Neeka 68 and Lassie 94, played by a direct descendant of Pal. A radio series ran from 1947-50 and a television series from 1954-71, in which the dog was the only constant factor with its owner changing periodically; by the end of the series Lassie had no owner at all. An animated version, Lassie's Rescue Rangers, was produced for children's television from 1973-75 and The New Lassie, which put the dog in a suburban setting, was shown on television from 1989-91. Lassie returned to the big screen in 05 in a version written and directed by Charles Sturridge that returned to the original story and the plot of the first film Lassie Come Home.

The Last Days of Pompeii.

Lord Lytton's novel climaxing in the catastrophic eruption of Vesuvius was filmed in Italy in 1912 ('10,000 people, 260 scenes'), 1925 and 1960. In 1935 Cooper and Schoedsack filmed it in Hollywood, with a cast including Basil Rathbone and Preston Foster. The 1960 Italian version is barely worth mentioning and the 1985 TV mini-series is good for a laugh.

The Last of the Mohicans.

Fenimore Cooper's adventure novel of American colonization was filmed in 1920 by Maurice Tourneur, with George Hackathorne; in 1936 by George Seitz, with Randolph Scott; in 1952 as The Last of the Redskins by George Sherman, with Jon Hall; and in 1992 by Michael Mann, with Daniel Day-Lewis. A Canadian TV series in 1956 starred John Hart.

Leave It to Beaver

was a long-running US TV sitcom about family life as experienced by a young boy, Theodore 'Beaver' Cleaver, played by Jerry Mathers, who was seven when the series began in 1957 and a teenager when it finished its run in 1963. His parents were played by Hugh Beaumont and Barbara Billingsley. The series was popular enough 20 years on to spawn a TV movie, Still the Beaver 83, with Mathers and most of the original cast still in the same roles; Beaver was now an unemployed father with two unruly children and a wife wanting a divorce. It was followed by two sitcoms, Still the Beaver 85-86 and The New Leave It to Beaver 86-89. In 1997 came a film version starring Chris MacDonald and Janine Turner with Cameron Finley as the eight-year-old Beaver.

legends.

Over the years a number of Hollywood legends have built up, never proved or disproved. Here is a selection: George Raft was a protégé of the Mafia. James Dean is not really dead but on a life support machine. Walt Disney is cryonically preserved. Louella Parsons witnessed the murder of Thomas Ince by W.R. Hearst. Marilyn Monroe was killed by the CIA because of her association with John Kennedy. Cary Grant and Randolph Scott were lovers. Ida Lupino was bald.

Lemmy Caution.

Tough private eye, created by British novelist Peter Cheyney in imitation of American models in the 30s and 40s, who was incarnated on screen by Eddie Constantine in a series of French films, culminating in Jean-Luc Godard's futuristic Alphaville 65.

leprechauns

have made rare but effective screen appearances in the persons of Cecil Kellaway (Luck of the Irish), Jimmy O'Dea (Darby O'Gill and the Little People), Don Beddoe (Jack the Giant Killer) and Tommy Steele (Finian's Rainbow). A murderous one played by Warwick Davis appeared in the horror movie Leprechaun 93 and four sequels.

lesbianism

came fully into its own with the filming of The Killing of Sister George; but for many years it was unthinkable as a screen subject. These Three in 1936 had to be so changed that it was almost unrecognizable as a version of The Children's Hour; and the matter was scarcely broached again until the 50s, when the French brought it up in Olivia and The Girl with the Golden Eyes.

The first Hollywood film to bring the subject to our notice was A Walk on the Wild Side 62; since then there have been more or less discreet references in The Haunting, The Balcony, Lilith, The Silence, Alyse and Chloe, The Vampire Lovers, Beyond the Valley of the Dolls, La Religieuse, The Group, Tony Rome, The Fox, Therese and Isabelle, Baby Love, The Smashing Bird I Used to Know, and Once Is Not Enough; while The Children's Hour was filmed again, this time with its full force. In 1982 Personal Best again brought the subject into the open, as did Desert Hearts in 1985. The 90s brought some straightforwardly romantic films, such as Go Fish, The Incredible Story of Two Girls in Love and High Art, as well as lesbianism on skates in Thin Ice. There were also darker movies of repression and murder, including Butterfly Kiss and Claude Chabrol's A Judgement in Stone/La Cérémonie, and a move into genre films with a thriller, Bound, and even a fairy story, The Midwives' Tale.

letters

have provided a starting point or climax for several films. Undelivered ones for Address Unknown, The Postman Didn't Ring; misdelivered ones for Dear Ruth, The Go-Between, A Letter for Evie; an incriminating one in Suspicion; lost ones for Cause for Alarm, Never Put It In Writing; indiscreet ones for A Letter To Three Wives, So Evil My Love, The Last of Mrs Cheyney, The Letter; posthumous ones for Letter from an Unknown Woman, Love Letters, The Lost Moment, Mister Roberts; anonymous ones for Poison Pen, Le Corbeau and The Love Letter 99, and one floating in the sea in Message in a Bottle 98.

Li'l Abner.

Al Capp's comic strip about the hillbilly inhabitants of Dogpatch was first filmed, unsuccessfully, in 1940 with Granville Owen; masks were rather oddly used for some characters. In 1957 Panama and Frank made a successful musical version with Peter Palmer, based on the Broadway show. Paramount made a few Li'l Abner cartoons in the late 40s.

lifts

(or elevators) provided a convenient means of murder in Garment Center, The List of Adrian Messenger and House of Wax, and of unwitting suicide in Ivy. In The Lift, the machine was the murderer. Sean Connery in Diamonds Are Forever had a spectacular fight in a lift. People were trapped in lifts in Cry Terror, A Night in Casablanca, Love Crazy, Sweet Charity, Towering Inferno and Lady in a Cage, in which last the lift was of the domestic variety used by Katharine Hepburn in Suddenly Last Summer. Michael Rennie had more trouble in lifts than any other actor – in The Power, The Day the Earth Stood Still, and Hotel. Invalid chair-lifts were sported by Ethel Barrymore in The Farmer's Daughter, Charles Laughton in Witness for the Prosecution, and Eugenie Leontovich in Homicidal.

light comedians,

the lithe and dapper heroes who can be funny and romantic at the same time, have added a great deal to the mystique and nostalgia of the screen. Linder and Chaplin both partly belong to this debonair tradition, and indeed did much to mould it; but only sound could enable its full realization. Maurice Chevalier had the field pretty well to himself in Hollywood during the early 30s, with strong support from such stalwarts as Roland Young, Edward Everett Horton and Charles Butterworth. Soon Cary Grant entered the lists along with David Niven, William Powell, Louis Hayward, Melvyn Douglas and Ronald Colman when he felt in lighter mood. Britain scored with Jack Buchanan, Jack Hulbert, and the ineffable Aldwych team of Tom Walls and Ralph Lynn; while Leslie Howard scored a major hit in Pygmalion and Rex Harrison, who was to play the same role twenty-five years later in My Fair Lady, was already demonstrating his talent in less important comedies.

Back in Hollywood The Philadelphia Story was a milestone in light comedy and set Katharine Hepburn firmly on the road she later followed in her splendid series with Spencer Tracy. Bette Davis, too, had her moments in this field, and so did Rosalind Russell. Bob Hope and Danny Kaye both clowned around a good deal but still got the girl in the end ... but Britishers Basil Radford and Naunton Wayne were bachelors born and bred. The more realistic approach of the 50s was stifling the genre, but Dennis Price managed a notable performance in Kind Hearts and Coronets before Ian Carmichael cornered the diminishing market. In more recent years actors have had to turn comic or tragic at the drop of a hat: among those best able to manage the light touch are Jack Lemmon, Tony Curtis, Frank Sinatra, Peter O'Toole, Jack Nicholson, Warren Beatty, Hugh Grant, Shirley MacLaine, Diane Keaton, Jane Fonda and Anne Bancroft.

lighthouses

formed dramatic settings for such movies as Thunder Rock, The Seventh Survivor, The Phantom Light and Back Room Boy, and dominated key scenes of Portrait of Jennie, A Stolen Life, The Beast from 20,000 Fathoms and Pete's Dragon.

Liliom.

Ferenc Molnar's play about the here and the hereafter was filmed in Hollywood in 1930 by Frank Borzage and in Germany in 1934 by Fritz Lang. In 1956 it turned up again, via a stage musical, as Carousel, directed by Henry King. There had also been a 1921 silent under the title A Trip to Paradise.

Little Lord Fauntleroy.

The well-known children's novel by Frances Hodgson Burnett, about an American boy who becomes a British earl, was filmed in 1922 as a transvestite vehicle for Mary Pickford; direction appears to have been shared between Alfred E. Green, Jack Pickford, and Alfred Werker. In 1936 it was remade by John Cromwell for Selznick, with Freddie Bartholomew in the title role. In 1980 there was a TV version with Ricky Schroder.

Little Miss Marker.

Damon Runyon's story of a small girl with a belief in chivalry reforming a hard-bitten gambler made an ideal vehicle for Shirley Temple and Adolphe Menjou in 1934; it was remade as Sorrowful Jones in 1949 with the emphasis on its male lead, Bob Hope. Norman Jewison's Forty Pounds of Trouble in 1962 updated the story to little effect. Walter Bernstein tried the original story again in 1980 with Little Miss Marker, featuring Walter Matthau, but by then the tale seemed tired and dated.

Little Rascals:

see: Our Gang.

Little Tough Guys.

A gang of young actors who were a spin-off from the success of The Dead End Kids and were sometimes indistinguishable from them, appearing in low-budget films and serials for Universal. They included Gabriel Dell (as String), Hally Chester (as Dopey), David Gorcey (as Sniper), Billy Halop (as Johnny), Huntz Hall (as Pig), and Bernard Punsley (as Ape).

Little Tough Guy 38. Little Tough Guys in Society 38. Call a Messenger 39. Sea Raider (serial) 40. Junior G-Men (serial) 40. You're Not So Tough 40. Give Us Wings 40. Mob Town 41. Hit the Road 41. Junior G-Men of the Air (serial) 42. Tough as They Come 42. Mug Town 43. Keep 'Em Slugging 43, etc.
See also: The East Side Kids, The Bowery Boys.

Little Women.

Louisa M. Alcott's cosy 19th-century saga of a nice mother's even nicer daughters was twice filmed as a silent, in 1917 in Britain and 1918 in America, and became a major success when filmed in 1933 by George Cukor, with Katharine Hepburn and Paul Lukas. Remade in 1949 with June Allyson and Rossano Brazzi, it seemed calculated and coy. Another remake came in 1994, directed by Gillian Armstrong and starring Winona Ryder, Samantha Mathis, Trini Alvarado, Susan Sarandon, and Gabriel Byrne. A 1978 TV series got nowhere. A sequel, Little Men, was filmed in 1940 as a vehicle for Kay Francis.

The Lodger:

see: Jack the Ripper.

London

has provided a background, usually highly inaccurate, for innumerable movies, but few have really explored it, though The Ipcress File and The Pumpkin Eater found some unusual angles. London Town was a half-hearted musical; twenty years later Three Hats for Lisa captured the mood better but managed to seem old-fashioned. Pygmalion and My Fair Lady embodied the spirit of London in some theatrical sets. Indiscreet prowled lovingly around the Embankment, and A Run for Your Money made good use of the Paddington area as well as suburban Twickenham. The City was the venue of part of You Must Be Joking, while Morgan used Hampstead to good advantage. The East End, especially the street markets and the railway sidings, were exploited in Waterloo Road, A Kid for Two Farthings and It Always Rains on Sunday. The docks had Pool of London to themselves. Hollywood's idea of London in geography can be pretty weird, as in Knock on Wood, when Paramount went to the trouble of having special location material shot with Jon Pertwee doubling for Danny Kaye, but showed the star turning off Marble Arch into Fleet Street two miles away. Similarly in Twenty-three Paces to Baker Street the river frontage of the Savoy Hotel could be entered from Portman Square, in actuality another two-mile jaunt. London fog has been a useful cover for many a scrappy set, especially in films presenting the Victorian London associated with Sherlock Holmes. Going further back, Henry V presented in model form the London of 1600, and attempts at historical recreation were also made in Tower of London, Fire over England, Elizabeth and Essex, Nell Gwyn, Forever Amber, Mrs Fitzherbert, The First Gentleman, Victoria the Great, Cromwell and The Mudlark. It was probably Hitchcock who began the fashion of making London a stately background for thrillers, with his East End mission in The Man Who Knew Too Much, the music hall in The Thirty-nine Steps, the bus journey and the Lord Mayor's Show in Sabotage, the fall from Westminister Cathedral in Foreign Correspondent, the theatrical garden party in Stage Fright, and Covent Garden in Frenzy. Others in this tradition have included Brannigan, Hennessy, Villain, Robbery, and innumerable TV series such as The Sweeney. The seedier side of London is seen in Michael Winterbottom's Wonderland and Guy Ritchie's thriller Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels.

See also: Swinging London.

The Lone Ranger.

This western Robin Hood originally featured in a radio serial and later became a comic strip in 1935; 20 years later Clayton Moore played the hero in a successful TV series and a couple of feature films, with Jay Silverheels as Tonto. The 1981 attempt to retell the tale half seriously, The Legend of the Lone Ranger, met with disaster: Klinton Spilsbury was the Lone Ranger and has not been heard of since.

The Lone Rider

was Tom Cameron, a cowboy who rode the West on a white horse righting wrongs in 'B' westerns starring George Houston, who found time in each feature to sing a couple of songs as well as the stirring title song ('I'm the Lone Rider on the Great Divide/All alone, roamin' far and wide/When a helpin' hand is needed/I am ready without fail/I'm the Lone Rider on the trail'). Despite his nickname, he was always accompanied by sidekick Fuzzy Jones, played by Al St John. The films were directed by Sam Newfeld.

The Lone Rider Ambushed 41. The Lone Rider Crosses the Rio 41. The Lone Rider Fights Back 41. The Lone Rider in Frontier Fury 41. The Lone Rider in Ghost Town 41. The Lone Rider in Texas Justice 41. The Lone Rider Rides On 41. The Lone Rider and the Bandit 42. The Lone Rider in Cheyenne 42. Outlaws of Boulder Pass 42. The Lone Rider in Border Roundup 43.

The Lone Wolf,

a gentleman thief (Michael Lanyard), was created by Louis Joseph Vance and reached the screen in silent days played by H. B. Warner, Jack Holt, and Bert Lytell; in the 30s Melvyn Douglas and Francis Lederer each played him once and then Warren William took over for eight episodes, usually with Eric Blore as his manservant. In 1946 Gerald Mohr played in the first of three episodes, and in 1949 Ron Randell personified him for the last time on the big screen. In 1954 Louis Hayward played him in a TV series, The Lone Wolf/Streets of Danger.

lookalikes.

The old studios would frequently hire less talented performers who looked rather like their main stars, simply to keep the latter in order. Also, if a star with a certain style proved fashionable, a rival might try to repeat the dose. Whatever the reason, Gloria Jean was designed to remind filmgoers of Deanna Durbin; John Carroll of Clark Gable; Anna Sten of Marlene Dietrich; Brian Aherne of Ronald Colman; Patric Knowles of Errol Flynn; Dane Clark of John Garfield; Antonio Moreno and Ricardo Cortez of Rudolph Valentino; Viveca Lindfors of Ingrid Bergman; Roddy McDowall of Freddie Bartholomew; John Gavin of Rock Hudson; Gig Young of Cary Grant; Lizabeth Scott of Lauren Bacall; Mary Beth Hughes of Lana Turner; Yvonne de Carlo of Maria Montez; Mamie Van Doren and Sheree North of Marilyn Monroe; Joel McCrea of Gary Cooper; Tippi Hedren of Grace Kelly. Not too surprisingly, lightning never struck in the same place twice.

Looney Tunes/Merrie Melodies

are the umbrella titles under which Warners have long released their cartoon shorts featuring such characters as Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck, Porky Pig, Pepe le Pew, Sylvester and Tweetie Pie. They have won Academy Awards for Tweetie Pie 47, For Scentimental Reasons 49, Speedy Gonzales 55, Birds Anonymous 57, Knighty Knight Bugs 58.

The Lord of the Rings.

J.R.R. Tolkien's epic fantasy of a struggle between good and evil has been filmed twice. Ralph Bakshi made an animated version in 1978 that covered the first half of the story. More successfully, Peter Jackson directed a three-part epic on a vast scale, using actors and computer-generated images, which was released on successive Christmases from 2001, comprising The Fellowship of the Ring, The Two Towers, The Return of the King.

Los Angeles,

being the home of the film studios, was the anonymous background of ninety per cent of Hollywood films from the very beginning. Only more recently, however, has the actual city been explored, usually in a cynical Chandleresque manner as in The Long Goodbye and Marlowe, or as a vivid sunlit background for police thrillers with their screaming car chases, especially in such TV series as Police Story, The Blue Knight, Police Woman, The Rookies, Chase, Emergency, The Smith Family and Dragnet. The city's seamy side was shown in M and The Savage Eye, its future in The Omega Man, its sophisticated present in Divorce American Style, L.A. Story and Grand Canyon, its sewers in Them, and its past in Chinatown. Perhaps the most vivid picture of the growing sprawl is to be found as background to the comedies of the Keystone Kops and Laurel and Hardy; and Earthquake and Volcano finally destroyed it.

One positive approach to Tinseltown was expressed in The Model Shop: 'How could you find this place ugly? It's pure poetry.'

❝ Perhaps there are more haunted houses in Los Angeles than in any other city in the world. They are haunted by the fears of their former owners. They smell of divorce, broken contracts, studio politics, bad debts, false friendships, adultery, extravagance, whisky and lies. Every closet hides the poor little ghost of a stillborn reputation. – Christopher Isherwood

It's the most stunningly vulgar town in the world. There's a free gas escape of nonsense that prevails, and people, if they go on breathing it, become brain-damaged. – Jonathan Miller

Lost Horizon.

James Hilton's novel about a Tibetan Utopia was turned into an uneven but attractive film in 1937 by Frank Capra, which made Shangri-La a household word. In 1973 Ross Hunter remade the story as a semi-musical with unhappy results.

Lost in Space

was a TV series of the mid-60s featuring the Robinson family who wandered from planet to planet trying to find their way home after their spaceship was sabotaged. It was notable for its cheap special effects. It became a big-budget movie in 1997, but, despite its technical excellence, failed to find an audience.

Lost Patrol.

Philip MacDonald's story, about a British desert patrol being picked off one by one by Arabs until rescuers find one survivor raving mad, has inspired many war films since John Ford's 1934 version with heavily overacted but enjoyable performances from Victor McLaglen, Boris Karloff, and Reginald Denney. A Russian version, The Thirteen, was made in 1937, and Zoltan Korda's 1943 Sahara, starring Humphrey Bogart, gave the story a cast of Allied soldiers facing an overwhelming Nazi force. It was also the inspiration for Bataan 46 and Last of the Comanches 51. In 1996 came Sahara, an Australian-US remake of Korda's treatment, directed by Brian Trenchard-Smith and starring James Belushi, which flopped at the box-office.

Love Affair.

The story of two people agreeing, and failing, to meet at the top of the Empire State Building after six months apart to discover if their love remains strong was first filmed by Leo McCarey in 1939 with Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer; in 1957, again directed by Leo McCarey, it became the weepie An Affair to Remember, with Cary Grant and Deborah Kerr (which also featured in the 1993 hit Sleepless in Seattle); in 1994, as Love Affair, it became a vehicle for the husband and wife team of Warren Beatty and Annette Bening.

The Lower Depths.

Gorki's doss-house study has had two notable filmings. As Les Bas Fonds, directed by Jean Renoir, it provided memorable roles for Jean Gabin and Louis Jouvet in 1936. In 1958, Akira Kurosawa directed Toshiro Mifune in a surprisingly faithful Japanese adaptation.

lumberjacks

have figured in comparatively few movies: here are some of them: Conflict 36. Come and Get It 36. God's Country and the Woman 36. The Big Trees 52. Timberjack 55. Guns of the Timberland 60. Freckles 60. Sometimes a Great Notion 71.

lynch law

has been condemned in many outstanding dramatic movies from Hollywood.

Fury 36. They Won't Forget 37. Young Mr Lincoln 39. The Ox-Bow Incident 43. Storm Warning 51. The Sound of Fury 51. The Sun Shines Bright 52. Rough Night in Jericho 68, Rosewood 96.

See also: Ku Klux Klan.

M.

Fritz Lang was the first, in 1931, to film this story of a child-murderer finally hunted down by the city's organized criminal element, and Peter Lorre had his first great success as the psychopath. In 1950 Joseph Losey directed an almost scene-for-scene American remake starring David Wayne, but it generated no particular atmosphere. Woody Allen was more successful in creating Lang's air of decadence and despair in his comic-tinged Shadows and Fog 92.

Ma and Pa Kettle.

Hillbilly couple played in The Egg and I 47, and in a subsequent long-running series of comedy second features, by Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride. Highly successful in US, less so in Britain.

The films were as follows:

1949	Ma and Pa Kettle
1950	Ma and Pa Kettle Go To Town
1951	Ma and Pa Kettle Back on the Farm
1952	Ma and Pa Kettle at the Fair
1953	Ma and Pa Kettle on Vacation
1954	Ma and Pa Kettle at Home
1955	Ma and Pa Kettle at Waikiki
1956	The Kettles in the Ozarks
1957	(with Parker Fennelly replacing Percy Kilbride) The Kettles on Old MacDonald's Farm

Macbeth.

Among many attempts to film Shakespeare's Scottish tragedy, none of them wholly successful, have been the following: in 1915 John Emerson directed and D.W. Griffith produced a straightforward version starring Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree and Constance Collier; in 1948 Orson Welles directed and starred in his own adaptation shot in 21 days for Republic; in 1956 Ken Hughes wrote and directed a modernized version, Joe Macbeth, in which the kings and princes became rival gangsters; in 1957 Akira Kurosawa directed Throne of Blood, a stylized Japanese version; in 1960 George Schaefer directed an honest school exam-style rendering in colour with Maurice Evans and Judith Anderson which was shown on US television but released theatrically in Britain; in 1971 Jon Finch and Francesca Annis starred in a blood-spattered version by Roman Polanski; in 1991 William Reilly again tried a gangster Macbeth in Men of Respect, starring John Turturro, which even included Lady M's sleep-walking scene in an attempt to keep its audience awake.

Maciste.

A legendary hero of the Italian cinema, a strong man originating in Cabiria 14. Such of his adventures as have been dubbed into English usually translate him as Samson. The role in Cabiria was played by Bartolomeo Pagano (1888-1947), who continued in the part, billed as Maciste, in many films until 1928. In the 60s cycle of Italian 'sword and sandal' epics, Maciste was played by a succession of interchangeable musclemen, including South African Reg Park and Americans Gordon Scott, Reg Lewis, Mark Forest and Gordon Mitchell.

Maciste the Mighty/Maciste nella Valle dei Re 60. Goliath against the Vampires/Maciste contro il Vampiro 61. Atlas in the Land of the Cyclops/Maciste nella Terra dei Ciclopi 61. Samson and the Seven Miracles of the World/Maciste alla Corte del Gran Khan 62. Goliath and the Sins of Babylon/Maciste, l'Eroe Più Grande del Mondo 63. Maciste vs the Stone Men/Maciste contro gli Uomini Luna 64. Maciste and the Hundred Gladiators/Maciste, Gladiatore di Sparta 65, etc.

Madame Bovary.

Gustave Flaubert's 1857 novel of the bored wife of a provincial doctor, who seeks escape from her stifling environment in romantic fantasies and affairs, and finds it only in suicide, has been filmed at least eight times, though no version is entirely successful. Jean Renoir made a three-hour version in 1933, with stage actress Valentine Tessier in the title role, but before its release it was drastically cut by an hour; Gerhard Lamprecht directed a version in Germany in 1937, starring Pola Negri, trying to re-establish herself after the coming of sound had finished her Hollywood career; Vincente Minnelli made a Hollywood version in 1949, starring Jennifer Jones (though Minnelli had wanted Lana Turner for the role), with the censors insisting that adultery must not be seen as attractive; and Claude Chabrol directed a dull version in 1991, with Isabelle Huppert starring. A low-budget adaptation had been filmed in 1932 by Albert Ray under the title Unholy Love, with silent star Lila Lee; a loose, erotic version, The Naked Bovary, was made in 1969 by Hans Schott-Schöbinger, with Edwige Fenech; Ketan Mehta made Maya, a version set in modern-day India in 1992 with Deepa Sahi; and Aleksandr Sokhurov directed a Russian version in 1994 with Cecile Zervoudaki. A TV version, which has been released on video, starred Frances O'Connor.

The Mafia.

A Sicilian secret society which emerged spectacularly in the urban Italian sections of the US and is believed to control most organized crime and rackets in that country. Films which have seized on the subject with glee include The Godfather (and sequels), The Black Hand, The Don Is Dead, Pay or Die, The Sicilian Clan, The Brotherhood, Johnny Cool, New York Confidential, The Brothers Rico, Honor Thy Father, The Valachi Papers, Charley Varrick, GoodFellas and Mobsters. In America the Mafia is sometimes known as Cosa Nostra ('our thing' or 'our cause'): the word is an acronym for Morte Alla Francia Italia Anela ('Death to the French is Italy's cry').

❝ Let's show those asshole Hollywood fruitcakes that they can't get away with it as if nothing's happened. Let's hit Sinatra. Or I could whack out a couple of those other guys, Lawford and Martin, and I could take the nigger and put his other eye out. – Johnny Formosa to his boss, gangster Sam Giancana, after Dean Martin had ignored a demand that he perform in Chicago, as recorded by an FBI wiretap

magicians

have always had a fascination for film-makers, who on the whole preferred to have their tricks finally discredited, as with Cesar Romero in Charlie Chan on Treasure Island and Two on a Guillotine, Dante in A-Haunting We Will Go, Vincent Price in The Mad Magician, Jules Berry in Le Jour Se Lève, Harold Lloyd in Movie Crazy and Tony Curtis in Houdini. The most splendidly genuine magician was the sorcerer in Fantasia, but Cecil Kellaway was an amiable warlock in I Married a Witch, and Edmund Lowe was chilling as Chandu. The 1927 version of Somerset Maugham's book The Magician contributed a caricature of Aleister Crowley; The Magician is also the title of a 1973 TV series starring Bill Bixby. The best 'live' act on film may be Orson Welles sawing Marlene Dietrich in half in Follow the Boys.

Magnificent Obsession.

The tear-jerking novel by Lloyd C. Douglas, about an irresponsible playboy who becomes a surgeon and not only cures but falls in love with the woman he accidentally blinded, was filmed in 1935 by John M. Stahl, with Robert Taylor and Irene Dunne, and again in 1954 by Douglas Sirk, with Rock Hudson and Jane Wyman.

Maigret.

The police commissioner created by French novelist Georges Simenon has been played by many actors on screen and television since 1932: Pierre Renoir, Harry Baur, Abel Tarride, Albert Prejean, Michel Simon, Maurice Manson, and Jean Gabin in French films, Heinz Ruhmann in a German film, and Charles Laughton in the American The Man on the Eiffel Tower 49. On television, the role has been taken by Basil Sydney, Rupert Davies, and Michael Gambon.

Maisie.

The hard-boiled (but soft-centred) gold-digging showgirl was played by Ann Sothern in 10 MGM comedy-dramas: Maisie 39; Congo Maisie 40; Gold Rush Maisie 40; Maisie Was a Lady 41; Ringside Maisie 41; Maisie Gets Her Man 42; Swing Shift Maisie 43; Maisie Goes to Reno 44; Up Goes Maisie 46; Undercover Maisie 47. Sothern survived the type-casting to go on to bigger and better films.

male impersonation:

see Transvestism.

The Maltese Falcon.

Dashiell Hammett's brilliantly written crime story was filmed three times by Warner. In 1931 it starred Bebe Daniels and Ricardo Cortez and was directed by Roy del Ruth; in 1936 it appeared as Satan Met a Lady, directed by William Dieterle, with Bette Davis and Warren William. The definitive version, however, did not come until 1941, when John Huston wrote and directed it with Humphrey Bogart and a rogues' gallery that included Mary Astor, Sydney Greenstreet, Peter Lorre, and Elisha Cook Jnr. A low-budget rip-off, Target Harry/How to Make It 68, was made by Roger Corman, understandably hiding his identity under the pseudonym of Harry Neill. Huston spoofed it unsuccessfully in his Beat the Devil 54, and David Giler wrote and directed an altogether witless parody, The Black Bird 75.

The Man in the Iron Mask.

No one knows what mixture of fact and fiction exists in the famous story of Louis XIV's mysterious prisoner who languished for years in the Bastille, his face always covered (actually with velvet). Some said it was Louis' bastard brother, others an Italian diplomat. Anyway, Dumas wrote an exciting novel on the subject, and it has been filmed twice: in 1929 as The Iron Mask with Douglas Fairbanks, and in 1939 by James Whale with Louis Hayward. A TV movie with Richard Chamberlain was made in 1976 and in the following year The Fifth Musketeer trod much the same ground. A 1998 version enjoyed some popularity, mainly owing to the presence of Leonardo DiCaprio in twin roles of hero and villain.

The Man Who Knew Too Much.

Alfred Hitchcock twice filmed this thriller about a child held hostage by a gang planning to assassinate an international political figure: in 1934 in Britain, with Leslie Banks, Edna Best, and Peter Lorre; and in America in 1956, with James Stewart, Doris Day, and Bernard Miles. The first version, despite (or, perhaps, because of) its curious studio sets, made incomparably better entertainment. A spoof, The Man Who Knew Too Little, starring Bill Murray, was released in 1998, but did poorly at the box-office.

The March of Time.

A highly influential series of two-reelers on current affairs, started and financed in 1935 by the founders of Time magazine and film-maker Louis de Rochemont. The raucous American commentary by Westbrook van Voorhis marred it for European consumption, but its contents were a first-class, in-depth examination of what was happening in the world. It ran with great success until the late 40s, when it was gradually replaced by television coverage of world events. Its history was chronicled by Raymond Fielding in his 1977 book The March of Time.

Matt Helm.

The laconic hero of a number of self-spoofing secret agent dime novels by Donald Hamilton was personified on screen by a droopy-eyed Dean Martin. Over-sexed and witless, the series represents a rather miserable but commercial 60s blend of high camp, self-indulgence, and comic strip. The Silencers 66, Murderers' Row 66, The Ambushers 67, and Wrecking Crew 69 were the titles, and it seemed a point of honour with the producer that the title should have no relevance whatever to the movie. A TV movie, Matt Helm 75, starred Tony Franciosa, but the resulting series was brief. In 2002 DreamWorks optioned Hamilton's 27 Helm novels in the hopes of creating a fresh franchise with them.

Mau Mau.

The terrorist activities in Kenya during the 50s were the subject of three very savage movies: Simba 55, Safari 56, Something of Value 56.

Merrie Melodies:

see Looney Tunes.

The Merry Widow.

Franz Lehar's operetta has been filmed at least four times: in 1925 as a silent by Erich Von Stroheim with John Gilbert, Mae Murray, and Roy D'Arcy; in 1934 by Ernest Lubitsch with Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald, with added lyrics by Gus Kahn and Lorenz Hart; in 1952 by Curtis Bernhardt with Fernando Lamas, Lana Turner, and Richard Haydn, with added lyrics by Paul Francis Webster; in 1962, in an Austrian version with Karin Huebner and Peter Alexander.

Merton of the Movies.

The comic American novel by Harry Leon Wilson, about an innocent in Hollywood in the early silent days, has been filmed three times: in 1924 with Glenn Hunter; in 1932, as Make Me a Star, with Stuart Erwin; and in 1947 with Red Skelton.

Mexican Spitfire.

A series of American second-feature comedies, concerning a young businessman (Donald Woods) with a temperamental wife (Lupe Velez), a scheming uncle, and a drunken English client, both played by Leon Errol. The films were only tolerably well made, but always managed a hectic finale of impersonation and mistaken identity which allowed full play to Errol's jerky convulsions.

The Girl from Mexico 39. Mexican Spitfire 39. Mexican Spitfire Out West 40. Mexican Spitfire's Baby 41. Mexican Spitfire at Sea 42. Mexican Spitfire Sees a Ghost 42. Mexican Spitfire's Elephant 42. Mexican Spitfire's Blessed Event 43.

Michael Shayne.

The American private eye created by Brett Halliday in a string of 30s novels was a lightly shaded character at best, but sufficed for a number of 'B' features with Lloyd Nolan as star. In 1960 Richard Denning played the lead in a television series.

Michael Shayne, Private Detective 40. Sleepers West 41. Dressed to Kill 41. Blue, White and Perfect 41. The Man Who Wouldn't Die 42. Just off Broadway 42. Time to Kill (adapted from Raymond Chandler's The High Window, not from a Halliday original) 42.

Later, Hugh Beaumont took over the role in some forgettable low-budget mysteries:

Murder Is My Business 46. Larceny in Her Heart 46. Blonde for a Day 46. Three on a Ticket 47. Too Many Winners 47.

Mickey Mouse.

Walt Disney's most famous cartoon character began in the 20s as Mortimer Mouse. By the early 30s his outlines had been simplified and he was perhaps the most certain box-office lure in the world. His voice was supplied by Disney himself (later by Jim MacDonald and Wayne Allwine); his finest hour, perhaps, was in the 'Sorcerer's Apprentice' segment of Fantasia 40.

“ The best known and most popular international figure of his day. – New York Times, 1935

A Midsummer Night's Dream.

Shakespeare's fairy play was filmed in America in 1929 by J. Stuart Blackton, starring Maurice Costello, and there is a Czech puppet version by Jiri Trnka. But the best-known version is Max Reinhardt's lavish production for Warner in 1935, directed by Reinhardt and William Dieterle, with a surprising cast including James Cagney as Bottom, Mickey Rooney as Puck, Hugh Herbert, Arthur Treacher, Dick Powell, Anita Louise, Victor Jory, and Olivia de Havilland. Peter Hall's muddy version of 1968, aimed primarily at American television, lacked magic. Adrian Noble's Royal Shakespeare Company production was released in 1996, but was similarly bereft. Hollywood gave the author top billing in 1999 in the uneven William Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream with a cast headed by Rupert Everett, Michelle Pfeiffer and Kevin Kline.

Mighty Joe Young

was an oversized gorilla, dreamt up by producer Merian C. Cooper in 1949 to try to repeat his success with King Kong. He re-emerged in 1998 as a 15-foot-tall mountain gorilla with an ecological message for the world: kept for safety in a Californian game reserve, he is threatened by poachers, runs amok through Los Angeles, and proves to be a noble, self-sacrificing beast. Ron Underwood directed a new version in 1998 that was no more successful.

Mighty Mouse.

Rodent superhero of Terrytoons cartoons from the 40s to the 60s and known in his earliest cartoons as Super Mouse. His voice was supplied by Tom Morrison.

The Mouse of Tomorrow 42. Down with Cats 43. Wreck of Hesperus 44. Mighty Mouse and the Pirates 45. Svengali's Cat 46. Swiss Cheese Family Robinson 47. The Catnip Gang 49. A Cat's Tale 51. When Mousehood Was in Flower 53. Outer Space Visitor 59. Cat Alarm 61, etc.

Mike Hammer.

The tough, immoral private eye created by Mickey Spillane.

miniaturization.

Making people small is a theme obviously likely to appeal to the cinema's trick photographers. Characters were reduced by 'scientific' or magic means in The Devil Doll, Dr Cyclops, The Incredible Shrinking Man, and Fantastic Voyage. Land of the Giants showed the other side of the coin. Laurel and Hardy were miniaturized into their own children in Brats; other small humans were in Darby O'Gill and the Little People, The Adventures of Mark Twain and The Bride of Frankenstein. The Borrowers 97, based on Mary Norton's children's books, featured a race of tiny people living beneath the floorboards of houses, making use of human rubbish and discarded objects.

mirrors

have a clear psychological fascination, and cameramen have frequently derived dramatic compositions from the use of them. Innumerable characters have talked to their reflections, and The Man in the Mirror changed places with his. Dracula and his kind cast no reflection; a switch on this was provided in The Gorgon, where looking at the monster turned one to stone, but looking at her through a mirror was OK. In The Lady in the Lake Robert Montgomery played the lead from the position of the camera lens, so the only time we saw him was when he looked in a mirror. Eric Portman in Corridor of Mirrors was surrounded by them: the hero of The Student of Prague shot his reflection in one. Then there was the magic mirror in Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, which told the queen all she wanted to hear; and the more evil magic mirror in Dead of Night, which had belonged to a murderer and caused Ralph Michael when he looked in it to strangle his wife. Two-way mirrors are now familiar, especially since From Russia With Love; but they were used as long ago as 1946 in The House on 92nd Street. In Orphée a full-length mirror proved liquid to the touch and was the doorway to the other world. The Lady from Shanghai had a splendidly confusing finale in a mirror maze which was gradually shot to pieces; Up Tight made dramatic use of a distorting mirror arcade. The most-used mirror joke is that in which the glass is broken and a 'double' tries to take the place of the reflection: Max Linder performed it in 1919 in Seven Years Bad Luck, and it was superbly reprised by the Marx Brothers in Duck Soup 44, and by Abbott and Costello in The Naughty Nineties 45.

Les Misérables.

Victor Hugo's novel about Jean Valjean, a reformed convict who is relentlessly pursued by the police chief Jarvet, has been filmed more than 20 times from silent days on, as well as becoming a long-running stage musical (known to its English adherents as The Glums). Richard Boleslawski made the definitive version starring Charles Laughton and Fredric March for United Artists in 1935; Lewis Milestone directed a dull adaptation for Twentieth Century-Fox in 1952, with Robert Newton and Michael Rennie; Bille August did somewhat better with his version in 1998 with Liam Neeson and Geoffrey Rush. The best French version was made by Raymond Bernard in 1934, with Harry Baur and Charles Vanel; it was originally shown in three parts, and later cut to the two-part Jean Valjean and Cosette (which dealt with the romance between Valjean's adopted daughter and a young student). It was superior to a 1958 version, directed by Jean-Paul Le Chanois, despite the fact that the latter starred Jean Gabin and Bernard Blier. Claude Lelouch directed an intriguing update on the original in 1995, starring Jean-Paul Belmondo as a modern-day Valjean.

misnomers

A title has to appeal to the greatest possible number of people. Sometimes it loses its relevance in the progress; sometimes, as in metaphors like Straw Dogs and A Clockwork Orange, the film-maker is too arrogant to explain it. Here are one or two examples where the irrelevance is still traceable:

The Black Cat. Hardly any of the several films under this title have much to do with Poe's story, and although a black cat may have casually strolled across the scene it has had little bearing on the plot. In Britain the 1934 version was retitled House of Doom, which is a little more to the point of the story.

Son of Dracula, like many other horror films, soon proved to have an inapposite label: the protagonist is none other than the old Count himself in disguise. In Bride of Frankenstein, the title role is a minor one, played by Valerie Hobson; the real bride is that of the monster. In Frankenstein Created Woman, he doesn't: he merely performs some brain-switching. In Abbott and Costello Meet Frankenstein, the Baron doesn't appear at all: it's the monster they meet, and he has much less to do with the plot than Dracula or the Wolf Man.

Abbott and Costello were never careful about titles. In Abbott and Costello Go to Mars, they go to Venus. And Abbott and Costello Meet the Killer, Boris Karloff seems devised purely for equality of billing; it is doubly misleading, for not only is Boris Karloff not a killer, he does not even play a killer in the movie.

The original title The Thin Man referred to a minor character in the murder plot. As sequel followed sequel, and continuity had to be maintained, the tag gradually attached itself to the investigator played by William Powell.

The films of W. C. Fields were noted for the studied irrelevance of their titles, the crowning glory being Never Give a Sucker an Even Break. Laurel and Hardy were not far behind, as anyone knows who has tried to explain the relevance of Hog Wild, You're Darn Tootin', Be Big, Wrong Again, Double Whoopee or They Go Boom. Woody Allen is plainly in the great tradition: when asked why he called his movie Bananas, he replied, 'Because there are no bananas in it'.

The Glass Bottom Boat is seen in the first sequence of the film titled after it, but it is not essential to that sequence and has no relevance at all to the rest of the movie.

It Happened One Night. Which night? The film covers several, and none is central to the plot.

Big Deal at Dodge City is the British title for Big Hand for a Little Lady. It is not only less attractive but wildly inaccurate, as the action is clearly denoted as taking place in Laredo! It was the work of a title fiend operating in Warner's London office, who also turned An American Dream into the weirdly irrelevant See You In Hell, Darling.

Halls of Montezuma is set in the Pacific, and To the Shores of Tripoli never leaves a California training camp. All the titles tell you is that the characters are Marines, from whose marching song the labels are taken.

In Northwest Passage, the passage is barely mentioned and never explored. MGM started to film Kenneth Roberts' historical novel in 1939. The script was too long, so they decided to make two films, the first to deal with the training of Rogers' Rangers and the second with their exploits. The second film was never made; the one that exists does have a subtitle, 'Part One: Rogers' Rangers'.

The Silencers, Murderers' Row, The Ambushers: Any reader who can link these Matt Helm titles to their plots deserves a small prize.

Miss Marple.

Agatha Christie's spinster detective Jane Marple, who first appeared in the 1930 mystery The Murder at the Vicarage, was played by Margaret Rutherford in four films: Murder She Said (from 4.50 from Paddington) 61, Murder at the Gallop (from After the Funeral) 63, Murder Most Foul (from Mrs McGinty's Dead) 64, Murder Ahoy! 64 (not based on a Christie original). Angela Lansbury played her in the glossy The Mirror Crack'd 80, and her sleuth in the television series Murder, She Wrote owes much to the example of Miss Marple. On television, she was first played by Gracie Fields in A Murder Is Announced 58 and subsequently by Helen Hayes in A Caribbean Mystery 83 and They Do It with Mirrors 85, by Joan Hickson in an 80s BBC-TV series and by Geraldine McEwan in an ITV series that began in 04.

Mrs Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch.

Alice Hegan Rice's sentimental shanty-town novel was filmed three times: in 1919 with Mary Carr, in 1934 with Pauline Lord, and in 1943 with Fay Bainter.

missionaries

have not been popular cinema heroes: the most lauded real-life ones were David Livingstone in Stanley and Livingstone and Gladys Aylward in The Inn of the Sixth Happiness. Over-zealous ones appeared in Zulu, Hawaii, Seven Women, the various versions of Rain, At Play in the Fields of the Lord, and The Missionary itself.

Mr Belvedere.
An acerbic, self-styled genius played by the waspish Clifton Webb in three comedies: Sitting Pretty 48, based on Gwen Davenport's novel Belvedere, Mr Belvedere Goes to College 49, Mr Belvedere Rings the Bell 51.

Mr Magoo.
Myopic, bumbling cartoon character created by UPA in the early 50s and voiced by Jim Backus. He quickly became a bore, but some of the early shorts were outstandingly funny. A live-action version, directed by Stanley Tong and starring Leslie Nielsen, was released in 1997, but it passed by unseen.

Ragtime Bear 49. Spellbound Hound 50. Trouble Indemnity (AAN) 50. Bare Faced Flatfoot 51. Fuddy Duddy Buddy 51. Grizzly Golfer 51. Pink Blue Plums (AAN) 52. When Magoo Flew (AA) 55. Magoo's Puddle Jumper (AA) 56. Meet Mother Magoo 56. Magoo's Private War 57. Terror Faces Magoo 59. Mr Magoo's Christmas Carol (TV) 62, etc.

TV series: The Famous Adventures of Mr Magoo 64-65.

Mr Moto.
A mild-mannered Japanese detective and master of disguise created by novelist John P. Marquand and played in nearly a dozen films by Peter Lorre: from Think Fast Mr Moto in 1937 to Mr Moto Takes a Vacation in 1939. In 1965 Henry Silva played the role in an unsuccessful second feature.

❝ I wrote about him to get shoes for the baby. – John P. Marquand

Mr Wong.
A Chinese detective, James Lee Wong, created by author Hugh Wiley and brought to the screen by Monogram as a counter to Mr Moto who was doing so well for Fox. Boris Karloff, who was not physically suited to the role, played him in five rather feeble second features directed by William Nigh: Mr Wong, Detective 38; Mystery of Mr Wong 39; Mr Wong in Chinatown 39; The Fatal Hour 40; Doomed to Die/The Mystery of the Wentworth Castle 40. Keye Luke took over the role for Phantom of Chinatown 41.

Moby Dick.
Herman Melville's allegorical novel about an obsessed sea captain's pursuit of a white whale has been filmed at least three times: The Sea Beast 26, directed by Millard Webb with John Barrymore, Dolores Costello, and George O'Hara; Moby Dick 30, directed by Lloyd Bacon with John Barrymore, Joan Bennett, and Lloyd Hughes; Moby Dick 56, directed by John Huston with Gregory Peck, Richard Basehart, and no female lead. A similar story was served up in The White Buffalo 77, directed by J. Lee-Thompson and starring Charles Bronson as Wild Bill Hickok chasing the eponymous beast. A TV movie was shown in 1998 and released on video, with Patrick Stewart as Captain Ahab; Peck also appeared, in the lesser role of Father Mapple.
See also: MELVILLE, Herman.

Modesty Blaise.
Dauntless heroine with a shady background and martial arts skills, created by Peter O'Donnell (1920-) for a newspaper comic strip and, subsequently, novels. She was played by Monica Vitti in a camp film, with pop-art decor, directed by Joseph Losey in 1966, and by Ann Turkel in a pilot for a television series. In 1994, rights to the character were bought by Miramax Films.

monks
in films have usually been caricatures of the Friar Tuck type; Tuck himself turned up, personified by Eugene Pallette or Alexander Gauge, in most of the versions of Robin Hood. The funny side of monastery life was presented in Crooks in Cloisters, while milder humour came from Edward G. Robinson's conversion to the simple life in Brother Orchid. The Monk, based on a classic Gothic novel, treated the monastery as a place of demonic passion and sin. Serious crises of the monastic spirit have been treated in two American films, The Garden of Allah and The First Legion; but on the whole monks have appealed less than priests to film-makers in search of an emotional subject.
See also: NUNS; PRIESTS; CHURCHES.

Monsieur Beaucaire.
Booth Tarkington's light novel about a barber who impersonates the King of France was filmed as a straight romantic vehicle for Rudolph Valentino and Bebe Daniels in 1924, directed by Sidney Olcott. In 1946 Bob Hope had his way with it in a version directed by George Marshall.

monster animals.
The 1924 version of The Lost World set a persisting fashion for giant animals operated by technical ingenuity. The supreme achievement in the genre was of course King Kong, who carried on in Son of Kong and (more or less) in Mighty Joe Young. Many films concentrated on normal species which had been giantized by radiation or some other accident of science: The Black Scorpion, Them, The Deadly Mantis, The Giant Claw, Tarantula, Mysterious Island, Bug, Night of the Lepus, Squirm, Jaws, Food of the Gods. More fanciful giant animals were created for Jason and the Argonauts, Jack the Giant Killer and The Seventh Voyage of Sinbad. The 1976 King Kong remake mainly featured a man in a gorilla suit, and the fashion of the late 70s and early 80s was for ordinary animals which turned, or were, savage, such as Alligator, Jaws (shark), Mamba/Fair Game, Piranha and Cujo, which continued into the 90s with Bats, Lake Placid (alligator), Anaconda and Deep Blue Sea (sharks with enhanced intelligence).
See also: DINOSAURS.

Monty Python.
An ensemble name for a group of British nonsense comedians who had much influence on television comedy of the 60s and 70s. They include John Cleese, Michael Palin, Terry Gilliam, Eric Idle, Terry Jones and Graham Chapman. Apart from Graham Chapman, who died early, each went on to a successful solo career: Gilliam and Jones as directors, Cleese as a writer and actor, Idle as an actor, and Palin as an actor, writer and a televised explorer.

Book: 1998, The Monty Python Encyclopedia by Robert Ross.

And Now for Something Completely Different 71. Monty Python and the Holy Grail 75. The Life of Brian 79. Monty Python Live at the Hollywood Bowl 82. Monty Python's Meaning of Life 83.

❝ What were we trying to achieve? Silliness. We tried to create something that was unpredictable, that had no parameters. Perhaps the fact that Pythonic is now in the dictionary is a measure of our failure. – Terry Jones

morticians:
see UNDERTAKERS.

'The Most Dangerous Game'.
Richard Connell's well-known short story concerned a mad sportsman who trapped human beings on a tropical island in order to hunt them and display their heads in the trophy room. The first film version (GB: The Hounds of Zaroff) was produced in 1932 by Merian C. Cooper, directed by Ernest Schoedsack and Irving Pichel, starring Leslie Banks. In 1945 it was remade as Game of Death, with Edgar Barrier; in 1948 Johnny Allegro borrowed liberally from it, with George Macready shooting arrows at George Raft; Kill or Be Killed in 1950 had George Coulouris as the menace; The Black Castle in 1952, directed by Nathan Juran with Boris Karloff, set the story in the 18th century. In 1954 The Black Forest, directed by Gene Martel, was a dull 'B' feature; Run for the Sun in 1956 made Trevor Howard a refugee Nazi in the Brazilian jungle, pursuing unwary intruders with savage hounds. In 1961, Bloodlust, directed by Ralph Brooks, was an even worse remake, aimed at the market for teenage horror; 1966 found Cornel Wilde on the run from African headhunters in The Naked Prey, which used basically the same story; in 1973 To Kill a Clown proved to be yet another retread, as was the TV movie Maneater. It cropped up again in 1993 as Hard Target, with Jean-Claude Van Damme in the lead, and in 1994 as Surviving the Game, directed by Ernest Dickerson with Ice-T as the intended victim. A variation of the plot has become constant in many martial arts movies of the 80s and 90s: a mad entrepreneur kidnaps or blackmails a fighter, forcing him to engage in gladiatorial contests to the death with experts at kick-boxing and other esoteric disciplines.

mother love
has been the driving force of many of the screen's most popular, and therefore most remade, melodramas, such as Imitation of Life, Madame X, Stella Dallas, Over the Hill, Mrs Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch and To Each His Own. Britain chipped in with The Woman in the Hall, The White Unicorn, and When the Bough Breaks. Some say that Hitchcock made Psycho as the ultimate riposte to this sentimental tendency; but The Anniversary came a close second. Nor should mother-motivated gangsters such as those in White Heat, Villain and The Krays be forgotten, while Melina Mercouri in Promise at Dawn, Rosalind Russell in Gypsy and Kathleen Turner in Serial Mom were perhaps the most sinister mothers of all.

motor racing
has been the subject of many a routine melodrama, and always seems to reduce the writer to banalities, even in a spectacular like Grand Prix. Some other examples of the genre include The Crowd Roars, Indianapolis Speedway, Checkpoint, The Green Helmet, The Devil's Hairpin, Red Line 7000, Le Mans, Winning and Days of Thunder. The funniest comedy use of the sport was probably in Ask a Policeman, when Will Hay accidentally drove a bus on to Brooklands racetrack in the middle of a race.

motor-cycles
have become a badge of aggressive youth, and since The Wild Angels in 1966 American drive-in screens have been filled with a host of cheap movies extolling the pleasures of leather-jacketed speed with a bird on the back. All of these appear to have been banned in Britain, as was The Wild One, an early example of the genre, in 1954. But we did let through Elvis Presley in Roustabout, and Steve McQueen doing his own stunt sequence in The Great Escape, and Easy Rider, and Coogan's Bluff, and Little Fauss and Big Halsy, and Mad Max. We even made The Leather Boys, about our own ton-up teenagers. As for Girl on a Motorcycle, in which the bike becomes the ultimate sex symbol, words fail one. There was a good British film about speedway racing, Once a Jolly Swagman, and one about the fairground called Wall of Death. Comedian George Formby went in for the TT races in No Limit, and rode a motor-bike also in It's In the Air. Groucho Marx used one to comic effect in Duck Soup, as did Horst Buchholz in One, Two, Three. In American films, the motor-cycle cops are too familiar to warrant individual attention but Electra Glide in Blue took one seriously. Easy Rider, almost an hommage to the machine, is also the most successful film to feature it.

mountains
have provided a challenge in innumerable movies including The Challenge, The White Tower, The Mountain, The White Hell of Pitz Palu, The Gold Rush, Trail of 98, The Eiger Sanction, The Snows of Kilimanjaro, The Abominable Snowman, Lost Horizon, Goodbye Mr Chips, K2, Scream of Stone, Cliffhanger and Vertical Limit.

movies
The cinema is an art. Movies are ... well, movies. Are they a good thing?

❝ To Cecil B. de Mille they were:

The new literature.

To Barbara Streisand, starting to shoot Funny Girl:

This is for posterity. Everything I do will be on film forever.

To Sarah Bernhardt they were:

My one chance for immortality.

Darryl F. Zanuck called them:

The greatest political fact in the world today.

Sam Spiegel was careful in his commendation:

The best motion pictures are those which reach you as entertainment, and by the time you leave have provoked thoughts. A picture that provokes no thoughts is usually not well conceived and does not entertain one anyway.

Warren Beatty gave a verbal shrug:

Movies are fun, but they're not a cure for cancer.

In Ava Gardner's experience:

It's the kissiest business in the world. You have to keep kissing people.

Ben Hecht took the money and ran:

Movies are one of the bad habits that have corrupted our century.

and:

They have slipped into the American mind more misinformation in one evening than the Dark Ages could muster in a decade.

and:

A movie is never any better than the stupidest man connected with it.

David O. Selznick was thoughtful:

There might have been good movies if there had been no movie industry.

St John Ervine had little time for them:

American movies are written by the half-educated for the half-witted.

H. L. Mencken similarly called them:

Entertainment for the moron majority.

And added:

The kind of jackass who likes the movies as they are is the kind who keeps them as they are.

And again:

No one ever went broke underestimating the taste of the American public.

Stephen Longstreet knew the root of the trouble:

In the Hollywood studios, the mass attack of a mob of halfwits in sport shirts and fifty-dollar shoes stamps any real idea to death before it leaves the studio.

S. J. Perelman summed up his own experiences:

Movie scriptwriting is no worse than playing piano in a call house.

Pare Lorentz was a shade more hopeful:

There's no trick to movies. All the businessman needs to do is to employ a fine playwright, a group of good actors, a skilful cameraman, and put them all under the direction of a man who understands the possibilities of the camera and who has besides a comic gift, charm, and dramatic skill - leave them to work unchecked - and he'll get popular entertainment almost every time.

Ivan Butler despaired:

Whoever has the original idea for a movie, it is soon taken away from him.

E. B. White in 1956 saw a gleam of light:

The movies long ago decided that a wider commercial exploitation could be achieved by a deliberate descent to a lower level, and they walked downhill till they found the cellar. Now they are groping for the light switch, looking for the way out.

Robert E. Sherwood was scathing in 1922:

Who invented hokum? Think how much money he'd have made from the film producers if he'd sold his invention on a royalty basis!

Will Rogers was satirical:

There's only one thing that can kill the movies, and that's education.

Maybe Robert Mitchum has the last word:

What's history going to say about the movies? All those rows of seats facing a blank screen? Crazy!

Meanwhile, a few tips on the making of movies:

You should think of each shot as you make it as the most important one in the film. – Henry Blanke

Don't act, think! – F.W. Murnau

Making a film is like going down a mine - once you've started you bid a metaphorical goodbye to the daylight and the outside world for the duration. – John Schlesinger

In a good movie, the sound could go off and the audience would still have a perfectly clear idea of what was going on. – Alfred Hitchcock

If we can make films that are useful as well as entertaining, marvellous. But cinema must reflect the temper of the times. We must choose material not only on the basis of whether we feel deeply, but on whether or not anyone's bloody well going to see it. – Richard Lester

Me, if I can't blow up the world in the first ten seconds, the show is a flop. – Irwin Allen

You can't overthrow regimes through movies, but it can help. – J.A. Bardem

I believe that although the motion picture may not live forever as a work of art, except in a few instances, it will be the most efficient way of showing posterity how we live now. – Irving Thalberg

Ninety-five per cent of films are born of frustration, of self-despair, of ambition for survival, for money, for fattening bank accounts. Five per cent, maybe less, are made because a man has an idea, an idea which he must express. – Samuel Fuller

The movie is a reflector and not an innovator. – Jack Valenti

The cinema is not a slice of life, it's a piece of cake. – Alfred Hitchcock

Movies, like detective stories, make it possible to experience without danger all the excitement, passion and desirousness which must be suppressed in a humanitarian ordering of society. – Carl Jung

They may cost a lot, but none of the money is wasted. All my pictures can be reissued again and again. They stand up pretty well, and they retain their residual values, both financial and prestige-wise. – Sam Spiegel

Messages are for Western Union. – Sam Goldwyn

There's too much pretentious nonsense talked about the artistic problems of making pictures. I've never had a goddam artistic problem in my life, never, and I've worked with the best of them. – John Wayne

Let me tell you what this business is about. It's cunt and horses! – Harry Cohn

Some critics say that people complain about the movies because the movies do not reflect reality. It is this writer's suspicion that more people lament the fact that reality does not reflect the movies. – Leo Rosten

I know audiences feed on crap, but I can't believe we are so lacking that we cannot dish it up to them with some trace of originality. – Darryl F. Zanuck

The public is never wrong. – Adolph Zukor

multi-screen techniques are nothing new, but the Montreal Exhibition of 1967 made them fashionable again, so that in such films as The Boston Strangler, Grand Prix and The Thomas Crown Affair the audience was supposed to look at up to a dozen different images at the same time, which became mighty exhausting. Mike FIGGIS extended the technique with Timecode 00, in which the screen was split in four to show action filmed in real time; he used the soundtrack to guide the audience into which quarter to watch most closely.

multiple roles.

The record for the number of characters played by one actor in a film is held not by Alec GUINNESS in Kind Hearts and Coronets but (probably) by Lupino LANE, who played twenty-four parts in a 1929 comedy called Only Me, by Buster KEATON in The Playhouse, or by George S. MELIES in his 1900 film The One Man Band. Others with high scores, apart from Guinness' eight, include Robert HIRSCH's dozen in No Questions on Saturday,, Eddie MURPHY's eight in The Nutty Professor II: The Klumps and seven in The Nutty Professor, Rod STEIGER's seven in No Way to Treat a Lady, Paul MUNI's seven in Seven Faces, Jerry LEWIS' seven in The Family Jewels, Tony RANDALL's seven in The Seven Faces of Dr Lao, Hugh HERBERT's six in La Conga Nights, Peter SELLERS' six in Soft Beds, Hard Battles, FERNANDEL's six in The Sheep Has Five Legs, Anna NEAGLE's four in Lilacs in the Spring, Françoise ROSAY's four in Une Femme Disparait, Louis JOURDAN's and Joan FONTAINE's four each in Decameron Nights, Rod STEIGER's and Claire BLOOM's four each in The Illustrated Man, Lionel JEFFRIES' four in The Secret of My Success, Alan YOUNG's four in Gentlemen Prefer Brunettes, Terry KILBURN's four generations of boy in Goodbye Mr Chips, Moira SHEARER's three in The Man Who Loved Redheads, Deborah KERR's three in The Life and Death of Colonel Blimp, Peter SELLERS' three in The Mouse That Roared and Dr Strangelove, Leon ERROL's three in some episodes of the Mexican Spitfire series, Joanne WOODWARD's three in The Three Faces of Eve and Eleanor PARKER's three in Lizzie. One should perhaps also count Danny KAYE's various dream selves in The Secret Life of Walter Mitty.

Dual roles have frequently been of the split personality type of which Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde is the most obvious example. This category includes Henry HULL in Werewolf of London and Lon CHANEY Jnr in The Wolf Man, Phyllis CALVERT in Madonna of the Seven Moons, Phyllis THAXTER in Bewitched, Jerry LEWIS in The Nutty Professor, Alec GUINNESS in The Captain's Paradise, Jeremy IRONS in Dead Ringers and Jim CARREY in Me, Myself and Irene. Two-character roles include Ronald COLMAN in The Masquerader and The Prisoner of Zenda, Lon CHANEY in London After Midnight, Edward G. ROBINSON in The Man with Two Faces, LAUREL and HARDY in Our Relations, Allan JONES and Joe PENNER in The Boys from Syracuse, CHAPLIN in The Great Dictator, Louis HAYWARD in The Man in the Iron Mask, Olivia DE HAVILLAND in The Dark Mirror, Boris KARLOFF in The Black Room, Herbert LOM in Dual Alibi, George M. COHAN in The Phantom President, Jack PALANCE in House of Numbers, Peter WHITNEY in Murder He Says, Elisabeth BERGNER (and later Bette DAVIS) in Stolen Life, Bette Davis in Dead Ringer, Yul BRYNNER in The Double Man, Stanley BAXTER in Very Important Person, Peter LAWFORD in One More Time, George ARLISS in His Lordship, Alain DELON in The Black Tulip, John MCINTIRE in The Lawless Breed, VALENTINO in Son of the Sheik, Jack MULHALL in Dark Streets (allegedly the first to use the split-image technique), Larry PARKS (playing Jolson and himself) in Jolson Sings Again, Douglas FAIRBANKS JNR in The Corsican Brothers, Jessie MATTHEWS in Evergreen, Julie CHRISTIE in Fahrenheit 451 and Eddie MURPHY as brothers in Bowfinger.

multiple-story films

probably began in 1916 with Intolerance, which audiences rejected as too complicated. Later attempts made sure that the stories were clearly woven into a common thread; The Bridge of San Luis Rey in 1929, Grand Hotel in 1932, Friday the Thirteenth and Dinner at Eight in 1933, Un Carnet de Bal (also known as Christine) in 1936, Tales of Manhattan in 1942, Forever and a Day in 1942, Flesh and Fantasy in 1943, Weekend at the Waldorf and Dead of Night in 1945. In 1948-50 three Somerset Maugham compendiums, introduced by the author, emerged as Quartet, Trio and Encore; this inspired O. Henry's Full House in 1952. In 1963 we had The VIPs and in 1964 The Yellow Rolls-Royce, the stories in the latter being very casually linked. Meanwhile horror compendiums were becoming popular, 1962's Tales of Terror being followed between 1967 and 1972 by Dr Terror's House of Horrors, The Torture Garden, The House that Dripped Blood, Tales From the Crypt, Asylum, Vault of Horror, Tales that Witness Madness, From Beyond the Grave, The Monster Club, Creepshow and Cat's Eyes. The tradition was revived in the 90s with Tales from the Darkside: The Movie and Tales from the Hood.

The Mummy.

Interest in avenging mummies was aroused during the 20s by the widespread stories of the curse of Tutankhamen whose tomb had recently been discovered and opened. In 1932 Karl FREUND directed a rather strange romantic film on the subject with Boris KARLOFF as a desiccated but active three-thousand-year-old still on the track of his lost love. Despite good box office it was not reprised until 1940, when The Mummy's Hand, a pure hokum thriller, appeared with Tom TYLER in the role. Between 1942 and 1944 there were three increasingly foolish sequels starring (if it really was him under the bandages) Lon CHANEY JNR: they were The Mummy's Tomb, The Mummy's Ghost and The Mummy's Curse. In 1959 Hammer took over the character and remade The Mummy with an English Victorian setting: Christopher LEE was the monster. There have been two poor sequels, The Curse of the Mummy's Tomb 64 and The Mummy's Shroud 66. Blood From The Mummy's Tomb 71 did not feature a monster; it was based on a Bram Stoker story. The lighter side of the subject was viewed by WHEELER and WOOLSEY in Mummy's Boys 35, the THREE STOOGES in Mummie's Dummies 38, and ABBOTT and COSTELLO in Meet the Mummy 54. Bram Stoker's novel The Jewel of Seven Stars was revived in the cheap and shoddy Bram Stoker's Legend of the Mummy 97. In 1999 Stephen SOMMERS made The Mummy a hit again in a version laden with computer-generated special effects. The emphasis was on Brendan FRASER's boyish hero rather than Arnold VOSLOO's Mummy, though it also turned Oded FEHR, as the Mummy's guardian, into a cult figure. A sequel The Mummy Returns followed in 2001.

Muppets.

An American cross between marionettes and puppets which came in all sizes and shapes. Created by Jim HENSON, they were stars of the TV series Sesame Street from 1969, and their own British TV series The Muppet Show 76-80, before moving on to the big screen. The best known characters were Kermit the Frog, Miss Piggy and Fozzie Bear.

The Muppet Movie 79. The Great Muppet Caper 81. The Muppets Take Manhattan 84. A Muppet Christmas Carol 92. Muppet Treasure Island 96. Muppets From Space 99.

See also: OZ, Frank.

murderers

abound in fictional films, but only a handful of real-life cases have been analysed with any seriousness. There have been several 'lives' of Charlie Peace and Landru, and fantasies about the earlier French 'Bluebeard'. A cold clinical eye was applied to Barbara Graham in I Want to Live 57, Dr Crippen 64, The Boston Strangler 68, John Christie in Ten Rillington Place 71. Ruth Ellis, the last woman to be hanged in Britain, was said to have inspired Yield to the Night 56, and was played by Miranda Richardson in Dance With a Stranger 85. Leopold and Loeb were plainly the subject of Compulsion 58 as well as Rope 48 and Swoon 92. More recent years have brought such case histories as In Cold Blood 67, The Executioner's Song 82, Chicago Joe and the Showgirl 89, Dr Petiot 90, Let Him Have It 91, The Young Poisoner's Handbook 95, In the Light of the Moon/Ed Gein 00, The Manson Family 03, Monster 03 and a documentary on the same subject Aileen: Life and Death of a Serial Killer 03.

TV has done its bit with Kill Me If You Can (Caryl Chessman) 77, The Lindbergh Kidnapping Case (Bruno Hauptmann) 75 and Helter Skelter (Charles Manson) 76, and Prince of Poisoners: The Life and Crimes of William Palmer 98.

musical remakes

are becoming thicker on the ground than musical originals. All the following had been filmed at least once before, as straight dramas or comedies with music:

Where's Charley? as Charley's Aunt; Three for the Show as My Two Husbands; Living It Up as Nothing Sacred; Carmen Jones as Carmen; Scrooge as A Christmas Carol; Step Lively as Room Service; In the Good Old Summertime as The Shop Around The Corner; Meet Me After The Show as He Married His Wife; Annie Get Your Gun as Annie Oakley; Kismet as Kismet; The King and I as Anna and the King of Siam; Carousel as Liliom; High Society as The Philadelphia Story; Silk Stockings as Ninotchka; Gigi as Gigi; My Fair Lady as Pygmalion; The Sound of Music as The Trapp Family; Funny Girl as Rose of Washington Square; Sweet Charity as Nights of Cabiria; Camelot as Lancelot and Guinevere; Oliver! as Oliver Twist; Hello Dolly as The Matchmaker; Cabaret as I Am a Camera; Fiddler on the Roof as Tevye the Milkman; Mame as Auntie Mame; Lost Horizon as Lost Horizon; Goodbye Mr Chips as Goodbye Mr Chips; A Star Is Born as What Price Hollywood? (and in 1937 as A Star is Born).

musicals

obviously could not exist before Al Jolson sang 'Mammy', in 1927. During the first two or three years of talkies, however, Hollywood produced so many gaudy back-stage stories and all-star spectacles that the genre quickly wore out its welcome:

Broadway Melody, The Singing Fool, The Desert Song, Showboat, Chasing Rainbows, Show of Shows, Hollywood Revue, Lights of New York, On with the Show, King of Jazz, Gold Diggers of Broadway, Sunny Side Up ... all these before the end of 1930, and there were many poorer imitations. Discipline was needed, and the disciplinarian who emerged was Broadway dance director Busby Berkeley. His kaleidoscopic ensembles first dazzled the eye in Goldwyn-Cantor extravaganzas like Whoopee and Palmy Days, and came to full flower in the Warner musicals which brought to the fore stars like Joan Blondell, Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell, filling the years from 1933 to 1937 with such shows as Footlight Parade, Forty-Second Street, Dames, Wonder Bar, Flirtation Walk and the annual Gold Digger comedies. Meanwhile at Paramount Lubitsch had been quietly establishing a quieter style, using recitative, with The Love Parade and One Hour with You; Mamoulian was equally successful with Love Me Tonight; and the Marx Brothers contributed their own brand of musical anarchy. From 1933 to 1939 at RKO Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers were teamed in an affectionately-remembered series of light comedy-musicals. MGM made sporadic efforts with creaky vehicles like Cuban Love Song but did not come into their own until 1935, when they started the Jeanette MacDonald/Nelson Eddy series of operettas; these were followed by a dramatic musical, The Great Ziegfeld, by the Eleanor Powell spectaculars like Rosalie, by a revived Broadway Melody series, and by The Wizard of Oz and the early Judy Garland/Mickey Rooney teenage extravaganzas, Babes in Arms and Strike Up the Band. Fox had Shirley Temple, Sonja Henie and Alice Faye; Goldwyn contributed Cantor and The Goldwyn Follies. Paramount concentrated on Maurice Chevalier, Bing Crosby and the all-star Big Broadcast series.

The popularity of musicals continued into the war-torn 40s, when escapism was de rigueur. Universal, whose only major pre-war musical was Showboat, continued to build up Deanna Durbin and threw in Donald O'Connor and Gloria Jean for good measure. Warners had This Is the Army and several musical biopics: Yankee Doodle Dandy, Night and Day, Rhapsody in Blue. RKO had a young man named Sinatra. Fox found goldmines in Carmen Miranda and Betty Grable, but their vehicles were routine; Columbia did slightly better by Rita Hayworth, and then surprised everyone with The Jolson Story, which set the musical back on top just when it was flagging. Paramount was doing very nicely with Bing Crosby and Bob Hope. Everybody did at least one big morale-building musical with all the stars on the payroll blowing kisses to the boys out there: Star-Spangled Rhythm, Thank Your Lucky Stars, Hollywood Canteen, Thousands Cheer and so on.

Top dog in the 40s and 50s was undoubtedly MGM. Specialities like Ziegfeld Follies, Till the Clouds Roll By and Words and Music came side by side with more routine productions starring Gene Kelly, Judy Garland, and Esther Williams (in aqua-musicals, of course). The decade ended in a blaze of glory with On the Town, which led to the even more spectacular heights of An American in Paris and Singin' in the Rain. By this time Mario Lanza and Howard Keel were needing new vehicles for themselves, The Great Caruso and Seven Brides for Seven Brothers being outstanding productions in their own right. But by the mid-50s the demand, or the fashion, for musicals was dying. It lasted longest at Metro, who doggedly remade pictures like The Belle of New York and Rose Marie, added music to Ninotchka and The Philadelphia Story and Gigi. Warners plugged on until their bright star of 1948, Doris Day, signed with another studio and turned dramatic; Fox had two mammoth tries in Call Me Madam and There's No Business Like Show Business; Paramount came up with White Christmas, the enterprising Red Garters and Funny Face, and even Li'l Abner. But the risk was becoming too great in a chancy market, with expenses growing by the minute; and in the 60s no original musicals were written in Hollywood, with the exception of the family-aimed Mary Poppins, Thoroughly Modern Millie and the twenty-odd look-alike vehicles of Elvis Presley. Copper-bottomed Broadway hits like Pal Joey, Oklahoma, Carousel, The Pajama Game, South Pacific, The King and I, West Side Story, Guys and Dolls, Hello Dolly, On a Clear Day You Can See Forever, Fiddler on the Roof, Man of La Mancha, The Sound of Music and My Fair Lady were still filmed, at gargantuan cost, but as cinema they all too often disappointed filmgoers with memories of Berkeley and Kelly and Donen. Amongst the most inventive screen musicals have been Bob Fosse's Sweet Charity and Cabaret. In the 90s, the success of the Disney animated features The Little Mermaid, Aladdin, The Lion King and, especially, Beauty and the Beast promised to revive the musical in a different form. Indeed, Disney turned Beauty and the Beast into a successful Broadway musical in 1994.

In Britain, the 30s were a highpoint of the light musical, starring such talents as Jack Buchanan, Jessie Matthews, Gracie Fields, George Formby and Anna Neagle; Miss Neagle indeed carried on, dauntless, into the less favourable climate of the 50s. The 40s were pretty barren apart from the Rank spectacular London Town, which flopped; and it wasn't until the 60s that Elstree struck something like the right note with its energetic though derivative series starring Cliff Richard. In 1968 the old-fashioned though energetic Oliver! proved that Britain can handle a really big musical. The 70s brought little but rock operas and one or two curiously old-fashioned stagings of such as Mame and 1776, until John Travolta spurred a new trend with Saturday Night Fever and a nostalgic one with Grease. Flashdance and Breaking started new forms, and A Chorus Line, long promised, was finally made in 1984, by which time most Broadway musicals had become too expensive to film. A disastrous attempt to revive the film musical was made in 1994 with I'll Do Anything, directed by James L. Brooks and starring Nick Nolte. Eleven of its 12 songs were removed during previews, after some of the audience walked out. The form survived only in Alan Menken and Howard Ashman's songs for Disney's animated features such as The Little Mermaid 89. Beauty and the Beast 91, which in a reversal of the usual trend was turned into a Broadway musical, and Aladdin 92, and, with various songwriters, The Lion King 94 and Pocahontas 95. Whether there is any long-term future for the musical other than as an accompaniment to animation may depend on the success or otherwise of Andrew Lloyd Webber's Evita, directed by Alan Parker, which has taken 19 years from its first stage performance in 1978 to reach the cinema. Chicago 02, a film based on another 70s stage musical, won six Oscars including best picture and suggested that a film revival of the genre was on the way. It was followed by The Producers 05, Lloyd Webber's Phantom of the Opera 05 and Rent 05.

Books: Gotta Sing Gotta Dance by John Kobal. The Hollywood Musical by John Russell Taylor. All Singing, All Dancing by John Springer. 1987, The American Film Musical by Rick Altman.
See also: ENTERTAINERS.

Mutiny on the Bounty.

Three films have been made of this semi-historical account of how Captain Bligh was cast adrift in an open boat in 1787: the first was directed in 1935 by Frank Lloyd with Clark Gable and Charles Laughton, in a performance that launched a thousand impersonations; the second, in 1962, was directed by Carol Reed (who resigned) and Lewis Milestone, with Marlon Brando and Trevor Howard; the most recent, The Bounty, was directed by Roger Donaldson in Australia in 1984, with Anthony Hopkins and Mel Gibson.

My Man Godfrey.

The crazy comedy about a family of bored millionaires brought to heel by a butler they pick up in the gutter has been filmed twice: in 1936 by Gregory La Cava with William Powell and Carole Lombard; and in 1957 by Henry Koster with David Niven and June Allyson.

My Sister Eileen.

The stories by Ruth McKenney about two sisters on the hunt for fame and men in New York was turned first into a play and then a film by Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorov; directed by Alexander Hall, it starred Rosalind Russell and Janet Sherwood as the sisters; Richard Quine remade it in 1955 as a semi-musical with Betty Garrett and Janet Leigh. A Broadway musical of 1953, Wonderful Town, was also based on the stories, and there was a TV series with Elaine Stritch and Shirley Bonne, 1960-61. (In real life, Eileen McKenney married writer Nathanael West and died with him in a car crash.)

mystery

has always been a popular element of motion picture entertainment. Always providing scope for sinister goings-on and sudden revelations, mystery films divide themselves into two basic genres: who done it, and how will the hero get out of it? Silent melodramas like The Perils of Pauline were full of clutching hands and villainous masterminds, devices adopted by the German post-war cinema for its own purposes: The Cabinet of Dr Caligari, Dr Mabuse and Warning Shadows are all mysteries, peopled by eccentrics and madmen. American silent who-done-its like The Cat and the Canary, The Thirteenth Chair and One Exciting Night set a pattern for thrillers which could not come fully into their own until music and sound were added. In the 30s the 'thunderstorm mystery', with its spooky house and mysterious servants (the butler usually did it) quickly became a cliché; but this is not to denigrate the entertainment value of such movies as The Bat, The Terror, Murder by the Clock, The Gorilla, Seven Keys to Baldpate, Double Door, You'll Find Out, Topper Returns, The House on Haunted Hill, and the Bob Hope remakes of The Cat and the Canary and The Ghost Breakers.

The 30s also saw a movement to relegate the puzzle film to the detective series, a genre later taken over eagerly by TV. These films were built around such protagonists as Charlie Chan, Sherlock Holmes, Hercule Poirot, Inspector Hanaud, Ellery Queen, Perry Mason, Inspector Hornleigh, Nero Wolfe, Philo Vance, Nick Carter, The Crime Doctor, The Saint, The Falcon, Bulldog Drummond, Mrs Pym, the 'Thin Man' (the thin man was actually the victim of the first story, but the tag stuck to William Powell), Mr Moto, Michael Shayne, Hildegarde Withers, Mr Wong, Arsène Lupin, Dick Barton, The Baron, The Toff, Gideon, Slim Callaghan, Lemmy Caution and Maigret ... all soundly spoofed by Groucho Marx as Wolf J. Flywheel in The Big Store. The best of these fictional detectives were the creations of Dashiell Hammett (Sam Spade in The Maltese Falcon) and Raymond Chandler (Philip Marlowe in The Big Sleep, Farewell My Lovely and The High Window); and after a twenty-year hiatus the threads were picked up by Ross MacDonald's Harper, Craig Stevens as Gunn, Frank Sinatra as Tony Rome, films of Chandler's Marlowe and J.D. MacDonald's Darker Than Amber, and Richard Roundtree, and much later Samuel L. Jackson, as Shaft. Single who-done-its of great merit were Gaslight, Laura, Green for Danger (one ached for a whole series starring Alastair Sim as Inspector Cockrill), The Spiral Staircase, Crossfire, Boomerang, Bad Day at Black Rock, Les Diaboliques, Charade, Mirage, Taste of Fear, The List of Adrian Messenger, and Ten Little Indians/And then There Were None. Two gentler detectives were provided by Alec Guinness' Father Brown and Margaret Rutherford's Miss Marple.

The other type of mystery, with a hero on the run, usually suspected of murder, finally uncovering the real villain after many narrow escapes from death, was developed by Alfred Hitchcock in such films as The Thirty-Nine Steps, The Lady Vanishes, Saboteur, Spellbound, Strangers on a Train, North by Northwest and Torn Curtain. But stars as various as Alan Ladd, Bob Hope, Danny Kaye, Robert Mitchum, Paul Newman and Harrison Ford have also found the device useful.

More recently, the emphasis has shifted, to the cleverness of the criminals with the detectives blundering along behind. They are outsmarted most, or all, of the time in such movies as The Silence of the Lambs, Seven, The Usual Suspects, The Bone Collector, The Watcher and Hannibal.

The 60s vogue for tongue-in-cheek spy thrillers is to all intents and purposes a reversion to the Pearl White school, with the hero menaced at every turn but, of course, finally triumphant. It still finds an audience in Mike Myers' Austin Powers spoofs of the late 90s.

Books: 1974, The Detective in Film by William K. Everson. 1984, Dark Cinema by Jon Tuska; 1990, The Great Detective Pictures by James Robert Parish; 1996, Raymond Chandler in Hollywood by Al Clark; 1997, The BFI Companion to Crime, ed Phil Hardy.
See also: SPIES; PRIVATE EYES.

The Mystery of the Wax Museum.

This badly structured but interesting shocker in two-colour Technicolor, with sets by Anton Grot and direction by Michael Curtiz, survives as a milestone of its era, with Lionel Atwill as a mad sculptor who uses a wax face to disguise his hideously burned features. In 1953, the story was remade in 3-D as House of Wax, starring Vincent Price, and in 1966 most of it turned up again in Chamber of Horrors and in House of Wax 05.

Nana.

Zola's novel of the Paris demi-monde in the 1860s has been filmed at least a dozen times, and can be seen in five major film versions: a silent French film directed by Jean Renoir in 1926, with Catherine Hessling and Werner Krauss; an American version, sometimes known as The Lady of the Boulevards, directed by Dorothy Arzner in 1934, with Anna Sten, Lionel Atwill, and Phillips Holmes; a second French version, directed by Christian-Jaque in 1955, with Martine Carol and Charles Boyer; a Franco-Swedish version, Take Me, Love Me, directed by Mac Ahlberg, with Anna Gael; a Franco-German version made in 1982, directed by Dan Wolman, with Katya Berger and Jean-Pierre Aumont.

Nancy Drew.

The teenage heroine, created by Carolyn Keene (one of many pseudonyms used by the team of Edward Stratemeyer and Harriet Adams), appeared in a series of second features made by Warner, directed by William Clemens and starring Bonita Granville: Nancy Drew, Detective 38; Nancy Drew – Reporter 39; Nancy Drew – Troubleshooter 39; Nancy Drew and the Hidden Staircase 39. A television series, The Nancy Drew Mysteries, ran from 1977-78, starring Pamela Sue Martin.

narrators

are heard at the beginning of many important movies. Well-known actors are normally used, but sometimes take no credit. Here is a selected checklist to silence nagging doubts:

Arizona Bushwhackers: James Cagney.
Barry Lyndon: Michael Hordern.
The Big Knife: Richard Boone.
Casablanca: Lou Marcelle.
The Curse of King Tutankhamun's Tomb: Paul Scofield.
Desert Rats: Michael Rennie.
Dragon Seed: Lionel Barrymore.
Duel in the Sun: Orson Welles.
The Hallelujah Trail: John Dehner.
How Green Was My Valley: Irving Pichel.
How the West Was Won: Spencer Tracy.
The Human Comedy: Ray Collins.
An Ideal Husband: Ralph Richardson.
It's a Big Country: Louis Calhern.
Khartoum: Leo Genn.
King of Kings: Orson Welles.
Kings of the Sun: James Coburn.
A Letter to 3 Wives: Celeste Holm.
Mackenna's Gold: Victor Jory.
The Master of Ballantrae: Robert Beatty.
Mother Wore Tights: Anne Baxter.
The Mummy's Shroud: Peter Cushing.
The Night They Raided Minsky's: Rudy Vallee.
The Picture of Dorian Gray: Cedric Hardwicke.
Quo Vadis: Walter Pidgeon.
The Red Badge of Courage: James Whitmore.
The Reivers: Burgess Meredith.
Repeat Performance: John Ireland.
Romeo and Juliet (1968): Laurence Olivier.
The Secret Heart: Hume Cronyn.
The Solid Gold Cadillac: George Burns.
The Story of Jacob and Joseph: Alan Bates.
Summer of 42: Robert Mulligan.
The Swiss Family Robinson: Orson Welles.
The Third Man: Wilfrid Thomas.
Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines: James Robertson Justice.
To Hell and Back: John McIntire.
To Kill a Mockingbird: Kim Stanley.
Tom Jones: Micheal MacLiammoir.
The Unseen: Ray Collins.
The Vikings: Orson Welles.
The Wild Heart: Joseph Cotten.
The War of the Worlds: Cedric Hardwicke.
Zulu: Richard Burton.

naval comedy

in British movies usually has a 30s look about it, may well be written by Ian Hay, and almost always concerns the officers; as in The Middle Watch, Carry On Admiral, The Midshipmaid, The Flag Lieutenant and Up the Creek (though the other ranks had their look in with The Bulldog Breed, The Baby and the Battleship and Jack Ahoy). In Hollywood movies the focus of interest is set firmly among the other ranks: Follow the Fleet, Abbott and Costello in the Navy, Anchors Aweigh, Operation Petticoat, Mr Roberts, South Pacific, Ensign Pulver, On the Town, You're in the Navy Now, The Fleet's In, Onion-Head, Don't Go Near the Water, Don't Give Up the Ship, The Honeymoon Machine, Down Periscope.

nepotism.

Hollywood moguls were at one time well known for promoting within the family. Hence the quip: the son-in-law also rises. Hence the rhyme:

"Uncle Carl Laemmle
Has a very large faemmle."

Of an untalented Warner relative, Julius Epstein once commented that he had set the son-in-law business back twenty years. And when another gentleman of similar ilk taunted Oscar Levant with 'Oscar, play us a medley of your hit', Oscar came back with 'Okay, play us a medley of your father-in-law.' Of Louis B. Mayer's brother, Irving Brecher remarked: 'Jerry has a very important job and he has to have that big corner office. He's supposed to watch Washington Boulevard and warn everybody to evacuate the studio if icebergs are spotted coming down the street.' Similarly in London, after Alexander Korda's rise to fame and power, it was said that in order to get a job in British films you had to be Hungarian. These days, nepotism seems limited to directors giving their children roles in their films, sometimes with disastrous results.

New York

has provided a vivid backcloth for films of many types, and its skyscrapers allegedly gave Fritz Lang the inspiration for Metropolis. Studio re-creations provided the period flavour of Little Old New York, New York Town, One Sunday Afternoon, A Tree Grows in Brooklyn, Incendiary Blonde, My Girl Tisa, and The Bowery; and it was a studio city which was wrecked by King Kong. But the camera has also explored the real article, notably in thrillers like Saboteur, Naked City, Union Station, The FBI Story and North by Northwest; in realistic comedy dramas like From This Day Forward, So This is New York, Miracle on 34th Street, Lovers and Lollipops, Marty, It Should Happen to You, Sunday in New York, Breakfast at Tiffany's, The Lost Weekend, The Bachelor Party, A Man Ten Feet Tall, A Fine Madness, Love with the Proper Stranger, The World of Henry Orient, Midnight Cowboy, The Pawnbroker, Barefoot in the Park, Beau James, The French Connection, Cotton Comes to Harlem, Shaft, The Out-of-Towners, Any Wednesday, Serpico, Bye Bye Braverman, Sweet Charity, The Seven-Ups, The Taking of Pelham One Two Three, The Prisoner of Second Avenue, Mean Streets, Taxi Driver, Death Wish and Three Days of the Condor; in hard-hitting social melodramas like On the Waterfront, Sweet Smell of Success, and The Young Savages; and in musicals like On the Town and West Side Story. Other films which concern the effect of New York without showing much of the actuality include Mr Deeds Goes to Town, Bachelor Mother, Lady on a Train, Bell, Book and Candle, Portrait of Jennie, Kid Millions, Dead End, The Apartment, Patterns of Power, The Garment Jungle, Mr Blandings Builds His Dream House and America, America. Finally Manhattan Island was bought from the Indians by Groucho Marx in The Story of Mankind, Knickerbocker Holiday pictured the city in its Dutch colonial days as New Amsterdam and Godspell used it as a novel background for its revised version of the Life of Christ. Television series with authentic New York locations include Naked City, The Defenders, East Side West Side, N.Y.P.D., Madigan, McCloud, Kojak, Eischied.

Nick and Nora Charles.

Married detectives created by Dashiell Hammett in his novel The Thin Man 34. In the book, the thin man is the murderer's first victim. Oddly enough, the tag stuck to William Powell (not all that thin), who played Nick Charles and starred in five sequels: After the Thin Man 37, Another Thin Man 38, Shadow of the Thin Man 42, The Thin Man Goes Home 44, Song of the Thin Man 46. Myrna Loy played Nora in all the features, and it was said that her domestic scenes with Powell in the original film marked the first time a sophisticated, affectionate marriage had been realistically portrayed on the screen. A later TV series, 57-59, starred Peter Lawford and Phyllis Kirk.

Nick Carter.

The tough young American detective, the occidental answer to Sexton Blake, was created in 1886 by Ormond G. Smith (1860-1933) and John Russell Coryell (1848-1924) for the New York Weekly. Dozens of hack writers later authored the stories under pseudonyms. Four French films starring André Liabel were made in 1912; Thomas Carrigan appeared in some shorts in 1920; Edmund Lowe had a series in 1924; Walter Pidgeon was in three in 1940; Eddie Constantine in two (French) in 1963 and 1965. From 1943 the character was very popular on radio, but television has made one poorish attempt in 1972, The Adventures of Nick Carter starring Robert Conrad.

Nightmare on Elm Street.

A series of low-budget horror movies starring Robert Englund as Freddy Kruger, a child killer who returns from the dead through dreams to kill again. The first, written and directed by Wes Craven, was made for $1.3m and took more than $26m at the American box-office. The sequels were of diminishing interest, although a TV series was spun off from the films. The series seemingly came to an end with the sixth film, Freddy's Dead: The Final Nightmare 91, but was revived by the self-referential Wes Craven's New Nightmare 94. In 03 Freddy was pitted against another killer-hero, the hockey-masked Jason, from the Friday the 13th series in Freddy vs Jason with a tag-line 'Winner Kills All'.

No Man of Her Own

was the film, starring Barbara Stanwyck, of Cornell Woolrich's novel I Married a Dead Man. It was also filmed by the French as I Married a Shadow, and as Mrs Winterbourne by Richard Benjamin in 1996, starring Ricki Lake.

Norman Bates.

The mother-obsessed killer, based on the real-life murderer Ed Gein, was memorably portrayed by Anthony Perkins in Alfred Hitchcock's Psycho and three sequels. Although in the first film his sexual orientation seemed ambiguous, he became more heterosexual in outlook with each sequel. In a 1998 remake of Hitchcock's original, directed by Gus Van Sant, the role was played by Vince Vaughn.

Nothing but the Truth.

James Montgomery's Broadway comedy about a man who takes a bet that he can tell the absolute truth for 24 hours was filmed in 1920, with Taylor Holmes; in 1929, with Richard Dix; and in 1941, with Bob Hope. In 1996, a similar notion was used in Liar, Liar, starring Jim Carrey.

numbered sequels.

This rather offhand practice probably began in 1956 with Quatermass II, but did not really become fashionable until the 70s. Among the successes to label their sequels so casually are The French Connection, Jaws, The Sting, Mad Max, Walking Tall, Superman, Halloween, Death Wish, Grease, That's Entertainment, Piranha, Friday the 13th, La Cage aux Folles, The Amityville Horror, Porky's, Rocky, Airplane, The Howling, Die Hard, The Terminator, Predator and The Naked Gun, which spoofed the process, going to 2½ and 33⅓.

nuns

have been popular figures on the screen, though only in The Nun's Story and the Polish The Devil and the Nun has any real sense of dedication been achieved; the French Dialogue des Carmélites tried hard but failed. Sentimentalized nuns were seen in The Cradle Song, Bonaventure, The White Sister, Conspiracy of Hearts, The Bells of St Mary's, Come to the Stable, Portrait of Jennie, Heaven Knows Mr Allison, Black Narcissus, Lilies of the Field, The Miracle, The Song of Bernadette and The Sound of Music; while nuns who combined modern sophistication with sweetness and light afflicted us in The Singing Nun and The Trouble with Angels, and in Two Mules for Sister Sara Shirley Maclaine played a prostitute disguised as a nun. A nun was raped in Five Gates to Hell. The most sinister nun was perhaps Catherine Lacey, with her high heels, in The Lady Vanishes, but the nuns in The Trygon Factor also count. The most agonized nuns were in The Devils, La Religieuse, and The Awful Story of the Nun of Monza. The weirdest was TV's The Flying Nun. More recently, they have been a source of amusement: Dark Habits/Entre Tinieblas, Nuns on the Run and Sister Act.

nurses

have inspired biopics (Sister Kenny, The White Angel, The Lady with a Lamp, Nurse Edith Cavell); sentimental low-key studies of the profession (The Lamp Still Burns, The Feminine Touch, Vigil in the Night, No Time for Tears, White Corridors, Prison Nurse, Private Nurse, Night Nurse); even comedies (Carry On Nurse, Twice Round the Daffodils, Nurse on Wheels). Green for Danger is probably still the only thriller in which both victim and murderer were nurses. The best satire has been The National Health (or Nurse Norton's Affair). There was a popular TV series called Janet Dean Registered Nurse 53, and later The Nurses 62-64.

See also HOSPITALS; DOCTORS.

nymphomaniacs

are still fairly rare in normal commercial movies. The fullest studies have been by Suzanne Pleshette in A Rage to Live, Françoise Arnoul in La Rage au Corps, Claire Bloom in The Chapman Report, Merle Oberon in Of Love and Desire, Sue Lyon in Night of the Iguana, Lee Remick in The Detective, Melina Mercouri in Topkapi, Maureen Stapleton in Lonelyhearts, Jean Seberg in Road to Corinth, Elizabeth Taylor in Butterfield 8, and Sandra Jullien in I Am a Nymphomaniac; but one should not forget Myrna Loy's comic nympho in Love Me Tonight.

Ocean's Eleven

was a crime caper set in Las Vegas that starred the casinos' biggest attractions at the time: Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jnr, Peter Lawford and the rest of the Rat Pack. Lawford had found the story. Sinatra also produced it, which gave him control over director Lewis Milestone so that he rarely did more than one take and some days never showed up on set at all. The group filmed by day and starred every night at the Sands Casino which was part-owned by Sinatra. The result was a sloppy, casual movie (Said Martin to Sinatra during filming 'You will give me the chance to read the script before we're through?). Despite critical disdain, it was the ninth biggest movie of 1960 in the USA. Stephen Soderbergh's remake, trying for that same once-more-fashionable cool style starred George Clooney, Brad Pitt and Julia Roberts. It was also a box-office success and was followed by yet another sequel Ocean's Twelve.

Of Mice and Men.

John Steinbeck's spare little morality tale about a gentle but homicidal giant who has to be killed by his best friend has been filmed twice: in 1939, directed by Lewis Milestone with Lon Chaney Jnr, Burgess Meredith, and Betty Field; and in 1992, directed by Gary Sinise, starring himself, John Malkovich, and Sherilyn Fenn. A TV movie, released on video, starred Robert Blake and Randy Quaid.

offices

have provided the setting for many a film. The Crowd in 1926 and The Rebel in 1961 chose pretty much the same way of stressing the dreariness of daily routine; but Sunshine Susie in 1931 and How to Succeed in Business without Really Trying in 1967 both saw the office as a gay place full of laughter and song. Satyajit Ray in Company Limited and Ermanno Olmi in Il Posto and One Fine Day took a realistic look at office life. Billy Wilder took a jaundiced view of it in The Apartment, as did the makers of Patterns of Power, Executive Suite, Bartleby and The Power and the Prize. More modern problems were explored in Office Killer 97, an experimental film about a copy editor who discovers she enjoys murder, and Office Space 99, about a rebellious computer programmer. Romantic comedies of the 30s like Wife versus Secretary, After Office Hours and Take a Letter Darling saw it as ideal for amorous intrigue, and in 1964 The Wild Affair took pretty much the same attitude. Orson Welles in The Trial made it nightmarish; Preston Sturges in Christmas in July made it friendly; The Desk Set made it computerized; The Bachelor Party made it frustrating; The Hudsucker Proxy 94, a throwback to the style of Sturges, made it fun. Perhaps the best film office is that of Philip Marlowe in the Raymond Chandler films: there's seldom anyone in it but himself. The most spectacular was that of Alfred Abel in Metropolis. The saddest were the sterile offices visited by Aurélien Recoing in Time Out/L'Emploi du Temps, about a redundant executive who cannot face telling his family that he has lost his job.

Oh God!

Avery Corman's novel of God coming to Earth to ask a supermarket manager for help in promulgating his message was filmed in 1977 by Carl Reiner with the veteran comedian George Burns as the deity and was followed by two lacklustre sequels: Oh God! Book II, directed by Gilbert Cates in 1980, and Oh God! You Devil, directed by Paul Bogart from Andrew Bergman's script.

oil

and its procurement from the earth have been the subjects of a number of films including High Wide and Handsome 38, Boom Town 40, The Big Gusher 51, Tulsa 49, Thunder Bay 53, Lucy Gallant 55, Giant 56, The Houston Story 56, Maracaibo 58, Black Gold 60, Hellfighters 68, Oklahoma Crude 73, Waltz Across Texas 82 and The Stars Fell on Henrietta 95.

old age

on the screen has seldom been explored, and the commercial reasons for this are obvious. Among the serious studies are The Whisperers, with Edith Evans; Umberto D, with Carlo Battisti; The Shameless Old Lady, with Sylvie; Ikuru, with Takashi Shimura; The End of the Road, with Finlay Currie; I Never Sang for My Father, with Melvyn Douglas; Make Way for Tomorrow, with Beulah Bondi; Alive and Kicking, with Sybil Thorndike and Estelle Winwood; Kotch with Walter Matthau; Harry and Tonto with Art Carney; Tokyo Story with Chishu Ryu and Chieko Higashiyama; On Golden Pond with Henry Fonda and Katharine Hepburn; The Gin Game with Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn (a video version of their stage hit); The Whales of August with Bette Davis and Lillian Gish; and Driving Miss Daisy with Jessica Tandy and Morgan Freeman. Sentimentality crept in in Mr Belvedere Rings the Bell; and The Old Man and the Sea was merely pretentious.

There was an element of black comedy in the attitudes expressed towards the old people in Grapes of Wrath, Tobacco Road, and Nights of the Iguana; and more melodramatic caricatures were presented in The Lost Moment (Agnes Moorehead), The Queen of Spades (Edith Evans), Little Big Man (Dustin Hoffman), The Old Dark House (John Dudgeon) and Tatie Danielle (Tsilla Chelton). Fantasy crept in with Lost Horizon, in which the lamas grew incredibly old by natural processes, and The Man in Half Moon Street, in which Nils Asther was assisted by science. Cocoon used alien methods to rejuvenate the elderly. In After Schmidt, Jack Nicholson played a retired man with too much time on his hands.

Actors who have specialized in geriatric portraits include A. E. Matthews, Edie Martin, Clem Bevans, Andy Clyde, Maria Ouspenskaya, Jessie Ralph, Nancy Price and Adeline de Walt Reynolds, who did not become an actress until she was eighty. Perhaps the Screen's most delightful senior citizens were the capering Harbottle, played by Moore Marriott in Will Hay comedies, and Barry Fitzgerald in Broth of a Boy; the most horrific was Cathleen Nesbitt in Staircase; the most commercially successful were George Burns and Walter Matthau in The Sunshine Boys. Katie Johnson became a star at 78 in The Lady Killers: Ruth Gordon played capering old dames well into her 80s, and in Harold and Maude, when she was 75, played an 80-year-old who had an affair with an immature young boy. Gloria Stuart retired from acting in the mid 40s before returning in 1997 at the age of 87 to feature in Titanic as an elderly survivor, for which she received an Oscar nomination.

Stars who donned ageing make-up include Hope, Crosby and Lamour in Road to Utopia; Barbara Stanwyck in The Great Man's Lady; Tyrone Power in The Long Gray Line; Anna Neagle in Victoria the Great; Madeleine Carroll in The Fan; Gable and Shearer in Strange Interlude; Rosalind Russell and Alexander Knox in Sister Kenny; Joel McCrea in Buffalo Bill; Fredric March in The Adventures of Mark Twain; Dustin Hoffman in Little Big Man and Julianne Moore in The Hours. The most tasteless treatment of old age was surely that offered in The Ultimate Solution of Grace Quigley; the most graceful that of Going in Style.

Old Mother Riley.

The vociferous, anarchic Irish washerwoman was created by Arthur Lucan on the music halls and in many films, with daughter Kitty played by the resistible Kitty McShane, Lucan's wife. Most of the films were atrociously made but all of them made a sizeable profit from British provincial showings.

For a complete list, see Lucan, Arthur.

Oliver Twist.

Dickens's novel was filmed many times in the early silent period: in 1909 by Pathé, in 1910 by Vitagraph, in 1912 by an independent company with Nat C. Goodwin as Fagin. A famous American version of 1916 had Tully Marshall as Fagin and Marie Doro as Oliver; in 1922 the roles were played by Lon Chaneyand Jackie Coogan, and in 1933 by Irving Pichel and Dickie Moore. The definitive version so far, however, is the British one directed by David Lean in 1948, with John Howard Davies in the title role. Alec Guinness's brilliant performance as Fagin caused a hold-up in American distribution as it was accused of anti-Semitism. Oliver!, a 1968 musical version directed by Carol Reed, with Ron Moody as Fagin and Mark Lester as Oliver, won six Oscars. Twisted, an updated version, set among New York's homosexuals, was made in 1996 by Seth Michael Donsky, with William Hickey in the role of a Fagin-like pimp. Roman Polanski simplified the novel, losing much of its incidental humour, in his version in 05, with Ben Kingsley as an effective Fagin and Barney Clark in the title role.

One Million B.C.

This highly unscientific account of the tribulations of primitive man has been filmed several times. The 1939 version featured Carole Landis and Victor Mature and was produced and directed by Hal Roach with assistance from D. W. Griffith, upon whose 1912 Man's Genesis it was based. The dialogue consisted largely of grunts and there were a variety of prehistoric monsters which were rather obviously normal reptiles crudely decorated and magnified. Hammer remade it in 1960 with Don Chaffey directing Raquel Welch and John Richardson; this time the monsters were plastic animations. A kind of sequel, When Dinosaurs Ruled the Earth, directed by Val Guest, came out in 1970, and Creatures the World Forgot followed in 1971. Another all-grunting caveman epic followed in 1981, with Quest for Fire, directed by Jean-Jacques Annaud. This, however, aimed for accuracy, with the cast using a prehistoric language created by novelist Anthony Burgess and gestures devised by zoologist Desmond Morris, and was consequently much less fun.

One Way Passage.

A popular tear-jerker of 1932, written and directed by Tay Garnett, about a dying beauty (Kay Francis) and a convicted murderer (William Powell) who meet on an ocean liner and fall in love while keeping their secrets, it was remade in 1940 by Edmund Goulding as Till We Meet Again, with Merle Oberon and George Brent.

opera

has never been a successful commodity on the screen, although many operas have been filmed as from the stalls, and appear to have succeeded with minority audiences. The occasional big opera production such as Porgy and Bess, Pagliacci or Carmen Jones, however, can expect to meet with only moderate success. Opera does, however, make an excellent background for thrillers (Charlie Chan at the Opera), farces (A Night at the Opera) and melodramas (Metropolitan). Opera singers who have succeeded as film stars include Grace Moore, Lily Pons, Mario Lanza, Tito Gobbi, Richard Tauber, Lauritz Melchior, Ezio Pinza and Gladys Swarthout. Oddly enough the singer Mary Garden was a big hit in silent films.

In a comprehensive reference guide, Opera on Screen, published in 1997, Ken Wlaschin lists the best operas on film as Francesco Rosi's Carmen 84, Ingmar Bergman's The Magic Flute 74, Franco Zeffirelli's La Traviata 82, Joseph Losey's Don Giovanni 78, Max Ophuls' The Bartered Bride 32, Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger's The Tales of Hoffman 51, and Gian Carlo Menotti's The Medium 51. The title of best operetta goes to Ernst Lubitsch's The Merry Widow 32. The worst opera on film is said to be Albert Hopkins's version of Faust 36, made in Britain and starring Anne Ziegler and Webster Booth.

orchestral conductors

have figured as leading men in Intermezzo, Interlude, Once More with Feeling, Unfaithfully Yours, Song of Russia, Break of Hearts, Prelude to Fame, Counterpoint; Charles Laughton cut a tragi-comic figure in Tales of Manhattan. Real conductors who have played dramatic roles in movies include Leopold Stokowski, José Iturbi and many swing and jazz figures such as Paul Whiteman, Tommy Dorsey, Henry Hall, Glenn Miller, Benny Goodman, Xavier Cugat.

oriental roles.

It never seems a good idea, but occidental actors have often been tempted by the wish to play Eastern. Among the less fortunate results are Lee J. Cobb in Anna and the King of Siam; John Wayne in The Conqueror; Katharine Hepburn in Dragon Seed; Alec Guinness in A Majority of One; Mickey Rooney in Breakfast at Tiffany's; George Raft in Limehouse Blues; Edward G. Robinson in The Hatchet Man. Those who more or less got away with it include Robert Donat in Inn of the Sixth Happiness; Boris Karloff in The Mask of Fu Manchu; and Luise Rainer and Paul Muni in The Good Earth.

Oswald the Rabbit.

Cute cartoon star who survived the transition from silent to talking pictures. Originated by Walt Disney, he was taken over by Universal Pictures and animator Walter Lantz from 1929 and appeared in many cartoons until 1938. He was voiced by Mickey Rooney and Bernice Hansen. His finest moment was an appearance in 1930 in The King of Jazz with bandleader Paul Whiteman.

Othello.

Shakespeare's tragedy of a jealous lover was filmed many times as a silent and on three notable occasions in more recent times. Orson Welles starred in and directed an uneven version in 1952, which was beset by financial problems and inspired a hilarious account of its travails, Put Money in Thy Purse, by Michael MacLiammoir, who played Iago. Sergei Yutkevich made a Russian version in 1955, starring Sergei Bondarchuk, and Laurence Olivier's astonishing National Theatre performance as a West Indian Othello, with Maggie Smith as Desdemona and Frank Finlay as Iago, was preserved in Stuart Burge's unsatisfactory screen version in 1965. Laurence Fishburne played the role in a much-cut and rewritten version in 1995, with Kenneth Branagh as Iago and Irene Jacob as Desdemona. A musical version, Catch My Soul, was filmed in 1972, and murderous actors playing the role of Othello have also turned up in Men Are Not Gods 36, directed by Walter Reisch and starring Sebastian Shaw, and A Double Life 47, directed by George Cukor and starring Ronald Colman. Basil Dearden's All Night Long 61 updated the play as a tale of a jealous jazz musician (Patrick McGoohan), and a western, Jubal 56, had Ernest Borgnine as a jealous rancher being urged to commit murder by Rod Steiger. O 01transferred the story to an American high school with teenage protagonists.

'Our Gang'.

A collection of child actors first gathered together in short slapstick comedies by producer Hal Roach in the mid-20s. They remained popular through the 30s and 40s, though the personnel of the team naturally changed. The originals included 'Fat' Joe Cobb, Jackie Condon, Mickey Daniels, Mary Kornman and Ernie 'Sunshine Sammy' Morrison, said to be the highest-paid member at $12 a week in 1927. Later cast members, joining in the late 20s, were Matthew 'Stymie' Beard, Norman 'Chubby' Chaney, Jackie Cooper, Johnny Downs and Bobby 'Wheezer' Hutchins, who were followed by, among others, Scotty Beckett, Tommy 'Butch' Bond, Dorothy De Borba, Mary Anne Jackson, Darla Hood, Dickie Moore, Carl 'Alfalfa' Switzer, Billy 'Buckwheat' Thomas and Spanky McFarland, who became leader of the gang in the early 30s. Roach sold the series to MGM in 1938 and production continued until 1944. Many of Roach's Our Gang shorts have appeared on television and have been released on video under the title 'The Little Rascals', since MGM hold copyright in the original name. One, Bored of Education, won an Oscar in 1936 and a feature, General Spanky, directed by Fred Newmeyer, was made in 1938. More than 90 of their short films were restored for television showing in the 90s, and Steven Spielberg produced a new feature film, The Little Rascals, based on the series, in 1994, directed by Penelope Spheeris.

Book 1977: Our Gang by Leonard Maltin.

painters

have frequently had their lives glamorized to provide film-makers with drama to counterpoint art. Among the most notable are Charles Laughton as Rembrandt, George Sanders as Gauguin in The Moon and Sixpence, José Ferrer as Toulouse-Lautrec in Moulin Rouge, Régis Royer as Toulouse-Lautrec in Lautrec, Anthony Franciosa as Goya in The Naked Maja, Kirk Douglas as Van Gogh and Anthony Quinn as Gauguin in Lust for Life, Tim Roth as Van Gogh in Vincent and Theo, Jacques Dutronc as the dying artist in Van Gogh, Gérard Philipe as Modigliani in Montparnasse 19, Cecil Kellaway as Gainsborough in Kitty, Charlton Heston as Michelangelo in The Agony and the Ecstasy, Mel Ferrer as El Greco, Salma Hayek as Frida Kahlo in Frida 02, with Alfred Molina as Diego Rivera, and Andy Garcia in the title role in Modigliani 04, with Omid Djalili as Picasso and Dan Astilean as Diego Rivera.

The Paleface.

Bob Hope's western romp with Jane Russell as Calamity Jane, directed by Norman Z. McLeod in 1948, was followed by an even crazier extravaganza, Son of Paleface, which also featured Roy Rogers. In 1968 the original was revamped for Don Knotts as The Shakiest Gun in the West.

Paris

has usually figured in films as the centre of sophistication, romance and luxury: thus Ninotchka, I Met Him in Paris, The Last Time I Saw Paris, Innocents in Paris, April in Paris, How to Steal a Million, To Paris with Love, Paris When It Sizzles, A Certain Smile, Funny Face, Paris Holiday, Can Can, Parisienne, Paris Palace Hotel, Two for the Road and innumerable others. The bohemian aspect is another favourite, as depicted in An American in Paris, Latin Quarter, Paris Blues, What's New, Pussycat?, Svengali, French Cancan, Moulin Rouge, What a Way to Go, The Moon and Sixpence, etc. The tourists' Paris has provided a splendid backcloth for films as diverse as The Great Race, The Man on the Eiffel Tower, Charade, Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines, Zazie dans le Métro, Pig Across Paris, The Red Balloon, Father Brown, Take Her She's Mine, Dear Brigitte, Bon Voyage, and Paris Nous Appartient. French film-makers seem particularly fond of showing the city's seamy side in thrillers about vice, murder and prostitution: Quai de Grenelle, Quai des Orfèvres, Les Compagnes de la Nuit, Le Long des Trottoirs, Rififi, etc. René Clair has always had his own slightly fantastic view of Paris, from Paris Qui Dort through Sous les Toits de Paris, A Nous la Liberté, Le Million, Le Quatorze Juillet, and Porte des Lilas. Rouben Mamoulian recreated this vision in Love Me Tonight, and The Mad Woman of Chaillot lived in a city of similar nuances. Historical Paris has been recreated for The Hunchback of Notre Dame, The Scarlet Pimpernel, The Three Musketeers, Camille, A Tale of Two Cities, Marie Antoinette, So Long at the Fair and Les Enfants du Paradis; while Paris under fire in World War II was depicted in Is Paris Burning? As for Last Tango in Paris, its emphasis was hardly on the city.

parody

without satire was never prominent among film genres until the 70s, when the easy-going talents of such as Mel Brooks and Gene Wilder produced films such as Blazing Saddles, Sherlock Holmes' Smarter Brother, Young Frankenstein, Murder by Death, The Black Bird, The Big Bus, Phantom of the Paradise, High Anxiety and The Cheap Detective. The Zucker brothers and Jim Abrahams have made a speciality of the form with Kentucky Fried Movie, Airplane, The Naked Gun and their sequels, and Hot Shots! (Abrahams only). The Wayans brothers have made fun of rap-flavoured movies in Don't Be a Menace to South Central While Drinking Your Juice in the Hood, and horror in Scary Movie and its sequel. Short films in this vein are headed by Six-Sided Triangle, The Dove and Cry Wolf.

parties

in movies have often been wild, as for instance in The Wild Party, also The Party's Over, I'll Never Forget What's 'is Name, Breakfast at Tiffany's, I Love You Alice B. Toklas, The Impossible Years, Skidoo, Beyond the Valley of the Dolls, Camille 2000, The Pursuit of Happiness, The Party Crashers, and The Party itself, which started out sedately but finished with an elephant in the swimming pool. Some of the more amusing film parties, however, were better behaved, as in The Apartment, Only Two Can Play, All About Eve and Citizen Kane.

The Passing of the Third Floor Back.

Jerome K. Jerome's popular novel and play, about a Christ-like stranger who has a benign influence on the down-at-heel inhabitants of a boarding house, has been filmed twice. Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, who had a lasting success on stage in the role from 1908 ('Chr-r-rist! Will they never let me give up this bloody part?' he once exclaimed before going on as the saintly figure), starred in a silent film in 1918, two years after he had retired from the stage, and Conrad Veidt appeared in a version, also British, in 1935.

The Passing Parade.

A series of one-reel films, mostly historical cameos enacted in corners of MGM's great sets, devised and produced by John Nesbitt in the 30s and 40s.

Penrod.

Booth Tarkington's American boy character, in his mid-west small-town setting, was for many years a favourite Hollywood subject. Marshall Neilan directed Gordon Griffith in a 1922 version. In 1923 William Beaudine directed Ben Alexander in the role in Penrod and Sam, which was remade by Beaudine in 1931 with Leon Janney, and again by William McGann in 1937 with Billy Mauch. Mauch and his twin brother Bobby appeared in two sequels: Penrod's Double Trouble 38, directed by Lewis Seiler, and Penrod and His Twin Brother 38, directed by McGann. Two Doris Day musicals, On Moonlight Bay 51 and By the Light of the Silvery Moon 53, were also lightly based on the Tarkington stories: Penrod, unaccountably disguised as 'Wesley', was played by Billy Gray.

Pepe Le Pew.

Smooth, romantic French skunk, the star of 14 Warner Brothers cartoons. Based on Charles Boyer's Pepe Le Moko in Algiers, he was created by writer Michael Maltese and animator Chuck Jones and voiced by Mel Blanc.

Scent-Imental over You 47. For Scent-Imental Reasons (AA) 49. Scent-Imental Romeo 51. Cat's Bah 54. Heaven Scent 56. Really Scent 59. Who Scent You? 60. Louvre Come Back to Me 62, etc.

The Perils of Pauline.

Pearl White's famous 1914 serial was directed by Donald Mackenzie, co-starred Crane Wilbur, and concerned the heroine's evasion of attempts on her life by her dastardly guardian. The 1947 film of the same name was a lightly fictionalized biography of Pearl White, directed by George Marshall, with Betty Hutton in the title role. The 1967 film was vaguely based on the original serial, with Pamela Austin as the heroine, directed by Herbert Leonard and Joshua Shelley.

Perry Mason,

a crime-solving lawyer who wins all his cases, usually during a court-room cross-examination, was created by Erle Stanley Gardner in The Case of the Velvet Claws 33, the first of more than 80 novels in which he was the hero. On film, he has been played by Warren William, Ricardo Cortez and Donald Woods, but it was Raymond Burr who became closely identified with the character in the TV series of 245 hour-long episodes that ran 1957-66. Monte Markham took over the part in the unsuccessful The New Adventures of Perry Mason 73-74; then in 1985 Burr returned to the role in a continuing series of TV movies.

The Case of the Howling Dog 34. The Case of the Curious Bride 35. The Case of the Lucky Legs 35. The Case of the Velvet Claws 36. The Case of the Black Cat 36. The Case of the Stuttering Bishop 37. Perry Mason Returns (TV) 85. Perry Mason: The Case of the Notorious Nun (TV) 86. Perry Mason: The Case of the Lost Love (TV) 87. Perry Mason: The Case of the Lady in the Lake (TV) 88. Perry Mason: The Case of the All-Star Assassin (TV) 89. Perry Mason: The Case of the Ruthless Reporter (TV) 91. Oerry Mason: The Case of the Telltale Talk Show Host 93, etc.

Peyton Place.

The 1957 film version of Grace Metalious's novel started a fashion for small-town sex exposés on the screen, and was followed by a sequel, Return to Peyton Place, in 1961. A TV series of two half-hours a week followed in 1964 and proved so popular that in 1965 it was given three half-hours and lasted until 1969, bringing to public notice Mia Farrow and Ryan O'Neal.

The Phantom of the Opera.

Gaston Leroux's melodramatic tale of the embittered, disfigured composer who haunts the sewers beneath the Paris Opéra and takes a pretty young singer as his protégée has been filmed several times: in 1925 Rupert Julian directed a version with Lon Chaney and Mary Philbin; in 1943 Arthur Lubin directed Claude Rains and Susanna Foster; in 1962 came a British version, directed by Terence Fisher, with Herbert Lom and Heather Sears; in 1989 Dwight H. Little directed Robert Englund, better known as Freddy from A Nightmare on Elm Street, in a version set in London. Italian director Dario Argento filmed it in 1998, with an original touch: Julian Sands in the title role is neither masked or disfigured, though he was raised in the sewers by rats. In 1977 Brian DePalma made a rock version, Phantom of the Paradise, and there have been two TV movies, one in 1983 starring Maximilian Schell and Jane Seymour, and another in 1990, directed by Tony Richardson from a script by Arthur Kopit, with Charles Dance and Teri Polo. Andrew Lloyd-Webber's highly successful stage musical, which premiered in 1986, reached cinemas in 2004, with Gerard Butler as the phantom and Emily Rossum as Christine.

Philip Marlowe

was the weary but incorruptible private-eye creation of Raymond Chandler, treading the seamier streets of Los Angeles in a dogged hunt for suspects. On television he was played in a poor series by Phil Carey, on screen by Humphrey Bogart, Robert Montgomery, George Montgomery, Dick Powell, James Garner, Robert Mitchum and (very badly) by Elliott Gould. In 1983 he was portrayed in a British television series, Chandlertown, by Powers Boothe. He was played by James Caan in Poodle Springs (TV) 98.

The Pink Panther.

Blake Edwards' 1964 film of an unequal battle of wits between an aristocratic jewel thief (David Niven) and an accident-prone French policeman, Inspector Clouseau (Peter Sellers), spawned several sequels: A Shot in the Dark 64; Inspector Clouseau 68, in which Alan Arkin took the title role; The Return of the Pink Panther 74, which brought back Sellers; The Pink Panther Strikes Again 76; and Revenge of the Pink Panther 78. Sellers' widow, Lynne Frederick, objected to The Trail of the Pink Panther 82, which cobbled together outtakes of Sellers from earlier films and new linking material. It was followed by Curse of the Pink Panther 83, in which Ted Wass starred as the world's worst detective, and Son of the Pink Panther 93, with Italian comedian Robert Benigni in the title role, but neither was a success. Steve Martin took over the role in The Pink Panther 06.The animated credits of the original film, featuring a pink panther and Henry Mancini's catchy title song, inspired a long-running cartoon series, beginning with the Oscar-winning The Pink Phink 64, and a comic book that was published from 1971-84.

pirates

have regularly appeared on the screen. Stories with some claim to historical authenticity, or at least based on the exploits of a pirate who once lived, include Captain Blood (and its various sequels), The Black Swan, Morgan the Pirate, Seven Seas to Calais, Blackbeard the Pirate, Captain Kidd, The Buccaneer, and Anne of the Indies (a rare female pirate: one other was depicted in The Pirate Queen). Totally fictitious stories are of course headed by Treasure Island in its various versions; other swashbuckling yarns included The Sea Hawk, The Black Pirate, The Crimson Pirate, The Golden Hawk, Fair Wind to Java, A High Wind in Jamaica, Pirates of Tortuga, Yankee Buccaneer, The Spanish Main, Pirates of Tripoli, Devil Ship Pirates, Pirates of Blood River, Prince of Pirates, and Raiders of the Seven Seas. The only notable musical pirate was Gene Kelly in The Pirate; comic pirates are also rare, but they do include The Princess and the Pirate, Blackbeard's Ghost, Double Crossbones, The Dancing Pirate and Old Mother Riley's Jungle Treasure. 1983's Yellowbeard was a sad spoof of the genre. Pirates in 1985 didn't even seem to know whether it was a spoof or not. Hook 91 put the pirate captain of Peter Pan centre-galleon. Hook, in the person of Jason Isaacs, returned in a live-action version of Peter Pan 03. But the most successful pirate of modern films was Captain Jack Sparrow, as played by Johnny Depp, in Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl 03, Pirates of the Caribbean: Dead Man's Chest 06 and a third film expected in 07.

The Plainsman.

Cecil B. De Mille's 1937 western starred Gary Cooper as Wild Bill Hickok, James Ellison as Buffalo Bill, and Jean Arthur as Calamity Jane. It was poorly remade in 1966 with Don Murray, Guy Stockwell, and Abby Dalton.

Planet of the Apes.

Pierre Boulle's novel of an astronaut who lands on a planet where the humans have degenerated and the apes rule with wisdom was adapted by Paul Dehn and stylishly directed by Franklin Schaffner in 1967; Charlton Heston played the hero who discovers, in a twist at the end, that the planet is Earth, and John Chambers provided the splendidly flexible ape make-up. It spawned four sequels of increasing violence and decreasing interest: Beneath the Planet of the Apes 69; Escape from the Planet of the Apes 70; Conquest of the Planet of the Apes 72; and Battle for the Planet of the Apes 73. They were followed by a short-lived television series in 1974, and an animated series, Beyond the Planet of the Apes, in 1975-76. A big-budget remake came in 2001, directed by Tim Burton, with ape-specialist Rick Baker in charge of make-up.

plastic surgery

was long a staple of horror films, but improved techniques have made it a subject for 'woman's pictures' such as Ash Wednesday and Once is not Enough. Arsenic and Old Lace made a comedy point of it, and Seconds took it seriously. Other examples: Dark Passage, False Faces, A Woman's Face, Eyes without a Face, Johnny Handsome.

police

in the 40s and earlier were offered in British films only for our admiration; in the 50s they began to have human frailties; in the 60s began a trend that continued into the present century: many of them were shown, truthfully or not, to be corrupt. The Blue Lamp, The Long Arm and Gideon of Scotland Yard are only three of many of the first kind; Violent Playground one of the second; and The Strange Affair a corking example of the last. But the Z Cars series on British TV will long uphold the best traditions of the force ... as will Maigret for France.

American cops have always been tougher, but even so a gradual change can be traced through Naked City, The Big Heat, Detective Story, Shield for Murder, Experiment in Terror, Madigan, The Detective, The French Connection, Fuzz and The New Centurions.

TV series which have been influential include Dragnet 52-59 and 67-69, Naked City 58-62, 87th Precinct 61, M Squad 57-60, The Detectives 60-61, The Line-up 54-59, Hawk 66, The New Breed 61, Adam 12 68-75, Hawaii Five O 68-80, The Rookies 72, Police Story 73-77, Police Woman 74-76, Starsky and Hutch 75-78, Miami Vice 84-88, Hill Street Blues 81-87, NYPD Blue 93-, Homicide: Life on the Streets 93-99.

Comic policemen go right back to the Keystone Kops. Other examples: Will Hay in Ask a Policeman, George Formby in Spare a Copper, Norman Wisdom in On the Beat, Alastair Sim in Green for Danger, Peter Sellers in The Pink Panther, Lionel Jeffries in The Wrong Arm of the Law, 'Officer Krupke' in West Side Story, Donald McBride in Topper Returns, Dennis Hoey as Inspector Lestrade in the Sherlock Holmes films, Sidney James and crew in Carry On Constable, Laurel and Hardy in Midnight Patrol, Buster Keaton's cast in Cops, Charles Chaplin in Easy Street, the cast of Police Academy and, on TV, Car 54 Where are You?

politics,

as any exhibitor will tell you, is the kiss of death to a film as far as box office is concerned. Nevertheless many films with serious political themes have been made. Among those presenting biographies of actual political figures, the American ones include Young Mr Lincoln, Abe Lincoln in Illinois, Tennessee Johnson, The Man with Thirty Sons (Oliver Wendell Holmes), Magnificent Doll (Dolly Madison and Aaron Burr), The President's Lady (Andrew Jackson), Wilson, Teddy Roosevelt (in My Girl Tisa and others), Franklin Roosevelt (in Sunrise at Campobello), Beau James (Jimmy Walker) and John Kennedy (PT 109), JFK (Kennedy again), Thirteen Days (Kennedy and the Cuban missile crisis) and Nixon, while All the King's Men and A Lion Is in the Streets are clearly based on Huey Long, and there was a real-life original for the idealistic young senator from Wisconsin in Mr Smith Goes to Washington. Fictional presidencies have been involved in Gabriel over the White House, First Lady, The Tree of Liberty (The Howards of Virginia), Advise and Consent, The Manchurian Candidate, Seven Days in May, Dr Strangelove, Kisses for My President, and Fail Safe. Among the many films alleging political graft and corruption in the US are Mr Smith Goes to Washington, Confessions of a Nazi Spy, Louisiana Purchase, Alias Nick Beal, State of the Union, Li'l Abner, The Great McGinty, The Glass Key, Citizen Kane, All the King's Men, Bullets or Ballots, A Lion Is in the Streets, The Last Hurrah, The Best Man, The Senator was Indiscreet, The Candidate and The Contender, while Bulworth offered Warren Beatty as a senator who told the truth, however unpalatable. The witch-hunts of 1948 produced a series of right-wing melodramas like I Was a Communist for the FBI, I Married a Communist and My Son John ... a striking contrast to 1942, when Mission to Moscow could be made. In 1971 TV produced a four-hour thriller called Vanished about a president with doubtful motives. The mid-70s brought a number of TV drama-documentaries about political matters: Eleanor and Franklin, Collision Course (Truman and MacArthur), The Missiles of October, Fear On Trial, Tail Gunner Joe (McCarthy), Meeting at Potsdam.

The British House of Commons and its characters have been involved in many a film with Disraeli coming out as favourite. Pitt the Younger was impersonated by Robert Donat, and Charles James Fox by Robert Morley, in The Young Mr Pitt; Gladstone was played by Ralph Richardson in Khartoum, Malcolm Keen in Sixty Glorious Years and Stephen Murray in The Prime Minister; Cromwell by Richard Harris; Canning by John Mills and William Lamb by Jon Finch in Lady Caroline Lamb; while Ramsay MacDonald was allegedly pictured in Fame is the Spur. MPs were also the leading figures of the fictional No Love for Johnnie, Three Cases of Murder and The Rise and Rise of Michael Rimmer.

Political films from other countries abound; one might almost say that every Soviet film is political. But politics do not export well, so that for the life of Villa, Zapata, Juarez and Che Guevara we have to turn to glamorized Hollywood versions of the truth; ditto for Parnell, Richelieu and even Hitler. Lenin has been pictured in innumerable Soviet films, and Richard Burton starred in The Assassination of Trotsky.

That politics is not entirely a serious matter can be seen from the number of comedies about it. The best of them is the already mentioned State of the Union, but one can also instance the Don Camillo series, Old Mother Riley MP, Angelina MP, Dad Rudd MP, Louisiana Purchase, Kisses for My President, The Great Man Votes, Left Right and Centre, Vote for Huggett, The American President, Election and Dick.

Popeye.

Tough sailorman hero of over 250 cartoon shorts produced by Max Fleischer c. 1933-50. Other characters involved were girlfriend Olive Oyl and tough villain Bluto, against whose wiles Popeye fortified himself with tins of spinach. The films were so popular on TV that a newly-drawn series was produced c. 1959 by King Features – but the old vulgar panache was missing.

In 1980 Robert Altman directed a live-action version, but it was a sad affair.

Porky Pig.

Stammering, nervous pig whose cry of 'Th-th-th-th-that's all, folks' brought to an end many Warner Brothers cartoons. Created by Bob Clampett, for the first two years he was voiced by Joe Dougherty (who did stutter), after which Mel Blanc took over.

I Haven't Got a Hat 35. Gold Diggers of '49 36. Porky's Pet 36. Porky's Duck Hunt 37. The Case of the Stuttering Pig 37. Porky and Daffy 38. The Lone Stranger and Porky 39. Prehistoric Porky 40. Porky's Ant 41. My Favorite Duck 42. Swooner Crooner (AAN) 44. The Pest that Came to Dinner 48. Porky's Chops 49. Cracked Quack 52. Deduce, You Say 56. China Jones 59. Daffy's Inn Trouble 61, many others.

poverty

in America and Britain is rare enough now to be little discussed, but in the days when film-makers began to have a social conscience a number of films memorably examined the problem in different milieux. American hoboes and shanty-town dwellers were revealed in Sullivan's Travels, Hallelujah I'm a Bum, Man's Castle, My Man Godfrey, One More Spring; the rural poor were the subject of Our Daily Bread, The Grapes of Wrath, Tobacco Road. Hollywood's regretful gaze wandered to China for The Good Earth and for Tortilla Flat to Mexico, which was more memorably covered by Buñuel in Los Olvidados. Poverty in Italy was the subject of Bicycle Thieves, and in England of Love on the Dole, Doss House and The Whisperers.

priests

have been a godsend to film-makers. Most male stars have played them occasionally: the combination of masculine attractiveness and non-availability apparently works at the box office. Thus Frank Sinatra in The Miracle of the Bells; William Holden and Clifton Webb in Satan Never Sleeps; Bing Crosby in Going My Way, The Bells of St Mary's and Say One for Me; Richard Dix in The Christian; Pat O'Brien in a dozen films including Angels with Dirty Faces, The Fighting 69th and Fighting Father Dunne; ditto Spencer Tracy, in Boys' Town, San Francisco, The Devil at Four O'Clock, and others; George Arliss in Cardinal Richelieu; Don Murray in The Hoodlum Priest; Karl Malden in On the Waterfront and The Great Impostor; Pierre Fresnay in Monsieur Vincent; Claude Laydu in Diary of a Country Priest; Jean-Paul Belmondo in Leon Morin Priest; John Mills in The Singer Not the Song; Tom Tryon in The Cardinal; Gregory Peck in The Keys of the Kingdom; Geoffrey Bayldon in Sky West and Crooked; Richard Burton in Becket; David Warner in The Ballad of Cable Hogue; Ward Bond in The Quiet Man; Mickey Rooney in The Twinkle in God's Eye; Montgomery Clift in I Confess; Alec Guinness in Father Brown and The Prisoner; Trevor Howard in Ryan's Daughter; Donald Sutherland in Act of the Heart; and Marcello Mastroianni in The Priest's Wife.

Protestant priests included Anthony Quayle in Serious Charge; Richard Burton in The Sandpiper; Robert Donat in Lease of Life; Wilfred Lawson in Pastor Hall; Peter Sellers in Heavens Above; Richard Todd in A Man Called Peter; Fredric March in One Foot in Heaven; David Niven in The Bishop's Wife. Actors who have got to play pope include Anthony Quinn and John Gielgud in The Shoes of the Fisherman, Rod Steiger in A Man Called John, Paolo Stoppa in Becket and Rex Harrison in The Agony and the Ecstasy.

False priests were Humphrey Bogart in The Left Hand of God, Rod Steiger in No Way to Treat a Lady, Dennis Price in Kind Hearts and Coronets, and Peter Sellers in After the Fox; while priestly villains were Ralph Richardson in The Ghoul, George Arliss in Dr Syn (followed by Peter Cushing in Captain Clegg), Keenan Wynn in Johnny Concho, Cedric Hardwicke in The Hunchback of Notre Dame and Robert Mitchum in Night of the Hunter. Classifiable as fallen priests were Henry Fonda in The Fugitive, Richard Burton in Night of the Iguana, Max Von Sydow in Hawaii, Burt Lancaster in Elmer Gantry, Lars Hanson in The Scarlet Letter, and Pierre Fresnay in Le Défroqué and Dieu a Besoin des Hommes.

Priests came into their own again in a spate of diabolical thrillers: Max Von Sydow and Jason Miller in The Exorcist, Patrick Troughton in The Omen, Oliver Reed in The Devils. Other troubled priests have included Rod Steiger (and various successors) in The Amityville Horror series Christopher Reeve in Monsignor, and the protagonists of True Confessions.

The Prince and the Pauper.

Mark Twain's novel, about the young King Edward VI changing places with a street urchin who happens to be his double, has been a favourite with film-makers, though it has transferred unsatisfactorily to the screen so far. There were at least five silent versions before William Keighley made it into a moderate swashbuckler in 1937, starring Errol Flynn and with twins Billy and Bobby Mauch as the prince and the beggar-boy. Don Chaffey directed a dull television version for Disney in 1962 which was released in cinemas elsewhere with a cast headed by TV's Zorro, Guy Williams, and young Sean Scully in the title roles. (Disney also turned the tale into an animated short with Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck.) In 1977, Richard Fleischer directed a lacklustre version in the US retitled Crossed Swords, starring Oliver Reed and Raquel Welch, and with Mark Lester taking both roles. It was then updated and given a sex change in 1995 as It Takes Two, starring twins Mary-Kate and Ashley Olsen, Steve Guttenberg and Kirstie Alley. A British TV version, with Keith Michell as Henry VIII and Philip Sarson in the two roles, was shown in 1996.

prison films

have always had an audience, but did not reach their full potential until sound. Then and through the 30s, film-makers took us on a conducted tour of American prisons. The Big House, The Last Mile, I Was a Fugitive from ■ Chain Gang, Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing, Front Page Woman (with its gas chamber scene), Angels with Dirty Faces, San Quentin, Blackwell's Island, Each Dawn I Die, Invisible Stripes, King of Alcatraz, Prison Ship, Prison Doctor, Mutiny in the Big House and many others. During the war prison films were surpassed in excitement, but they came back with a bang in Brute Force, the toughest of them all, and White Heat. The 50s brought Behind the High Wall, Duffy of San Quentin, Riot in Cell Block Eleven, Inside the Walls of Folsom Prison, Black Tuesday, I Want to Live, Cell 2455 Death Row, and a remake of The Last Mile. Burt Lancaster appeared in the factual Bird Man of Alcatraz; and in the second half of the 60s the subject became popular again with The Brig, The Ceremony, Reprieve, Point Blank, The Dirty Dozen, Triple Cross, Riot, There was ■ Crooked Man, A Clockwork Orange and Fortune and Men's Eyes. It continued in the 80s and 90s with forgettable action movies, but also with such dramas as The Shawshank Redemption and The Green Mile.

British studios have produced few prison films until the realist wave of the 60s which brought with it The Criminal, The Pot Carriers, and the army prison film The Hill.

Unusual prisons were shown in Sullivan's Travels, Devil's Canyon, One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich, and Nevada Smith; while among the films poking fun at prison life are Up the River, Pardon Us (Laurel and Hardy), Convict 99 (Will Hay), Jailhouse Rock and Two-Way Stretch.

Prisons for women crop up quite regularly in such films as Prison without Bars, Caged (US), Caged (It.), Au Royaume des Cieux, Women's Prison, Girls behind Bars, So Evil So Young, The Weak and the Wicked, Yield to the Night, The Smashing Bird I Used to Know and Women in Chains (TV).

The Prisoner of Zenda.

At least four versions have been made of Anthony Hope's classic Ruritanian romance about a great impersonation, all in Hollywood: Rex Ingram directed a version in 1922 with Lewis Stone and Ramon Novarro; in 1937 John Cromwell directed Ronald Colman and Douglas Fairbanks Jnr in a version that was a model of its kind; Richard Thorpe made a mechanical scene-by-scene remake in 1952 with Stewart Granger and James Mason; in 1979 Peter Sellers appeared in an unsatisfactory half-humorous version by Dick Clement and Ian La Frenais. Comic variations on the story were included in The Great Race 65 and Royal Flash 75.

prisoners of war

were featured in many films after World War II. The British examples often made the camps seem almost too comfortable, despite the possibility of being shot while attempting to escape; this was perhaps because they were all filled with the same familiar faces. Albert RN, The Captive Heart, The Colditz Story, The Betrayal, Danger Within, Reach for the Sky and The Password is Courage all found humour in the situation at any rate; whereas the American counterparts, The Purple Heart, Prisoner of War, Stalag 17 and The Mackenzie Break saw the harsher side which doubtless existed. The co-production, The Bridge on the River Kwai, gave a mixed picture of a Japanese camp; Britain's Hammer horror studio then produced The Camp on Blood Island, a fictitious record of atrocity, followed some years later by The Secret of Blood Island. Meanwhile the British in The One That Got Away paid tribute to the one German to escape from a British camp; and more recently The Great Escape showed the Americans coming some way towards the British idea of how jolly life in a camp can be. The ultimate absurdity was reached by an American TV series, Hogan's Heroes, which has a camp almost entirely controlled by the prisoners. The best serious film about prisoners of war remains undoubtedly Renoir's La Grande Illusion, made in 1937; though King Rat in 1965 made a fair bid to reveal the squalor and futility of the life, as did The Empire of the Sun 87, from the perspective of a young boy. Comic adventure stories about the escape of POWs have included Very Important Person, The Secret War of Harry Frigg, Where Eagles Dare, Hannibal Brooks and Situation Hopeless but Not Serious.

Women's camps were shown in Two Thousand Women (GB 1944), Three Came Home (US 1950), A Town Like Alice (GB 1956) and Kapo (It. 1960).

Vietnam made a horrifying start to its quota of prisoner-of-war films with The Deer Hunter, and brought it to its nadir with Rambo: First Blood Part II.

private eyes:

see MYSTERY.

prizefighting:

see BOXING.

prophecy

has interested film-makers only occasionally, but at least two outstanding films have resulted: Metropolis and Things to Come. Just Imagine painted a light-hearted picture, and Seven Days in May was not too frightening about what might be happening politically a few years from now; but one hopes not to take too seriously the predictions in 1984, The Time Machine, Fahrenheit 451, Alphaville, When Worlds Collide, The World, the Flesh and the Devil, The War Game, Dr Strangelove, Punishment Park, Beyond the Time Barrier, No Blade of Grass, Barbarella, A Clockwork Orange, Planet of the Apes, Westworld, Futureworld, Logan's Run, Star Wars, The Final Programme, Death Race 2000, Soylent Green, The Ultimate Warrior, Robocop, Terminator 2, Strange Days (though that is already set in the past), The Fifth Element and 2001.

prostitutes

for many years could not be so labelled in Hollywood films, which featured a surprising number of 'café hostesses'. It was however fairly easy to spot the real profession of the various ladies who played Sadie Thompson in Rain, of Marlene Dietrich in Dishonoured and Shanghai Express, of Clara Bow in Call Her Savage, of Greta Garbo in Anna Christie, of Miriam Hopkins in Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde, of Tallulah Bankhead in Faithless, of Bette Davis in Of Human Bondage, of Vivien Leigh in Waterloo Bridge, and of Joan Bennett in Man Hunt, to name but a few. The French, who have always called a spade a spade, flaunted the calling in hundreds of films including Dedée D'Anvers, La Ronde, Le Plaisir, Boule de Suif, Le Long des Trottoirs, La Bonne Soupe, Adua et sa Compagnie and Les Compagnons de la Nuit; Italy chipped in with Mamma Roma and Japan with Street of Shame. In the 50s Britain moved into the field with surprising eagerness – every other movie seemed to feature Dora Bryan in a plastic mac – and there were several alleged exposés of Soho corruption under such titles as The Flesh is Weak, Passport to Shame and The World Ten Times Over. Hollywood half-heartedly followed with some double-talking second features about call girls – Why Girls Leave Home, Call Girl, Girls in the Night – and some 'medical case histories' such as The Three Faces of Eve, Girl of the Night. Around 1960 the floodgates opened, eased by the sensationally successful Greek comedy Never on Sunday (and some continental imitators like Always on Saturday and Every Night of the Week). Among English-speaking stars who have played prostitutes are Shirley Maclaine in Some Came Running and Irma La Douce, Sophia Loren in Lady L, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow, Marriage Italian Style, Boccaccio 70 and Man of La Mancha, Anna Karina in Vivre sa Vie, Lee Grant in Divorce American Style and The Balcony, Catherine Deneuve in Belle de Jour, Carroll Baker in Sylvia, Shirley Jones in Elmer Gantry, Nancy Kwan in The World of Suzie Wong, Elizabeth Taylor in Butterfield 8, Diane Cilento in Rattle of a Simple Man, Carol White in Poor Cow, Inger Stevens in Five Card Stud, Margot Kidder in Gaily, Gaily, Kitty Wynn in Panic in Needle Park, Jane Fonda in Klute, Julia Roberts in Pretty Woman. Brothels have been shown in Lady L, A Walk on the Wild Side, The Revolt of Mamie Stover, A House is not a Home, Ulysses, The Balcony, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, The Assassination Bureau, The Best House in London, Games That Lovers Play, The Reivers, Gaily, Gaily, and an increasing number of westerns. In Our Man Flint, girls were described as 'pleasure units'...

See also: COURTESANS.

psychology

is featured most prominently in American films – quite naturally since the United States is the home of the psychiatrist. However, one of the best serious psychological films, Mine Own Executioner, did come from Britain and showed the doctor to be more in need of help than the patient; while two other notable British films, Thunder Rock and Dead of Night, centred on the depiction of psychological states.

Although films about psychology can be firmly traced back to The Cabinet of Dr Caligari and Secrets of a Soul, the subject took its firmest hold in the middle of World War II, when so many people needed reassurance; the recounting of dreams to an analyst could even take the place of musical numbers in a romantic trifle like Lady in the Dark. Soon we were inundated with melodramas like Spellbound, The Dark Mirror and Possessed, in which the question to be answered was not so much who or how but why; and it wasn't until about 1950, with Harvey, that analysts could be laughed at; they were still being analysed in the 70s in such films as Taking Off. In the 50s the schizophrenic drama took on a new lease of life (The Three Faces of Eve, Lizzie, Vertigo), as did the tendency to guy individual psychiatrists while still claiming to respect the profession (Oh Men Oh Women, Mirage, A Fine Madness, The Group, What a Way to Go, Marriage of a Young Stockbroker, The Couch Trip). Of course, films were still made which took the whole matter with deadly seriousness, as in The Cobweb, The Mark, Captain Newman MD, The Third Secret and Pressure Point. John HUSTON's underrated film on the life of Freud may have been unlucky to arrive at a time of change: the fashion is now for case histories in which no solution is offered (Repulsion, Morgan, Cul-de-Sac) or psychological horror comics such as Psycho, Homicidal, and The Night Walker, while in Promise Her Anything we were finally shown a psychiatrist (Robert CUMMINGS) who doesn't believe in psychiatry. The subject turned romantic in 1991 with Barbra STREISAND as an analyst who falls in love with her patient's brother in The Prince of Tides, and sinister in What about Bob?, in which the patient drives the analyst crazy, the same year. In 1998 came Analyze This in which a psychiatrist is faced with a patient he'd rather avoid: a Mafia boss.
See also DREAMS; FANTASY; AMNESIA; CASE HISTORIES.

publicity

No right minded film-maker believes his own publicity ... but he surely hopes it works. The tag-line devised for a film can have a make-or-break effect on its box-office record. Seldom can such lines be claimed as an honest distillation of truth, and very often they hint at more sensations than can be found in the film to which they are attached. But for sheer ingenuity some are unbeatable, and a few have even passed into the language.

NB: In 1972 a New York magazine ran a competition, inviting readers to invent way-out and hilarious tag-lines for non-existent movies. The results were indeed hilarious, but not so way-out that one can't imagine them being used. Here are some of the winners:

Makes Myra Breckinridge look like Snow White!

It took guts to film. Have you the guts to see it?

There were four men in her life. One to love her. One to marry her. One to take care of her. And one to kill her...

They lived a lifetime in 24 crowded hours!

The picture that could change your life – or save it!

If you scoff at the powers of darkness, do not see this film alone!

The book they said could never be written has become the movie they said could never be filmed!

“ The Twenties:

The dangerous age for women is from three to seventy! – Adam's Rib (1922)

A photoplay of tempestuous love between a madcap English beauty and a bronzed Arab chief! – The Sheik

A cast of 125,000! – Ben Hur

The mightiest dramatic spectacle of all the ages! – The Ten Commandments (1923)

The epic of the American doughboy! – The Big Parade

A thrill a minute! A laugh a second! A comedy cyclone! – Feet First

Love of tender girlhood! Passionate deeds of heroes! A rushing, leaping drama of charm and excitement! – America

A thing of beauty is a joy forever... – Street Angel

The Thirties:

The knockout picture of the year! – The Champ

The most startling drama ever produced! – Strange Interlude

Mothered by an ape – he knew only the law of the jungle – to seize what he wanted! – Tarzan of the Apes

Strange Desires! Loves and hates and secret yearnings ... hidden in the shadows of a man's mind. – Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde

The picture that will make 1933 famous! – Gabriel over the White House

The dance-mad musical triumph of two continents! – The Gay Divorcee

The love affair that shook the world! – Cleopatra

The most glorious musical romance of all time! – One Night of Love

His love challenged the flames of revolution! – A Tale of Two Cities

Love as burning as Sahara's sands! – Under Two Flags

The march of time measured by a human heart – a mother's heart! – Cavalcade

Romance aflame through dangerous days and nights of terror! In a land where anything can happen – most of all to a beautiful girl alone! – Gunga Din

(in which the girl was very dispensable indeed)

The picture made behind locked doors! – Dr Cyclops

The strangest love a man has ever known! – Dracula

More sensational than her unforgettable father! – Dracula's Daughter

A love story that lived for three thousand years! – The Mummy

He's just as funny as his old man was fierce! – Son of Kong

Three centuries in the making! – A Midsummer Night's Dream

He plucked from the gutter a faded rose and made an immortal masterpiece! – The Life of Emile Zola

135 women – with men on their minds! – The Women

He treated her rough – and she loved it! – Red Dust

A story so momentous it required six Academy Award stars and a cast of 1,186 players! – Juarez

Only the rainbow can duplicate its brilliance! – The Adventures of Robin Hood

Don't pronounce it – see it! – Ninotchka

A monster in form but human in his desire for love! – Bride of Frankenstein

Boiling passions in the burning sands! – The Lost Patrol

Six sticks of dynamite that blasted his way to freedom – and awoke America's conscience! – I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang

The Forties:

No one is as good as Bette when she's bad! – In This Our Life

If she were yours, would you forgive? – The Unfaithful

The relentless drama of a woman driven to the depths of emotion by a craving beyond control! – The Lady Gambles

The thousands who have read the book will know why WE WILL NOT SELL ANY CHILDREN TICKETS to see this picture! – The Grapes of Wrath

Half men, half demons, warriors such as the world has never known – they lived with death and danger for the women who hungered for their love! – Northwest Passage

You can't keep a good monster down! – The Ghost of Frankenstein

A romantic gentleman by day – a love-mad beast by night! – Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde

The minx in mink with a yen for men! – Lady in the Dark

The immortal thriller... – Orpheus

How'd you like to tussle with Russell? – The Outlaw

Gable's back and Garson's got him! – Adventure

There never was a woman like... – Gilda

It tells ALL about those Brontë sisters! – Devotion

More thrilling than the deeds of man ... more beautiful than the love of woman ... more wonderful than the dreams of children! – The Jungle Book

The picture they were born for! – The Big Sleep

The picture that helped to win the war! – Mrs Miniver (reissue)

He's as fast on the draw as he is in the drawing room! – The Maltese Falcon

We're going to see Jennifer Jones AGAIN in... – The Song of Bernadette

The sum total of all human emotion! – Leave Her to Heaven

The truth about the Nazis from the cradle to the battlefront! – Hitler's Children

A peek into the other woman's male! – A Letter to Three Wives

She knows all about love potions and lovely motions! – I Married a Witch

Paramount proudly brings to the screens of America one of the three great love stories of all time! – To Each His Own

(which were the others?)

'I bought this woman for my own ... and I'll kill the man who touches her!' – Unconquered

A thousand miles of danger with a thousand thrills a mile! – Santa Fé Trail

168 minutes of breathless thrills and romance! – For Whom the Bell Tolls

The girl of the moment in the wonderful picture of America's hey! hey! day! – Margie

The kind of woman most men want – but shouldn't have! – Mildred Pierce

They had a date with fate in... – Casablanca

The flaming drama of a high-born beauty who blindly loved the most icy-hearted big shot gangland ever knew! – Johnny Eager

Whisper her name! – The Strange Love of Martha Ivers

A mouth like hers is just for kissing ... not for telling! – Nora Prentiss

She insulted her soul! – Dishonored Lady

She's got the biggest six-shooters in the west! – The Beautiful Blonde from Bashful Bend

The private lady of a public enemy! – The Damned Don't Cry

It was the look in her eyes that did it! How could he know it meant murder? – The Woman in the Window

A love story every woman would die a thousand deaths to live! – Jane Eyre

'The men in her life sometimes lived to regret it!' – Temptation

The Fifties:

Greater than IVANHOE! – Julius Caesar

First they moved (1895)! Then they talked (1927)! Now they smell! – Scent of Mystery

The butler did it! He made every lady in the house oh so very happy! – My Man Godfrey

Sing, Judy! Dance, Judy! The world is waiting for your sunshine! – A Star Is Born

Even in the first wild joy of her arms, he realized that she would be ... an unfit mother! – Because of You

A lion in your lap! – Bwana Devil

(the first 3-D film)

In making this film, MGM feel privileged to add something of permanent value to the cultural treasure house of mankind... – Quo Vadis

Ancient Rome is going to the dogs, Robert Taylor is going to the lions, and Peter Ustinov is going crazy! – Quo Vadis (revived for TV in the 70s)

You have never really seen Gregory Peck until you see him in CinemaScope! – Night People

We didn't say nice people, we said – Night People

Their story is not in the history books. It has never been seen on the screen – until now! – Désirée

A hard cop and a soft dame! – The Big Heat

A completely new experience between men and women! – The Men

(about paraplegics)

He faced a decision that someday may be yours to make! – Ransom

(the hero's son was kidnapped)

The colossus who conquered the world!

The most colossal motion picture of all time! – Alexander the Great

When the hands point straight up ... the excitement starts! – High Noon

That streetcar man has a new desire! – The Wild One

Her treachery stained every stone of the pyramid! – Land of the Pharaohs

The supreme screen achievement of our time! – Salome

Of what a girl did ... what a boy did ... of ecstasy and revenge! – East of Eden

If a woman answers ... hang on for dear life! – Dial M For Murder

Body of a boy! Mind of a monster! Soul of an unearthly thing! – I Was a Teenage Frankenstein

The story of a family's ugly secret and the stark moment that thrust their private lives into public view! – Written on the Wind

'She was too hungry for love to care where she found it!' – The Female on the Beach

The Sixties:

If you miss the first five minutes you miss one suicide, two executions, one seduction and the key to the plot! – The Kremlin Letter

The motion picture with something to offend everybody! – The Loved One

Beware the beat of the cloth-wrapped feet! – The Mummy's Shroud

The world's most uncovered undercover agent! – Fathom

Don't give away the ending – it's the only one we have! – Psycho

The birds is coming! – The Birds

Every time a woman turns her face away because she's tired or unwilling, there's someone waiting like me... – The Dark at the Top of the Stairs

The hot line suspense comedy! – Dr Strangelove

A thousand thrills ... and Hayley Mills! – In Search of the Castaways

A picture that goes beyond what men think about – because no man ever thought about it in quite this way! – Eight and a Half

You may not believe in ghosts, but you cannot deny terror... – The Haunting

There are many kinds of love, but are there any without guilt? – Five Finger Exercise

You can expect the unexpected! – Charade

Now ... add a motion picture to the wonders of the world! – Taras Bulba

One man ... three women ... one night! – The Night of the Iguana

You'll laugh your pants off! – Laurel and Hardy's Laughing Twenties

£10,000 if you die of fright! – Macabre

The picture with the fear flasher and the horror horn! – Chamber of Horrors

Meet the girls with the thermo-nuclear navels! The most titillating time bombs you've ever been tempted to trigger! – Dr Goldfoot and the Girl Bombs

Keep the children home! And if you're squeamish, stay home with them! – Witchfinder General

A side of life you never expected to see on the screen! – Walk on the Wild Side

You are cordially invited to George and Martha's for an evening of fun and games! – Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?

Why the crazy title? If we told you, you'd only laugh! – The Russians are Coming, The Russians are Coming

Every father's daughter is a virgin! – Goodbye Columbus

They're young ... they're in love ... and they kill people. – Bonnie and Clyde

'What we've got here is a failure to communicate.' – Cool Hand Luke

The big comedy of nineteen-sexty-sex! – Boeing Boeing

He is a shy schoolmaster. She is a music hall star. They marry and immediately have 283 children ... all boys! – Goodbye Mr Chips

The Seventies:

Love means never having to say you're sorry... – Love Story

Hope never dies for a man with a good dirty mind! – Hoffman

The story of a homosexual who married a nymphomaniac! – The Music Lovers

Like the act of love, this film must be experienced from beginning to end... – The Sailor Who Fell from Grace with the Sea

They stand side by side. Young and old. Rich and poor. They gather together for a single purpose. Survival. – The Seagull

We don't love – we just make love. And damn little of that! – The Happy Ending

She gave away secrets to one side and her heart to the other! – Darling Lili

For the price of a movie you'll feel like a million! – The Sunshine Boys

The damnedest thing you ever saw. – Nashville

1953 was a good year for leaving home. – Next Stop Greenwich Village

The epic love story in which everybody has a great role and a big part. – Joseph Andrews

You have nothing to lose but your mind. – Asylum

A degenerate film with dignity! – Inserts

In space no one can hear you scream. – Alien

We are not alone. – Close Encounters of the Third Kind

Just when you thought it was safe to go back into the water. – Jaws 2

It was a line which spawned such imitations as:

Now you're not safe OUT of the water. – Piranha II – Flying Killers

Just when you thought it was safe to go back into the departure lounge. – Airplane II

Just when he thought it was safe to go back into the water. – 10

The Eighties:

He was D. H. Lawrence. She was his Lady Chatterley. Their extraordinary romance was more tempestuous than any he wrote. – Priest of Love

The film where you hiss the villain and cheer the hero. – The Legend of the Lone Ranger

As brutal, beautiful, vicious and vast as America itself! – Heaven's Gate

Breaking out is impossible. Breaking in is insane! – Escape from New York

The most exciting pair in the jungle! – Tarzan the Ape-Man (starring Bo Derek)

From the very beginning, they knew they'd be friends to the very end. What they didn't count on was everything in between. – Rich and Famous

The last word about the first time. – Losin' It

To the valley of beauty came the shadow of death! – Deadly Blessing

Every great love leaves its mark. – Tattoo

The third dimension is terror. – Jaws 3-D

It's 22 years later. And Norman Bates is coming home. – Psycho II

Trust me, I'm a doctor. – Shock Treatment

(a line that turned up a decade later for Paper Mask)

The good news is Jonathan's having his first affair. The bad news is she's his roommate's mother. – Class

I'd been shot so many times you could use my shirt as a tea strainer. – Dead Men Don't Wear Plaid

Forged by a god. Foretold by a wizard. Found by a King. – Excalibur

What they wanted most wasn't on the menu. – Diner

He is afraid. He is totally alone. He is 3 million light years from home. – E.T. – the Extraterrestrial

She was the woman of Allen's dreams. She had large dark eyes, a beautiful smile and a great pair of fins. – Splash

When the going gets tough, the tough get going! – Jewel of the Nile

They left for war as boys, never to return as men. – All Quiet on the Western Front

The tenant in room seven is very small, very twisted and very mad. – Basket Case

Be afraid. Be very afraid. – The Fly

When he pours, he reigns. – Cocktail

Just when he was ready for mid-life crisis, something unexpected came up. Puberty. – Vice Versa

Dying is easy. Comedy is hard. – Punchline

Somewhere under the sea and beyond your imagination is an adventure in fantasy. – The Little Mermaid

Can two friends sleep together and still love each other in the morning? – When Harry Met Sally

The Nineties:

Their love was as dangerous as the secrets they kept. – The Russia House

Paul Sheldon used to write for a living ... Now he's writing to stay alive. – Misery

There was a time when the only way to uphold justice was to break the law. – Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves

He's coming to town with a few days to kill. – Predator 2

Having a wonderful time. Wish I were here. – Postcards from the Edge

Eight legs, two fangs and an attitude. – Arachnophobia

Once in a lifetime comes a motion picture that makes you feel like falling in love all over again. This is not that picture. – The War of the Roses

How many times can you die for love? – Dead Again

There is nothing in the dark that isn't there in the light. Except fear. – Cape Fear

He'd be the perfect criminal if he wasn't the perfect cop. – Deep Cover

He was a man who couldn't care less ... until he met a man who couldn't care more. – City of Joy

The fountain of youth. The secret of eternal life. The power of an ancient potion. Sometimes it works ... Sometimes it doesn't. – Death Becomes Her

An adventure 65 million years in the making – Jurassic Park

63 million years ago they ruled the Earth. They're back, and it's no theme park! – Carnosaur

No one would take on his case ... until one man was willing to take on the system – Philadelphia

Just your average Girl meets Girl, Girl loses Girl, Girl hires Boy to get Girl back story. With a twist. – Three of Hearts

Stealing ... Cheating ... Killing ... Who says romance is dead? – True Romance

Houston, we have a problem. – Apollo 13

When intimacy is forbidden and passion is a sin, love is the most defiant crime of all – The Scarlet Letter

Leave your inhibitions at the door – Showgirls

Paul Edgecomb didn't believe in miracles. Until the day he met one. – The Green Mile

Warning: Exposing the Truth May Be Hazardous – The Insider

Not every gift is a blessing – The Sixth Sense

The Naughties:

What We Do In Life Echoes In Eternity. – Gladiator

No mercy. No shame. No sequel. – Scary Movie

We lied. – Scary Movie II

Killer Looks – American Psycho

There's a new reason to be afraid of the dark. – Pitch Black

He was the perfect husband until his one mistake followed them home – What Lies Beneath

He is the target of the most merciless family in New York. His own. – The Yards

What we do in life echoes in eternity. – Gladiator

A lifetime of change can happen in a single moment. – Monster's Ball

Do you hate spiders? Do you really hate spiders? Well they don't like you either. – Eight Legged Freaks

Love is here to stay... so is her family. – My Big Fat Greek Wedding

Growing up has nothing to do with age. – About a Boy

They're Already Here. – War of the Worlds

He didn't resist temptation. He pursued it. – The Libertine

Whatever You Do, Don't Answer The Phone. – When a Stranger Calls

put-downs

Waspish comments about other people always make good reading. Here are a few for starters:

❝Let's face it, Billy Wilder at work is two people - Mr Hyde and Mr Hyde. – Harry Kurnitz

I loved it - particularly the ideas he took from me. – D.W. Griffith on Citizen Kane

Jack Lemmon's Hildy Johnson is like a mortuary assistant having a wild fling. – New Yorker review of The Front Page

Mae West, playing a ghastly travesty of the travesty of womanhood she once played, has a Mae West face painted on the front of her head and moves to and fro like the Imperial Hotel during the 1923 Tokyo earthquake. – Joseph Morgenstern reviewing Myra Breckinridge

As a pompous middle-European intellectual Kenneth Mars mugs and drools in a manner that Jerry Lewis might find excessive. – Jay Cocks reviewing What's Up, Doc?

To insinuate that Leslie Bricusse's plodding score is merely dreadful would be an act of charity. – Rex Reed on Goodbye Mr Chips

Miss Martin, I notice, is playing Jean Arthur, a tendency which even Miss Arthur should learn to curb. – James Agee on True To Life

Mr Muni seemed intent on submerging himself so completely in make-up that he disappeared. – Bette Davis on Juarez

Which is he playing now? – W. Somerset Maugham while watching Spencer Tracy on the set of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde

Ryan O'Neal is so stiff and clumsy that he can't even manage a part requiring him to be stiff and clumsy. – Jay Cocks on What's Up Doc?

He has a gift for butchering good parts while managing to look intelligent, thus constituting Hollywood's abiding answer to the theatre. – Wilfred Sheed of Jack Lemmon

Just how garish her commonplace accent, squeakily shrill voice, and the childish petulance with which she delivers her lines are, my pen is neither scratchy nor leaky enough to convey. – John Simon of Elizabeth Taylor in The Taming of the Shrew

George Raft and Gary Cooper once played a scene in front of a cigar store, and it looked like the wooden Indian was overacting. – George Burns

Quiller.

Code name of a tough British secret agent, able to take any amount of torture, who is the hero of a series of novels by Adam Hall (Elleston Trevor). United Artists acquired the film rights to them in 1993 with the intention of producing a series of movies featuring what the company called 'the thinking man's James Bond'. A film of the first novel, The Quiller Memorandum, was directed by Michael Anderson in 1966 starring George Segal, and Michael Jayston played the role in a BBC TV series, Quiller, in 1975.

Quo Vadis?

The biblical epic by Henryk Sienkiewicz has been filmed three times: in Italy in 1912 and 1924, and in America in 1951. The third version, though less impressive as a product of its period than the others, was certainly the most spectacular. Robert Taylor and Deborah Kerr suffered under Peter Ustinov's Nero; Mervyn Le Roy directed.

radio,

being a competitor, was largely ignored by serious movies in the 30s, but radio stars featured in a number of musicals, especially the Big Broadcast series and the British Radio Parade, Music Hath Charms, etc.; in the 40s, a number of low-budgeters such as Reveille with Beverly had a radio background. Popular radio series to be filmed included Dr Christian, Fibber McGee and Molly, Charlie McCarthy Detective, The Great Gildersleeve, Hi Gang, Band Waggon and It's That Man Again. Mysteries set in radio stations included Who Done It and Death at Broadcasting House; Helter Skelter was a slapstick comedy set at the BBC. In the 70s, Play Misty for Me revolved around a disc jockey, as did the TV movie A Cry for Help; while WUSA was undoubtedly the most serious drama on the subject unless one counts the sharply satirical A Face in the Crowd and Talk Radio, highlighting the potential dangers of chat shows.

Raffles.

The sophisticated burglar who returns to crime to help an old friend was created by E. W. Hornung and has attracted the attentions of several suave leading men. There were half a dozen silent Raffles, including one from House Peters in 1925, directed by King Baggot; Ronald Colman played the role in 1930, and a shot-by-shot remake in 1939 starred David Niven.

railway stations

have provided a major setting for some memorable films including The Ghost Train, Doctor Zhivago, Knight without Armour, I'll Never Forget Whatshisname (with its white 'dream' station), Union Station, 3.10 to Yuma, Last Train from Madrid, Bhowani Junction, Northwest Frontier, 100 Rifles, The Mercenaries, Waterloo Road, Anna Karenina, Grand Central Station, Under the Clock, Brief Encounter, Oh Mr Porter, The Titfield Thunderbolt, High Noon, In the Heat of the Night and The Train ... while Orson Welles made The Trial almost entirely within a deserted station, and de Sica made Indiscretion among the crowds of Rome's Stazione Termini.

See also: TRAINS.

rain

has been put to many uses by film scenarists. It was the direct cause of dramatic situations in Rebecca (a shower flattened Joan Fontaine's hair-do just as she arrived at Manderley); in The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner (it revealed evidence which the hero was trying to conceal); in Floods of Fear (it permitted the escape of three convicts, one of whom then rescued the heroine); in The African Queen (it raised the water level and so released the boat from the reeds which held it captive); in Desk Set (it persuaded Spencer Tracy to accept Katharine Hepburn's offer of hospitality); in Pygmalion (it caused the meeting of Higgins and Eliza); in Sands of the Kalahari (it flooded a pit in which Stuart Whitman was imprisoned and permitted his escape); in When Tomorrow Comes (it stranded Charles Boyer and Irene Dunne in a remote church for the night); and in many others. Two splendid symbolic uses were in Saraband for Dead Lovers (a raindrop made a stained-glass madonna appear to weep at the ill-fated wedding) and The Stars Look Down (as the hero and heroine make love, two raindrops intertwine on the window-pane).

Rain has often been used symbolically as a relief from tension and heat, in films as diverse as Night of the Iguana, Passport to Pimlico, The Long Hot Summer, Key Largo, Twelve Angry Men, Black Narcissus, The Good Earth and Rain itself. It has provided a solemn or ominous background in Psycho, Term of Trial, Rashomon, It Always Rains on Sunday, Room at the Top, The Robe, Fires on the Plain, The Collector and many others. It has a particularly depressing effect at a funeral, as was shown in The Glass Key and Our Town; or at an assassination (Foreign Correspondent). But it can also be used for farcical purposes: in Three Men in a Boat, The Silencers, Fraternally Yours, Oh Mr Porter, etc. And it can provide a comedy twist, as at the end of The Lady Vanishes, when the English travellers so eager to get back to the test match find that rain has stopped play.

It can produce a decorative effect (Les Parapluies de Cherbourg, Miracle in the Rain, Breakfast at Tiffany's). It can be spectacular (the climax of Journey into Fear, the glistening streets in The Third Man, the downpours in The Rains Came, and Pather Panchali, the battles in the rain in Tower of London and Seven Samurai). And it can provide a cue for song: 'Isn't it a Lovely Day to be Caught in the Rain' in Top Hat, the title songs of Singin' in the Rain and Stormy Weather, 'The Rain in Spain' in My Fair Lady, 'April Showers' in The Jolson Story, 'Little April Shower' in Bambi. In fact, it seems to be by far the most versatile of all the film-maker's effects. It has even featured as the subject of a disaster movie, Hard Rain 98, in which a town was flooded, and its cast, wet, no longer seemed stars.

Rain.

Somerset Maugham's story of the conflict between a missionary and a woman of highly doubtful character has been filmed three times in Hollywood: in 1928 with Gloria Swanson and Lionel Barrymore; in 1932 with Joan Crawford and Walter Huston; and in 1957 (as Miss Sadie Thompson) with Rita Hayworth and José Ferrer. In each case the Production Code made you guess what the lady's actual profession was.

The Rains Came.

Louis Broomfield's novel of the high days of British India was filmed in 1939 with Myrna Loy and Tyrone Power, and, as The Rains of Ranchipur, in 1955 with Lana Turner and Richard Burton.

Rambo.

The disgruntled former Green Beret has been played by Sylvester Stallone in three increasingly violent films: First Blood 82, directed by Ted Kotcheff; Rambo: First Blood Part II 85, directed by George P. Cosmatos, in which he had become a comic-strip hero, destroying enemies in Vietnam; and Rambo III 88, directed by Peter MacDonald, in which he continued as a one-man army, this time defeating the Russians in Afghanistan, most of which he blew up. The series was spoofed in Hot Shots! Part Deux 93, with Charlie Sheen as a dim mercenary with big muscles and bigger guns.

Ramona.

Helen Hunt Jackson's novel about an Indian girl was filmed four times: by D. W. Griffith in 1910, with Mary Pickford and Henry B. Walthall; by Donald Crisp in 1916, with Adda Gleason and Monroe Salisbury; by Edwin Carewe in 1928, with Dolores del Rio and Warner Baxter; and by Henry King in 1936, with Loretta Young and Don Ameche.

The Range Busters.

A series of 'B' westerns produced for seven years from 1940 by Monogram Pictures in imitation of Republic's Three Mesquiteers series. It starred two of the Mesquiteers, Ray 'Crash' Corrigan and Mex Terhune, together with John 'Dusty' King. Many were directed by S. Roy Luby, who churned out dozens of westerns from the mid-30s to the late 40s.

rape

was virtually unmentionable in English-speaking films until Warner's got away with it in Johnny Belinda in 1947. Then it became the centre of attention in Outrage, Peyton Place, Wicked as They Come, A Streetcar Named Desire, Last Train from Gun Hill, Two Women, To Kill a Mockingbird, Satan Never Sleeps, Shock Corridor, Assault, Trial, Five Gates to Hell, The Chapman Report, The Mark, Anatomy of a Murder, Town without Pity, The Party's Over (in which the victim proved to be dead), and The Penthouse. In Waterhole Three James Coburn, accused of the crime, shrugged it off as 'assault with a friendly weapon'. There was much talk of rape in The Knack and Lock Up Your Daughters, threat of rape in Experiment in Terror and Cape Fear, and an accusation of rape in Term of Trial. Foreign language films on the subject have included Rashomon, The Virgin Spring, Two Women, Viridiana and the Greek Amok. In 70s films it became too commonplace to be worth mentioning, outstanding fictional instances being Straw Dogs, A Clockwork Orange, Lipstick, and Death Wish, with Cry Rape and A Case of Rape adopting a documentary treatment. The Accused 88 caused controversy with its depiction of the gang-rape of a provocative woman and subsequent court-room trial – it also brought an Oscar for Jodie Foster as best actress. And some cheered in Thelma & Louise 91 when a would-be rapist was shot and killed.

Rashomon.

Akira Kurosawa's 1951 masterpiece, featuring the different accounts by four people concerned in a moment of violence, re-opened Western cinemas to Japanese films and established his international reputation. It was remade by Martin Ritt in 1964 and given a western setting, starring Paul Newman as a Mexican bandit.

The Rat

began as a film script written by Ivor Novello for director Adrian Brunel, following their success in the film The Man without Desire. When Brunel was unable to finance it, Novello collaborated with actress Constance Collier to turn it into a lurid melodrama, which they wrote under the pseudonym of David L'Estrange and subtitled 'The Story of an Apache'. It starred Novello as Pierre Boucheron, a French crook who is reformed by the love of a poor but honest woman. It was a surprising success on the stage, as was the subsequent film in 1925, which was followed by two sequels: The Triumph of the Rat 26, in which he goes from riches to rags, and The Return of the Rat 28, in which he is suspected of murdering his philandering wife. In 1937, Herbert Wilcox directed a remake of the original, starring Anton Walbrook, but it failed to repeat its earlier success.

Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm.

The American children's classic by Kate Douglas Wiggin was filmed in 1917 by Marshall Neilan, with Mary Pickford; in 1932 by Alfred Santell, with Marian Nixon; and in 1938, much changed, by Allan Dwan, with Shirley Temple.

Red Dust.

This rubber-plantation drama by Wilson Collinson is remembered for the electric teaming of Clark Gable and Jean Harlow in the 1932 version, directed by Victor Fleming, and for the scene in which Harlow takes a primitive shower. It was remade in 1939 as Congo Maisie, with Ann Sothern and John Carroll; and in 1954 Gable himself appeared opposite Ava Gardner in a lavish restyling under the title Mogambo, directed by John Ford.

Red Indians (native Americans),

it is generally thought, were always portrayed as villains on screen until Broken Arrow in 1950, when Jeff Chandler played Cochise. But in fact there were many silent films in which Indians were not only on the side of right but the leading figures in the story. In 1911 one finds titles like An Indian Wife's Devotion, A Squaw's Love, Red-Wing's Gratitude; Ramona had already been made once and was to survive three remakes; 1913 brought Heart of an Indian and The Squaw Man. Later there were versions of In the Days of Buffalo Bill 21, The Vanishing American 25, and Redskin 28. It seems to have been sound that made the Indians villainous, and kept them that way for twenty-two years.

After Broken Arrow there was a deluge of pro-Indian films. Devil's Doorway, Across the Wide Missouri, The Savage, Arrowhead, The Big Sky, Apache, Taza – Son of Cochise, Chief Crazy Horse, Sitting Bull, White Feather, Navajo, Hiawatha, all came within four years. There were even biopics of modern Indians: The Outsider (Ira Hayes) and Jim Thorpe, All American. In recent years the Indians have been slipping back into villainy: but the 60s brought Flaming Star, Cheyenne Autumn, Tell them Willie Boy is Here, A Man called Horse, Flap, Little Big Man, The Stalking Moon; and TV in 1966 boasted a series based on a Red Indian cop in New York (the name is Hawk) as well as comic Indians in F Troop; and Elvis Presley played a Red Indian hero in Stay Away Joe. In the 90s, Dances with Wolves established the Indians as heroes and the American cavalry as the villains.

Other whites who have played red include Boris Karloff in Tap Roots; Victor Mature in Chief Crazy Horse; Charlton Heston in The Savage; Burt Lancaster in Apache; Paul Newman in Hombre; Robert Taylor in Devil's Doorway; Don Ameche in Ramona.

- The Jacarillo tribe financed A Gunfight in 1971.

reincarnation

has seldom been seriously tackled in the cinema: The Search for Bridey Murphy, I've Lived Before and The Reincarnation of Peter Proud are almost the only examples. Many characters of farce and melodrama have thought they were reincarnated, including the hero of She and heroine of The Vengeance of She. The real thing happened to Oliver Hardy in The Flying Deuces (he came back as a horse); to a dog in You Never Can Tell (he came back as Dick Powell); and to the luckless heroine of The Bride and the Beast, who found that in a former existence she had been a gorilla. Reincarnation was also the basis of Here Comes Mr Jordan, and of The Mummy. A man came back as Debbie Reynolds in Goodbye Charlie, and in Quest for Love there were parallel love stories two centuries apart. In 1968 a version was made of Elmer Rice's The Adding Machine, with its celestial laundry for souls; and in 1970 there was even a musical on the subject, On a Clear Day You Can See Forever.

rejuvenation

is not a theme the cinema has frequently explored. She tried it several times with unhappy results, as did Laurel and Hardy in Dirty Work (Olly came back as a chimpanzee). The Man in Half Moon Street and Countess Dracula both kept young on the blood of others; Dorian Gray did it by keeping a picture of himself in the attic. Most successful were Lost Horizon's inhabitants of Shangri-La, but once the cold winds of the outside world blew they were done for. Rock Hudson had worse luck in Seconds. Cocoon introduced alien aid to staying young, although Cocoon: The Return showed that there was no permanent solution to the problems of age.

religion

has inspired film-makers from the beginning – as a commercial trump card. In the early years of the century it was the Italians who produced vast semi-biblical spectacles like Quo Vadis and Cabiria, but Hollywood was not slow to catch on, and producers soon found that religious shorts gave them extra prestige. There were several versions of From the Manger to the Cross; Griffith, in Judith of Bethulia and Intolerance, contributed his share; Ben Hur was the biggest spectacular of all; but it was Cecil B. de Mille in the 20s who brought the Bible to full commercial flower with The Ten Commandments and King of Kings. (His 1932 The Sign of the Cross, 1950 Samson and Delilah and 1956 remake of The Ten Commandments show that for him at least time continued to stand still.) In 1929, though Noah's Ark was spectacle pure and simple, Vidor's Hallelujah at least partially transmitted Negro religious fervour. In the 30s Hollywood was seeking fresh ways to combine religion with sentiment or spectacle, in The Cradle Song, Dante's Inferno, The Garden of Allah, The Green Light and Boys' Town. One result was a new characterization of priests as jolly good fellows: stars like Spencer Tracy and Pat O'Brien were eager to play them. Yet none had the quiet dignity of Rex Ingram as De Lawd in Green Pastures, a Negro version of the Scriptures.

The war naturally brought a religious revival. Every film set in England seemed to end with a service in a bombed church, and religious figures became big time in films like The Song of Bernadette, Going My Way, The Keys of the Kingdom and The Bells of St Mary's. Savage war films masqueraded under such titles as God Is My Co-Pilot and A Wing and a Prayer. And heaven was used as a background for light-hearted fantasy films about death and judgement day, such as Here Comes Mr Jordan, Heaven Can Wait, and The Horn Blows at Midnight. The only film of this period to question religion at all was the British Major Barbara: 'What price salvation now?'

In the cynical post-war years religion was at a low ebb. An expensive Joan of Arc in 1948 failed disastrously, and an attempt to bring God into our everyday life, The Next Voice You Hear, fared no better. A sincere performance by Robert Donat could not bring people to see Lease of Life. Indeed, the only religious films to break even at the box office were those with a direct Roman Catholic appeal, such as Monsieur Vincent and The Miracle of Fatima. True religion, to Hollywood, was out, and the Bible became once more a source book for a string of tawdry commercial epics: Quo Vadis, Salome, The Prodigal, The Robe, a remake of Ben Hur, Barabbas, The Silver Chalice, Sodom and Gomorrah and many cut-rate dubbed Italian spectacles of a similar kind (most with Hollywood stars). Occasionally a spark of sincerity would flash through, as in the otherwise dull David and Bathsheba; while small independent companies could produce interesting films like The First Legion. Towards the end of the 50s there were occasional attempts to see religion afresh: A Man Called Peter, The Nun's Story, Inn of the Sixth Happiness, Whistle Down the Wind. Otto Preminger, despite a 1957 failure with Saint Joan, tried again in 1963 with The Cardinal. In 1965 George Stevens unveiled The Greatest Story Ever Told, a tepid life of Jesus which found little box-office favour, being overtaken in some quarters by Pasolini's The Gospel According to St Matthew. 1966 brought the long-promised Italian-American epic known as The Bible: in fact it dealt only with the Book of Genesis, and that at such a dull pace and inordinate length that it is doubtful whether sequels will be called for. 1969 offered a drama of modern popes, The Shoes of the Fisherman, but it died. The most fashionable film interpretations of religion in the early 70s were the pop operas exemplified by Godspell and Jesus Christ Superstar; but in 1977 Lew Grade's mammoth six-hour Jesus of Nazareth, directed by Franco Zeffirelli, achieved record viewing figures and pointed to a benighted world's requirement to believe in something.

Martin Scorsese's The Last Temptation of Christ 88 focused on Jesus's self-doubts as he faced his crucifixion, while Michael Tolkin's The Rapture 91 dealt in fundamentalist terms with the end of the world, complete with the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse.

remakes in disguise.

Hollywood studios were famous for squeezing every drop of value from a literary property, even if it meant changing the locale, switching the sexes and generally bamboozling the audience, which hopefully would not get that I-have-been-here-before feeling until they were half-way home. Here are just a few movies which went through a change of title but used up the same old plot:

- Sentimental Journey; The Gift of Love
- Libelled Lady; Easy to Wed
- Here Comes Mr Jordan; Heaven Can Wait
- Love Is News; Sweet Rosie O'Grady; That Wonderful Urge
- The Bowery; Coney Island; Wabash Avenue
- The Greeks Had a Word for Them; Ladies in Love; Three Blind Mice; Moon over Miami; Three Little Girls in Blue; How to Marry a Millionaire; Three Coins in the Fountain; The Pleasure Seekers
- Kentucky; Down Argentine Way
- Folies Bergère; That Night in Rio; On the Riviera; On the Double
- The Front Page; His Girl Friday; Torrid Zone; Switching Channels
- Gunga Din; Sergeants Three
- My Favorite Wife; Move Over Darling
- Grand Hotel; Weekend at the Waldorf
- It Happened One Night; You Can't Run Away From It
- Tiger Shark; Slim; Manpower
- House of Strangers; Broken Lance
- High Sierra; I Died a Thousand Times
- 20,000 Years in Sing Sing; Castle on the Hudson
- Mystery of the Wax Museum; House of Wax
- One Way Passage; Till We Meet Again
- Bordertown; They Drive by Night
- Dangerous; Singapore Woman
- The Petrified Forest; Escape in the Desert
- Four Daughters; Young at Heart
- Dr Socrates; King of the Underworld
- The Butter and Egg Man; The Tenderfoot; Dance Charlie Dance; An Angel from Texas
- The Most Dangerous Game; A Game of Death; Run for the Sun
- The Kennel Murder Case; Calling Philo Vance
- The Letter; The Unfaithful
- The Mouthpiece; The Man Who Talked Too Much; Illegal
- Oil for the Lamps of China; Law of the Tropics
- The Sea Wolf; Wolf Larsen; Barricade; Wolf of the Seven Seas
- Kid Galahad; The Wagons Roll at Night
- Casablanca; Far East
- The Man Who Played God; Sincerely Yours
- The Millionaire; That Way with Women
- The Miracle of Morgan's Creek; Rock-a-bye Baby
- Anna and the King of Siam; The King and I
- London After Midnight; Mark of the Vampire
- Love Affair; An Affair to Remember
- Morning Glory; Stage Struck
- The Lady Eve; The Birds and the Bees
- The Marriage Circle; One Hour with You
- Nothing Sacred; Living It Up
- Dark Victory; Stolen Hours
- One Sunday Afternoon; The Strawberry Blonde
- A Slight Case of Murder; Stop! You're Killing Me
- The Paleface; The Shakiest Gun in the West
- Le Jour Se Lève; The Long Night
- The Women; The Opposite Sex
- The Asphalt Jungle; The Badlanders; Cairo; Cool Breeze
- The Four Feathers; Storm over the Nile
- It Started with Eve; I'd Rather Be Rich
- Rome Express; Sleeping Car to Trieste
- This Gun for Hire; Short Cut to Hell
- The Informer; Uptight
- Against All Flags; The King's Pirate
- Red Dust; Congo Maisie; Mogambo
- An American Tragedy; A Place in the Sun
- Outward Bound; Between Two Worlds
- Ebb Tide; Adventure Island
- Ah, Wilderness; Summer Holiday

reporters

in American films have since the beginning of the sound era been pictured as trench-coated, trilby-hatted, good-looking guys with a smart line in wisecracks. Among the outstanding examples of this tradition are Pat O'Brien in The Front Page, Robert Williams in Platinum Blonde, Clark Gable in It Happened One Night and Teacher's Pet, Fredric March in Nothing Sacred, Lee Tracy in Doctor X, Joel McCrea in Foreign Correspondent, David Janssen in The Green Berets, James Stewart in The Philadelphia Story, Lynne Overman in Roxie Hart, Gene Kelly in Inherit the Wind; while on the distaff side one can't overlook Glenda Farrell in The Mystery of the Wax Museum, Bette Davis in Front Page Woman, Jean Arthur in Mr Deeds Goes to Town, Rosalind Russell in His Girl Friday or Barbara Stanwyck in Meet John Doe. Presented somewhat more realistically were William Alland in Citizen Kane, James Stewart in Call Northside 777, Burgess Meredith as Ernie Pyle in The Story of G.I. Joe, Kirk Douglas in Ace in the Hole, Arthur Kennedy in Lawrence of Arabia. and David Strathairn as Edward J. Murrow in Good Night, and Good Luck. The apotheosis of the reporter as hero was All the President's Men, with Robert Redford and Dustin Hoffman as Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein of The Washington Post investigating Watergate.

British films have used their newshawks more flippantly, especially in the case of This Man Is News with Barry K. Barnes and A Run for Your Money with Alec Guinness. Just as well; for Edward Judd in The Day the Earth Caught Fire, Jack Hawkins in Front Page Story, Sidney James in Quatermass II and Norman Wooland in All Over the Town were a pretty dull lot, and Colin Gordon's imitation of the American model in Escapade was hardly convincing. Television series, of course, have found the reporter a convenient peg, as in the British Deadline Midnight and the American Saints and Sinners and The Reporter.

The Ring.

The successful Japanese technological horror movie, about a journalist investigating why people die a week after watching a video recording of a TV broadcast, spawned a sequel, a prequel and a Hollywood re-make. The Japanese films, directed by Hideo Nakata, were based on a series of novels by Koji Suzuki which were first dramatised for TV in the mid 90s.

Ringu 98. Ringu 2 99 Ringu 0: Basudei 01. The Ring (US) 02.

The Ringer.

Edgar Wallace's thriller about a vengeful master of disguise has been filmed three times in Britain: as a silent directed by Arthur Maude in 1928, starring Leslie Faber and Lawson Butt; and two versions directed by Walter Forde: the first with Gordon Harker and Franklin Dyall in 1931; and, under the title The Gaunt Stranger, with Sonnie Hale and Wilfred Lawson in 1938.

road movie.

A genre in which the main characters are on the move, usually in a car. The journey is more important than the destination, and puts its protagonists among unfamiliar people and situations. The form was best defined in a novel, Jack Kerouac's On the Road (1957), which, with its travellers looking for some kind of fulfilment, has influenced many subsequent movies. The form, in which cars often seem to be the main characters and the emphasis is on action, had an immediate appeal to the young of America and, to an extent, replaced the western as popular entertainment. Sub-genres that grew out of road movies include car race movies, such as The Cannonball Run and Deathrace 2000, the biker movies of the 60s, which reached a peak with Easy Rider 69, and the young outlaw movies, such as Badlands, Natural Born Killers, Love and a .45. The emphasis was on male bonding until the 90s, when Thelma and Louise, The Adventures of Priscilla, Queen of the Desert and The Trip added feminist and gay interest. The genre has continued with comedies such as Road Trip 00 and Joe Dirt 01, a touch of horror, as in Snakeskin 01, a New Zealand movie in the American idiom, and a little social comment (And Your Mother too/Y Tu Mama Tambien 01).

Book: 1982, Road Movies by Mark Williams.

Road Runner.

Long-necked bird who whizzes along Arizona desert roads with a cry of 'Beep! Beep!' and gets the better of its pursuer Wile E. Coyote in Warner Brothers' Looney Tunes and Merrie Melodies cartoons. Its creators were Chuck Jones and writer Michael Maltese and its beep was supplied by the ubiquitous Mel Blanc.

Fast and Furry-Ous 49. Beep, Beep 52. There They Go-Go-Go 56. Fastest with the Mostest 60. Beep Prepared (AAN) 61. Tired and Feathered 65. Shot and Bothered 66. Run, Run, Sweet Road Runner 65. Out and Out Rout 66, etc.

robberies

have been a commonplace of film action fare since The Great Train Robbery itself; but of late there has been a fashion for showing the planning and execution of robberies through the eyes of the participants. Perhaps this started in 1950 with The Asphalt Jungle (and its two remakes The Badlanders and Cairo); anyway, some of the films built in this mould are Rififi, Five against the House, Seven Thieves, The Killing, Payroll, Piccadilly Third Stop, The Day They Robbed the Bank of England, A Prize of Gold, On Friday at Eleven, Once a Thief, He Who Rides a Tiger, Robbery, Charley Varrick, Cops and Robbers, The Taking of Pelham One Two Three, The Getaway, 11 Harrowhouse, The Bank Shot, Gambit, Dog Day Afternoon, Inside Out; The Thomas Crown Affair, The Heist and The Score, while films treating the same subject less seriously included The Lavender Hill Mob, The Lady Killers, Ocean's Eleven, Persons Unknown, The League of Gentlemen, Topkapi, The Big Job, Assault on a Queen, The Biggest Bundle of Them All, Grand Slam, They Came to Rob Las Vegas, The Italian Job, The Hot Rock and The Anderson Tapes. The biggest attempted robbery of all was probably the raid on Fort Knox in Goldfinger. Sometimes one longs for a return to the days of the dapper jewel thieves: Ronald Colman or David Niven in Raffles, Herbert Marshall in Trouble in Paradise, John Barrymore or even Charles Korvin as Arsène Lupin, Cary Grant in To Catch a Thief. The closest we have come to this style for many years, apart from William Wyler's How to Steal a Million, is 1973's The Thief Who Came to Dinner with Ryan O'Neal. In 1964 TV made a gallant effort with The Rogues.

Robin Hood.

The legendary outlaw leader of Plantagenet England is one of literature's most oft-filmed characters. There were film versions in 1909 (GB), 1912 (GB), 1912 (US), 1913 (US), and 1913 (GB). Douglas Fairbanks made his big-scale Robin Hood in 1922, with Wallace Beery as King Richard. In 1938 came The Adventures of Robin Hood, one of Hollywood's most satisfying action adventures, with Errol Flynn as Robin, Claude Rains as Prince John and Basil Rathbone as Guy of Gisbourne; directed by William Keighley and Michael Curtiz, from a script by Norman Reilly Raine and Seton I. Miller. Its exhilaration has not diminished with time. In 1946 (US) Cornel Wilde played Robin's son in Bandit of Sherwood Forest; in 1948 (US) Jon Hall was Robin in Prince of Thieves; in 1950 (US) John Derek was Robin's son in Rogues of Sherwood Forest; Robert Clarke played Robin in an odd concoction called Tales of Robin Hood (US 1952). Also in 1952, in Britain, Disney filmed Richard Todd in The Story of Robin Hood and His Merrie Men, with only fair success, though the real Sherwood Forest was used for the first time. Robin also appeared briefly (played by Harold Warrender) in Ivanhoe 52. Men of Sherwood Forest (GB 1956) had Don Taylor as Robin; Son of Robin Hood (GB 1959) turned out to be a daughter, played by June Laverick. Most durable Robin is Richard Greene, who played the role not only in 165 half-hour TV films but in a feature, Sword of Sherwood Forest (GB 1961). In 1967 Barrie Ingham took over in A Challenge for Robin Hood, in 1973 the Disney studios produced a cartoon version, and in 1976 came Robin and Marian, which traced the sad fortunes of the protagonists twenty years later. A new television series, Robin of Sherwood, appeared in 1984. Patrick Bergin played the role, with Uma Thurman as a petulant Maid Marian, in the downbeat Robin Hood 91. It was swiftly eclipsed by the dour Kevin Costner in Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves which was, surprisingly, one of the box-office successes of 1991 – though the acting honours went to Alan Rickman as a dastardly Sheriff of Nottingham.

Robinson Crusoe.

There have been many film variations on Defoe's novel. The closest to the original have been Luis Buñuel's The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe (Mexico, 1953), with Dan O'Herlihy, and oddly enough Byron Haskin's Robinson Crusoe on Mars (US, 1954), with Paul Mantee. Lt Robin Crusoe, U.S.N. (US, 1966) had a shipwrecked mariner teaming up with a chimpanzee and a Girl Wednesday. Man Friday (GB, 1975), with Peter O'Toole and Richard Roundtree, tried to be satirical by showing the situation from Friday's viewpoint. Crusoe (US, 1988), with Aidan Quinn, turned him into a slave trader.

Robocop.

A cyborg created from the remains of a cop shot by drug-dealers in a future Detroit, and turned into an invincible upholder of law and order, who has been the hero of three films so far. The first, directed by Paul Verhoeven, is by far the best. Peter Weller played the role in the first two films. In Robocop 3, Robert Burke took over. Richard Eden played the role in a 1994 television series.

robots

have been sparingly used in movies. Brigitte Helm memorably played one in Metropolis; so did Patricia Roc in The Perfect Woman. Robby the Robot featured sympathetically in Forbidden Planet and Invisible Boy; then there was Kronos, and Gort in The Day the Earth Stood Still. Westworld, Futureworld and Star Wars brought in a whole race of robots, one of whom looked like Yul Brynner; while in TV, The Avengers have frequently encountered the Cybernauts and Dr Who the Daleks.

Rocky Balboa.

Dim but enduring, and even endearing, boxer created by Sylvester Stallone, as actor and screenwriter, in the Oscar-winning film Rocky 75, directed by John Avildsen, and four sequels (1979-90), in which he wins and loses championships and ends up brain-damaged, but training a protégé to succeed him.

Roger Rabbit.

Madcap rabbit with a sexy human wife and the troublesome Baby Herman to look after. Following the success of the Walt Disney feature Who Framed Roger Rabbit, combining animated characters and live actors, he has appeared in shorts noted for their fast, slapstick action. Created by novelist Gary Wolf, he is voiced by Charles Fleischer and his wife Jessica by Kathleen Turner.

Who Framed Roger Rabbit 88. Tummy Trouble 89. Rollercoaster Rabbit 90.

Rogue Male.

Geoffrey Household's adventure melodrama about a big-game hunter stalking Hitler has been filmed twice: by Fritz Lang as Manhunt 41, with Walter Pidgeon and George Sanders in hilariously foggy London settings, and as a TV movie in 1976 under its original title, starring Peter O'Toole.

romantic teams

who have been popular enough to make several films together are headed by William Powell and Myrna Loy, who made 12 joint appearances. Runners-up include Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell (11 appearances); Dick Powell and Joan Blondell (10); Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers (10); Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn (9); Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor (9); Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney (8); Clark Gable and Joan Crawford (8); Nelson Eddy and Jeanette Macdonald (8); Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon (8); Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland (8); Bette Davis and George Brent (7); Clark Gable and Jean Harlow (6); James Cagney and Joan Blondell (6). Even though most of these teamings began because both stars happened to be under contract to the same studio, they would not have continued had they not been felicitous. Other teams who struck notable sparks off each other but have fewer films to their credit include Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall; Ronald Colman and Greer Garson; Cary Grant and Irene Dunne; Greta Garbo and John Gilbert; Greta Garbo and Melvyn Douglas; Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard; Danny Kaye and Virginia Mayo; Alan Ladd and Veronica Lake; Donald O'Connor and Peggy Ryan; Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery; Rita Hayworth and Glenn Ford; John Barrymore and Carole Lombard; Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland; Rock Hudson and Doris Day; Jack Hulbert and Cicely Courtneidge; John Payne and Betty Grable; James Dunn and Sally Eilers; David Niven and Loretta Young; Van Johnson and June Allyson; Louis Hayward and Patricia Medina; Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour; John Wayne and Maureen O'Hara; Tom Hanks and Meg Ryan.

Rome

in its ancient days was reconstructed for Quo Vadis, The Sign of the Cross, Ben Hur, The Last Days of Pompeii, Androcles and the Lion, The Fall of the Roman Empire, The Robe, I Claudius, Julius Caesar, Cleopatra, Spartacus and The Gladiator. The funny side of its life was depicted in Roman Scandals, Fiddlers Three, Carry On Cleo, Scandal in the Roman Bath and A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum. Modern Rome has been seen hundreds of times in Italian movies, notably Bicycle Thieves, Paisa, La Dolce Vita, The Girls of the Spanish Steps, Sunday in August, Rome Eleven o'Clock and the American co-production Indiscretion which was shot entirely within Rome's railway station. American views of Rome include Three Coins in the Fountain, Seven Hills of Rome, Roman Holiday, Two Weeks in Another Town, The Pigeon That Took Rome and The Roman Spring of Mrs Stone; while the Colosseum was used for the finale of films as various as House of Cards and Twenty Million Miles to Earth. The Vatican was well shown in Never Take No for an Answer, about the small boy who persists in getting an audience with the Pope.

Romeo and Juliet.

Shakespeare's tragedy of star-crossed lovers has been a director's favourite ever since it was first filmed in 1900, and many more silent versions followed. There have been three major straight versions since sound: in 1936 George Cukor directed Leslie Howard and Norma Shearer in a lavish, genteel, studio-bound, semi-pop version for MGM; in 1953 Renato Castellani came to Britain and made for Rank a more sober, but duller film in colour, with Laurence Harvey and Susan Shentall; and in 1968 came Franco Zeffirelli's youthful version with Leonard Whiting and Olivia Hussey. In the late 40s, a French film noir, Les Amants de Verone, transposed the story to a modern setting. The musical West Side Story 61 is a violent modernization of Shakespeare's tale, and Peter Ustinov's Romanoff and Juliet 61 a satirical rendering. The oddest so far is Armando Acosta's 1990 Belgian version played by a cast of cats (Juliet is a white Angora, Romeo a grey Persian), dubbed with the voices of, among others, Robert Powell, Francesca Annis, Ben Kingsley, Vanessa Redgrave, and Maggie Smith. A grunge version, Tromeo and Juliet, was released in 1996 by Troma Films, directed by Lloyd Kaufman and written by James Gunn. Set in the future ('What light from yonder Plexiglas breaks?' asked Tromeo), it featured Tromeo proposing to Juliet while seated on the toilet. A more conventional contemporary adaptation, set in a US resort called Verona Beach, also appeared in 1996, starring Leonardo DiCaprio and Claire Danes and directed by Baz Luhrmann.

Rose Marie.

The Rudolph Friml/Oscar Hammerstein operetta about the Mounties getting their man was first filmed in 1928 by Lucien Hubbard as a silent; Joan Crawford has the title role. In 1936 W. S. Van Dyke made the well-remembered version with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, and in 1954 Mervyn LeRoy directed a remake with Ann Blyth and Howard Keel.

Rosebud.

The enigmatic last word of Citizen Kane, referring back to Kane's childhood sled. It is also said to be the pet name William Randolph Hearst gave to his mistress Marion Davies's private parts, which may help explain that tycoon's implacable hostility to the film. Several sleds were said to have been used in the film, in addition to the one burned at the end. One of them was bought at auction for $55,000 by Steven Spielberg in 1982, although its authenticity has since been questioned.

Ruggles of Red Gap.

The story by Harry Leon Wilson, about a British butler exported to the American midwest, was filmed with Edward Everett Horton in 1923 and with Charles Laughton in 1935. Bob Hope's Fancy Pants 50 bore more than a passing resemblance to it.

Sabrina.

Billy Wilder's romantic comedy, made in 1954, from Samuel Taylor's play about an up-tight businessman who falls in love with his chauffeur's daughter, who, in turn, is attracted by his high-living brother, starred Humphrey Bogart, Audrey Hepburn and William Holden. Sydney Pollack's less successful remake in 1995 starred Harrison Ford in the Bogart role, Julia Ormond and Greg Kinnear.

Sahara:

see Lost Patrol.

sailors

of whom screen accounts have been given include Christopher Columbus (1446-1506), by Fredric March in Christopher Columbus 49, Gérard Depardieu in 1492: Discovery of Paradise 92, and George Corraface in Christopher Columbus: The Discovery 92; Horatio Nelson; Captain Bligh, by Charles Laughton, and later by Trevor Howard, in Mutiny on the Bounty; John Paul Jones (1747-92), by Robert Stack in John Paul Jones 59; Francis Drake (1540-96), by Matheson Lang in Drake of England 35 and by Rod Taylor in Seven Seas to Calais 62; Walter Raleigh by Richard Todd in The Virgin Queen 55; and Admiral Halsey, by James Cagney in The Gallant Hours 61 and by Robert Mitchum in Midway. A less successful sailor, and his amateur crew, featured in Captain Jack 98, with Bob Hoskins in the title role.

The Saint.

Among the actors who have played Leslie Charteris' 'Robin Hood of crime' in both British and American films since 1937 are Louis Hayward, Hugh Sinclair and George Sanders. One feels that 'the Falcon', a series character played in the 40s by George Sanders and later Tom Conway, was heavily indebted to the Saint, who made a strong comeback on television in the person of Roger Moore in the 60s. In France, a barely recognizable 'Saint' has been played in several films by Jean Marais. In 1995, Val Kilmer was signed for the role, which prevented him from continuing to play Batman; he was replaced by George Clooney. Other actors approached for the role of the Saint included Ralph Fiennes, Mel Gibson, Hugh Grant and Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Saint Johnson

W.R. Burnett's novel, based on Wyatt Earp's exploits in cleaning up Tombstone, has been filmed four times. Walter Huston starred in a lively version in 1932, scripted by his son John and directed by Edward L. Cahn under the title Law and Order. In 1937, it was turned into Wild West Days, a 13-episode serial, starring Johnny Mack Brown. Brown also starred in another version in 1940, again entitled Law and Order. Finally Ronald Reagan played the lawman in a 1953 version, directed by Nathan Juran.

St Trinian's.

This school full of little female horrors was originally conceived by cartoonist Ronald Searle. From his formula Frank Launder and Sidney Gilliat made four commercially successful if disappointing farces: The Belles of St Trinian's 54, Blue Murder at St Trinian's 57, The Pure Hell of St Trinian's 60, The Great St Trinian's Train Robbery 66. In 1980 Launder alone produced yet another, The Wildcats of St. Trinian's.

Salome.

Oscar Wilde's play of Salome's Dance of the Seven Veils before King Herod for the head of John the Baptist was filmed at least seven times in silent days, notably by Nazimova in 1923 against backgrounds inspired by the drawings of Aubrey Beardsley. It was remade in 1953 with Rita Hayworth as Salome and Charles Laughton as Herod, while Ken Russell's Salome's Last Dance 87 had Wilde watching a performance of his play in a brothel.

San Francisco,

replete with cable cars, steep streets, Golden Gate Bridge and Alcatraz out there in the bay, has provided a picturesque location for innumerable movies, outstandingly Vertigo, What's Up Doc?, The Glenn Miller Story, The Well Groomed Bride, Bullitt, Guess Who's Coming to Dinner, Point Blank, Yours Mine and Ours, The House on Telegraph Hill, Sudden Fear, Experiment in Terror, Flower Drum Song, The Maltese Falcon, The Conversation, Daddy's Gone a-Hunting, Dirty Harry, Pete 'n' Tillie, The Laughing Policeman, Dark Passage, Foul Play and Petulia. The Barbary Coast days were well caught in San Francisco, Nob Hill, Barbary Coast, Flame of the Barbary Coast, and many other movies.

TV series have also used it ad nauseam: The Line Up, Sam Benedict, Ironside, McMillan and Wife, Streets of San Francisco, Phyllis.

satire,

being defined in theatrical circles as 'what closes Saturday night', has seldom been encouraged by Hollywood, and the few genuinely satirical films have not been commercially successful, from A Nous la Liberté through American Madness, Nothing Sacred and Roxie Hart to The Loved One. However, the odd lampoon in the middle of an otherwise straightforward comedy has often brought critical enthusiasm for films as diverse as Modern Times, Boy Meets Girl, I'm All Right, Jack, The President's Analyst and The Groove Tube; and in future it looks as though one can at least expect that the range of permissible targets will become even wider. The spotty but considerable success in 1976 of Network, the screen's most hysterical satire of all, was at least partly due to its sexy scenes and uninhibited language.

Saturday Night Live.

The late-night US TV comedy series that began in 1975 has spawned several films based on the programme's characters, though only two so far have been successful. It has also provided a showcase for many comic talents who have gone on to movie careers, including Chevy Chase, John Belushi, Dan Aykroyd, Bill Murray, Eddie Murphy, Billy Crystal, Martin Short, Jon Lovitz, Damon Wayans, Chris Farley, David Spade and Chris Rock.

The Blues Brothers 80. Wayne's World 92. Wayne's World 2 93. Coneheads 93. It's Pat 94. Stuart Saves His Family 95. Blues Brothers 2000 98, etc.

Scarface.

Armitage Trail's novel, about the rise of a thinly disguised Al Capone, made an exciting gangster movie under the direction of Howard Hawks in 1932, with Paul Muni in the title role and George Raft flipping a coin at moments of stress. Brian DePalma remade it as an exercise in excess in 1983, starring Al Pacino as a modern-day Latin American thug, thriving in Miami.

The Scarlet Letter.

Nathaniel Hawthorne's story of puritanical 18th-century New England was filmed in 1917 with Mary Martin as the adulteress and Stuart Holmes as her priest-lover forced to accuse her. In 1926 came Victor Sjostrom's more famous version with Lillian Gish and Lars Hanson; 1934 brought a talkie remake with Colleen Moore and Hardie Albright; and Wim Wenders made a German version in 1973, starring Senta Berger. Demi Moore starred in a version directed by Roland Jaffe which took many liberties with the original, but even so flopped at the box-office in 1995.

The Scarlet Pimpernel.

Baroness Orczy's foppish hero of the French Revolution has been filmed three times in Britain since sound: in 1935, directed by Harold Young, with Leslie Howard opposing Raymond Massey as Chauvelin; in 1938, directed by Hans Schwarz, with Barry K. Barnes winning out over Francis Lister; in 1950, directed by Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger, with David Niven as Sir Percy. There has also been a TV series starring Marius Goring. Silent versions included one in 1917 starring Dustin Farnum and one in 1929 starring Matheson Lang. The idea was modernized in Leslie Howard's Pimpernel Smith 41. In 1982, the original was remade for television with Anthony Andrews, Jane Seymour, and Ian McKellen, and again in 2000 with Richard E. Grant in the title role.

Scattergood Baines,

an amiable small-town busybody created by Clarence Buddington Kelland, was personified by Guy Kibbee in six second features (41-42), all directed by Christy Cabanne.

schooldays

have often been depicted in films with a thick sentimental veneer, as in Goodbye Mr Chips, Good Morning Miss Dove and Blossoms in the Dust. But more usually the pupils have serious problems to worry about, as in Young Woodley, The Guinea Pig, Friends for Life, Tea and Sympathy and Tom Brown's Schooldays; while with at least equal frequency our sympathies are elicited on behalf of the staff: The Housemaster, Bright Road, The Blackboard Jungle, The Browning Version, Spare the Rod, Edward My Son, The Blue Angel, The Children's Hour, The Corn Is Green, Term of Trial, To Sir with Love, Spinster, The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie, Please Sir, Unman Wittering and Zigo. More light-hearted treatment of the whole business is evident in The Trouble with Angels and Margie, and in some cases the treatment has undeniably been farcical: Boys Will Be Boys, The Ghost of St Michael's, Good Morning Boys, A Yank at Eton, Vice Versa, Bottoms Up and The Happiest Days of Your Life; with the St Trinian's saga wildest of all. The strangest schools on film are those depicted in Zéro de Conduite and its semi-remake If... while very special schools were seen in Battement de Coeur (for pickpockets), School for Secrets (for 'boffins'), Old Bones of the River (for African tiny tots), The Goose Steps Out (for young Nazis), Orders to Kill, The House on 92nd Street, 13 rue Madeleine, Carve Her Name with Pride and From Russia with Love (for spies).

science fiction,

a term incapable of precise definition, may perhaps be taken as that kind of fantasy which depends not on legend only, like Dracula, but involves the work of man. Thus King Kong and 'natural' monsters would not qualify, but Frankenstein and The Invisible Man would. Space exploration and prophecy, considered elsewhere, are branches of it, as are all the films about mad doctors and colliding worlds.

scientists have been the subject of many films, though few real-life ones have led sufficiently dramatic lives to warrant filming. Warners led the way in the 30s with The Story of Louis Pasteur and Dr Ehrlich's Magic Bullet. In 1939 Mickey Rooney played Young Tom Edison, followed by Spencer Tracy as Edison the Man. Then, in 1943, Greer Garson played Madame Curie. At this point the movie fan's thirst for scientific knowledge died out, and John Huston's Freud in 1962 did not revive it. In the 80s, the lives of Oppenheimer and Sakharov have been filmed.

See also: INVENTORS.

The Sea Wolf.

Jack London's stark psychological novel of an obsessed sea captain, Wolf Larsen, has been filmed at least seven times: in 1913 it starred Hobart Bosworth, in 1920 Noah Beery, in 1925 Ralph Ince, in 1930 Milton Sills, and in 1941 Edward G. Robinson. A disguised western version, Barricade, with Raymond Massey, appeared in 1950, and in 1957 yet another straight version, under the title Wolf Larsen, was made with Barry Sullivan. In 1974 Chuck Connors starred in a European version, Wolf of the Seven Seas.

seances

on the screen have often been shown to be fake, as in Seance on a Wet Afternoon, Bunco Squad, Palmy Days, The Spiritualist, Houdini, and The Medium. But just occasionally they do result in something being called up from over there. It happened in Blithe Spirit, The Haunting, The Uninvited, Night of the Demon, Thirteen Ghosts, Hands of the Ripper, and The Legend of Hell House.

seaside resorts

have provided lively settings for many British comedies: Douglas in No Limit, Brighton in Bank Holiday, Blackpool in Sing As We Go, and a variety of south coast resorts in The Punch and Judy Man, French Dressing, All Over the Town, Barnacle Bill. Sometimes the resort has provided a contrast to more serious goings-on, as in The Entertainer, Brighton Rock, Room at the Top, The Dark Man, A Taste of Honey, I Was Happy Here, Family Doctor, The System, The Damned. Hollywood usually comes a cropper when depicting British resorts, either comically as in The Gay Divorcee or seriously as in Separate Tables; its own resorts have a monotonous look, whether viewed romantically in Moon Over Miami and Fun in Acapulco, nostalgically in Some Like It Hot, trendily in Beach Party and its many sequels, or morosely in Tony Rome. The French Riviera has never been notably well captured on film since Vigo's A Propos de Nice, but among the movies to have a go with the aid of back projection are On the Riviera, That Riviera Touch and Moment to Moment. Hitchcock got some picture-postcard views but little else out of To Catch a Thief, while the French had a go for themselves in St Tropez Blues and others. A Mediterranean resort was the setting of the climax of Suddenly Last Summer; other European watering-places featured memorably in Une Si Jolie Petite Plage, Sunday in August and The Lady with the Little Dog. The most ingenious use of the seaside for purposes of film fantasy was certainly in Oh What a Lovely War.

Seaside settings of the 70s and 80s have included Out of Season, Atlantic City USA and The King of Marvin Gardens.

Sergeant Ernie Bilko.

Wisecracking, loquacious, conniving army sergeant played by Phil Silvers in his TV show from 1955 to 1959. Stationed at Fort Baxter, Kansas, Bilko tried to get rich quick, aided and also hindered by his platoon, and at war with his superior officer, Colonel Hall (Paul Ford). A feature film version, directed by Jonathan Lynn and starring Steve Martin as Bilko and Dan Aykroyd as Colonel Hall, appeared in 1996. It contained the credit: 'The filmmakers gratefully acknowledge the total lack of cooperation from the US Army.'

serial killers.

Mass murderers have long held a fascination for film-makers and audiences alike, as is demonstrated by Charlie Chaplin's Monsieur Verdoux 47, and the many Bluebeard films from the 40s onwards, based on the activities of the French murderer Henri Landru, and such comedies as Kind Hearts and Coronets 49 and No Way to Treat a Lady 68. But a specific genre emerged after the term serial killer was coined by the FBI in the 60s and following the success of Alfred Hitchcock's Psycho, from Robert Bloch's novel based on Ed Gein. A succession of slasher movies ensued featuring fictional murderers, including the influential The Texas Chainsaw Massacre, Halloween and its successors, and two long-drawn-out series featuring killers returning from the dead: Jason in Friday the Thirteenth (ten films so far) and Freddy in Nightmare on Elm Street. Terrence Malick's Badlands, based on teenagers Charley Starkweather and Caril Fugate's killing spree which left 10 dead, was followed by a series of murderous road movies which includes True Romance 93, Kalifornia 93, and Natural Born Killers 94. The latter two made much of public fascination with serial killers, as did John McNaughton's chilling Henry: Portrait of a Serial Killer 90, the Belgian film Man Bites Dog 92, in which a film crew begin to record a murderer at work and end by helping him with his crimes, and David Fincher's Seven 95, with a killer working his way through victims guilty of one of the deadly sins. Certainly Thomas Harris's fictional creation, the cannibalistic Hannibal Lecter, has become a favourite ogre following the performances of Brian Cox in Manhunter 86 and Anthony Hopkins in The Silence of the Lambs 90 and Hannibal 01.

Real-life serial killers on film include the Boston Strangler, the Manson Family (The Helter Skelter Murders), Peter Kurten (M and The Vampire of Dusseldorf), Fritz Haarman (The Tenderness of Wolves); Dr Marcel Petiot (Dr Petiot); Jeffrey Dahmer (Dahmer and The Secret Life: Jeffrey Dahmer); Ed Gein (In the Light of the Moon/Ed Gein); John Wayne Gacy (The Crawl Space) Aileen Wuornos (Monster) and, of course, Jack the Ripper.

> “ The serial killer has become our debased, condemned, yet eerily glorified Noble Savage, the vestiges of the frontier spirit. – Joyce Carol Oates

serials

demand a book to themselves. They began in the early years of the century and continued until the early 50s, their plethora of adventurous and melodramatic incident being usually divided into fifteen or twenty chapters of about twenty minutes each. They were the domain of mad doctors, space explorers, clutching hands, mysterious strangers, diabolical villains and dewy-eyed heroines. Each chapter ended with a 'cliffhanger' in which the hero or heroine was left in some deadly danger from which it was plain he could not escape; but at the beginning of the next chapter, escape he did. A few favourite serials are Fantomas, The Perils of Pauline, Batman, Flash Gordon's Trip to Mars and Captain Marvel. Almost all of them were American. They were finally killed by the advent of TV and by the increasing length of the double-feature programme.

Books on the subject include To Be Continued by Weiss and Goodgold; Days of Thrills and Adventure by Alan Barbour; and The Great Movie Serials by Harmon and Glut.

series

of feature films used to be popular enough, and many are individually noted in this book; in recent years the series concept has been taken over by TV, and in any case low-budget movies featuring cut-to-pattern characters could no longer be made to pay their way in theatres. When one looks back over these old heroes, who flourished chiefly in the 30s and 40s, most of them turn out to be sleuths of one kind or another. They included Sherlock Holmes, The Saint, The Lone Wolf, Father Brown, Nero Wolfe, Duncan McLain, The Crime Doctor, Sexton Blake, Mr Moto, Perry Mason, Bulldog Drummond, Nancy Drew, Mr Wong, Charlie Chan, Ellery Queen, Boston Blackie, The Falcon, Hildegarde Withers, Hercule Poirot, Dick Tracy, Torchy Blane, Michael Shayne, Philip Marlowe and, more recently, Inspector Clouseau, Tony Rome, Virgil Tibbs, Coffin Ed Johnson and Shaft. Nor should one forget crime anthologies like Inner Sanctum and The Whistler. The spy vogue, a recent happening, is naturally headed by James Bond: in his wake you may discern Counterspy, Coplan, Flint, The Tiger, The Man from UNCLE, Harry Palmer, and Superdragon. Among the more muscular outdoor heroes may be counted Hopalong Cassidy, The Three Mesquiteers, The Lone Ranger, Captain Blood, Zorro, Robin Hood, Tarzan, Jungle Jim, The Cisco Kid, Bomba, The Man with No Name and the Italian giants who go under such names as Maciste, Goliath, Hercules and Ursus. The longest surviving series villain is certainly Fu Manchu. As for monsters, take your pick from Frankenstein, Dracula, The Mummy, The Creature from the Black Lagoon, The Invisible Man, The Wolf Man, Dr X; while if you prefer comedy freaks there are Topper and Francis. There have been a goodly number of domestic comedies and dramas, including Squibs, The Jones Family, The Hardy

Family, The Cohens and the Kellys, Blondie, Ma and Pa Kettle, Maisie, Henry Aldrich, Scattergood Baines, Lum and Abner, Jeeves, Mr Belvedere, Gidget and the Four Daughters saga. Other comedy series have ranged from the subtleties of Don Camillo to the pratfalls of Old Mother Riley, Mexican Spitfire, the Doctor series, Carry On films, the Police Academy series, and the Naked Gun movies. Animals have had series to themselves, as for instance Rin Tin Tin, Flicka, Lassie, Rusty and Flipper. So have children of various ages: Our Gang, Gasoline Alley, The Dead End Kids, The East Side Kids, The Bowery Boys. The best-established musical series were Broadway Melody and The Big Broadcast. And three cheers for Dr Kildare, Dr Christian, Dr Mabuse and Dr Goldfoot ... to say nothing of Professor Quatermass.

servants

in movies have provided great pleasure, mainly because the vast majority of the audience has been unlikely to encounter the breed in person. Actors who spent their lives playing stately butlers include Eric Blore, Charles Coleman, Robert Greig, Barnett Parker, Halliwell Hobbes and Arthur Treacher. Louise Beavers and Hattie McDaniel were the leading coloured maids, and many black comedians played frightened valets: Mantan Moreland, Stepin Fetchit, Willie Best. Sinister housekeepers are led by Gale Sondergaard and Judith Anderson. Even more eccentric servants were played by Edward Rigby in Don't Take it to Heart, Cantinflas in Around the World in Eighty Days, Seymour Hicks in Busman's Honeymoon, Edward Brophy in the Falcon series; and downright villainous ones by Dirk Bogarde in The Servant, Philip Latham in Dracula Prince of Darkness, Boris Karloff in The Old Dark House and Bela Lugosi in The Body Snatcher. Romantic comedies in which servants have had liaisons with their masters (or mistresses) include History is Made at Night, When Tomorrow Comes, Common Clay, What Price Hollywood?, The Farmer's Daughter, If You Could Only Cook, Lord Richard in the Pantry and Upstairs Downstairs; while 30s comedies in which Russian exiles and new poor took jobs as servants are exemplified by Tovarich and My Man Godfrey. One should not forget The Admirable Crichton in any of his forms; but other servants less admirable were James Mason in Five Fingers, and Glenda Jackson and Susannah York in The Maids. Anthony Hopkins in The Remains of the Day was a butler whose loyalty to his master is his undoing.

Seven Keys to Baldpate.

The famous stage comedy-thriller by Earl Derr Biggers and George M. Cohan has been filmed five times: with Cohan himself in 1917, Douglas MacLean in 1926, Richard Dix in 1929, Gene Raymond in 1935, and Philip Terry in 1947. The most recent version, in 1983, was House of Long Shadows, with Christopher Lee and Peter Cushing.

Seventh Heaven.

Austin Strong's play, a simple garret love story set in Paris at the time of World War I, from which the hero returns blinded, was successfully filmed by Frank Borzage, with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell; Henry King remade it in 1937 with Simone Simon and James Stewart.

sewers

have figured in several thrillers, most notably The Third Man with its exciting final chase; its sewer complex was recently spoofed in Carry On Spying. In 1948 in He Walked by Night Richard Basehart played a criminal who invariably escaped through the sewers; and our old friend The Phantom of the Opera was similarly skilled, as was Lee Marvin in Point Blank. As recently as the British thriller Invasion a sewer detour was used; while the Frankenstein monster was saved from the burning windmill by falling through to the sewer, where he was found at the beginning of Bride of Frankenstein. As for more serious films, sewers are of course featured in the many versions of Les Misérables, while the Polish resistance film Kanal takes place entirely – and nauseatingly – in the sewers of Warsaw. Fred MacMurray had a comic sewer escape in Bon Voyage, and the giant ants of Them! were cornered in the sewers of Los Angeles, while the mutant beast of Alligator and Alligator II emerged from the sewers and the pizza-loving Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles lived in them.

sex.

This was once called 'romance': the beginnings of corruption set in with De Mille's silent comedies such as Why Change Your Wife? and Lubitsch's classics Forbidden Paradise and The Marriage Circle. These gentlemen carried their sophistication into the early sound period, assisted by such stars as Valentino, Harlow, Dietrich, Clara Bow and Ginger Rogers; and there was considerable help from a film called The Private Life of Henry VIII, a lady named Mae West and a director named Josef Von Sternberg; but around 1934 the Hays Code and the Legion of Decency forced innocence upon Hollywood to such an extent that the smart hero and heroine of 1934's It Happened One Night just wouldn't dream of sharing a bedroom without a curtain between them. The later 30s, perforce, were the heyday of the boy-next-door and the ingénue: nice people all, personified by such stars as Gary Cooper, Dick Powell, Ray Milland, David Niven, Ruby Keeler, Janet Gaynor, Deanna Durbin and Irene Dunne. Meanwhile a strong rearguard action was being fought by actors like William Powell, Myrna Loy, Melvyn Douglas, Ann Sheridan and Cary Grant, but usually the blue pencil had been wielded so heavily on their scripts that it was difficult to tell what was really being implied. The best way out was found in such comedies as The Philadelphia Story, which were basically earthy but gave every appearance of keeping it all in the mind. The war years produced a certain slackening of restrictions; for instance, the pin-up girl became not only permissible but desirable as a way of building up military morale. Preston Sturges brought sex out into the open in The Palm Beach Story and The Miracle of Morgan's Creek; Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn started (in Woman of the Year) a series of films portraying the battle of the sexes in a recognizably human way. The 'love goddesses' became progressively more blatant in their appeal: Jane Russell, Marilyn Monroe, Jayne Mansfield. (But in the 50s it turned out that one of the earthiest of them, Sophia Loren, was also the best actress.) By now the production code had been broken down to the extent of permitting words like 'virgin' and 'mistress'(The Moon is Blue), the recognition of adultery and prostitution as human facts (Wives and Lovers, Kiss Me Stupid), depiction of the lustfulness of males (Tom Jones, Alfie), 'realistic' dramas like Room at the Top, erotic romances like Les Amants, and the presentation, albeit in a fantasy, of girls as 'pleasure units' (Our Man Flint). Indeed, after Georgy Girl, Night Games and Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?, it seemed that public frankness could go very little further; but along came Blow Up, Midnight Cowboy, Satyricon, Flesh, The Music Lovers, Percy, Last Tango in Paris and Deep Throat to prove the opposite. There even emerged an X-rated cartoon Fritz the Cat; and by the mid-70s pornographic films on view in most cities outnumbered the other kind. Ironically, perhaps, in 1999 the first film containing explicit sexual activity to be given an '18' certificate in Britain was Catherine Breillat's Romance.

sex changes have not been a profitable line of inquiry for the cinema, though the gimmick thriller Homicidal depended on one, as did Myra Breckinridge. The Christine Jorgenson Story was an account of a genuine case, and I Want What I Want presented a fictitious case history. The most amusing film on the subject is certainly Turnabout. In Blake Edwards' Switch, a male chauvinist is reincarnated as a woman.

Sexton Blake.

The lean, ascetic detective hero of several generations of British boys was the creation of Harry Blyth ('Hal Meredith') (1852-98). On screen he was first portrayed in 1914 in The Clue of the Wax Vesta. He was played in the 20s by Langhorne Burton, in the 30s by George Curzon, in the 40s by David Farrar and in the 50s by Geoffrey Toone; while 1962's Mix Me a Person was taken from a Blake story but cast Anne Baxter in the role.

Shaft.

Ernest Tidyman's tough Harlem private eye was played by Richard Roundtree in three films: Shaft 71; Shaft in Africa 73; and Shaft's Big Score 73. In 2000 came a remake Shaft, starring Samuel L. Jackson as Shaft's nephew, with Roundtree making a brief appearance in his old role.

She.

Seven silent versions were made of Rider Haggard's adventure fantasy about a lost tribe, an ageless queen, and a flame of eternal life in darkest Africa. Only the last remains, made in London and Berlin by G. B. Samuelson, with Betty Blythe and Carlyle Blackwell. In 1934 in Hollywood, Merian Cooper and Ernest Schoedsack remade the story in a North Pole setting, with Helen Gahagan and Randolph Scott. In 1965 came a lifeless Hammer version directed by Robert Day, with Ursula Andress and John Richardson; this was followed in 1968 by a sequel, The Vengeance of She, which was more than slightly daft.

She Loves Me Not.

The story of a night-club singer taking refuge in a men's college and disguising herself as an undergraduate after witnessing a murder has been filmed three times: in 1934, directed by Elliott Nugent, with Bing Crosby and Miriam Hopkins; in 1942, as True to the Army, in which Judy Canova pretends to be a soldier; in 1955, as How to Be Very, Very Popular, in which strippers Betty Grable and Sheree North hide in a college. The notion also served Whoopi Goldberg well in Sister Act 92, as a singer fleeing from the Mob who takes refuge in a convent and disguises herself as a nun.

The Sheik.

Rudolph Valentino first appeared as a romantic Arab in 1922, with Agnes Ayres as his willing co-star, in an adaptation of E. M. Hull's novelette. It was one of his most successful roles, and Son of the Sheik came out in 1926, with Vilma Banky partnering him. His death prevented further episodes, but in 1937 Ramon Novarro made fun of the idea in The Sheik Steps Out, and in 1962 came an Italian spoof called The Return of the Son of the Sheik, with Gordon Scott.

Sherlock Holmes,

Conan Doyle's classic fictional detective, around whom a detailed legend has been created by ardent followers, has a long screen history. There were American one-reel films featuring him in 1903, 1905 and 1908. Also in 1908 there began a series of twelve Danish one-reelers starring Forrest Holger-Madsen. In 1910 there were two German films and in 1912 six French. A second French series began in 1913; also in this year an American two-reel version of The Sign of Four featured Harry Benham. British six-reelers were made of A Study in Scarlet 14, and Valley of Fear 16; also in 1916 the famous stage actor William Gillette put his impersonation of Holmes on film for Essanay. In 1917 came a German version of The Hound of the Baskervilles; then nothing till 1922, when John Barrymore played Holmes and Roland Young was Watson in Goldwyn's Sherlock Holmes, based on Gillette's stage play. In Britain in the same year Maurice Elvey directed a full-length version of The Hound of the Baskervilles and followed it with over 25 two-reelers starring Eille Norwood, remaining faithful to the original stories. In 1929 Carlyle Blackwell played Holmes in a German remake of The Hound of the Baskervilles; and in the same year Clive Brook played in a talkie, The Return of Sherlock Holmes, with H. Reeves-Smith as Watson. Arthur Wontner, a perfect Holmes, first played the role in Sherlock Holmes' Final Hour (GB) 31, later appearing in The Sign of Four 32, The Missing Rembrandt 33, The Triumph of Sherlock Holmes 35, and The Silver Blaze 36 (Ian Fleming was Watson). Raymond Massey was Holmes in The Speckled Band (GB) 31, with Athole Stewart as Watson; in 1932 Robert Rendel was in The Hound of the Baskervilles (GB). Clive Brook again appeared in Sherlock Holmes (US) 32, with Reginald Owen as Watson; Owen then played Holmes in A Study in Scarlet (US) 33. The Germans made three more Holmes films in the mid-30s, including yet another remake of The Hound, which in 1939 was again tackled by Fox in Hollywood, this time with Basil Rathbone as the detective and Nigel Bruce as Watson. Its success led to a hurried remake of the Gillette play under the title The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes 39; two years later the same two actors began a series of twelve films in which the settings were modernized and most of the stories unrecognizable, although the acting and much of the writing were well in character. The titles were Sherlock Holmes and the Voice of Terror 41, Sherlock Holmes and the Secret Weapon 42, Sherlock Holmes in Washington 42, Sherlock Holmes Faces Death 43, Spider Woman 44, The Scarlet Claw 44, Pearl of Death 44, House of Fear 45, Woman in Green 45, Pursuit to Algiers 45, Terror by Night 46, Dressed to Kill/Sherlock Holmes and the Secret Code 46. Then a long silence was broken by Peter Cushing and André Morell in the leads of a British remake of The Hound of the Baskervilles 59. In 1962 Christopher Lee and Thorley Walters played Holmes and Watson in a German film, Sherlock Holmes and the Deadly Necklace; and in 1965 John Neville and Donald Houston appeared in an original story involving the famous pair with Jack the Ripper: A Study in Terror. Also in 1965 a BBC TV series featured Douglas Wilmer and Nigel Stock, with Peter Cushing later taking over as Holmes; the period atmosphere was carefully sought but the stories suffered from being padded out to the standard TV length. (There was also a Franco-American TV series in 1954 with Ronald Howard and Howard Marion-Crawford.) In 1969 Billy Wilder made The Private Life of Sherlock Holmes with Robert Stephens, apparently intending a send-up but producing only a further pleasant variation. In 1970 George C. Scott thought he was Sherlock Holmes in They Might Be Giants, so did Larry Hagman in a 1976 TV movie, The Return of the World's Greatest Detective. Nicol Williamson as Holmes was treated by Sigmund Freud in 1976's The Seven Per Cent Solution, and in the same year Gene Wilder tried a spoof, The Adventure of Sherlock Holmes' Smarter Brother. The same year brought a TV movie called Sherlock Holmes in New York, with Roger Moore and Patrick MacNee. In 1978 there was a perfectly ghastly, supposedly comic Hound of the Baskervilles with Peter Cook and Dudley Moore, while Christopher Plummer starred in a TV half-hour of Silver Blaze and a feature called Murder by Decree, which again linked Holmes with Jack the Ripper. A stage revival of the William Gillette version was followed by other adaptations. 1979 brought another TV series with Geoffrey Whitehead and Donald Pickering; but Sherlock Holmes and Doctor Watson was barely seen outside Poland, where it was shot. In 1983 Sy Weintraub made TV movies of The Sign of Four and The Hound of the Baskervilles, with Ian Richardson an excellent Holmes; and Tom Baker starred in a BBC serial of The Hound of the Baskervilles. In 1984 Granada TV had a 13-hour series starring Jeremy Brett and David Burke, and this continues. Brett also starred in a full-length 1987 version of The Sign of Four. Christopher Lee played the role in TV versions made in South Africa in the 90s.

ships, of the modern passenger kind, have provided a useful setting for many films, most recently in Ship of Fools. Four notable versions of the Titanic disaster were Atlantic 30, Titanic 53, A Night to Remember 58 and Titanic 97; while sinking ships also figured in We're Not Dressing 34, Souls at Sea 37, History Is Made at Night 37, The Blue Lagoon 48, Our Girl Friday 52, The Admirable Crichton 57 (and earlier versions), The Last Voyage 60 and The Poseidon Adventure 72. A sinister time was had on board ship in Journey into Fear, Across the Pacific, King Kong, My Favorite Blonde, The Ghost Ship, The Mystery of the Marie Celeste, The Sea Wolf, The Hairy Ape, Dangerous Crossing, Ghost Breakers, The Wreck of the Mary Deare, Juggernaut, and Voyage of the Damned; laughter, however, was to the fore in Monkey Business 31, The Lady Eve 41, Luxury Liner 48, Doctor at Sea 55, The Captain's Table 58, A Countess from Hong Kong 66, and A Night at the Opera 35 with its famous cabin scene. The romance of a cruise was stressed in Dodsworth 36, The Big Broadcast of 1938, Now Voyager 42, and the two versions of Love Affair 39 (the second being An Affair to Remember 56); while in the 'Winter Cruise' section of Encore 51, it was almost forced on Kay Walsh. In Assault on a Queen 66 the leading characters plan to hijack the Queen Mary. The weirdest ship was the ship of the dead in Outward Bound 30, and its remake Between Two Worlds 44.

Mississippi riverboats have featured in Mississippi, Rhythm on the River, Mississippi Gambler, The Secret Life of Walter Mitty, The Naughty Nineties, The Adventures of Mark Twain, Four for Texas, Frankie and Johnny, and the several versions of Showboat; also in the TV series Riverboat.

Sailing ships of olden days are too numerous to detail.

The Shop around the Corner.

Nikolaus Laszlo's play about two Budapest shop assistants who are unaware that they are pen pals was filmed by Ernst Lubitsch in 1940, with Margaret Sullavan and James Stewart, as a charming piece of Hollywood schmaltz. In 1949 Robert Z. Leonard remade it as a musical, In the Good Old Summertime, with Judy Garland and Van Johnson.

The Shopworn Angel.

This comedy-drama about a Hollywood gold-digger who gives up her rich provider for a poor soldier has been filmed four times: as Pettigrew's Girl, a silent in 1919, with Ethel Clayton and Monte Blue; in 1929, with Nancy Carroll, Paul Lukas, and Gary Cooper; in 1938, with Margaret Sullavan, Walter Pidgeon, and James Stewart; and in 1959, as That Kind of Woman, with Sidney Lumet directing Sophia Loren, George Sanders, and Tab Hunter.

Show Boat.

Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II's operetta from Edna Ferber's novel was filmed by Harry Pollard in 1929 with Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut; by James Whale in 1936 with Irene Dunne, Allan Jones, and Paul Robeson; and by George Sidney in 1951 with Kathryn Grayson, Howard Keel, and William Warfield.

Silly Symphony.

The name given by Walt Disney to all his short cartoon fables of the 30s which did not feature Mickey Mouse, Pluto or Donald Duck.

A Sister to Assist'er.

George Dewhurst wrote, from John le Breton's play, and directed three versions of this comedy about a poor tenant who pretends to be her rich sister in order to trick her landlady into giving her back her possessions: in 1930, starring Barbara Gott; in 1938, starring Muriel George; and again in 1948, with Muriel George. The definitive performance as the hard-up Mrs May, though, was given on the stage by Fred Emney (1866-1917), father of the film and stage comic actor Fred Emney.

Sitting Pretty.

The 1947 comedy starring Clifton Webb as Lynn Belvedere, babysitter extraordinary, brought two sequels: Mr Belvedere Goes to College 49, and Mr Belvedere Rings the Bell 51. The title was also used for a 1933 comedy featuring Jack Oakie and Jack Haley as two songwriters hitch-hiking their way to Hollywood.

skiing

has formed a pleasant background in many romantic comedies including I Met Him in Paris and Two-Faced Woman; in farces including The Pink Panther and Snowball Express; dramas including Last of the Ski Bums, Ski Fever and Downhill Racer; and in a plethora of spy stories, including Caprice, The Double Man and a couple of Bonds. The most musical ski sequence was provided by The Beatles in Help!

slapstick.

One of the earliest (1895) Lumière shorts, L'Arroseur Arrosé, was a knockabout farce, and in 1966 A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum was keeping the tradition going. Out of simple slapstick developed the great silent clowns, each with his own brand of pathos: Harold Lloyd, Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton, Fatty Arbuckle, Harry Langdon, Mabel Normand, Larry Semon, Laurel and Hardy. Pure destructive slapstick without humanity was superbly dispensed by Mack Sennett, especially in his Keystone Kops shorts. France had produced Max Linder; Britain lagged behind, but in the 20s Betty Balfour, Monty Banks and Lupino Lane kept the flag flying. Many of these names survived in some degree when sound came, but cross-talk was an added factor in the success of Wheeler and Woolsey, Charlie Chase, Edgar Kennedy, Leon Errol, Hugh Herbert, Joe E. Brown, W. C. Fields, Eddie Cantor, Abbott and Costello and above all the Marx Brothers. Similarly in Britain there was an influx of stage comics with firm music-hall traditions: George Formby, Will Hay, Max Miller, Gracie Fields, Leslie Fuller, the Crazy Gang, Arthur Askey, Gordon Harker, Sandy Powell, Frank Randle and Old Mother Riley. The 40s in Hollywood brought the more sophisticated slapstick of Danny Kaye, writer-director Preston Sturges, and the Bob Hope gag factory, with extreme simplicity keeping its end up via Olsen and Johnson and Jerry Lewis. In the 50s, TV finally brought a female clown, Lucille Ball, to the top; though competition was thin. France since the war has had Fernandel, Louis de Funes, Jacques Tati and Pierre Etaix; Britain, Norman Wisdom and Morecambe and Wise; Italy, Toto and Walter Chiari. In Hollywood the fashion over more than thirty years was for epic comedies of violence and destruction, such as It's a Mad Mad Mad Mad World, The Great Race, Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines and The Blues Brothers.

Slaughter.

A Vietnam veteran out for revenge on those who killed his parents and friend was played by Jim Brown in two films: Slaughter 72 and Slaughter's Big Rip-Off 73.

slogans

All kinds of claims have been made over the years for all kinds of products. Here are a few of the most memorable.

❝ Famous Players in Famous Plays is certainly the longest lasting, all the way from 1912. The films hardly lived up to it, any more than it was true that:

Selznick Pictures Create Happy Homes

Or that Warners fooled anybody by linking:

Good Films - Good Citizenship

Or MGM by claiming that their spur was:

Ars Gratia Artis (art for its own sake)

MGM's secondary claim:

More Stars than there are in Heaven was simply a slight exaggeration. When talkies came in, two favourite lines were:

All Talking, All Singing, All Dancing

And, from Vitaphone:

Pictures that Talk Like Living People!

The whole industry sometimes gets together on a propaganda campaign. In the 30s, it was:

Go to a Motion Picture - and Let Yourself Go!

In the 40s, simply:

Let's go to a movie!

In the 50s, in face of the arch-enemy television:

Don't be a Living Room Captive! Go Out and See a Great Movie!

And a few years later:

Movies are Your Best Entertainment!

The one I like best was concocted by the proprietors of CinemaScope in the face of 3-D. Originally it ran:

You see it without the use of glasses!

This not unnaturally brought a few complaints from bespectacled patrons who thought they were being guaranteed a new freedom, so hurriedly and rather lamely it was changed to:

You see it without the use of special glasses!

small towns

were for many years the staple of the American cinema. Most audiences were small-town folk, and wanted to see slightly idealized versions of themselves. Thus the popularity of the happy families, the Hardys and the Joneses; thus Our Town, The Human Comedy, Ah Wilderness, The Music Man and The Dark at the Top of the Stairs. The darker side of small-town life was shown in The Chase, Kings Row, Peyton Place and Invasion of the Body Snatchers. British small towns did not have the same aura; most of the comparable stories were set against industrial backgrounds.

Smilin' Through.

The popular sentimental stage play by Jane Cowl and June Murfin, about a tragedy affecting the romances of two generations, was filmed in 1922 by Sidney Franklin, with Norma Talmadge, Wyndham Standing, and Harrison Ford; in 1932, again by Sidney Franklin, with Norma Shearer, Leslie Howard, and Fredric March. In 1941 Frank Borzage remade it with Jeanette MacDonald, Brian Aherne, and Gene Raymond.

smoking

has served as the springboard of a few plots. No Smoking and Cold Turkey concerned cures for it, and one also figured in Taking Off. In On a Clear Day You Can See Forever Barbra Streisand launched the plot by taking psychiatric advice about it. The most fashionable smoking habit was Paul Henreid's in Now Voyager, lighting two cigarettes and passing one to Bette Davis; this was mimicked with eight cigarettes by Bob Hope in Let's Face It. The longest cigarette holder was sported by Harpo Marx in A Night in Casablanca. In the 90s there was a concerted campaign to stop stars smoking on-screen, on the grounds that it encouraged the young and impressionable to take up the habit. Perhaps as a reaction came Smoke and Blue in the Face 95, two films set in a Brooklyn cigar store. The Insider 99, dealt with a former tobacco company scientist exposing official denials that cigarettes harm health.

smugglers

of the old-fashioned type are almost entirely a British concern, figuring in Fury at Smugglers' Bay, Jamaica Inn, The Ghost Train, Oh Mr Porter, Ask a Policeman, I See a Dark Stranger, Moonfleet, and others. Smuggling in American films has been a much more modern and less picturesque affair.

social comedy.

Silent romantic comedies were completely unrealistic, though they sometimes found it prudent to pretend satirical intent to cloak their lowbrow commercialism. Social comedy really came in as a substitute for sex comedy when the Hays Office axe fell in 1934. Frank Capra took by far the best advantage of it, with his series of films showing an America filled to bursting point with good guys who only wanted a simple and comfortable home life in some small town where corruption never raised its ugly head. The best of these films were Mr Deeds Goes to Town, You Can't Take It with You and Mr Smith Goes to Washington; by the time Meet John Doe came along in 1941 war had soured the mood again. There was no British equivalent to Capra, unless one counts a few attempts by Priestley (The Good Companions, Let the People Sing) and such amusing depictions of the middle class as Quiet Wedding and Dear Octopus; but in the late 40s came the Ealing comedies, delightful and apparently realistic, but presenting a picture of England just as false as Capra's America. In both countries the 50s saw the development of an affluent society in which cynicism was fashionable and few reforms seemed worth urging except in bitterly serious fashion.

social conscience

has long been a feature of Hollywood film production. Other countries have presented the odd feature pointing to flaws in their national make-up, but America has seemed particularly keen to wash its own dirty linen on screen, perhaps because this is rather easier than actually cleaning up the abuses.

The evolution of this attitude can be traced back as far as 1912 and Griffith's The Musketeers of Pig Alley, showing slum conditions, a theme developed in Intolerance 16; and, of course, Chaplin was a master at devising humour and pathos out of the unpleasant realities of poverty, a fact which endeared him to poor people all over the world. But it was not till the late 20s that the flood of socially conscious films began in earnest. Vidor's The Crowd investigated the drabness of everyday life for a city clerk. John Baxter's British Dosshouse was a lone entry on the lines of The Lower Depths. City Streets and One-Third of a Nation treated slum conditions; Vidor's Our Daily Bread concerned a young couple driven out of the city by poverty only to find farming just as precarious. Little Caesar and the gangster dramas which followed always assumed a crusading moral tone deploring the lives of vice and crime which they depicted; there was a somewhat more honest ring to I Was a Fugitive from a Chain Gang, which showed how circumstance can drive an honest man into anti-social behaviour. Capra sugared his pill with comedy: American Madness (the madness was money) and the popular comedies which followed all pitted common-man philosophy against urban sophistication and corruption.

In the mid-30s there were certainly many abuses worth fighting. Black Legion began Hollywood's campaign against the Ku Klux Klan, later followed up in The Flaming Cross, Storm Warning and The Cardinal. Lynch law, first tackled in Fury, was subsequently the subject of They Won't Forget, The Ox Bow Incident and The Sound of Fury. Juvenile delinquency was probed in Dead End, Angels with Dirty Faces and They Made Me a Criminal, but the 'Dead End Kids' were later played for comedy. Prison reform was advocated in Each Dawn I Die, Castle on the Hudson, and many other melodramas of questionable integrity. The Good Earth invited concern for the poor of other nations; Mr Smith Goes to Washington and The Glass Key were among many dramas showing that politicians are not incorruptible; Love on the Dole depicted the poverty of industrial Britain; The Grapes of Wrath and Tobacco Road pondered the plight of farming people deprived of a living by geographical chance and thoughtless government. In Sullivan's Travels, Preston Sturges came to the curious conclusion that the best thing you can do for the poor is make them laugh.

During World War II the nations were too busy removing the abuse of Nazidom to look inward, and indeed much poverty was alleviated by conscription and a fresh national awareness which, together with the increased need for industrial manpower, greatly improved the lot of the lower classes. But with victory came a whole crop of films, led by The Best Years of Our Lives and Till the End of Time, about the rehabilitation of war veterans. Concern about mental illness was shown in The Snake Pit, about paraplegia in The Men, and about labour relations in The Whistle at Eaton Falls. Alcoholism was treated in The Lost Weekend and Smash-Up, and the racial issues were thoroughly aired in Lost Boundaries, Crossfire, Home of the Brave, No Way Out, Gentleman's Agreement and Pinky. A plea for nations to help and understand each other was made in the French Race for Life.

With the development in the 50s of the affluent society, the number of reforms worth urging was drastically reduced. Teenage hoodlums figured largely in a score of films of which the best were The Wild One and Rebel without a Cause. Mentally handicapped children were sympathetically portrayed in A Child is Waiting. In the 1960s, however, it was one world issue which dominated the film-makers' social consciousness, that of the panic button; and this manifested itself in films as diverse as On the Beach, Dr Strangelove, Fail Safe and The Bedford Incident.

Social consciousness was apparent in almost every drama of the 70s, but used as a top dressing, sometimes to permit the exploitation of violence.

Solaris,

a novel by Polish science-fiction writer Stanislaw Lem, has been filmed twice. It concerns a psychologist who investigates strange happenings aboard a space station in orbit around the oceanic planet Solaris. There he is visited by his dead lover and determines that the ocean is creating beings from the human subconscious. In 1972, Andrei Tarkovsky turned it into a long (165 minute) slow meditation on guilt, memory and transformation that has established itself as a classic, though Lem was displeased with it. Steven Soderbergh remade it as a 99 minute film in 2002, which concentrated on the relationship between George Clooney as the psychologist and Natascha McElhone as his dead wife. Despite its stars, it did not do well at the box-office.

soldiers

depicted at length in films include Alexander the Great (by Richard Burton), Hannibal (by Victor Mature), Genghis Khan (by John Wayne and Omar Sharif), Alexander Nevsky (by Cherkassov), Clive of India (by Ronald Colman), Napoleon (by Charles Boyer, Marlon Brando, Herbert Lom, and others), Bonnie Prince Charlie (by David Niven), Wellington (by George Arliss), General Gordon (by Charlton Heston), Custer (by Errol Flynn and Robert Shaw), La Fayette (by Michel le Royer), Davy Crockett (by Fess Parker and others), Sergeant York (by Gary Cooper), Audie Murphy (by Audie Murphy), Rommel (by Erich von Stroheim and James Mason), Che Guevara (by Omar Sharif), General Patton (by George C. Scott), General Macarthur (by Gregory Peck) and Lt Colonel Hal Moore (Mel Gibson.).

space exploration

on screen began in 1899 with Mélies; in the 20s Fritz Lang made The Woman in the Moon and in the 30s there was Buck Rogers in the Twenty-Fifth Century, but not until 1950 did the subject seem acceptable as anything but fantasy. In that year an adventure of the comic-strip type, Rocketship XM, competed for box-office attention with George Pal's semi-documentary Destination Moon, and suddenly the floodgates were opened. During the years that followed we were offered such titles as Riders to the Stars, Fire Maidens from Outer Space, Satellite in the Sky, From the Earth to the Moon, Conquest of Space, Forbidden Planet, It!, The Terror from Beyond Space, Robinson Crusoe on Mars, The First Men in the Moon, 2001: A Space Odyssey, Saturn Three, Outland, the Star Wars sagas, and Mission to Mars. Nor was the traffic all one way: Earth had many strange visitors from other planets, notably in The Thing From Another World, The Day the Earth Stood Still, Devil Girl from Mars, Stranger from Venus, It Came from Outer Space, Invasion of the Body Snatchers (the best and subtlest of them all), The War of the Worlds, The Quatermass Experiment, Quatermass II, Visit to a Small Planet, This Island Earth, and The Man Who Fell to Earth. On television, the most imaginative exploits have been in Star Trek, Space 1999, Buck Rogers and Galactica.

spaghetti westerns.

A dismissive name for the blood-spattered Italian imitations of American westerns which became popular in the 60s, using such actors as Lee Van Cleef and Clint Eastwood. They gained an international reputation, and incidentally made Eastwood into a star, through the work of Sergio Leone in the mid-60s, beginning with his A Fistful of Dollars. Leone orchestrated the action around dramatic close-ups, with a slow build to moments of extreme action, to the accompaniment of Ennio Morricone's plangent, percussive music. Eastwood set the pattern for the protagonist: a taciturn, laconic wanderer who was deadly with a gun. While he was 'the man with no name', other recurring heroes of the genre were Sartana, Django and Ringo. Other US actors who found employment in the films included Charles Bronson. Italian actors also found a role, including Franco Nero as Django, Tomas Milian and, as the genre encompassed more comedy, Bud Spencer and Terence Hill. By the beginning of the 70s, the genre has lost most of its impetus, though it influenced later westerns such as Sam Peckinpah's The Wild Bunch.

Books: 1975, Italian Western: The Opera of Violence by Laurence Staig and Tony Williams; 1998, Spaghetti Westerns: Cowboys and Europeans from Karl May to Sergio Leone by Christopher Frayling.

The Spanish Civil War

featured in a few Hemingway picturizations, notably For Whom the Bell Tolls and The Snows of Kilimanjaro; in The Fallen Sparrow, Blockade, The Angel Wore Red, Love under Fire, Last Train from Madrid, Arise My Love, Confidential Agent and (remotely) The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie. In more documentary style were L'Espoir, Spanish Earth, Guernica, To Die in Madrid, ¡Ay, Carmela! and Land and Freedom, while British television has produced two extended assemblies of newsreel footage.

speeches of any length are the antithesis of good film-making, but sometimes a long monologue has been not only an actor's dream but absolutely right, memorable and hypnotic in its context. The record (20 minutes) is probably held by Edwige Feuillère in The Eagle Has Two Heads, but more effective, and somewhat shorter, were Sam Jaffe in Lost Horizon, Alec Guinness in The Mudlark, Orson Welles in Compulsion, Spencer Tracy in Inherit the Wind, Anne Baxter in The Walls of Jericho, James Stewart in Mr Smith Goes to Washington, Paul Muni in The Life of Emile Zola, Don Murray in One Man's Way, Orson Welles in Moby Dick, and Charles Chaplin in The Great Dictator.

Speedy Gonzales.

Fast-moving Mexican mouse who was the hero of Warner Brothers cartoons. Created by Friz Freleng and animator Hawley Pratt, he was voiced by Mel Blanc.

Speedy Gonzales (AA) 55. Tabasco Road (AAN) 57. The Pied Piper of Guadalupe (AAN) 61. Mexican Cat Dance 63. Chili Corn Corny 66. Speedy Ghost to Town 67. See Ya Later, Gladiator 67, etc.

Spider-Man.

The Marvel comics super-hero, otherwise Peter Parker, a shy science student bitten by an irradiated spider, was created by Stan Lee in 1962. Animated versions of his adventures appeared on TV from 1967. Nicholas Hammond starred in a live-action TV series that had a short run in 1978. A movie version was released in 2002, directed by Sam Raimi with Tobey Maguire in the title role. It was among the box-office successes of the year. A sequel, Spider-Man 2, in which he was pitted against the octopus-like villain Doc Ock (Alfred Molina) was released in 2004. Spider-Man 3, in which the villain was Sandman (Thomas Haden Church) was due for release in 2007.

spies

enjoyed enormous popularity as the heroes of over-sexed, gimmick-ridden melodramas. Real-life spies have been less frequently depicted, the world of James Bond being much livelier than those of Moyzich (Five Fingers), Odette Churchill (Odette V.C.), Nurse Edith Cavell, Violette Szabo (Carve Her Name with Pride), Mata Hari, or the gangs in The House on 92nd Street, 13 Rue Madeleine, and Ring of Spies.

Fictional spy films first became popular during and after World War I: they added a touch of glamour to an otherwise depressing subject, even though the hero often faced the firing squad in the last reel. Right up to 1939 romantic melodramas on this theme were being made: I Was a Spy, The Man Who Knew Too Much, The Thirty-Nine Steps, Lancer Spy, The Spy in Black, Dark Journey, British Agent, Secret Agent, The Lady Vanishes, Espionage Agent, Confessions of a Nazi Spy. The last-named brought the subject roughly up to date, and with the renewed outbreak of hostilities new possibilities were hastily seized in Foreign Correspondent, Night Train to Munich, Casablanca, The Conspirators, They Came to Blow Up America, Berlin Correspondent, Across the Pacific, Escape to Danger, Ministry of Fear, Confidential Agent, Sherlock Holmes and the Secret Weapon, Hotel Reserve, and innumerable others. (It was fashionable during this period to reveal that the villains of comedy-thrillers and who-done-its were really enemy agents.) During the post-war years two fashions in film spying became evident: the downbeat melodrama showing spies as frightened men and women doing a dangerous job (Notorious, Cloak and Dagger, Hotel Berlin, Orders to Kill) and the 'now it can be told' semi-documentary revelation (O.S.S., Diplomatic Courier, The Man Who Never Was, The Two-Headed Spy, The Counterfeit Traitor, Operation Crossbow). In the late 40s Nazis and Japs were replaced by reds, and we had a spate of melodramas under such titles as I Married a Communist, I Was a Communist for the FBI, I Was an American Spy, Red Snow and The Red Danube.

There had always been spy comedies. Every comedian made one or two: the Crazy Gang in Gasbags, Duggie Wakefield in Spy for a Day, Jack Benny in To Be or Not To Be, Bob Hope in They Got Me Covered, Radford and Wayne in It's Not Cricket, George Cole in Top Secret, right up to the Carry On Team in Carry On Spying and Morecambe and Wise in The Intelligence Men. There were also occasional burlesques like All Through the Night and sardonic comedies like Our Man in Havana. But it was not until the late 50s that the spy reasserted himself as a romantic figure who could be taken lightly; and not until 1962 was the right box-office combination of sex and suspense found in Dr No. Since then we have been deluged with pale imitations of James Bond to such an extent that almost every leading man worth his salt has had a go. Cary Grant in Charade, David Niven in Where the Spies Are, Rod Taylor and Trevor Howard in The Liquidator, Dirk Bogarde in Hot Enough for June, Michael Caine in The Ipcress File, Paul Newman in Torn Curtain, James Coburn in Our Man Flint, Gregory Peck in Arabesque, Yul Brynner in The Double Man, George Peppard in The Executioner, Stephen Boyd in Assignment K, Frank Sinatra in The Naked Runner, Anthony Hopkins in When Eight Bells Toll, Kirk Douglas in Catch Me a Spy, Tom Adams in Licensed to Kill. There have also been elaborations such as the extreme sophistication of The Manchurian Candidate, the cold realism of The Spy Who Came in from the Cold, the op-art spoofing of Modesty Blaise, even the canine agent of The Spy with a Cold Nose and spies from outer space in This Island Earth. And the TV screens of 1970 were filled with such tricky heroes as those in Danger Man (Secret Agent), The Man from U.N.C.L.E., Amos Burke Secret Agent, The Baron, I Spy and The Avengers. The trend of the 70s was towards sour and disenchanted looks at the whole business, such as Callan, The Killer Elite, Permission to Kill and Three Days of the Condor.

The Spoilers.

Rex Beach's action novel has been filmed five times, with interest centring on its climactic fight scene between the two male leads, who were as follows: 1914, William Farnum and Tom Santschi; 1922, Milton Sills and Noah Beery; 1930, William Boyd and Gary Cooper; 1942, John Wayne and Randolph Scott; 1956, Jeff Chandler and Rory Calhoun.

sportsmen

who have been the subject of biopics include Babe Ruth (William Bendix) in The Babe Ruth Story and Babe (John Goodman); Grover Cleveland Alexander (Ronald Reagan) in The Winning Team; Lou Gehrig (Gary Cooper) in The Pride of the Yankees; Monty Stratton (James Stewart) in The Stratton Story; Jim Piersall (Anthony Perkins) in Fear Strikes Out; Jim Corbett (Errol Flynn) in Gentleman Jim; John L. Sullivan (Greg McClure) in The Great John L.; Knute Rockne (Pat O'Brien) in Knute Rockne All-American; Jim Thorpe (Burt Lancaster) in Jim Thorpe All-American/Man of Bronze; Ben Hogan (Glenn Ford) in Follow the Sun; Annette Kellerman (Esther Williams) in Million Dollar Mermaid. American athlete Steve Prefontaine, who died young, was the subject of two competing biopics in 1997: Prefontaine, starring Jared Leto, and Without Limits, starring Billy Crudup. He was also the subject of a 1995 TV documentary, Fire on the Track.

Squibs.

The cockney flower-seller heroine of George Pearson's silent comedy put in her first successful appearance in 1921. Public acclaim produced three sequels: Squibs Wins the Calcutta Sweep 22, Squibs MP 23, Squibs' Honeymoon 23. Pearson then grew tired of the tomboyish character and cast Betty Balfour in other roles, but she reappeared in a not-too-successful talkie version in 1936, with Gordon Harker and Stanley Holloway.

staircases

have provided dramatic backgrounds for many films. Martin Balsam was murdered on one in Psycho; the climax of The Spiral Staircase took place just there; Vivien Leigh was carried up one by a lustful Clark Gable in Gone with the Wind; Jerry Lewis danced down one in Cinderfella; Errol Flynn and Basil Rathbone duelled on one in The Adventures of Robin Hood; Ann Todd rode a horse up one in South Riding; Joan Fontaine in Rebecca descended one in delight and ascended it in tears; Raymond Massey ascended a particularly shadowy one in The Old Dark House, and later a very sinister character came down it; the entire cast of Ship of Fools came down one at the end, like a musical finale; a severed head bumped down one in Hush Hush Sweet Charlotte; Gene Tierney threw herself down one in Leave Her to Heaven; an old lady was tossed down one in a wheelchair in Kiss of Death; Bela Lugosi in Dracula passed through the cobwebs on one without breaking them; Laurel and Hardy in Blockheads had to descend and ascend innumerable flights of stairs in pursuit of a lost ball; Anna Sten was killed on one in The Wedding Night; the lighthouse staircase was a dramatic feature of Thunder Rock; James Cagney danced down the White House staircase in Yankee Doodle Dandy; and the main feature of A Matter of Life and Death was a moving stairway to heaven. In his last film, Greystoke, Ralph Richardson slid down a staircase on a tea-tray. Universal and Paramount both had very striking and oft-used staircase sets in the 40s; the latter was most dramatically used for Kirk Douglas' death in The Strange Love of Martha Ivers. Oddly enough in the film called Staircase the staircase was not an essential feature.

A Star Is Born.

Dorothy Parker, Alan Campbell, and Robert Carson's screenplay for the 1937 film has become a Hollywood legend and in some cases a reality: the marriage of two stars goes on the rocks because one of them is on the way up and the other on the way down. It was first tailored for Janet Gaynor and Fredric March and directed by William Wellman. In 1954 George Cukor directed Judy Garland and James Mason in the star roles. In 1976 it was revamped for Barbra Streisand and Kris Kristofferson. The theme can be traced back to a 1930 film, What Price Hollywood?, from a story by Adela Rogers St Johns.

Star Wars.

George Lucas's immensely popular science-fiction romp of 1977 was swiftly followed by two sequels: The Empire Strikes Back 80 and The Return of the Jedi 83. In 1999 came Star Wars Episode 1: The Phantom Menace, the first of a projected trilogy of prequels to the original three films, detailing the earlier history of the protagonists. It was preceded, in 1997, by a re-release of Star Wars and its two sequels, featuring enhanced special effects. The films proved as popular the second time around. Episode II: Attack of the Clones followed in 02 and Episode III: Revange of the Sith was released in 05 with the slogan 'The saga is complete'.

State Fair.

Philip Strong's novel of small-town virtues, champion hogs, and bucolic romance has been filmed three times: in 1933, directed by Henry King, with Will Rogers and Janet Gaynor; in 1945, as a musical, directed by Walter Lang, with Jeanne Crain, Dana Andrews, Dick Haymes, Vivian Blane, and songs by Oscar Hammerstein II; and in 1962, directed by José Ferrer, with Pat Boone, Bobby Darin, Pamela Tiffin, and Ann-Margret, and new songs added by Richard Rodgers.

statesmen who have frequently been depicted in films include Disraeli (most often), Gladstone, Melbourne, Ramsay Macdonald (disguised in Fame is the Spur), Woodrow Wilson, Churchill, Roosevelt (notably in Sunrise at Campobello), Lincoln, Parnell, John F. Kennedy and Richard Nixon. Fleeting glimpses of famous leaders were also given in Mission to Moscow and some Russian wartime films.

See also: POLITICS

statues

have come to life in Night Life of the Gods, Animal Crackers, Turnabout, One Touch of Venus, and Mannequin. They were central to the plots of The Light that Failed, Latin Quarter, Song of Songs and Mad Love, while A Taste of Honey involved them in an attractive title sequence. In horror films, they came murderously alive in Night of the Eagle, The Norliss Tapes (TV) and that grand-daddy of them all, The Golem.

Stella Dallas.

The weepy novel of frustrated mother love, written by Olive Higgins Prouty, was filmed by Henry King in 1925, with Belle Bennett and Ronald Colman; by King Vidor in 1937, with Barbara Stanwyck and John Boles; and by John Erman in 1990, as Stella, with Bette Midler and John Goodman.

The Stepford Wives

Ira Levin's satirical novel of 1950s conformity and consumerism was turned on 1975 into a movie about a town of perfect housewives by screenwriter William Goldman and director Bryan Forbes, with a cast headed by Katherine Ross and Nanette Newman. It was followed by two TV films, Revenge of the Stepford Wives, directed by Robert Fuest in 1980 and The Stepford Children, directed by Alan J. Levi in 1987. Frank Oz directed a re-make of the original in 2004 starring Nicole Kidman with a script by Paul Rudnik. While the first version worked as a spooky variation on The Invasion of the Body Snatchers, the second attempted a comedy of masculine fears of feminine domination and met with critical hostility and audience indifference.

storms

of one kind or another have been brilliantly staged in The Hurricane, The Wizard of Oz, When Tomorrow Comes, Reap the Wild Wind, Typhoon, Lord Jim, A High Wind in Jamaica, The Blue Lagoon, Sunrise, Key Largo, Ryan's Daughter, Portrait of Jennie, Noah's Ark and The Bible, to name but a handful; they have also been essential situation-builders in such films as Five Came Back, Hatter's Castle, Our Man Flint, The Card, Storm Fear and The Blue Lagoon. A whole genre of films, known as the 'thunderstorm mystery', grew up in the 30s when every screen murder took place in a desolate mansion during a terrifying storm with no means of communication with the outside world; typical of these are The Black Cat, The Cat and the Canary, The Ghost Breakers, Night Monster, Hold That Ghost, You'll Find Out and The Spiral Staircase. Finally there is nothing like a good electrical storm for breathing life into a monster, as evidenced in a score of films from Frankenstein to The Electric Man and after.

strikes:

see LABOUR RELATIONS.

striptease.

The staple of burlesque and Las Vegas finally made it to the screen with no holds barred and no breasts bra'ed in Paul Verhoeven's Showgirls 95, a film about the lives of two 'lap dancers'. It also brought Demi Moore $12m, the most money ever paid to a Hollywood actress, to play the role of a stripper in Striptease 96, based on Carl Hiassen's thriller. Strippers also featured in Atom Egoyan's award-winning art film Exotica 94. The first known stripper was Lady Godiva, whose legend formed the basis for the updated British movie Lady Godiva Rides Again 51, and Lady Godiva 55, a US historical recreation set in Saxon times. The most famous artiste remains Gypsy Rose Lee whose autobiography of her early life was filmed as Gypsy 62; she was played by Natalie Wood, a guarantee that proceedings remained genteel. Gypsy Rose Lee's novel G-String Murders was filmed as Lady of Burlesque/Striptease Lady 43, featuring Barbara Stanwyck as a stripper who solves a number of backstage murders, and her play Doll Face/Come Back to Me, about a burlesque queen who goes to Broadway, was filmed in 1945. From the 30s onwards, she also appeared in Hollywood films, including The Stripper 63, but that had little to do with taking off clothes to music. Roger Corman produced a couple of exploitation movies on the theme, with Stripped to Kill 87 and Stripped to Kill II 89. Other strippers have included Britt Ekland in The Night They Raided Minsky's 68; Melanie Griffith in Fear City 84; Lolita Davidovitch, bringing about politician Earl Long's downfall in Blaze 89; Sherilyn Fenn in Ruby 92; Goldie Hawn as a hard-working mother in CrissCross 92; and Demi Moore in Striptease 96. Male strippers have been less popular so far, though Christopher Atkins appeared as one in A Night in Heaven 83, and Mel Chionglo's Midnight Dancers 94 was set in a nightclub featuring little else. The Full Monty 97 focused on a group of unemployed men who try stripping to earn some cash.

The Student of Prague.
The old German legend, about a man who sold his soul to the devil and bought it back only at the expense of his life, was filmed in 1913 by Stellan Rye, with Paul Wegener; in 1926 by Henrik Galeen, with Conrad Veidt; and in 1936 by Arthur Robison, with Anton Walbrook.

The Student Prince.
The Sigmund Romberg/Dorothy Donnelly operetta about a Ruritanian prince who loves a barmaid was filmed by Lubitsch in 1927 with Ramon Novarro and Norma Shearer. There was no sound version until 1954, when Richard Thorpe directed Ann Blyth and Edmund Purdom (the latter using Mario Lanza's voice).

student protest was a feature of a few films of the late 60s. They were not successful, with the exception of If. For the record the other main titles were Flick, The Strawberry Statement, Getting Straight, R.P.M. and The Revolutionary.

stuntmen,
who risk their lives doubling for the stars when the action gets too rough, have been featured in remarkably few movies: Hollywood Stunt Men, Lucky Devils, The Lost Squadron, Sons of Adventure, Callaway Went Thataway, Singin' in the Rain and Hooper, Hell's Angels was said to be the film on which most stuntmen were killed; more recently Paul Mantz lost his life while stunt-flying for The Flight of the Phoenix, which was subsequently dedicated to him. Most famous stuntmen are probably Yakima Canutt, who later became a famous second-unit director; Richard Talmadge, who doubled for Douglas Fairbanks and also directed a few films himself; and Cliff Lyons, who stood in for most of the western stars. Stuntmen who became famous in their own right include George O'Brien, Jock Mahoney, Rod Cameron and George Montgomery. In the early 80s a film called The Stunt Man took a wry view of the matter and a TV series called The Fall Guy was popular for a while.

submarines
have been the setting for so many war action films that only a few can be noted. Pure entertainment was the object of Submarine Patrol, Submarine Command, Torpedo Run, Destination Tokyo, Run Silent Run Deep, Crash Dive, The Deep Six and Ice Station Zebra. Somewhat deeper thoughts were permitted in Morning Departure, The Silent Enemy, Les Maudits, We Dive at Dawn, Crimson Tide and, best of all The Boat/Das Boot. Submarines became objects of farce in Jack Ahoy, Let's Face It, and Operation Petticoat.

More unusual submarine vehicles appeared in Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea, Around the World Under the Sea, Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, Thunderball, You Only Live Twice, Above Us the Waves and The Beast from 20,000 Fathoms.

subways:
see UNDERGROUND RAILWAYS.

suicide
became the central subject of two 60s films, Le Feu Follet and The Slender Thread, in which the motives for it in two particular cases are examined. It has, of course, been part of countless other plots, including factual or legendary ones such as Cleopatra, Romeo and Juliet and Scott of the Antarctic. Innumerable melodramas have begun with apparent suicides which have been proved by the disbelieving hero to be murder; the least likely of these may be The Third Secret. In An Inspector Calls a girl's suicide caused guilt complexes in an entire family for different reasons. In An American Dream the hero virtually commits suicide by walking into a room full of gangsters out to kill him. In Leave Her to Heaven the leading character commits suicide in such a way that her husband will be blamed for her murder. Several Japanese films have been based on the suicide pilots or kamikaze, and there has also been a graphic account of the principles of hara kiri. Suicide has often been the way out for villains in mystery pictures: drowning for Herbert Marshall in Foreign Correspondent, shooting for Leo G. Carroll in Spellbound, poison for Rosamund John in Green for Danger and Barry Fitzgerald in And Then There Were None. And one could not begin to count the films in which characters have been narrowly saved from suicide, like Ray Milland in The Lost Weekend. Attempted suicide was even played for comedy by Laurel and Hardy in The Flying Deuces, by Graham Chapman in The Odd Job, by Jack Lemmon in Buddy Buddy and Luv, by Burt Reynolds in The End, while in It's a Wonderful Life James Stewart was dissuaded from suicide by a friendly angel. In The Long Goodbye, Elliott Gould finds a presumed suicide alive, and shoots him.

Superman.
A comic strip character of the 30s, a being of giant powers from the planet Krypton; until they are needed he masquerades as Clark Kent, a timid newspaperman. Superman has never been out of fashion – 1978 brought a multi-million-dollar live version to follow the various cartoons and serials which have been popular over the years – and along the way he has inspired Batman, Spiderman, Doc Savage, the Six Million Dollar Man, the Bionic Woman, etc, etc. In 1984, after two further sequels, Superman gave way to Supergirl. The role has been played by Kirk Alyn in two serials, George Reeves, who took over for one serial before playing the part on television, Christopher Reeve in the big-budget films of the 70s and 80s, and Dean Cain in a 90s TV series. Superman Returns 06 starred Brandon Routh in the title role.

Superman (serial) 48. Atom Man vs Superman (serial) 50. Superman and the Mole Men (serial) 51. Superman 78. Superman II 80. Superman III 83. Superman IV: The Quest for Peace 87. Superman Returns 06.

TV series: Superman (with George Reeves) 53-57. Lois and Clark: The New Adventures of Superman 93-97.

Svengali,
the evil genius of George du Maurier's Victorian romance Trilby, has been seen at least five times on-screen. In 1915 Wilton Lackaye and Clara Kimball Young appeared in a version under the title Trilby. There was a British one-reeler in 1922 in the 'Tense Moments with Great Authors' series, and in 1923 James Young directed a second Hollywood version with Arthur Edmund Carewe and Andrée Lafayette. In 1931, under the title Svengali, Archie Mayo directed a sound remake with John Barrymore as the hypnotist to Marian Marsh's heroine, and in 1954 Donald Wolfit and Hildegarde Neff appeared in a British version directed by Noel Langley. (Robert Newton had proved incapable of playing the lead.) In 1982 Peter O'Toole and Jodie Foster were in a dismal TV modernization set in New York.

swashbucklers
are films of period adventure in which the hero and villain usually settle the issue by a duel to the death. The greatest screen swashbucklers of all are probably Douglas Fairbanks Snr and Errol Flynn, but one should also be grateful for the efforts of Tyrone Power (The Mark of Zorro), Douglas Fairbanks Jnr (Sinbad the Sailor), Ronald Colman (The Prisoner of Zenda), Stewart Granger (Scaramouche), Rudolph Valentino (The Eagle), Gene Kelly (The Three Musketeers), Robert Donat (The Count of Monte Cristo), Louis Hayward (The Man in the Iron Mask), Cornel Wilde (The Bandit of Sherwood Forest), Tony Curtis (The Purple Mask) and their numerous imitators. The 1976 attempt to revive (or spoof) the genre in Swashbuckler was a sorry failure; but The Mask of Zorro 98, and The Legend of Zorro 05 with Antonio Banderas, showed that there was some life left in the genre after all.

swinging London
was a myth, a creation of Time Magazine which rebounded through the world's press and lasted for several silly seasons from 1965. It also helped British production finances by persuading American impresarios that London was where the action was, and its influence was felt in scores of trendy and increasingly boring films, including Georgy Girl, Alfie, The Jokers, Kaleidoscope, Smashing Time, Help!, The Knack, Blow Up, Casino Royale, I'll Never Forget Whatshisname, To Sir with Love, Up the Junction, Bedazzled, Poor Cow, The Strange Affair, Salt and Pepper, Joanna, Darling and Otley.

The Swiss Family Robinson.
The classic children's novel by Johann Wyss was filmed in Hollywood in 1940 by Edward Ludwig, with Thomas Mitchell, Edna Best, Freddie Bartholomew, and Terry Kilburn. In 1960 Ken Annakin remade it as a Disney spectacular, with John Mills, Dorothy McGuire, James Macarthur, and Tommy Kirk as the desert island castaways.

sword and sorcery
is the term used to describe stories set in mythic fantasy worlds, where muscular heroes cleave their way through a landscape filled with monsters and magic. The most influential author in the genre has been Robert E. Howard, creator of Conan the Barbarian. In the mid-90s, the genre found its home on television in the series Hercules: the Legendary Journeys, starring Kevin Sorbo, and Xena: Warrior Princess, starring Lucy Lawless, which put the emphasis on spectacle and camp humour.

Hawk the Slayer 80. Conan the Barbarian 81. Fire and Ice 82. The Beastmaster 82. Sword and the Sorcerer 82. Ator the Fighting Eagle 83. Deathstalker 83. Krull 83. Blade Master/Ator the Invincible 84. Conan the Destroyer 84. Red Sonja 85. Wizards of the Lost Kingdom 85. Highlander 86. Deathstalker 2: Duel of the Titans 87. Deathstalker 3: The Warriors from Hell 89. Wizards of the Lost Kingdom 2 89. Highlander II: The Quickening 90. Beastmaster 2: Through the Portals of Time 91. Deathstalker 4: Match of the Titans 92. Highlander III: The Sorcerer 94. Wizards of the Demon Sword 94. Beastmaster 3: The Eye of Braxus 95. Kull the Conqueror 97, etc.

Sylvester.
The celebrated cartoon cat with the lisping Bronx accent, always in pursuit of Tweetie Pie but never quite managing to win, appeared from the 40s to the 60s in Warner shorts, voiced by the inimitable Mel Blanc.

Life with Feathers (AAN) 45. Tweetie Pie (AA) 47. Little Red Rodent Hood 52. Claws for Alarm 54. Speedy Gonzales (AA) 55. Tabasco Road (AAN) 57. Mouse-Taken Identity 57. Birds Anonymous (AA) 57. Trip for Tat 60. The Pied Piper of Guadalupe (AAN) 61. Freudy Cat 64, etc.

A Tale of Two Cities.
Apart from three very early one-reel versions, Dickens's novel of the French Revolution was filmed in 1917, with William Farnum, in 1926 with Maurice Costello and (as The Only Way) with Sir John Martin-Harvey, in 1935, with Ronald Colman, and in 1958, with Dirk Bogarde.

Tales of Manhattan.
Julien Duvivier's 1942 film, a string of anecdotes linked by the travels of one tail-coat, can be credited with starting or revivifying the short-story compendium form, later developed in such movies as Flesh and Fantasy, Quartet, Full House, The Story of Three Loves, It's a Great Country, and many others. The film's inspiration was Duvivier's own Un Carnet de Bal, made in 1937, which gave him his ticket to Hollywood.

talkies
caused the biggest revolution the film industry has known, and provoked critical resentment difficult to understand until one sees a very early talkie and realizes what a raucous and unpleasant experience it must have been until Hollywood caught up with itself. The main steps of development were as follows. In 1923 Lee de Forrest made primitive shorts. In 1926 Warners created Vitaphone, a disc process, and Fox pioneered sound on film with Movietone. Also in 1926 came Don Juan, the first film with synchronized music and effects. The first speaking and singing came in 1927 with Al Jolson in The Jazz Singer. In 1928 the first all-talking film, Lights of New York, set the seal of popular success on the new medium.

“The addition of sound to the movies was ridiculed and frantically opposed; but the industry needed the fresh impetus and at great expense the revolution was achieved.

No closer approach to resurrection has ever been made by science, said Professor M. Pupin of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. But it was years before he could claim perfect reproduction.

The tinkle of a glass, the shot of a revolver, a footfall on a hardwood floor, and the noise of a pack of cards being shuffled, all sounded about alike, said Gilbert Seldes in 1929. And Tallulah Bankhead complained:

They made me sound as if I'd been castrated.

E.V. Lucas complained:

They are doing away with the greatest boon that has ever been offered to the deaf.

The distinguished documentarist Paul Rotha joined in the dismay:

A film in which the speech and sound effects are perfectly synchronized and coincide with their visual images on screen is absolutely contrary to the aims of the cinema. It is a degenerate and misguided attempt to destroy the real use of the film.

Nor was the prestige of the industry helped by claims of mathematical impossibility such as:

100% talking! 100% singing! 100% dancing!

But the public forgave all: the novelty value was tremendous, even though they missed a number of favourite stars whose voices proved unsuitable. As Jack Warner said:

Men and women whose names were known throughout the land disappeared as though they had been lost at sea.

And Variety summed up:

Talkies didn't do more to the industry than turn it upside down, shake the entire bag of tricks from its pocket, and advance Warner Brothers from last place to first in the league.

But Ernst Lubitsch took a more cynical view:

You could name the great stars of the silent screen who were finished; the great directors, gone; the great title writers who were washed up. But remember this, as long as you live: the producers didn't lose a man. They all made the switch. That's where the great talent is.

Tammy.
Cid Ricketts Sumner's romantic novel of a cheerful country girl was filmed in 1957 with Debbie Reynolds in the title role; two sequels, Tammy Tell Me True and Tammy and the Doctor, followed in 1961 and 1963 starring Sandra Dee; they were followed by a fourth film, Tammy and the Millionaire, in 1967, starring Debbie Watson.

Tarzan.
The brawny jungle hero, an English milord lost in Africa as a child and who grew up with the apes, was a creation of novelist Edgar Rice Burroughs (1875-1950); the first Tarzan story was published in 1913. The films quickly followed. Tarzan of the Apes 18 starred Elmo Lincoln with Enid Markey as Jane; so did Romance of Tarzan 18. The Return of Tarzan 20 had Gene Pollar and Karla Schramm. Son of Tarzan 20 was a serial with Kamuela C. Searle in the title role; Tarzan was P. Dempsey Tabler, Elmo Lincoln returned in another serial, The Adventures of Tarzan 21, with Louise Lorraine. Tarzan and the Golden Lion 27 starred James Pierce and Dorothy Dunbar. Another serial, Tarzan the Mighty 28, had Frank Merrill and no Jane; a runner-up, Tarzan the Tiger 30, had the same crew. In 1932 came Johnny Weissmuller in the first of MGM's long line of Tarzan pictures: Tarzan the Ape Man, with Maureen O'Sullivan as Jane. There followed Tarzan and His Mate 34, Tarzan Escapes 36, Tarzan Finds a Son 39, Tarzan's Secret Treasure 41, and Tarzan's New York Adventure 42. Meanwhile in 1935 an independent company had made a serial starring Herman Brix which was later released as two features, Tarzan and the Green Goddess and New Adventures of Tarzan; and in 1933 producer Sol Lesser had started his Tarzan series with Tarzan the Fearless, starring Buster Crabbe; he followed this up with Tarzan's Revenge 38 starring Glenn Morris. In 1943 Lesser took over Weissmuller (but not O'Sullivan or any other Jane) for Tarzan Triumphs, followed by Tarzan's Desert Mystery 44, Tarzan and the Amazons (reintroducing Jane in the shape of Brenda Joyce) 45, Tarzan and the Leopard Woman 46, Tarzan and the Huntress 47, and Tarzan and the Mermaids 48. Then Weissmuller was replaced by Lex Barker for Tarzan's Magic Fountain 48, Tarzan and the Slave Girl 49, Tarzan's Peril 50, Tarzan's Savage Fury 51, and Tarzan and the She-Devil 52. Gordon Scott next undertook the chore in Tarzan's Hidden Jungle 55, Tarzan and the Lost Safari 57, Tarzan's Fight for Life 58, Tarzan's Greatest Adventure 59 and Tarzan the Magnificent 60. MGM now remade Tarzan the Ape Man 60 starring Denny Miller; and, with Jock Mahoney, Tarzan Goes to India 62 and National General presented Tarzan's Three Challenges 64. There followed Tarzan and the Valley of Gold 66, Tarzan and the Great River 67, and Tarzan and the Jungle Boy 68, all with Mike Henry. A 1982 remake of Tarzan the Ape Man had Miles O'Keeffe in the role but concentrated on the charms of Bo Derek as Jane; however, in 1984 Greystoke set the record straight by remaining slightly more faithful to Burroughs' original legend. A 1966-67 TV series starred Ron Ely. Joe Lara played him in a TV movie, Tarzan in Manhattan 89, and a subsequent TV series, Tarzan – The Epic Adventures. Casper Van Dien was a live-action ape-man in Tarzan and the Lost City 98, but failed to interest a new generation in his antics. More successful, and certainly more animated, was Disney's cartoon version Tarzan 99.

teachers

have been notably played by Robert Donat in Goodbye Mr Chips; Jennifer Jones in Good Morning Miss Dove; Greer Garson in Her Twelve Men; Michael Redgrave and Albert Finney in The Browning Version; Aline MacMahon in Back Door to Heaven; Claudette Colbert in Remember the Day; Bette Davis in The Corn Is Green; Jack Hawkins in Mandy; Judy Garland in A Child Is Waiting; Anne Bancroft in The Miracle Worker; Shirley Maclaine in Spinster; Glenn Ford in The Blackboard Jungle; Sidney Poitier in To Sir With Love; Sandy Dennis in Up the Down Staircase; Dorothy Dandridge in Bright Road; Max Bygraves in Spare the Rod; Otto Kruger in The Housemaster; Cecil Trouncer in The Guinea Pig; Maggie Smith in The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie; Joanne Woodward in Rachel, Rachel; Robert Mitchum in Ryan's Daughter; Laurence Olivier in Term of Trial; Richard Todd in The Love-Ins; James Whitmore in The Harrad Experiment; David Hemmings in Unman, Wittering and Zigo; Per Oscarsson in Who Saw Him Die? James Mason in Child's Play; Glenda Jackson in The Class of Miss MacMichael; Michael Ontkean in Willie and Phil; Perry King in Class of 1984, harassed by his pupils; Robin Williams in Dead Poets Society; Danny DeVito in Renaissance Man; and Michelle Pfeiffer in Dangerous Minds. In Class of 1999, the teachers got their revenge – they turned out to be androids equipped with military hardware. J. Eddie Peck taught by day and danced all night in Lambada so he could teach maths to his slum students. In the more inspiring Stand and Deliver, based on a true story, Edward James Olmos forced his pupils to succeed against the odds. So did Danny De Vito in Renaissance Man 94, Michelle Pfeiffer in Dangerous Minds 95, Richard Dreyfuss in the tear-jerking Mr Holland's Opus 95, and Meryl Streep, as another music teacher, in Hearts and Minds 99. The genre was mocked in High School High 96.

Comic teachers were to the fore in Boys Will Be Boys (Will Hay, the best of them all); the St Trinian's films; Carry On Teacher; Old Mother Riley Headmistress; Bottoms Up (Jimmy Edwards); Fun at St Fanny's (Fred Emney); The Happiest Days of Your Lives; Please Sir; and Vice Versa (James Robertson Justice).

See also: SCHOOLDAYS.

teams:

see ROMANTIC TEAMS.

Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles.

Comic-book heroes created by Kevin Eastman and Peter Laird in 1984. There are four, each named after a European artist – Leonardo, Raphael, Donatello and Michelangelo – because their creators thought that Japanese names would sound silly. Their transformation into humanoids came about in the way of 50s movie monsters: they were contaminated by radioactivity while babies. They were featured in animated TV cartoons (rechristened by BBC-TV Teenage Mutant Hero Turtles) in 1988, and a live-action film, directed by Steve Barron in 1990, became the most successful independent movie so far released. Sequels followed in 1991 and 1993.

the telephone

has been a very useful instrument to film scenarists. The saga of its invention was told in The Story of Alexander Graham Bell. It brought sinister, menacing and threatening calls in Sorry – Wrong Number, The Small World of Sammy Lee, Midnight Lace, I Saw What You Did, Experiment in Terror, Sudden Fear, Strangers on a Train, and Dirty Harry. Chicago Calling and The Slender Thread were among the films based entirely on someone trying to contact another character by telephone. Bells Are Ringing, The Glenn Miller Story and Bye Bye Birdie had musical numbers based on telephones. Shelly Berman, Jeanne de Casalis and Billy de Wolfe are among the revue artists famous for telephone sketches. Single phone calls were of high dramatic significance in The Spiral Staircase, Little Caesar, Fail Safe, Dr Strangelove, Murder Inc., Dial M for Murder, The Silencers, 2001: A Space Odyssey, No Way to Treat a Lady, Call Northside 777, and Phone Call from a Stranger, while the phone had a special inference in several call-girl pictures including Butterfield 8, Our Man Flint, Indiscreet, Strange Bedfellows, Come Blow Your Horn and It's a Mad Mad Mad Mad World are among the many films deriving comedy from the telephone ... while the most chilling moment in many a thriller has been the discovery that the phone is disconnected. In The President's Analyst the telephone company turned out to be the supreme enemy of civilization. In Julia Has Two Lovers, a crossed line led to the beginning of a romantic involvement with a gentleman caller.

television,

arch-enemy of the film-makers, was used during the 50s as an object of derision (The Titfield Thunderbolt, Happy Anniversary, It's Always Fair Weather, My Blue Heaven, Simon and Laura, Callaway Went Thataway, No Down Payment, Meet Mr Lucifer), or totally ignored. Yet it had featured in films even before World War II: International House, Television Spy, Murder by Television, Raffles, and a host of science fiction serials. More recently, television studios have provided a useful background for comedy (You Must Be Joking, A Hard Day's Night), for thrillers (The Glass Web, Arabesque, The Barefoot Executive) and for melodramas (Seven Days in May, The Third Secret, The Love Machine). The only serious movie study of the effects of television is A Face in the Crowd; and the funniest scenes about television programmes are probably those in The Apartment. Closed circuit TV is extensively used in The Forbin Project, The Andromeda Strain, Loving and The Anderson Tapes. In THX 1138 television is used as a mass opiate for the workers of the subterranean world of the future. A wild but fairly barbed satire on television was The Groove Tube, and Network took a lofty view of it before pitching into hysterical melodrama. Stay Tuned was an inept satire about a husband and wife sucked into a TV hell.

“ Some definitions, mostly jaundiced:

The bland leading the bland. – Anon

Chewing gum for the eyes. – Frank Lloyd Wright

The longest amateur night in history. – Robert Carson

A medium, so called because it is neither rare nor well done. – Ernie Kovacs

A twenty-one-inch prison. I'm delighted with it because it used to be that films were the lowest form of art. Now we have something to look down on. – Billy Wilder

Why should people go out and pay money to see bad films when they can stay at home and see bad television for nothing? – Samuel Goldwyn

A TV commercial was defined as:

The opening and closing quarter-hours of a half-hour show.

Though Cedric Hardwicke thought the ads were:

The last refuge of optimism in a world of gloom.

Irving Allen had his problems working in the medium:

I've tried to take the lunacy that exists in television and reduce it to a quiet panic.

John Simon was dismissive:

It is inconceivable what trash would be put on film these days if TV had not been invented, and the TV writers were functioning as scenarists.

Fred Allen saw it as:

A triumph of equipment over people. The minds that control it are so small that you could put them in the navel of a flea and still have room for a network vice-president's heart.

Billy Wilder was apprehensive:

A bad play folds and is forgotten, but in pictures we don't bury our dead. When you think it's out of your system your daughter sees it on TV and says: 'My father is an idiot.'

Groucho Marx as usual had a smart answer:

I find television very educational. Every time someone switches it on I go into another room and read a good book.

And it was an anonymous wit who had perhaps the best answer of all:

I prefer television. It's not so far to the bathroom.

Bob Hope as so often had the last word:

The other night I saw a Road picture so cut to make room for forty-five commercials that Bing and I weren't even in it.

television movies

became prevalent in the late 60s. For four or five years mediocre movies had failed to get theatrical release and were seen first on television; from this it was a short step to making feature films specifically for television exposure. Aaron Spelling and Universal were the main providers; costs were kept low by assembly-line methods, and it soon became just like the old days at the big studios, with stars making fast appearances in superficially glossy vehicles tailored to a specific time requirement. The quality obtained was roughly that of a Universal co-feature of the 50s. Middle-aged or elderly stars who still meant something to the home-viewing circle were coaxed back to the studios: Barbara Stanwyck, Susan Hayward, Ray Milland, Bette Davis, Shelley Winters, Broderick Crawford, Myrna Loy, Milton Berle and their peers all starred again in the new forms, some in two-hour slots (97 minutes actual) but most successfully in 90-minute slots (73 minutes actual). By 1972 such films were appearing at the rate of two or three a week, more if one includes long-form series such as Mystery Movie, which gave new life to George Peppard, Rock Hudson, Richard Boone. Peter Falk and others. Crime was the most popular element of these films, with a strong flavouring of the supernatural, an occasional western or sob story, and a modicum of comedy. Art was not sought after, but as the touch became more assured, a few films received critical acclaim, notably Brian's Song, Short Walk to Daylight, Duel, and That Certain Summer. One such film, My Sweet Charlie, was sent on theatrical release after its TV exposure, but the experiment failed. In Britain, several of the films went out on theatrical release before TV exposure, and one of them, Duel, received rave reviews. By the mid-70s the trend in TV movies had turned to drama documentaries (Eleanor and Franklin, Fear On Trial) and to character drama, with an unfortunate stress on heroes and heroines dying of leukaemia, tumours and similar afflictions. Then the success of two serialized novels (Rich Man, Poor Man and Roots) started a stampede to climb on this new bandwagon.

Book: 1984, Movies Made for Television 1964-1984 by Alvin H. Marill

television series

based on motion picture originals almost outnumber the other kind. They include The Thin Man, The Whistler, Kings Row, Casablanca, My Friend Flicka, How to Marry a Millionaire, Margie, The Roaring Twenties, I Remember Mama, Blondie, Claudia, Jungle Jim, Hawkeye, The Invisible Man, Hudson's Bay, The Asphalt Jungle, Mr Smith Goes to Washington, Father of the Bride, Life with Father, National Velvet, Bus Stop, No Time for Sergeants, Going My Way, The Greatest Show on Earth, Les Girls, Peyton Place, The Naked City, Rin Tin Tin, Topper, The Virginian, Hopalong Cassidy, The Munsters (indirectly), *The Wackiest Ship in the Army, Mr Roberts, Gidget, Please Don't Eat the Daisies, Twelve O'Clock High, Dr Kildare, The Farmer's Daughter, The Long Hot Summer, Tarzan, The Rounders, The Saint, Gideon's Way, The Man Who Never Was, Batman, Mr Deeds Goes to Town, The Courtship of Eddie's Father, The Odd Couple, Barefoot in the Park, Anna and the King, Perry Mason, M*A*S*H, Shane, Lassie, Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice, Shaft, Adam's Rib, How the West Was Won, Planet of the Apes, Alice Doesn't Live Here Any More, Bagdad Café, Blue Thunder, Stir Crazy, In the Heat of the Night, Dirty Dancing, Alien Nation, Ferris Bueller, Uncle Buck, Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventures, Highlander, the Young Indiana Jones Chronicles, A League of Their Own, Robocop, FX, Party Girl, Buffy the Vampire Slayer, Police Academy, Stargate SG-1, The Magnificent Seven* and The Net.

The Ten Commandments.

Cecil B. De Mille made two films under this title. The 1923 version divided its time between the biblical story and a tale of what happens when moral laws are broken nowadays. It starred Richard Dix, Rod La Rocque, and Estelle Taylor. The 1956 version spent nearly four hours on the Bible story alone, and with less cinematic flair than the silent picture. Charlton Heston was Moses and Yul Brynner Pharaoh.

tennis

has accounted for some memorable scenes in the cinema, among them the suspenseful match in Strangers on a Train and the hilarious one in Monsieur Hulot's Holiday. Professional tennis was the subject of Hard Fast and Beautiful and Jocks. Nor should one forget the championship between Tom and Jerry in Tennis Chumps, or the weird game with no ball in Blow Up. Other tennis sequences figured in The System, Nobody Runs Forever, Come to the Stable, Pat and Mike, and Players; while there was a TV movie about Little Mo.

The Texas Chainsaw Massacre,

directed, produced and co-written by Tobe Hooper in 1974, has become a cult horror film and spawned several sequels. Its narrative, about teenagers who stumble across a family of deranged cannibalistic killers, was made memorable by its visual qualities, notably Gunnar Hansen as Leatherface, who owed something to real-life serial killer Ed Gein. It also had an intellectual appeal, being shown at the 1975 London Film Festival, though the BBFC refused it a certificate. The sequels were inferior: Hooper made Part 2 in 1986; the third followed in 1990, directed by Jeff Burr; the fourth, in 1995, featured Matthew McConaughey shortly before A Time to Kill made him Hollywood's newest heartthrob.

theatres

have provided an effective setting for many films apart from the countless putting-on-a-show musicals. Films concerned exclusively with matters theatrical include The Royal Family of Broadway, Twentieth Century, The Great Profile, The Country Girl, Stage Door, Morning Glory, Queen of Hearts, Heller in Pink Tights, Take the Stage, To Be or Not To Be, Main Street to Broadway, Les Enfants du Paradis, Prince of Players, The Velvet Touch, All About Eve, Curtain Up, Kiss Me Kate, The Producers, The Boyfriend, Variety Jubilee, A Chorus Line and Noises Off, while a theatre was also the principal setting for Those Were the Days, Henry V, Occupe-Toi d'Amélie, The Lost People, The High Terrace, Four Hours to Kill, The Phantom of the Opera and The Climax. Thrillers with climaxes in a theatre include The Thirty-Nine Steps, Torn Curtain, Charlie Chan at the Opera, Cover Girl Killer, The Westerner, Stage Fright, Charade, Scaramouche, The Deadly Affair, No Way to Treat a Lady and King Kong; comedies include A Night at the Opera, A Haunting We Will Go, Knock On Wood, The Intelligence Men, Trouble in Paradise, The Secret of My Success, My Learned Friend and Meet Mr Lucifer. Less frequent are uses of the theatre as a setting for romance, but it served this purpose in All This and Heaven Too, The Lady with a Little Dog, and Letter from an Unknown Woman. The scariest theatre was Theatre of Blood, with Vincent Price as an actor murdering all the critics who had given him bad notices.

See: CINEMAS.

The Thief of Bagdad.

This Arabian Nights tale was superbly filmed with Douglas Fairbanks in 1924, and again in 1940 with Sabu and some remarkable trick photography, directed by Michael Powell, Tim Whelan, and Ludwig Berger. An Italian version with a much-altered plot, starring Steve Reeves, followed in 1961, and there was a TV movie version in 1978, directed by Clive Donner with Roddy McDowell and Peter Ustinov.

Thieves Like Us, a thriller of a young couple on the run from the law, has been filmed twice, notably by Nicholas Ray in 1948 under the title of They Live By Night. In 1974 Robert Altman made another version of the novel by Edward Anderson, which was much longer but otherwise inferior. A similar theme has been the basis of many other Hollywood movies, including Terrence Malick's Badlands, and Oliver Stone's Natural Born Killers.

The Thin Man.

In Dashiell Hammett's crime novel, the thin man was the murderer's first victim, but the tag stuck to William Powell as Nick Charles the detective in the film, the success of which led to him starring, with Myrna Loy as Nora Charles, in five sequels: After the Thin Man 37; Another Thin Man 38; Shadow of the Thin Man 42; The Thin Man Goes Home 44; and Song of the Thin Man 46. A TV series starring Peter Lawford and Phyllis Kirk ran from 1957-59.

The Thing (from Another World).

The original, in 1951, was one of the first films to combine the horror genre with science fiction. It was produced by Howard Hawks (and some say directed by him, despite the credit to Christian Nyby; there were also rumours that Orson Welles had a hand in it). In John Carpenter's 1982 remake, the emphasis was on visceral special effects.

The Thirty-Nine Steps.

The first two film versions of John Buchan's spy yarn bore little resemblance to the novel, apart from the hero's original predicament and the Scottish setting: Hitchcock's version in 1935, working from Charles Bennett's pacy script, starred Robert Donat, Madeleine Carroll, and Godfrey Tearle; Ralph Thomas remade it in more stolid fashion in 1959 with Kenneth More, Taina Elg, and Barry Jones. Don Sharp's 1978 version with Robert Powell restored the original period and some of the plot.

This Gun for Hire.

Graham Greene's novel, A Gun for Sale, has been filmed twice: the first version, in 1942, directed by Frank Tuttle, catapulted Alan Ladd into the front rank of box-office attractions; the second, retitled Short Cut to Hell, was directed by James Cagney and starred Robert Ivers as the gunman, but both he and the movie passed without comment.

This Modern Age.

A series of current-affairs two-reelers sponsored in 1946 by Rank as the British answer to The March of Time. Although decently produced by Sergei Nolbandov, the monthly issues were not a popular addition to already overlong programmes, and the attempt was given up in 1949.

Three Coins in the Fountain.

Jean Negulesco's highly commercial romantic 1954 film, from John Secondari's novel, taught Hollywood the travelogue possibilities of CinemaScope in terms of freshening up a tired story. Ten years later, he attempted a disguised remake under the title The Pleasure Seekers, but the picture crept by almost unnoticed.

Three Men in a Boat.

Jerome K. Jerome's comic novel of three friends on a boat trip up the Thames has been filmed twice in the sound era: in 1933, directed by Graham Cutts, with William Austin, Edmund Breon, and Billy Milton; and in 1957, directed by Ken Annakin, with Laurence Harvey, Jimmy Edwards, and David Tomlinson.

The Three Mesquiteers.

A series of 'B' feature westerns released by Republic and featuring characters created by western novelist William Colt MacDonald. The first, in 1936, starred Ray 'Crash' Corrigan as Tucson Smith, Robert Livingston as Stony Brooke, and Syd Saylor, who was replaced thereafter by ventriloquist Max Terhune, as comic relief Lullaby Joslin with his dummy, Elmer Sneezeweed. The series was among the most popular westerns of the time, peaking in the late 30s but continuing into the 40s. John Wayne replaced Livingston as Stony Brooke in eight of the series, from Pals of the Saddle 38 to New Frontier/Frontier Horizon 39, making his first four films in five months, then taking a break before filming another four in order to appear in Stagecoach 38. Terhune left after making 21 movies in the series, Corrigan after 24, Livingston after 29. The later films starred Duncan Renaldo, Raymond Hatton, Tom Tyler, and Bob Steele. Corrigan and Terhune went on to appear with John 'Dusty' King in the similar Range Busters series for Monogram in the early 40s.

The Three Musketeers.

Apart from the numerous European versions, Alexandre Dumas's classic swashbuckler has been a Hollywood favourite too. Edison made a version in 1911; so did Edward Laurillard in 1913, C.V. Heinkel in 1914, and Fred Niblo in 1921, with Douglas Fairbanks and Eugene Pallette, Leon Barry and George Siegmann as the musketeers. Walter Abel was D'Artagnan in a 1935 version for RKO, with Paul Lukas, Moroni Olsen, and Onslow Stevens; Rowland V. Lee directed. Don Ameche sang in a 1939 musical comedy version (sometimes known as The Singing Musketeer) with the Ritz Brothers, no less, as lackeys impersonating the famous trio. Directed by Allan Dwan, it was very, very funny. Gene Kelly made an acrobatic D'Artagnan for MGM in 1948, with Van Heflin, Gig Young, and Robert Coote; and 1973 brought an all-star international version, directed by Richard Lester, with Michael York, Oliver Reed, Frank Finlay, and Richard Chamberlain. A sequel, The Four Musketeers, came the following year, but The Fifth Musketeer, a multi-national 1978 adventure directed by Ken Annakin, told in fact the story of the man in the iron mask. A 1993 version starred Charlie Sheen, Kiefer Sutherland, Chris O'Donnell, and Oliver Platt, a cast that looked ill at ease in a period setting. Bertrand Tavernier's The Daughter of D'Artagnan (La Fille de D'Artagnan) 94 was an original sequel to Dumas's story and a tribute to swashbucklers, with Sophie Marceau in the title role and Philippe Noiret as D'Artagnan leading the ageing musketeers, played by Jean-Luc Bideau, Raoul Billeray, and Sami Frey, on one last adventure. The lacklustre The Musketeer 01, directed by Peter Hyams, concentrated on the early life of D'Artagnan, played by Justin Chambers.

Three Smart Girls.

A minor domestic comedy about three teenagers, directed by Henry Koster in 1937, was the first feature appearance of Deanna Durbin and was followed by a sequel in 1939, Three Smart Girls Grow Up. In 1943 followed a third film on the adventures of the Durbin character only, Hers to Hold.

time travel

can be said to have begun with H.G. Wells's novella The Time Machine, which was filmed by George Pal in 1960 and by Simon Wells (H.G.'s great grandson) in 02, as well as being adapted for TV in 1949 and 1978. Wells attempted a pseudo-scientific approach, while a knock on the head was enough to get Mark Twain's A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court from the USA to Camelot. The notion has been exploited endlessly by writers of fantasy and science-fiction because it lends itself to many approaches, from Wells's bleak view of the future to Twain's knockabout comedy. TV movies have included The Langoliers 95, and such series as Dr Who, whose Tardis time-machine was disguised as an old-fashioned police telephone box, Land of the Lost, It's About Time, The Time Tunnel, Sapphire and Steel, Voyagers!, Quantum Leap, Seven Days, Time Trax, Mirror, Mirror, Crime Traveller and Samurai Jack.

One of the most influential films was Chris Marker's The Pier/La Jetée 62, in which a man travels back into the past in order to change the future, a notion that has been used many times since. Time travelling has been the basis of action movies (Timerider 82, The Terminator 84, Trancers 85, Terminator 2: Judgment Day 91, Trancers II 91, Time Runner 93, Timecop 94, APEX 94); adventure (World Without End 56, The Yesterday Machine 63, The Time Travellers 64, Dr Who and the Daleks 65, Daleks' Invasion Earth:2150 AD 66, Journey to the Center of Time 67, The Final Countdown 80. Biggles: Adventures in Time 86, Flight of the Navigator 86, Millennium 89, Future Zone 90, Timeline 03); comedy (Fiddlers Three 44, The Three Stooges Meet Hercules 62, Time Bandits 81. Peggy Sue Got Married 86, Les Visiteurs 93, Les Couloirs du Temp: Les Visiteurs 2 98 and the US remake Just Visiting 01, the Back to the Future trilogy 89-91, Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventure 89, The Spirit of '76 90, Bill & Ted's Bogus Journey 91); drama (Turn Back the Clock 33, Miss Morison's Ghosts 81, when two tourists believe that they saw Marie Antoinette in Versailles, The Philadelphia Experiment 84, Navigator 88, with medieval miners digging a tunnel into the 20th century, Twelve Monkeys 95, in which a man is sent back in time to discover the origins of a plague that is wiping out humanity, Frequency 00, in which a son communicates with his father 30 years in the past); horror (The Undead 57, Terror from the Year 5000 58, Waxwork II: Lost in Time 92, Army of Darkness 93); romance (Berkeley Square 33, The House in the Square 51, Somewhere in Time 80, Happy Accidents 00, Kate and Leopold 01); and satire (Slaughterhouse-Five 72, Idaho Transfer 73). The Planet of the Apes begins with a space pilot's out-of-control craft going through time, as does Buck Rogers in the 25th Century 79. In All Over Again 00 a young man was confronted with his older self, while The Kid 00 had an adult being judged by his nine-year-old self. The last word of the subject is unlikely to be Clockstoppers 02, in which a teenager made time stand still. It is, anyway, appropriate that the Jack the Ripper thriller Time After Time should have had as its hero H.G. Wells himself.

tinting

has plainly gone out of fashion now that virtually all films are in colour, but in black-and-white days the use of single colours could lead to interesting effects. In the 20s and earlier it was common practice to tint night scenes blue, sunlit scenes yellow, etc.; I saw one Russian film made in 1917 in which the only scene in black-and-white was that in which the hero hanged himself! When talkies came in these colour effects were forgotten, but towards the mid-30s when colour was threatening, a tint seemed better than nothing. Films released wholly in sepia included The Ghost Goes West, Bad Man of Brimstone, The Firefly, Maytime, The Girl of the Golden West, The Oklahoma Kid, Of Mice and Men and The Rains Came; while the 'real' scenes of The Wizard of Oz were also sepia, leaving full colour until we landed over the rainbow. A Midsummer Night's Dream was released with a blue rinse, as were the water-ballet reels of A Day at the Races. Other colours have been used for short sequences. Green for Portrait of Jennie (the storm), Luck of the Irish (the leprechaun forest) and Lost Continent (to obscure the poor monster animation). Red for the Hell's Angels battle scenes and for the flash at the end of Spellbound when the villain turns a gun on himself. Even monochrome has its effectiveness, as shown in A Matter of Life and Death and Bonjour Tristesse.

The Titanic.

The sinking of the 'unsinkable' passenger liner in 1912 has attracted many film-makers, though most have preferred to surround the event with a great deal of unimaginative fiction. The first was Saved from the Titanic, a silent one-reeler starring a survivor, which was shown a month after the actual event. In 1929 E. A. Dupont directed German- and English-language versions of the story. The Germans remade it as Titanic in 1940 as anti-British propaganda. It was followed by Titanic 53, directed by Jean Negulesco and starring Clifton Webb and Barbara Stanwyck among a shipload of American passengers. Its invented story won an Oscar for the scriptwriters Charles Brackett, Walter Reisch and Richard Breen. A more faithful documentary approach was taken by the reticent British film A Night to Remember 58, directed by Roy Ward Baker from Eric Ambler's script and Walter Lord's book, and starring Kenneth More and David McCallum. A dull TV film, SOS Titanic 77, starred David Janssen and Susan Saint James, to be followed by an even duller TV Titanic 96, with a cast that included George C. Scott, Eva Marie Saint and Tim Curry. In 1997, James Cameron's epic Titanic combined a brilliant recreation of the event with a trivializing romance, starring Kate Winslet and Leonardo DiCaprio, to become one of the most commercially successful films made so far. The great ship was also used for a passing joke in Time Bandits 80, and surfaced in the costly flop Raise the Titanic 80, of which its producer Lew Grade quipped that it would have been cheaper to lower the Atlantic.

To Have and Have Not.

Ernest Hemingway's tough, soft-hearted adventure novel has been filmed three times: in 1944 by Howard Hawks, with Bogart, Bacall, and not much left of the plot; in 1951 by Michael Curtiz, as The Breaking Point, with John Garfield and Patricia Neal; and in 1958, as The Gun Runner, with Audie Murphy.

The Toff.

John Creasey's aristocratic investigator was the hero of two British films, in which he was played by John Bentley, both directed by Maclean Rogers: Salute the Toff 51 and Hammer the Toff 52.

Tol'able David.

Joseph Hergesheimer's novel was first, and most successfully, filmed in 1921, with Richard Barthelmess as the gentle youth making good in the tough outdoor life. In 1931 John G. Blystone directed a disappointing sound remake with Richard Cromwell.

Tom and Jerry.

Short cartoons featuring the mean-minded, accident-prone cat and his inventive and likeable little adversary were in production at MGM, with a break in the 50s, from 1941, with Fred Quimby as executive producer until his death. They have been much criticized for their excessive violence, but their humour, coupled with the impossibility of the situations, has won the day. The Academy Award-winning titles are The Milky Way 40, Yankee Doodle Mouse 43, Mouse Trouble 44, Quiet Please 45, Cat Concerto 46, The Little Orphan 48, The Two Mouseketeers 51, Johann Mouse 52. The original cartoons were drawn by William Hanna and Joe Barbera.

Book: 1991, Fifty Years of Cat and Mouse by T. R. Adams.

Tom Brown's Schooldays.

The famous Victorian story of life at Rugby School exists in two major film versions: the first directed in America in 1939 by Robert Stevenson, with Cedric Hardwicke as Dr Arnold and Jimmy Lydon as Tom; the second made in Britain in 1951, directed by Gordon Parry, with Robert Newton and John Howard Davies.

Tom Sawyer.

Mark Twain's boy hero has been played on film by Jack Pickford in 1917 and, in Huck and Tom, in 1918; Jackie Coogan in 1920; Tommy Kelly in the Selznick production in 1938; Billy Cook in 1938 in Tom Sawyer, Detective; Johnny Whitaker in 1973 in a musical version; Josh Albee in a TV movie in 1973; Don Most in a TV version in 1975, Dan Monahan in the TV Adventures of Huckleberry Finn 81, Eugene Oakes in the TV Adventures of Huckleberry Finn 85, Raphael Sbarge in the TV movie Back to Hannibal: The Return of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn 90 and Jonathan Taylor Thomas in Tom and Huck 95. Kevin Schultz played him in the TV series The New Adventures of Huck Finn 68-69, and Sammy Snyders in the TV series Huckleberry Finn and His Friends 79.

Tony Rome.

The down-market private eye created by Marvin H. Albert was played by Frank Sinatra in two films directed by Gordon Douglas: Tony Rome in 1967, and Lady in Cement in 1968.

Topper.

Thorne Smith's story of a dull banker haunted by two fun-loving ghosts was filmed in 1937, directed by Norman Z. McLeod, with Roland Young, Constance Bennett, and Cary Grant; two sequels followed: Topper Takes a Trip in 1939, and Topper Returns in 1941. A TV series ran from 1953-56.

Torchy Blane.

A series of second features, mostly starring Glenda Farrell as a wisecracking girl reporter and Barton MacLane as her boyfriend, a puzzled policeman who gets the comeback for her zany ideas.

Smart Blonde 36. Fly-Away Baby 37. Adventurous Blonde 37. Blondes at Work 38. Torchy Blane in Panama (with Lola Lane replacing Farrell for one film) 38. Torchy Gets Her Man 38. Torchy Blane in Chinatown 39. Torchy Runs for Mayor 39. Torchy Plays with Dynamite (with Jane Wyman as the star) 39.

torture

has figured in Arabian Nights, Thief of Bagdad, and others of this genre; in witchcraft dramas such as Witchfinder General, The Devils and Day of Wrath; in medieval epics such as El Cid, Ivanhoe and Tower of London; further back to Roman times, in The Robe, Barabbas, Spartacus and Demetrius and the Gladiators; in World War II yarns such as 13 Rue Madeleine, OSS, Carve Her Name with Pride, The Seventh Cross and 633 Squadron; in Cold War melodramas such as Treason, The Prisoner, and The Manchurian Candidate; in historical mysteries such as The Man in the Iron Mask and in documentary adventures such as A Man Called Horse.

Trail of the Lonesome Pine.

This backwoods melodrama was first filmed in 1916 with Charlotte Walker and Earle Fox; in 1923 it was remade with Mary Miles Minter, Antonio Moreno, and Ernest Torrence. In 1936 Henry Hathaway made a sound version with Sylvia Sidney, Henry Fonda, and Fred MacMurray, which was the first outdoor film in the newly perfected three-colour Technicolor.

trains

have above all served film-makers as a splendid background for suspense thrillers. Scores of sequences crowd to mind, all enhanced by the dramatic background of a speeding train: The Lady Vanishes, North by Northwest, From Russia with Love, The Narrow Margin, The Tall Target, How the West Was Won, 3.10 to Yuma, Lady on a Train, Cat Ballou, Jesse James, Bad Day at Black Rock, Night of the Demon, Time Bomb, Rome Express, Sleeping Car to Trieste, Northwest Frontier, Man without a Star, The Thirty-Nine Steps, Secret Agent, Shanghai Express, Number 17, Last Train from Madrid, Last Train to Bombay, Ministry of Fear, Von Ryan's Express, Across the Bridge, Double Indemnity, Strangers on a Train, The Iron Horse, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Next of Kin, Berlin Express, The Great Locomotive Chase, Terror by Night, Crack-Up, Rampage, Fool's Parade, The Train, Breakheart Pass, Murder on the Orient Express ... the list could be almost endless. More serious films using trains include La Bête Humaine (and its remake Human Desire), Metropolitan (and its remake A Window in London), Brief Encounter, The Last Journey, Sullivan's Travels, Indiscretion of an American Wife, Anna Karenina, Terminus, Night Mail, The Manchurian Candidate, The Railway Children, Doctor Zhivago, Boxcar Bertha, and Emperor of the North; while spectacular crashes were featured in The Greatest Show on Earth, Hatter's Castle, Seven Sinners, The Young in Heart, Mad Love, The Wrong Box, Lawrence of Arabia, Crack in the World, The Ghost Train, and King Kong. Murder was seen from a train in Metropolitan and Lady in a Train (happening in a second passing train in Murder She Said), and through a train in Twelve Angry Men. The subway, elevated or underground railway was featured in Practically Yours, On the Town, The Bachelor Party, Boys' Night Out, Union Station, The FBI Story, The Young Savages, Underground, Bulldog Jack, Daleks Invasion Earth 2150 AD, The French Connection, Beneath the Planet of the Apes, and The Liquidator. The back platforms of American trains have become familiar, especially in political films like Abe Lincoln in Illinois, Wilson and All the King's Men; but also in Hail the Conquering Hero, Double Indemnity, The Merry Monahans and Mr Deeds Goes to Town. Comedy train sequences include the Marx Brothers chopping up moving carriages for fuel in Go West, the Ale and Quail Club in The Palm Beach Story, Buster Keaton's splendidly inventive Our Hospitality and The General, The Great St Trinian's Train Robbery, Laurel and Hardy going to sleep in the same bunk in The Big Noise, Hal Roach's Broadway Limited, John Barrymore in Twentieth Century, Peter Sellers in Two-Way Stretch, the western sequence of Around the World in Eighty Days, the Pullman car sequence of Some Like It Hot, Monty Banks in Play Safe, Morecambe and Wise in The Magnificent Two, The Private Life of Sherlock Holmes, the whole of The Titfield Thunderbolt and Oh Mr Porter ... and many scenes of jaywalking on top of moving carriages, including Professor Beware, The Merry Monahans and Fancy Pants. Musical sequences with a train motif or setting are found in A Hard Day's Night, Monte Carlo, Some Like It Hot, The Harvey Girls ('The Atchison, Topeka and the Santa Fe'), At the Circus ('Lydia the Tattooed Lady'), Sun Valley Serenade ('Chattanooga Choo Choo'), Dumbo ('Casey Junior'), The Jazz Singer ('Toot Toot Tootsie, Goodbye'), Easter Parade ('When the Midnight Choo Choo Leaves for Alabam'), Forty-second Street ('Shuffle off to Buffalo').

TV series involving trains as a regular motif include Casey Jones, The Wild Wild West, The Iron Horse, Petticoat Junction, Union Pacific and Supertrain.

tramps

or hoboes who have figured largely in films include those played by William Powell in My Man Godfrey, Joel McCrea in Sullivan's Travels, George Arliss in The Guv'nor, Jean Gabin in Archimède le Clochard, practically the whole cast of Hallelujah I'm a Bum, and of course Charlie Chaplin in all his earlier comedies.

transvestism.

There have been many films, mostly lightweight ones, making effective use of situations in which men dress up as women. Charley's Aunt has proved a perennial, and in silent days Julian Eltinge, a female impersonator, made several popular films: his 1972 successor was Danny la Rue, in Our Miss Fred. Well-known actors in female attire have included Wallace Beery as 'Swedy' in a series of silent comedies, Lon Chaney in The Unholy Tree, Lionel Barrymore in The Devil Doll, William Powell in Love Crazy, Cary Grant in I Was a Male War Bride, Joe E. Brown as his own grandma in The Daring Young Man, Peter Cook and Dudley Moore as leaping nuns in Bedazzled, Alec Guinness in The Comedians and Kind Hearts and Coronets, Brian Deacon in Triple Echo, Peter Sellers in The Mouse That Roared, William Bendix and Dennis O'Keefe in Abroad with Two Yanks, Jimmy Durante in You're in the Army Now, Lee J. Cobb in In Like Flint, Ray Walston in Caprice, Jerry Lewis in Three on a Couch and At War with the Army, Stan Laurel in That's My Wife and Jitterbugs, Bing Crosby in High Time, Bob Hope in Casanova's Big Night, Tony Curtis and Jack Lemmon in Some Like It Hot, Tony Perkins in Psycho, Dick Shawn in What Did You Do in the War, Daddy? Phil Silvers and Jack Gilford in A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, Jack Oakie in Let's go Native, Lou Costello in Lost in a Harem, Eddie Cantor in Ali Baba Goes to Town, Joe E. Brown in Shut My Big Mouth, Billy de Wolfe in Isn't it Romantic?, William Powellin Love Crazy, Melvyn Douglas in The Amazing Mr Williams, James Coco in The Wild Party, Preston Foster in Up the River, Oscar Levant and David Wayne in The I Don't Care Girl, Alastair Sim in The Belles of St Trinian's, Helmut Berger in The Damned, Tim Curry in The Rocky Horror Movie, Dustin Hoffman in Tootsie, Denis Quilley in Privates on Parade, Michel Serrault in La Cage aux Folles and its sequels, Divine in Pink Flamingos and other John Waters films, and Barry Humphries in The Adventures of Barry McKenzie, Barry McKenzie Holds His Own, Les Patterson Saves the World and Nicholas Nickleby. It became in the 60s a standard device of spy stories, including The Kremlin Letter, Thunderball, Licensed to Kill, Where the Bullets Fly, and Gunn. Myra Breckinridge also fits in somewhere, as do Glen or Glenda and Dr Jekyll and Sister Hyde. In the 90s, cross-dressing became almost fashionable. Robin Williams had a box-office success disguised as a nannie in Mrs Doubtfire, Quentin Crisp became a believable Queen Elizabeth I in Orlando, Leslie Cheung was a specialist in female roles at the Peking Opera in Farewell My Concubine, Terence Stamp was among the drag queens tramping around the Australian outback in The Adventures of Priscilla, Queen of the Desert, Johnny Depp put on women's clothes as the angora-sweater-loving transvestite director Ed Wood – star of Glen or Glenda – in Tim Burton's affectionate biopic of the world's worst film director, and Wesley Snipes and others donned frocks in To Wong Foo, Thanks for Everything, Julie Newmar. La Cage aux Folles became a hit again in 1995, remade and Americanized as The Bird Cage, starring Nathan Lane and Robin Williams. Women disguised as men are rarer; but one can instance such notable examples as Katharine Hepburn in Sylvia Scarlett, Annabella in Wings of the Morning, Signe Hasso in The House on 92nd Street, Nita Talbot in A Very Special Favor, Marlene Dietrich in Morocco and Seven Sinners, Greta Garbo in Queen Christina, Mary Pickford in Kiki, Debbie Reynolds in Goodbye Charlie, Jessie Matthews in Gangway, Miriam Hopkins in She Loves Me Not, Louise Brooks in Beggars of Life, Doris Day in Calamity Jane, Frances Farmer in Badlands of Dakota, Veronica Lake in Sullivan's Travels, Jean Peters in Anne of the Indies, Maureen O'Hara in At Sword's Point, Merle Oberon in A Song to Remember, Lupe Velez in Honolulu Lu, Julie Andrews in Victor/Victoria, and the ambiguous hero-heroine of Homicidal. In Turnabout a husband and wife exchanged bodies, with dire results. In Switch, a murdered male chauvinist returned to earth as Ellen Barkin in search of salvation. And in Orlando Tilda Swinton went from Elizabethan man to modern woman. In two 1996 films, actresses appeared in male roles: Pam Grier in Escape from L.A., and a black-bearded Wendy Hughes in Lust and Revenge.

Treasure Island.

Robert L. Stevenson's adventure classic was filmed four times as a silent and even more often in the sound era. In 1935, in a splendid production for MGM, Victor Fleming directed Wallace Beery as Long John Silver and Jackie Cooper as the cabin-boy Jim Hawkins; in 1950, in Britain for Disney, Byron Haskins directed Robert Newton, who was born to play the one-legged pirate, and Bobby Driscoll. Newton afterwards played the role in a feature, Long John Silver 54, and 26 TV half-hours filmed in Australia. In 1972 Orson Welles starred in a European remake, using such a thick accent that he had to be dubbed, in which he was shown from the waist up for much of the film since he was too fat to bend back his leg; in 1973 Kirk Douglas appeared in Scallawag, which borrowed the plot for a modern story; in 1989 Fraser Heston directed his father Charlton in a TV movie; and in 1991 Chilean director Raúl Ruiz turned the story into a deliriously experimental movie, in which its characters act out roles from the story. Disney came up with Treasure Planet, an animated version set in space in 2002.

trends

R. D. McCann said that in Hollywood the only familiar, solid, bedrock certainty is sudden change. That goes for the entire industry, which throughout its history has been subject to the whims of fashion and has moved in a gingerly way from one crisis to another. In the midst of such uncertainty the industry's leaders can only comfort themselves with the incontrovertible adage:

“ There's nothing wrong with this business that a few good movies can't cure.

The trouble has been to find out what kind of movies, at any given time, are good ones in the eyes of the public. As Adolph Zukor said long ago:

The public is never wrong.

And Bryan Forbes said:

Nobody can be a prophet in an industry which is entirely dependent on the public whim.

Walter Wanger knew that:

Nothing is as cheap as a hit, no matter how much it cost.

Unfortunately the public has not always been in the forefront of good taste. When close-ups were first introduced, many audiences felt cheated and yelled:

Show us their feet!

But without an advance in technical quality the film could hardly have survived. Billy Bitzer, the famous cameraman, said:

The fade-out gave us a really dignified touch - we didn't have a five cent movie any more.

It is true that the moguls have sometimes taken a long time to answer the public's call. Ted Willis said in 1966:

The film business is like that prehistoric monster the dinosaur, which apparently had two brains, one in its head and one in its rear.

It was not always thus: in the golden years they knew a thing or two. At Warners, for instance, Bette Davis said:

We had the answer, the sequel and the successor to everything.

But even imitation did not always pay. Darryl Zanuck knew:

Only the first picture of a cycle really succeeds: all the imitators dwindle.

Cesare Zavattini in 1945 had a similar idea:

The world is full of people thinking in myths.

Iris Barry in 1926 scorned film clichés:

Why must all American movie mothers be white-haired and tottery even though their children are mere tots? Does the menopause not operate in the US?

Reality was entirely shunned. Wilson Mizner in the early talkie era commented:

The public doesn't want to know what goes on behind the scenes. It prefers to believe that a cameraman hung in the clouds, mid-Pacific, the day Barrymore fought the whale.

Samuel Goldwyn is credited with the tersest capsuling of the tradition that audiences wanted to be soothed and not stimulated:

Messages are for Western Union.

Even Terry Ramsaye, editing a trade journal in 1936, complained:

If they want to preach a sermon, let them hire a hall.

This was the day of the formula:

Boy meets girl, boy loses girl, boy gets girl.

The public paid to see it and demanded more of the same. A 1943 exhibitor said:

You could open a can of sardines and there'd be a line waiting to get in.

Momentary turns of fashion could of course be allowed for, so many movies were being made. When Variety headlined:

STICKS NIX HICK PIX

it was a simple matter to discontinue the movies about poor hillbillies to which the midwestern audiences had shown such antipathy. Towards the 50s, however, there were signs of growing unease: no kind of film, and no star, could be absolutely relied on to make money. Hollywood had previously regarded the international market as a pleasant source of extra revenue; now film-making had to be geared to it. Alfred Hitchcock, however, felt that no change of style was necessary:

When we make films for the United States, we automatically make them for the world, for the United States is full of foreigners.

But Hitch did note a change of emphasis:

In the old days, villains had moustaches and kicked the dog. Audiences are smarter today. They don't want their villain to be thrown at them with green limelight on his face. They want an ordinary human being with failings.

The studio conveyor belt was outdated: everyone was bitten by the location bug. Rouben Mamoulian said in 1957:

We have forsaken the magic of the cinema. We have gotten too far away from the cinematic effects achievable by camera angles and creative editing.

There was another increasing danger:

You have to offer the public something a helluva lot better than they can get for free on TV.

What was offered was 3-D, which failed. As Hitch said:

A nine-days' wonder - and I came in on the ninth day.

Then came CinemaScope and the other wide-screen processes, but the extra size only rarely contributed towards a better entertainment. Content was what mattered. The only reliable regular audience was for cheap horror films. Said Vincent Price in 1965:

The cinemas have bred a new race of giant popcorn-eating rats.

At last the English came back into fashion as film-makers, chiefly on the strength of their actors and their 'X' subjects. This success had its drawbacks, according to Tony Garnett:

To be an Englishman in the film business is to know what it's like to be colonialized.

Sex had come to stay. Said Shelagh Delaney:

The cinema has become more and more like the theatre: it's all mauling and muttering.

Said Billy Wilder:

Titism has taken over the country. But Audrey Hepburn single-handed may make bozooms a thing of the past. The director will not have to invent shots where the girl leans forward for a glass of scotch and soda.

Said Adolphe Menjou:

The Brando school are grabbers, not lovers. If it wasn't that the script says they get the girl, they wouldn't.

Said Bob Hope in 1960:

Our big pictures this year have had some intriguing themes: sex, perversion, adultery and cannibalism. We'll get those kids away from their TV sets yet.

Said Bob Hope in 1968:

Last year Hollywood made the first pictures with dirty words. This year we made the pictures to go with them.

And in 1971:

The line 'I love you' is no longer a declaration but a demonstration.

In the same year Candice Bergen admitted:

I may not be a great actress but I've become the greatest at screen orgasms. Ten seconds of heavy breathing, roll your head from side to side, simulate a slight asthma attack and die a little.

And Frank Capra snorted:

Hollywood film-making of today is stooping to cheap salacious pornography in a crazy bastardization of a great art.

The system had crumbled, the studios were empty, every movie was a new enterprise, usually shot in some far-flung corner of the earth. Bob Hope again, in 1968:

This year is a good one for Hollywood. Some of the movies nominated for Oscars were even made here.

Hal Wallis had another complaint:

In the old days we had the time and money to give prospective stars a slow build-up. Today, an actor makes it fast or he just doesn't make it at all.

Orson Welles realized that:

The trouble with a movie these days is that it's old before it's released. It's no accident that it comes in a can.

And Billy Wilder:

Today we spend eighty per cent of our time making deals and twenty per cent making pictures.

Otto Preminger remembers when:

There were giants in the industry. Now it is an era of midgets and conglomerates.

The watchword for the 70s was violence. Hear the producer of The Strawberry Statement:

We live in a time when revolution is a very saleable commodity.

Hear Roman Polanski in 1971:

Nothing is too shocking for me. When you tell the story of a man who loses his head, you have to show the head being cut off. Otherwise it's just a dirty joke without a punch line.

Hear Ken Russell, middle-aged enfant terrible of the same year:

This is not the age of manners. This is the age of kicking people in the crotch and telling them something and getting a reaction. I want to shock people into awareness. I don't believe there's any virtue in understatement.

Hear the redoubtable Sam Peckinpah:

You can't make violence real to audiences today without rubbing their noses in it. We've all been anaesthetized by the media.

Hear producer Steve Krantz defending his 'adult cartoon' Heavy Traffic:

Mary Poppins is OK, but when did you last date her?

Hear Peter Cook:

I don't like watching rape and violence at the cinema. I get enough of that at home!

And finally:

America's a new country and we have very little history. We have the American Indian and we have Superman. Don't fuck with either. – R. Donner

Trilby:

see SVENGALI.

Tugboat Annie.

This aggressive, middle-aged lady of the waterfront was devised by Norman Reilly Raine and personified in the 1933 film by Marie Dressler. Subsequent films include Tugboat Annie Sails Again 40 with Marjorie Rambeau and Captain Tugboat Annie 45 with Jane Darwell. A 1956 TV series featured Minerva Urecal.

Tweety Pie.

Baby-voiced canary, the adversary of Sylvester the cat in Warner Brothers cartoons. A song based on its cry, 'I Tawt I Saw a Putty Cat', was a hit in 1950. Its creator was Bob Clampett and Mel Blanc supplied the voice.

A Tale of Two Kitties 42. Tweetie Pie (AA) 47. Bad Ol' Putty Cat 49. Sandy Claws (AAN) 54. Birds Anonymous (AA) 57. The Jet Cage 62, etc.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

The anti-slavery story of excellent intentions and unabashed sentimentality was written in 1852 by American novelist Harriet Beecher Stowe. It features the dastardly white villain Simon Legree, the cheerful black Uncle Tom (whose name has entered the American language as an insulting description of obsequiousness to whites), and poor little Eva, who is taken to heaven by an angel. The main film versions include a 1903 one-reeler by Edwin S. Porter, a Pathé three-reeler of 1910, and an American three-reeler of 1913. In 1914 came a longer American version with Marie Eline as Little Eva, and 1918 brought a full-length version with Marguerite Clark in the dual role of Topsy and Eva. Then in 1927 Harry Pollard directed a full-blown silent spectacle which was frequently revived with sound effects in later years; Virginia Gray was Eva. The subject might have been thought too dated for sound treatment, but in 1965 a colour and wide-screen European co-production was directed by Geza von Radvanyi and featured Herbert Lom as Simon Legree. A television version followed in 1987, directed by Stan Lathan.

uncredited appearances

by well-known stars are usually intended as gags to liven up a film which can do with an extra laugh. Thus the brief cameos of Cary Grant and Jack Benny in Without Reservations; Lana Turner in Du Barry Was a Lady; Robert Taylor in I Love Melvin; Bing Crosby in My Favourite Blonde, The Princess and the Private and other Bob Hope films; Alan Ladd in My Favourite Brunette; Peter Lorre in Meet Me in Las Vegas; Myrna Loy in The Senator was Indiscreet; Peter Sellers and David Niven in Road to Hong Kong; Vincent Price in Beach Party; Boris Karloff in Bikini Beach; Groucho Marx in Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?; Elizabeth Taylor in Scent of Mystery, What's New Pussycat? and Anne of the Thousand Days; Richard Burton in What's New Pussycat? Jack Benny and Jerry Lewis in It's a Mad Mad Mad Mad World; Robert Vaughn in The Glass Bottom Boat; Bob Hope and others in The Oscar; Rock Hudson in Four Girls in Town; Jack Benny and Jimmy Durante in Beau James; Red Skelton in Susan Slept Here; Bing Crosby and Bob Hope in Scared Stiff; Martin and Lewis, Humphrey Bogart and Jane Russell in Road to Bali; Lauren Bacall in Two Guys from Milwaukee; Gene Kelly in Love is Better Than Ever; Clark Gable and Robert Taylor in Callaway Went Thataway; Peter O'Toole in Casino Royale; Yul Brynner in The Magic Christian; Edward G. Robinson in Robin and the Seven Hoods; Humphrey Bogart in Always Together, Two Guys from Milwaukee and The Love Lottery; Jack Benny in The Great Lover; Ray Milland in Miss Tatlock's Millions; John Wayne in I Married a Woman; Tony Curtis in Chamber of Horrors; Sammy Davis Jnr in A Raisin in the Sun; Shirley Maclaine in Ocean's Eleven; Margaret Rutherford in The ABC Murders; Jack Nicholson in Broadcast News; Macaulay Culkin in Jacob's Ladder; Sean Connery in Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves; Kenneth Branagh in Swing Kids.

Sometimes a sequel not featuring the star of the first story will have a brief reminiscence of him with no credit: this happened to Cary Grant in Topper Takes a Trip and to Simone Signoret in Life at the Top. Then there are deliberate in-jokes like Walter Huston playing bit parts in his son John's movies, Peter Finch playing a messenger in The First Men in the Moon because he happened to be there when the hired actor failed to turn up, Joseph Cotten playing a small part in Touch of Evil because he dropped in to watch the location shooting and Orson Welles sent a make-up man over for old times' sake, Helen Hayes playing a small role in Third Man on the Mountain because her son James MacArthur was in the cast. Occasionally when stars are replaced during production, long shots of them remain in the completed film: thus Vivien Leigh in Elephant Walk and George Brent in Death of a Scoundrel. The best gag was played by Al Jolson who, determined to get into The Jolson Story at all costs, played himself in the theatre runaway long shots during 'Swanee'.

There remain a few mysteries. In The Great Ziegfeld, 'A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody' was apparently sung by Stanley Morner, soon to become quite famous as Dennis Morgan. He was not credited (perhaps because the voice finally used on the soundtrack was that of Allan Jones). Nor were the following who had important roles to play and were well-known at the time: Constance Collier in Anna Karenina, Marlene Dietrich in Touch of Evil, Henry Daniell in Mutiny on the Bounty, Audrey Totter in The Carpetbaggers, Dorothy Malone and John Hubbard in Fate is the Hunter, Wilfrid Lawson in Tread Softly Stranger, Ava Gardner in The Band Wagon, Edmond O'Brien in The Greatest Show on Earth, David Warner in Straw Dogs, Henry Daniell in My Fair Lady, Edmond O'Brien in The Greatest Show on Earth, Mercedes McCambridge in Touch of Evil, Glenda Jackson in The Boy Friend, Leo McKern in The High Commissioner. And in Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines, Cicely Courtneidge and Fred Emney had roughly equal dialogue in their one scene; yet he was credited and she was not. The reasons surely can't have anything to do with modesty.

See also: DIRECTORS' APPEARANCES.

Under Two Flags.

Ouida's romantic melodrama about the Foreign Legion was filmed in 1916 by J. Gordon EDWARDS, with Theda BARA as Cigarette; in 1922 by Tod BROWNING, with Priscilla DEAN and Jack Kirkwood; and in 1936 by Frank LLOYD, with Claudette COLBERT and Ronald COLMAN.

underground railways

have been used remarkably little in films considering their dramatic possibilities. There were chases through them in Underground itself, Bulldog Jack, Waterloo Road, The French Connection, The Taking of Pelham One Two Three, Death Line and Death Wish; they were also used for a comedy scene in Rotten to the Core, a murder in Man Hunt, Otley, and The Liquidator, and a musical number in Three Hats for Lisa, and Death Line/Raw Meat exploited the unease that can be felt in underground stations by putting cannibals in a deserted tunnel. The New York subway was the setting for musical numbers in Dames ('I Only Have Eyes for You') and On the Town ('Miss Turnstiles' ballet), and it also featured in a romantic comedy (Practically Yours) and was the scene of a brutal beating-up in The Young Savages and a nasty accidental death in P.J.; while the whole of Dutchman took place on it, and Short Walk To Daylight began with an earthquake trapping passengers in it.

The New York elevated railway, on the other hand, was most dramatically used in King Kong, and provided effective backing in The Lost Weekend, Union Station, The Bachelor Party, The FBI Story, Beneath the Planet of the Apes, Cry of the City and The French Connection.

undertakers,

or morticians, have provided comedy relief in many a western, relying on frequent shootings to bring in business: perhaps this theme was first explored in The Westerner 39. The comedy elements of the profession were also presented by Vincent Price and Peter Lorre in A Comedy of Terrors, by Terry-Thomas in Strange Bedfellows, by almost the entire cast of The Loved One, by Paul Lynde in Send Me No Flowers, and by J. Pat O'Malley in Willard. Literature's most famous undertaker is perhaps Mr Sowerberry in Oliver Twist, played by Gibb McLaughlin in the 1948 version and by Leonard Rossiter in Oliver!

underwater sequences

of note were found in Reap the Wild Wind, The Silent Enemy, The Beast from 20,000 Fathoms, The Golden Mistress, Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Sea, Around the World under the Sea, Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea, Thunderball, Shark, Lady in Cement, and The Big Blue. Two fantasies of alien life, The Abyss 89 and Alien: Resurrection 98, were most effective in underwater sequences, while James CAMERON's Titanic 98 gained much from the undersea explorations of the liner's rusting hulk and its submerged cabins.

See also: SUBMARINES.

unemployment

in Britain was the somewhat unpopular subject of Doss House, Love on the Dole,, The Common Touch and The Full Monty; in Europe, Joyless Street, Little Man What Now? and Berliner Ballade. America has seemed almost to boast about its unemployed, who were featured in The Crowd, Our Daily Bread, Grapes of Wrath, Hallelujah I'm a Bum, Sullivan's Travels, I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang, The Great McGinty, One More Spring, Mr Deeds Goes to Town, Man's Castle, My Man Godfrey and Tobacco Road, among many others.

Unfaithfully Yours.

Preston STURGES' vintage satirical comedy, about a jealous orchestral conductor who suspects his wife of infidelity and plots three revenges during a concert, was made in 1948, starring Rex HARRISON; 1983 brought a tolerable remake with Dudley MOORE.

unfinished films.

Among the productions which ran out of money halfway, or were terminated for other reasons, are Josef Von Sternberg's I Claudius; Errol Flynn's William Tell; Orson Welles' Don Quixote, The Other Side of the Moon and It's All True; Eisenstein's Que Viva Mexico; Brecht's Mother Courage; Zinnemann's Man's Fate; David Miller's The Bells of Hell go Ting-a-ling-a-ling; Marilyn Monroe in Something's Got to Give; Willis O'Brien's Creation; and George Sluizer's Dark Blood, abandoned after the death of its star, River Phoenix. Films which had troubles but were completed in scrappy fashion include Michael Caine in The Jigsaw Man, James Caan in Man Without Mercy, Natalie Wood in Brainstorm, Bela Lugosi in Plan 9 from Outer Space, and Bruce Lee in Game of Death (in which nearly ninety per cent of his role was played by doubles). Bruce Lee's son, Brandon Lee, was accidentally killed during the filming of The Crow, but that film was completed with the aid of doubles and sophisticated computer techniques to create new scenes for Lee from existing footage.

unfinished performances.

Here are some cases of actors who began to film roles but then either walked off the set or were let go because of unhappiness, inadequacy or just plain cussedness. Replacements are in brackets.

George Segal in '10' (Dudley Moore); John Travolta in American Gigolo (Richard Gere); Richard Dreyfuss in All that Jazz (Roy Scheider); Marlon Brando in Child's Play (Robert Preston); Robert Mitchum in Rosebud (Peter O'Toole); Richard Harris in Flap (Anthony Quinn); Rip Torn in Easy Rider (Jack Nicholson); George C. Scott in How to Steal a Million (Eli Wallach); Judy Garland in Valley of the Dolls (Susan Hayward); Elvis Presley in A Star is Born (Kris Kristofferson); Lana Turner in Anatomy of a Murder (Lee Remick); Christopher Plummer in Dr Dolittle (Rex Harrison); Judy Garland in Annie Get Your Gun (Betty Hutton); Joan Crawford in Hush Hush Sweet Charlotte (Olivia de Havilland); Charles Laughton in David Copperfield (W. C. Fields); Tyrone Power in Solomon and Sheba (he died during filming) (Yul Brynner); Buddy Ebsen in The Wizard of Oz (Jack Haley); Bela Lugosi in Frankenstein (Boris Karloff); River Phoenix in Dark Blood (he died from a drug overdose during filming).

Performers unavailable to play roles for which they were badly wanted include Cary Grant for My Fair Lady (Rex Harrison); Joan Crawford for From Here to Eternity (Deborah Kerr); Boris Karloff for Arsenic and Old Lace (Raymond Massey); Basil Radford and Naunton Wayne for I See a Dark Stranger (Garry Marsh and Tom Macaulay); Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck for Saboteur (Robert Cummings and Priscilla Lane); Robert Newton for The Paradine Case (Louis Jourdan); Jessie Matthews for A Damsel in Distress (Joan Fontaine); Claude Rains for Bride of Frankenstein (Ernest Thesiger); Burt Lancaster for Ben Hur (Charlton Heston); Lon Chaney for Dracula (Bela Lugosi); Robert Donat for Captain Blood (Errol Flynn); Frank Sinatra for Carousel (Gordon Macrae); Jack Benny for The Sunshine Boys (George Burns); Jeff Chandler for Operation Petticoat (Cary Grant); Bette Davis and Errol Flynn for Gone with the Wind (Vivien Leigh and Clark Gable); W. C. Fields for The Wizard of Oz (Frank Morgan); Claude Rains for The Day the Earth Stood Still (Michael Rennie); George Raft for High Sierra and The Maltese Falcon (Humphrey Bogart).

universities

have scarcely been studied seriously by movie-makers. Of Britain's most venerable, Cambridge has served as a background for one light comedy, Bachelor of Hearts, and Oxford for another, A Yank at Oxford, which was subsequently parodied by Laurel and Hardy in A Chump at Oxford. Charley's Aunt was also set among dreaming spires. Dramas with Oxford settings include Accident and The Mind Benders. Provincial universities score one comedy (Lucky Jim) and one drama (The Wild and the Willing). American campuses used to feature in films of the Hold That Co-Ed type, the pleasantest to remember being The Freshman and Horse Feathers, with How to Be Very Very Popular a poor third; but in the late 60s student protest held sway in The Strawberry Statement, Getting Straight, R.P.M., Drive He Said, and The Activist. Other views of the American higher learning came in Paper Chase, The Group, The Male Animal, Class of 44, and The Magic Garden of Stanley Sweetheart.

vampires

in the cinema began under the influence of Bram Stoker's Dracula but have developed into a genre of their own, often set in the present day. These deviate from the lore as set down by Stoker and folk tradition: 'Don't believe everything you read,' says a pony-tailed vampire as he wrenches a cross from the grasp of a man in the otherwise unremarkable Vampire Cop 93, and George Romero created in Martin 78 a person who was far removed from the tradition, simply driven by a craving for blood. There is also a tradition of female vampire films, sometimes lesbian, which provide exploitation film-makers with plenty of opportunities for sex scenes. It has respectable origins in Sheridan Le Fanu's Victorian novel Carmilla, which has been filmed by Roger Vadim as Blood and Roses/Et Mourir de Plaisir 60, Camillo Matrocinque as Terror in the Crypt 63, and Roy Ward Baker as The Vampire Lovers 70. Lesbian vampires also turn up in Vampyres 74, directed by Joseph LARRAZ, while the female vampires in the films of Jean ROLLIN seem to be more interested in sex than blood.

Books: 1993, The Illustrated Vampire Movie Guide by Stephen Jones. 1994, The Vampire Film: From Nosferatu to Bram Stoker's Dracula by Alain Silver and James Ursini.

See also DRACULA.

Venice

has been most persuasively caught by the movie camera in Summertime, Venetian Bird, and (for the depressed view) Death in Venice and Don't Look Now.

ventriloquists

rarely stray from music hall to cinema, but Michael Redgrave played a demented one in Dead of Night, and very similar themes were explored in 1929's The Great Gabbo, in 1964's Devil Doll and in 1978's Magic. A vent's dummy was used for comedy in Knock on Wood, for satire in How I Won the War, and for mystery in The Dummy Talks and The Thirty-Nine Steps (1959 version). The most movie-exposed performing ventriloquist is certainly Edgar Bergen, who with his dummies Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd appeared in a dozen or more films between 1937 and 1944.

Victory.

Joseph Conrad's novel has been filmed three times. The best version was probably the first, made in 1919 by Maurice Tourneur and starring Lon Chaney as Mr Jones. John Cromwell remade it in 1940, with Cedric Hardwicke in the role of Mr Jones. Mark Peploe made a version in 1994, with Sam Neill in the role, and also starring Willem Dafoe and Irène Jacob, which was released to lukewarm reviews in 1998. William Wellman directed a loose treatment of the story, Dangerous Paradise, in 1930.

Vienna

was frequently pictured in pre-war films such as The Great Waltz, Bitter Sweet and Vienna Waltzes, but the myths were always perpetuated on a studio backlot. The post-war reality was caught vividly in Four in a Jeep and The Third Man.

The Vietnam War

stunned America to such an extent that few films were made about it until long after its end. An exception was John Wayne's gung-ho The Green Berets 68. Go Tell the Spartans followed in 1978, rapidly followed by The Deer Hunter and Apocalypse Now. Coming Home 82 and Born on the Fourth of July 89 covered the effect on veterans. In 1987 there was a deluge: Hamburger Hill, Platoon, and Full Metal Jacket. Director Oliver Stone returned to the subject with Heaven and Earth in 1993.

vigilantes

were originally groups of honest citizens who formed together to rid San Francisco's Barbary Coast of some of its villains. In the early 70s it became fashionable to make films about citizens who took the law of our violent cities into their own hands, notably in Death Wish and its sequels, Walking Tall and Law and Disorder.

violence

caused little concern until the 50s. Even the makers of the horror and gangster films of the 30s were comparatively subtle in their approach; they delighted in machine guns and clutching hands, but would not have dreamed of showing fist connect against flesh or suggesting the sight of actual blood. The rot began to set in in 1952 with films like The Wild One, which still showed little but pointed out that imitable forms of violence were on the streets of our cities; location shooting was inviting greater realism than had been necessary in the studio. In 1956, when Hammer began to remake the great horror stories, a new ghoulishness was found to have set in, especially in the versions prepared for the Far East. Still the censor held sway until the late 60s, when he gave up the ghost. Witchfinder General was a sadistic piece of Grand Guignol, The Wild Bunch a blood-spattered western, Get Carter and Villain new-fashioned gangster films in which the killing was merciless and explicit. Soldier Blue has as its high point a mutilation scene which its director seemed to claim as a protest against Vietnam; Straw Dogs featured an irrelevant but thoroughly detailed rape. As for A Clockwork Orange and The Devils, our eyes were spared no conceivable atrocity. According to one's point of view, the cinema had either come of age or ventured beyond the pale. By the 80s, much more violence was being accepted in a family film like Raiders of the Lost Ark than would have been passed twenty years earlier for adults only; but the excesses of Brian de Palma's remake of Scarface caused most critical hands to be thrown up in horror. A cycle of horror films featuring spectacularly gory make-up effects in the late 80s and 90s revived concerns about screen violence, from politicians at least, as did the emergence of Quentin Tarantino as a director of note with such films as Reservoir Dogs and Pulp Fiction, and as screenwriter of True Romance. Oliver Stone's Natural Born Killers, based on Tarantino's script, investigated media concern with violence in an extremely violent manner. In Britain, the result was to add extra confusion to the already arbitrary methods of the Board of Film Classification through government legislation designed to prevent violent films being given a video release, a policy that has lengthened the cinematic life of Reservoir Dogs.

The Virginian.

Owen Wister's western novel was filmed in 1914 with Dustin Farnum, in 1930 with Gary Cooper, and in 1945 with Joel McCrea; in 1964 it turned up as a long-running TV series with James Drury. Spawn of the North 38 borrowed the basic plot, and in its turn was remade as Alaska Seas 54.

volcanoes

in the late 30s seemed to belong mostly to Paramount, which used them as the climax of most of Dorothy Lamour's jungle pictures and of odd adventures like Cobra Woman and Mysterious Island. They more recently turned up in The Devil at Four O'Clock, and in Journey to the Centre of the Earth in which the way was down an extinct Icelandic crater and back on a fountain of lava up the inside of Etna. The famous eruption of Vesuvius was staged for the various versions of The Last Days of Pompeii (and for Up Pompeii), and Krakatoa, East of Java featured another historical disaster. An extinct volcano formed a lair for giant monsters in The Black Scorpion. A volcano was also the climax of Hal Roach's Man and His Mate and of its recent remake One Million Years BC; Joe versus the Volcano featured a man with a terminal illness who agreed to jump into a volcano after six months of rich living; but the most spectacular pictures were obtained for the documentary compilation simply called Volcano. When disaster films proved popular again, volcanoes erupted in Dante's Peak 97 and Volcano 97, which rained its lava down on Los Angeles, thus saving its makers a journey to the more usual exotic locations.

The Wages of Fear.

Henri-Georges Clouzot's superlative thriller featuring four drivers with a cargo of nitroglycerine was made from Georges Arnaud's novel in 1953, starring Yves Montand, Charles Vanel, and Peter Van Eyck. William Friedkin's 1977 remake, Sorcerer, was an artistic and commercial disaster.

War and Peace.

The main film versions of Tolstoy's epic novel were a Russian one of 1916; King Vidor's of 1955, with Henry Fonda and Audrey Hepburn, photographed by Jack Cardiff and Aldo Tonti; and Sergei Bondarchuk's seven-hour colossus of 1964, photographed by Anatole Petrinsky.

war heroes

who have become the subject of biopics include Eddie Rickenbacker (Fred MacMurray, Captain Eddie); Audie Murphy (himself, To Hell and Back); Guy Gabaldon (Jeffrey Hunter, Hell to Eternity); Alvin York (Gary Cooper, Sergeant York); Douglas Bader (Kenneth More, Reach for the Sky); Guy Gibson (Richard Todd, The Dam Busters); Ernie Pyle (Burgess Meredith, The Story of G.I. Joe); John Hoskins (Sterling Hayden, The Eternal Sea).

The War of the Worlds.

H. G. Wells's novel of an alien invasion, published in 1898, has been the uncredited inspiration behind many science-fiction movies featuring violent, bug-eyed monsters. It was filmed set in present-day America in 1953, produced by George Pal and directed by Byron Haskins, winning an Oscar for its special effects. Steven Spielberg filmed it again in 05, still set in modern America. A new though uncredited version of the story was Independence Day 96, which involved the destruction of the White House and used spectacular computer-generated effects. In 1938, Orson Welles's radio version for the Mercury Theatre of the Air, adapted by Howard Koch in the style of an on-the-spot news report, caused widespread fear and was itself the subject of a TV film, The Night that Panicked America 75.

The Ware Case.

George Bancroft's play, about a murderer who gets away with his crime but then does the decent thing and kills himself when he discovers his wife and lawyer are in love, has been filmed three times in Britain: in 1917, with Matheson Lang in the lead; in 1928, with Stewart Rome; and in 1938, with Clive Brook.

Washington Square,

Henry James's novel of a plain heiress pursued by a fortune hunter was first filmed as The Heiress in 1949, with Olivia De Havilland and Montgomery Clift. It was remade less effectively in 1997, under its original title, by Agnieszka Holland, with Jennifer Jason Leigh and Ben Chaplin.

water,

in inconvenient quantity, played a dramatic part in Way Down East; Noah's Ark; The Rains Came and its remake The Rains of Ranchipur; The Bible; Floods of Fear; The Hurricane; Campbell's Kingdom; When Worlds Collide; Rain; Whistling in Dixie; Foreign Correspondent; Who Was That Lady?; and no doubt a hundred others.
See also: RAIN.

waterfront

films have turned up frequently. Among the more seriously-intended are On the Waterfront, Anna Christie, Waterfront, and Slaughter on Tenth Avenue; melodramas include The Mob, the Tugboat Annie films, and I Cover the Waterfront. Laurel and Hardy worked the milieu in The Live Ghost. TV series include yet another Waterfront.

Waterloo Bridge.

Robert Sherwood's sentimental drama, about a ballerina who heads for the gutter after her wealthy lover is reported killed in action and commits suicide when he returns, has been filmed three times: James Whale directed a version in 1931 starring Mae Clark and Kent Douglass; Mervyn Le Roy remade it in 1940 with Vivien Leigh and Robert Taylor; and a lesser version, Gaby, updating the story to the Second World War, followed in 1956, directed by Curtis Bernhardt, with Leslie Caron, John Kerr, and a happy ending.

waxworks

have featured from time to time in horror films and other thrillers, notably The Mystery of the Wax Museum, House of Wax, Nightmare in Wax, Terror in the Wax Museum, The Florentine Dagger, Charlie Chan in the Wax Museum, Midnight at Madame Tussaud's and the original German Waxworks.

weddings

have formed a happy ending for innumerable films, and an unhappy start for others, but some are more memorable than the rest. Weddings on a lavish scale were seen in Camelot, Royal Wedding, The Scarlet Empress, Ivan the Terrible (Part One), The Private Life of Henry VIII. More domestic occasions were in Quiet Wedding, The Member of the Wedding, The Catered Affair, Father of the Bride, June Bride, A Kind of Loving, Lovers and Other Strangers, Brigadoon, Four Weddings and a Funeral. Weddings were interrupted in The Philadelphia Story, The Bride Wasn't Willing, I Married a Witch, The Runaround, You Gotta Stay Happy, The Bride Went Wild, The Lion in Winter, The Graduate and I Love You Alice B. Toklas. Macabre weddings were found in The Night Walker, The Bride Wore Black, The Bride of Frankenstein, The Bride and the Beast, Chamber of Horrors. The wedding night was the center of interest in The Man in Grey, The Wicked Lady, Wedding Night, The Family Way and My Little Chickadee. And the funniest wedding still remains that in Our Wife, when cross-eyed justice of the peace Ben Turpin married Mr Hardy to his best man Mr Laurel.

westerns

have been with us almost as long as the cinema itself; and although Britain supplied Carry On Cowboy and a number of Continental countries are now making passable horse operas of their own, it is natural enough that almost all westerns should have come from America.

The Great Train Robbery was a western, and two of the most popular stars of the early silent period, Bronco Billy Anderson and William S. Hart, played western heroes, establishing the conventions and the legends still associated with the opening of America's west – Hollywood style. The attractions of western stories included natural settings, cheapness of production, ready-made plots capable of infinite variation, and a general air of tough simplicity which was saleable the world over. Many of Hollywood's most memorable films of the teens and 20s were westerns: The Squaw Man, The Spoilers, The Vanishing American, The Covered Wagon, The Iron Horse, The Virginian, In Old Arizona, The Cisco Kid, Cimarron. The western adapted itself to sound with remarkable ease, and throughout the 30s provided many entertainments of truly epic stature: Wells Fargo, Arizona, The Texas Rangers, Union Pacific, The Plainsman, Drums Along the Mohawk, Jesse James, The Westerner, Destry Rides Again, Stagecoach. By now the major directorial talents in the field were established: they included John Ford, William Wyler, Howard Hawks, King Vidor, Victor Fleming, Michael Curtiz, Henry King, Frank Lloyd. And each year brought in the wake of epics scores of cheap but entertaining second features, usually running in familiar series with such stars as Buck Jones, Tom Mix, Tim McCoy, John Wayne, Bob Steele, William Boyd ('Hopalong Cassidy'), Ken Maynard, Tom Tyler, Gene Autry, and 'The Three Mesquiteers'. The singing cowboy familiarized by Autry led to the arrival of other practitioners in the 40s: Roy Rogers, Eddie Dean, Lee 'Lasses' White. The 40s also based westerns more firmly on historical events, telling such stories as Brigham Young, Northwest Passage, My Darling Clementine, Santa Fe Trail, They Died with Their Boots On. But by the end of the decade this genre had worn itself out except in the case of Ford, whose films became increasingly stylish and personal. Elsewhere westerns deteriorated into routine action adventures starring actors a little past their best: Gary Cooper, Errol Flynn, Dennis Morgan, Alan Ladd. Howard Hawks' Red River was a useful move towards realism, and was followed in the early 50s by films like The Gunfighter and Shane, intent on proving how unpleasant a place the real West must have been. Side by side with realism came the 'message' western, given its impetus by Broken Arrow 50, the first western since silent days to sympathize with the Indians. It was followed by western allegories like High Noon and 3.10 to Yuma, in which the action elements were restricted or replaced by suspense in taut stories of good versus evil. In these ways the western became a highly respectable form, attracting actors of the calibre of James Stewart, Marlon Brando, Glenn Ford, Henry Fonda, Burt Lancaster, Richard Widmark and Kirk Douglas, all of whom tended to play half-cynical heroes who preserved their sense of right by indulging in violent action in the last reel. The later 50s brought many spectacular western productions including Gunfight at the OK Corral, Last Train from Gun Hill, One-Eyed Jacks, Warlock and The Magnificent Seven; but no new ground was broken. Second features continued to prosper in the capable hands of Randolph Scott, Joel McCrea and Audie Murphy. Comedy westerns were seldom successful, though exceptions include Go West (Keaton and Marx versions), Laurel and Hardy's Way Out West, and Blazing Saddles.

The galloping success of TV made potted westerns so familiar that even the biggest epics made for the cinema found it hard to attract a paying audience. Ford persevered with The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance and Cheyenne Autumn, both rehashes of earlier and better work; Cinerama made a patchy spectacle called How the West Was Won; novelty westerns have tried violence, horror and sentimentality as gimmicks.

In the 60s westerns came from an unexpected source: Italy, where directors took the conventions and added a baroque twist or two of their own. At their worst, the spaghetti westerns were ponderous and violent; at their best, they had a style and verve that re-invented the genre. Sergio Leone emerged as the leading director, his films aided by the atmospheric scores of Ennio Morricone and their reticent, almost blank hero, played in appropriate fashion by Clint Eastwood. But the revival was not long-lived. Hollywood directors seemed to have lost faith in the western's mythic qualities, preferring to stick to comedies such as Cat Ballou. Sam Peckinpah's The Wild Bunch 69 and George Roy Hill's Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid 69 were almost the last flourishes before the form went into what seemed like a terminal decline. Clint Eastwood was the last cowboy, but his moody outcasts seemed pale before his Dirty Harry. It was Eastwood who showed that there was life left in the western with Unforgiven, the success of which sparked off another cycle. But none of the succeeding films, including two on the life of Wyatt Earp, did particularly well at the box-office, leaving the future of the genre again in doubt. Ang Lee's much praised Brokeback Mountain 05 provided an unusual variation with an account, based on a short story by Annie Proulx, of two modern-day cowboys who fall passionately in love with one another.

Books: 1969, Horizons West by Jim Kitses. 1977, Westerns by Philip French. 1988, The BFI Companion to the Western, edited by Edward Buscombe. 1993, Encyclopedia of Western Movies, edited by Phil Hardy (revised edition).

> “ An adult western is where the hero still kisses his horse at the end, only now he worries about it. – Milton Berle

wheelchairs

have usually had sinister connotations in the cinema. The Spanish film The Wheelchair was a very black comedy indeed, and villains who have operated from wheelchairs include Lionel Atwill in The Mystery of the Wax Museum, Vincent Price in House of Wax, Ralph Morgan in Night Monster, and Francis L. Sullivan in Hell's Island. General 'heavies' confined to wheelchairs include Eleanor Parker in The Man with the Golden Arm and Eye of the Cat, cantankerous Dame May Whitty (and later Mona Washbourne) in Night Must Fall, and crusty old Lionel Barrymore in the Dr Kildare series and every other film he made after 1939 (he was confined to a chair after twice breaking his hip). Wheelchair victims included Estelle Winwood in Notorious Landlady, careering away over the countryside, and the old lady who was pushed downstairs in a wheelchair in Kiss of Death. Perhaps the most fearsome wheelchair occupant was Monty Woolley, of the barbed tongue, in The Man Who Came to Dinner. Electric staircase chairs were used by 'invalids' Ethel Barrymore in The Farmer's Daughter, Eugenie Leontovich in Homicidal and Charles Laughton in Witness for the Prosecution.

The Whistler.

Based on a popular American radio show, this crime anthology ran as a film series from 1944 to 1947, with Richard Dix playing the hero of each. The only other connection between episodes was the whistled theme at the beginning. The first story was the old chestnut about the man who hires someone to kill him and then changes his mind.

The Whistler 44. Mark of the Whistler 44. Power of the Whistler 45. Voice of the Whistler 45. Mysterious Intruder 46. Secret of the Whistler 46. The 13th Hour 47. The Return of the Whistler 48.

Whistling in the Dark.

This crime-comedy play by Lavinia Cross and Edward Carpenter was first filmed by Elliott Nugent, with Ernest Truex as the little man who beats the crooks in the end. In 1940 it was revamped as a vehicle for Red Skelton, directed by S. Sylvan Simon, who also handled the two sequels: Whistling in Dixie 42 and Whistling in Brooklyn 43.

White Cargo.

Leon Gordon's much-caricatured play was based on a book by Ida Vera Simonton called Hell's Playground; it dealt with the difficulties of acclimatization for Malayan rubber planters, and in particular with a shapely native distraction called Tondelayo. It was filmed in Britain by J. B. Williams in 1929, with Leslie Faber and Gypsy Rhouma; and in Hollywood in 1942 with Walter Pidgeon and Hedy Lamarr.

Why We Fight.

A brilliant series of World War II documentaries using all the resources of the cinema, compiled by Frank Capra and the US Signal Corps Film Unit from material shot by Allied cameramen and from pre-war newsreel material. Each lasted just over an hour, and was kept absorbingly entertaining as well as instructive by the use of music, diagrams, and optical work. Titles were Prelude to War, The Nazis Strike, Divide and Conquer, The Battle of Britain, The Battle of Russia, The Battle of China.

The Wicked Lady.

Magdalen King-Hall's novel of an aristocratic woman who turns to highway robbery made a star of Margaret Lockwood in 1945, directed by Leslie Arliss. Michael Winner's remake in 1983 did nothing for Faye Dunaway's career.

Wile E. Coyote.

Dumb but cunning cartoon character, forever in pursuit of Road Runner, created by Chuck Jones and Michael Maltese.

See Road Runner for list of movies.

❝The coyote is victimized by his own ineptitude. I never understood how to use tools and that's really the coyote's problem. – Chuck Jones

William.

The argumentative small boy created in over thirty novels by Richmal Crompton had several British film incarnations, none very satisfactory, in the 30s and 40s.

witchcraft

has not been frequently tackled by film-makers, usually for censorship reasons, and Witchcraft through the Ages remains the most comprehensive cinematic treatise on the subject. Dreyer's Day of Wrath took it seriously, as did The Witches of Salem, Maid of Salem, Witchfinder General, The Dunwich Horror, The Devils and Il Demonio, but all were chiefly concerned with the morals of witch-hunting. Witch doctors are familiar figures from African adventure films like King Solomon's Mines and Men of Two Worlds; more lightheartedly, witches featured in The Wizard of Oz, I Married a Witch and Bell, Book and Candle, as well as in TV's Bewitched and all the films featuring Merlin. A nasty cannibalistic coven was seen in Gosta Werner's Midvinterblot and several recent thrillers (Night of the Demon, City of the Dead, Night of the Eagle, Witchcraft, The Witches, Rosemary's Baby, Satan's Skin, Cry of the Banshee, The Illustrated Man, The Mephisto Waltz, The Brotherhood of Satan, The Sentinel) purported to believe in the effects of witchcraft. Angela Lansbury in Bedknobs and Broomsticks played a kindly witch. Paul Schrader's Witch Hunt showed a world where magic was real and a witch conjured up Shakespeare to write for the movies. The Craft 96 had teenage girls using witchcraft on their enemies.

See also: THE DEVIL.

The Wolf Man.

The werewolf or lycanthrope, a man who turns into a ravaging beast at full moon, is a fairly ancient Central European mythological figure. Hollywood did not develop the idea until Werewolf of London 34, a one-shot in which Henry Hull, a victim of his own well-intentioned research, was firmly despatched before the end. Not until 1941 was the possibility of a series character envisaged. The Wolf Man had a splendid cast: Claude Rains, Warren William, Patric Knowles, Bela Lugosi, Maria Ouspenskaya, and Lon Chaney Jnr as Lawrence Talbot, heir to a stately English home but unlucky enough to be bitten by a werewolf and thus condemned to monstrous immortality until despatched by a silver bullet. In this film he was battered to apparent death by Claude Rains, but arose from the family crypt for Frankenstein Meets the Wolf Man 43, which ended with him and the Frankenstein Monster being swept away in a flood. In House of Frankenstein he was discovered in a block of ice and promptly thawed out, only to be shot with the requisite silver bullet by a gipsy girl. The producers, however, played so unfair as to revive him for House of Dracula 45, in which he lived to be the only movie monster with a happy ending: brain surgery cured him and he even got the girl. Years later, however, in Abbott and Costello Meet Frankenstein 48, it seemed that his affliction was again tormenting him: this time we last saw him falling into a rocky and turbulent sea. Mr Chaney had by now done with the character apart from a spoof appearance in an episode of TV's Route 66. But Hammer Films revived the basic plot in Curse of the Werewolf 61, with Oliver Reed as the mangy hero. To date this has provoked no sequels. One should also mention: The Werewolf 56, I Was a Teenage Werewolf 57, La Casa del Terror (Mex.) 59, Werewolf in a Girl's Dormitory (with its theme song 'The Ghoul in School') 61, and Legend of the Werewolf 74, but the less said about these the better.

There was a werewolf in Dr Terror's House of Horrors 65, and in The Beast Must Die 74, while the 80s brought a whole slew of hairy monsters in Wolfen, An American Werewolf in London, Werewolf of Washington, Teen Wolf and The Howling. In 1994 Jack Nicholson brought a touch of class to the role in Wolf, directed by Mike Nichols.

Woman to Woman.

Michael Morton's tear-jerking play, about a doomed love affair between a British officer and a French dancer, was first filmed by Graham Cutts in 1923, and achieved some renown as one of the better examples of British silent cinema. Clive Brooks and Betty Compson had the leads, and Miss Compson appeared with Georges Barraud in the talkie remake of 1929, directed by Victor Saville. In 1946 Maclean Rogers directed an updated version with Douglas Montgomery and Joyce Howard.

The Women.

Clare Boothe Luce's venomous comedy was filmed twice by MGM: in 1939 with an all-woman cast headed by Norma Shearer, Rosalind Russell, Paulette Goddard, and Joan Crawford; and in 1956, in a semi-musical version called The Opposite Sex, with June Allyson and Ann Sheridan. There are plans to film a new version.

Woody Woodpecker.

A cartoon character with an infectious laugh, created in the 30s by Walter Lantz for Universal, and still going strong in 1973 via a new TV incarnation.

World War I

(1914-1918).

now a remote and comparatively concentrated event, was seen by film-makers of the next four decades chiefly as an opportunity for pacifist propaganda arising from horror and disillusion. This is the kind of attitude struck in Civilisation, War Brides, The Battle Cry of Peace, All Quiet on the Western Front (and its sequel The Road Back), Westfront 1918, J'Accuse, The Man Who Reclaimed His Head, Journey's End, La Grande Illusion, The Man I Killed, The Road to Glory, They Gave Me a Gun, Sergeant York, and Paths of Glory. Oh What a Lovely War made the same points by use of bitter comedy. The romantic aspect of war, however, was not neglected by The White Sister, A Farewell to Arms, Hearts of the World, The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse, The Big Parade, Lilac Time, Hell's Angels, Seventh Heaven, The Dark Angel, Waterloo Bridge, Lawrence of Arabia, and many others. What Price Glory? was pure cynicism, The Fighting 69th pure jingoism. The spy element was to the fore in I Was a Spy, Dark Journey, The Spy in Black, Mata Hari, Nurse Edith Cavell and Darling Lili; aviation in Hell's Angels, Wings, The Red Baron and The Blue Max. Comedy aspects of the war were depicted in Shoulder Arms, Spy for a Day, Pack Up Your Troubles, We're in the Army Now, Half Shot at Sunrise and Up the Front. Rehabilitation problems were dealt with in The Sun Also Rises, The Last Flight, Isn't Life Wonderful?, The Lost Squadron, The Roaring Twenties and the 'Forgotten Man' number in Gold Diggers of 1933. Regeneration 97 dealt with the shell-shocked victims of trench warfare, including poets Siegfried Sassoon and Wilfred Owen.

writers

depicted in films include the following: Rod Taylor as Sean O'Casey in Young Cassidy, John Shepperd as Edgar Allan Poe in The Loves of Edgar Allan Poe, Beau Bridges as Ben Hecht in Gaily Gaily, James Mason as Gustave Flaubert in Madame Bovary, Herbert Marshall as Somerset Maugham in The Moon and Sixpence and The Razor's Edge, Reginald Gardiner as Shakespeare in The Story of Mankind, Turhan Bey as Aesop in A Night in Paradise, Michael O'Shea as Jack London in Jack London, Dean Stockwell as Eugene O'Neill in Long Day's Journey into Night, Daniel Massey as Noël Coward in Star!, Frederick Jaeger as Henrik Ibsen in Song of Norway, Danny Kaye as Hans Christian Andersen, Paul Muni in The Life of Emile Zola, Gregory Peck as F. Scott Fitzgerald in Beloved Infidel, Burgess Meredith as Ernie Pyle in The Story of G.I. Joe, Michael Redgrave as W.B. Yeats in Young Cassidy, Laurence Harvey and Karl Boehm in The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm, Dennis Price in The Bad Lord Byron, Richard Chamberlain as Byron in Lady Caroline Lamb, Fredric March (later Bill Travers) as Robert Browning in The Barretts of Wimpole Street, Olivia de Havilland, Nancy Coleman and Ida Lupino as the Brontë Sisters in Devotion, Arthur Kennedy as Branwell Brontë in Devotion, Sydney Greenstreet as Thackeray in Devotion, Robert Morley in Oscar Wilde, Peter Finch in The Trials of Oscar Wilde, Cornel Wilde in Omar Khayyam, Fredric March in The Adventures of Mark Twain, Ian McKellen as D.H Lawrence in Priest of Love. Henry Miller was played by David Brandon and Anais Nin by Martine Brochard in Room of Words 89, and by Fred Ward and Maria de Medeiros in Henry and June 90. The film with the most writers gathered together is Alan Rudolph's 1994 film Mrs Parker and the Vicious Circle, about Dorothy Parker and friends gathering for battles of wits at the Algonquin Round Table. The cast includes Jennifer Jason Leigh as Parker, Matthew Broderick as Charles MacArthur, Campbell Scott as Robert Benchley, Lili Taylor as Edna Ferber, Nick Cassavetes as Robert Sherwood, David Thornton as George S. Kaufman, Tom McGowan as Alexander Woollcott, Chip Zien as Franklin P. Adams, Gary Basaraba as Heywood Broun, and David Gow as Donald Ogden Stewart.

❝Despite the greater reputations of stars and directors, no Hollywood film could begin to be made without a writer, and it is often the dialogue which lingers most effectively in the mind, bringing life even to corny old yarns which were anonymously satirized as follows:

Arizona. Indians thronging.
Arrows pinging. Pistols ponging.
Something smelly - old and hoary.
Not to worry: it's the story.

A bad story can be salvaged by a good director, just as vice versa. Richard Corliss remarked:

While these two functions can be distinguished for research purposes, they are really the inseparable halves of a work of art.

What happens, of course, isn't always art; Mr Corliss was referring to Citizen Kane. And some writers give up trying soon after they get to Hollywood with its compromises. As William Holden remarked in Sunset Boulevard:

Audiences don't know anybody writes a picture. They think the actors just make it up as they go along.

Other cynics have claimed that there are only six basic plots. As Mr Holden said in another film, Paris When It Sizzles:

Frankenstein and My Fair Lady are really the same story.

He was right. But of all the arts, the screen is most capable of transforming old sows' ears into shining new silk purses. It can be tremendously subtle in its effects, as Dudley Nichols knew:

The stage is a medium of action, but the screen is a medium of reaction.

Leading those who made screencraft their own was Preston Sturges.

Among the handful of screenwriters whose influence was critical to the craft, Sturges deserves at least two fingers and a thumb.

That's the view of Richard Corliss, who also admires Samson Raphaelson:

Style may be said to comprise his theme: the way people embody it, employ it.

Wuthering Heights.

Emily Brontë's brooding romantic novel was filmed in Britain in the silent era, but the best version was made in America in 1939, directed by William Wyler, with Laurence Olivier, as Heathcliff, and Merle Oberon. (It is said that Goldwyn's original casting preferences for Heathcliff were Ronald Colman, Douglas Fairbanks Jnr, and Robert Newton.) A subsequent Mexican version of the story by Luis Buñuel, Abismos de Pasión 50, has not been widely seen. Robert Fuest remade it in 1970 with Timothy Dalton and Anna Calder-Marshall, and a lacklustre treatment came in 1992, with Ralph Fiennes and Juliette Binoche.

Wuxia

is a term meaning swordsman or knight-errant, and denotes stories of martial arts dealing with a mythical and chivalric past. (A Western equivalent would be tales of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table.) Many Chinese movies have been made in the genre, offering spectacular fights that, with actors suspended on wires, come close to aerial ballet. They are sometimes referred to as 'flying swordsman' films, and were influenced by Japanese samurai movies, such as the series featuring the blind Zatoichi. Many of the films were based on the novels of Jin Yong, and often featured a stolen scroll containing martial arts secrets that the hero, or heroine, must regain. They gained international popularity from the mid-60s through King Hu's films, including Come Drink With Me/Da Zui Xia, The Valiant Ones/Zhonglie Tu and A Touch of Zen. The genre was later revived by Tsui Hark and Chin Siu-tung with Swordsman 90, a movie that King Hu had been going to direct, and Swordsman II 92. In the West, the best-known film in the style is Ang Lee's award-winning Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon 00, but there are very many others. It was brought into Hollywood mainstream cinema by Chinese director Yeun Wo-Ping, who choreographed the fight sequences in Ang Lee's Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon and the Wachowski Brothers' Matrix trilogy. The style also featured in Quentin Tarantino's Kill Bill and the two Charlie's Angels movies.

X-Men,

Marvel comic's story of a battle between good mutants, who want to live peaceably with ordinary humans, and the bad, who want to take over the world, has so far spawned three films that offer much the same narrative each time. The project attracted a starry cast, with the two mutant leaders played by English classical actors Patrick Stewart and Ian McKellan, with the cast of mutants including Halle Berry, Anna Paquin and Hugh Jackman. X-Men, the first film in 2000, took more than $150m at the US box-office. It was followed in 2003 by X-2, which earned more than $214m at the US box-office. In 2006 came X-Men: The Last Stand, in which the two sides once again battle for supremacy.

Yojimbo,

Akira Kurosawa's 1961 movie, with Toshiro Mifune as a wandering samurai who tricks two rival gangs of cutthroats into destroying one another, was one of the inspirations for Italy's 'spaghetti westerns' when it was remade by Sergio Leone in 1964 as A Fistful of Dollars, starring Clint Eastwood. In 1996 came an American version, Last Man Standing, directed by Walter Hill and starring Bruce Willis.

Yosemite Sam.

Bad-tempered, loud-mouthed, long-moustachioed cartoon cowboy, the self-styled 'roughest, toughest hombre', usually to be seen chasing Bugs Bunny in Warner Brothers' Merrie Melodies and Loony Tunes cartoons. Created by Fritz Freleng, he was voiced by Mel Blanc.

Hare Trigger 45. Buccaneer Bunny 48. Mutiny on the Bunny 50. 14 Carrot Rabbit 52. Captain Hareblower 54. Rabbitson Crusoe 56. Knighty-Knight Bugs (AA) 58. Prince Violent 61. Shishkabugs 62. Devil's Feud Cake 63, etc.

Zatoichi

was a blind masseur with superb abilities as a swordsman, the hero of a series of 26 popular Japanese films that ran for a decade from 1962, many of them directed by Kenji Misumi. In 1964, Zatoichi and the Scoundrels, the sixth film in the series and the first to be made in colour, was dubbed into English and retitled Zatoichi the Blind Swordsman, but it failed to find an international audience, though some later films, including Zatoichi Meets Yojimbo 70, were released in America and elsewhere. The character was created by writer Kan Shimozawa and all the films starred Shintaro Katsu in the title role. He also produced and directed the two final movies in the series, Zatoichi in Desperation 73 and the bigger budget Zatoichi 89. The success of the films led to a short-lived rival blind swordswoman called Oichi or the Crimson Bat, who lasted for four films. Takeshi Kitano revived the character in 2003 in his Zatoichi, which he also wrote and directed. The series gained a higher profile after director Quentin Tarantino acknowledged them as an influence on his two Kill Bill movies.

zombies

originate from Haitian legend, and are generally held to be dead people brought back to life by voodoo. In movies they invariably shamble along with sightless eyes, looking pretty awful but doing no real damage. They were most convincingly displayed in Victor Halperin's 1932 White Zombie; other examples of the species turned up in Revolt of the Zombies, The Zombies of Mora Tau, I Walked With a Zombie, King of the Zombies, The Ghost Breakers (and its remake Scared Stiff), and Dr Terror's House of Horrors. The species gave its name to a strong rum punch, and one treasured memory is a movie in which the Ritz Brothers walked up to a bar and said: 'Three zombies.' 'I can see that,' said the barman, 'but what'll you have to drink?' In the 70s George Romero adopted the theme in such films as Night of the Living Dead and Dawn of the Dead; but the most fearsome undead of all appeared in the dream scene of Hammer's 1965 Plague of the Zombies.

Zoopraxiscope.

A projector for showing motion pictures, designed by photographer Eadweard Muybridge. It was a natural development from his photographic sequence demonstrating the movement of horses in 1878. He first called his device the Zoogyroscope, renaming it in 1881. It projected a sequence of 12 images derived from his photographs and painted on a glass disc. He demonstrated it on a lecture tour of Europe in 1881-82. A working replica is on display at the Museum of the Moving Image in London.

Zorro (Don Diego de Vega)

The black-garbed Robin Hood of Spanish California originated as the hero of a 1919 strip cartoon by Johnston McCulley. (Zorro, incidentally, is Spanish for fox.) Films featuring the devil-may-care righter of wrongs include The Mark of Zorro 20 with Douglas Fairbanks, and its 1925 sequel Don Q, Son of Zorro; The Bold Caballero 37 with Robert Livingston; Zorro Rides Again 37, a serial with John Carroll; Zorro's Fighting Legion 39, a serial with Reed Hadley; Mamoulian's splendid remake of The Mark of Zorro 40, with Tyrone Power; The Ghost of Zorro 49, a serial with Clayton Moore; Walter Chiari in The Sign of Zorro 52; Zorro the Avenger 60 and other Disney TV films with Guy Williams; Sean Flynn in The Sign of Zorro 62; Frank Latimore in Shadow of Zorro 62; Pierre Brice in Zorro versus Maciste 63; George Ardisson in Zorro at the Court of Spain 63; Gordon Scott in Zorro and the Three Musketeers 63; and Alain Delon in Zorro 75. Almost inevitably the 80s brought a spoof version, Zorro the Gay Blade 82, featuring a limp-wristed avenger. A return to the swashbuckling style of the original came in 1998 with The Mask of Zorro, directed by Martin Campbell and starring Anthony Hopkins as an ageing Zorro and Antonio Banderas as his virile replacement, after director Robert Rodriguez and his star Andy Garcia had dropped out of the project. Banderas returned to the role in The Legend of Zorro 05.

3

AN ALPHABETICAL LISTING OF REMAKES, SERIES, THEMES AND GENRES

Abie's Irish Rose. abortion,
Accent on Youth. actors adaptations.
addresses
The Admirable Crichton. advertising aeroplanes:
Ah, Wilderness!
AIDS,
air balloons,
airplanes, airships
The Alamo, alcoholics
Aldwych farces
Algonquin Round Table.
Ali Baba.
Alice in Wonderland.
Alien/Aliens.
all-star films.
The American Civil War,
The American Revolution.
amnesia
Amos 'n' Andy.
anachronisms ancient Egypt angels animals, anti-Semitism
Antoine Doinel.
army comedies
Around the World in 80 Days
Arsène Lupin.
Arthur.
Asphalt Jungle assassination
Asterix.
Austin Powers. authors as actors automobiles
The Avengers.
Babe babies
Back Street.
backstage ballet balloons:
Barney Bear.
baseball
bathtubs,
Batman.
Ben Hur.
Berkeley Square,
Berlin
Betty Boop.
Beverly Hills.
The Bible.
big business bigamists birds
The Bishop's Wife
black comedy blacks blaxploitation blindness, boffins
boo-boos:
Boston Blackie
The Bowery Boys.
boxing.
The Brady Bunch.
The British Empire
brothels
Bugs Bunny.
Bulldog Drummond.
bullfights
burlesque.
buses
butlers.
cable cars
cannibalism
Carl Hamilton
Carmen. carnivals:
Carry On films.
case histories
Casper, the Friendly Ghost.
catchphrases Cenobites.
Charley's Aunt.
Charlie and the Chocolate Factory
Charlie Chan.
Charters and Caldicott
the chase child stars childhood portrayed by grown-ups
Chilly Willy.
Christ
Christmas churches the cinema cinemas circuses,
The Cisco Kid
clairvoyance coal mines
Cobra (1986): the Cold War colleges:
comedy:
comedy teams comic strips communism compilation films composers computers
Conan the Barbarian.
concentration camps, concerts confidence tricksters
A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court. continuity errors and boo-boos
The Count of Monte Cristo. courtesans courtroom scenes crazy comedy Crime Doctor criminals critics
Cry the Beloved Country.
Crying Freeman.
custard pies
Daffy Duck.
dance bands.
Daredevil.
The Dead End Kids deaf mutes death dentists department stores desert islands deserts
the devil
Devil's Island,
Dick Barton.
Dick Tracy.
Die Hard.
dinosaurs directors' appearances Dirty Harry: disaster films disguise Django.
Dr Christian
Dr Mabuse.
Dr Who.
doctors
A Dog of Flanders,
Don Juan.
Don Quixote.
Donald Duck.
Dracula. drag:
dreams,
Droopy.
drug addiction,
drunk scenes
Dudley Do-Right, duels
The East Side Kids.
El Santo.
the electric chair elephants elevators:
Ellery Queen.
Elmer Fudd.
the end of the world
Enoch Arden entertainers, epidemics episodic films epitaphs Eskimos excerpts explorers Fair Game.
fairy tales:
The Fall of the House of Usher. falling the family
Fanny.
fans fantasy farce
Farewell, My Lovely.
A Farewell to Arms.
fashions fastest money-making movies:
Father Brown.
FBI.
Felix (the Cat).
female impersonation:
fights film-making films à clef
Final Destination fire firing squads
The Flag Lieutenant.
Flash Gordon.
The Flight of the Phoenix
The Flintstones. fog
Foghorn Leghorn.
Folies Bergère.
the Foreign Legion forest fires
The Fox.
Fox and the Crow.
Francis.
Frankenstein.
Friday the 13th.
Fritz the Cat.
The Front Page.
Fu Manchu.
funerals funfairs gambling, gangsters,
The Garden of Allah.
Gaslight.
Gentlemen Prefer Blondes.
George of the Jungle
Gerald McBoing Boing.
Gertie the Dinosaur.
The Ghost Breaker.
The Ghost Train.
ghosts:
giants
Gidget. gigolos
gimmicks.
The Glass Key.
Godzilla.
The Golem.
The Good Companions.
Goodbye Mr Chips.
Goofy.
governesses
Grand Hotel.
The Great Adventure.
The Great Gatsby.
The Great Impersonation.
Green Hornet, The.
the guillotine,
Gulliver's Travels.
Gunfight at the OK Corral.
Gunga Din.
gypsies Hamlet. hands.
The Hands of Orlac.
Harry Callahan.
Harry Palmer
Harry Potter.
The Haunting heaven:
Heckle and Jeckle.
helicopters, hell
Henry Aldrich.
Hercule Poirot.
High Sierra hillbillies
Hollywood.
Hollywood on film homosexuality
Hopalong Cassidy, horror horses hospitals
hotels
The Hound of the Baskervilles
House on Haunted Hill houses
Hubie and Bertie.
The Huggetts.
The Hunchback of Notre Dame.
hypnosis
impresarios
in-jokes
incest
The Incredible Hulk.
The Incredible Journey.
Indians:
insanity
insects
Inspector Hornleigh.
insults.
inventors
The Iron Man
The Island of Dr Moreau.
Jack the Ripper.
James Bond,
Jane Eyre.
jazz jewel thieves
Jews
Joe Palooka.
The Jones Family.
Judge Dredd.
Juha
The Jungle Book.
Jungle Jim.
The Keystone Kops.
Kid Galahad.
kidnapping
King Arthur:
King Kong.
King Solomon's Mines.
kings and queens,
Kismet.

The Ku Klux Klan
labour relations
Lady for a Day.
Lassie.
The Last Days of Pompeii.
The Last of the Mohicans.
Leave It to Beaver
legends.
Lemmy Caution.
leprechauns
lesbianism
letters
Li'l Abner.
lifts
light comedians, lighthouses
Liliom.
Little Lord Fauntleroy.
Little Miss Marker.
Little Rascals:
Little Tough Guys.
Little Women.
The Lodger:
London
The Lone Ranger.
The Lone Rider
The Lone Wolf,
lookalikes.
Looney Tunes/Merrie Melodies
The Lord of the Rings.
Los Angeles,
Lost Horizon.
Lost in Space
Lost Patrol.
Love Affair.
The Lower Depths.
lumberjacks
lynch law
M.
Ma and Pa Kettle.
Macbeth.
Maciste.
Madame Bovary.
The Mafia.
magicians
Magnificent Obsession.
Maigret.
Maisie.
male impersonation:
The Maltese Falcon.
The Man in the Iron Mask.
The Man Who Knew Too Much.
The March of Time.
Matt Helm.
Mau Mau.
Merrie Melodies:
The Merry Widow.
Merton of the Movies.
Mexican Spitfire.
Michael Shayne.
Mickey Mouse.
A Midsummer Night's Dream.
Mighty Joe Young
Mighty Mouse.
Mike Hammer.
miniaturization.
mirrors
Les Misérables.
misnomers
Miss Marple.
Mrs Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch.
missionaries
Mr Belvedere.
Mr Magoo.
Mr Moto.
Mr Wong.
Moby Dick.
Modesty Blaise.
monks
Monsieur Beaucaire.
monster animals.
Monty Python.
morticians:
'The Most Dangerous Game'.
mother love
motor racing motor-cycles mountains
movies
multi-screen techniques
multiple roles.
multiple-story films
The Mummy.
Muppets.
murderers
musical remakes
musicals
Mutiny on the Bounty.
My Man Godfrey.
My Sister Eileen.
mystery
The Mystery of the Wax Museum.
Nana.
Nancy Drew.
narrators
naval comedy
nepotism.
New York
Nick and Nora Charles.
Nick Carter.
Nightmare on Elm Street.
No Man of Her Own
Norman Bates.
Nothing but the Truth.
numbered sequels.
nuns
nurses
nymphomaniacs
Ocean's Eleven
Of Mice and Men. offices
Oh God! oil
old age
Old Mother Riley.
Oliver Twist.
One Million B.C.
One Way Passage.
opera orchestral conductors
oriental roles.
Oswald the Rabbit.
Othello.
'Our Gang'.
painters
The Paleface.
Paris
parody
parties
The Passing of the Third Floor Back.
The Passing Parade.
Penrod.
Pepe Le Pew.
The Perils of Pauline.
Perry Mason,
Peyton Place.
The Phantom of the Opera.
Philip Marlowe
The Pink Panther.
pirates
The Plainsman.
Planet of the Apes.
plastic surgery
police politics,
Popeye.
Porky Pig. poverty
priests
The Prince and the Pauper.
prison films
The Prisoner of Zenda. prisoners of war
private eyes:
prizefighting:
prophecy
prostitutes psychology publicity put-downs
Quiller.
Quo Vadis?
radio,
Raffles. railway stations rain
Rain.
The Rains Came.
Rambo.
Ramona.
The Range Busters. rape
Rashomon.
The Rat
Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm.
Red Dust.
Red Indians (native Americans),
reincarnation
rejuvenation
religion
remakes in disguise.
reporters
The Ring.
The Ringer.
road movie.
Road Runner.
robberies
Robin Hood.
Robinson Crusoe.
Robocop.
robots
Rocky Balboa.
Roger Rabbit.
Rogue Male. romantic teams
Rome
Romeo and Juliet.
Rose Marie.
Rosebud.
Ruggles of Red Gap.
Sabrina.
Sahara: sailors
The Saint.
Saint Johnson
St Trinian's.
Salome.
San Francisco,
satire,
Saturday Night Live
Scarface.
The Scarlet Letter.
The Scarlet Pimpernel.
Scattergood Baines,
schooldays
science fiction, scientists
The Sea Wolf.
seances
seaside resorts
Sergeant Ernie Bilko.
serial killers.
serials series servants
Seven Keys to Baldpate.
Seventh Heaven.
sewers
sex.
sex changes
Sexton Blake.
Shaft.
She.
She Loves Me Not.
The Sheik.
Sherlock Holmes,
ships,
The Shop around the Corner.
The Shopworn Angel.
Show Boat.
Silly Symphony.
A Sister to Assist'er.
Sitting Pretty.
skiing
slapstick.
Slaughter.
slogans
small towns
Smilin' Through. smoking
smugglers
social comedy.
social conscience
Solaris,
soldiers
space exploration
spaghetti westerns.
The Spanish Civil War
speeches
Speedy Gonzales.
Spider-Man.
spies
The Spoilers. sportsmen
Squibs.
staircases
A Star Is Born.
Star Wars.
State Fair. statesmen statues
Stella Dallas.
The Stepford Wives
storms
strikes:
striptease.
The Student of Prague.
The Student Prince.
student protest
stuntmen, submarines
subways:
suicide
Superman.
Svengali,
swashbucklers
swinging London
The Swiss Family Robinson.
sword and sorcery
Sylvester.
A Tale of Two Cities.
Tales of Manhattan.
talkies
Tammy.
Tarzan. teachers
teams:
Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles.
the telephone television, television movies
television series
The Ten Commandments.
tennis
The Texas Chainsaw Massacre,
theatres
The Thief of Bagdad.
Thieves Like Us,
The Thin Man.
The Thing (from Another World).
The Thirty-Nine Steps.
This Gun for Hire.
This Modern Age.
Three Coins in the Fountain.
Three Men in a Boat.
The Three Mesquiteers.
The Three Musketeers.
Three Smart Girls. time travel
tinting
The Titanic.
To Have and Have Not.
The Toff.
Tol'able David.
Tom and Jerry.
Tom Brown's Schooldays.
Tom Sawyer.
Tony Rome.
Topper.
Torchy Blane.
torture
Trail of the Lonesome Pine. trains
tramps
transvestism.
Treasure Island.
trends
Trilby:
Tugboat Annie.
Tweety Pie.
Uncle Tom's Cabin. uncredited appearances
Under Two Flags. underground railways
undertakers,
underwater sequences
unemployment
Unfaithfully Yours.
unfinished films.
unfinished performances.
universities
vampires
Venice
ventriloquists
Victory.
Vienna
The Vietnam War
vigilantes
violence
The Virginian.
volcanoes
The Wages of Fear.
War and Peace.
war heroes
The War of the Worlds.
The Ware Case.
Washington Square,
water,
waterfront
Waterloo Bridge.
waxworks
weddings
westerns
wheelchairs
The Whistler.
Whistling in the Dark.
White Cargo.
Why We Fight.
The Wicked Lady.
Wile E. Coyote.
William.
witchcraft
The Wolf Man.
Woman to Woman.
The Women.
Woody Woodpecker.
World War I writers
Wuthering Heights.
Wuxia
X-Men
Yojimbo,
Yosemite Sam.
Zatoichi
zombies
Zorro

4

MOVIE STUDIOS AND PRODUCTION COMPANIES, ETC.

Abbey Theatre.

Significant Irish theatre, founded in Dublin in 1904, which presented the first performances of plays by W. B. Yeats, J. M. Synge and Sean O'Casey. Over the years, many of its actors went on to film careers, though the theatre discouraged them and often refused to ever employ them again as a result. They included J. M. Kerrigan, who also directed some now-lost silent films, Fred O'Donovan, also a director of some silents, Sara Allgood, Maire O'Neill, Arthur Sinclair, W. G. Fay, F. J. McCormick, Dudley Digges, Barry Fitzgerald, Cyril Cusack, Liam Redmond, Dan O'Herlihy, Denis O'Dea, Jack MacGowran, Niall Toibin, T. P. McKenna, and Ray McAnally. John Ford drew on Abbey actors for his two Irish films, The Informer 35 and The Plough and the Stars 36, and some, like Arthur Shields and Una O'Connor, became familiar players in Hollywood. In the 50s, six Abbey plays were filmed at the newly opened Ardmore Studios, including Broth of a Boy 58, directed by George Pollock from the play by Hugh Leonard, and This Other Eden 60, directed by Muriel Box from Louis D'Alton's play, but they were not commercially successful.

Books: 1958, The Abbey Theatre by Gerard Fay; 1967, The Story of the Abbey Theatre, ed. Sean McCann.

The Actors' Studio.

Drama school established in 1947 by Elia Kazan, Cheryl Crawford and Robert Lewis at West 48th Street, Manhattan (later West 44th Street). It is currently under the leadership of Al Pacino, Ellen Burstyn and Harvey Keitel, with Arthur Penn as its president emeritus. It is especially associated with Lee Strasberg, who ran it for 30 years from 1949, and The Method, a style of acting that owed much to the teachings of Stanislavsky and which revolutionized American acting, becoming the predominant film style, from Marlon Brando to Robert de Niro and Al Pacino. In its earlier days, the Studio gained much publicity through Marilyn Monroe's involvement. Among those who studied there were Brando (though he credits Stella Adler with teaching him how to act), Rod Steiger, James Dean, Geraldine Page, Karl Malden, Shelley Winters, Steve McQueen and Paul Newman.

Books: 1980, A Player's Place: The Story of the Actors Studio by David Garfield; 1984, A Method to Their Madness by Foster Hirsch.

Documentary: 1981, Lee Strasberg and The Actors' Studio (d. Herbert Kline).

Allied Artists Corporation.

An American production company, more recently involved in TV, which flourished throughout the 30s and 40s as a purveyor of routine crime and comedy second features. Its policy was to put out the poorer product under the banner of its subsidiary, Monogram Pictures Corporation; the 'quality' AA product was little in evidence until the 50s, when films like Love in the Afternoon, Friendly Persuasion and Al Capone came from this stable. Meanwhile the Monogram films, boasting such attractions as Frankie Darro, the East Side Kids, the Bowery Boys, Bela Lugosi and Charlie Chan, had their faithful following, and in France attracted highbrow cinéastes to such an extent that Jean-Luc Godard dedicated his film A Bout de Souffle to Monogram.

Amalgamated Dynamics, Inc.

Visual effects and creature design company established in 1988 by Tom Woodruff, Jnr, and Alec Gillis, who formerly worked with Stan Winston. Woodruff played a monster in Monster Squad 87, and the title role in Pumpkinhead 88.

Tremors 90. Death Becomes Her (AA) 92. Alien 3 (AAN) 92. Demolition Man 93. Wolf 94. The Santa Clause 94. Tremors 2: Aftershocks 95. Mortal Kombat 95. Jumanji 95. Michael 96. Alien: Resurrection 97. Starship Troopers 97. The X Files Movie 98. Panic Room 02. Spider-Man 02. The Santa Clause 2 02, etc.

American International Pictures.

Independent production company founded in 1955 by Samuel Z. Arkoff and James H. Nicholson. After a profitable splurge of Z pictures churned out mainly by Roger Corman the company began to set its sights on the big time. In 1980 the ailing company was taken over by Filmways, which in 1982 was in its turn taken over by Orion.

Amicus

British production company specialising in low budget exploitation movies, mainly of horror and science-fiction. It was founded by American screenwriter and producer Milton Subotsky and American producer Max J. Rosenberg. Casts often included Hammer favourites Peter Cushing and Christopher Lee, and writer Robert Bloch was involved in six of their productions. It specialised in horror compendiums, with several stories combined in one feature.

Book: 00, Amicus: The Studio that Dripped Blood, ed Alan Bryce.

Dr. Terror's House of Horrors 65. The Skull 65. Dr Who and the Daleks/Daleks' Invasion Earth: 2150 A.D 66 The Deadly Bees 66. The Psychopath 66. Terrornauts 67. They Came From Beyond Space 67. Torture Garden 67. Danger Route 68. The House That Dripped Blood 70. The Mind of Mr. Soames 70. I, Monster 71. Asylum/House of Crazies 72. Tales from the Crypt 72. What Became of Jack and Jill? 72. And Now the Screaming Starts! 73. The Vault of Horror 73. From Beyond the Grave 73. Tales That Witness Madness 73. The Beast Must Die/Black Werewolf 74. The Land That Time Forgot 75. At the Earth's Core 76. The People That Time Forgot 77, etc.

The Archers.

British production company set up in 1943 by Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger. Its films were produced, directed and written by the pair. The partnership lasted until 1956.

Book: 1985, Arrows of Desire by Ian Christie.

■The Silver Fleet 43. The Life and Death of Colonel Blimp 43. The Volunteer 43. A Canterbury Tale 44. I Know Where I'm Going 45. A Matter of Life and Death 46. Black Narcissus 47. The End of the River 47. The Red Shoes 48. The Small Back Room 49. Gone to Earth 50. The Elusive Pimpernel 50. The Tales of Hoffman 51. Oh Rosalinda! 55. The Battle of the River Plate 56. Ill Met by Moonlight 56.

Artists Management Group

(AMG) was a management and production agency formed in 1998 by former agent and Disney executive Mike Ovitz. Three years later, after heavy losses, Ovitz sold out to another management company The Firm. He blamed the company's demise on Hollywood's "gay mafia" who, he claimed, had driven him out of business.

Associated British

was the only British complex of companies which had power comparable to that of the Rank Organization. Its history is tied up with Elstree Studios, originally owned by British International Pictures, which after many mergers emerged as Associated British in 1933. The men involved in the story are producer Herbert Wilcox, John Maxwell, a lawyer who turned film distributor and later founded the ABC cinema chain, and J. D. Williams, a wealthy exhibitor. Distribution was arranged through Pathé Pictures, which became a powerful partner. Elstree was the first British studio to wire for sound (Blackmail) and the first to produce a bilingual talkie (Atlantic). Throughout the thirties it turned out fifteen films a year, usually unambitious but competent; and unmistakably British. In 1940 a great number of shares were sold to Warner Brothers, and in 1956 the distribution arm became known as Warner-Pathé. Other associated companies include Pathé News, Pathé Laboratories, Pathé Equipment, and ABC Television. In 1969, after several years of comparative inactivity, the complex was taken over by EMI. In the 80s Cannon took over all the companies, but promptly sold the library to Jerry Weintraub.

Boreham Wood.

A British studio fourteen miles north of London, a site originally chosen by John M. East (1860-1924), a stage and silent screen actor. It opened in 1914 as Neptune Films, which folded in 1921; the stages were later taken over by Ideal, Rock, British National, and Associated Television. MGM and ABPC also had studios in nearby Elstree.

Bray Studios

became the home of Hammer Films in the late 40s, with many of its horror movies being shot in the grounds and in its mansion, Down Place, which dated from the 17th century. After Hammer ceased production in the late 60s, the studios continued to provide facilities for various films and television series.

British Lion Film Corporation.

A film production company of the 20s which, in the 30s, became mainly a distributor of cheap American product but was revived after World War II by the control of Alexander Korda, then by Michael Balcon, the Boulting Brothers and Frank Launder and Sidney Gilliat. It merged in 1976 with EMI.

Cannon Group.

Production and distribution company run from the late 70s to the late 80s by two Israeli cousins, producer Yoram Globus and producer-director Menahem Golan. They had made their money with movies that ranged from the topical (Operation Thunderbolt about Israel's raid on Entebbe) to the trivial (Lemon Popsicle featuring oversexed teenagers). They moved to the USA at the end of the 70s to take over the moribund Cannon Films. Essentially showmen, they pre-sold their cheaply-made movies with a mixture of hype and bravado, cashing in on any passing craze. In the ten years before the enterprise collapsed, they produced more than a hundred movies, most of them bad, though some have achieved a cult following. Over-ambitious plans killed the company: they bought cinema chains in Britain and elsewhere and invested in expensive failures and some disastrous arthouse films. The pair went their separate ways in the 90s, with Globus active in Israel as a producer, distributor and exhibitor. Golan set up a production company called New Cannon, Inc in 2001.

Book: 1986, Hollywood a Go-go by Andrew Yule.

Carolco.

American production company founded by Mario Kassar and Andrew Vajna in 1982 and noted for its big-budget approach to film-making. Vajna left later to found another production company, Cinergi. Carolco filed for bankruptcy in 1995 and its assets were sold to Twentieth Century- Fox.

First Blood 82. Rambo: First Blood Part Two 85. Angel Heart 87. Red Heat 88. Total Recall 90. Terminator 2: Judgment Day 91. Basic Instinct 91. Cliffhanger 93. CutThroat Island 95, etc.

Castle Rock Entertainment.

Hollywood production company co-founded by director Rob Reiner. Now a subsidiary of the Turner Broadcasting System, it has plans to become a distributor also.

Children's Film Foundation.

British company formed in 1951 to produce and distribute specially devised entertainment films for children's Saturday matinées. Sponsored by trade organizations.

Cine Liberación

was a radical film collective founded in Argentina in the late 60s by Fernando Solanas and Octavio Getino. Its manifesto, Toward a Third Cinema, argued for a cinema based on collective, and even clandestine, production, distribution that involved its audience in discussion of the film and the issues raised, and opposition to the country's military dictatorship. (The first two cinemas were defined as the Hollywood studio system and the auteur approach.) The two founders put their theories into practice in The Hour of the Furnaces 68, a revolutionary documentary clandestinely distributed in Argentina, while a third member of the group, Gerardo Vallejo, made El Camino hacia la Muerte del Viejo Reales 70, about three years he spent with a rural family.

Cinecittà.

Large film studios in Rome, built in 1935, that have been at the centre of the Italian film industry and have also housed such international blockbusters as Ben Hur 59, Cleopatra 63 and Gangs of New York 02.

Cineguild.

A short-lived British production company set up in 1943 by David Lean, Ronald Neame and Anthony Havelock-Allan following their success working together on Noël Coward's In Which We Serve. After filming versions of Coward's plays, the trio moved on to create classic adaptations of two of Dickens's novels. Associated with the Rank Organization, the company came to an end when Rank cut back on its production plans in 1949.

This Happy Breed 44. Blithe Spirit 45. Brief Encounter 45. Great Expectations 46. Oliver Twist 48. The Passionate Friends 49. Madeleine 50, etc.

Columbia Pictures.

American production and distribution company long considered one of the 'little two' (the other being Universal) against the 'big five' (MGM, RKO, Fox, Warner and Paramount). Columbia originated with one man, Harry Cohn, who founded it in 1924 after a career as a salesman and shorts producer. Throughout the 30s and 40s he turned out competent co-features and second features, apart from prestige pictures such as the Capra comedies and an ill-fated Kramer deal; he was also prepared to spend big money on certainties such as Rita Hayworth and The Jolson Story. From the late 40s, with films like All the King's Men, Born Yesterday and From Here to Eternity, the company began to pull itself into the big-time, and when Cohn died in 1958 it was one of the leaders of international co-production, with such major films to its credit as On the Waterfront and The Bridge on the River Kwai, with Lawrence of Arabia and A Man For All Seasons to come. It also produces and distributes TV films through its subsidiary Screen Gems (Columbia Television). In 1990, the Japanese company Sony paid $3.4 billion for the company. Peter Guber and Jon Peters were installed to run the organization, but Peters soon left to resume life as an independent producer. Since then, the studio has had mixed fortunes. It has had moderate successes, such as A League of Their Own, A Few Good Men, In The Line of Fire and Philadelphia, but it also had many misses, culminating in the disaster of The Last Action Hero starring Arnold Schwarzenegger, which turned out to be not the expected blockbuster but a dismal flop. In 1994 Peter Guber followed Jon Peters' example and quit to become an independent producer. Many of its recent films were less successful than expected, including City Hall, with Al Pacino, Cable Guy, with the seemingly impregnable Jim Carrey, Striptease with Demi Moore, and Multiplicity with Michael Keaton in several roles. Lisa Henson, president of Columbia, and Marc Platt, president of TriStar, were among the executives who left the company in 1996. Under John Calley, who joined the studio from MGM in 1996, and Amy Pascal it has enjoyed better times. In 1997, Sony announced box-office revenues of $1.3 billion, a figure reached in record time. The company absorbed its sister company TriStar in 1998. Its recent hits have included Jerry Maguire, Anaconda, The Fifth Element, My Best Friend's Wedding, Men in Black, Airforce One, Starship Troopers, and As Good as It Gets, The Patriot, Charlie's Angels and Stuart Little. In more recent times with such repeatable films as Men in Black II, Spider-Man and Stuart Little II, the studio enjoyed one of its most profitable times, boosted by the home entertainment demands ($125m was spent buying or renting Spider-Man DVDs and video-cassettes on its first day of release). One intended franchise I Spy was a box-office flop. Other hits included Black Hawk Down, Panic Room and Adaptation. Disappointments included Charlie's Angels: Full Throttle, which failed to make back its cost at the US box-office; the much-reviled Gigli, with Ben Affleck and Jennifer Lopez, Ron Howard's The Missing, and Bewitched, a feeble remake of a once popular TV sitcom.

Books: 1967, King Cohn by Bob Thomas; Hail Columbia by Rochelle Larkin; 1989, The Columbia Story by Clive Hirschhorn; 1991, The Columbia Checklist by Leo D. Martin; 1996, Hit & Run: How Jon Peters and Peter Guber Took Sony for a Ride in Hollywood by Nancy Griffin & Kim Masters.

DEFA (Deutsche Film Aktiengesellschaft).

The East German party line film production company which absorbed UFA in 1946.

Denham.

An English village north of London where in 1936 Korda opened a huge film studio which was later taken over by the Rank Organisation but closed in the 50s so that production could be concentrated at Pinewood a few miles away. The studio was designed by American art director Jack Okey. Originally intended to be relatively small, with three sound stages, it grew under construction to have seven sound stages and to be the best-equipped studio in Europe; but it was too large to be profitable in the long term.

Dogme 95

is a declaration on filmmaking made by a collective of Danish directors: Lars von Trier, Thomass Vinterberg, Soren Kragh-Jacobsen and Kristian Levring. Its manifesto states that 'To DOGME 95 the movie is not illusion! Today a technological storm is raging of which the result is the elevation of cosmetics to God. By using new technology anyone at any time can wash the last grains of truth away in the deadly embrace of sensation. The illusions are everything the movie can hide behind. DOGME 95 counters the film of illusion by the presentation of an indisputable set of rules known as THE VOW OF CHASTITY.'

The vow, signed in Copenhagen on March 13, 1995, lays down ten commandments:

1. Shooting must be done on location. Props and sets must not be brought in (if a particular prop is necessary for the story, a location must be chosen where this prop is to be found).

2. The sound must never be produced apart from the images or vice versa. (Music must not be used unless it occurs where the scene is being shot.)

3. The camera must be hand-held. Any movement or immobility attainable in the hand is permitted. (The film must not take place where the camera is standing; shooting must take place where the film takes place.)

4. The film must be in colour. Special lighting is not acceptable. (If there is too little light for exposure the scene must be cut or a single lamp be attached to the camera.)

5. Optical work and filters are forbidden.

6. The film must not contain superficial action. (Murders, weapons, etc. must not occur.)

7. Temporal and geographical alienation are forbidden. (That is to say that the film takes place here and now.)

8. Genre movies are not acceptable.

9. The film format must be Academy 35 mm.

10. The director must not be credited.

It also states: 'Furthermore I swear as a director to refrain from personal taste! I am no longer an artist. I swear to refrain from creating a "work", as I regard the instant as more important than the whole. My supreme goal is to force the truth out of my characters and settings. I swear to do so by all the means available and at the cost of any good taste and any aesthetic considerations.'

Directors from other countries have begun to make Dogme films, though no one seems to adhere to all the rules.

The Celebration/Festen (d Vinterberg) 98. The Idiots/Idioterne (wd von Trier) 98. Mifune/Mifunes Sidste Sang (co-w, d Kragh-Jacobsen) 99. The King is Alive (wd Kristian Levring) 99. Lovers (Fr., d Jean-Marc Barr) Julien Donkey-Boy (US, wd Harmony Korine) 00. Interview (Kor., d Daniel H. Byun). Fuckland 00 (Arg., d Jose Luis Marques). Babylon 00 (Swe. d Vladan Zdravkovic). Chetzemoka's Curse 00 (US, d Rick Schmidt, Maya Berthoud). Diapason 00 (It. d Antonio Domenici). Italiensk For Begyndere 00 (d Lone Scherfig). Joy Ride 00 (Swi. d Martin Rengel). Camera 00 (US, d Rich Martini). Bad Actors 00 (US, d Shaun Monson) 00. Era Outra Vez 00 (Sp., d Juan Pinzás). Reunion 01 (US, d Leif Tilden). Et Rigtigt Menneske 01 (wd Ake Sandgren) 01. Når Nettene Blir 01 (Nor., d Mona J. Hoel). Strass 01 (Bel., d Vincent Lannoo). En Kaerlighedhistorie 01 (d Ole Christian Madsen). Resin 01 (US, d Vladimir Gyorski). Security Coloroado 01 (US, d Andrew Gillis). Converging with Angels 02 (US, d Michael Sorenson). The Sparkle Room 02 (US, d Alex McAuley). Elsker Dig For Evigt 02 (d Susanne Bier). The Bread Basket 02 (US, d Matthew Biancniello). Dias de Boda 02 (Sp., d Juan Pinzas). El Desenlace 02 (Sp. d Juan Pinzas), etc.

DreamWorks SKG.

Hollywood studio set up in 1994 by Steven Spielberg, Jeffrey Katzenberg and David Geffen. Its plans to set up the first fully electronic studios have been held up by an environmental dispute. Its first releases were lacklustre, and it was not until 1998 that it enjoyed hits, with Spielberg's Saving Private Ryan and the computer-animated feature Antz; the following year came the Oscar-winning American Beauty, a critical and popular success.The studio has stuck to offering familiar Hollywood fare, and most of its ambitions appear to be channelled into challenging Disney's dominance of animated features with such films as Chicken Run, Spirit: Stallion of the Cimarron and Shrek. Spielberg himself remains the company's greatest asset, directing such films as Minority Report, the sprightly Catch Me If You Can, the science-fiction War of the Worlds and the topical thriller Munich.

Following the success of Shrek 2, the animation division was spun off into a publicly traded company headed by Katzenberg.

The parent company was bought by Paramount Pictures for $1.6bn in late 2005. The new owners hope to sell DreamWorks library of 59 live-action films for around $1bn. Geffen remains as the company's chairman and Spielberg will continue as a producer and director.

Ealing Studios

In its heyday in the 40s and 50s this famous little studio in suburban west London was the independent home of scores of well-paced comedies featuring the likes of Will Hay and George Formby, and from 1948 on aspired a little higher, to quiet comedies of the English character, usually featuring a downtrodden group who rebelled against authority. The resulting films, including The Lavender Hill Mob, Whisky Galore! and The Titfield Thunderbolt, became known the world over. The credit for these films is largely due to Michael Balcon as impresario, and often to T.E.B. Clarke as writer and Alec Guinness as actor; but the results were less happy when the studio tackled epic themes such as Scott of the Antarctic and The Cruel Sea, though it certainly brought off non-comic subjects like Dead of Night and Mandy. The studios were bought by the BBC in 1955, when Balcon put up a plaque: 'Here films were made projecting Britain and the British character.' The BBC sold them in 1992 to a film company which went into receivership, and the studios were acquired as a home for the National Film and Television School, though continuing to provide production facilities. In 1998 the School decided it needed premises nearer London and put the studio up for sale. It was bought in 2000 and now provides facilities for production companies. The first production to carry the Ealing Studios name since the 50s was The Importance of Being Earnest 02.

Books: 1977 (revised 1995), Ealing Studios by Charles Barr; 1981, Forever Ealing by George Perry; 1983, Projecting Britain edited by David Wilson was a collection of Ealing posters.

Come On George 39. Let George Do It 40. Convoy 40. Sailors Three 40. The Ghost of St Michael's 41. The Black Sheep of Whitehall 42. The Foreman Went to France 42. The Goose Steps Out 42. Went the Day Well? 43. They Came to a City 44. Champagne Charlie 44. Dead of Night 45. The Captive Heart 46. The Overlanders 46. Nicholas Nickleby 47. It Always Rains on Sunday 47. Scott of the Antarctic 48. Passport to Pimlico 49. Whisky Galore! 49. Kind Hearts and Coronets 49. The Blue Lamp 50. The Lavender Hill Mob 51. The Man in The White Suit 51. Mandy 52. The Cruel Sea 53. The Ladykillers 55. Dunkirk 58. The Siege of Pinchgut 59. The Importance of Being Earnest 02. Valiant 05. Imagine You and Me 05, etc.

Elstree Studios.

Production complex at Borehamwood, north of London, started in the 20s by British International, which later became Associated British. After many vicissitudes the facilities and library passed into the hands of Thorn-EMI, who sold out in the 80s to Cannon, who sold off the library to Weintraub. The studio was deemed unprofitable and shut down in 1993, but went back into production in 1996 after it was bought by Hertsmere Council.

Book: 1982, Elstree, the British Hollywood by Patricia Warren.

Essanay.

A production company formed in 1907 by G. K. Spoor and G. M. Anderson (S and A). Mainly remembered for enormous output of early westerns and for Chaplin's first comedies.

Famous Players.

A production company founded by Adolph Zukor in New York in 1912, following his success in distributing Sarah Bernhardt in Queen Elizabeth. The motif was 'famous players in famous plays' which could not work too well as the films were silent; but the tag caught on and the company did well enough. It was later absorbed into Paramount.

First National

was a Hollywood company founded in 1917. During the next 12 years it was very active, with films featuring Chaplin, Pickford, Milton Sills and Richard Barthelmess. In 1929 it was taken over by Warner Brothers, who however kept the name going for certain product until the mid-30s.

Free Cinema.

A term applied to their own output by a group of British documentarists of the 50s, e.g. Lindsay Anderson, Karel Reisz. Their aim was to make 'committed' films which cared about the individual and the significance of the everyday. The resulting films were not always better than those produced by professional units with more commercial intent. The most notable were O Dreamland, Momma Don't Allow, The March to Aldermaston, Every Day Except Christmas and We Are the Lambeth Boys, the two latter films being sponsored by commercial firms.

Gainsborough.

A British film company of the 30s, associated with costume drama and Aldwych farces. Subsequently merged with Rank. Its trademark showed actress Glennis Lorrimer as Mrs Siddons in Thomas Gainsborough's portrait, turning to smile at the audience. She was the daughter of Harry Ostrer, co-founder of the company.

Group 3.

A British production company set up in 1951 by the National Film Finance Corporation. In charge were John Baxter, John Grierson and Michael Balcon, and their aim was to make low-budget films employing young talent. The venture was regarded with suspicion by the trade, and the results were not encouraging – a string of mildly eccentric comedies and thrillers lucky to get second-feature circuit bookings. Some of the titles: Judgement Deferred, Brandy for the Parson, The Brave Don't Cry, You're Only Young Twice, The Oracle, Laxdale Hall, Time Gentlemen Please.

Group Theatre.

A left-wing company founded in New York in 1931 by Harold Clurman, Cheryl Crawford and Lee Strasberg, it fostered and encouraged many talents who went on to have careers in Hollywood, though some were later damaged by blacklisting in the 50s. Those involved included writer Clifford Odets, and Luther Adler, Lee J. Cobb, Morris Carnovsky, Frances Farmer, John Garfield, Elia Kazan, Robert Lewis, Ruth Nelson, Franchot Tone, and Sylvia Sidney. Two other members, Stella Adler and Sanford Meisner, both became influential teachers from the 40s. The Group Theatre was disbanded in 1940.

Book: 1945, The Fervent Years by Harold Clurman.

See also: The Actors' Studio.

Hammer Films.

British production company set up in 1947 which gained fame and fortune from its cycle of horror films, beginning in 1955 with The Quatermass Experiment/The Creeping Unknown. It revived the Frankenstein myth with The Curse of Frankenstein 56, and followed it with the first of its Dracula series a year later, making stars of Christopher Lee and Peter Cushing. The company grew out of Exclusive Films, a distribution company formed by Will Hammer and Enrique Carreras, a Spaniard who had opened cinemas in London in 1913. Enrique's son, Sir James Carreras, and his grandson Michael, were the main forces behind Hammer's success, together with Hammer's son Tony Hinds, who produced and wrote scripts under the name of John Elder, and director Terence Fisher. Hammer announced its return to film production in 1994, planning to remake some of its previous successes. Among the films in development were said to be The Day the Earth Caught Fire, to be directed by Renny Harlin, The Devil Rides Out, The Quatermass Xperiment and Vlad the Impaler, though none appeared. In 1997, British investors, including Charles Saatchi, bought a 50 per cent stake in the company for $9m, with plans to use the brand name in theme parks, restaurants and video games, and to remake old movies, including Quatermass and the Pit. A series of short animated horror films for children's television, Hammer Horror Zone, appeared in 1998.

Book: 1973, The House of Horror edited by Allen Eyles, Robert Adkinson and Nicholas Fry. 1996, Hammer, House of Horror: Behind the Screams by Howard Maxford. A History of Horrors: The Rise and Fall of Hammer Films by Denis Meikle. 1996, Music from the House of Hammer: Music in the Hammer Horror Films 1950-1980 by Randall D. Larson. 2001, Inside Hammer by Jimmy Sangster.

HandMade Films.

British production company formed by Denis O'Brien and former Beatle George Harrison. Among its successes have been Monty Python's Life of Brian 79, The Long Good Friday 80, Time Bandits 81, A Private Function 84, Mona Lisa 86, and Withnail and I 87.

Hecht-Hill-Lancaster:

see Hecht-Lancaster.

Hecht-Lancaster

was an independent production company set up by former agent Harold Hecht and actor Burt Lancaster. They had earlier formed Hecht-Norma (named after Lancaster's wife) to make films with Warner's. When that arrangement came to an end, Hecht-Lancaster was formed in 1954, to make films in partnership with United Artists, a studio then in decline which, anxious to secure Lancaster's services, agreed a deal that offered the two full financing and 75 per cent of the profits as well as other sweeteners. In 1956, it became Hecht-Hill-Lancaster with the addition, at Lancaster's insistence, of writer James Hill. The company was wound up in 1960, when the partners began to disagree more often and it was overspending after too rapid an expansion.

AS HECHT-NORMA: Kiss the Blood Off My Hands 48. The Flame and the Arrow 50. Ten Tall Men 51. The Crimson Pirate 52. His Majesty O'Keefe 54, etc.

AS HECHT-LANCASTER: Apache 54. Vera Cruz 54. The Kentuckian 55. Trapeze 56, etc.

AS HECHT-HILL-LANCASTER: Marty (AA) 55. Sweet Smell of Success 57. Run Silent, Run Deep 58. Separate Tables 58. The Devil's Disciple 59. The Unforgiven 60, etc.

Hecht-Norma:
see Hecht-Lancaster.

IDHEC,
Institut des Hautes Études Cinématographiques, the leading French film school founded in Paris in the early 40s by Marcel L'Herbier, where many French and foreign directors, producers, cinematographers and other production staff have studied. It closed in 1968, reopening two years later.

Industrial Light and Magic.
Special effects company formed by producer-director George Lucas when making Star Wars. It was headed by John Dykstra, who later left to form his own special effects company. It is part of Lucas's production company Lucasfilm, which also includes a software company that produces computer games which are often based on the company's movies. Since its beginnings working on Lucas's own projects, it has established itself as the leading special effects company, employed by many other producers and directors, including Steven Spielberg.

Book: 1996, Industrial Light and Magic: Into the Digital Realm by Mark Cotta Vaz and Patricia Rose Duignan.

Star Wars (AA) 77. The Empire Strikes Back (AA) 80. Raiders of the Lost Ark (AA) 81. Dragonslayer (AAN) 81. Poltergeist 82. Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan 82. E.T. – the Extra-Terrestrial (AA) 82. Return of the Jedi (AA) 83. Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom (AA) 84. Star Trek III: The Search for Spock 84. The Neverending Story 84. Starman 84. The Goonies 85. Cocoon (AA) 85. Back to the Future 85. Explorers 85. Mishima 85. Young Sherlock Holmes (AAN) 85. Enemy Mine 85. Out of Africa 85. Howard the Duck 86. Star Trek IV: The Voyage Home 86. The Golden Child 86. The Witches of Eastwick 87. Innerspace (AA) 87. Batteries Not Included 87. Star Trek: The Next Generation 87. Empire of the Sun 87. Willow (AAN) 88. Who Framed Roger Rabbit? (AA) 88. Caddyshack II 88. Cocoon: The Return 88. The Last Temptation of Christ 88. The Burbs 89. Field of Dreams 89. Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade 89. Ghostbusters II 89. The Abyss (AA) 89. Back to the Future, Part II (AAN) 89. Always 89. Joe versus the Volcano 90. The Hunt for Red October 90. Back to the Future, Part III 90. Die Hard 2 90. Ghost 90. Switch 91. The Doors 91. Hudson Hawk 91. Backdraft (AAN) 91. The Rocketeer 91. Terminator 2: Judgement Day (AA) 91. Hook (AAN) 91. Memoirs of an Invisible Man 92. Death Becomes Her (AA) 92. Alive 92. The Meteor Man 93. Jurassic Park (AA) 93. Schindler's List 93. Rising Sun 93. Manhattan Murder Mystery 93. Baby's Day Out 94. Star Trek VII: Generations 94. Disclosure 94. The Flintstones 94. Forrest Gump (AA) 94. The Mask (AAN) 94. Congo 95. In the Mouth of Madness 95. Casper 95. Jumanji 95. Dragonheart (AAN) 96. Star Trek: First Contact 96. 101 Dalmatians 96. Mars Attacks! 96. Daylight 96. Twister 96. Mission: Impossible 96. Eraser 96. The Lost World: Jurassic Park (AAN) 97. Men in Black 97. Titanic 97. Speed 2: Cruise Control 97. Contact 97. Spawn 97. Starship Troopers 97. Flubber 97. Saving Private Ryan 98. Deep Impact 98. Small Soldiers 98. Meet Joe Black 98. Mercury Rising 98. Deep Rising 98. Mighty Joe Young (AAN) 98. Jack Frost 98. Star Wars Episode 1: The Phantom Menace (AAN) 99. Deep Blue Sea 99. Galaxy Quest 99. The Green Mile 99. The Perfect Storm (AAN) 00. Mission to Mars 00. The Adventures of Rocky & Bullwinkle 00. Pearl Harbor (AAN) 01. Jurassic Park III 01. A.I. Artificial Intelligence (AAN) 01. Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone/Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone 01. The Bourne Identity 02. Minority Report 02. Star Wars Episode II – Attack of the Clones 02. Men in Black II 02. Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets 02. Gangs of New York 02. Terminator 3: Rise of the Machines 03. Van Helsing 04. War of the Worlds 05. The Island 05, etc.

International Pictures.
Independent production company set up by Nunnally Johnson, William Goetz and Leo Spitz, formerly head of RKO, to distribute their films. In 1946 it was merged with Universal, which became Universal-International, and Goetz and Spitz took over the new company's production duties for a time.

Casanova Brown 44. The Woman in the Window 44. It's a Pleasure 45. Along Came Jones 45. Tomorrow Is Forever 46. The Stranger 46, etc.

Kalem.
An early American production company founded in 1907, taking its name from the initials of its three principals, George Klein, Sam Long and Frank Marion (K-L-M). Its most famous production is From the Manger to the Cross 12.

Keystone.
A company established in 1912 to produce comedies. Run by Mack Sennett, who also directed and edited most of the films, the company's early films featured Mabel Normand and created a fast and furious slapstick comedy. Its star performers included Fatty Arbuckle, Charlie Chaplin, Chester Conklin and Mack Swain. Sennett's second innovation came in 1915 when he introduced his Bathing Beauties to add some glamour. Sennett left Keystone in 1917 to work for Paramount and the company soon foundered without him.

Leavesden.
English studio complex sited on an aerodrome formerly owned by Rolls-Royce. It was first used in 1994 to house the James Bond movie GoldenEye and then bought, at a cost of £42.75m, by Third Millennium Studios, a Malaysian-owned company.

Lexington.
Production company set up in 1996 by producer-director Don Boyd to make distinctive British films.

Lucia 98.

Liberty Films.
Independent production company set up in 1946 by Frank Capra, William Wyler, George Stevens and Sam Briskin. It made only one feature, It's a Wonderful Life, directed by Capra in 1946, before it ran into financial problems and was taken over by Paramount in 1947.

London Films.
Production company founded by Alexander Korda and associated with his own major films of the 30s and later with other leading names operating under his banner. Others associated with the company included the Hungarian screenwriter Lajos Biro and actor George Grossmith, who was its first chairman.

Mancunian Films.
A small but dauntless little British studio which throughout the 40s and early 50s earned its keep locally with a stream of wild farces starring home-grown music-hall talent: Frank Randle, Harry Korris, Sandy Powell, Tessie O'Shea, Betty Jumel, Nat Jackley, Josef Locke, Jewel and Warriss, Suzette Tarri and Norman Evans. Neither art nor craft entered into the matter.

Merton Park.
A small, independent south London studio. Founded in 1930 to make advertising films, it later housed Radio Luxembourg. Training films were made there during the war, and in the 50s it turned to the production of Edgar Lustgarten's Scotland Yard shorts, the Edgar Wallace supports, and Scales of Justice. It closed in the mid-60s.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
For many years the undoubted leader of the industry, this famous American production company has lately suffered most from the lack of 'front office' control and the proliferation of independent productions: now that it doesn't own the racecourse, it can't seem to pick the winners. The company stems from Loew's Inc., an exhibiting concern which in 1920 bought into Metro Pictures, which then produced two enormous money-spinners, The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse and The Prisoner of Zenda. In 1924 Metro was merged with the Goldwyn production company (though Samuel Goldwyn himself promptly opted out and set up independently); and the next year Louis B. Mayer Pictures joined the flourishing group to add further power. Mayer himself became studio head and remained the dominant production force for over twenty-five years. Ideas man and executive producer in the early years was young Irving Thalberg, whose artistic flair provided a necessary corrective to Mayer's proletarian tastes, and who, before his death in 1936, had established a lofty pattern with such successes as Ben Hur, The Big Parade, Anna Christie, Grand Hotel, The Thin Man, David Copperfield and Mutiny on the Bounty, and stars like Garbo, Gable, Beery, Lionel Barrymore, Joan Crawford, John Gilbert, Lon Chaney, William Powell, Jean Harlow, Spencer Tracy, Lewis Stone, Nelson Eddy, Jeanette MacDonald, Laurel and Hardy and the Marx Brothers. (MGM's motto was in fact 'more stars than there are in heaven...') The success story continued through the 40s with Goodbye Mr Chips, Greer Garson, The Wizard Of Oz, Judy Garland, the Hardy Family, Gene Kelly and Esther Williams. Such continuity of product is a thing of the past, but MGM keep its end up in the 60s and 70s with occasional big guns like Dr Zhivago, Where Eagles Dare and Network; while reissues of Gone with the Wind, which it did not produce, kept the image of Leo the Lion fresh on cinema screens. In the 70s MGM gave up movie-making to concentrate on its huge Las Vegas hotel. A comeback attempt failed, and it was taken over by United Artists and Ted Turner. The 80s were a troubled time for the new MGM-UA; production fell and many of the films were lacklustre. There were some successes: My Favorite Year, Moonstruck, A Fish Called Wanda (MGM), Rainman (UA) and Rocky III (UA) and its sequels, as well as some failures: Yes Giorgio, an attempt to make a star of opera singer Luciano Pavarotti, and 2010, a poor sequel to 2001: A Space Odyssey. At the beginning of the 90s, the situation worsened as MGM was taken over by Italian Giancarlo Paretti, of Pathé Communications, to become MGM-Pathé. But Paretti turned out to lack the necessary financial resources, and legal complications between him and his bankers were not sorted out until mid-1992, when the company was auctioned off to its biggest creditor, Crédit Lyonnais of Paris. The dispute had held up production plans, but the future looked brighter as Alan Ladd Jnr, former president of Twentieth Century-Fox, became MGM's chairman and CEO. Ladd left in mid-1993, to be replaced by Frank Mancuso, former chairman and CEO of Paramount. Under him, its fortunes revived with such hits as GoldenEye and The Birdcage. Credit Lyonnais, the French bank, put it up for sale in mid-1996, when the studio was bought for $1.3 billion by a group headed by Mancuso, with finance coming from Kirk Kerkorian and the Australian television company Seven Network. Its progress has remained unpredictable; the long-term aim seems to be a merger with, or takeover of, a distribution company. In 1997 few films were in production; those that were released included the dull family film Zeus and Roxanne, about dolphins, and Turbulence, a disaster movie that did poor business. Its one critical success was Ulee's Gold, with Peter Fonda, but that earned little more than $4m at the US box-office. In 1998 it scored with its James Bond movie, Tomorrow Never Dies, but its flops included Disturbing Behavior, Species 2 and Dirty Work. 1999 was a dull year, though it was followed by a successful dark thriller Hannibal and a light comedy Legally Blonde. The pattern has continued, with misses such as Rollerball, Hart's War and Windtalkers followed by the popular Bond movie Die Another Day. In 2005 the company was sold for $4.9bn to an investment group that included Sony Pictures. Its distribution business was shut down and its production limited to co-finance four or five films a year with Sony Pictures. It has announced plans to return to film distribution in a limited way.

Books: 1991, Fade Out by Peter Bart details MGM's collapse in the 80s. 1992, When the Lion Roars by Peter Hay. The MGM Story by John Douglas Eames is an excellent illustrated film-by-film history of the studio 1924-89.

Minerva Films.
A British production company set up in 1920 by Leslie Howard, C. Aubrey Smith, Adrian Brunel, A. A. Milne, and Nigel Playfair. Its shareholders included H. G. Wells. It made four comedy shorts, directed by Brunel from Milne's stories, before running out of money.

Miramax Films
is a distribution and production company founded in 1979 by Bob and Harvey Weinstein. It first became noted for its ability to attract audiences to foreign art-house and American independent films such as Pelle the Conqueror, Cinema Paradiso, sex, lies and videotape, and The Crying Game. After a decade of success as a distributor, in 1989 it also began to produce films. In 1993 the Disney company acquired it for $100m. The Weinstein brothers parted from the company in 2005 to set up their own independent business. Recent successes have included Good Will Hunting, Shakespeare in Love (AA), the horror movies Scream and Scream 2, Sliding Doors, Chicago, Gangs of New York, Kill Bill and Finding Neverland.

Monogram Pictures:
see Allied Artists.

New Line Cinema Corporation was founded in 1967 by Robert Shaye and began as a distributor of movies for college audiences. It moved into production later, and had its greatest hits with two film series, A Nightmare on Elm Street, which began in 1984, and Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, which became one of the most commercially successful independent movies following its release in 1990, and spawned two sequels. In 1991, Fine Line Features was formed, catering for more adult tastes, and also had critical successes with My Own Private Idaho 92, The Player 92, Menace II Society 93, and Short Cuts 93. In 1993 the companies were taken over by Ted Turner. Since then, major hits have been scored with The Mask 94, Dumb and Dumber 94, Seven 95 (which took more than $320m around the world), and Mortal Kombat 95, which took around $120m. But in 1996 the companies had a series of flops, including Long Kiss Goodnight, which earned not much more than the $25m spent on marketing it, The Island of Dr Moreau (cost: $50m; US earnings: $28m), and Last Man Standing, which took less than half of its $57m cost. More recently, it has done better with such hits as the Jackie Chan film Rush Hour, the vampire movie Blade, Austin Powers in Goldmember and the epic The Lord of the Rings trilogy.

Oberhausen Group was a collection of 26 young West German film-makers who, at the Short Film Festival at Oberhausen in 1962, announced the birth of a new German cinema: 'We declare our intention of creating the new German feature film. This new film needs new freedoms: freedom from influence by commercial partners, freedom from domination by special interest groups. We have concrete artistic, formal, and economic conceptions about the production of the new German film. We are collectively prepared to bear the economic risks. The old film is dead. We believe in the new.' The signatories included Alexander Kluge and Edgar Reitz. It was followed in 1967 by the Mannheim Declaration, also signed by Kluge and Reitz, among others, which noted 'Six years have passed since the Oberhausen Declaration. The renewal of German film has not yet taken place', and called again for that renewal.

Paramount Pictures Corporation was basically the creation of Adolph Zukor, a nickelodeon showman who in 1912 founded Famous Players, with the intention of presenting photographed versions of stage successes. In 1914 W.W. Hodkinson's Paramount Pictures took over distribution of Famous Players and Lasky products, and in the complex mergers which resulted, Zukor came out top man. Through the years his studio more than any other gave a family atmosphere, seldom producing films of depth but providing agreeable light entertainment with stars like Valentino, Maurice Chevalier, the Marx Brothers, Mary Pickford, Claudette Colbert, Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour, Alan Ladd, and directors like Lubitsch, de Mille and Wilder. Notable films include The Sheik, The Covered Wagon, The Ten Commandments (both versions), Trouble in Paradise, The Crusades, Union Pacific, the Road films, Going My Way, The Greatest Show on Earth, etc. In recent years, since Zukor's retirement, the company had many difficulties, but was helped by a takeover by Gulf and Western Industries which spurred the commercial instinct, and produced two enormous winners in Love Story and The Godfather, followed in 1977 by Saturday Night Fever, in 1978 by Grease, in 1979 by Star Trek and in 1981 by Raiders of the Lost Ark. The latter's two sequels, Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom and Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade, were box-office successes in 1984 and 1989 respectively. Beverly Hills Cop 84 and its sequel in 1987 also brought box-office rewards and established Eddie Murphy as a star, while Top Gun was among the top films of 1986, as were, in their respective years, The Hunt for Red October 90, The Addams Family 91 and Wayne's World 92. But all that paled besides the phenomenal success of Forrest Gump in 1994, a film that became the company's biggest box-office success and among the top ten grossing films so far produced. In mid-1994 the studio was taken over by Viacom, an entertainment conglomerate that includes MTV, Nickelodeon and Showtime television channels. The company enjoyed great success with Forrest Gump, but its following films were less popular; while Mission: Impossible was a hit, the studio had to write off some $30m when The Phantom flopped at the box-office. The studio, along with Twentieth Century-Fox, enjoyed a spectacular success with Titanic, a film that went wildly over budget before becoming a worldwide success, taking more than $1 billion at box-offices. The thriller Face/Off was also one of the hits of 1997, and, in 1998, The Truman Show was a critical and financial success.

It had hits with two action movies, Lara Croft: Tomb Raider and Mission Impossible 2, and in 2002 coined money with Jackass The Movie, which cost $5m and took more than 63m at the US box-office. The Hours was a hit with audiences who were not afraid of Virginia Woolf, but Star Trek: Nemesis was even avoided by fans of the series. Remakes, such as The Manchurian Candidate, The Stepford Wives and Alfie did little to attract new audiences.

In 2005, Paramount bought DreamWorks SKG for $1.6bn.

Book: 1985, The Paramount Story by John Douglas Eames.

Pinewood Studios,

seventeen miles northwest of London, was built in 1935 and opened in 1936 by a millionaire named Charles Boot as Britain's reply to Hollywood. It rapidly came under the control of the Rank Organisation, and its fortunes have fluctuated, but on the whole it has been fairly well used. The Rank Group sold the studios in 2000 to a group headed by former TV executive Michael Grade and a year later it was merged with Shepperton Studios, whose owners include directors Ridley and Tony Scott.

History published 1976: Movies from the Mansion by George Perry.

Pixar.

Computer animation company that created Toy Story, the first feature-length computer-generated film. Founded by George Lucas, it was bought by Steve Jobs, co-founder, of Apple Computers. Toy Story was directed by John Lasseter, and distributed by Walt Disney. Disney bought the company in late 2005 for $7.4bn, a deal which made Jobs Disney's biggest individual shareholder. Lasseter was appointed chief creative officer of the combined Disney-Pixar animation studio.

Toy Story 95. A Bug's Life 98. Toy Story 2 99. Monsters, Inc. 01. Finding Neo (AA) 03. The Incredibles (AA) 05. Cars 06, etc.

Polygram.

A subsidiary of the electronics company Philips, Polygram Filmed Entertainment was established in 1991, producing films through Propaganda, Interscope and the British company Working Title. In 1995, it acquired ITC Entertainment and set up an American distribution company. It also owns half of Gramercy Pictures with Universal. It was acquired in 1998, together with the remainder of the Polygram Group, by Seagram, whose interests include Universal Studios, and put up for sale. When no buyer for the company was forthcoming, Polygram Filmed Entertainment was absorbed by Universal.

Republic Pictures Corporation.

A small Hollywood production and distribution company founded in 1935 by a former tobacco executive named Herbert J. Yates, who had spent some years building up a film laboratory. Republic continued as a one-man concern, producing innumerable competently-made second-feature westerns and melodramas with such stars as Roy Rogers, Vera Hruba Ralston (Yates' wife), John Carroll, Constance Moore. The studio also churned out the majority of Hollywood's serials. Very occasionally there would be a major production such as Rio Grande or The Quiet Man. Production stopped in the mid-50s, when 'bread and butter' pictures were no longer needed, and the company's interests moved into TV.

RKO Radio Pictures Inc.

was for many years one of Hollywood's 'big five' production companies, with its own distribution arm. It started in 1921 as a joint enterprise of the Radio Corporation of America and the Keith-Orpheum cinema circuit. Despite severe financial vicissitudes, it struggled on for twenty-seven years, buoyed by a generally decent production standard; stars like Cary Grant, Katharine Hepburn, Wheeler and Woolsey, Leon Errol; individual films such as Cimarron, King Kong, The Informer, Suspicion, Mr Blandings Builds His Dream House and Fort Apache; and the participation of Goldwyn, Disney and Selznick, all released through RKO at its peak. In 1948 Howard Hughes acquired a large share of the stock; but after a period of uncertainty RKO ceased production in 1953 and the studio was sold to Desilu TV.

A glossy book by Richard B. Jewell and Vernon Harbin, The RKO Story, came out in 1982 and was a valuable research tool.

Shepperton Studios

are located twenty miles west of London. Film production began there in the early 30s; it was controlled by various companies until it was bought by directors Ridley and Tony Scott. In 2001 it became part of Pinewood Studios.

Silicon Graphics Inc.

is a computer company whose workstations are used extensively in the film industry to provide special effects in movies. Toy Story, the first computer-generated animated feature, was created on SGI computers. Other films such as Men in Black, Jurassic Park, The Peacemaker, Starship Troopers, Alien: Resurrection and the remake of Flubber also relied on SGI equipment.

Sony Pictures Entertainment was formed in 1991, after the Japanese electronics company had bought Columbia Pictures and TriStar Pictures from Coca-Cola in 1989. At the time, SPE's executives believed that it was an advantage to have two studios because it was difficult for any one company to produce and market more than a dozen or so movies a year. But in 1998, TriStar was merged into Columbia Pictures. See also: Columbia.

Tempean Films.

British production company founded by Monty Berman and Robert S. Baker, who were active in the 40s and 50s making second features, mainly low-budget thrillers and horror movies.

Theatre Workshop

was a co-operative, populist, left-wing company formed in 1945, with Joan Littlewood as its director. After years of touring, in 1953 the company took over and transformed the derelict Theatre Royal in Stratford, East London, doing much to revolutionize British theatre in the process. Littlewood left the company for a time in the early 60s, and it had a sporadic existence thereafter, finally breaking up in 1974. Its plays dealing with working-class experience influenced the mood of British films of the 60s. Actors associated with the company included Avis Bunnage, Harry H. Corbett, Howard Goorney, Stephen Lewis, Murray Melvin, Brian Murphy and Maxwell Shaw. Among the writers it introduced to cinema were Brendan Behan and Shelagh Delaney. Plays filmed, though few resembled the stage productions, included A Taste of Honey 61, The Quare Fellow 62, Sparrows Can't Sing 62, and Oh, What a Lovely War 69.

Book: 1981, The Theatre Workshop Story by Howard Goorney.

Triangle Film Corporation.

Company formed by D. W. Griffith, Thomas Ince, and Mack Sennett in 1915 to produce and release films made by the three directors, who left the company in 1917.

TriStar Pictures

was a movie production and distribution company founded in 1982 by CBS, the cable TV company Home Box Office, and Columbia Pictures. Columbia bought out CBS in 1985, and HBO also reduced its stake in the company. In 1987 TriStar was merged with Columbia to become Columbia Pictures Entertainment, although it retained its separate identity. In 1998 it was absorbed into Columbia Pictures.

Troma.

Company specializing in the production and distribution of low-budget exploitation movies, usually combining kitsch and gore, many produced and directed by the company's president, Lloyd Kaufman, and vice-president, Michael Herz. It is best known for its Toxic Avenger series, which has spawned dolls and other novelty merchandising.

Squeeze Play! 80. Waitress! 82. Stuck on You 83. The First Turn-On! 84. The Toxic Avenger 84. Nuke 'em High 85. Class of Nuke 'em High 86. Surf Nazis Must Die 87. The Toxic Avenger: Part II 88. Troma's War 88. The Toxic Avenger III: The Last Temptation of Toxie 90. Def by Temptation 90. Class of Nuke 'em High II: Subhumanoid Meltdown 91. Sgt Kabukiman N.Y.P.D. 94. Class of Nuke 'em High 3: The Good, the Bad and the Subhuman 94. Tromeo and Juliet 96. Decampitated 98. Terror Firmer 99. Citizen Toxie: The Toxic Avenger Part 4 99. Class of Nuke 'em High IV 00. Parts of the Family 01. All the Love You Cannes! 02. Apocalypse Soon 02, etc.

Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation.

An American production and distribution company formed in 1935 by a merger of Joseph Schenck's Twentieth Century Pictures with William Fox's Fox Film Corporation. Fox had started in nickelodeon days as a showman, then a distributor.

Putting his profits into production, he started the careers of several useful stars including Theda Bara, and pioneered the Movietone sound-on-film process; but in the early 30s, after a series of bad deals, he lost power. The new company had Darryl F. Zanuck as production head from 1935 to 1952; he returned in 1962 as president after the resignation of Spyros Skouras, who had reigned from 1942. These two men are therefore largely responsible for the Fox image, which usually gave the impression of more careful budget-trimming and production-processing than did the films of the rest of the 'big five'. Fox's successful personality stars include Shirley Temple, Alice Faye, Don Ameche, Betty Grable and Marilyn Monroe; its best westerns include The Big Trail, Drums along the Mohawk, My Darling Clementine and The Gunfighter; in drama it can claim What Price Glory?, Dante's Inferno, The Grapes of Wrath, How Green Was My Valley, The Ox Bow Incident, The Song of Bernadette, Wilson, The Snake Pit, and Gentlemen's Agreement. In 1953 Spyros Skouras successfully foisted the new screen shape, CinemaScope, on to world markets, but Fox have not used it with greater success than anyone else, their most elaborate 'spectaculars' being The Robe, There's No Business Like Show Business, The King and I, South Pacific, The Diary of Anne Frank, The Longest Day, Cleopatra, Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines, The Sound of Music, Star!, Hello Dolly, and Tora! Tora! Tora!

On his return, Darryl Zanuck appointed his son Richard as vice-president in charge of production and, in 1965, the company enjoyed one of its greatest successes with the musical The Sound of Music. Darryl and Richard Zanuck, who went on to become a successful independent producer, left at the beginning of the 70s after a succession of big-budget flops (Hello Dolly and Tora! Tora! Tora! among them). The fashion for disaster films brought the company successes with The Towering Inferno (made with Warners) and The Poseidon Adventure. Alan Ladd Jnr became President in the mid-70s, leaving in 1979 to become an independent producer; during his time Fox hit the jackpot in 1977 with Star Wars and its sequels. In 1981, the company was bought by oil billionaire Marvin Davis; he in turn sold it in 1985 to publishing tycoon Rupert Murdoch, who took over personal control following the resignation of its chairman and CEO Barry Diller in 1992. In recent years, the company has enjoyed hits with Big, Aliens, Die Hard and Die Hard 2, Sleeping with the Enemy and Home Alone, the most financially successful of comedies. In 1996, in a summer of blockbuster movies, it produced the biggest hit of the year: Independence Day, which took more than $286m at the US box-office and more than $435m worldwide. The company had a poor 1997: two blockbusters, Volcano and Speed 2: Cruise Control, did not do as well as expected, and James Cameron was going way over budget with Titanic; its greatest success came with the re-release of the 20-year-old Star Wars, which went on to become the fifth most popular film at the box-office, auguring well for its prequel, Star Wars: The Phantom Empire, which was among the most eagerly awaited releases of 1999. Titanic proved to be a massive hit, and the company had surprise hits in 1998 with the comedies Doctor Dolittle and There's Something about Mary. Further Star Wars movies have proved big earners, and other successes have been Castaway, Planet of the Apes, and Moulin Rouge. Like other studios in recent times, it has tried to challenge Disney's supremacy in animated features. It failed with Titan AE, but did surprisingly well with the computer-generated feature Ice Age. It has also done well with the three comicbook X-Men movies, the disaster movie The Day After Tomorrow, the Brad Pitt-Angelina Jolie thriller Mr and Mrs Smith and the Johnny Cash biopic Walk the Line.

Book; 1979 (revised 1985) The Films of 20th Century-Fox by Tony Thomas, Aubrey Solomon.

Two Cities Films.

A British company set up in the early days of World War II by the expatriate Italian Filippo del Giudice. It was responsible for many of Britain's most famous films, including In Which We Serve, The Way Ahead, Henry V, Blithe Spirit and Odd Man Out.

UFA.

Universum Film Aktien Gesellschaft: the main German film production company since 1917, owning its studio and linked in the 20s with Paramount and MGM. In the 30s it was brought under state control and in the 40s, with the end of the war, it ceased to exist.

United Artists Corporation was founded in 1919 by Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin and D.W. Griffith, the object being to make and distribute their own and other people's quality product. Among the company's early successes were His Majesty the American, Pollyanna (the first film sold on a percentage basis), Broken Blossoms, Way Down East, and A Woman of Paris. In the mid-20s Joe Schenck was brought in to run the company, and he in turn gained Valentino, Gold'wyn, Keatonand Swanson; but later all were bought out by various syndicates. Howard Hughes contributed Hell's Angels and Scarface, but in the 30s the UA product began to thin out, partly because the company was purely a distributor and financer of independent producers, without any studio of its own or any large roster of stars under contract. The hardest times, with only inferior product to sell, were between 1948 and 1953; but after that a new board of directors, through careful choice of product, fought its way back to the top; despite the defection of half its executives to Orion, UA was again riding high with The Magnificent Seven, The Battle of Britain, Tom Jones, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, Rocky and the James Bond films. The 80s however brought the 40-million-dollar calamity of Heaven's Gate (book: Final Cut by Steven Bach) and a takeover by MGM to become MGM-UA. Once MGM's problems were sorted out, studio executives began planning to make expensive films. Its The Man in the Iron Mask gained from the backwash of the success of Titanic, since, like that massive hit, it also starred the hottest actor in Hollywood, Leonardo DiCaprio. More recently, it has an unexpected hit with Michael Moore's documentary Bowling for Columbine.

The company was bought with MGM in 2005 by an investment group that included Sony Pictures. Its future remains unclear.

Book: 1986, The United Artists Story by Ronald Bergen.

Universal Pictures

was founded in 1912 by Carl Laemmle, an exhibitor turned producer. Universal City grew steadily and included among its output many of the most famous titles of Von Stroheim, Valentino and Lon Chaney. In 1930 came All Quiet on the Western Front, and soon after Dracula and Frankenstein, the precursors of a long line of horror pictures. Laemmle lost power in the mid-30s and the studio settled down to be one of Hollywood's 'little two', producing mainly modest, low-budget co-features without too many intellectual pretensions. The Deanna Durbin series saved it from receivership, and there were occasional notable pictures: Destry Rides Again, Hellzapoppin, Flesh and Fantasy. The stars under contract were durable: Boris Karloff, Lon Chaney Jnr, Donald O'Connor, Abbott and Costello, Jeff Chandler, Audie Murphy. More ambition was noted in the 50s, when the era of the bread-and-butter picture was ended by TV. Decca Records gained a large measure of control, but in 1962 a merger gave the ultimate power to the Music Corporation of America, ex-agents and TV producers. The 1960s saw a steady resumption of prestige, with films like Spartacus, the Doris Day – Rock Hudson sex comedies, Charade, The War Lord, Ross Hunter's soapily sentimental but glossy remakes of Hollywood's choicest weepies, Thoroughly Modern Millie, The Day of the Jackal, Earthquake, Airport and The Seven Per Cent Solution. The company, as a division of MCA Inc. was one of Hollywood's most powerful sources of box-office films and television series, though its venture into 'enlightened' European production was fairly disastrous. In the 80s the company enjoyed its biggest-ever hit, E.T. – the Extraterrestrial, courtesy of Steven Spielberg, who had also scored for them in the mid-70s with Jaws. Spielberg also produced Universal's other big winners, Back to the Future and its sequels, while it enjoyed Oscar successes with Out of Africa. His contribution remained important to the company when his Jurassic Park was a monster hit around the world. Science fact also met with approval in Apollo 13, a story of a space flight that went wrong. The studio found success by recycling familiar subject-matter, such as the TV favourites The Flintstones and Casper, and an updating of the old Jerry Lewis comedy The Nutty Professor, which brought Eddie Murphy a much-needed hit. Its only box-office successes in 1997 were the disaster movie Dante's Peak and, especially, the comedy Liar Liar, starring Jim Carrey. The studio announced a $65m loss for the third quarter of 1998, owing to the failure of its $100m-budgeted Meet Joe Black, starring Brad Pitt, Babe: Pig in the City, and Gus van Sant's remake of Alfred Hitchcock's Psycho. As a result, several top executives left the company. In 2000, it was taken over by the French company Vivendi to become Vivendi Universal. It had success with such films as Patch Adams, The Mummy, American Pie, The Mummy Returns, The Scorpion King, The Bourne Identity and 8 Mile. But Vivendi, pursuing an aggressive policy of expansion, ran into financial difficulties in 2002. Vivendi sold its majority holding in the studio in 2004 to General Electric and it became the production subsidiary of NBC Universal.

Clive Hirschhorn's splendidly illustrated book The Universal Story (1983) is an excellent critical history. Also: 1991, The Best of Universal by Tony Thomas.

UPA

(United Productions of America)

was a cartoon factory which in the early 50s received generous critical plaudits for a hundred or so shorts and even pushed the Disney studio into a more sophisticated style. Its creations included Mr Magoo, Gerald McBoing Boing and Pete Hothead, and it specialized in a stylish economy of line and in an appeal to a much higher intelligence bracket than any cartoon had aspired to in the past.

VGIK

is the acronym for the All-Union State Cinema Institute (Vsesoyuznyi Gosudarstvennyi Institut Kinematografii), the leading film school in Russia. Its founders in 1919 included Vladimir Gardin and Lev Kuleshov.

Vitagraph.

An early American production company which had great success but was taken over in the 20s by Warner's.

Walt Disney Productions,

the studio founded and controlled by Walt Disney, has dominated animated features since the release of the first, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, in 1937. The company began in Kansas City as Laugh-O-Gram films, with Disney in partnership with Ub Iwerks. Disney moved to Hollywood in the early 20s, and set up a studio with his brother Roy. After his death, its features declined in quality for a time, and many leading animators, including Don Bluth, quit the studio in the late 70s over the issue of deteriorating standards. In the 90s, under the chairmanship of Michael Eisner, its animated films improved and the company had deserved hits with Beauty and the Beast 91, Aladdin 92, The Lion King 94, and Toy Story 95, which was the first computer-animated feature. Both Beauty and the Beast and The Lion King were turned into successful stage musicals. The studio's live-action films have continued to be bland family entertainment, many of them remakes of earlier movies, including That Darn Cat, Flubber and The Parent Trap, although it did have an unexpected success with the comic George of the Jungle in 1997. Other studios have challenged Disney's domination of animated features, including Don Bluth's, but so far without consistent success. The strongest challenge has come from Jeffrey Katzenberg, who left Disney to become a co-founder of the new Hollywood studio DreamWorks skg. DreamWorks' computer-generated feature Antz was a hit in 1998, taking around $90m at the US box-office, but it had little effect on the success of Disney's similarly themed A Bug's Life, which was released later. Disney's recent attempt at traditional animation Treasure Planet, a space-age version of Treasure Island, lost more than $70m, but it enjoyed an impressive hit with the computer-generated Monsters, Inc, and with Lilo & Stitch, which was influenced by Japanese anime.

The Disney Studio Story 98, by Richard Hollis and Brian Sibley is an illustrated history and filmography.

Warner Brothers Pictures Inc.

was a family affair started in 1923 by four American exhibitor brothers. After a very shaky start it soared to pre-eminence through their gamble on talking pictures in the shape of The Jazz Singer and The Singing Fool. Through the 30s and 40s the company kept its popularity through tough gangster films starring James Cagney, Edward G. Robinson and Humphrey Bogart, and musicals with Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler; and its prestige by exposés like Confessions of a Nazi Spy and Mission to Moscow and biographies of Zola, Pasteur, Ehrlich and Reuter. Other Warner stars included Bette Davis and Errol Flynn, both enormously popular with all classes. Warner films were not usually over-budgeted but contrived to look immaculate through solid production values and star performances. Since 1950 the company's product has been more variable, as deals have had to be done with independent producers, and there has been a patchy flirtation with TV; yet on the serious side directors like Elia Kazan have been encouraged, popular taste is taken care of by spectaculars like My Fair Lady and The Great Race, and the company took a calculated risk (which paid off in spades) with Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? In the mid-60s came a merger with Seven Arts, and in 1969 the company was taken over by a conglomerate. In 1989 the company merged with the publishing group Time Inc. to become Time-Warner.

During the 80s the famous production company seemed to be kept solvent by Clint Eastwood toughies, although it had a success with the fast-paced action film Lethal Weapon and immediately repeated the process with satisfying results: the movie had reached its second sequel by 1992. Gremlins, a hit in 1984, begat Gremlins II: The New Batch, which did less well. Its dark fantasy Batman was the top box-office attraction of 1989, and Batman Returns became a hit in 1992. Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves was a surprise success in 1991. Fortunately, there has so far been no attempt to repeat it. The company also had a monumental flop with the costly Hudson Hawk that brought Bruce Willis's career to a temporary halt. But the company was soon enjoying great success, with a succession of hit films, including Batman Returns, Lethal Weapon 3, The Bodyguard, Sommersby and The Fugitive. Time Warner is the world's largest media company, a title it briefly lost to the Walt Disney organization, and then regained when it took over Turner Broadcasting Systems for $7.3 billion in 1996. Its hits that year included Twister and A Time to Kill. Its blockbuster for 1997, Batman and Robin, was a disappointment, although it took more than $100m at the box-office and was the ninth most successful film of the year. But its thriller LA Confidential was among the critically acclaimed films of the year. Lethal Weapon 4, the latest instalment of the thriller series, was its biggest hit in 1998. In 2000, at the height of the dot.com boom, the company merged with the internet service provider America Online to become AOL Time-Warner. Although the film studio has enjoyed success, especially with Training Day, the Harry Potter movies, Ocean's Eleven, Scooby-Doo and The Matrix trilogy, AOL Time-Warner reported an annual loss in 2002 of almost $100 billion, the largest in corporate history.

The company found much profit in acquiring the rights to J. K. Rowling's Harry Potter books, about a teenage wizard. The four films so far released have been among the biggest box-office successes.

The Warner Brothers Story, 79, is an illustrated, film-by-film history of the studio by Clive Hirshhorn. Various books have been published about its glory days, including: 1994, Hollywood Be Thy Name: The Warner Brothers Story by Cass Warner Sperling, Cork Millner with Jack Warner Jnr, and 1986, Inside Warner Brothers 1935-51 by Rudy Behlmer (a collection of memos).

Woodfall Films.

British production company set up in the late 50s by director Tony Richardson and playwright John Osborne together with financier Harry Saltzman (though it turned out he didn't actually have any money). They first produced a screen version of Osborne's Look Back in Anger 59. Productions that helped change the nature of British films included The Entertainer 60, Saturday Night and Sunday Morning 60, A Taste of Honey 61, The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner 62, Tom Jones 63, Girl with Green Eyes 64, The Knack 65. Other productions included One Way Pendulum 65, Mademoiselle 66, The Sailor from Gibraltar 67, Red and Blue (short) 67, Hamlet 69, Laughter in the Dark 69, Ned Kelly 70, Dead Cert 74, Joseph Andrews 77.

5

MOVIE TALK – AN A-Z OF TECHNICAL AND CRITICAL TERMS

'A' picture.
A term used to indicate the most important film in the days of double-feature programmes, one that used the talents of a studio's top actors, directors and technicians. The distinction between 'A' pictures and supporting films, or 'B' pictures, disappeared with the demise of double features in the 1950s.

above the title.
Credits that appear on posters or the screen before the title of a film. At one time, such billing was an indication of star status, though that no longer necessarily holds; these days it is more to do with deal-making and the massaging of egos than with the ability to draw an audience to a film. Only a few producers and directors, such as Cecil B. De Mille, Alfred Hitchcock and Steven Spielberg, have achieved above the title billing, and even fewer writers have managed it, of whom the most prominent is Stephen King.

above-the-line costs
refer to the expenses contracted before filming begins: on obtaining film rights, where necessary, and accounting for the cost of the principal talents involved, such as producer, screenwriter, director and actors.

abstract film.
One in which the images are not representational but fall into visually interesting or significant patterns: e.g. Disney's Fantasia, Norman McLaren's hand-drawn sound films, etc.

Academy Awards.
Merit prizes given annually since 1927 by the American Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. The award is in the form of a statuette known in the trade – for reasons variously explained – as Oscar, and each April the ABC network televises the award ceremonies as an increasingly pretentious spectacular: Johnny Carson in 1979 called it 'two hours of sparkling entertainment spread out over a four-hour show'. See Appendix for full list of awards.

Books: The Academy Awards by Paul Michael (1968), Inside Oscar by Mason Wiley and Damien Bona (1985), 60 Years of the Oscar by Robert Osborne (1989), The Oscars: The Secret History of Hollywood's Academy Awards by Anthony Holden (1993), The Academy Awards Handbook by John Harkness (1994).

Academy Frame.
The standard film frame in a ratio of 4 to 3, more usually referred to as 1.33 to 1.

Academy Leader.
Regulation length of film attached to the front of a reel about to be projected, bearing a 'countdown' and various standard images to facilitate focusing.

accelerated motion.
An effect obtained by running the camera more slowly than usual: when the resulting film is projected at normal speed, the movements seem faster because they occupy fewer frames than would normally be the case. The opposite of SLOW MOTION.

ACE.
Initials that indicate membership of the American Cinema Editors, a professional society for film and TV editors.

acetate.
Another word for safety base, which replaced nitrate stock in the 50s and is much slower to burn.

action film
is one where movement and events, usually of a violent nature such as explosions, fist- and gunfights, take precedence over characterization and, increasingly, intelligible narrative.

action still.
A photograph of a scene as it actually appears in the film as opposed to one specially posed for publicity purposes. Sometimes called a frame blow-up. In TV, an 'action stills' programme has come to mean one consisting of still photographs given a semblance of life by camera movement.

ACTT.
The Association of Cinematograph, Television and Allied Technicians, a British trade union, founded 1931. Now renamed BECTU.

ADR stands for Automatic Dialogue Replacement, the term used to describe the re-recording of dialogue to improve the quality of a soundtrack.
See also: LOOPING.

agent.
An intermediate who acts on behalf of talent and takes a percentage of the rewards. Agents played little part in the early years of Hollywood when studios controlled the system and signed actors to long-term contracts. With the decline of the studios, agents became more powerful by acting as packagers, putting together director, stars and script and selling the result to the studios. A few, such as Irving 'Swifty' LAZAR, became almost as famous as the stars they represented; the power became concentrated not with individuals but with the large agencies who were able to put together deals in which they represented all the major talent involved. William Morris founded the talent agency named after him in 1898, and in the 50s and 60s, as the studios relinquished control, represented many of Hollywood's leading stars and directors. Its later rivals include International Creative Management (ICM), founded in 1975 from a merger of Creative Management Associates and International Famous Agency, and Creative Artists Agency (CAA), also founded in 1975. Michael OVITZ, until 1995 head of CAA, was said to be the most important man in Hollywood, and agents have even moved on to run studios. Agents were partly blamed for the rising cost of Hollywood movies because many were too concerned with increasing their client's income, and therefore their own, at the expense of sound economic film-making. Some also became producers, though few succeeded.

Agfacolor.
German multilayer colour process, widely used in Europe and basically the same as Russian Sovcolor and American Anscocolor (which became Metrocolor). Noted for softness and often lack of sharpness.

aka.
A 70s abbreviation for 'also known as'.

'also known as':
see AKA.

American Film Institute.
Government-sponsored body rather belatedly founded in 1967. Based in Washington, its comprehensive catalogue will provide full detail on every American film ever made. Its first director was George Stevens, Jnr.

See Section 7 for its choice of best American films.

American Society of Cinematographers: see ASC.

anaglyph.
A simple system for making three-dimensional films. The two slightly differing images are printed in different colours, usually red and green, and viewed through similarly coloured lenses to sort them out into a single image. (The alternative is to use polaroid, which distinguishes the two images through lenses invisibly stripped in different directions.)

anamorphic lens.
One which, in a camera, 'squeezes' a wide picture on to standard film; in a projector, 'unsqueezes' the image to fill a wide screen (usually of a 2.45:1 aspect ratio); e.g. CinemaScope, Panavision, TohoScope, HammerScope, WarnerScope, DyaliScope, which are not essentially different from each other.
See also: ASPECT RATIO.

animation.
The filming of static drawings, puppets or other objects in sequence so that they give an illusion of movement. Sometimes called 'stop-frame animation' because only one frame of film is exposed at a time.

Leading figures in the history of animation include Winsor MCKAY, who in 1909 introduced Gertie the Dinosaur, Emile COHL, Len LYE, Max FLEISCHER, Walt DISNEY, the UPA Group, Norman MCLAREN, William HANNA and Joe BARBERA, HALAS AND BATCHELOR, Ralph BAKSHI and Richard WILLIAMS.

Best books on the subject are The Technique of Film Animation by John Halas and Roger Manvell; The Art of Walt Disney by Christopher Finch; The Animated Film by Ralph Stephenson.

Anime.
A Japanese term for animated films, applied particularly to its own tradition, which differs from the American style, as exemplified in the work of the Walt Disney studios. Japanese animation is often based on comic books and features more adult fantasies, often marked by an excess of sex and violence and drawing on local legends and myths. The graphic techniques are often stylized: the heroes and heroines tend to cuteness, with large round eyes. The best film so far is Otomo Katsuhiro's Akira 87, though many others are gaining a cult following in the West owing to their release on video and there are several magazines devoted to Anime. The Anime style has influenced some action films, such as Gunhed, and other live-action films are being based on animated originals, such as the gangster epic Crying Freeman. The process is likely to quicken with the trend for computer games inspiring movies, since these also are influenced by Japanese comic-book styles.

Books: 1993, Anime! A Beginner's Guide to Japanese Animation by Helen McCarthy; 1996, The Anime! Movie Guide by Helen McCarthy.
See also: MANGA.

Anscocolor.
American process derived from AGFACOLOR.

answer print.
The first complete combined print supplied by the laboratory, usually with no very careful attempt to grade colour or contrast.

arc.
A high-powered lamp used in projectors and studio lighting, its illumination consisting of an electrical discharge between two carbon rods.

archive.
A vault, usually government-sponsored, containing a selection of films to be preserved for research and for posterity.

Aromarama.
A process that linked smells to sequences in a movie, the perfume being pumped through the air-conditioning system into the auditorium. It was first used for the screening of a documentary, The Great Wall of China 59, but, like the similar SMELL-O-VISION, was never more than a short-lived gimmick.

art director.
Technician responsible for designing sets, sometimes also costumes and graphics. 'Production designer' is a more pretentious way of saying much the same thing. The importance of this work to the finished product first became noticeable in Intolerance and the German expressionist films of the 20s, then in such diverse talking films as The Old Dark House, Things to Come, The Cat and the Canary (both versions), Citizen Kane, Trouble in Paradise, The Mystery of the Wax Museum, A Matter of Life and Death, Les Enfants du Paradis, and Kings Row. Important figures include William Cameron MENZIES, Anton GROT, Cedric GIBBONS, Ken ADAM, Vincent KORDA, Hans DREIER, Alfred JUNGE, Carmen DILLON.

art house.
American term (now displacing 'specialized hall' in GB) for cinema showing classic revivals and highbrow or off-beat new films of limited commercial appeal.

ASC.
Often seen on credit titles after the names of cinematographers, these initials stand for the American Society of Cinematographers, a professional association, membership of which is by invitation only. Its aims since its foundation in 1918 have been 'to advance the art and science of cinematography'. The Society publishes a monthly periodical, American Cinematographer.

aspect ratio.
Relative breadth and height of screen. Before 1953 this was 4:3 or 1.33:1. 'Standard' wide screen varies from 1.66:1 to 1.85:1. Anamorphic processes are wider: SuperScope 2:1, CinemaScope and most others 2.35:1 (or 2.55:1 with magnetic stereophonic sound). Vista-Vision, a printing process, was shot in 1.33:1 but recommended for screening at up to 2:1, i.e. with top and bottom cut off and the rest magnified. The TV screen is fixed at 1.33:1, therefore all wide-screen films lose something when played on it.

assistant director.
More properly 'assistant to the director', being concerned with details of administration rather than creation.

associate producer.
Usually the actual producer or supervisor of the film, the title of 'executive producer' having been taken by the head of the studio.

Association of Cinematograph, Television and Allied Technicians:
see ACTT.

auteur.
A term used in the 60s and 70s by egghead critics to denote directors whom they judge to have a discernible message or attitude which runs throughout their work. Oddly enough the term is not applied to authors.

authenticator.
Studio researcher responsible for establishing accuracy of all script details, ensuring use of 'clear' telephone numbers, etc.

avant-garde.
An adjective generally used to describe artists 'in advance of their time'; especially used of French surrealists in the 20s, e.g. Kirsanoff, Buñuel, Germaine Dulac.

Avid Media Composer is a digital editing system, based on the Apple Macintosh computer. It was first used in film in 1992 by Steve Cohen when editing Lost in Yonkers. His success led other editors to adopt the method. The advantage of digital editing is that it is non-linear, providing swift access to all raw film footage and allowing multiple versions of each edited sequence. Some editors prefer a rival system, LIGHTWORKS.

'B' picture.
A low-budget production usually designed as part of a double bill or to support a more important feature. There are four excellent books on the subject: B Movies by Don Miller, The Wonderful World of B Films by Alan G. Barbour, Kings of the Bs by Todd McCarthy and Charles Flynn and The Big Book of B Movies by Robin Cross.

back projection.
A method of producing 'location' sequences in the studio: the players act in front of a translucent screen on which the scenic background is projected.

ballyhoo.
An expressive term, allegedly Irish in origin, used in show business to denote the kind of publicity that has nothing to do with the merits, or indeed the actual contents, of the film in question.

barring clause.
The part of an exhibitor's contract with a renter preventing him from showing new films before other specified cinemas in the area. The showing of a film in London may thus prevent its exhibition elsewhere within a radius of fifty miles or more.

BECTU is the Broadcasting, Entertainment, Cinematograph and Theatre Union, which replaced the ACTT.

below-the-line costs are the expenses that cover the cost of filming and post-production work.

best boy.
Term used to describe the assistant to the chief electrician, or gaffer, on a film set.

bicycling.
A trade term for the sharing, usually illegally, of one print between two theatres: the manager had to make frequent bicycle trips!

billing.
The official credits for a film, usually stating the relative sizes of type to be accorded to title, stars, character actors, etc.

biograph.
(1) An old name for a cinema projector. (2) The name of Britain's first public cinema, near Victoria Station, London, opened 1905. (3) The name of D. W. Griffith's New York studios, 1903-10.

biopic.
A contraction of 'biographical picture', i.e. a film about the life of a real person. For examples see under COMPOSERS, COURTESANS, ENTERTAINERS, EXPLORERS, INVENTORS, KINGS AND QUEENS, PAINTERS, POLITICIANS, SCIENTISTS, SOLDIERS, SPIES, SPORTSMEN, WRITERS.

Black Maria.
In the history of film this evocative phrase for a police van has a secondary meaning, being the nickname given to Edison's first portable studio.

blackface.
A vaudeville adjective for comedians or singers who found their best appeal in 'Negro' disguise, i.e. with faces entirely blacked save for thick lips. Among the singers Al Jolson was perhaps the most famous exponent of this art, with Eddie Cantor a close second; the style derived from the minstrel shows which toured America from the mid-nineteenth century and which are clearly depicted in Jolson's Mammy and Swanee River. Dockstader's minstrels are recreated in The Jolson Story, and Dan Emmet's in Dixie; while Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney created their own blackface troupe in Babes in Arms. Among blackface comics there were Moran and Mack, the 'two black crows'; and others who made themselves black for comic effect were Betty Grable and June Haver in The Dolly Sisters, Myrna Loy in Ham and Eggs at the Front, Gene Wilder in Silver Streak, Buster Keaton in College, Marion Davies in Going Hollywood, Fred Astaire in Swing Time, Dan Dailey in You're My Everything, and Chick Chandler in The Big Shot. In Watermelon Man, on the other hand, Godfrey Cambridge appeared in whiteface, as did Lenny Henry in True Identity.

blacklisting:
see THE HOLLYWOOD TEN.

blimp.
A soundproof cover fixed over a camera during shooting to absorb running noise.

block booking.
A system supposedly illegal but still practised, whereby a renter forces an exhibitor to book a whole group of mainly mediocre films in order to get the one or two he wants.

bloop.
To cover a splice in the sound track, usually with thick 'blooping ink'.

blow up.
To magnify an image, either a photograph for background purposes, or a piece of film (e.g. from 16mm to 35mm).

boom.
A 'long arm' extending from the camera unit and carrying a microphone to be balanced over the actors so that sound can be picked up in a semi-distant shot. A 'camera boom' is a high movable platform strong enough to support the entire camera unit.

break figure.
A specified amount of takings after which an exhibitor pays a greater percentage to the renter. For the protection of both parties many contracts are on a sliding scale, with the exhibitor paying anything from 25% to 50% of the gross according to the business he does.

breakaway furniture is specially constructed from balsa wood for those spectacular saloon brawls in which so much damage is apparently done to stars and stunt men.

British Film Academy.
An organization founded in 1946 'for the advancement of the film'. Since 1959 it has been amalgamated with the Society of Film and Television Arts. Its award statuette is noted in this book by the letters BFA. See Section 8 for full listing.

British Film Commission.
An organization set up in 1992 and funded by the British government to provide information and services to international film and television companies to encourage the use of British technicians, artists, facilities and locations. The first British Film Commissioner was Sir Sydney Samuelson, who began working in the cinema industry in 1939.

British Film Institute.
Partly government-subsidized organization founded in 1933 'to encourage the use and development of cinema as a means of entertainment and instruction'. Includes the National Film Archive (founded 1935) and the National Film Theatre (founded after the 1951 Festival of Britain). Also library, information section, stills collection, film distribution agency, lecture courses, etc. Chief publication: Sight and Sound.

B.S.C.
British Society of Cinematographers, a professional society founded in the 50s, similar in aims to the A.S.C.

burned out.
Cinematographer's jargon for 'over-exposed'.

cable.
A method of disseminating television programmes by underground cable whose fibres can accommodate a great many channels, none of them subject to interference from the others. From the mid-70s it became highly popular in America because of poor airwave reception in many areas; as a subscription service it also screened fewer commercials and most of its movies were uncut. These advantages however did not apply in most other countries, where it had a slower start.

cameo.
A word coined (in its cinematic sense) by Mike Todd when persuading famous stars to accept walk-on parts for Around the World in Eighty Days.

cartoon:
a film composed of animated drawings, carefully varied to give the appearance of motion. Gertie the Dinosaur, who appeared in 1909, is thought to be the first cartoon character; Mutt and Jeff followed soon after. In the 20s, Pat Sullivan's Felix the Cat and Max Fleischer's Out of the Inkwell series vied for popularity until both were ousted by Walt Disney, who with Ub Iwerks created Mickey Mouse and his familiar friends. In the 30s, Disney went on to Silly Symphonies, Fleischer to Popeye. Other creations were Woody Woodpecker (Walter Lantz), Mighty Mouse, Heckle and Jeckle, Tom and Jerry (Hanna-Barbera for MGM) and Bugs Bunny. Disney's Donald Duck became more popular than Mickey. In the 40s, David Hand made British cartoons for the Rank Organisation, but they were not commercially successful. The 50s brought U.P.A. with their new refined lines, intellectual conceptions and sophisticated jokes; Mr Magoo and Gerald McBoing Boing led the new characters but quickly palled. Then the needs of television led to innumerable cartoon series which for the sake of economy had to be only semi-animated and had little vitality; the best of them were The Flintstones and Yogi Bear. These series proliferated into hundreds and not until 1972 did anyone try an adult cartoon series, Hanna-Barbera's Wait Till Your Father Gets Home.

■Feature-length cartoons were started by Disney in 1937 with Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs; Fleischer responded in 1939 with Gulliver's Travels. Disney's outstanding serious cartoon was Fantasia 40, an interpretation of classical music. Later, French and Japanese cartoons flooded the market, but inspiration was lacking in most of them. Halas and Batchelor's British Animal Farm was a fair summation of Orwell's fable, but their later attempts to interpret Gilbert and Sullivan failed. In recent years the cartoon has been put to every kind of serious and comic purpose, including propaganda and advertising, and many prizewinners have come from Europe. Ralph Bakshi's ruderies of Fritz the Cat were startling, but he atoned with his careful rendering of Lord of the Rings.

cast.
The actors in a movie.

casting.
To the old Hollywood, casting usually meant type-casting, or bending the character to suit the star. In the 70s, stars became less important, and leading actors became more chameleon-like. Even so, many best-remembered performances have been given by actors who were second or third choice. The original requirement for Dracula was Paul Muni, not Bela Lugosi. Clark Gable was thought of for Tarzan. Greta Garbo was asked to play Dorian Gray as a woman. Gloria Swanson's role in Sunset Boulevard was first offered to Mae West. Humphrey Bogart got High Sierra and The Maltese Falcon only because George Raft turned them down. Robert Montgomery, Fredric March, Carole Lombard and Myrna Loy all turned down It Happened One Night before Gable and Colbert accepted. Carole Lombard however benefited when Miriam Hopkins turned down Twentieth Century. Olivier's role as Maxim de Winter in Rebecca was first offered to William Powell and Ronald Colman. Doris Day was offered Mrs Robinson in The Graduate. Lana Turner gave way to Lee Remick on Anatomy of a Murder. Bette Davis would have been Scarlett O'Hara if she hadn't thought Errol Flynn was to play Rhett. George Jessel would have starred in The Jazz Singer if his demands had been less outrageous. Danny Thomas would have starred in The Jolson Story if he had agreed to have his nose shortened. Marlon Brando, Montgomery Clift and Paul Newman were all sought for East of Eden before James Dean got the role. Bette Davis played Margo in All About Eve only because Claudette Colbert gave it up. Ingrid Bergman was second choice to Vera Zorina for For Whom the Bell Tolls. Jack Nicholson took over from Rip Torn in Easy Rider, Marlon Brando from Montgomery Clift in On The Waterfront. Bette Davis turned down Mildred Pierce and Joan Crawford grabbed it. Olivia de Havilland, not Vivien Leigh, was first choice for A Streetcar named Desire. Ingrid Bergman won Oscars for Gaslight, first offered to Hedy Lamarr, and Anastasia, intended for Jennifer Jones; but she turned down The Farmer's Daughter and To Each His Own, which won Oscars for Loretta Young and Olivia de Havilland. If Grace Kelly hadn't become Princess of Monaco, she would have played in Cat on a Hot Tin Roof and Designing Woman, not Elizabeth Taylor or Lauren Bacall. William Holden got Sunset Boulevard after Montgomery Clift said no. Frank Sinatra walked out of Carousel: Gordon MacRae took over. Ginger Rogers replaced the ailing Judy Garland in The Barkleys of Broadway. Deborah Kerr got From Here to Eternity when Joan Crawford withdrew. Vivien Leigh thought herself too young to play the role in Suddenly Last Summer which went to Katharine Hepburn. Shirley Temple was wanted for Judy Garland's role in The Wizard of Oz; W. C. Fields was to have been the wizard, but argued over money. Fields himself only got Micawber in David Copperfield because Charles Laughton walked out after two days of filming.

CD-ROM
stands for Compact Disc – Read Only Memory. It is a computer-compatible means of storing a mass of information (up to 630 megabytes of data, enough to hold an entire encyclopedia) on one compact disc. It has been used as an alternative method to video cassette and laser disc for making films available at home, but has so far failed to gain a large consumer base and is likely to be superseded by DVD. As it can contain high-quality sound, animation and text, CD-ROM is now the preferred method of distributing computer programs, including games, many of which are derived from successful films. It has also been used as a method of publishing film guides: see Section 10.

cel.
The sheet of celluloid on which cartoon animators draw their foreground actions, one cel per film frame.

censorship.
Each country has found it necessary to apply its own rules for film producers; in Britain and America at least these rules were drawn up and enforced at the request of the industry itself. The British Board of Film Censors was founded in 1912. It has now changed its name to the British Board of Film Classification and covers material released on video-cassette as well as films. For many years films were classified as 'U' (for universal exhibition), 'A' (adults and accompanied children only) or (from 1933) 'H' (horrific; prohibited for persons under 16). In 1951, with the growing emphasis on sex, 'H' was replaced by 'X', which includes sex and horror. In the 60s 'X' came to mean over 18, 'AA' no one under 14, and 'A' was simply a warning to parents (children could still get in unaccompanied). The current ratings system is 'U', suitable for children; 'PG', parental guidance advised; '12', suitable for persons over the age of 12; '15', only suitable for persons over the age of 15; and '18', only suitable for adults. In America, the Arbuckle scandal of 1921 precipitated the founding of the 'Hays Office' (named after its first paid president) by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America. The first Production Code was issued in 1930 and has undergone constant amendment especially since The Moon is Blue 53, and very rapidly indeed since Room at the Top 59; in 1966 Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? almost swamped it completely and a revised, broadened code was issued. In 1968 this was replaced by a new rating system: 'X', 'R' (restricted), 'PG' (parental guidance advised) and 'G' (general audience). In the 90s the 'X' rating was replaced by an 'NC-17' rating. The independent and very strict Catholic Legion of Decency was founded in 1934 and issues its own classifications; it recently changed its name to the National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures.

Best books: Murray Schumach's The Face on the Cutting Room Floor, Doug McClelland's The Unkindest Cuts, Leonard J. Leff and Jerold L. Simmons's The Dame in the Kimono: Hollywood's Censorship and the Production Code (1990), and Tom Dewe Mathews' Censored (1994).

Central Casting.

The talent agency through whose doors passed many unknowns who stayed that way. In the 30s the Hollywood office had a sign above the door: DON'T TRY TO BECOME AN ACTOR. FOR EVERY ONE WE EMPLOY, WE TURN AWAY THOUSANDS.

chambara is the term for a genre of samurai films, which could be described as the Japanese equivalent of westerns.

chanchada.

Term used to describe a genre of popular Brazilian films that mixes love stories with comedy and colourfully staged musical numbers, usually involving the samba. The form was created by Watson Macedo (1918-81), a Brazilian director, screenwriter and art director, in his musicals of the 40s and 50s, particularly Carnaval No Fogo 49. It includes parodies of Hollywood movies, such as Carlos Manga's Matar ou Correr, based on High Noon.

change-over.

Transition from one reel of film to another during projection. A reel originally lasted ten minutes but most 35mm projectors now take 20 or 30 minutes. Change-over cues are given in the form of dots which appear on the top right-hand corner of the screen a standard number of seconds before the end of the reel.

character actor.

Usually thought of as one who does not play romantic leads.

Cinecolor.

A two-colour process that was a cheaper alternative to Technicolor and so was used on many 'B' pictures in the 30s and 40s. The film had an orange-red emulsion on one side and a blue-green emulsion on the other.

cinéma vérité

A fashionable term of the 60s for what used to be called candid camera. A TV-style technique of recording life and people as they are, in the raw, using handheld cameras, natural sound and the minimum of rehearsal and editing. Chiefly applied to Chronique d'un Eté 61, Le Joli Mai 62, and the documentaries of Richard Leacock and the Maysles brothers.

CinemaScope

Wide-screen process copyrighted by Fox in 1953 and first used in The Robe; invented many years earlier by Henri Chrétien. Other companies either adopted it or produced their own trade name: WarnerScope, SuperScope, etc. Basically, the camera contains an anamorphic lens which 'squeezes' a wide picture on to a standard 35mm frame (which has a breadth/height ratio of 4:3 or 1.33:1). This, when projected through a complementary lens, gives a picture ratio on screen of 2.55:1 with stereophonic magnetic sound, or 2.35:1 with optical sound. Directors found the new shape awkward to compose for, the easiest way of handling it being to park the camera and let the actors move, a reversion to early silent methods. Although wide screens are said to have helped the box office, they have effectively prevented the full use of cinematic techniques. Oddly enough Fox in the mid-60s quietly dropped their own system and moved over to Panavision. The last word belongs to writer Nunnally Johnson, who, when asked how he would cope with the demands of CinemaScope, replied: 'Easy. What I'm going to do from now on is put the paper in my typewriter sideways.'

cinematographer.

Lighting cameraman or chief photographer.

Cinemobile.

A massive truck into which everything necessary for location shooting, including dressing rooms and toilets, can be packed.

Cinerama.

Extra-wide-screen system, invented by Fred Waller. Three projectors, electronically synchronized, were used to put the picture on the screen in three sections: this gave a disturbing wobble at the joins, though the range of vision was sometimes magnificently wide, as in the aerial shots and roller coaster sequence in This is Cinerama 52. After ten years of scenic but cinematically unremarkable travelogues (Cinerama Holiday, Seven Wonders of the World, Search for Paradise, etc.), the first story film in the process, How the West Was Won, was made in 1962. Shortly afterwards the three-camera system was abandoned in favour of 'single-lens Cinerama' which is virtually indistinguishable from CinemaScope except for the higher definition resulting from using wider film. 'Cinemiracle', a similar process, was short-lived. In 1997 the Cinerama Preservations Society was set up in the US to save the films made using the process. At that time, there were two cinemas in the world still capable of showing the films, one in the United States – the New Neon in Dayton, Ohio – and the other in England, at the National Museum of Photography, Film and Television in Bradford.

The released Cinerama features were:

This is Cinerama 52. Cinerama Holiday 55. Seven Wonders of the World 56. Search for Paradise 57. South Seas Adventure 58. The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm 62. How the West Was Won 62. It's a Mad Mad Mad Mad World (single lens) 63. Circus World 64. The Best of Cinerama 64. Battle of the Bulge 65. Grand Prix 66. Cinerama's Russian Adventure 66. Ice Station Zebra 68. Custer of the West 68. 2001: A Space Odyssey 68. Krakatoa – East of Java 69.

circuit.

A chain of cinemas under the same ownership, often playing the same release programme.

clapperboard.

A hinged board recording film details. At the beginning of each 'take' it is held before the camera for identification and then 'clapped' to make a starting point in the sound track. This point is then synchronized with the image of the closed board.

cliffhanger.

Trade name for a serial, especially an episode ending in an unresolved situation which keeps one in suspense till next time.

close-up.

Generally applied to a head-and-shoulders shot of a person or any close shot of an object. The first close-up is said to be that of Fred Ott sneezing in an Edison experimental film of 1900.
See: LONG SHOT.

co-feature.

A moderate-budget production designed (or fated) to form equal half of a double bill.

cokuloris.

A palette with random irregular holes, placed between lights and camera to prevent glare and give a better illusion of real-life light and shadow.

colour

prints of a primitive kind were made as long ago as 1898. During the next few years many films were hand-coloured by stencil, and two unsatisfactory processes. KinemaColor and Gaumont colour, were tried out. D. W. Griffith in The Birth of a Nation 14 developed the French practice of tinting scenes for dramatic effect: blue for night, orange for sunshine, etc. In 1918 red-and-green Technicolor was tried out along with half a dozen other processes. 1921: Prizmacolour was used for the British historical film The Great Adventure. 1923: de Mille used a colour sequence in The Ten Commandments. 1926: The Black Pirate was shot in two-colour Technicolor. 1932: first three-colour Technicolor film, Disney cartoon Flowers and Trees (AA). 1934: colour used in dramatic sequences of La Cucaracha and The House of Rothschild. 1935: first feature film entirely in three-strip colour, Becky Sharp. 1937: first British Technicolor feature, Wings of the Morning. 1939: two-colour Cinecolor, very cheap, became popular for low-budget westerns. 1942: Technicolor introduced monopack process, using one negative instead of three and making equipment less cumbersome and more flexible. 1948: Republic adopted Trucolor. 1949: Anscocolor, later to become Metrocolor, used on The Man on the Eiffel Tower. 1951: Supercinecolor (3 colours) adopted by Columbia in Sword of Monte Cristo. 1952: Eastmancolor used in Royal Journey; Warners adopted it as Warnercolor. 1954: Fox adopted De Luxe Color.

Today, with new colours springing up all the time, effectiveness seems to depend not on the trademark but on how well the film is shot, processed and printed.

colour sequences

in otherwise black-and-white movies were used at first experimentally (see above) but have also been employed for dramatic effect. Early examples include The Ten Commandments 23, Ben Hur 26, The Wedding March 28, Chasing Rainbows 30; many of the early sound musicals went into colour for their final number, and this went on as late as Kid Millions 35. Victoria the Great 37 had colour for the final 'Empress of India' scenes. The Wizard of Oz 39 had the Oz scenes in colour and the Kansas scenes in sepia. Irene 40 went into colour for the 'Alice Blue Gown' number – which made the second half of the film anti-climactic. The Moon and Sixpence 42 blazed into colour for the fire at the end ... and the same director, Albert Lewin, used a similar trick whenever the picture was shown in The Picture of Dorian Gray 44. A Matter of Life and Death 45 had earth in colour, heaven in a rather metallic monochrome. Task Force 49 went into colour for its final battle reels, most of which consisted of blown-up 16mm war footage. The Secret Garden 49 played the same trick as The Wizard of Oz. The Solid Gold Cadillac 56 had a few final feet of colour to show off the irrelevant car of the title. In 1958 I Was a Teenage Frankenstein revived the old dodge of colour for the final conflagration. In Cleo de 5 à 7 only the ominous tarot cards were in colour; in The House of Rothschild only the court finale. In If, nobody was ever able to work out why black-and-white alternated with colour until someone guessed that the producers kept on running out of money as shooting progressed. And Is Paris Burning? 66 used colour for the climactic victory sequence, having been forced into black-and-white for the rest of the movie by the necessity of using old newsreel footage. In few of the above cases has reissue printing maintained the original intention: printing short sequences in colour is time-consuming.
See also: TINTING.

combined print.

One on which both sound and picture (always produced separately) have been 'married', i.e. a standard print as shown in cinemas.
See also: DOUBLE-HEADED PRINT.

composite print:

see COMBINED PRINT for which it is an alternative term.

continuity.

The development of cinematic narrative from beginning to end of a film. If continuity is good the audience will be carried smoothly from one scene to another without disturbing breaks or lapses of detail.

contrast.

The tone range in a print. Heavy contrast results in 'soot and whitewash', i.e. blurry blacks and burnt-out whites.

copyright.

British law relating to film copyright is notably vague, but in practice the owner of a film is protected against piracy for fifty years. In America copyright must be renewed in the 28th year, which has resulted in some fatal errors: e.g. MGM now have no control over Till the Clouds Roll By because they forgot to renew it, and Chaplin renewed only the version of The Gold Rush including his specially composed 40s music track.

coverage.

All the shots that comprise the photography from various angles of a particular scene in a film.

crane shot.

A high-angle shot in which the camera travels up, down or laterally while mounted on a travelling crane.

credits.

Titles at beginning or end of film (nowadays very often five minutes after the beginning) listing the names of the creative talents concerned.

creeping title.

One which moves up (or sometimes across) the screen at reading pace. Also known as roller title.

cross cutting.

Interlinking fragments of two or more separate sequences so that they appear to be taking place at the same time. One of the most famous examples is the climax of Intolerance which intertwines four stories; and in more modern times The Godfather crosscut a murder with a baptism.

cut.

Noun: abrupt transition from one shot to another, the first being instantaneously replaced by the second (as opposed to a wipe or a dissolve). Verb: to edit a film, or (during production) to stop the camera running on a scene.

cutaway.

An intervening shot allowing an editor to change the focus of action, e.g. clouds or a clock face.

cutting copy.

The first print assembled from the 'rushes'. When this is deemed satisfactory, the negative will be cut to match it, and release prints made.

cyclorama.

A smooth, curved giant screen at the back of the set, cunningly lit to give the impression of daylight.

dailies:

see RUSHES.

day for night,

which is often abbreviated to D/N, is the technique of shooting in daylight but making the result look as if it was shot at night. This can be achieved by using filters, underexposing the film, or by printing. Its advantage is that it is both easier and cheaper to film during daylight hours.

DeLuxe Color is the Twentieth Century-Fox version of Eastmancolor but usually comes out decidedly blue.

deep focus.

Dramatic camera technique which brings both foreground and background objects into equal focus and clarity; notably used in Citizen Kane and Hamlet.

definitions

A selection, chosen for entertainment rather than instruction.

Agent: A guy who is sore because an actor gets ninety per cent of what he makes.

Casting: Deciding which of two faces the public is least tired of.

Disneyland: The biggest people trap ever built by a mouse.

Double feature: A show that enables you to sit through a picture you don't care to see, so you can see one you don't like. -Henry Morgan

Epic: The easiest kind of picture to make badly. -Charlton Heston

It: The indefinable something. -Elinor Glyn, creator of 'It'

Musicals: A series of catastrophes ending with a floor show. -Oscar Levant

Oomph: The sound a fat man makes when he bends over to tie his laces in a phone booth. -Ann Sheridan

Romanoff's Restaurant: A place where a man can take his wife and family and have a lovely seven-course meal for $3,400. -George Jessel

Starlet: Any woman under thirty not actively employed in a brothel.

Television: A medium, so called because it is neither rare nor well done. -Ernie Kovacs

digital distribution is a method of distributing and projecting on a screen an image transmitted from elsewhere, either by cable or from a satellite. Technically, it is possible to provide instant distribution of a film simultaneously to hundreds of individual cinemas, by digitally transmitting a movie from one central computer. All that is holding back such developments at the moment is the very high cost of the necessary equipment. The long-term effect of such technology may be the disappearance of independent or art movies and the cinemas that show such films.

director.

Normally the most influential creator of a film, who may not only shoot scenes on the studio floor but also supervise script, casting, editing, etc., according to his standing. In more routine films these functions are separately controlled.

dissolve (or mix).

A change of scene accomplished by gradually exposing a second image over the first while fading the first away.

distributor (or renter).

A company which, for a percentage of the profits or a flat fee, undertakes to rent a film to exhibitors on the producing company's behalf. Originally major producers like MGM, Warner and Paramount distributed their own films exclusively, but with the rise of independent producers the situation has become much more fluid, with distributors bidding for the films they consider most likely to succeed at the box office and tying up successful producers to long-term contracts.

documentary was not coined as a word until 1929, but several famous films, including Ponting's With Scott to the Antarctic, Lowell Thomas' With Allenby in Palestine, and Flaherty's Nanook of the North, had before 1921 brought an attitude to their reportage which made them more than mere travel films. In Britain during the 20s, H. Bruce Woolfe made a series of painstaking and still evocative reconstructions of the battles of World War I; while Cooper and Schoedsack went even further afield for the exciting material in Grass and Chang. 1928 brought Eisenstein's The General Line, a brilliant piece of farming propaganda, and Turin's Turksib, a showy account of the building of the Turko-Siberian railway. John Grierson, who invented the term 'documentary', made in 1929 a quiet little two-reeler about Britain's herring fleet, and called it Drifters; for the next ten years Britain's official and sponsored film units produced such brilliant results as Shipyard, Coalface, Housing Problems, Song of Ceylon, North Sea and Night Mail. In 1931 Vigo made his satirical documentary A Propos de Nice, and shortly afterwards Eisenstein was at work on his never-finished Thunder over Mexico, brilliant fragments of which survive as Time in the Sun. Travel films by explorers like the Martin Johnsons proliferated during the 30s; Flaherty spent two uncomfortable years off the Irish coast to make his Man of Aran, and later produced in India the semi-fictional Elephant Boy. Pare Lorenz produced cinematic poetry out of America's geographical problems in The Plow that Broke the Plains and The River.

World War II stimulated documentarists to new urgency and new techniques, brilliantly exemplified by Frank Capra's Why We Fight series for the US Signal Corps, turning unpleasant facts into breathtaking entertainment. With a predictably understated approach the British units produced a more sober but equally stirring series of reports on the war (Western Approaches, Desert Victory, Target for Tonight) and the home front (Listen to Britain, Fires Were Started, A Diary for Timothy), many of them directed by Britain's first documentary poet, Humphrey Jennings. The two countries combined resources to present a brilliant, high-flying compilation film about the last year of war, The True Glory.

Since 1945 the use of documentary for advertising (often very subtly) and teaching has so proliferated that no simple line of development can be shown. Television has relentlessly explored and elaborated every technique of the pioneers, with special attention to 'action stills', compilation films, and hard-hitting popular journalist approaches such as NBC's White Paper series and Granada's World in Action. Entertainment films devised a popular blend of fact and fiction in such neo-classics as Boomerang, The House on 92nd Street and Naked City. At last documentary was accepted as an agreeable blend of instruction and pleasure; and in the changed environment Flaherty's lyrical Louisiana Story seemed slow and solemn.

In recent years, documentary films have become box-office successes, culminating in Michael Moore's polemical Fahrenheit 9/11, which won the Palme d'Or at the Cannes Film Festival in 2004 and grossed more than $119m at the US box-office. His earlier film Bowling for Columbine won an Oscar for bestr documentary in 2003 and took a respectable $20m at the US box office. Other notable documentaries have included Errol Morris's The Fog of War: Eleven Lessons form the Life of Robert S. McNamara 03, and two French films, Nicolas Philberts Etre et Avoir 02, about a year in a one-room village school, and Luc Jacquet's remarkable Antarctic odyssey March of the Penguins/Le Marche de L'Empereur. Documentarists have also begun to exploit the wealth of material available from home movies, notably in Andrew Jarecki's Capturing the Friedmans 03, a disqueting film about child abuse, and Jonathan Caouette's Tarnation 03, a personal home-computer-edited account of growing up with a schizophrenic mother.

Book: Documentary, a History of the Non-fiction film, by E. Barnouw, was published by OUP in 1974.

Dolby system.

A method of improving the sound quality of optical sound tracks by reducing background noise and hiss, first used for tape recordings. The Dolby stereo system creates four sound tracks.

dolly.

A trolley on which a camera unit can be soundlessly moved about during shooting: can usually be mounted on rails. A 'crab dolly' will move in any direction.

dope sheet.

A list of the contents of a piece of film, usually applied to newsreel libraries.

double exposure.

This occurs when two or more images are recorded on the same piece of film. Used for trick shots when two characters played by the same actor have to meet; also for dissolves, dream sequences, etc.

double take.

A form of comic reaction to a piece of news or situation. The subject at first fails to take it in, and after a few moments the penny drops with a start. Cary Grant and Oliver Hardy were among the prime exponents of the device, but the comedian who really brought it to the point of art was James Finlayson, who not only had the most pronounced reactions but added a slow withdrawal of the head, calling the entire effect a 'double take and fade away'.

double-headed print.

One in which sound and picture are recorded on separate pieces of film, usually at cutting copy stage or before OK is received to make combined negative.

drive-in.

A cinema in the open air, with loudspeakers relaying the sound track into your car.

dry ice.

A chemical substance which in water produces carbon dioxide gas and gives the effect of a low-hanging white ground mist, very effective in fantasy sequences.

DTS

stands for Digital Theatre Systems, a new sound recording and playback system launched by Universal Pictures and used first for Jurassic Park in 1993. The sound is stored on a compact disk which is synchronized with the film.

dubbing

has several shades of meaning within the general one of adding sound (effects, music, song, dialogue) to pictures already shot. It can mean re-recording; or replacing original language dialogue by a translation; or having someone else provide top notes for a star who can't sing. Here is an incomplete list of singers who provided uncredited voice-overs for actors who couldn't quite measure up.

Band Wagon India Adams for Cyd Charisse, The Belle of New York Anita Ellis for Vera-Ellen, Brigadoon Carole Richards for Cyd Charisse, Call Me Madam Carole Richards for Vera-Ellen, Cover Girl Nan Wynn for Rita Hayworth, Down to Earth Anita Ellis for Rita Hayworth, Gigi Betty Wand for Leslie Caron, Gilda Nan Wynn for Rita Hayworth, The Great Ziegfeld Allan Jones for Dennis Morgan, Gypsy Lisa Kirk for Rosalind Russell, Happy Go Lovely Eve Boswell for Vera-Ellen, The Helen Morgan Story Gogi Grant for Ann Blyth, Interrupted Melody Eileen Farrell for Eleanor Parker, The Jolson Story Al Jolson for Larry Parks, The King and I Marni Nixon for Deborah Kerr, Meet Me in St Louis Arthur Freed for Leon Ames, The Merry Widow Trudy Erwin for Lana Turner, My Fair Lady Marni Nixon for Audrey Hepburn, Orchestra Wives Pat Friday for Lynn Bari, Pal Joey Jo Ann Greer for Rita Hayworth, South Pacific Muriel Smith for Juanita Hall, South Pacific Giorgio Tozzi for Rossano Brazzi, Showboat Annette Warren for Ava Gardner, A Song Is Born Jeri Sullivan for Virginia Mayo, The Sound of Music Bill Lee for Christopher Plummer, State Fair (1945) Lorraine Hogan for Jeanne Crain, To Have and Have Not (believe it or not) Andy Williams for Lauren Bacall, Torch Song India Adams for Joan Crawford, West Side Story Marni Nixon for Natalie Wood, West Side Story Jim Bryant for Richard Beymer, West Side Story Betty Wand for Rita Moreno, White Christmas Trudy Stevens for Vera-Ellen, With a Song in My Heart Jane Froman for Susan Hayward.

Dubbing of speaking parts is comparatively rare, but note Joan Barry for Anny Ondra in Blackmail and Angela Lansbury for Ingrid Thulin in The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse.

dupe negative.

One made from the original negative (via a lavender print) to protect it from wear by producing too many copies.

duping (lavender) print.

A high-quality print made from the original negative. From it dupe negatives can be made.

DVD

stands for digital video disc, a compact disc format that is capable of containing on a single disc a feature film in several different formats and languages, with stereo sound. Movies released on DVD became generally available in 1996/97, though some film companies were initially reluctant to release their productions in this format because of the problems of piracy, and of films becoming available on disc before they reached cinemas, because of their staggered release around the world. These problems have been overcome, from the studios' point of view, by dividing the world into six areas and making DVD releases in one area incompatible with DVD players in another area. Despite DVD's improvement in picture quality and sound over videocassettes, sales of discs and players were initially lower than anticipated. By 2001, when the cost of players fell to below VHS machines, DVD became the main medium for watching films at home and studios stopped releasing films on videocassette in the early 2000s.

dynamic frame.

A concept invented in 1955 by an American, Glenn Alvey: the screen was maximum size, i.e. CinemaScope, but individual scenes were to be masked down to whatever ratio suited them best, e.g. rather narrow for a corridor. Only one experimental British film, a version of H. G. Wells' The Hole in the Wall, was made in dynamic frame, which proved distracting and has in any case been overtaken by multiscreen experiments of the 60s.

edge numbers.

Serial numbers printed along the edge of all film material to assist identification when re-ordering sections.

editor.

Technician who assembles final print of film from various scenes and tracks available; works closely under director's control except in routine pictures. Conventional editing involved cutting scenes of the film in sequence to produce first a rough cut, and then the final result. Technical developments have led to the use of digital or non-linear editing with computer-based systems such as the AVID MEDIA COMPOSER and LIGHTWORKS.

8mm.

A substandard gauge introduced in 1932 and used mostly by amateurs, though from the early 60s, often with sounded recorded on an added magnetic strip, it also found use in schools and similar institutions. From the mid-60s, Super-8 was introduced which allowed a larger area to be used for film and provided better soundtrack reproduction. Both have now been superseded by the advent of cam-corders using video-cassettes or digital means for recording, and providing an instant playback of, sound and images.

electronovision.

A much-touted form of transfer from videotape to film, thought likely to save money in putting great stage performances on to the big screen.

Unfortunately it proved technically and aesthetically unacceptable, and the two features shot in it in 1965 are only interesting if one can ignore the technical shortcomings. They are Harlow with Carol Lynley and Hamlet with Richard Burton.

Elektrotachyscope.

A device for displaying motion pictures, patented in 1887 by the Polish inventor Ottomar Anschutz, who also took the photographs of the movement of people and animals it showed.

epic film.

Term used to describe a film directed and designed on a spectacular scale, focusing on the actions of a great hero and featuring a cast of thousands. The style fell out of favour, mainly due to the fiasco of Cleopatra 63 and the increasing cost of elaborate sets and large casts, so that the continuing appetite for spectacle is now supplied by movies that concentrate on violent action, such as car chases and crashes, and special effects. But the ability of computer graphics to create spectacle and a cast of thousands has made it popular once more, particularly for large-scale fantasies such as The Lord of the Rings trilogy. Favourite settings for epic films have included Rome (Ben Hur, Spartacus, The Gladiator and dozens of movies from Italian directors) and Biblical times, in the productions of Cecil B. De Mille. More modern history featured in D. W. Griffith's Birth of a Nation 15 and in the work of the master of the epic form, David Lean's, Lawrence of Arabia 62 and Dr Zhivago 65.

Books: 1984, The Epic Film by Derek Elley. 1992, Epic Films: Casts, Credits and Commentary on over 250 Historical Spectacle Movies by Gary A. Smith.

establishing shot.

Opening shot of sequence, showing location of scene or juxtaposition of characters in action to follow.

exchange.

An American enterprise: a middleman business which for a commission deals with the small exhibitors of an area on behalf of major renters.

exploitation.

A trade word covering all phases of publicity, public relations and promotion.

exploitation film.

A term used to describe low-budget movies of a sensational kind that either focus on some headline-making social phenomenon or attempt to cash in on a current box-office success. Sex, horror and fantasy are the predominant subject matters. Sometimes the title or the poster comes first, and the movie is made to match it. Such films flourished from the early 60s when drive-in cinemas provided double-bills and there was a new youthful audience for rock 'n' roll and biker movies. One of the most successful companies in the field was AIP, run by Samuel Arkoff and Jack Nicholson. The most notable exponent of the form has been producer and director Roger Corman, who began by supplying films for AIP to distribute before setting up his own production companies. Many of today's most successful directors, writers and cinematographers began by making films for Corman. That may, in part, be the reason why in recent years Hollywood studios have been turning out what are in effect big-budget exploitation movies, such as Terminator 2, and have also followed the exploitation movie-makers' habit of recycling their successes, as witness the seemingly endless succession of sequels to A Nightmare on Elm Street, Halloween, etc. As the subject matter of exploitation movies is now part of mainstream cinema, and there are fewer cinemas in which to show such movies, the likelihood is that the day of the exploitation film is nearly over. Its main market is now video, with films bypassing the cinema entirely, or being given very restricted releases in the hope of garnering publicity for their video-release. It is possible, however, that the growth in soft-core pornography for satellite and cable TV will provide its practitioners with a continuing market.

expressionism.
A term indicating the fullest utilization of cinematic resources to give dramatic larger-than-life effect, as in Citizen Kane or, in a different way, The Cabinet of Dr Caligari. In a secondary sense it also allows the fullest expression to be given, by the above means, to states of emotion.

exterior.
A shot taken in normal lighting outside the studio.

extra.
A crowd player with no lines to speak.

fade in.
Gradual emergence of a scene from blackness to full definition; opposite of fade out.

FAMU
stands for Film Faculty of the Academy of Music and Drama, the Prague Film School that was established in 1947 and where the majority of Czech and Slovak film-makers trained. Graduates of the school include Agnieszka HOLLAND, Vojtech JASNY and Emir KUSTURICA.

fast motion:
see ACCELERATED MOTION.

feature film.
Normally accepted to mean a (fictional) entertainment film of more than 3000 feet in length (approx. 34 minutes). Anything less than this is technically a 'short'. NB: In journalism and television a 'feature' usually means a non-fiction article or documentary.

featured players.
Those next in importance to the stars: usually billed after the title.

Federation of Film Societies.
British organization which issues information and arranges screening for film societies; also publishes magazine Film.

festivals.
Since World War II a great many cities round the world have derived excellent publicity from annual film festivals. Producers, distributors and actors in search of accolades now diligently trek each year to Cannes, Venice, Berlin, Mar del Plata, Cork, Edinburgh, Karlovy Vary, San Sebastian, Moscow, etc., while London and New York offer résumés in October.

F.I.D.O.
The Film Industry Defence Organization, a body formed by British renters and exhibitors to prevent old feature films being sold to television. It collapsed in 1964 after five years during which no renter dared sell his product for fear of reprisals.

film noir.
A French phrase meaning dark film. It was probably first applied to the much-loved, downbeat character melodramas of the late 30s, such as Quai des Brumes and Le Jour se Lève, but it soon came to be thought of as applying chiefly to the American urban crime film of the 40s, for instance Double Indemnity, Laura, Scarlet Street (based on a French original) and the versions of Raymond Chandler novels.

Books: 1980 (revised 1988), Film Noir: An Encyclopedic Reference Guide, edited by Alain Silver and Elizabeth Ward. 1984, Dark City: The Film Noir by Spencer Selby.

Films include:

The Maltese Falcon 41. Johnny Eager 42. The Glass Key 42. Double Indemnity 44. Laura 44. Murder, My Sweet/Farewell My Lovely 44. Ministry of Fear 44. Mildred Pierce 45. Scarlet Street 45. Gilda 46. The Big Sleep 46. The Blue Dahlia 46. The Chase 46. Notorious 46. The Postman Always Rings Twice 46. Crossfire 47. Lady in the Lake 47. He Walked by Night 48. The Big Clock 48. Key Largo 48. The Naked City 48. White Heat 49. Follow Me Quietly 49. The Asphalt Jungle 50. D.O.A. 50. Gun Crazy 50. Ace in the Hole 51. M 51. The Prowler 51. Beware, My Lovely 52. Clash by Night 52. Angel Face 53. The Big Heat 53. The Hitch-Hiker 53. Drive a Crooked Road 54. Witness to Murder 54. The Big Knife 55. Kiss Me Deadly 55. The Killing 56. Sweet Smell of Success 57. Touch of Evil 58. The Crimson Kimono 59. Odds against Tomorrow 59. Underworld USA 61. Cape Fear 62. The Manchurian Candidate 62. The Servant 63. Marlowe 69. The Friends of Eddie Coyle 73. Chinatown 74. Farewell My Lovely 75. Taxi Driver 76. The Driver 78. Body Heat 81. The Postman Always Rings Twice 81. Blood Simple 84. Backfire 88. Miller's Crossing 90. The Grifters 90. The Two Jakes 90. Cape Fear 91. The Last Seduction 94.

film society.
A club formed to show high-quality revivals and new films not normally found in public cinemas.

fine grain print.
One of high quality stock (avoiding the coarseness of silver salt deposit); used for making dupe negatives.

first dollar-gross is a contractual agreement in which the participants receive a percentage of a film's gross receipts without any deductions for distribution fees or production costs. It was once limited to a few top stars, but these days there are also producers, directors and writers who command it. As a result, studios complain that they can make little profit on films involving several such talents, and as a result more films will be made featuring no more than one star name. According to the studios, the system also means that producers and directors do not care whether they bring a movie in on budget as their payment depends not on the film's profitability but on box-office receipts. Around 15 producers, including Arnold KOPELSON, Jerry BRUCKHEIMER, Brian GRAZIER and Scott RUDIN, directors such as Steven SPIELBERG, Chris COLUMBUS and Sydney POLLACK, and writers such as Michael CRICHTON and Tom CLANCY are among those who can command first dollar-gross.

flashback.
A break in chronological narrative during which we are shown events of past time which bear on the present situation. The device is as old as the cinema: you could say that Intolerance was composed of four flashbacks. As applied to more commonplace yarns, however, with the flashback narrated by one of the story's leading characters, the convention soared into popularity in the 30s until by 1945 or so a film looked very dated indeed if it was not told in retrospect. In the 50s flashbacks fell into absolute disuse, but are now creeping back into fashion again. Some notable uses are:

The Power and the Glory 33, which was advertised as being in 'Narratage' because Ralph Morgan spoke a commentary over the action. Bride of Frankenstein 35, which was narrated by Elsa Lanchester as Mary Shelley; the gag was that she also played the monster's mate. The Great McGinty 40, in which the flashback construction revealed the somewhat corrupt leading figures finally as penniless, thus mollifying the Hays Office. Rebecca 40, in which the introductory narrative, while revealing that Manderley was to go up in flames, also comforted in the knowledge that the hero and heroine would be saved. Citizen Kane 41, the complex structure of which was so influential that a whole host of pictures followed in which we tried to get at the truth about a character already dead, by questioning those who knew him: cf. The Killers, The Rake's Progress, The Moon and Sixpence, The Bridge of San Luis Rey, The Woman in Question, Letter from an Unknown Woman, Rashomon, The Great Man, even Doctor Zhivago. Hold Back the Dawn 41, in which Charles Boyer as a penniless refugee visited Paramount Studios and sold his story to Mitchell Leisen. The Mummy's Hand 41, in which the ten-minute chunk telling how the mummy came to be buried alive was lifted straight from the 1932 film The Mummy. (Such economies have become commonplace.) Roxie Hart 42, in which George Montgomery told a twenty-year-old tale about a notorious lady who at the end of the film was revealed as the mother of his large family. Ruthless 48, a tortuous Zachary Scott melodrama, reviewed as follows by the British critic C. A. Lejeune:

> Beginning pictures at the end
> Is, I'm afraid, a modern trend;
> But I'd find Ruthless much more winning
> If it could end at the beginning.

Road to Utopia 45, in which Hope and Lamour appeared as old folks telling the story; as a pay-off their 'son' appeared, looking just like Crosby, and Hope told the audience: 'We adopted him.' Passage to Marseilles 44, a complex melodrama ranging from Devil's Island to war-torn Britain; it has flashbacks within flashbacks within flashbacks. In Dead of Night 45, all the characters told supernatural experiences to a psychiatrist, who was then murdered by one of them; the murderer then woke up with no recollection of his nightmare, and proceeded to meet all the other characters again as though for the first time, being caught in an endless series of recurring dreams. Enchantment 47, and later Death of a Salesman 52, and many films up to I Was Happy Here 66, in which characters walk straight out of the present into the past, dispensing with the boring 'I remember' bit. Edward My Son 49 and Teahouse of the August Moon 56, in which characters step out of the play to tell the story to the audience. Dead Reckoning 47, in which Humphrey Bogart confesses the entire plot to a priest. Kind Hearts and Coronets 49, in which the story springs from the memoirs of a murderer being written on the night before his execution. Sunset Boulevard 50, in which the story is told by the dead hero. An Inspector Calls 54, in which a supernatural figure visits a family to make them remember their harsh treatment of a girl who has committed suicide. Repeat Performance 47, in which a desperate husband relives the events of the year, leading up to his predicament, and gets a chance to change the outcome. A Woman's Face 41, in which the story was based on the recollections of eight courtroom witnesses. The Locket and Lust for Gold, in which complex flashbacks framed and divided the action.

If the format is to catch on again it will have to be more deftly used than in two 60s films: Ride Beyond Vengeance, with its completely irrelevant framing story about a census-taking, and Lady L, in which the framing story with the characters as old folks is only marginally less inept than the basic one. Two big-scale musicals, Star! and Funny Girl, have flashbacks with style but little purpose, and Little Big Man barely used its framework except to show that Dustin Hoffman can play a 121-year-old.

fleapit.
An affectionate British term for the kind of tatty little cinema in which, it was sometimes alleged, the management loaned a hammer with each ticket.

floor effects is the term used to describe special effects that occur live, in-camera, during filming rather than being added later; it covers such effects as explosions, bullet impacts, and many types of mechanical effect.

Foley artist.
A sound effects specialist, named after Jack Foley, who is credited for creating the techniques for adding post-production sound effects to enhance the action on the screen.

footage.
Length of a film expressed in feet.

foyer cards.
Elaborate, oversized stills with coloured borders bearing credits, all designed for lobby display. A collection of them by John Kobal was published in 1983: it bore the wince-making title Foyer Pleasure.

frame.
A single picture on a strip of film. At normal sound projection speed, 24 frames are shown each second.

franchise.
A term used to describe a film that provides opportunities for more of the same: that lends itself to sequels or features a character who can appear in several more films, often virtually indistinguishable from the original. There are low-rent franchises, such as Nightmare on Elm Street or Friday the 13th, and big-budget ones such as James Bond, Superman, Batman and Lethal Weapon. Such series have been around since the early days of films, beginning with serials like The Perils of Pauline and such series as Tarzan, but they used to be largely confined to the low-budget end of film-making; these days creating a franchise seems to be the main preoccupation of mainstream Hollywood producers and directors. Apart from the films themselves, franchises also lend themselves to MERCHANDISING. The term derives from business, and results from films being seen as the artistic equivalent of fast food.

freeze frame.
A printing device whereby the action appears to 'freeze' into a still, this being accomplished by printing one frame many times.

frost on movie windows is usually produced from a mixture of Epsom salts and stale beer.

Fujicolor.
Japanese colour film first used in 1955. Fuji's ultra-high-speed colour negative film was given an Academy Award of Merit in 1981, and was used to film the international success Das Boot, directed by Wolfgang Petersen.

gaffer.
The chief electrician on a film, responsible for operating the lights under the instructions of the cinematographer or director of photography.

gaffer tape is a heavy-duty adhesive tape, backed with canvas, which is used to secure objects on film sets.

genny
is a mobile electric generator used to supply power while working on location.

ghosting.
Another word for dubbing, especially when a star apparently singing is actually miming to the voice of the real artist.
See also: DUBBING.

glass shot.
Usually a scenic shot in which part of the background is actually painted on a glass slide held in front of the camera and carefully blended with the action. In this way castles, towns, etc. may be shown on a location where none exist, without the expense of building them.

grading:
the laboratory process of matching the density and brightness of each shot to the next.

grip.
A technician who builds or arranges the film set; a specialized labourer. The chief grip on a picture is usually credited as 'Key Grip'.

Book: 1997, Grip Book: How to Become a Motion Picture Film Technician by Michael G. and Sabrina Uva.

Hale's Tours.
In 1902 at the St Louis Exposition, George C. Hale, ex-chief of the Kansas City Fire Department, had the bright idea of shooting a film from the back of a moving train and screening the result in a small theatre decorated like an observation car. During the screening bells clanged, train whistles sounded and the 'coach' rocked slightly. The idea was so successful that it toured for several years in the United States.

hard ticket.
A phrase used in the 60s to describe film exhibition of the type once called 'road show': separate performances, reserved seats, long runs and high prices.

HDTV,
High Definition Television, the latest development in television technology, which provides a better picture by increasing the resolution to 1,125 lines and having a screen with a similar ratio to the cinema. Future development may be held up by the failure of interested parties to agree on a standard; it seems likely that Europe will set a standard that differs from America and Japan in order to protect European manufacturers of electronic equipment. Japan began HDTV broadcasts in 1991, using an analog system. In the long term, as computers grow in importance in entertainment, it is more likely that the HDTV of the future will be digital. It has already attracted the attention of film-makers: Peter Greenaway used HDTV editing facilities to create the rich imagery of Prospero's Books 91, his version of Shakespeare's The Tempest, and Wim Wenders used it for his Until the End of the World/Bis ans Ende der Welt 92.

hokum.

A word allegedly derived from an Indian word for a stodgy food, it came to mean pure entertainment of a routine kind, usually involving fast action. From it came the adjective 'hokey'. It was not always applied in the pejorative sense: many of most people's favourite films are basically hokum, in that they do not advance the art, but they may show it at its professional best.

The Hollywood Ten.

Alvah Bessie, Herbert Biberman, Lester Cole, Edward Dmytryk, Ring Lardner Jnr, John Howard Lawson, Albert Maltz, Sam Ornitz, Adrian Scott and Dalton Trumbo were the famous band of writers, producers and directors who in 1947 refused to tell the Unamerican Activities Committee whether or not they were communists. All served short prison sentences and had difficulty getting work in Hollywood for several years.

Imax.

A large-screen technology, developed in Canada, that provides an image three times bigger than 70mm systems, and which uses six magnetic soundtracks to drive loudspeakers surrounding its audience. So far there are some 80 cinemas in the world capable of utilizing the system. There is one in Britain, at the National Museum of Photography, Film and Television in Bradford, with a screen 52 x 64 feet, and the British Film Institute plans to open another in London in the near future. Imax was first shown at Expo '70 in Japan, but attracted wider interest following the release in 1992 of a concert film, At the Max, directed by Julien Temple and featuring the rock band The Rolling Stones. The system's name is derived from a combination of the words Image and Maximum.

impressionism.

Generally understood to mean contriving an effect or making a point by building up a sequence from short disconnected shots or scenes.

independent film is the term applied to a film made outside the Hollywood studio system. It can be used of uncommercial films intended for a specialized audience, or of films made by talent that wishes to keep creative control of the project, though many such productions do tend to involve the financial participation of studio-distributors, so that the term is often used indiscriminately to describe small-scale movies. With the breakdown of the old studio system in the late 40s, following the US Supreme Court decision that forced the major studios to get rid of their cinema chains, there has been a plethora of independent producers, though many work within the system. Some directors, such as Hal Hartley, Jim Jarmusch and Shane Meadows, have preferred to work outside the mainstream, and others have done so when major studios have rejected them: Orson Welles raised the finance for his later films, and, in 1997, Robert Duvall used his own money to direct and star in The Apostle after many years of trying to obtain studio backing.

Independent Frame

was a technique devised in the mid-40s for the Rank Organization by art director David Rawnsley to save costs on location shooting by using back and front projection and a stylized, mass production approach to film-making. Rawnsley believed that it would also increase production and free directors' imaginations from literal representations. It was championed by Michael Powell, but in practice its factory methods proved constricting, and involved working out a production in every detail, including camera placements, before filming began. Hailed by Kinematograph Weekly as 'one of the greatest technical advances since the advent of commercial colour photography', it was abandoned when films made by the method were critical and box-office failures. They included Warning to Wantons 49, Floodtide 49, Stop Press Girl 49, and Poet's Pub 49.

independent producer.

One not employed by a studio or distributor, who raises his own finance and makes his own deals. For many years independent productions tended to lack big studio expertise, and Tallulah Bankhead is said to have remarked, after viewing one of them, 'I don't see what that producer has got to be so independent about.' Since the breakup of the big studios in the 50s, however, most productions have been 'independent', and as Billy Wilder remarked, 'You now spend eighty per cent of your time making deals and only twenty per cent making pictures.'

insert shot.

One inserted into a dramatic scene, usually for the purpose of giving the audience a closer look at what the character on screen is seeing, e.g. a letter or a newspaper headline.

interactive films are a goal towards which many seem to be working, though few agree on what is exactly meant by the term. At the moment, it is used to describe computer games on CD-ROM which incorporate filmed sequences using actors, who usually do little more than set the scene or tell the player what to do next. Interaction by the player is usually limited to choosing between one of several alternative actions. In the future, as technology progresses, it may be possible for an audience to interact more directly with what is happening, by altering the outcome of the story to suit its own tastes or by taking over the role of director to give instructions to the participants.

iris.

An adjustable diaphragm in the camera which opens or closes from black like an expanding or contracting circle, giving a similar effect on the screen. So called because it resembles the iris of the human eye.

jump-cutting.

Moving abruptly from one scene to another to make a dramatic point, e.g. from cause to effect.

Kaiju eiga is the term used by the Japanese to describe its genre of monster movies, of which the best known are the Godzilla series.

Kinematograph Renters' Society (KRS).

This British organization was founded by film distributors in 1915 for their own protection and collective bargaining power, chiefly against exhibitors.

Kinescope.

American term for what the British call a telerecording, i.e. a live or tape show transferred for convenience on to tape. The technical quality is seldom satisfactory, and the process was gradually discontinued in favour of electronic tape conversion from one line standard to another.

Kinetoscope.

An early film viewing apparatus (1893) in which a continuous loop of film could be viewed by one person only.

lavender print.

A high-quality fine-grain master positive film, struck from the original negative for the purpose of making duplicates, so called because the emulsion was coated with a lavender-tinted base to reduce halation and scatter in the image.

leader.

Length of blank film joined to the beginning of a reel for lacing up in projector. 'Academy' leaders give a numbered countdown to the start of action.

library shot:

see stock shot.

Lightwave 3D

is a relatively low-cost computer graphics program, originally developed by NewTek for the Amiga computer in conjunction with the Video Toaster hardware, which is used to create animation and special effects in TV programmes and movies. It has been used in Men in Black (for the opening sequence of the dragonfly), Contact, The Jackal, Titanic, The Fifth Element, Mortal Kombat II, Spawn, and Tomorrow Never Dies.

Lightworks

is a computer-based digital editing system, one of the two, with Avid Media Composer, that is rapidly becoming the preferred method of editing film. It was first used in 1992 by David Brenner and Sally Menke on Heaven and Earth, directed by Oliver Stone.

The Lion's Share,

by Bosley Crowther. A lively history of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company, written in 1957 by the critic of the New York Times.

location.

A shooting site away from the studio, not encouraged in the days of the moguls, but considered essential in the cause of realism as soon as the studio system broke up.

long shot.

One taken from a distance, usually to establish a scene or a situation but sometimes for dramatic effect. Opposite of close-up.

looping

is the term used to describe the process of dubbing dialogue onto the soundtrack of a film, usually because the original sound was not of sufficiently good quality, owing to extraneous noises caused by shooting on location. The scene to be dubbed is contained on a short loop of film joined together so that it can be projected continuously in order that the actors can match exactly their speaking of the new dialogue with the old. The method is also used for adding dialogue in another language to a foreign film. The process is also known as dubbing, post-synchronization or post-synching and, more recently, as ADR, a recent technical improvement that does away with the need for actual looping.

losing the light.

What happens during outdoor shooting when the natural light of the sun is obscured and filming comes to a stop.

lot.

A term used to cover all areas of a studio where filming takes place, and also where sets are built and stored.

m and e track.

A sound track giving music and effects but not dialogue, necessary in dubbing stages.

Macguffin

(aka McGuffin).

Term invented by writer Angus MacPhail, and associated with the films of Alfred Hitchcock, to describe a plot device of little intrinsic interest, such as stolen papers, that triggers the action.

make-up.

A general term for the cosmetic application to the body of materials intended to enhance or change the appearance, from glamorization to the creation of monsters.

Manga.

Japanese term for comics, which translates as 'irresponsible pictures'. The word has come to be applied in the West to Japanese animated films owing to the release of such films on the Manga video label and the appearance of fan magazines devoted to the style. Many of the best-selling comic books have been turned into animated films, which are more properly known as anime.

mask.

A technical device for blocking out part of the image. Masking is the black cloth which surrounds the actual cinema screen: these days it has to be electrically adjustable to encompass the various screen sizes.

matt or matte.

A technique (sometimes known as travelling matt) for blending actors in the studio with location or trick scenes. The actor is photographed against a non-reflective background (e.g. black velvet) and a high-contrast negative of this image is combined with the desired background. Thus men can move among animated monsters, and ghosts can slowly disappear.

medium shot.

One taking in the full body of the actor, not so close as a close-up, not so far off as a long shot.

merchandising.

The means of exploiting films and personalities through souvenirs, toys and other consumable items has always brought in considerable revenue to canny film-makers, often more than the film itself. Film editions of novels, illustrated with stills from the movie, and novelizations of film scripts were being published from the early 20s onwards, but Walt Disney was among the first to realize the commercial possibilities of exploiting his animated characters, with such goods as a Mickey Mouse watch, a trend culminating in the opening of an international chain of shops selling Disney goods from the mid-80s onwards. Television accelerated the process, with such personalities as Hopalong Cassidy appearing on everything from lunch boxes to pillow cases. Disney's shops were followed in the 90s by Warner opening a store merchandising Bugs Bunny and other cartoon heroes. But it is only in comparatively recent times that films have been primarily designed to sell a range of toys or to advertise particular products. Product placement, in which cameras linger on a particular range of footwear or obtrusively feature a certain type of soft drink, has become a means of gaining as much income as possible from a film. It was no accident that E.T. munched on M&Ms rather than, say, jelly-babies. E.T. still remains one of the most successful merchandising operations – in Britain alone, the wholesaler of E.T. merchandise guaranteed sales of £1 million – together with the Star Wars movies, which shifted around $2 billion of toys and other paraphernalia now gathering dust in cupboards. Occasionally, merchandisers do get caught short. The makers of Forrest Gump did not believe that the film lent itself to merchandising opportunities. Once it was a runaway hit in America, they changed their minds and began producing Forrest Gump goods, including a book of Gump sayings. In 1995, the toy company Mattel sold $450m of Disney products. The amount of money involved was revealed in a proposed deal in 1996 between the fast-food chain McDonald's and Disney, in which McDonald's would pay Disney $100m a year for the rights to 14 to 17 film and television features, a sponsorship of Disney's projected Animal Kingdom theme park, and video promotions. It was estimated that the cost of the deal, including promotional advertising, would amount to $2 billion over a 10-year period.

The Method

is a style of acting derived initially from the teachings and writings of the Russian actor and director Konstantin Stanislavsky, as refracted through the Actors' Studio in New York, which was co-founded by director Elia Kazan and later dominated by the teaching of Lee Strasberg.

See also: The Actors' Studio.

moguls.

The name given half-affectionately to the men who ran Hollywood in the golden days of the studios: Mayer, Thalberg, Selznick, Goldwyn, Warner, Zanuck, Zukor, Cohn, etc. The best capsule guide to them is Philip French's The Movie Moguls (1970).

montage.

In the most general sense, the whole art of editing or assembling scenes into the finished film. Specifically, 'a montage' is understood as an impressionistic sequence of short dissolve-shots either bridging a time gap, setting a situation or showing the background to the main story. Classic montages which come to mind are in The Battleship Potemkin, The Roaring Twenties and Citizen Kane.

MOS

Mysterious Hollywood script abbreviation indicating a silent shot. Allegedly it derived from the early 30s, when one of the many immigrant German directors called for a scene 'mit out sound'.

motion capture is a method of capturing in real time the actual movements of a person and transferring them to a computer-generated character, from a rabbit to Godzilla.

Motion Picture Alliance for the Preservation of American Ideals was an organization set up in 1943 in opposition to the unionization of the film industry and the promulgation of left-wing opinions. Its founding members included directors Sam Wood, Clarence Brown and King Vidor, actors Clark Gable, Gary Cooper, Adolphe Menjou, Charles Coburn, Barbara Stanwyck, Robert Taylor and Ward Bond, and writers Hedda Hopper and Ayn Rand, who wrote for it A Screen Guide for Americans. Later members included Irene Dunne and Ginger Rogers, and it had the support of the anti-union Walt Disney and the newspaper tycoon William Randolph Hearst. Its statement of principles was: 'we resent the growing impression that this industry is made up of, and dominated, by communists, radicals and crackpots'. The Alliance asked for a congressional investigation of communism in Hollywood and also invited HUAC (the House Un-American Activities Committee) to come to Hollywood, which resulted in the interrogation of many film-makers, the imprisonment of what became known as The Hollywood Ten, and the blacklisting by the studios of those suspected of left-wing opinions. It had lost all influence and ceased to exist by the mid-50s.

Motion Picture Association of America

A trade guild in which distributors meet to set tariffs and deal with complaints, also set a censorship code.

Moviola.

A portable editing machine which enables the user to run film backwards and forwards at various speeds and to examine it frame by frame while viewing it on a small screen.

MOW.

Acronym for a movie made for television, deriving from ABC's Movie of the Week, consisting of 90-minute dramas, which ran from 1968 to 1975. The first TV movie was probably See How They Run, made by Universal TV and aired on NBC in October 1964, directed by David Lowell Rich and starring John Forsythe, Leslie Nielsen, George Kennedy, Franchot Tone and Jane Wyatt. Some earlier TV dramas from the 50s, when television was live, were later remade as films, the most notable example being Marty.

MPEG

stands for the Motion Picture Experts Group and is a standard for the digital compression of images. The method compares and saves only the changes between one frame of a film or animation and another, thus enabling 72 minutes of film to be recorded on a five-inch compact disk. A refinement of the system, MPEG II, is being prepared.

multiplane.

A word introduced by Walt Disney to explain his new animation process for The Old Mill 37. Instead of building up a drawing by laying 'cells' directly on top of each other, a slight illusion of depth was obtained by leaving space between the celluloid images of foreground, background, principal figure, etc. Special Academy Award 1938.

mute print.

One with only the picture, no sound track.

National Film Archive.

A government-financed museum of films of artistic and historical value. Operated by the British Film Institute.

The National Film Board of Canada was set up in 1939, with John Grierson at its head, to show Canada's face to the world. Many excellent documentaries ensued, not to mention the brilliant animation films of Norman McLaren, but by the end of the 60s the Board's fortunes were at a lower ebb and its reputation declined.

The National Film Finance Corporation was founded in 1949 to provide loans for film production, but began to withdraw its facilities in the early 70s, at a time when financial encouragement had never been more needed for British production.

The National Film Theatre on London's South Bank is an extension of the British Film Institute; founded in 1951, it runs a daily repertory in three theatres of films of all nationalities and types.

neo-realism is a term mainly applied to the Italian post-war films which seemed to present a fresh and vivid kind of social realism. The essentials were real locations and at least a proportion of amateur actors. The most famous neo-realist film is Bicycle Thieves.

'new wave'/'nouvelle vague'.

Term used (by themselves) for a group of new, exploring young French directors towards the end of the 50s: François Truffaut, Jean-Luc Godard, Louis Malle, Alain Resnais, etc. As their talents were widely divergent, the term meant very little. It was coined by Françoise Giroud.

newsreels

were part of the very earliest cinema programme, and the nine-minute round up of topical events filmed by roving cameramen was a feature of programmes in cinemas throughout the world until the mid-60s, when it was clear that the newsreel had been replaced by television. Most newsreel companies have looked after their libraries, and the result is a vivid history of the twentieth century, frequently plundered by producers of compilation films.

nickelodeon.

A humorous term applied to early American cinemas once they had become slightly grander than the converted stores which were used for the purpose at the turn of the century.

The Nine Old Men

was the name Walt Disney gave to his most trusted animators, who had joined the studio by the mid-30s, before it began feature film production. They were: Les Clark, Marc Davis, Ollie Johnson, Milt Kahl, Ward Kimball, Eric Larson, John Lounsbery, Wolfgang Reitherman, Frank Thomas.

nitrate.

Until 1950 film stock had a nitrate base, which helped give a splendid sheen, but was very inflammable. The change was made to safety stock, which burns much more slowly, but black-and-white films at least never looked so good again.

non-theatrical.

A descriptive adjective usually applied to film showings at which there is no paid admission on entrance, e.g. schools, clubs, etc. Some distributors apply the term to all 16mm showings.

opticals.

A general term indicating all the visual tricks such as wipes, dissolves, invisibility, mattes, etc., which involve laboratory work.

original version.

In European countries, this indicates a foreign language film which is sub-titled and not dubbed.

'Oscar'.

An affectionate name given to the Academy Award statuette; reputedly because when the figure was first struck in 1927 a secretary said: 'It reminds me of my Uncle Oscar.'

pan.

A shot in which the camera rotates horizontally. Also used as a verb.

Panavision.

A wide-screen system which outdistanced CinemaScope because of its improved anamorphic lens. Super-Panavision and Panavision 70 are 'road show' processes involving projection on wide film: in the first case the film is shot on 65mm, in the second blown up after photography. Great confusion was caused in the 70s by the company insisting on the credit 'filmed with Panavision equipment' even on non-anamorphic films.

paparazzi

is the term used to describe freelance photographers who stalk celebrities to take unposed photographs of them. It is derived from the character of the photographer Paparazzo in Fellini's La Dolce Vita, who was based on the Italian photographer Tazio Secchiaroli.

paper prints were made of most films between 1895 and 1912 because the US Copyright Act did not allow for celluloid. This quirk of the law meant the preservation of hundreds of early titles which could otherwise have been lost, and in the 60s they were all copied for the archives of the Motion Picture Academy on to 16mm film.

Patsy Awards

are annual awards given to the top animal performers in movies and, from 1958, television by the American Humane Association, in co-operation with the Hollywood studios. The title is an acronym for Picture Animal Top Star of the Year. The first winner, in 1951 at a ceremony with Ronald Reagan as the master of ceremonies, was Francis the mule, who also won awards in 1952, 1954, 1955, 1956 and 1957.

peplum.

Term to describe Italian historical epics, which are also known as 'sword and sandal'. Both expressions relate to the costumes of the participants, 'peplum' referring to the short skirts worn by both the men and the women. Such films were at their height in the early 60s, sparked off by the success in the US of Ben-Hur and of Hercules, made in 1957 by Pietro Francisci and starring Steve Reeves, which was promoted heavily by Joseph E. Levine. The genre in Italy goes back to Cabiria, made in 1914, starring Bartolomeo Pagano as Maciste. The 60s cycle was notable for using mainly American muscle-men to play its heroes and for employing many talents, such as Sergio Leone, who went on to make the even more popular spaghetti westerns. See also: EPIC FILM.

persistence of vision.

The medical explanation for our being able to see moving pictures. Twenty-four ordered still pictures are shown to us successively each second, and our sense of sight is slow enough to merge them into one continuous action. The retina of the eye retains each still picture just long enough for it to be replaced by another only slightly different.

pilot:

in television terminology, a film which is made as a trial, to see whether a series on the same premise will be ordered.

pin screen animation:

a curious and short-lived means of animation by photographing pins pushed through a rubber sheet. The shadows caused by the varying height of the pins gives the single picture. The best example is Alexieff's Night on Bald Mountain 33.

pink movies

– pinku eiga – was the name given to the genre of low-budget erotic films that emerged in Japan during the mid-60s and became extremely popular, accounting for as much as half the studios' output. The most controversial director was Tetsuji Takechi, whose Black Snow/Kuroi Yuki in 1965 was the subject of a failed prosecution for public indecency. Other directors included Seijun Suzuki and Koji Wakamatsu. The films were notable for scenes of rape, torture and voyeurism. See also: ROMAN PORNO.

Pixelvision.

Title given to films made by a group of experimental film-makers using a Fisher-Price PXL 2000 video camera. Made of moulded plastic, with a fixed lens or 'image receptor', and recording on standard audio cassettes, the camera produces images that tend to fade rapidly, are composed of easily visible pixels, like an over-enlarged computer image, and blur if the camera is moved. It was made as a toy for Christmas 1987 and discontinued soon after; working cameras are now much sought after. So far, Michael Almereyda has made a 56-minute feature, Another Girl Another Planet, using the camera; shorts made with it include Glass Jaw 91, directed by Michael O'Reilly, Don from Lakewood 91, directed by Pat Tierney and Eric Saks, Elegy 91, directed by Joe Gibbons, It Wasn't Love 91, directed by Sadie Benning, and Black and White/Grain 93, directed by Stuart Sherman.

Pixilation.

A method of stop-motion animation applied to real objects or people. The shots are taken in a camera that exposes one frame at a time, with the person moving slightly between each shot. Animating people frame by frame can be a simple way of achieving special effects, such as flying, or to produce jerky, comic results. It was used to good effect in The Secret Adventures of Tom Thumb 93, a feature-length film by Dave Borthwick which combined animated and human figures, and by Japanese director Shinya Tsukamoto in his fantasies Tetsuo: The Iron Man 91 and Tetsuo II: Bodyhammer 91. The effect can also be achieved by editing normally photographed action.

Possessory credit is the term used for the director's credit that gives him sole credit for the film, usually in the form 'A Film By ', as in 'A Film By Alan Smithee', or, sometimes, 'An Alan Smithee Film'. It has caused resentment and protests among screenwriters that directors should claim sole credit, encapsulated in a remark by writer William Bowers, who was once out for a walk with a friend when he pointed out, 'That's Otto Preminger's house. Or, as we say in Hollywood, "A House by Otto Preminger".' The view of most directors reflects the AUTEUR approach, and was best expressed by David Lean: 'We directors who have possessory credits have hard earned them over many years for good reason. We are paid big money because we can bring audience-pulling star quality to our films... We bring it by our personal influence over all, including the writer.'

post-synchronization.

Adding sound, by dubbing, to visuals already shot. Sound can only rarely be recorded at the time of shooting because of extraneous noise and requirements of volume, pitch, etc.; actors must usually repeat their lines in accordance with their image on screen.

pratfall.

Something in which all silent comedians were skilled: the art of falling on one's fundament without getting hurt.

pre-credits sequence.

It has recently become fashionable to start films with an explosive opening scene, sometimes running seven or eight minutes, before the titles appear. This now over-worked device, used by almost all American TV series, is generally traced back to Rommel, Desert Fox 51, which had a long pre-credits sequence showing a commando raid; but the titles come quite late in The Egg and I 47, and even in Destry Rides Again 39 there is nearly a minute of shooting before they appear; while in The Magnificent Ambersons 42 they are not seen at all, only spoken at the end of the picture.

More recently, Cruising and Papillon are among the movies to place all their credits at the end.

prequel.

The opposite of a sequel, i.e. a film showing events which happened before one already known. The first film prequel may have been Another Part of the Forest, which came after The Little Foxes but described events before it. The word came into being in the late 70s with the production of Butch and Sundance: The Early Days. A game rapidly sprang up in which one had to supply prequel titles for famous films. Among them were Mr Blandings Applies for Planning Permission; The Boy Who Would Be Prince; Friday Night Slight Temperature; Destry Dismounts; and Hello Mr Chips.

preview:

see SNEAK PREVIEW.

Prizmacolour.

An early American colour process used for The Glorious Adventure 21. Crude in effect, in using orange and turquoise filters, it anticipated Cinecolor.

Producer.

On the stage this term may be equivalent to 'director', i.e. the man who actually marshals the actors and whose conception of the show is supreme. In the film world it almost always indicates the man in control of the budget, whether an independent or working for a big studio. He controls all personnel including the director, and though the film may originally be his overall conception, he normally delegates his artistic responsibilities, remaining responsible chiefly for the film's ultimate commercial success or failure.

production designer.

Technician responsible for the overall 'look' of a film, ranging from actual set design to photographic style.

production manager.

The person responsible for administrative details of a production, e.g. salaries, transport, departmental expenditure.

programmer.
Trade term for a routine feature of only moderate appeal, likely to form half a bill; similar to 'co-feature'.

propaganda:
see DOCUMENTARY.

quota.
By Act of Parliament renters were obliged to sell, and exhibitors to show, a varying proportion of British-made films. There has not always been enough British talent to fill the necessary number of releases: hence the notorious 'quota quickies' of the 20s and 30s, and much second-feature material, which however bad could invariably get a circuit booking providing it had a British quota ticket. The normal quota which an exhibitor has to fill is 30% for features, 25% for supporting programmes. This contrasts markedly with independent television contractors, whose programmes must be 86% British.

ratio (screen):
see ASPECT RATIO.

reduction print:
one optically reduced from 35mm to 16mm.

reel.
A loose term generally taken to mean 1,000 feet of 35mm film, i.e. the amount which would fit on to a reel of the old-fashioned kind, running about ten minutes. Thus short films were spoken of as two-reelers, three-reelers, etc., and charged accordingly. But modern 35mm projector spools will take 2,000 feet and sometimes 3,000 feet, so the term is slowly falling into disuse ... especially as 16mm projectors have always taken spools of either 400, 800 or 1,600 feet.

road show.
A term which used to mean a travelling show; latterly in cinema terms it indicates the special, prolonged pre-release at advanced prices of a big-screen attraction, e.g. My Fair Lady or The Sound of Music, which may in this way run for years in a big city before being released to local theatres.

roman porno
is the term used to describe Japanese erotic films of the 70s, which grew out of PINK MOVIES. While the showing of pubic hair is forbidden, the films are sadistic in tone, marked by scenes of rape and cruelty to women.

rough cut.
The first assembly of shots in the order in which they will be seen in the finished film, used to show those involved what work still needs to be done.

running shot.
One in which the camera, mounted on wheels, keeps pace with its subject, a moving actor or vehicle.

running speed.
In silent days, 35mm ran through the projector at 16 frames per second or 60 feet per minute. When sound came, this was amended for technical reasons to 24 frames per second or 90 feet per minute. No normal 35mm projector can now operate at silent speed, which is why silent films look jerky when you see them (unless a special and very expensive laboratory process is adopted). It is said that many films made in the later silent period were in fact intended for showing at about 20 frames per second, and as machines were variable this was easily accomplished: such films now seem unduly slow when projected at 16 frames per second.
See: SLOW MOTION, ACCELERATED MOTION.

running time.
The length of a film, usually expressed in minutes; if in feet, one must say whether 35mm or 16mm. In European television, for technical reasons, films run faster by one frame in 25, so a 75m film runs only 72m, a 100m film only 96m, etc. Films tended to be shorter and crisper in the 30s, especially when double bills came in; but now nobody seems to have control over self-indulgent directors.

rushes.
A day's shooting on film when it comes back from the laboratories and is ready for viewing by those involved.

safety film took over from nitrate stock in 1950-51. It burns much more slowly and therefore reduces fire risk, but its acetate base also reduces the possibility of gleaming black-and-white photography, tending instead to a matt look.

scenario:
see SHOOTING SCRIPT.

score.
The music composed for a film.

scream queen
is a term used to describe an actress who is frequently cast as the glamorous heroine of horror movies, from her accustomed reaction to peril. The first was Fay Wray in King Kong. Notable ones since have been Barbara Steele and Linnea Quigley.

screenplay:
see SHOOTING SCRIPT.

second unit director.
One who directs not the actors but the spectacular location sequences, stunt men, scenic backgrounds, etc., and is thus sometimes responsible for a film's most striking effects; e.g. Andrew Marton's (and Yakima Canutt's) chariot race sequence in Ben Hur 59.

Sensurround.
A system evolved in 1975 for Earthquake, this dispensable gimmick involved the augmentation of violent action on screen by intense waves of high decibel sound, enough almost to crack the ribs. It never caught on except as a big city come-on.

sequence:
a film paragraph, usually starting and ending with a fade to black.

Sequence.
Cinema magazine of the Oxford University Film Society, which flourished briefly in the mid-40s and early 50s. Its leading lights included Lindsay Anderson, Penelope Houston, Gavin Lambert, and Karel Reisz. Many of its aesthetic ideas influenced FREE CINEMA, which involved many of the same participants.

shooting script.
This differs from a screenplay, which concentrates on dialogue, in that it includes camera directions and breaks up the script into shots; it is an instruction manual for technicians rather than a work of art.

shorts are officially any films running less than 3000 feet (about 33 minutes). In the 30s most programmes consisted of a feature and several one-reelers, but the big studios first found shorts uneconomic and then closed down altogether. Shorts fell into the hands of independent producers, who found that the longer they made them the more money they could demand, even if the quality was not high. Double-feature programmes also contributed to their demise.

silent films
began to grow unfashionable during 1927, though for eighteen months or so producers continued to put out so-called 'silent versions' of their talkies: these versions were unspeakably bad, as the new talkies used very little camera movement and a great deal of dialogue which had to be given in sub-titles. By 1930 silents had all but disappeared, with exceptions such as Flaherty's Tabu 32, Chaplin's City Lights 31, and Modern Times 36, and an unsuccessful 1952 experiment called The Thief, which eschewed dialogue though it did have a music and effects track. In 1976 Mel Brooks produced Silent Movie, a comic extravaganza with no dialogue.

16mm.
A 'sub-standard' gauge to which feature films are reduced for private hire and in many countries for television. Many sponsored documentaries not intended for cinema showing are filmed in 16mm, as are television news and features. The smaller frame and greater magnification do not always lead to unsatisfactory results, but the dangers are obvious.

sleeper:
a trade term for a film which suddenly does much better at the box office than was expected.

slides
A feature of film-going in nickelodeon days was the decorative slides used between the brief entertainments.

slow motion.
An effect obtained by running the camera faster than usual. When the film passes through the projector at normal speed, each movement appears slower, as it occupies more frames of film. For scientific purposes (e.g. recording the growth of plants) cameras are so arranged that a single frame of film is exposed at regular intervals, thus giving an impression of accelerated growth.

Smell-O-Vision.
A process initiated in 1960 by which evocative smells were pumped to the cinema audience through pipes leading to individual seats in the auditorium. Bottles of scent were held on a rotating drum, and the process triggered by a signal on the film itself. Scent of Mystery was the only film to be made in Smell-O-Vision.

sneak preview.
An unheralded tryout of a film at a public performance, usually in place of a second feature. Intended to gauge audience reaction, it is often followed by considerable re-editing before the official première.

snow, when needed for a movie scene, has been known to consist of a variety of ingredients including bleached cornflakes, soapflakes, chopped feathers, shredded asbestos, balsa chips, sawdust, and a wide range of plastic products.

soap opera.
A term used disparagingly of TV domestic drama serials. Originated because such offerings were invariably sponsored by the big soap companies who needed to attract the housewife.

soft focus.
A diffused effect used in photographing ageing leading ladies who can't stand good definition; also frequently used for exotic shots in musical numbers, etc.

Sony Dynamic Digital Sound.
A system for recording and playing back sound digitally, launched in 1993. It is one of three competing digital sound systems, the others being Dolby SR-D and Universal's DTS.

sound.
The first really successful experiments with synchronized sound had the track on gramophone discs; cylinders were also employed. These systems obviously led to maddening breakdowns, and editing was next to impossible. Fox, using the De Forrest Phonofilm system combined with a German process called Tri-Ergon, contrived in 1926 to record sound directly on to film next to the picture, forming the first soundtrack. It was this system which by 1930 had superseded the others and is still with us. In a reversion to the past, though, some modern systems feature soundtracks recorded on compact discs synchronized with the film to provide better-quality sound.

soundies
were short, musical films lasting around three minutes that were made for playing in juke-boxes equipped with a screen. In the early 40s, the Mills Panoram Soundies machines were to be found in thousands of American bars and hotel lobbies. Some five films a week were made, usually featuring the latest recordings by popular entertainers and jazz singers and musicians. Their popularity waned by the mid-40s, and many soundies were acquired by television companies or issued on 16mm film.

special effects:
a general term covering the many tricks of film-making which cannot be achieved by direct photography: optical wipes, dissolves, sub-titles, invisibility, mattes, etc.

star is a word coined by some forgotten publicist in the early years of the century who presumably touted his leading actors as twinkling heavenly lights. It came in the 30s to mean any actor who was billed above the title; but nowadays real stars are hard to find, and the word is generally applied only to those thought likely actually to draw patrons to the box office.

stereophony:
hearing sound from more than one source at the same time, a gimmick used to 'put you in the picture' by surrounding you with loudspeakers when CinemaScope was first introduced.

stereoscopy:
viewing in three dimensions, usually accomplished by watching through polaroid glasses, two films projected one on top of the other after being photographed from slightly different angles corresponding to one's two eyes.

stock shot.
One not made at the time of filming but hired from a library. It can be either newsreel, specially shot material such as planes landing at an airport, views of a city, etc., or spectacular material lifted from older features (e.g. Storm over the Nile 55 had a large proportion of action footage from the original Four Feathers 39, and the same shots have turned up in several other films including Master of the World 61 and East of Sudan 64).

stop motion.
The method by which much trick photography is effected: the film is exposed one frame at a time, allowing time for rearrangement of models, etc. between shots, and thus giving the illusion in the completed film of motion by something normally inanimate. The monsters in King Kong 33 are the supreme example of this method. The best-known practitioners of the art have been Willis O'BRIENand Ray HARRYHAUSEN. The method is being supplanted these days by a mix of animatronics (electronically controlled puppets) and computer-generated graphics.
See also: TIME-LAPSE PHOTOGRAPHY.

storyboard.
A means of pre-planning a sequence of individual shots for a film by means of a series of drawings, somewhat like a comic-strip. Some directors, notably Alfred Hitchcock, prepare an entire film, and the necessary camera set-ups, by means of a storyboard. Others use it to work out in advance the likely problems, or the best positions for the camera, in action sequences. Storyboard artists can play a creative role in movie-making by suggesting shots or camera angles and movements that may not have occurred to the director.

stretch-printing.
The reason silent films look jerky is that they were shot at 16 frames a second whereas modern sound projectors operate at 24, making everything move half as fast again as normal. One means of overcoming this jerkiness is stretch-printing in the lab: every second frame is printed twice. This still gives a curious effect, as for every two frames slower than normal sound speed we still get one frame faster.

sub-titles in silent days came after the scene in which the actors mouthed the dialogue. When talkies came the less cumbersome method was evolved of superimposing the dialogue at the foot of the screen, which considerably sharpened up the audience's reading speed.

Super-8.
Improved 8mm film which can take a soundtrack, therefore replacing the old 9.5mm.

superdynamation.
A term coined by Ray Harryhausen for his method of animating rubber monsters.

superimpose:
to place one image on top of another, usually during a dissolve when one is fading out and the other fading in.

supervisor.
In Hollywood in the early 30s, a studio name for the assigned producer.

synchronization.

The arranging of sound and picture to match. Only rarely is this done by shooting them simultaneously; the normal process involves re-recording and much laboratory work to give the optimum results.

Synthespian:

a term to describe computer-generated actors, copyrighted by the special effects company Kleiser-Walczak Construction Co.

take.

A take is a single recording of a scene during the making of a film. Sometimes one take is enough; but directors have been known to shoot as many as 50 before they are satisfied with the results.

teaser.

A poster, trailer, or other piece of publicity which whets the appetite for a forthcoming film without giving full details about it, sometimes not even the title. The term was also applied to early pornographic films 1900-05, e.g. Lovers Interrupted, Making Love in a Hammock, etc.

Technicolor.

Colour process which existed from 1915, though the various improvements virtually amounted to completely new versions. The first had separate red and green films projected simultaneously; the second combined them on panchromatic film; the third used dye transfer. In 1932 came the three-strip process which gave the rich full tones familiar to filmgoers of the 40s, but a link with Eastmancolor in 1951 made it difficult to pick out Technicolor from any other process. In 1997, the company announced that it was bringing out a new photomechanical, or dye transfer, system which would improve the quality of prints. The method was used for the prints of Becky Sharp in 1935 but was discontinued in the 70s when it was thought that the photochemical process was better.

Technirama.

A process similar to Vistavision for producing extreme clarity of image.

Techniscope.

A process saving money by printing two wide images one below the other on the old 4 x 3 frame, then blowing them up to CinemaScope size; the results were awful.

telecine:

the machine which enables film to be 'projected' electronically on television. Theoretically it is capable of panning from side to side across the CinemaScope image, picking out the optimum sections of each scene, but the results are usually dire unless the process has been carefully rehearsed.

telephoto lens.

One which brings far-off objects apparently very close, but has the disadvantage of distorting and flattening perspective.

temp track is an existing musical track sometimes used by a director while preparing a rough cut of a film, before specially composed music is available.

tentpole movie.

One that can support many other commercial activities, such as toys and clothes associated with the film. Among the most successful have been the Star Wars trilogy and the two Jurassic Park movies, whose merchandising profits exceeded one billion dollars. The greatest exponent of such an approach to film-making is Disney, whose animated features and characters have inspired theme parks and a vast variety of merchandise sold in its own stores.

35mm.

The standard commercial film gauge or width.

3-D.

Three-dimensional film-making had been tried in 1935 by MGM, as a gimmick involving throwaway paper glasses with one red and one green eyepiece to match the double image on the screen. In 1953, Hollywood really got the idea that this device would save an ailing industry, and a number of cheap exploitation pictures were shot in 3-D before anyone got down to the practical problem of renting out and collecting the necessary polaroid spectacles, which threw cinema managers into fits. Bwana Devil was an awful picture; Man in the Dark and Fort Ti were a shade better, except that the action kept stopping for something to be hurled at the audience; House of Wax, a Warner horror remake of The Mystery of the Wax Museum, had better production values and seemed to catch on with the public. All the studios began to make 3-D films – Kiss Me Kate, The Charge at Feather River, Dial M for Murder, Miss Sadie Thompson, Sangaree – but by the time these were ready, interest had shifted to Fox's new CinemaScope process, which although it gave no illusion of depth was at least a different shape and didn't need glasses. Nor did it entail such problems as running both projectors at once, with consequent intervals every twenty minutes; or long pauses when the film broke in order to mutilate the second copy in precisely the same way; or one machine running a little slower than the other, with gradual loss of synchronization. The remaining 3-D films were released 'flat', and the industry breathed a sigh of relief. So did the critics, who had wondered whether they would ever again see a film which did not involve frequent violent action. The Russians did claim at the time that they were inventing a 3-D process which would not require the use of glasses, but we are still waiting for that. In 1967 Arch Oboler made The Bubble in 3-D and in 1970-71 there was a brief revival of interest in the process as a promotion gimmick for cheap pornographic films. It flared up again in the early 80s as a medium for horror films and such shockers as Jaws 3-D, while Hitchcock's 1954 Dial M for Murder was shown for the first time in the process.

Books: 1983, Amazing 3-D by Hal Morgan and Dan Symmes. 1989, 3-D Movies by R. M. Hayes.

tilt.

An upward or downward camera movement.

time-lapse photography.

The method by which one can obtain such fascinating results as a flower growing and blooming before one's eyes. The camera is set up and regulated to expose one frame of film at pre-arranged intervals.
See also: STOP MOTION.

tracking shot.

One taken with a moving camera, usually forwards or backwards, and often on an actual track.

travelling matte:

a masking film overlaid with another in the optical printer so as to produce a trick effect.

treatment.

The first expansion of a script idea into sequence form, giving some idea of how the story is to be told, i.e. with examples of dialogue, camera angles, etc.

turnaround

is what happens to a film project when a studio decides that it is no longer a commercial proposition, a situation that the trade paper Variety has defined as 'the development purgatory where projects go when studios want to dump them'. Turnaround happens not only when producers grow disenchanted with a script, but also when new executives replace old and ritually kill off all the projects approved by their predecessors, or when a star or director decides to drop out. One studio will occasionally buy from another a script in turnaround, sometimes when executives move studios and want to take some pet project with them. Among subsequent hit movies put into turnaround are E.T. – the Extra-Terrestrial, which was picked up by Universal from Columbia, Jaws, which went from MGM to Universal, Star Wars, which went from Universal to Twentieth Century-Fox, Home Alone, which went from Warner to Twentieth Century-Fox, The Addams Family, which went from Orion to Paramount, Forrest Gump, which went from Warner to Paramount, and Speed, which went from Paramount to Twentieth Century-Fox.

underground films

are generally thought of as those made cheaply to espouse a cause or experimentally at a director's whim, commercial success being a secondary consideration. The most successful underground film-maker, breaking through into box-office success, was Andy Warhol, with Paul Morrissey directing the later films that capitalized on Warhol's name. Other influential American underground film-makers include Kenneth Anger, Stan Brakhage, Ed Emshwiller, Gregory Markopoulos, Jonas Mekas, Jack Smith.

Book: 1969, Underground Film: A Critical History by Parker Tyler.

variable area, variable density.

Types of soundtrack. Variable area appears as a spiky symmetrical line (like a long folded ink blot). Variable density is the same width throughoutbut with horizontal bars of varying light andshade.

vaudeville is the American equivalent of the British music hall. Eight or ten variety acts, booked separately, formed a two-hour bill for the family. Burlesque was different, being for adults only.

video discs operate similarly to video cassettes, but instead of being stored on tape the information is mounted on a disc similar to a gramophone record.

videocassettes

are a means of recording and watching movies and programmes by means of a video recorder linked to a television set. During the 70s, they were regarded as equipment with little popular appeal, as it was thought that nobody would want to buy or rent old movies. Their widespread acceptance, particularly in the United States of America, came about because they provided a cheap way to make and distribute pornographic films, which people could watch in the privacy and comfort of their own homes. As the cost of video recorders dropped, they became standard equipment in homes next to the television set, and by the mid-80s films could be hired for a few dollars, or a pound, a night, and even bought for little more than the cost of a cinema seat. There was a great deal of fuss about porn and video nasties, but the great surge in their popularity was due to the fact that people simply wanted to see newish movies at home. Film studios at first regarded videocassettes with suspicion, concerned about piracy and losing audiences. But they proved to be a way of making money from old movies that would otherwise be left rotting on shelves. Box-office hits could recoup much extra income from the sales of videocassettes: the amount of money made on video sales of Disney's Toy Story covered its production costs. In recent times, videocassettes have lost out to competition from newer and more advanced technologies, especially DVD (Digital Video Discs). At first they survived, because they also provided a means, then lacking in rival systems, of recording programmes, including old movies, from television broadcasts. But the advent of DVD recorders and personal video recorders equipped with hard discs at the beginning of the present century made them obsolete. In mid-1998 (before the video release of James Cameron's Titanic), the best-selling videocassettes in the United States were mainly of animated and children's films. The best-seller was Disney's The Lion King, released in 1994, with sales of 28.8m copies, followed by Disney's 1937 animated movie Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, with sales of 25.1m.

VistaVision.

In 1953, when some companies were reluctant to follow Fox's lead and adopt CinemaScope, Paramount introduced VistaVision, a non-anamorphic, deep-focus process retaining the old frame ratio of 4:3. The chief innovation was that none of the essential action took place at the top or bottom of the picture, so that exhibitors with appropriate lens and aperture plates could choose their own screen ratio (from 4:3 to 2:1). At 2:1 on a big screen, VistaVision did not look very different from CinemaScope.

Vitaphone.

The sound-on-disc process introduced in 1926 by Warner's.

W.A.M.P.A.S.

(Western Association of Motion Picture Advertisers).

A group of publicity executives who, from 1922 to 1934, gave annual certificates of merit to promising female starlets, known as 'Wampas baby stars'. Among those who succeeded were Bessie Love (nominated 1922), Laura la Plante 23, Clara Bow 24. Mary Astor 26, Joan Crawford 26, Dolores del Rio 26, Janet Gaynor 26, Lupe Velez 28, Jean Arthur 29, Loretta Young 29, Jean Blondell 31, Anita Louise 31, Ginger Rogers 32.

Warnercolor.

Actually Eastmancolor, though it always looked as though it had had a blue rinse.

wide screen.

Strictly speaking this does not mean anamorphic processes such as CinemaScope, which requires a wide, wide screen, but the now-standard 1:1.65 ratio which was achieved by projecting the old 1.3:1 image, cutting the top and bottom from it, and magnifying the result.

wild track:

one recorded in situ, not prepared in the studio.

wipe.

A wipe is an optical device used for quick changes of scene: a line appears at one edge or corner of the screen and 'wipes' across, bringing the new picture with it. Wipes can also be devised in complex patterns or as expanding images, etc.

work print:

the same as cutting copy, the first edited print from which, when it is satisfactory, the negative will be cut accordingly.

Zoetrope.

A device, invented by Englishman William George Horner, that created an illusion of motion. It consisted of a strip of paper, containing a series of drawings of simple actions, wrapped around the inside of a rotating drum. The spectator viewed the drawings through a slit in the side of the drum, where the successive pictures seemed to move due to the persistence of vision.

zoom.

A lens of variable focal length, normally used for swiftly magnifying a distant object or moving rapidly away from a close one.

6

WORLD MOVIES

Argentina

has been producing films since 1897, when Frenchman Eugenio Py made The Argentine Flag, though the first dramatic short, Dorrego's Execution, was not made until 1908, by Mario Gallo, an Italian. The first feature-length film, Amalia, followed in 1914, directed by Enrique Garcia Velloso. The burgeoning local industry collapsed in the 20s when US studios set up their own distribution companies and filled the cinemas with American movies. The coming of sound increased the popularity of local films, which found outlets in other Spanish-speaking countries, but lack of raw film stock during the Second World War soon led to a rapid decline in production, with the result that Mexico replaced Argentina as the main supplier of films to the Latin American countries. One leading director, Hugo Fregonese, went to work in Hollywood in 1945, and many others left the country after Perón was elected president in 1946 and encouraged films that supported his ideology. The first films to receive worldwide distribution and acclaim were those of Leopoldo Torre-Nilsson in the 50s. This breakthrough was not maintained, due to the unsettled political situation following the military coup that overthrew Perón in 1955, the rising cost of production, and harsh government censorship. In the late 60s, Fernando Solanas and Octavio Getino demanded a political cinema and made The Hour of the Furnaces/La Hora de los Hornos 68, a vivid documentary of national oppression, dedicated to Che Guevara and those 'who have died fighting to liberate Latin America'; the film was distributed clandestinely. Perón's return to power in the early 70s was marked by a resurgence of film-making and a liberalization: Getino was named as film censor and Héctor Olivera emerged as a notable director. But it was short-lived; in 1974, following the death of Perón, Getino was replaced by a censor who banned more than 150 films in the following two years, including Torre-Nilsson's Home Free/Piedra Libre 76. Sergio Renán, whose The Truce/La Tregua 73 was nominated for an Oscar, was forced to leave the country after receiving death threats, and actor Julio Troxler, who had appeared in two of Solanas's films and in Jorge Cedrón's Operation Massacre 72, was shot and killed by neo-fascists; many directors and writers left in the period leading up to the military coup of 1976 and others were later imprisoned or were never heard of again. In the 80s, with a return to democracy and the abolition of censorship, a few films reached an international audience, including Eliseo Subiela's Man Looking Southeast, Héctor Olivera's Funny Dirty Little War, Maria Luisa Bemberg's Camilla, Adolfo Aristaráin's The Victim's Last Days, Luis Puenzo's The Official Story, an Oscar-winner as best foreign film in 1986, and Fernando Solanas's Tangos – The Exile of Gardel 85, South/Sur 88, which won him the award as best director at the Cannes Film Festival, and The Voyage/El Viaje 93. But the country remains a difficult one for film-makers: Solanas was shot and wounded in 1991 after accusing the government of corruption. Local production slumped in the early 90s and although by the late 90s Argentinian films did well on their own territory, few directors made any international impact. One was former cinematographer Alejandro Agresti. Another was Fabian Bielinsky, who became the first Argentinian filmmaker to gain international recognition in the 21st century, with his local hit Nine Queens, a thriller set against the political and economic chaos afflicting the country.

Book: 1986, Argentine Cinema, ed. Tim Barnard.

Australia

has long had a vigorous cinema movement, but it did not suit the rest of the world to take much note of it until the 70s. Now many of its outstanding directors, actors and cinematographers have migrated to Hollywood. In the 30s and 40s, producer and director Ken G. Hall at the Cinesound Studios turned out popular local films, but J. Arthur Rank's investment in the company after the Second World War ended its involvement in production. The continent's best-known director until the 50s was Charles Chauvel, but even his films have travelled remarkably little. The archetypal Australian actor was Chips Rafferty, a tough, no-nonsense performer surviving hazardous adventures. In the 50s and 60s, many films with an Australian theme were made by the British, particularly Ealing Studios (including The Overlanders, The Shiralee, and Eureka Stockade), and the Americans, with such films as On the Beach and Summer of the Seventeenth Doll (with Ernest Borgnine and John Mills cast as Australian cane-cutters). That trend reached its nadir in 1970 with Tony Richardson's Ned Kelly, starring Mick Jagger as the legendary outlaw, and its apogee in 1971 with Nicolas Roeg's Walkabout. In the early 70s Australia's traditional rough-edged action adventures gave way on the one hand to Barry Mackenzie-style smut and on the other to macabre, stylish curiosities such as The Cars That Ate Paris and Picnic At Hanging Rock; there developed from these a new, serious Australian school including such internationally well-regarded general movies as Newsfront and The Chant of Jimmie Blacksmith. Peter Weir and Fred Schepisi became OK directorial names; such films as Breaker Morant and Gallipoli were given international fanfares; The Man from Snowy River broke all records in Australia; Helen Morse, Mel Gibson, Bryan Brown and Judy Davis showed that Australia had skilled actors; Mad Max demonstrated that Australia could dispense stylish violence with the best of them. In 1982, however, the bubble seemed about to burst. Hollywood began to steal the best talents, and the Australian unions became greedy for the kind of salaries that only Hollywood could afford to pay, while at home a valuable tax concession was withdrawn, making finance for home-grown movies more difficult. In the mid-80s, the affable comedian Paul Hogan scored an international success with his comedy Crocodile Dundee, but has so far failed to repeat it with his later films. By that time, much Australian talent was working in America. Directors George Miller, Peter Weir, Fred Schepisi, Bruce Beresford, Phillip Noyce, Russell Mulcahy and Simon Wincer were busy in international films, along with cinematographers Ian Baker and Dean Semler, Don McAlpine and Andrew Lesnie. Jane Campion, who although born in New Zealand regards herself as an Australian director, scored with The Piano 93. Directors John Duigan and the Dutch-born Paul Cox kept alive Australia's reputation for intelligent, thoughtful movies, while Geoffrey Wright, with Romper Stomper and Metal Skin, Rolf de Heer, with Bad Boy Bubby, and Ray Lawrence with Lantana, showed that there was still plenty of high-tension talent around. Baz Luhrmann, who had gone on to make a modern-day Romeo and Juliet 96 in Hollywood after the success of his Strictly Ballroom, scored with his energetic musical Moulin Rouge, starring Nicole Kidman. Phillip Noyce returned home to make his moving Rabbit-Proof Fence, about young Aboriginal girls separated from their mothers by government policy, as well as the Vietnam-set The Quiet American 02. Many Australian actors were busy internationally, including Russell Crowe, Cate Blanchett, Rachel Griffiths, Geoffrey Rush, Hugh Jackman, Heath Ledger and Eric Bana.

Australian television has tended to ape Hollywood, grinding out soap operas such as The Sullivans, Cop Shop, Country Practice, Sons and Daughters, and Neighbours with occasional mini-series ranging from the poverty-stricken Sara Dane to the more smoothly ambitious A Town Like Alice and For the Term of His Natural Life. The main problem turned out to be the lack of native subject matter, once producers had exhausted World War I, Botany Bay and sheep shearing.

Austria

The Austrian film industry has suffered from the dominance of Germany, in much the same way that Canada's has been overshadowed by that of the United States. Many of its talents, in theatre as well as film, have also found it necessary to work in German films, just as most of its films have been marketed by German distributors.

The Lumiere Brothers' films were shown in Vienna in 1896, but it was not until 1908 that the first Austrian feature From Step to Step/Von Stufe zu Stufe was directed by Heinz Hanus and produced by Anton Kolm, who set up the city's first studio in 1911; he was soon making the first of many biopics on the life of Vienna's Waltz King, Johann Strauss. Competition came from the American-born, wealthy playboy, pilot and automobile pioneer Count Alexander Kolowrat-Krakowsky (1886-1927) who spent a fortune on his influential Sascha-Film company and set up his studios in Vienna in 1912. Among the directors working for him in the 20s were Alexander Korda, Gustav Ucicky, who began as a cameraman, and Mihaly Kertesz (better known in Hollywood as Michael Curtiz). The Count's habit of offering screen tests to any attractive woman he saw led to the discovery of actress Anny Ondra.

In the 20s, in an attempt to break into the world market, he produced a series of epics with casts of thousands, including Sodom and Gomorrha, 22, starring Lucy Doraine, wife of its director Michael Kertesz; it remains the most expensive film ever produced in Austria. Another on a vast scale was Samson und Delila, 22, directed by Alexander Korda and starring his wife, Maria Corda. Korda's The Young Medardus/Der Junge Medardus, 23, had a screenplay, based on his play, by Austrian dramatist Arthur Schnitzler. But productions were scaled back as economic conditions worsened, though Ucicky had a success with Café Elektric, 27, starring Marlene Dietrich and Willi Forst. The Austrian-born G.W. Pabst's German film The Cheerless Street/Die Freudlose Gasse, 25, starring Asta Nielsen and Greta Garbo, foreshadowed Vienna's economic problems. Many local talents were attracted by the greater opportunities offered in Berlin: the Viennese-born director Fritz Lang, Erich von Stroheim, Josef von Sternberg and Billy Wilder went to Berlin and, later, Hollywood. Others who moved on included screenwriter Carl Mayer, who wrote the German expressionist masterpiece The Cabinet of Dr Caligari, Kertesz, Korda, Pabst and Ucicky.

Willi Forst was one of the actors who easily made the transition to sound, to become an influential figure as actor, singer, producer, writer and director. His first film as director The Unfinished Symphony/Leise Flehen Meine Lieder dealt with the unrequited love of composer Franz Schubert for Countess Eszterhazy. He and his Viennese-born screenwriter Walter Reisch (who later left Nazi Germany for Britain and Hollywood) created a national genre of sophisticated, escapist elegance. Forst's Maskerade, 34, established his international reputation and made a star of 50 year-old character actor Hans Moser; it also featured the cinema debut of actress Paula Wessely as its chaste heroine. But the sensation of the time was an Austrian-Czechoslovakian co-production Ecstasy/Ekstase-Symphoine der Liebe, 33, starring the young, naked Hedy Kiesler, who was later better known in Hollywood as Hedy Lamarr.

The country's film-makers faced economic difficulties from the early 30s, when German distributors were allowed to buy only eight Austrian films a year. Jewish and left-wing performers, including composers Hanns Eisler and Hanns May, began to leave the country. In 1938, after Austria was incorporated in the German Reich, Goebbels' Ministry of Information and Propaganda nationalised the film industry by creating Wein-Film, a central production unit based on the company that had been Sascha-Film. Head of production was Viennese-born Karl Hartl (1899-1978), who had began as an assistant to Alexander Korda. He oversaw the release of mainly typically Viennese films, charming, light-hearted and escapist, that kept alive a national identity and formed a subtle resistance to Nazism. 'I made my most Austrian films at a time when Austria had ceased to exist,' remarked Willi Forst, who directed at this time the first two films of his Viennese trilogy, Operetta/Operette, 40, which was set in the 1870s and 80s, and Viennese Blood/Wiener Blut, 42–the third, Viennese Girls/Wiener Madel, was finished in 49. After the defeat of Nazism, Hartl helped launch the career of actor Oskar Werner, who became an international star, forsaking Austrian films altogether from the mid-50s.

In 1946, Belvedere film, Austria's first postwar studio, was founded by August Diglas, Emmerich Hanus and Elfi Von Dassanowsky, to produce independently of the traditional studios which were under Allied control. Its costly satirical-musical-romance Marchen vom Gluck, 49, introduced such future European stars as Nadja Tiller, Gunther Philipp and Evelyn Kunnecke.

Times were changing. Gustav Ucicky and Paula Wesselly had damaged their reputations by directing and acting in a notorious propaganda movie Homecoming/Heinkehr, 41. Willi Forst caused a sensation with his untypical The Sinful Women/Doe Sunderlin, 51, which made a star of Hildegard Knef as a woman who becomes a prostitute to save the life of her lover; but he soon retired. Local audiences took little interest in Carol Reed's The Third Man, 49, with its depiction of corruption in postwar Vienna. They preferred Eroica, 49, a biopic of Beethoven that was one of the country's most popular postwar films, and Mozart, 55, starring Oscar Werner in the title role.

Franz Antel (1914-) was to become the busiest of the country's postwar directors, making more than eighty films, ranging from comedies such as the popular Hallo Dienstmann, 51, starring the ubiquitous Austrian comic duo of Hans Moser and Paul Horbiger, to sex comedies like Knickers Ahoy/Frau Wirtins tolle Töchterlein, 73. The most commercially successful producer and director of the 50s was Viennese Ernst Marischka (1893-1963) with his nostalgic, romantic Sissi trilogy about the life of Princess Elizabeth and Emperor Franz Joseph, starring Romy Schneider and Karlheinz Boehm. The period produced one off-beat movie ahead of its time, which has a growing reputation: April 1, 2000/1. April 2000, 52. Directed by Wolfgang Liebeneiner, it was a comedy set in the future, with Austria still an occupied nation.

While experimental and avant garde film makers began to make a reputation in the 60s, mainstream film production fell away at the same time and through the 70s, though it has revived somewhat since, often financed by ORF, the Austrian Broadcasting Corporation. Notable films since include Tales of the Vienna Woods/Geschichten Aus Dem Wienerwald, 79, directed by Maximilian Schell, The Stubborn Mule/Der Bockerer, 81, directed by Franz Antel and starring Karl Merkatz as a butcher who refuses to give in to the Nazis, Franz Novotny's The Lock-Out/Die Ausgesperrten, 82, Axel Corti's Welcome in Vienna, 86, Niki List's Muller's Office/Muller's Buro, 86, which set a new Austrian box-office record only broken by Harald Sicheritz' black comedy Hinterholz 8, 98, Michael Haneke's disturbing Benny's Video 92, Funny Games, 97, which was the first Austrian film to be accepted for competition at the Cannes Film Festival for more than 30 years, and The Piano Teacher 01, and documentarist Ulrich Seidl's feature Dog Days 01, a harsh look at life in Vienna's suburbs.

Book: 1997, Film Book Austria by Gertraud Steiner. 2005, Austrian Cinema: A History by Robert von Dassanowsky.

Brazil

has had a very patchy production history. One of its best directors, Alberto Cavalcanti, spent most of his career abroad, and failed in the 50s to spark local production. Despite subsequent attempts, the best-known Brazilian film is still 1953's O'Cangaceiro/The Bandit. Its only rival is Hector Babenco's Pixote 81. The country's film production came to a virtual stop in 1990 with the abolition of Emrafilme, the state finance board, but resumed on a smaller scale in 1994 when government grants were resumed and tax incentives offered to film-makers. Walter Salles is the newest director to reach an international audience, with his third feature, Central Station, about a young boy's search for his father; it won many awards, including an Oscar in 1998 as the best foreign film. He followed it with the lesser Behind the Sun 01, which still enjoyed international exposure, and was producer of the violent City of God 02, directed by Fernando Meirelles and set among young gangsters in Rio's slums, which also received acclaim around the world.

Canada

has made strenuous efforts through the years to promote a native film industry, but the trouble has been that its best talents are easily siphoned off to Hollywood or Britain, and few genuinely Canadian films have earned world acclaim; among those to raise interest have been Mon Oncle Antoine and The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz.

The National Film Board of Canada, however, has had a stimulating effect on world documentary, especially when under the leadership of John Grierson: and Norman McLaren's experimental cartoons are enjoyed the world over.

Films wholly or largely set in Canada have included Saskatchewan, Quebec, Northwest Mounted Police, The Canadians, River's End, The Naked Heart, Northern Pursuit, Island in the Sky, Hudson's Bay, Rose Marie and Jalna. Until the end of the 70s the best of them was probably the wartime 49th Parallel, but the 80s brought new efforts in the direction of international co-production, and although the first fruits seemed heavily influenced by current Hollywood fashion, signs of a new vitality have undoubtedly emerged.

The Canadian government has made half-hearted attempts to encourage the local industry to escape American domination, but with little success. Some excellent talents, however, emerged towards the end of the 80s. The French-Canadian director Denys Arcand attracted international attention with his The Decline of the American Empire 86 and, especially, Jesus of Montreal 89. And Atom Egoyan's more experimental Family Viewing 87, Speaking Parts 89, and The Adjuster 91 have found appreciative art-house audiences. Egoyan's The Sweet Hereafter, based on Russell Bank's novel about the effects on a small town of the aftermath of an accident that killed many of its children, broke through to a wider, more mainstream audience, winning many awards in Canada as well as an Oscar nomination for its director. He followed it with Felicia's Journey 99, providing a chilling insight into the mundane mind of a serial killer, which was set in England, as was Patricia Rozema's less successful take on Jane Austen's Mansfield Park.

China

was making films of a kind early in the century, but development of the industry was sporadic until the 50s, when the communists churned out many propaganda dramas. In recent years, though, the so-called Fifth Generation of Chinese directors has produced films of world class, notably Chen Kaige's Yellow Earth, King of the Children and Life on a String, and Zhang Yimou's Red Sorghum, Jou Dou and Raise the Red Lantern, which starred Gong Li. These films came from the Xi'an Studios, which were under the direction of Wu Tianming, himself a director (The Old Well), but most of the directors' best efforts were either given a very restricted release in China or banned altogether. Zhang Yimou turned to Japan and Taiwan to finance his films, and Wu Tianming and Chen Kaige left for America at the end of the 80s, so the blossoming of an indigenous Chinese cinema may have been a short one.

Chen Kaige's big-budget The Emperor and The Assassin, partly funded by French and Japanese producers, seemed overblown, while Zhang Yimou turned out the small-scale Not One Less 99, The Road Home 00, and Happy Times 01 before returning to an epic scale with the historical martial arts movie Hero 03, starring Jet Li.

It is too early to know what effect will result from the absorption of the Hong Kong film industry, although many of the actors and directors of Hong Kong's internationally appealing action films have moved on to seek their fortunes in North America. There, John Woo scored a hit with Face/Off, teaming Nicolas Cage and John Travolta in a thriller of identity confusion; Jackie Chan, after several attempts, had an American hit with Rush Hour; and Sammo Hung began a US TV series. It was perhaps significant that the only Chinese film to make an international impact in 1998 was Xiu Xiu: The Sent Down Girl, which, although financed by Chinese and Taiwanese money, was produced and directed by actress Joan Chen, who is based in the United States. One of the most successful of recent martial arts films was also made by a US-based director: Ang Lee's venture into the wuxia genre, Hidden Dragon, Crouching Tiger starring another Chinese actor Chow Yun-fat, who also works in America. Although set in mainland China Wang Xiaoshuai's Beijing Bicycle 01, inspired by De Sica's Bicycle Thieves, was financed by Taiwan and France.

Cuba

produced its first film in 1897, but native film-making was swamped by American imports until the Communist revolution of 1959, when a politically conscious programme was begun under the auspices of ICAIC (the Cuban Institute of Film Art and Industry). Until then, the only films that reached an international market had been pornographic, and directors concentrated on churning out musicals and comedies attuned to local tastes. Some local talent, such as cinematographer Nestor Almendros, moved away after the revolution. The first director to emerge from the new regime with an international reputation was Tomás Gutiérrez Alea with his satirical Death of a Bureaucrat 66, followed by Memories of Underdevelopment 68. Perhaps inevitably, he found himself at odds with official policy-makers, and his Strawberry and Chocolate 93, which showed homosexuality in a positive light, met with much local opposition. As Gutiérrez Alea became ill with cancer, the film was co-directed by Juan Carlos Tabio, who went on to make the diverting The Elephant and the Bicycle 95, about the transforming power of art, and The Waiting List 00, a comedy about dreams of a better future. In 1999, Wim Wenders reminded the world of the vitality of Cuban popular culture with his documentary Buena Vista Social Club that helped turn its mature musicians and singers into performers with an international reputation.

Czech Republic

came into existence in 1993 when Czechoslovakia was divided into two countries, the other being Slovakia. As a result the film industry was privatised and has sometimes struggled to survive with falling audiences and fewer cinemas. Emerging as the leading director of the new Republic was Jan Sverak whose Accumulator 1 was a local hit in 1994 and enjoyed some international acclaim. His Kolya won the Oscar for best foreign film and Dark Blue World 01, set in the Second World War when Czech pilots joined the RAF, also had an international release. Another new director is Jan Hrebejk, who received an Oscar nomination for Divided We Fall 00, about a couple who hide a Jewish boy from the Nazis during the Second World War.
See also: Czechoslovakia.

Czechoslovakia

had a movie industry from the earliest days of cinema, with its first film being made in 1898. But it was not until Hedy Lamarr, then Hedy Kiesler, caused a sensation by appearing naked in Extase 33 that it came to international notice. Its heyday was in the early 60s with the emergence of a new wave of directors who included Vera Chytilova, Milos Forman, Jaromil Jires, Jiri Menzel, Jan Nemec and Ivan Passer. Most were soon forced to contend with problems of censorship, and Chytilova's playful Daisies 66, and Nemec's biting political allegory The Party and the Guests 66, were both banned outright. After the Soviet invasion of 1968, many leading talents went into exile and those that remained were frequently stifled. The most interesting director to emerge after the political situation eased was Jan Sverak with The Elementary School 91 and Kolya 96, which was an international hit. By then, of course, Czechoslovakia had been divided in two, becoming the Czech Republic and Slovakia.
See also: Czech Republic; Slovakia.

Denmark

was one of the first countries to start film production. Nordisk studios were founded in 1906 and from 1910 to 1915 Danish films were as internationally popular as those of any country in the world. But the talent was all drained away, first by the merger with Germany's UFA studios in 1917 and later by a steady trek to Hollywood. Carl Dreyer, one of the wanderers, later returned to Denmark and made there such major films as Day of Wrath and Order; but no Danish school ever emerged again. In recent years some Danish directors have gained international recognition, notably Bille August with Pelle the Conqueror, Gabriel Axel with Babette's Feast – both Oscar winners for the best foreign film in consecutive years – and Lars von Trier with Europa, Breaking the Waves, Idiots and Dancer in the Dark. Von Trier is one of the signatories to Dogme 95, a credo for film-makers which states, among other tenets, that genre movies are to be avoided and that films must be shot on location using hand-held cameras. Another signatory is director Thomas Vinterberg, who was true to his own precepts in the much-lauded The Celebration, about a 60th birthday party for a father who, it is revealed, sexually abused his son and daughter. Since then, there have been more Dogme 95 films, including Soren Kragh-Jacobsen's Mifune 99 and Lone Scherfig's romantic comedy Italian for Beginners 00; the movement is influencing independent directors around the world. Uncompromising film-making has also come from Nicolas Winding Refn with Pusher and Bleeder.

Finland

has produced many films for internal consumption, but its films have not enjoyed the international success of its neighbours Sweden and Denmark. Until the mid-80s, the best-known Finnish film was probably Edvin Laine's The Unknown Soldier 55, although Jorn Donner's A Sunday in September 63 also found an audience outside Finland. Then the Kaurismäki Brothers, Mika and Aki, began to attract attention with their output. Both made at least a film a year, taking it in turns to use the same crew. Aki Kaurismäki has filmed in America and England, attracting an art-house audience for his The Match Girl 89, Leningrad Cowboys Go America 89 and I Hired a Contract Killer 90. His Juha was not only filmed in black and white, but was silent, accompanied by music, and with captions for the dialogue. He followed it with an international success Man Without a Past 02. Even so, the best-known Finnish director remains Renny Harlin, who works in Hollywood.

France

has a national film history that falls into a pattern of clearly-defined styles. First of note was that of Louis Feuillade, whose early serials had tremendous panache. In the 20s came René Clair, with his inimitable touch for fantastic comedy, and a little later Jean Renoir, whose view of the human comedy was wider but equally sympathetic. Sacha Guitry contributed a series of rather stagey but amusing high comedies; Jean Vigo in his brief career introduced surrealism. Marcel Pagnol made a number of self-indulgent regional comedies which were hugely enjoyable but had little to do with cinema. Then beginning in the 30s came an unsurpassed group of adult entertainments from the writer-director team of Jacques Prévert and Marcel Carné; these were widely copied by less talented hands and the resulting stream of sex dramas, seldom less than competent, preserved the legend of the naughty French. Other notable directors were Julien Duvivier, the romantic; Jacques Becker, at his happiest in comedy; and Jacques Feyder, who generally made melodramas with flashes of insight. Henri-Georges Clouzot developed into the French Hitchcock, and Cocteau's art films reached a wide public. In the 40s Robert Bresson, René Clément and Jacques Tati all began to make themselves felt. The 50s were in danger of becoming a dull period, with no new talent of note, when the 'new wave' changed the whole direction of French film-making and made some of the older hands look suddenly and undeservedly old-fashioned. Directors well-regarded in the 60s include Jacques Demy, François Truffaut, Jean-Luc Godard, Louis Malle, Jean-Pierre Melville, Claude Chabrol, Claude Lelouch and Georges Franju; in the 70s, Eric Rohmer, Jacques Deray, Yves Boisset, Costa-Gavras, Bertrand Blier and Jacques Rivette; in the 80s, Maurice Pialat, though he had been making films since the 60s, Claude Berri, influential as a producer as well as a director, Diane Kurys, Bertrand Tavernier, Jean-Jacques Annaud and Patrice Leconte. Coline Serreau, a former actress, demonstrated a gift for comedy that attracted the attention of Hollywood. Younger talents include Jean-Jacques Beineix, Leos Carax, and Luc Besson.

Among French male stars of note are Raimu, Michel Simon, Harry Baur, Fernandel, Louis Jouvet, Jean Gabin, Pierre Fresnay, Jean-Louis Barrault, Gérard Philipe, Pierre Brasseur, Maurice Chevalier, Charles Boyer, Yves Montand, Jean-Paul Belmondo, Alain Delon, Patrick Dewaere, Philippe Noiret, Michel Blanc and Gérard Depardieu. Of the women, the most influential have been Ginette Leclerc, Michèle Morgan, Danielle Darrieux, Arletty, Simone Signoret, Brigitte Bardot, Jeanne Moreau, Françoise Dorléac, Catherine Deneuve, Miou Miou, Annie Girardot, Isabelle Adjani and Isabelle Huppert. The new generation of actresses emerging in the 90s includes Charlotte Gainsbourg, Emmanuelle Béart, Juliette Binoche and Julie Delpy.

Recently France has produced the most disturbing and controversial movies dealing with the darker aspects of sex and violence. Writer-director Catherine Breillat's Romance 99, Fat Girl 01 and Sex is Comedy 02 dealt explicitly with sexuality, Virginie Despentes and Coralie Trinh Thi's Baise-Moi 00 was about two women on a sex and killing spree, and the Argentinian-born writer-director Gaspard Noé followed his nihilistic I Stand Alone 98 with Irréversible 02, which featured a lenghy and brutal rape. But the greatest success at home and abroad was Jean-Pierre Jeunet's sweetly sentimental and stylish comedy Amelie, which made a star of its helpful heroine Audrey Tautou.

Germany

produced a cinema that had its most influential period in the years following World War I, when depression and despair drove directors into a macabre fantasy world and produced films like The Golem, The Cabinet of Dr Caligari, Nosferatu, Warning Shadows and Waxworks; it is also notable that many of the makers of these films later went to Hollywood and exerted a strong influence there. G.W. Pabst was somewhat more anchored to reality, apart from the stylish Die Dreigroschenoper; Fritz Lang seemed primarily interested in the criminal mentality, though he produced masterworks of prophecy and Teutonic legend. With the advent of Hitler most of Germany's genuine creative talent was forced abroad; the main achievements of the 30s were Leni Riefenstahl's colossal propaganda pieces Triumph of the Will and Olympische Spiele. The anti-British war-time films have their interest, but the post-war German cinema was not producing competent thrillers and comedies for the home market. In the 70s however a new realistic school developed in the hands of Rainer Fassbinder, Werner Herzog, etc. Other notable directors who emerged at this time included Alexander Kluge, Jean-Marie Straub, Volker Schlöndorff, Wim Wenders and Hans Jürgen Syberberg. Margarethe von Trotta was one of the few women directors to come to the fore, although she was joined in the 80s by Doris Dorrie. Commercial success was enjoyed in the 80s by Wolfgang Petersen with The Boat, a film that took him to Hollywood, and by Percy Adlon with his English-language film Bagdad Café, featuring Marianne Sägebrecht, who had starred in his earlier Sugarbaby. Another German director fascinated by America was Uli Edel with his Last Exit to Brooklyn. Michael Verhoeven received international acclaim for The Nasty Girl. Notable German players include Werner Krauss, Conrad Veidt, Emil Jannings, Marlene Dietrich, Anton Walbrook, Gert Frobe and, in the 70s, Hanna Schygulla, star of many of Fassbinder's films. The Austrian-born actor Klaus Maria Brandauer, who trained in Germany, became an international star in the 80s following his performance as the Nazis' favourite actor in Mephisto 81.

The best-known directors, Wenders and Schlondörff, both made movies with American actors in 1997: Wenders with a Los Angeles setting for The End of Violence, with a cast headed by Bill Pullman and Andie MacDowell, and Schlondorff with a thriller, Palmetto, starring Woody Harrelson and Elisabeth Shue; neither did well at the box-office. The most successful film of recent years has been Josef Vilsmaier's lavish and nostalgic Comedian Harmonists, about a popular vocal group of the 20s and 30s who were forced to disband by the Nazis because some of its members were Jewish. The newest talent to emerge internationally is director Tom Tykwer, whose Run Lola Run/Lola Rennt made a star of its heroine Franka Potente. But Tykwer's following movies, The Princess and the Warrior 00 and the English-language Heaven were both disappointing.

Great Britain

had been making films for more than 50 years when finally a 'British school' emerged capable of influencing world production. Hollywood films had invaded British cinemas during World War I, and British audiences liked them; so the battle for power was won with only faint stirrings of resistance. British films were tepid, shoddy, stilted, old-fashioned in acting and production; and for many years they were kept that way by short-sighted government legislation, intended to help the industry, ensuring that at least a proportion (usually a third) of local product must be shown in every British cinema. Thus began the long list of 'quota quickies', deplorable 'B' pictures whose producers knew they could not fail to get their money back. In the mid-30s, Britain was producing 200 films a year, but they reflected nothing of life and offered little in the way of entertainment.

Exceptions to this general rule were the suspense thrillers of Alfred Hitchcock; a couple of promising dramas from Anthony Asquith; some well-produced entertainments from Victor Saville, such as The Good Companions and South Riding; Herbert Wilcox's popular view of such historical figures as Nell Gwyn and Queen Victoria; and the ambitious and often masterly, but not particularly British, productions of Alexander Korda, whose Rembrandt and Things to Come could still justify their inclusion in any list of the world's ten best. The British music-hall tradition also survived remarkably well in skilful low-budget productions with such stars as Gracie Fields, George Formby, Will Hay and the Crazy Gang; the two directors most concerned, Marcel Varnel and Walter Forde, had much to tell anyone who cared to listen about the art of screen comedy, as had writers Val Guest, Frank Launder and Sidney Gilliat.

In 1939 MGM had achieved three notable British productions – A Yank at Oxford, Goodbye Mr Chips and The Citadel – but the war swept away all plans and British studios started anew. Their renaissance began through the splendid documentaries of Humphrey Jennings, Harry Watt and Basil Wright, graduates of the GPO Film Unit which had been turning out excellent short films in the 30s but failing to secure cinema bookings for them.

The strong feelings of national pride and urgency percolated to the fiction film, first in stories of social comment (The Proud Valley, The Stars Look Down, Love on the Dole), then in topical entertainments like Carol Reed's Night Train to Munich and Thorold Dickinson's Next of Kin. Noël Coward's In Which We Serve came as a revelation of style and substance, and what it did for the navy was done for the army by Reed's The Way Ahead and for the air force by Asquith's The Way to the Stars. The home front was covered with equal sensitivity by Launder and Gilliat's Millions Like Us, Leslie Howard's The Gentle Sex, and Coward's This Happy Breed.

Even non-war films had a fresh impetus. Gabriel Pascal made an excellent Major Barbara to follow the success of his 1938 Pygmalion. Dickinson's Gaslight, Reed's Kipps, and Asquith's Quiet Wedding were all excellent of their kind. The new team of Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger brought a fresh command and insight to some unlikely but ambitious themes in The Life and Death of Colonel Blimp and A Matter of Life and Death. Korda supplied The Thief of Baghdad, Lady Hamilton and Perfect Strangers. The Boulting Brothers followed up Pastor Hall with the thoughtful Thunder Rock. Launder and Gilliat followed the realistic Waterloo Road with sparkling comedy-dramas (The Rake's Progress, I See a Dark Stranger), and a classic who-done-it (Green for Danger). Gainsborough Studios turned out several competent costume dramas on the Hollywood model. In 1945 the future of British films seemed bright indeed with Laurence Olivier's Henry V, Coward and Lean's Blithe Spirit, and Ealing Studios' supernatural omnibus Dead of Night earning popular approval, and such films as Brief Encounter and Odd Man Out in the works.

In the next few years the industry was beset by financial problems and diminishing audiences. Then Britain's leading film magnate, J. Arthur Rank, set out to conquer by means which proved regrettable. Originally attracted to the cinema as a means for spreading the Methodist religion, he now determined to impress world markets by a series of enormously expensive and generally arty productions, few of which recovered their costs: Caesar and Cleopatra is the most notorious. The more modestly-budgeted pictures proved to have little to say now that the end of the war had removed their main subject; and with exceptions like Mine Own Executioner, The Red Shoes, and The Third Man the field was thin until the celebrated Ealing comedies (Passport to Pimlico, Whisky Galore, The Man in the White Suit, Kind Hearts and Coronets) began to attract world audiences. But these too had their day, and all through the 50s British studios were trying in vain to find subjects to replace them. During this period many stars found their way to Hollywood, and then gradually began to drift back as kingpins of international co-productions, ventures which seldom turned out very happily. It was not till the relaxed hand of censorship permitted Room at the Top, Saturday Night and Sunday Morning, The Leather Boys, Tom Jones, Georgy Girl, Blow Up, James Bond and Alfie that British films at last set the world afire by showing just what you could get away with if you did it with sufficient skill and truth. Unfortunately even sex and violence must pall ... so what next? The stopgap answer of the late 60s and early 70s was low comedy, much of it borrowed from TV; but that couldn't last, and didn't. By 1980 so many cinemas had closed that it was impossible to make ends meet on films for English consumption alone, and British studios and unions had priced themselves out of the international market. It remained for enterprising financiers such as Goldcrest to stimulate international palates with what would once have seemed very unlikely themes (Chariots of Fire, Gandhi); between these occasional high-spots good reviews were achieved for a number of outspoken low-budget realistic dramas, most of them partly financed by the new television Channel Four, which aired them after a usually brief run in cinemas. Cinema was no longer a mass entertainment, but a means of attracting specific minorities.

With the local film industry worsening each year, and the government giving only grudging help, much British talent settled for Hollywood. The British directors there included Alan Parker, Ridley Scott, Tony Scott, Franc Roddam, Adrian Lyne, Mike Figgis and Mike Jackson. British actors like Jeremy Irons and Anthony Hopkins were winning Oscars, but in American films. The few directors left in Britain made low-budget films, with Ken Russell turning out some cheap horrors. The will seemed to have gone. John Boorman's essentially English Hope and Glory was mainly financed by foreign money. Even when some notable local films were made, like Ken Loach's Riff-Raff and Peter Chelsom's Hear My Song, British distributors could hardly be bothered to show them in the cinemas. Only Richard Attenborough, with his biopic of Charlie Chaplin (with an American star, Robert Downey, in the title role), seemed to be able to continue to work on a large scale. Yet, against the odds, some distinctive films did emerge, including Kenneth Branagh's Henry V, Peter Greenaway's The Cook, the Thief, His Wife and Her Lover and Prospero's Books, Christine Edzard's Little Dorrit, Peter Medak's The Krays, with a script by Philip Ridley, Derek Jarman's Edward II and Terence Davies's Distant Voices, Still Lives and The Long Day Closes.

In the mid-90s, Mike Newell directed Four Weddings and a Funeral 94, which became the most successful British film ever made and established Hugh Grant as a new star. As ever, no sooner did promising young directors appear, such as Paul Anderson and Danny Cannon, than they were tempted to Hollywood to direct big-budget films. But some notable talents began to emerge from Scotland, including Gillies MacKinnon with Small Faces, and, especially, the producer-director-writer team of Andrew Macdonald, John Hodge and Danny Boyle with Shallow Grave and Trainspotting, though their US movie The Beach was a disappointment. And still very much active was an older generation of directors, working in a realist tradition: Mike Leigh scored with his Secrets and Lies, the larger scaled Topsy-Turvy, about Gilbert and Sullivan, and All or Nothing; Ken Loach continued to make memorable films, notably Raining Stones, Land and Freedom, My Name is Joe and Sweet Sixteen.

The renaissance continued with the international hit The Full Monty, directed by Peter Cattaneo, and other films which, if not particularly original in subject-matter, still found appreciative audiences: they included Mrs Brown, with Judi Dench as Queen Victoria and Billy Connolly as her Highland manservant John Brown; Bean, featuring the slapstick comedy and mugging of Rowan Atkinson; the romantic comedy Sliding Doors, pairing the Scottish John Hannah with the American Gwyneth Paltrow; and Guy Ritchie's violent thrillers, Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels and Snatch. The engaging talent of director Shane Meadows emerged from independent, low-budget film-making with TwentyFourSeven and A Room for Romeo Brass. Actor Gary Oldman returned from Hollywood to his South London haunts to write and direct the abrasive, autobiographical Nil by Mouth, and actor Tim Roth directed the equally gritty The War Zone.

The comic style of Four Weddings... was recaptured in Notting Hill, pairing Hugh Grant with American star Julia Roberts. And two English theatre directors made notable debuts: Sam Mendes with the all-American Oscar-winning American Beauty, and Stephen Daldry with a small-scale charmer Billy Elliot.

British films should have benefited from Lottery funds that were made available; instead the money financed many lacklustre thrillers and comedies with inadequate scripts.

Emerging talents included Irish director Damien O'Donnell, whose East is East, written by Ayub Khan-Din, was a delightful comedy, Lynne Ramsay, writer-director of the bleak Ratcatcher 99 and Morvern Callar 02 and Pawel Pawlikowski's look at the plight of refugees Last Resort 00. Actor Peter Mullan followed his black comedy Orphans 97 with an award-winning exposé The Magdalene Sisters 02.

> “That's the sort of problem with English films: England is all they're ever about, and if they're not, they're even worse. This country's just not a very interesting subject. It's terribly limited. – Stephen Frears, 2000 has had a film industry since 1912, but its development has been affected by political upheavals, and the results have had little international appeal, the best known directors being Michael Cacoyannis and Greg Tallas. The personality of Melina Mercouri and the music of Mikis Theodorakis were, however, more successfully exported. In the 80s, the only new director to emerge to international acclaim was Theodorous Angelopoulos, a former critic, with The Beekeeper and Landscape in the Mist. Angelopoulos went on to win the Palme d'Or at the 1998 Cannes Film Festival with Eternity and a Day, in which a dying writer confronts his past.

Greece

Holland

has produced two major documentarists: Joris Ivens and Bert Haanstra. At one time, Fons Rademakers was the only Dutch director to be known outside his home country. But Holland has produced one of the most controversial directors of the 90s in Paul Verhoeven, especially since his move to America in the mid-80s to make films like Robocop, Total Recall, Basic Instinct and Starship Troopers. Even before, with such films as Spetters and The Fourth Man, he attracted interest. His films have helped make international actors of Dutch stars Rutger Hauer, Jeroen Krabbe and Renée Soutendijk, and have also drawn attention to the talents of cinematographers Jost Vacano (German-born) and Jan de Bont. Maruschka Detmers is another whose talent has taken her away from her home country. Verhoeven is not the only Dutch director to have made an impact in recent years: Dick Maas, a busy producer-director, scored with his thriller Amsterdamned, and George Sluizer went to Hollywood to remake his chilling The Vanishing.

Hungary

has had one of the most flourishing film histories in Europe, and many of its talents found their way to Hollywood, including Michael Curtiz, Alexander Korda and Bela Lugosi. The native films were seldom exported, oddly enough, until after a strong Soviet influence made itself felt: Zoltan Fabri and Miklos Jancso are now respected names. Marta Meszaros, Jancso's former wife, has made some impressive semi-autobiographical films. Karoly Makk came to the fore in the mid-70s, while Istvan Szabo has transcended national boundaries to become a truly European director. The uncompromising films of Béla Tarr have found an appreciative, if minority, audience abroad.

India

has provided the setting for English-speaking films mainly of the military kind: King of the Khyber Rifles, The Drum, Lives of a Bengal Lancer, Gunga Din, Soldiers Three, The Charge of the Light Brigade (1936 version), Bengal Brigade, and Conduct Unbecoming. Civilian interests were the concern of They Met in Bombay, The Rains Came, Elephant Boy, Bhowani Junction, Monsoon, The River, Song of India, Calcutta, Thunder in the East, Northwest Frontier, Nine Hours to Rama and The Guru.

Of native Indian films only a few percolated to Western cinemas, mostly directed by Mehboob, Satyajit Ray, James Ivory or his partner Ismail Merchant, or Mira Nair. In the 80s there was a sudden flowering of interest in the last days of the Raj, especially on television: thus The Jewel in the Crown, The Far Pavilions, Mountbatten the Last Viceroy, and in the cinema Heat and Dust and A Passage to India. Director Shekhar Kapur, best known for Bandit Queen 94, moved on to the international scene in 1998 by directing the British costume drama Elizabeth, which concerned itself with the Tudor Queen's flirtation with Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester.

Bollywood began to invade Britain from the late 90s, where there was a ready Asian audience. Kutch Kutch Hota Hai, directed by Karan Johar, was a box-office hit, though it was Lagaan 01, an epic account of a cricket match between Indian villagers and the British, that found an enthusiastic Western audience, as did Asif Kapadia's UK-financed The Warrior, which was set in Rajasthan's distant past.

Iran.

Iranian cinema has developed since the revolution of the late 1970s into an individual and idiosyncratic force, taking neo-realism in new directions and merging documentary and fiction so that it is difficult for the spectator to know where one ends and the other begins. Films based on actual events are sometimes re-enacted by the participants; non-professional actors predominate in many of the movies and, in a film such as Abbas Kiorastami's Ten, the director himself is excluded from the action, since it was filmed using a stationary camera focused on the various occupants of a taxi-cab.

This approach could be seen as continuation of the mode of the early days of pre-revolutionary cinema, which began as a royal and aristocratic amusement, in which newsreels, some of them commissioned by the Shah, were shown on special occasions. The country's first silent fictional feature was Ovanes Ohanian's Abi and Rabi 30, concerning the adventures of two men of contrasting height. It was not until the late 40s that a Persian-language sound film was produced from within the country, for earlier features, although based on local folk stories, had been shot in India. The industry was cut off from foreign influences, since strict censorship prevented many foreign movies from being shown and also stopped local film-makers from dealing with topical or political matters.

In the 60s, changes came through oil riches and the US involvement in the development of television, which began to screen American movies, though state control and censorship remained inhibiting. The first Iranian movie to gain international acclaim was Darius Mehrjui's The Cow/Gaav 69, the story of a farmer who loses the animal on which his life depends. The film was banned for a year in its homeland, but was followed by other films of social realism, including Mehrjui's The Postman/Postchi in 1970. In the early 70s he was among sixteen leading directors, actors, and technicians who put their futures at risk by resigning from the trade organisation, membership of which was mandatory, to form a breakaway group. The dissidents were dissatisfied with the poor quality of the local films, which they felt did not reflect the realities of Iranian life.

The early days of the revolution were not propitious for film making: cinemas were burnt down in protest at the old regime, and 400 died in one blaze. Film-makers were asked to justify themselves before a tribunal of clerics. Many left the country; those who stayed found it difficult to obtain work or discovered that their films were never released. Pre-revolutionary stars were banned, and beautiful women were prevented from becoming actresses. Censorship was as strict as before, though now films had to conform to Islamic ideals. Amir Naderi began his career before the revolution, but it was his ninth movie The Runner/Dawandeh in 1985 that gave him an international audience. After making Water, Wind, Dust in 1989, he moved to the United States. Bahram Bayzai (1938-), a director who had also been active in pre-revolutionary times, had his first two post-revolutionary films refused a release and his next sat on the shelf for several years. Massoud Kimiai whose films had been banned in the Shah's time, continued to have similar censorship problems after the revolution. After being criticised for dominating the films in which she appeared, Susan Taslimi, who was the country's best known actress, left to live in Europe in the late 80s. Writer-director Mohsen Makhmalbaf, who was imprisoned for his political activities during the Shah's regime, had two films banned.

Nevertheless many remarkable movies have emerged, recreating everyday life and struggles in oblique and poetic ways: Makhmalbaf's Gabbeh 95, a fable set among nomadic carpet-weavers, and Kandahar 01; his daughter Samirah Makhmalbaf's The Apple 97 (made when she was still a teenager) and Blackboards 00; Majid Majidi's The Children of Heaven 97 and The Colour of Paradise 99; Jafar Panahi's The White Balloon 95, set on the streets of Teheran, and The Circle 00, about the plight of women in Teheran, opening with a mother horrified to discover that her daughter has given birth to a girl; Marzieh Meshkini's The Day I Became a Woman 00; and Bahman Ghobadi's A Time for Drunken Horses 00. The outstanding figure remains Kiorastami, a former commercials director who has twice won the Palme D'Or at the Cannes Film Festival for Taste of Cherry 97 and Ten 02. His films stick closely to the particularities of life: Close-Up 90, about an imposter who claimed to be Mohsen Makhmalbaf, included the man's actual trial, And Life Goes On 91, Through the Olive Trees 94, and The Wind Will Carry Us 99.

Ireland

to film-makers has rather too often meant 'the troubles', which were celebrated in Beloved Enemy, The Informer, The Gentle Gunman, Shake Hands with the Devil, and the films of Sean O'Casey's plays, including Juno and the Paycock and The Plough and the Stars. (Rod Taylor played O'Casey, lightly disguised, in Young Cassidy.) More romantic or whimsical views of Eire were expressed in The Luck of the Irish, The Rising of the Moon, Top of the Morning, Broth of a Boy, Home is the Hero, The Quiet Man, I See a Dark Stranger, Happy Ever After, Hungry Hill, The Search for Bridey Murphy, Jacqueline, Rooney, Never Put It In Writing and Ulysses; realism was sought in Odd Man Out, Parnell, Captain Boycott, No Resting Place, A Terrible Beauty, and Ryan's Daughter. The number of Irish characters on the screen is of course legion, the most numerous and memorable varieties being priests, drunks, New York cops, and Old Mother Riley. The new 'troubles' of the early 70s and 80s have been, at the time of writing, too horrifying to provoke much response from makers of fiction films, apart from a TV movie called War of Children and a low-budget American exploiter called The Outsider. Ken Loach's controversial Hidden Agenda is the best film so far to grapple with the political realities of the present situation. Some talented Irish directors and writers came to the fore in the 80s, including Neil Jordan, Jim Sheridan and Pat O'Connor. But aspects of 'the troubles', in one form or another, continue to dominate the local agenda. Neil Jordan tackled the controversial subject of Michael Collins, the IRA hero and villain, and in The General, John Boorman dealt perceptively, in the style of a Warner's gangster movie, with Martin Cahill, a violent thief who turned the present-day conflict to his own advantage; the film won him the Best Director award at the 1998 Cannes Film Festival. But the best film of recent years has been Neil Jordan's The Butcher Boy, a darkly humorous, devastating portrait of small-town repression with an astonishing performance from 13-year-old Eamonn Owens in the title role.

Book: 1996, Irish Film: 100 Years by Arthur Flynn.

Israel

has produced few films, owing to problems of finance and language: Hill 24 Does Not Answer 55 is still the most notable, though a few comedies have been exported. The country's most successful producer-director combination was Yoram Globus and Menahem Golan who went from local youthful comedies such as Lemon Popsicle (still coining money in 2001 with the ninth movie in the series) to running the international Cannon Group, which foundered at the end of the 80s.

Israel's problems have been aired in Exodus, Judith, Cast a Giant Shadow, QB VII and Raid on Entebbe, while Ingrid Bergman appeared as Golda Meir in a mini series. Its one director with an international reputation is Amos Gitai, whose films explore contemporary problems. His Kadosh, set among an ultra-orthodox community in Jerusalem, was the first Israeli film for more than two decades to be accepted in competition at the Cannes Film Festival in 1999. Dover Kosashvili's first feature film Late Marriage, about a man torn between love and duty, found an international audience in 2001.

Italy

was an international force in the early years of cinema with spectaculars like Quo Vadis? 12 and Cabiria 14. It later succumbed to the power of Hollywood and was little heard from until the post-war realist movement brought de Sica to world eminence. Bicycle Thieves was the high-water mark of achievement; afterwards came a slow slide into the commercialism of the 50s, which however re-established Rome – and Cinecittà Studios – as a world force in film-making, together with the idiosyncratic fancies of Fellini and Antonioni. Many big Hollywood films were made on Italian locations, the familiar cut-rate spectaculars peopled by mythical strong-men along with the 'spaghetti westerns' which aped Hollywood traditions but added an extra helping of violence. Dario Argento gained a following for his baroque thrillers and horror films. New life was signalled by Bernardo Bertolucci's Before the Revolution 64 and Marco Bellocchio's Fist in His Pocket 65. Bellocchio's later films have not travelled as well as Bertolucci's, who soon established himself as an international director with a series of films on sex and politics and sexual politics: The Conformist 70, Last Tango in Paris 72, 1900 76, La Luna 79. More recently, he has made films of great beauty and less message. Other notable directors include Paolo and Vittorio Taviani, whose best work so far is Padre Padrone 77, and Ermanno Olmi. Among film composers, few can match the output or the style of Ennio Morricone, while Roberto Benigni has an international reputation as a comic actor, despite the failure of his Son of the Pink Panther. Benigni's Life Is Beautiful/La Vita è Bella, a comedy in the unlikely setting of a concentration camp, won him many international awards both as director and actor, though his Pinocchio 02 was less admired. Nanni Moretti broke away from personal, autobiographical films with The Son's Room, which won the Palme D'Or at the Cannes Film Festival in 2001.

Japan

has a cinema tradition all of its own, based on No plays and samurai epics, both with a style quite alien to the West. The first breakthrough was made in the 50s by the vivid films of Akira Kurosawa, such as Rashomon and Seven Samurai; other directors who came to be respected if not entirely understood are Gosho, Ozu, Mizoguchi, Ichikawa, Kinugasa, Kobayashi, Naruse and Kinoshita. In the 60s Japan produced a new wave of directors including Imamura, Oshima and Shinoda. The former actor Juzo Itami gained an international reputation for his comedies of Japanese life and customs. Some innovative animators, who learned their craft working on popular comic-books, displayed an approach far removed from the Disney tradition in such animated films as Akira and Barefoot Gen. Younger Japanese directors are now incorporating the style in their live-action films. The greatest success so far at the Japanese box-office has been an animated film, Hiyao Miyazaki's Spirited Away 01, replacing his earlier success Princess Mononoke 97.

Actor-director Takeshi Kitano enhanced his cult reputation in the West by winning the Golden Lion at the Venice Film Festival with his Fireworks/Hana-bi. He was also one of the stars of Oshima's Taboo/Gohatto 99, which was the director's first film for thirteen years, and of Kinji Fukasaku's Battle Royale, the sensational movie about teenage schoolchildren killing each over in an elaborate war-game orchestrated by their elders. Hirokazu Kore-Eda's delicate After Life also gained international acclaim. But the Japanese films that did best overseas in recent years were horror movies, including The Ring/Ringu trilogy, the first of which has already been remade by Hollywood, The Grudge and Dark Water, both also remade by Hollywood, and Takashi Miike's chilling Audition/Odishon 00. What the future holds, though, remains uncertain now that many Japanese companies have been investing heavily in Hollywood, following Sony's acquisition of Columbia Pictures and its part ownership of MGM and United Artists.

Korea

Korean film can be said to have come of age in 2004, when Park Chan-wook's Oldboy won the Grand Jury Prize at the Cannes Film Festival and Kim Ki-duk's Samaria took the Silver Bear for best director at the Berlin Film Festival.

The awards marked the climax of a decade of re-invigorated and original cinema that coincided with the end of military rule in South Korea and the election of a civilian president. Korean cinema, internationally speaking, refers to the output of South Korean directors. Although North Korea has its own busy industry, its films mostly reflect the propagandist aims of its communist regime.

Korea's film history dates back to the 1920s, but most of the feature films made before the 1950s were lost or destroyed during the country's turbulent existence during the 20th century. In the early 1900s, Japan first occupied Korea and then annexed it in an often brutal manner, forcing its culture on the Koreans. After World War II, the country was divided into the republic of the South and the communist dictatorship of the North. The Korean war at the beginning of the 1950s caused great devastation and left the country still divided.

Although film making began again in the mid 1950s, the country's military rulers kept a firm control over the industry, stifling creativity. An output of melodramas and action movies rarely reached audiences beyond Asia. Sang-ok Shin (1926-) won the Silver Bear at the Berlin Film Festival in 1962 for his To the Last Day/Isaengmyeong Dahadorok and also made the effective The Dream/Ggum in 1967 about a lecherous Buddhist monk, and the period drama Eunuch/Naeshi in 1968. He spent eight years working, apparently unwillingly, as a producer in North Korea before seeking asylum in Hollywood where, as Simon Sheen, he directed and produced The Three Ninjas series.

The notable survivor from this period is Im Kwon-taek (1936-), who began directing in 1962 and 96 films later, made the impressive Drunk on Women and Poetry/Chiwaseon in 2002, a film concerned, as many Korean films are, with a quest for a national identity.

Another major theme has been the re-unification of the North and South. Park Chan-wook's Joint Security Area/Gongdong Gyeongbi Guyeok JSA was a tense thriller about a border incident, in which attempts at fraternization by soldiers from both sides were thwarted by their superior officers intent on maintaining the status quo. Shiri, a box-office success directed by Kang Je-gyu (1962-), was also a thriller, about a North Korean unit infiltrating the South as part of a plot to re-unite the two countries. Kang Je-gyu had another hit with Brotherhood/Tae Guk Gi, set in the Korean war.

In 2003, Silmido, directed by Kang Wu-suk (1960-) dealt, in The Dirty Dozen manner, with a failed attempt by a North Korean unit to assassinate South Korea's president and South Korea's retaliation by training a group of criminals to kill the North Korean leader.

Other directors of interest include Park Kwang-su (1955-), whose best films so far have been The Black Republic/Keduldo Urichurum, in 1990, To the Starry Island/Geu Seome Gago Shibda in 1993 and A Single Spark/Jeon Tae-il in 1996, all dealing with the impact of politics on individual lives, Hong Sang-soo (1960-), whose The Day in a Pig Fell in the Well/Daijiga Umule Pajinnal in 1996, a drama of a failed writer and his relationship with two women, announced the arrival of a unusual talent, confirmed by his latest film Geuk Jang Jeon, about a suicidal young couple, and Jang Sun-woo, whose best films include Passage to Buddha/Hwaomkyung (1993) A Petal/Ggotip (1996), and Lies/Gojitmal 1999).

But it is Park Chan-wook and Kim Ki-duk whose works attract the biggest Western audiences. Park's violent revenge dramas Sympathy for Mr Vengeance/Boksuneun Naui Geot in 2002 and Lady Vengeance/Chinjeolhan Geumjassi were both much praised. Kim Ki-duk is the quirkiest of the new breed of directors; his work ranges from the brutal and delicate The Isle to the Buddhist Spring, Summer, Autumn, Winter and Spring Bom Yeoreum Gaeul Gyeoul Geurigo Bom (though he is a Catholic), the almost dialogue-free fantasy 3-Iron/Bin-jip to Samaria, which deals with death and teenage prostitution.

Korean cinema's current vitality probably owes something to a quota system that forces cinemas to show local films for some 140 days a year, something that American studios regard as unfair and have campaigned to have abolished. Before that happens, Hollywood is likely to remake some of the current spate of Korean horror movies. Ahn Byung-ki's three films Nightmare/Gawi, Pon/Phone and Ouija Board/Bunshinsaba, with their long-haired female phantoms, owe much to the Japanese hits Ring and The Grudge, and are also finding a similar, enthusiastic international audience.

Mexico

was a late starter in the feature film market, but made a few from about 1920, hampered by competition from Hollywood, which also plundered most of its best actors. The late 30s saw an improvement, with Emilio Fernandez as leading director, and in the 40s Buñuel settled there and made some small, stylish films. More recent productions have varied between cheap Hollywood-aping hokum and dour politically conscious social dramas. Mexican cinema has continued to stagger from crisis to crisis. Among the interesting directors to emerge were Arturo Ripstein and Paul Leduc with his films Reed: Mexico Insurgente 73 and Frida 86.

But Mexico's biggest impact on international cinema came iwith the release of Alejandro Gonzalez Inarritu's Love's a Bitch/Amores Perros 00 and Alfonso Cuaron's exuberant road movie And Your Mother Too/Y Tu Mama Tambien 01.

New Zealand.

Director Peter Jackson's The Lord of the Rings trilogy put New Zealand firmly on the cinematic map. His career, from a director of local, low-budget horrors to the master of international big-budget fantasies provided a model for other aspiring film-makers.

New Zealand's feature film industry is relatively young. Until the mid-1970s most of the country's films were documentary shorts, which were usually intended to attract tourists and were produced under the auspices of the National Film Unit. The best known director was the expatriate Len Lye, whose animated short films were made in Britain and America. Local features were rare. Rudall Hayward made six in the 20s and 30s, and influential producer John Shea (1920-2001) was responsible for the only three features made in the 50s and 60s.

It was not until 1977 that feature films appeared with any regularity. Then the Australian-born Roger Donaldson made Sleeping Dogs starring Sam NEILL, and Geoffrey MURPHY directed Wild Man with Bruno LAWRENCE who had been a drummer in Murphy's band and became the country's leading actor until his untimely death in the 80s. Donaldson's next film Smash Palace was a big enough success to take him to Hollywood. The loss of major talents to America has been constant: Neill and Donaldson's cinematographer Michael SERESIN decamped to California, though Neill maintains a home in the country. Murphy, after making three more local films – Goodbye Pork Pie, Utu and The Quiet Earth – also moved to Hollywood. Tony Williams, another of the country's emerging directors, made one feature, Solo, before moving to Australia and directing commercials. (New Zealand-born director Jane CAMPION and actor Russell CROWE have also preferred Australia.) Vincent WARD left for the United States in the 80s after making two highly individual films, Vigil and The Navigators. Sam PILLSBURY's horror movie The Scarecrow, starring the Hollywood veteran John CARRADINE, took him to a so far undistringuished American career.

Some have remained behind, and found inspiration in local stories. Actor and screenwriter Ian MUNE, who co-wrote Donaldson's Sleeping Dogs, turned to directing, notably with The End of the Golden Weather and What Becomes of the Broken Hearted?. Barry Barclay's Ngati, scripted by Tama Poata, was the first feature to deal with modern-day Maori experience, though it was commercials director Lee TAMAHORI's powerful Once Were Warriors a few years later that became an international success and, perhaps inevitably, also took Tamahori to Hollywood, where he directed thrillers and the James Bond movie Die Another Day.

Perhaps Jackson's example in continuing to work in New Zealand will inspire others to remain. His first film, Bad Taste, began as a self-financed, low-budget horror and he followed it with another witty, splatter movie, Meet the Feebles, before displaying restraint with his Heavenly Creatures. The immense commercial success of THE LORD OF THE RINGS has demonstrated not only his talents but those of his technical and artistic crew, as well as revealing the various splendours of the New Zealand landscape. He followed with another blockbuster, a long and spectacular version of King Kong, which was self-evidently the work of a fan of the original movie.

Norway

took many years to produce distinctive movies, having been overshadowed by both Sweden and Denmark for most of this century. Audiences, which were, of necessity, tiny in such a small country, were happy to watch foreign films or those made by their Scandinavian neighbours. Few production companies lasted more than a year or so, and it was not until the 20s that the country produced, in Rasmus Breistein (1890-1976), a director whose films reflected national preoccupations. Norwegian movies began to reach an international audience in the mid-80s, with Ola Solum's Orion's Belt, a somewhat plodding cold war thriller. Rather better was Nils GAUP's Pathfinder 87, a tense thriller based on a Lapp legend, though Gaup's other films were less interesting. More recently, Pal SLETAUNE's Junk Mail 97, in which a postman becomes involved in the affairs of a young woman, and the quirky documentary Cool and Crazy 01 have shown that there is still some life in Norwegian cinema to interest an international audience.

Norsk Film, the state production company, was closed in 2001, giving way to private companies who may receive financial support from a national Film Fund.

Poland

had a vigorous cinema school from the earliest days, but subjects were dominated by Russian influence. After World War II Alexander FORD led a new vigorous group of film-makers including WAJDA and MUNK, whose films of post-war problems became world famous. Later directors of note included POLANSKI, KAWALEROWICZ and SKOLIMOWSKI in the 50s and 60s. That era also produced the charismatic actor Zbigniew CYBULSKI, star of Wajda's Ashes and Diamonds. Like James DEAN, with whom he was often compared, he died young, falling beneath a train. In the 70s, more fine directors emerged, including Krzysztof KIESLOWSKI and Krzysztof ZANUSSI. More recently, Agnieszka HOLLAND, a screenwriter and former assistant to Zanussi, has become an accomplished director. As in the past, Polish directors often work away from their home country where there are no problems of censorship. The government banned Ryszard Bugajski's 1982 film The Interrogation, and it was not seen until the 1990 Cannes Festival, by which time he had long emigrated in order to continue working.

In the post-Communist era, there has been a move to large-scale film-making, notably based on the novels of Henryk SIENKIEWICZ. Jerzy HOFFMAN completed filming his trilogy of novels dealing with life in the 17th century, begun in 1968, with With Fire and Sword 99, and Jerzy Kawalerowicz directed the latest version of Quo Vadis? 01, which was the most expensive film made in the country. Roman Polanski returned to his homeland to make his award-winning The Pianist 02, set in the Warsaw ghetto during the Nazi occupation.

Russia

has been one of the greatest influences on world cinema, thanks chiefly to a small group of highly talented men. Before the Revolution, Russian films were old-fashioned and literary; but the Bolsheviks saw the great potential of the film as propaganda and actively encouraged the maturing talents of such men as EISENSTEIN (Battleship Potemkin, October, The General Line, Alexander Nevsky, Ivan the Terrible), PUDOVKIN (Mother, The End of St Petersburg, The Deserter, General Suvorov), DOVZHENKO (Arsenal, Earth), Turin (Turksib) and PETROV (Peter the Great). DONSKOI in The Childhood of Maxim Gorki and its two sequels was allowed to be nostalgic, but this vein only occasionally comes to the surface, most recently in The Lady with a Little Dog. The light touch comes hard to Russian film-makers, but ALEXANDROV achieved it in Volga Volga, and recently there have been signs of greater effort in this direction, at least for home consumption. The stolidity of most Russian films since World War II should not blind anyone to the enormous influence which the best Soviet work has had on film-makers the world over, especially in its exploration of the potentialities of camera movement, editing and sound; all these techniques were seen at their best in the mid-60s in a seven-hour version of War and Peace.

Slovakia

was created in 1993 with the division of Czechoslovakia into two countries. Even before the split, Slovak film produciton was intermittent and few films got international distribution. Lack of money and confusion over privatisation of the film industry marked the early years. Director Martin Sulik (1962-) gained some reputation outside his homeland, as did cinematographer Martin Strba (1961-). But problems remain: the country's population is no more than 5 million and audiences are declining, financial backing is hard to find, and despite privatisation the state has maintained tacit control over the means of production.
see CZECHOSLOVAKIA.

Spain

produced few distinguished films before the Civil War, BUÑUEL having settled in France, and afterwards the product was dictated by politics apart from a few pleasing comedies and melodramas by such directors as BERLANGA and BARDEM. Buñuel made a few visits in the 60s. Following the death of the dictator General Franco in 1975, Spanish cinema underwent a renaissance, although some talented directors had emerged in the 60s and 70s, notably Carlos SAURA. They were followed by a new generation of directors that included Victor ERICE, BIGAS LUNA, Fernando TRUEBA, Julio MEDEM and Pedro ALMODÓVAR, whose films made international stars of Carmen MAURA, Victoria ABRIL and Antonio BANDERAS. The country's newest international stars are Alejandro AMENABAR, director of the English-language The Others and Open Your Eyes, which featured actress Penelope CRUZ who went to Hollywood to appear in Cameron Crowe's re-make Vanilla Sky.

Sweden

was at the forefront of world film production as early as 1910. Famous directors such as Victor SJOSTROM and Mauritz STILLER were well known by 1912, and tended to make films of Swedish legends, which appealed by their very strangeness. Sir Arne's Treasure 19, Thy Soul Shall Bear Witness 20, The Atonement of Gosta Berling 24, are among the best-known titles of the Swedish silent period; but in the mid-20s all Sweden's best talent – including the newly discovered Greta GARBO – moved towards Hollywood and the home industry was eclipsed until the late 40s saw the appearance of talents like Gosta WERNER (Midvinterblot), Arne SUCKSDORFF (Rhythm of a City) and Alf SJOBERG (Frenzy). In the 50s the Swedish vein of romantic pessimism was developed to its ultimate in the semi-mystic but commercial films of Ingmar BERGMAN, who remains the most significant name in Scandinavian cinema. In the 60s and 70s, Bo WIDERBERG, Vilgot SJOMAN and Jan TROELL established international reputations with widely differing styles. In the 80s and 90s, Lasse HALLSTROM went to America to work following the success of his My Life as a Dog, and Bille AUGUST won the top prize at the Cannes Film Festival with Pelle the Conqueror and Best Intentions, from an autobiographical screenplay by Ingmar Bergman, both starring the distinguished Swedish actor Max VON SYDOW. Swedish actors, notably Stellan SKARSGARD and Peter STORMARE, have also achieved international reputations by appearing in Hollywood movies while continuing to act in local films: Skarsgard in Anders Grönros's The Glassblower's Children and Stormare in the title role in Harald Zwart's thriller Hamilton. But Ingmar Bergman still remains the most potent force: although he has said that he will direct no more films, he nevertheless made a powerful TV film, In the Presence of a Clown.

Roy ANDERSSON, a director from an older generation, made his first film for twenty-five years, the surrealist Songs From the Second Floor 00, while Lukas MOODYSSON is the newest director to find an international audience with his films Fucking Amal 98, Together 00, and Lija 4-ever 02.

Thailand.

Tears of the Black Tiger, a flamboyantly camp cowboy romance in over-saturated colour, became the first Thai film to be screened in the Cannes Film Festival in 2001. It announced, after a history of more than a century, the international emergence of Thai cinema. It also marked an outward-looking approach in the country's film industry that dates from 1997 when a group of directors from television commercials made their cinematic breakthrough, offering movies that differed both from the dominant Hollywood offerings and the local formulaic romantic, musical soap operas.

Pen-ek Ratanaruang, a former art director who trained in New York, made Fun Bar Karaoke, which he followed two years later with an acclaimed thriller 6ixtynin9 and, in 2001, a look at Bangkok's pop music industry in Mon Rak Transistor. Nonzee Nimibutr's Dang Bireley and the Young Gangsters was a local hit. His second film Nang Nak 99, based on a famous Thai ghost story, reached the international festival circuit, as did his third Jan Dara, adapted from a best-selling novel of the 60s, which caused censorship problems with its depiction of rape and lesbian love. The film was produced by Hong Kong producer-director Peter Chan, who realised that Thai films could travel the world. Others that have done so include Yongyoot Thongkongtoon's Iron Ladies, a comedy about a gay and transvestite volleyball team that was the first Thai film to get a commercial release in the United States, and Bangkok Dangerous, a fast-moving thriller directed by the Chinese twins Danny and Oxide PANG. The greatest box-office success, grossing more than twice as much as the previous champion Titanic, has been Suriyothai, an epic story, set in the 16th century, of a elephant-riding Thai queen's armed resistance to the Burmese. Its director Prince Chatrichalem Yukoi, who studied film at the University of Southern California, has sought the assistance of Francis Ford COPPOLA in re-editing the movie for an international audience.

Royal and American influence has been present in Thai cinema since its beginning. In 1900 Prince Sanbhassatra of Siam brought into the country cameras and equipment so that he could film his brother King Rama V at royal occasions. Hollywood director the Canadian-born Henry MacRae arrived in the 20s to make the silent Miss Suwanna of Siam/Nang Sao Suwan using local actors. The first locally-made silent movie was released in 1927 and silent films continued to be made for another thirty or so years. That year, too, Merian C. COOPER and Ernest B. SCHOEDSACK arrived to make the influential documentary Chang, about the life of a Thai rice-grower. For the next 70 years Thai cinema vanished from the international scene. Much of Thai's cinematic past is lost, since more than half of its films have been destroyed. Its future remains uncertain, since directors may have to choose between satisfying a local audience or an international one. Wisit Sasanatieng's Tears of the Black Tiger, which poked fun at Thai films of the 50s and 60s, did better in Europe than at home. Although censorship has eased and films are no longer judged by a board composed of policemen, local attitudes may still inhibit directors seeking a more cosmopolitan audience.

United States of America.

Film-making in America has become synonymous with Hollywood, which was founded in 1912 when a group of independent producers headed west to Los Angeles from New York to avoid the effects of a patents trust. By 1913 Hollywood was established as the film-maker's Mecca, and continued so for forty years. Several factors combined in the late 40s to affect its unique concentration. Actors transformed themselves into independent producers and reduced the power of the 'front office'; stars now made the films they liked instead of the ones to which they were assigned. The consequent break-up of many big studios, which now simply sold production space to independent outfits, weakened continuity of product. Each production now had to start from scratch; there was no longer a training ground for new talent, nor was the old production gloss always in evidence. The communist witch-hunt unfortunately drove many leading talents to Europe, and some found they preferred Shepperton or Cinecittà to California. The coming of CinemaScope, a device to halt the fall in box-office returns which resulted from the beginning of commercial TV, meant that real locations were now necessary, as studio sets would show up on the screen. So began the world-wide trekking now evident in American production: generally speaking only routine product and TV episodes are made in the film city itself, but each distribution set-up will have up to a dozen films being made in various parts of the globe. Nevertheless, it still maintains its dominance of world cinema and attracts talents from many other nations, to the detriment of their own film industries.

Books about Hollywood include Hello Hollywood (1962) by Allen Rivkin and Laura Kerr; Hollywood (1974) by Garson Kanin; The Hollywood Exiles (1976) by John Baxter; Hollywood and the Great Fan Magazines (1970) by Martin Levin; Hollywood the Haunted House (1969) by Paul Mayersberg; Flesh and Fantasy (1978) by Penny Stallings; This Was Hollywood (1960) by Beth Day; Gone Hollywood (1979) by Christopher Finch and Linda Rosenkrantz; The Pink Palace (1978) by Sandra Lee Stuart; The Garden of Allah (1971) by Sheilah Graham; The Shattered Silents (1978) by Alexander Walker; Some Time in the Sun (1976) by Tom Dardis; Hollywood the Dream Factory (1951) by Hortense Powdermaker; The Hollywood Studios (1978) by Roy Pickard; Hollywood Babylon (1975) by Kenneth Anger. And some classics: Hollywood, The Movie Colony, The Movie Makers (1939) by Leo Rosten; America at the Movies (1945) by Margaret Farrand Thorp; Picture (1951) by Lillian Ross; The Studio (1968) by John Gregory Dunne; Hollywood, the Pioneers (1979) by Kevin Brownlow and John Kobal; The Parade's Gone By (1968) by Kevin Brownlow; The Real Tinsel (1970) by Bernard Rosenberg and Harry Silverstein; The Fifty Year Decline and Fall of Hollywood (1961) by Ezra Goodman; City of Nets (1986) by Otto Friedrich; You'll Never Eat Lunch in This Town Again (1991) by Julia Phillips; Naked Hollywood: Money and Power in the Movies Today (1990) by Nicholas Kent.
see MOVIE STUDIOS AND PRODUCTION COMPANIES (section 4)

7

MOVIE LISTS

Halliwell's Top 100 Films

(Taken from Halliwell's Top 1000: The Ultimate Movie Countdown, published 2005)

1 Tokyo Story (Yasujiro Ozu 1953)
2 The Rules of the Game/La Règle du Jeu (Jean Renoir 1939)
3 Lawrence of Arabia (David Lean 1962)
4 The Godfather Trilogy (Francis Ford Coppola 1972)
5 The Seven Samurai (Akira Kurosawa 1954)
6 Citizen Kane (Orson Welles 1941)
7 Raging Bull (Martin Scorsese 1980)
8 Vertigo (Alfred Hitchcock 1958)
9 Some Like It Hot (Billy Wilder 1959)
10 Eight and a Half (Federico Fellini 1963)
11 Dr Strangelove (Stanley Kubrick 1963)
12 Singin' in the Rain (Gene Kelly, Stanley Donen 1952)
13 Taxi Driver (Martin Scorsese 1976)
14 The Searchers (John Ford 1956)
15 The Seventh Seal (Ingmar Bergman 1957)
16 Sweet Smell of Success (Alexander Mackendrick 1957)
17 Sunset Boulevard (Billy Wilder 1950)
18 The Third Man (Carol Reed 1949)
19 The Apu Trilogy (Satyajit Ray 1955-59)
20 Les Enfants du Paradis (Marcel Carné 1945)
21 The Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie (Luis Buñuel 1972)
22 Andrei Rublev (Andrei Tarkovsky 1966)
23 The Passion of Joan of Arc (Carl Dreyer 1928)
24 Viridiana (Luis Buñuel 1961)
25 Toy Story (John Lasseter 1995)
26 Rashomon (Akira Kurosawa 1951)
27 Wild Strawberries (Ingmar Bergman 1957)
28 To Be or Not to Be (Ernst Lubitsch 1942)
29 Sunrise (F. W. Murnau 1927)
30 The Lord of the Rings Trilogy (Peter Jackson 2001-03)
31 2001: A Space Odyssey (Stanley Kubrick 1968)
32 The Battle of Algiers (Gillo Pontecorvo 1965)
33 Alexander Nevsky (Sergei Eisenstein 1938)
34 Belle de Jour (Luis Buñuel 1967)
35 Casablanca (Michael Curtiz 1942)
36 GoodFellas (Martin Scorsese 1990)
37 Tristana (Luis Buñuel 1970)
38 The Magnificent Ambersons (Orson Welles 1942)
39 Breaking the Waves (Lars von Trier 1996)
40 Sullivan's Travels (Preston Sturges 1941)
41 Frankenstein (James Whale 1931)
42 The Battleship Potemkin (Sergei Eisenstein 1925)
43 Double Indemnity (Billy Wilder 1944)
44 One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (Milos Forman 1975)
45 Weekend (Jean-Luc Godard 1968)
46 Jules et Jim (François Truffaut 1962)
47 Breathless/A Bout de Souffle (Jean-Luc Godard 1960)
48 Bonnie and Clyde (Arthur Penn 1967)
49 Wings of Desire/Der Himmel über Berlin (Wim Wenders 1987)
50 Fitzcarraldo (Werner Herzog 1982)
51 If… (Lindsay Anderson 1968)
52 The Wild Bunch (Sam Peckinpah 1969)
53 The Red Shoes (Michael Powell, Emeric Pressburger 1948)
54 Annie Hall (Woody Allen 1977)
55 Tom Jones (Tony Richardson 1963)
56 On the Waterfront (Elia Kazan 1954)
57 West Side Story (Robert Wise, Jerome Robbins 1961)
58 Saturday Night and Sunday Morning (Karel Reisz 1960)
59 The Grapes of Wrath (John Ford 1940)
60 Great Expectations (David Lean 1946)
61 The Leopard (Luchino Visconti 1963)
62 Schindler's List (Steven Spielberg 1993)
63 Ashes and Diamonds (Andrzej Wajda 1958)
64 A Nous la Liberté (René Clair 1931)
65 Antoine Doinel Tetralogy (François Truffaut 1959-79)
66 Mr Smith Goes to Washington (Frank Capra 1939)
67 Monsieur Hulot's Holiday (Jacques Tati 1953)
68 The Music Box & Laurel & Hardy shorts (James Parrott 1932)
69 Chinatown (Roman Polanski 1974)
70 Star Wars Trilogy (George Lucas, Richard Marquand, Irvin Kershner 1977-83)
71 Gosford Park (Robert Altman 2001)
72 Rear Window (Alfred Hitchcock 1954)
73 Aguirre, Wrath of God (Werner Herzog 1972)
74 A Short Film about Killing (Krzysztof Kieslowski 1988)
75 *M*A*S*H* (Robert Altman 1970)
76 Cries and Whispers/Viskningar och Rop (Ingmar Bergman 1972)
77 All the President's Men (Alan J. Pakula 1976)
78 Cabiria (Federico Fellini 1957)
79 King Kong (Merian C. Cooper, Ernest Schoedsack 1933)
80 Gone with the Wind (Victor Fleming 1939)
81 All Quiet on the Western Front (Lewis Milestone 1930)
82 Fanny and Alexander (Ingmar Bergman 1982)
83 North by Northwest (Alfred Hitchcock 1959)
84 The Band Wagon (Vincente Minnelli 1953)
85 Yojimbo (Akira Kurosawa 1961)
86 Brief Encounter (David Lean 1945)
87 Deliverance (John Boorman 1972)
88 Fargo (Joel Coen 1996)
89 Cabaret (Bob Fosse 1972)
90 Once Upon a Time in America (Sergio Leone 1984)
91 Days of Heaven (Terrence Malick 1978)
92 The Adventures of Robin Hood (William Keighley, Michael Curtiz 1938)
93 High Noon (Fred Zinnemann 1952)
94 His Girl Friday (Howard Hawks 1940)
95 Manhattan (Woody Allen 1979)
96 Duck Soup (Leo McCarey 1933)
97 Henry V (Laurence Olivier 1944)
98 This Is Spinal Tap (Rob Reiner 1984)
99 Bad Day at Black Rock (John Sturges 1955)
100 The Graduate (Mike Nichols 1967)

American Film Institute's Greatest American Movies

In 1977, the AFI polled its 35,000 members to select the greatest American films. From this, the AFI produced a list of the 50 Greatest American Films. Members then voted again to produce a list of the Top Ten.

In 1998, to celebrate 100 years of movies, a similar exercise was carried out. Four hundred films were listed by AFI historians. Criteria used included critical recognition, popularity over time, historical significance, cultural impact and major award-winners. A panel of experts then voted for films from this list to produce a Top 100.

Both lists are noteworthy for the preponderance of recent films over older ones.

AFI's Top 50 Greatest American Films 1977 (in chronological order)

The Birth of a Nation (D. W. Griffith, 1915)
Intolerance (D. W. Griffith, 1916)
The General (Buster Keaton, Clyde Bruckman, 1926)
It Happened One Night (Frank Capra, 1934)
All Quiet on the Western Front (Lewis Milestone, 1930)
City Lights (Charles Chaplin, 1931)
King Kong (Merian C. Cooper, Ernest Schoedsack, 1933)
Modern Times (Charles Chaplin, 1936)
Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs (David Hand, 1938)
Gone with the Wind (Victor Fleming, 1939)
The Wizard of Oz (Victor Fleming, 1939)
Wuthering Heights (William Wyler, 1939)
Fantasia (Samuel Armstrong, James Algar, Bill Roberts et al, 1940)
The Grapes of Wrath (John Ford, 1940)
Citizen Kane (Orson Welles, 1941)
The Maltese Falcon (John Huston, 1941)
Casablanca (Michael Curtiz, 1942)
The Best Years of Our Lives (William Wyler, 1946)
It's a Wonderful Life (Frank Capra, 1946)
The Treasure of the Sierra Madre (John Huston, 1948)
All About Eve (Joseph Mankiewicz, 1950)
Sunset Boulevard (Billy Wilder, 1950)
The African Queen (John Huston 1951)
A Streetcar Named Desire (Elia Kazan, 1951)
Singin' in the Rain (Gene Kelly, Stanley Donen, 1952)
High Noon (Fred Zinnemann, 1952)
On the Waterfront (Elia Kazan, 1954)
The Bridge on the River Kwai (David Lean, 1957)
Ben-Hur (William Wyler, 1959)
Psycho (Alfred Hitchcock, 1960)
West Side Story (Robert Wise, Jerome Robbins, 1961)
Lawrence of Arabia (David Lean, 1962)
To Kill a Mockingbird (Robert Mulligan, 1962)
The Sound of Music (Robert Wise, 1965)
Dr Strangelove (Stanley Kubrick, 1967)
The Graduate (Mike Nichols, 1967)
2001: A Space Odyssey (Stanley Kubrick, 1968)
Midnight Cowboy (John Schlesinger, 1969)
Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid (George Roy Hill, 1969)
Cabaret (Bob Fosse, 1972)
The Godfather (Francis Ford Coppola, 1972)
The Sting (George Roy Hill, 1973)
The Godfather, Part II (Francis Ford Coppola, 1974)
Chinatown (Roman Polanski, 1974)
Nashville (Robert Altman, 1975)
One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (Milos Forman, 1975)
Jaws (Steven Spielberg, 1975)
All the President's Men (Alan J. Pakula, 1976)
Rocky (John Avildsen. 1976)
Star Wars (George Lucas, 1977)

AFI's Top 10 American Films 1977

»1 Gone with the Wind (Victor Fleming, 1939)
»2 Citizen Kane (Orson Welles, 1941)
»3 Casablanca (Michael Curtiz, 1942)
»4 The African Queen (John Huston, 1952)
»5 The Grapes of Wrath (John Ford, 1940)
»6 One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (Milos Forman, 1975)
»7 Singin' in the Rain (Gene Kelly, Stanley Donen, 1952)
»8 Star Wars (George Lucas, 1977)
»9 2001: A Space Odyssey (Stanley Kubrick, 1968)
10 The Wizard of Oz (Victor Fleming, 1939)

The AFI's 400 Greatest American Films 1998 (in chronological order)

Richard III (Andre Calmettes, James Keane, 1912)
The Birth of a Nation (D. W. Griffith, 1915)
The Cheat (Cecil B. De Mille, 1915)
Intolerance (D. W. Griffith, 1916)
The Poor Little Rich Girl (Maurice Tourneur, 1917)
Within Our Gates (Oscar Micheaux, 1920)
The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse (Rex Ingram, 1921)
The Kid (Charles Chaplin, 1921)
Safety Last (Sam Taylor, Fred Newmeyer, 1923)
The Thief of Bagdad (Raoul Walsh, 1924)
Greed (Erich von Stroheim, 1925)
The Big Parade (King Vidor, 1925)
The Gold Rush (Charles Chaplin, 1925)
The Phantom of the Opera (Rupert Julian, 1925)
Ben-Hur (Fred Niblo, 1926)
The General (Buster Keaton, Clyde Bruckman, 1926)
The Jazz Singer (Alan Crosland, 1927)
Sunrise (F. W. Murnau, 1927)
Wings (William Wellman, 1927)
The Crowd (King Vidor, 1928)
The Wind (Victor Sjostrom, 1928)
Broadway Melody (Harry Beaumont, 1929)
All Quiet on the Western Front (Lewis Milestone, 1930)
Morocco (Josef von Sternberg, 1930)
Cimarron (Wesley Ruggles, 1930)
Little Caesar (Mervyn Le Roy, 1931)
City Lights (Charles Chaplin, 1931)
Frankenstein (James Whale, 1931)
The Public Enemy (William Wellman, 1931)
Freaks (Tod Browning, 1932)
Grand Hotel (Edmund Goulding, 1932)
I am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang (Mervyn Le Roy, 1932)
Scarface: The Shame of a Nation (Howard Hawks, 1932)
Trouble in Paradise (Ernst Lubitsch, 1932)
Cavalcade (Frank Lloyd, 1933)
Duck Soup (Leo McCarey, 1933)
42nd Street (Lloyd Bacon, 1933)
King Kong (Merian C. Cooper, Ernest Schoedsack, 1933)
She Done Him Wrong (Lowell Sherman, 1933)
Sons of the Desert (William A. Selter, 1934)
It Happened One Night (Frank Capra, 1934)
The Scarlet Empress (Josef von Sternberg, 1934)
The Thin Man (W. S. Van Dyke, 1934)
David Copperfield (George Cukor, 1935)
The Little Colonel (David Butler, 1935)
Mutiny on the Bounty (Frank Lloyd, 1935)
A Night at the Opera (Sam Wood, 1935)
Top Hat (Mark Sandrich, 1935)
Dodsworth (William Wyler, 1936)
Fury (Fritz Lang, 1936)
The Great Ziegfeld (Robert Z. Leonard, 1936)
Mr Deeds Goes to Town (Frank Capra, 1936)
Modern Times (Charles Chaplin, 1936)
My Man Godfrey (Gregory La Cava, 1936)
Swing Time (George Stevens, 1936)
The Awful Truth (Leo McCarey, 1937)
Camille (George Cukor, 1937)
The Life of Emile Zola (William Dieterle, 1937)
Lost Horizon (Frank Capra, 1937)
Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs (David Hand, 1937)
A Star Is Born (William Wellman, 1937)
The Adventures of Robin Hood (William Keighley, Michael Curtiz, 1938)
Boys' Town (Norman Taurog, 1938)
Bringing Up Baby (Howard Hawks, 1938)
You Can't Take It with You (Frank Capra, 1938)
Babes in Arms (Busby Berkeley, 1939)
Beau Geste (William Wellman, 1939)
Destry Rides Again (George Marshall, 1939)
Gone with the Wind (Victor Fleming, 1939)
Goodbye, Mr Chips (Sam Wood, 1939)
Gunga Din (George Stevens, 1939)
Mr Smith Goes to Washington (Frank Capra, 1939)
Ninotchka (Ernst Lubitsch, 1939)
Only Angels Have Wings (Howard Hawks, 1939)
Stagecoach (John Ford, 1939)
The Wizard of Oz (Victor Fleming, 1939)
Wuthering Heights (William Wyler, 1939)
Young Mr Lincoln (John Ford, 1939)
The Bank Dick (Eddie Cline, 1940)
Fantasia (Samuel Armstrong, James Algar, Bill Roberts et al, 1940)
The Grapes of Wrath (John Ford, 1940)
His Girl Friday (Howard Hawks, 1940)
The Mark of Zorro (Rouben Mamoulian, 1940)
The Philadelphia Story (George Cukor, 1940)
Pinocchio (Ben Sharpsteen, Hamilton Luske, 1940)
Rebecca (Alfred Hitchcock, 1940)
Citizen Kane (Orson Welles, 1941)
How Green Was My Valley (John Ford, 1941)
The Lady Eve (Preston Sturges, 1941)

The Little Foxes (William Wyler, 1941)
The Maltese Falcon (John Huston, 1941)
Sergeant York (Howard Hawks, 1941)
Sullivan's Travels (Preston Sturges, 1941)
Bambi (David Hand, 1942)
Casablanca (Michael Curtiz, 1942)
Cat People (Jacques Tourneur, 1942)
The Magnificent Ambersons (Orson Welles, 1942)
Mrs Miniver (William Wyler, 1942)
Now, Voyager (Irving Rapper, 1942)
The Pride of the Yankees (Sam Wood, 1942)
Road to Morocco (David Butler, 1942)
To Be or Not to Be (Ernst Lubitsch, 1942)
Woman of the Year (George Stevens, 1942)
Yankee Doodle Dandy (Michael Curtiz, 1942)
Bataan (Tay Garnett, 1943)
Cabin in the Sky (Vincente Minnelli, 1943)
The Ox-Bow Incident (William Wellman, 1943)
Shadow of a Doubt (Alfred Hitchcock, 1943)
Miracle of Morgan's Creek (Preston Sturges, 1943)
Double Indemnity (Billy Wilder, 1944)
Going My Way (Leo McCarey, 1944)
Hail the Conquering Hero (Preston Sturges, 1944)
Laura (Otto Preminger, 1944)
Meet Me in St Louis (Vincente Minnelli, 1944)
Thirty Seconds over Tokyo (Mervyn Le Roy, 1944)
To Have and Have Not (Howard Hawks, 1945)
The Lost Weekend (Billy Wilder, 1945)
The Best Years of Our Lives (William Wyler, 1946)
The Big Sleep (Howard Hawks, 1946)
Gilda (Charles Vidor, 1946)
It's a Wonderful Life (Frank Capra, 1946)
My Darling Clementine (John Ford, 1946)
Notorious (Alfred Hitchcock, 1946)
The Yearling (Clarence Brown, 1946)
Gentleman's Agreement (Elia Kazan, 1947)
Miracle on 34th Street (George Seaton, 1947)
Out of the Past (Jacques Tourneur, 1947)
Force of Evil (Abraham Polonsky, 1948)
Red River (Howard Hawks, 1948)
Treasure of the Sierra Madre (John Huston, 1948)
Adam's Rib (George Cukor, 1949)
All the King's Men (Robert Rossen, 1949)
The Heiress (William Wyler, 1949)
Intruder in the Dust (Clarence Brown, 1949)
A Letter to Three Wives (Joseph Mankiewicz, 1949)
Sands of Iwo Jima (Allan Dwan, 1949)
The Third Man (Carol Reed, 1949)
Twelve o'Clock High (Henry King, 1949)
White Heat (Raoul Walsh, 1949)
All About Eve (Joseph Mankiewicz, 1950)
Cinderella (Wilfred Jackson, Hamilton Luske, Clyde Geronimi, 1950)
Gun Crazy (Joseph H. Lewis, 1950)
The Gunfighter (Henry King, 1950)
Sunset Boulevard (Billy Wilder, 1950)
Winchester '73 (Anthony Mann, 1950)
The African Queen (John Huston, 1951)
An American in Paris (Vincente Minnelli, 1951)
The Day the Earth Stood Still (Robert Wise, 1951)
A Place in the Sun (George Stevens, 1951)
Strangers on a Train (Alfred Hitchcock, 1951)
A Streetcar Named Desire (Elia Kazan, 1951)
The Greatest Show on Earth (Cecil B. De Mille, 1952)
High Noon (Fred Zinnemann, 1952)
The Quiet Man (John Ford, 1952)
Singin' in the Rain (Gene Kelly, Stanley Donen, 1952)
The Band Wagon (Vincente Minnelli, 1953)
From Here to Eternity (Fred Zinnemann, 1953)
Gentlemen Prefer Blondes (Howard Hawks, 1953)
Shane (George Stevens, 1953)
Stalag 17 (Billy Wilder, 1953)
The War of the Worlds (Byron Haskin, 1953)
The Caine Mutiny (Edward Dmytryk, 1954)
Carmen Jones (Otto Preminger, 1954)
On the Waterfront (Elia Kazan, 1954)
Rear Window (Alfred Hitchcock, 1954)
Salt of the Earth (Herbert Biberman, 1954)
A Star Is Born (George Cukor, 1954)
20,000 Leagues under the Sea (Richard Fleischer, 1954)
The Blackboard Jungle (Richard Brooks, 1955)
East of Eden (Elia Kazan, 1955)
Lady and the Tramp (Hamilton Luske, Clyde Geronimi, Wilfred Jackson, 1955)
Marty (Delbert Mann, 1955)
Mister Roberts (John Ford, Mervyn Le Roy, 1955)
The Night of the Hunter (Charles Laughton, 1955)
Oklahoma! (Fred Zinnemann, 1955)
Rebel Without a Cause (Nicholas Ray, 1955)
The Seven Year Itch (Billy Wilder, 1955)
Invasion of the Body Snatchers (Don Siegel, 1955)
Around the World in 80 Days (Michael Anderson, 1956)
Giant (George Stevens, 1956)
The Searchers (John Ford, 1956)
The Ten Commandments (Cecil B. De Mille, 1956)
An Affair to Remember (Leo McCarey, 1957)
The Bridge on the River Kwai (David Lean, 1957)
Paths of Glory (Stanley Kubrick, 1957)
12 Angry Men (Stanley Lumet, 1957)
The Defiant Ones (Stanley Kramer, 1958)
Gigi (Vincente Minnelli, 1958)
Run Silent, Run Deep (Robert Wise, 1958)
Touch of Evil (Orson Welles, 1958)
Vertigo (Alfred Hitchcock, 1958)
Anatomy of a Murder (Otto Preminger, 1959)
Ben-Hur (William Wyler, 1959)
The Diary of Anne Frank (George Stevens, 1959)
Imitation of Life (Douglas Sirk, 1959)
North by Northwest (Alfred Hitchcock, 1959)
On the Beach (Stanley Kramer, 1959)
Pillow Talk (Michael Gordon, 1959)
Shadows (John Cassavetes, 1959)
Some Like It Hot (Billy Wilder, 1959)
The Apartment (Billy Wilder, 1960)
Elmer Gantry (Richard Brooks, 1960)
Psycho (Alfred Hitchcock, 1960)
Spartacus (Stanley Kubrick, 1960)
Breakfast at Tiffany's (Blake Edwards, 1961)
El Cid (Anthony Mann, 1961)
The Hustler (Robert Rossen, 1961)
Judgment at Nuremberg (Stanley Kramer, 1961)
101 Dalmatians (Wolfgang Reitherman, Hamilton Luske, Clyde Geronimi, 1961)
A Raisin in the Sun (Daniel Petrie, 1961)
Splendor in the Grass (Elia Kazan, 1961)
West Side Story (Robert Wise, Jerome Robbins, 1961)
Days of Wine and Roses (Blake Edwards, 1962)
Lawrence of Arabia (David Lean, 1962)
The Longest Day (Andrew Marton, Ken Annakin, Bernhard Wicki, 1962)
The Manchurian Candidate (John Frankenheimer, 1962)
To Kill a Mockingbird (Robert Mulligan, 1962)
Whatever Happened to Baby Jane? (Robert Aldrich, 1962)
The Birds (Alfred Hitchcock, 1963)
Cleopatra (Joseph Mankiewicz, 1963)
From Russia with Love (Terence Young, 1963)
Hud (Martin Ritt, 1963)
It's a Mad Mad Mad Mad World (Stanley Kramer, 1963)
The Pink Panther (Blake Edwards, 1963)
Tom Jones (Tony Richardson, 1963)
Dr Strangelove (Stanley Kubrick, 1963)
The Americanization of Emily (Arthur Hiller, 1964)
Goldfinger (Guy Hamilton, 1964)
Mary Poppins (Robert Stevenson, 1964)
My Fair Lady (George Cukor, 1964)
Cat Ballou (Eliot Silverstein, 1965)
Doctor Zhivago (David Lean, 1965)
The Sound of Music (Robert Wise, 1965)
Fantastic Voyage (Richard Fleischer, 1966)
A Man for All Seasons (Fred Zinnemann, 1966)
Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? (Mike Nichols, 1966)
Two for the Road (Stanley Donen, 1966)
Barefoot in the Park (Gene Saks, 1967)
Bonnie and Clyde (Arthur Penn, 1967)
Cool Hand Luke (Stuart Rosenberg, 1967)
The Graduate (Mike Nichols, 1967)
Guess Who's Coming to Dinner (Stanley Kramer, 1967)
In Cold Blood (Richard Brooks, 1967)
In the Heat of the Night (Norman Jewison, 1967)
The Jungle Book (Wolfgang Reitherman, 1967)
The Producers (Mel Brooks, 1968)
Bullitt (Peter Yates, 1968)
Funny Girl (William Wyler, 1968)
Night of the Living Dead (George A. Romero, 1968)
Oliver! (Carol Reed, 1968)
Planet of the Apes (Franklin Schaffner, 1968)
Rosemary's Baby (Roman Polanski, 1968)
2001: A Space Odyssey (Stanley Kubrick, 1968)
Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid (George Roy Hill, 1969)
Easy Rider (Dennis Hopper, 1969)
Medium Cool (Haskell Wexler, 1969)
Midnight Cowboy (John Schlesinger, 1969)
The Wild Bunch (Sam Peckinpah, 1969)
Patton (Franklin Schaffner, 1970)
Five Easy Pieces (Bob Rafelson, 1970)
Little Big Man (Arthur Penn, 1970)
Love Story (Arthur Hiller, 1970)
*M*A*S*H* (Robert Altman, 1970)
A Clockwork Orange (Stanley Kubrick, 1971)
Dirty Harry (Don Siegel, 1971)
Fiddler on the Roof (Norman Jewison, 1971)
The French Connection (William Friedkin, 1971)
The Last Picture Show (Peter Bogdanovich, 1971)
McCabe and Mrs Miller (Robert Altman, 1971)
Cabaret (Bob Fosse, 1972)
Deliverance (John Boorman, 1972)
The Godfather (Francis Ford Coppola, 1972)
Sounder (Martin Ritt, 1972)
Last Tango in Paris (Bernardo Bertolucci, 1972)
American Graffiti (George Lucas, 1973)
Badlands (Terrence Malick, 1973)
The Exorcist (William Friedkin, 1973)
Mean Streets (Martin Scorsese, 1973)
The Sting (George Roy Hill, 1973)
The Way We Were (Sydney Pollack, 1973)
Blazing Saddles (Mel Brooks, 1974)
Chinatown (Roman Polanski, 1974)
The Conversation (Francis Ford Coppola, 1974)
The Godfather Part II (Francis Ford Coppola, 1974)
Dog Day Afternoon (Sidney Lumet, 1975)
Jaws (Steven Spielberg, 1975)
The Man Who Would Be King (John Huston, 1975)
Nashville (Robert Altman, 1975)
One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (Milos Forman, 1975)
The Rocky Horror Picture Show (Jim Sharman, 1975)
All the President's Men (Alan J. Pakula, 1976)
Carrie (Brian de Palma, 1976)
Network (Sidney Lumet, 1976)
The Outlaw Josey Wales (Clint Eastwood, 1976)
Rocky (John G. Avildsen, 1976)
Taxi Driver (Martin Scorsese, 1976)
Annie Hall (Woody Allen, 1977)
Close Encounters of the Third Kind (Steven Spielberg, 1977)
The Goodbye Girl (Herbert Ross, 1977)
Saturday Night Fever (John Badham, 1977)
Star Wars (George Lucas, 1977)
Coming Home (Hal Ashby, 1978)
Days of Heaven (Terrence Malick, 1978)
The Deer Hunter (Michael Cimino, 1978)
Grease (Randal Kleiser, 1978)
National Lampoon's Animal House (John Landis, 1978)
Alien (Ridley Scott, 1979)
All That Jazz (Bob Fosse, 1979)
Apocalypse Now (Francis Ford Coppola, 1979)
Breaking Away (Peter Yates, 1979)
Kramer vs Kramer (Robert Benton, 1979)
Manhattan (Woody Allen, 1979)
The Empire Strikes Back (Irvin Kirschner, 1980)
Melvin and Howard (Jonathan Demme, 1980)
Ordinary People (Robert Redford, 1980)
Raging Bull (Martin Scorsese, 1980)
Return of the Secaucus 7 (John Sayles, 1980)
Atlantic City (Louis Malle, 1981)
Chariots of Fire (Hugh Hudson, 1981)
On Golden Pond (Mark Rydell, 1981)
Raiders of the Lost Ark (Steven Spielberg, 1981)
Reds (Warren Beatty, 1981)
Blade Runner (Ridley Scott, 1982)
E.T. – the Extra-Terrestrial (Steven Spielberg, 1982)
Fast Times at Ridgemont High (Amy Heckerling, 1982)
Gandhi (Richard Attenborough, 1982)
Missing (Costa-Gavras, 1982)
Sophie's Choice (Alan J. Pakula, 1982)
Tootsie (Sydney Pollack, 1982)
The Big Chill (Lawrence Kasdan, 1983)
Local Hero (Bill Forsyth, 1983)
El Norte (Gregory Nava, 1983)
Return of the Jedi (Richard Marquand, 1983)
The Right Stuff (Philip Kaufman, 1983)
Risky Business (Paul Brickman, 1983)
Terms of Endearment (James L. Brooks, 1983)
Amadeus (Milos Forman, 1984)
Beverly Hills Cop (Martin Brest, 1984)
Ghostbusters (Ivan Reitman, 1984)
The Killing Fields (Roland Joffe, 1984)
Stranger than Paradise (Jim Jarmusch, 1984)
Back to the Future (Robert Zemeckis, 1985)
Brazil (Terry Gilliam, 1985)
The Color Purple (Steven Spielberg, 1985)
Out of Africa (Sydney Pollack, 1985)
Witness (Peter Weir, 1985)
Blue Velvet (David Lynch, 1986)
Children of a Lesser God (Randa Haines, 1986)
Ferris Bueller's Day Off (John Hughes, 1986)
Hannah and Her Sisters (Woody Allen, 1986)
Platoon (Oliver Stone, 1986)
Broadcast News (James L. Brooks, 1987)
Fatal Attraction (Adrian Lyne, 1987)
The Last Emperor (Bernardo Bertolucci, 1987)
Lethal Weapon (Richard Donner, 1987)
Moonstruck (Norman Jewison, 1987)
The Untouchables (Brian de Palma, 1987)
Big (Penny Marshall, 1988)
Dangerous Liaisons (Stephen Frears, 1988)
Die Hard (John McTiernan, 1988)
The Last Temptation of Christ (Martin Scorsese, 1988)
Rain Man (Barry Levinson, 1988)
Batman (Tim Burton, 1989)
Born on the Fourth of July (Oliver Stone, 1989)
Dead Poets Society (Peter Weir, 1989)
Do the Right Thing (Spike Lee, 1989)
Driving Miss Daisy (Bruce Beresford, 1989)
Field of Dreams (Phil Alden Robinson, 1989)
Glory (Edward Zwick, 1989)
sex, lies and videotape (Steven Soderberg, 1989)
Dances with Wolves (Kevin Costner, 1990)
GoodFellas (Martin Scorsese, 1990)
Pretty Woman (Garry Marshall, 1990)
Silence of the Lambs (Jonathan Demme, 1990)
Beauty and the Beast (Gary Trousdale, Kirk Wise, 1991)
Rambling Rose (Martha Coolidge, 1991)
Terminator 2: Judgement Day (James Cameron, 1991)
Thelma & Louise (Ridley Scott, 1991)
The Player (Robert Altman, 1992)
Unforgiven (Clint Eastwood, 1992)
The Fugitive (Andrew Davis, 1993)
The Joy Luck Club (Wayne Wang, 1993)
Jurassic Park (Steven Spielberg, 1993)
Philadelphia (Jonathan Demme, 1993)
Schindler's List (Steven Spielberg, 1993)
Sleepless in Seattle (Nora Ephron, 1993)
Forrest Gump (Robert Zemeckis, 1994)
The Lion King (Roger Allers, Rob Minkoff, 1994)
Pulp Fiction (Quentin Tarantino, 1994)
The Shawshank Redemption (Frank Darabont, 1994)
Apollo 13 (Ron Howard, 1995)
Babe (Chris Noonan, 1995)
Braveheart (Mel Gibson, 1995)
Casino (Martin Scorsese, 1995)
Leaving Las Vegas (Mike Figgis, 1995)
Sense and Sensibility (Ang Lee, 1995)
Toy Story (John Lasseter, 1995)
The English Patient (Anthony Minghella, 1996)
Fargo (Joel Coen, 1996)
Jerry Maguire (Cameron Crowe, 1996)

AFI's Top 100 American Films 1998

1 Citizen Kane (Orson Welles, 1941)
2 Casablanca (Michael Curtiz, 1942)
3 The Godfather (Francis Ford Coppola, 1972)
4 Gone with the Wind (Victor Fleming, 1939)
5 Lawrence of Arabia (David Lean, 1962)
6 The Wizard of Oz (Victor Fleming, 1939)
7 The Graduate (Mike Nichols, 1967)
8 On the Waterfront (Elia Kazan, 1954)
9 Schindler's List (Steven Spielberg, 1993)
10 Singin' in the Rain (Gene Kelly, Stanley Donen, 1952)
11 It's a Wonderful Life (Frank Capra, 1946)
12 Sunset Boulevard (Billy Wilder, 1950)
13 The Bridge on the River Kwai (David Lean, 1957)
14 Some Like It Hot (Billy Wilder, 1959)
15 Star Wars (George Lucas, 1977)
16 All About Eve (Joseph Mankiewicz, 1950)
17 The African Queen (John Huston, 1951)
18 Psycho (Alfred Hitchcock, 1960)
19 Chinatown (Roman Polanski, 1974)
20 One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (Milos Forman, 1975)
21 The Grapes of Wrath (John Ford, 1940)
22 2001: A Space Odyssey (Stanley Kubrick, 1968)
23 The Maltese Falcon (John Huston, 1941)
24 Raging Bull (Martin Scorsese, 1980)
25 E.T. – the Extra-Terrestrial (Steven Spielberg, 1982)
26 Dr Strangelove (Stanley Kubrick, 1964)
27 Bonnie and Clyde (Arthur Penn, 1967)
28 Apocalypse Now (Francis Ford Coppola, 1979)
29 Mr Smith Goes to Washington (Frank Capra, 1939)
30 The Treasure of the Sierra Madre (John Huston, 1948)
31 Annie Hall (Woody Allen, 1977)
32 The Godfather Part II (Francis Ford Coppola, 1974)
33 High Noon (Fred Zinnemann, 1952)
34 To Kill a Mockingbird (Robert Mulligan, 1962)
35 It Happened One Night (Frank Capra, 1934)
36 Midnight Cowboy (John Schlesinger, 1969)

37 The Best Years of Our Lives (William Wyler, 1946)
38 Double Indemnity (Billy Wilder, 1944)
39 Doctor Zhivago (David Lean, 1965)
40 North by Northwest (Alfred Hitchcock, 1959)
41 West Side Story (Robert Wise, Jerome Robbins, 1961)
42 Rear Window (Alfred Hitchcock, 1954)
43 King Kong (Merian C. Cooper, Ernest Schoedsack, 1933)
44 The Birth of a Nation (D. W. Griffith, 1915)
45 A Streetcar Named Desire (Elia Kazan, 1951)
46 A Clockwork Orange (Stanley Kubrick, 1971)
47 Taxi Driver (Martin Scorsese, 1976)
48 Jaws (Steven Spielberg, 1975)
49 Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs (David Hand, 1938)
50 Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid (George Roy Hill, 1969)
51 The Philadelphia Story (Geroge Cukor, 1940)
52 From Here to Eternity (Fred Zinnemann, 1953)
53 Amadeus (Milos Forman, 1984)
54 All Quiet on the Western Front (Lewis Milestone, 1930)
55 The Sound of Music (Robert Wise, 1965)
56 *M*A*S*H* (Robert Altman, 1970)
57 The Third Man (Carol Reed, 1949)
58 Fantasia (Samuel Armstrong, James Algar, Bill Roberts et al, 1940)
59 Rebel Without a Cause (Nicholas Ray, 1955)
60 Raiders of the Lost Ark (Steven Spielberg, 1981)
61 Vertigo (Alfred Hitchcock, 1958)
62 Tootsie (Sydney Pollack, 1982)
63 Stagecoach (John Ford, 1939)
64 Close Encounters of the Third Kind (Steven Spielberg, 1977)
65 Silence of the Lambs (Jonathan Demme, 1991)
66 Network (Sidney Lumet, 1976)
67 The Manchurian Candidate (John Frankenheimer, 1962)
68 An American in Paris (Vincente Minnelli, 1951)
69 Shane (George Stevens, 1953)
70 The French Connection (William Friedkin, 1971)
71 Forrest Gump (Robert Zemeckis, 1994)
72 Ben-Hur (William Wyler, 1959)
73 Wuthering Heights (William Wyler, 1939)
74 The Gold Rush (Charles Chaplin, 1925)
75 Dances with Wolves (Kevin Costner, 1990)
76 City Lights (Charles Chaplin, 1931)
77 American Graffiti (George Lucas, 1973)
78 Rocky (John G. Avildsen, 1976)
79 The Deer Hunter (Michael Cimino, 1978)
80 The Wild Bunch (Sam Peckinpah, 1969)
81 Modern Times (Charles Chaplin, 1936)
82 Giant (George Stevens, 1956)
83 Platoon (Oliver Stone, 1986)
84 Fargo (Joel Coen, 1996)
85 Duck Soup (Leo McCarey, 1933)
86 Mutiny on the Bounty (Frank Lloyd, 1935)
87 Frankenstein (Frank Whale, 1931)
88 Easy Rider (Dennis Hopper, 1969)
89 Patton (Franklin Schaffner, 1970)
90 The Jazz Singer (Alan Crosland, 1927)
91 My Fair Lady (George Cukor, 1964)
92 A Place in the Sun (George Stevens, 1951)
93 The Apartment (Billy Wilder, 1960)
94 GoodFellas (Martin Scorsese, 1990)
95 Pulp Fiction (Quentin Tarantino, 1994)
96 The Searchers (John Ford, 1956)
97 Bringing Up Baby (Howard Hawks, 1938)
98 Unforgiven (Clint Eastwood, 1992)
99 Guess Who's Coming to Dinner (Stanley Kramer, 1967)
100 Yankee Doodle Dandy (Michael Curtiz, 1942)

The American Film Institute's Greatest American Screen Legends

The AFI also polled 1,800 experts to discover the greatest American male and female screen legends. The results were as follows:

Top 25 Male Screen Legends

1 Humphrey Bogart
2 Cary Grant
3 James Stewart
4 Marlon Brando
5 Fred Astaire
6 Henry Fonda
7 Clark Gable
8 James Cagney
9 Spencer Tracy
10 Charlie Chaplin
11 Gary Cooper
12 Gregory Peck
13 John Wayne
14 Laurence Olivier
15 Gene Kelly
16 Orson Welles
17 Kirk Douglas
18 James Dean
19 Burt Lancaster
20 The Marx Brothers
21 Buster Keaton
22 Sidney Poitier
23 Robert Mitchum
24 Edward G. Robinson
25 William Holden

Top 25 Female Screen Legends

1 Katharine Hepburn
2 Bette Davis
3 Audrey Hepburn
4 Ingrid Bergman
5 Greta Garbo
6 Marilyn Monroe
7 Elizabeth Taylor
8 Judy Garland
9 Marlene Dietrich
10 Joan Crawford
11 Barbara Stanwyck
12 Claudette Colbert
13 Grace Kelly
14 Ginger Rogers
15 Mae West
16 Vivien Leigh
17 Lillian Gish
18 Shirley Temple
19 Rita Hayworth
20 Lauren Bacall
21 Sophia Loren
22 Jean Harlow
23 Carole Lombard
24 Mary Pickford
25 Ava Gardner

Top 20 Box-Office Films in America

According to figures published in the trade newspaper Variety, the following are the films that have taken the most money at the US box-office. The year of release and the name of the director are given in brackets. The figures have been rounded to the nearest million.

1 Titanic (1997, James Cameron) $601m.
2 Star Wars/Star Wars: Episode IV - A New Hope (1977, George Lucas) $461m.
3 Shrek 2 (2004, Andrew Adamson, Kelly Asbury, Conrad Verno) $437m.
4 E.T. – The Extra-Terrestrial (1982, Steven Spielberg) $435m.
5 Star Wars: Episode I – The Phantom Menace (1999, George Lucas) $431m.
6 Spider-Man (2002, Sam Raimi) $404m.
7 Star Wars: Episode III – The Revenge of the Sith (2005, George Lucas) $380m.
8 The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King (2003, Peter Jackson) $377m.
9 Spider-Man 2 (2004, Sam Raimi) $373m.
10 The Passion of the Christ (2004, Mel Gibson) $370m.
11 Jurassic Park (1993, Steven Spielbergl) $357m.
12 The Lord of the Rings: The Two Towers (2002, Peter Jackson) $340m.
13 Finding Nemo (2003, Andrew Stanton) $330m.
14 Forrest Gump (1994, Robert Zemeckis) $330m.
15 The Lion King (1994, Roger Allers, Rob Minkoff) $328m.
16 Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone (2001, Chris Columbus) $318m.
17 The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring (2001, Peter Jackson) $314m.
18 Star Wars: Episode II – Attack of the Clones (2002, George Lucas) $311m.
19 Star Wars: Episode VI – Return of the Jedi (1983, Richard Marquand) $309m.
20 Independence Day (1996, Roland Emmerich) $306.m.

However, if the money taken by older releases is adjusted for inflation to current values, a different top 20 emerges:

1 Gone with the Wind (1939, Victor Fleming, MGM) $1,300m.
2 Star Wars (1977, George Lucas, Twentieth Century-Fox) $1,042m.
3 The Sound of Music (1965, Robert Wise, Twentieth Century-Fox) $830m.
4 E.T. – the Extra-Terrestrial (1982, Steven Spielberg, Universal) $829m.
5 The Ten Commandments (1956, Cecil B. De Mille, Paramount) $760m.
6 Titanic (1997, James Cameron, Paramount) $756m.
7 Jaws (1975, Steven Spielberg, Universal) $749m.
8 Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs (1937, David Hand, Buena Vista) $730m.
9 101 Dalmatians (1961, Wolfgang Reitherman, Hamilton Luske, Clyde Geronimi, Buena Vista) $705m.
10 Bambi (1942, David Hand, Buena Vista) $700m.
11 Return of the Jedi (1983, Richard Marquand, Twentieth Century-Fox) $602m.
12 The Empire Strikes Back (1980, Irvin Kershner, Twentieth Century-Fox) $580m.
13 Mary Poppins (1964, Robert Stevenson, Buena Vista) $576m.
14 Ben-Hur (1959, William Wyler, MGM) $570m.
15 The Exorcist (1973, William Friedkin, Warner) $552m.
16 Cinderella (1949, Wilfred Jackson, Hamilton Luske, Clyde Geronimi, Buena Vista) $539m.
17 Fantasia (1940, Samuel Armstrong, James Algar, Bill Roberts et al, Buena Vista) $530m.
18 Raiders of the Lost Ark (1981, Steven Spielberg, Paramount) $516m.
19 Jurassic Park (1993, Steven Spielberg, Universal) $500m.
20 Star Wars: Episode I - The Phantom Menace (1999, George Lucas, Twentieth Century-Fox) $496m.

The Guardian's Top 100 Contemporary Films 1980–1993

In 1993, the Guardian newspaper asked its readers to vote for the best films made since 1980. Depending on how you count, there are either 98 or 108 films in the resulting Top 100, since Ridley Scott's Blade Runner appears twice, at No. 9 in its original release and at No. 65 in its later Director's Cut, and Kieslowski's A Short Film about Killing, at No. 34, was part of his sequence of 10 films made originally for television – Decalogue, at No. 24. The results, with the dates of release and the directors' names, were:

1 Cinema Paradiso, 1989 (Giuseppe Tornatore)
2 Blue Velvet, 1986 (David Lynch)
3 Raging Bull, 1980 (Martin Scorsese)
4 GoodFellas, 1990 (Martin Scorsese)
5 Fanny and Alexander, 1982 (Ingmar Bergman)
6 Heimat, 1984 (Edgar Reitz)
7 Wings of Desire, 1987 (Wim Wenders)
8 Babette's Feast, 1987 (Gabriel Axel)
9 Blade Runner, 1982 (Ridley Scott)
10 E.T. – the Extra-Terrestrial, 1982 (Steven Spielberg)
11 Paris, Texas, 1984 (Wim Wenders)
12 Reservoir Dogs, 1991 (Quentin Tarantino)
13 The Dead, 1987 (John Huston)
14 Brazil, 1985 (Terry Gilliam)
15 Once Upon a Time in America, 1984 (Sergio Leone)
16 Unforgiven, 1992 (Clint Eastwood)
17 The Sacrifice, 1986 (Andrei Tarkovsky)
18 Cyrano de Bergerac, 1990 (Jean-Paul Rappeneau)
19 Jean de Florette, 1986 (Claude Berri)
20 Do the Right Thing, 1989 (Spike Lee)
21 Withnail and I, 1987 (Bruce Robinson)
22 Distant Voices, Still Lives, 1988 (Terence Davies)
23 Betty Blue, 1986 (Jean-Jacques Beineix)
24 Decalogue, 1988 (Krzysztof Kieslowski)
25 Ran, 1985 (Akira Kurosawa)
26 Field of Dreams, 1989 (Phil Alden Robinson)
27 Raise the Red Lantern, 1991 (Zhang Yimou)
28 Aliens, 1986 (James Cameron)
29 The King of Comedy, 1983 (Martin Scorsese)
30 Delicatessen, 1990 (Jean-Pierre Jeunet, Marc Caro)
31 Witness, 1985 (Peter Weir)
32 Rumble Fish, 1983 (Francis Ford Coppola)
33 Salvador, 1986 (Oliver Stone)
34 A Short Film about Killing, 1986 (Krzysztof Kieslowski)
35 Jesus of Montreal, 1989 (Denys Arcand)
36 Come and See, 1985 (Elem Klimov)
37 Local Hero, 1983 (Bill Forsyth)
38 Manon des Sources, 1986 (Claude Berri)
39 The Player, 1992 (Robert Altman)
40 The Blues Brothers, 1980 (John Landis)
41 Blood Simple, 1983 (Joel and Ethan Coen)
42 Gregory's Girl, 1980 (Bill Forsyth)
43 My Life as a Dog, 1985 (Lasse Hallström)
44 Diva, 1981 (Jean-Jacques Beineix)
45 Dances with Wolves, 1990 (Kevin Costner)
46 Raiders of the Lost Ark, 1981 (Steven Spielberg)
47 The Right Stuff, 1983 (Philip Kaufman)
48 The Commitments, 1991 (Alan Parker)
49 Nostalgia, 1983 (Andrei Tarkovsky)
50 The Cook, the Thief, His Wife and Her Lover, 1989 (Peter Greenaway)
51 Hannah and Her Sisters, 1986 (Woody Allen)
52 Heaven's Gate, 1980 (Michael Cimino)
53 Life Is Sweet, 1990 (Mike Leigh)
54 Les Amants du Pont-Neuf, 1991 (Leos Carax)
55 Miller's Crossing, 1990 (Joel and Ethan Coen)
56 A Room with a View, 1985 (James Ivory)
57 Au Revoir les Enfants, 1988 (Louis Malle)
58 Atlantic City, 1981 (Louis Malle)
59 Amadeus, 1984 (Milos Forman)
60 JFK, 1991 (Oliver Stone)
61 The Last Emperor, 1987 (Bernardo Bertolucci)
62 The Fisher King, 1991 (Terry Gilliam)
63 Truly Madly Deeply, 1990 (Anthony Minghella)
64 The Killing Fields, 1984 (Roland Joffé)
65 Blade Runner: The Director's Cut, 1991 (Ridley Scott)
66 Bagdad Café, 1988 (Percy Adlon)
67 One from the Heart, 1982 (Francis Ford Coppola)
68 Chariots of Fire, 1981 (Hugh Hudson)
69 House of Games, 1987 (David Mamet)
70 My Own Private Idaho, 1991 (Gus Van Sant)
71 Mona Lisa, 1986 (Neil Jordan)
72 Down by Law, 1986 (Jim Jarmusch)
73 Midnight Run, 1988 (Martin Brest)
74 Wild at Heart, 1990 (David Lynch)
75 Salaam Bombay!, 1988 (Mira Nair)
76 Company of Wolves, 1984 (Neil Jordan)
77 Wall Street, 1987 (Oliver Stone)
78 The Unbearable Lightness of Being, 1987 (Philip Kaufman)
79 Strictly Ballroom, 1992 (Baz Luhrmann)
80 Good Morning Vietnam, 1987 (Barry Levinson)
81 My Left Foot, 1989 (Jim Sheridan)
82 Shirley Valentine, 1989 (Lewis Gilbert)
83 Gandhi, 1982 (Richard Attenborough)
84 Videodrome, 1982 (David Cronenberg)
85 Silence of the Lambs, 1990 (Jonathan Demme)
86 Sophie's Choice, 1982 (Alan J. Pakula)
87 Educating Rita, 1983 (Lewis Gilbert)
88 Europa, Europa, 1991 (Agnieszka Holland)
89 Someone to Watch over Me, 1987 (Ridley Scott)
90 Full Metal Jacket, 1987 (Stanley Kubrick)
91 Orlando, 1992 (Sally Potter)
92 Prick Up Your Ears, 1987 (Stephen Frears)
93 Pretty Woman, 1990 (Garry Marshall)
94 Eureka, 1982 (Nicolas Roeg)
95 Edward Scissorhands, 1990 (Tim Burton)
96 Platoon, 1986 (Oliver Stone)
97 This Is Spinal Tap, 1984 (Rob Reiner)
98 Kiss of the Spider Woman, 1985 (Hector Babenco)
99 Koyaanisqatsi, 1983 (Godfrey Reggio)
100 The Hairdresser's Husband, 1990 (Patrice Leconte)

Royal Film Performances

A charity function begun in London in 1946 with A Matter of Life and Death, it was known until 1948 as the Royal Command Film Performance. Such events had begun in 1896 when Birt ACRES asked permission to show film he had taken of The Prince and Princess of Wales attending the Cardiff Exhibition. The first feature to be shown by royal command was Cecil HEPWORTH's Coming Through the Rye in 1916. The Queen usually attends the Royal Film Performances, but the film is chosen, usually on the basis of what is least offensive rather than best, by executives of the Cinema & Television Benevolent Fund, for whose financial benefit the evening is staged. Subsequent films have been:

1947 The Bishop's Wife
1948 Scott of the Antarctic
1949 That Forsyte Woman
1950 The Mudlark
1951 Where No Vultures Fly
1952 Because You're Mine

1953 Rob Roy 1954 Beau Brummell
1955 To Catch a Thief
1956 The Battle of the River Plate
1957 Les Girls
1958 no performance
1959 The Horse's Mouth
1960 The Last Angry Man
1961 The Facts of Life
1962 West Side Story
1963 Sammy Going South
1964 Move over Darling
1965 Lord Jim
1966 Born Free
1967 The Taming of the Shrew
1968 Romeo and Juliet
1969 The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie
1970 Anne of the Thousand Days
1971 Love Story
1972 Mary Queen of Scots
1973 Lost Horizon
1974 The Three Musketeers
1975 Funny Lady
1976 The Slipper and the Rose
1977 Silver Streak
1978 Close Encounters of the Third Kind
1979 California Suite
1980 Kramer vs Kramer
1981 Chariots of Fire
1982 Evil Under the Sun
1983 Table for Five
1984 The Dresser
1985 A Passage to India
1986 White Nights
1987 84 Charing Cross Road
1988 Empire of the Sun
1989 Madame Sousatzka
1990 Always
1991 Hot Shots!
1992 Chaplin
1993 The Man Without a Face
1994 34th Street
1995 French Kiss
1996 True Blue
1997 Titanic
1998 The Parent Trap
1999 Star Wars: Episode 1 – The Phantom Menace
2000 Dr Seuss' How the Grinch Stole Christmas
2001 Ali
2002 Die Another Day
2003 Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World
2004 Ladies in Lavender
2005 The Chronicles of Narnia: The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe

The Longest Feature Films

1 Die Zweite Heimat (Edgar Reitz, 1992) at 1,532m
2 Heimat (Edgar Reitz, 1984) at 940m
3 Heimat 3: Chronik einer Zeitenwende (Edgar Reitz, 2004) at 679m
4 Satantango (Bela Tarr, 1994) at 450m
5 Little Dorrit (Christine Edzard, 1987) at 357m
6 The Kingdom/Riget (Lars von Trier, 1994) at 279m
7 The Chelsea Girls (Paul Morrissey, 1966) at 255m
7 Parsifal (Hans Jürgen Syberberg, 1982) at 255m
8 Gettysburg (Ronald F. Maxwell, 1993) at 254m
9 Cleopatra (Joseph Mankiewicz, 1963) at 243m
10 Hamlet (Kenneth Branagh, 1996) at 242m

Erich Von Stroheim's Foolish Wives 21 was released in Latin America in a version that ran for 408m, though the US version was cut to 85m; his Greed 24 originally ran at more than eight hours, but exists now in a version that lasts 110m.

8

MOVIE AWARDS

ACADEMY AWARDS

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences was formed in 1927 with Douglas Fairbanks as its first president. Qualification for membership, which remains by invitation, is achievement in one or other areas of film production. Its first awards were held on 16 May 1929 for films that had been released in Los Angeles between the beginning of August 1927 and the end of July 1928. The Academy's gold-plated statuette was designed by Cedric Gibbons, MGM's art director. Its nickname, Oscar, which, like Academy Awards, is now registered as a trademark, is said to have been due to a secretary who remarked that it looked just like her uncle Oscar, although several people have claimed to have invented the term. Over the years, the categories have altered, and in 1937 the Irving Thalberg Memorial Award was added to commemorate MGM's former production chief who died in 1936; it is presented to producers who achieve a consistently high level of work. An Oscar remains the cinema's most sought-after award and is the only one that can give a considerable financial boost to the career of an individual or a film. Its main prizewinners are:

1927/28

Picture: Wings
Unique and Artistic Picture: Sunrise
Director: Frank Borzage (Seventh Heaven)
Comedy Director: Lewis Milestone (Two Arabian Knights)
Actor: Emil Jannings (The Last Command, The Way of All Flesh)
Actress: Janet Gaynor (Seventh Heaven, Street Angel, Sunrise)
Original Screenplay: Ben Hecht (Underworld)
Adapted Screenplay: Benjamin Glazer (Seventh Heaven)
Title Writing: Joseph Farnham (Telling the World)
Cinematography: Charles Rosher, Karl Struss (Sunrise)
Art Direction: William Cameron Menzies (The Dove, Tempest)
Engineering Effects: Roy Pomeroy (Wings)
Special Awards: Warner Bros for The Jazz Singer; Charles Chaplin for acting, writing, directing and producing The Circus

1928/29

Picture: The Broadway Melody
Director: Frank Lloyd (The Divine Lady, Weary River, Drag)
Actor: Warner Baxter (Old Arizona)
Actress: Mary Pickford (Coquette)
Writing Achievement: Hans Kraly (The Patriot)
Cinematography: Clyde De Vinna (White Shadows in the South Seas)
Art Direction: Cedric Gibbons (The Bridge of San Luis Rey)

1929/30

Picture: All Quiet on the Western Front
Director: Lewis Milestone (All Quiet on the Western Front)
Actor: George Arliss (Disraeli)
Actress: Norma Shearer (The Divorcee)
Writing Achievement: Frances Marion (The Big House)
Cinematography: Joseph T. Rucker, Willard Van Der Veer (With Byrd at the South Pole)
Art Direction: Herman Rosse (King of Jazz)
Sound: Douglas Shearer (The Big House)

1930/31

Picture: Cimarron
Director: Norman Taurog (Skippy)
Actor: Lionel Barrymore (A Free Soul)
Actress: Marie Dressler (Min and Bill)
Original Screenplay: John Monk Saunders (The Dawn Patrol)
Adapted Screenplay: Howard Estabrook (Cimarron)
Cinematography: Floyd Crosby (Tabu)
Art Direction: Max Ree (Cimarron)
Sound: Paramount Sound Dept

1931/32

Picture: Grand Hotel
Director: Frank Borzage (Bad Girl)
Actor: Wallace Beery (The Champ); Frederick March (Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde)
Actress: Helen Hayes (The Sin of Madelon Claudet)
Original Screenplay: Francis Marion (The Champ)
Adapted Screenplay: Edwin Burke (Bad Girl)
Cinematography: Lee Garmes (Shanghai Express)
Art Direction: Gordon Wiles (Transatlantic)
Sound: Paramount Sound Dept
Cartoon: Flowers and Trees
Comedy Short: The Music Box
Novelty Short: Wrestling Swordfish
Special Award: Walt Disney for the creation of Mickey Mouse

1932/33

Picture: Cavalcade
Director: Frank Lloyd (Cavalcade)
Actor: Charles Laughton (The Private Life of Henry VIII)
Actress: Katharine Hepburn (Morning Glory)
Original Screenplay: Robert Lord (One Way Passage)
Adapted Screenplay: Victor Heerman, Sarah Y. Mason (Little Women)
Cinematography: Charles Bryant (A Farewell to Arms)
Art Direction: William S. Darling (Cavalcade)
Sound: Harold C. Lewis (A Farewell to Arms)
Cartoon: Three Little Pigs
Comedy Short: So This Is Harris
Novelty Short: Krakatoa

1934

Picture: It Happened One Night
Director: Frank Capra (It Happened One Night)
Assistant Director: John Waters (Viva Villa)
Actor: Clark Gable (It Happened One Night)
Actress: Claudette Colbert (It Happened One Night)
Original Screenplay: Arthur Caesar (Manhattan Melodrama)
Adapted Screenplay: Robert Riskin (It Happened One Night)
Cinematography: Victor Milner (Cleopatra)
Art Direction: Cedric Gibbons, Frederic Hope (The Merry Widow)
Original Song: 'The Continental' from The Gay Divorcee (m Con Conrad, ly Herb Magidson)
Original Score: Victor Schertziner, Gus Kahn (One Night of Love)
Sound: John Livadary (One Night of Love)
Editing: Conrad Nevig (Eskimo)
Cartoon: The Tortoise and the Hare
Comedy Short: La Cucaracha
Novelty Short: City of Wax
Special Award: Shirley Temple

1935

Picture: Mutiny on the Bounty
Director: John Ford (The Informer)
Assistant Director: Clem Beauchamp (Lives of a Bengal Lancer)
Dance Direction: Dave Gould (Broadway Melody of 1936 and Folies Bergère)
Actor: Victor McLaglen (The Informer)
Actress: Bette Davis (Dangerous)
Original Screenplay: Ben Hecht, Charles MacArthur (The Scoundrel)
Adapted Screenplay: Dudley Nichols (The Informer)
Cinematography: Hal Mohr (A Midsummer Night's Dream)
Art Direction: Richard Day (The Dark Angel)
Original Song: 'Lullaby of Broadway' from Gold Diggers of 1935 (m Harry Warren, ly Al Dubin)
Original Score: Max Steiner (The Informer)
Sound: Douglas Shearer (Naughty Marietta)
Editing: Ralph Dawson (A Midsummer Night's Dream)
Cartoon: Three Orphan Kittens
Comedy Short: How to Sleep
Novelty Short: Wings over Mt Everest
Special Award: David Wark Griffith

1936

Picture: The Great Ziegfeld
Director: Frank Capra (Mr Deeds Goes to Town)
Assistant Director: Jack Sullivan (The Charge of the Light Brigade)
Dance Direction: Seymour Felix (The Great Ziegfeld)
Actor: Paul Muni (The Story of Louis Pasteur)
Actress: Luise Rainer (The Great Ziegfeld)
Supporting Actor: Walter Brennan (Come and Get It)
Supporting Actress: Gale Sondergaard (Anthony Adverse)
Original Screenplay: Pierre Collings, Sheridan Gibney (The Story of Louis Pasteur)
Cinematography: Gaetano Gaudio (Anthony Adverse)
Art Direction: Richard Day (Dodsworth)
Original Song: 'The Way You Look Tonight' from Swingtime (m Jerome Kern, ly Dorothy Fields)
Original Score: Erich Wolfgang Korngold (Anthony Adverse)
Sound: Douglas Shearer (San Francisco)
Editing: Ralph Dawson (Anthony Adverse)
Cartoon: Country Cousins
One-Reel Short: Bored of Education
Two-Reel Short: The Public Pays
Colour Short: Give Me Liberty
Special Award: March of Time for revolutionizing the newsreel; W. Howard Greene and Harold Rosson for colour cinematography (The Garden of Allah)

1937

Picture: The Life of Emile Zola
Director: Leo McCarey (The Awful Truth)
Assistant Director: Robert Webb (In Old Chicago)
Dance Direction: Hermes Pan (Damsel in Distress)
Actor: Spencer Tracy (Captains Courageous)
Actress: Luise Rainer (The Good Earth)
Supporting Actor: Joseph Schildkraut (The Life of Emile Zola)
Supporting Actress: Alice Brady (In Old Chicago)
Original Story: William A. Wellman, Robert Carson (A Star Is Born)
Original Screenplay: Heinz Herald, Geza Herczeg, Norman Reilly Raine (The Life of Emile Zola)
Cinematography: Karl Freund (The Good Earth)
Art Direction: Stephen Goosson (Lost Horizon)
Original Song: 'Sweet Leilani' from Waikiki Wedding (m/ly Harry Owens)
Original Score: Charles Previn (100 Men and a Girl) Sound: Thomas T. Moulton (The Hurricane) Editing: Gene Havlick, Gene Milton (Lost Horizon)
Cartoon: The Old Mill
One-Reel Short: Private Life of the Gannets
Two-Reel Short: Torture Money
Colour Short: Penny Wisdom
Special Awards: Mack Sennett for his contribution to comedy technique; Edgar Bergen for Charlie McCarthy; The Museum of Modern Art Film Library; W. Howard Greene for colour photography (A Star Is Born)
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Darryl Zanuck

1938

Picture: You Can't Take It with You
Director: Frank Capra (You Can't Take It with You)
Actor: Spencer Tracy (Boys' Town)
Actress: Bette Davis (Jezebel)
Supporting Actor: Walter Brennan (Kentucky)
Supporting Actress: Fay Bainter (Jezebel)
Original Story: Eleonore Griffin, Dore Schary (Boys' Town)
Screenplay: George Bernard Shaw, adapted by Ian Dalrymple, Cecil Lewis, W. P. Liscomb (Pygmalion)
Cinematography: Joseph Ruttenberg (The Great Waltz)
Art Direction: Carl J. Weyl (The Adventures of Robin Hood)
Sound: Thomas Moulton and United Artists Sound Dept (The Cowboy and the Lady)
Editing: Ralph Dawson (The Adventures of Robin Hood)
Song: 'Thanks for the Memory' from Big Broadcast of 1938 (m Ralph Rainger, ly Leo Robin)
Scoring: Alfred Newman (Alexander's Ragtime Band)
Original Score: Erich Wolfgang Korngold (The Adventures of Robin Hood)
Cartoon: Ferdinand the Bull
One-Reel Short: That Mothers Might Live
Two-Reel Short: Declaration of Independence
Special Awards: Deanna Durbin and Mickey Rooney; Harry M. Warner; Walt Disney; Oliver Marsh and Allen Davey for colour photography (Sweethearts); Gordon Jennings, Farciot Edouart, Loren Ryder and others for special effects (Spawn of the North); J. Arthur Ball for advancing the use of colour
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Hal B. Wallis

1939

Picture: Gone with the Wind
Director: Victor Fleming (Gone with the Wind)
Actor: Robert Donat (Goodbye Mr Chips)
Actress: Vivien Leigh (Gone with the Wind)
Supporting Actor: Thomas Mitchell (Stagecoach)
Supporting Actress: Hattie McDaniel (Gone with the Wind)
Original Story: Lewis R. Foster (Mr Smith Goes to Washington)
Screenplay: Sidney Howard (Gone with the Wind)
B/w Cinematography: Gregg Toland (Wuthering Heights)
Colour Cinematography: Ernest Haller, Ray Rennahan (Gone with the Wind)
Art Direction: Lyle Wheeler (Gone with the Wind) Sound: Bernard B. Brown and Universal Sound Dept (When Tomorrow Comes) Editing: Hal C. Kern, James E. Newcom (Gone with the Wind)
Special Effects: E. H. Hansen, Fred Sersen (The Rains Came)
Song: 'Over the Rainbow' from The Wizard of Oz (m Harold Arlen, ly E. Y. Harburg)
Scoring: Richard Hageman, Frank Harling, John Leipold, Leo Shuken (Stagecoach)
Original Score: Herbert Stothart (The Wizard of Oz)
Cartoon: The Ugly Duckling
One-Reel Short: Busy Little Bears
Two-Reel Short: Sons of Liberty
Special Awards: Douglas Fairbanks; Motion Picture Relief Fund; Judy Garland; William Cameron Menzies for the use of colour (Gone with the Wind); Technicolor Company
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: David O. Selznick

1940

Picture: Rebecca
Director: John Ford (The Grapes of Wrath)
Actor: James Stewart (The Philadelphia Story)
Actress: Ginger Rogers (Kitty Foyle)
Supporting Actor: Walter Brennan (The Westerner)
Supporting Actress: Jane Darwell (The Grapes of Wrath)
Original Story: Benjamin Glazer, John S. Toldy (Arise, My Love)
Original Screenplay: Preston Sturges (The Great McGinty)
Screenplay: Donald Ogden Stewart (The Philadelphia Story)
B/w Cinematography: George Barnes (Rebecca)
Colour Cinematography: George Perinal (The Thief of Bagdad)

Art Direction: Cedric Gibbons, Paul Groesse (Pride and Prejudice)
Sound: Douglas Shearer and MGM Sound Dept (Strike Up the Band)
Editing: Anne Bauchens (North West Mounted Police)
Special Effects: Lawrence Butler, Jack Whitney (The Thief of Bagdad)
Song: 'When You Wish upon a Star' from Pinocchio (m Leigh Harline, ly Ned Washington)
Scoring: Alfred Newman (Tin Pan Alley)
Original Score: Leigh Harline, Paul J. Smith, Ned Washington (Pinocchio)
Cartoon: Milky Way
One-Reel Short: Quicker'n a Wink
Two-Reel Short: Teddy, the Rough Rider
Special Awards: Bob Hope; Col. Nathan Levinson

1941

Picture: How Green Was My Valley
Director: John Ford (How Green Was My Valley)
Actor: Gary Cooper (Sergeant York)
Actress: Joan Fontaine (Suspicion)
Supporting Actor: Donald Crisp (How Green Was My Valley)
Supporting Actress: Mary Astor (The Great Lie)
Original Story: Harry Segall (Here Comes Mr Jordan)
Original Screenplay: Herman J. Mankiewicz, Orson Welles (Citizen Kane)
Screenplay: Sidney Buchman, Seton I. Miller (Here Comes Mr Jordan)
B/w Cinematography: Arthur Miller (How Green Was My Valley)
Colour Cinematography: Ernest Palmer, Ray Rennahan (Blood and Sand)
B/w Art Direction: Richard Day, Nathan Duran (How Green Was My Valley)
Colour Art Direction: Cedric Gibbons, Joseph C. Wright (Blood and Sand)
Sound: Jack Whitney (That Hamilton Woman)
Editing: William Holmes (Sergeant York)
Special Effects: Farciot Edouart, Gordon Jennings, Louis Mesenkop (I Wanted Wings)
Song: 'The Last Time I Saw Paris' from Lady Be Good (m Jerome Kern, ly Oscar Hammerstein II)
Scoring of a Drama: Bernard Herrmann (All that Money Can Buy)
Scoring of a Musical: Frank Churchill, Oliver Wallace (Dumbo) Documentary: Churchill's Island
Cartoon: Led a Paw
One-Reel Short: Of Pups and Puzzles
Two-Reel Short: Main Street on the March
Special Awards: Rey Scott for producing Kukan; British Ministry of Information for producing Target for Tonight; Leopold Stokowski for Fantasia; Walt Disney, William Garity, John A. Hawkins, RCA for the sound in Fantasia
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Walt Disney

1942

Picture: Mrs Miniver
Director: William Wyler (Mrs Miniver)
Actor: James Cagney (Yankee Doodle Dandy)
Actress: Greer Garson (Mrs Miniver)
Supporting Actor: Van Heflin (Johnny Eager)
Supporting Actress: Teresa Wright (Mrs Miniver)
Original Story: Emeric Pressburger (The Invaders)
Original Screenplay: Michael Kanin, Ring Lardner Jnr (Woman of the Year)
Screenplay: George Froeschel, James Hilton, Claudine West, Arthur Wimperis (Mrs Miniver)
B/w Cinematography: Joseph Ruttenberg (Mrs Miniver)
Colour Cinematography: Leon Shamroy (The Black Swan)
B/w Art Direction: Richard Day, Joseph Wright (This Above All)
Colour Art Direction: Richard Day, Joseph Wright (My Gal Sal)
Sound: Nathan Levinson and Warner Sound Dept (Yankee Doodle Dandy)
Editing: Daniel Mandell (The Pride of the Yankees)
Special Effects: Farciot Edouart, Gordon Jennings, William L. Pereira, Louis Mesenkop (Reap the Wild Wind)
Song: 'White Christmas' from Holiday Inn (m/ly Irving Berlin)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Max Steiner (Now Voyager)
Scoring of a Musical: Ray Heindorf, Heinz Roemheld (Yankee Doodle Dandy)
Documentary: US Navy, TCF (Battle of Midway)
Cartoon: Der Fuehrer's Face
One-Reel Short: Speaking of Animals and Their Families
Two-Reel Short: Beyond the Line of Duty
Special Awards: Charles Boyer; Noël Coward; MGM for the Andy Hardy films Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Sidney Franklin

1943

Picture: Casablanca
Director: Michael Curtiz (Casablanca)
Actor: Paul Lukas (Watch on the Rhine)
Actress: Jennifer Jones (Song of Bernadette)
Supporting Actor: Charles Coburn (The More the Merrier)
Supporting Actress: Katina Paxinou (For Whom the Bell Tolls)
Original Story: William Saroyan (The Human Comedy)
Original Screenplay: Norman Krasna (Princess O'Rourke)
Screenplay: Julius J. Epstein, Philip G. Epstein, Howard Koch (Casablanca)
B/w Cinematography: Arthur Miller (The Song of Bernadette)
Colour Cinematography: Hal Mohr, W. Howard Greene (The Phantom of the Opera)
B/w Art Direction: James Basevi, William Darling (The Song of Bernadette)
Colour Art Direction: Alexander Golitzen, John B. Goodman (The Phantom of the Opera)
Sound: Stephen Dunn and RKO Sound Dept (This Land Is Mine)
Editing: George Amy (Air Force)
Special Effects: Fred Sersen, Roger Heman (Crash Dive)
Song: 'You'll Never Know' from Hello, Frisco, Hello (m Harry Warren, ly Mack Gordon)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Alfred Newman (The Song of Bernadette)
Scoring of a Musical: Ray Heindorf (This Is the Army)
Documentary: December 7th
Cartoon: Yankee Doodle Mouse
One-Reel Short: Amphibious Fighters
Two-Reel Short: Heavenly Music
Special Award: George Pal
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Hal B. Wallis

1944

Picture: Going My Way
Director: Leo McCarey (Going My Way)
Actor: Bing Crosby (Going My Way)
Actress: Ingrid Bergman (Gaslight)
Supporting Actor: Barry Fitzgerald (Going My Way)
Supporting Actress: Ethel Barrymore (None but the Lonely Heart)
Original Story: Leo McCarey (Going My Way)
Original Screenplay: Lamar Trotti (Wilson)
Screenplay: Frank Butler, Frank Cavett (Going My Way)
B/w Cinematography: Joseph LaShelle (Laura) Colour Cinematography: Leon Shamroy (Wilson)
B/w Art Direction: Cedric Gibbons, William Ferrari (Gaslight)
Colour Art Direction: Wiard Ihnen (Wilson)
Sound: E. H. Hansen and TCF Sound Dept (Wilson)
Editing: Barbara McLean (Wilson)
Special Effects: Arnold Gillespie, Donald Jahraus, Gordon Jennings, Douglas Shearer (Thirty Seconds over Tokyo)
Song: 'Swinging on a Star' from Going My Way (m James Van Heusen, ly Johnny Burke)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Max Steiner (Since You Went Away)
Scoring of a Musical: Carmen Dragon, Morris Stoloff (Cover Girl) Documentary: With the Marines at Tarawa
Cartoon: Mouse Trouble
One-Reel Short: Who's Who in Animal Land
Two-Reel Short: I Won't Play
Special Awards: Margaret O'Brien; Bob Hope
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Darryl F. Zanuck

1945

Picture: The Lost Weekend
Director: Billy Wilder (The Lost Weekend)
Actor: Ray Milland (The Lost Weekend)
Actress: Joan Crawford (Mildred Pierce)
Supporting Actor: James Dunn (A Tree Grows in Brooklyn)
Supporting Actress: Anne Revere (National Velvet)
Original Story: Charles G. Booth (The House on 92nd Street)
Original Screenplay: Richard Schweizer (Marie-Louise)
Screenplay: Charles Brackett, Billy Wilder (The Lost Weekend)
B/w Cinematography: Harry Stradling (The Picture of Dorian Gray)
Colour Cinematography: Leon Shamroy (Leave Her to Heaven)
B/w Art Direction: Wiard Ihnen (Blood on the Sun)
Colour Art Direction: Hans Dreier, Ernst Fegte (Frenchman's Creek)
Sound: Stephen Dunn and RKO Sound Dept (The Bells of St Mary's)
Editing: Robert J. Kern (National Velvet)
Special Effects: John Fulton, A. W. Jones (Wonder Man)
Song: 'It Might as Well Be Spring' from State Fair (m Richard Rodgers, ly Oscar Hammerstein II)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Miklos Rozsa (Spellbound)
Scoring of a Musical: Georgie Stoll (Anchors Aweigh) Documentary: The True Glory
Cartoon: Quiet Please
One-Reel Short: Stairway to Light
Two-Reel Short: Star in the Night
Special Awards: Walter Wanger; Peggy Ann Garner

1946

Picture: The Best Years of Our Lives
Director: William Wyler (The Best Years of Our Lives)
Actor: Fredric March (The Best Years of Our Lives)
Actress: Olivia De Havilland (To Each His Own)
Supporting Actor: Harold Russell (The Best Years of Our Lives)
Supporting Actress: Anne Baxter (The Razor's Edge)
Original Story: Clemence Dane (Vacation from Marriage)
Original Screenplay: Muriel Box, Sydney Box (The Seventh Veil)
Screenplay: Robert E. Sherwood (The Best Years of Our Lives)
B/w Cinematography: Arthur Miller (Anna and the King of Siam)
Colour Cinematography: Charles Rosher, Leonard Smith, Arthur Arling (The Yearling)
B/w Art Direction: Lyle Wheeler, William Darling (Anna and the King of Siam)
Colour Art Direction: Cedric Gibbons, Paul Groesse (The Yearling) Sound: John Livadary and Columbia Sound Dept (The Jolson Story)
Editing: Daniel Mandell (The Best Years of Our Lives)
Special Effects: Thomas Howard (Blithe Spirit)
Song: 'On the Atchison, Topeka and the Santa Fe' from The Harvey Girls (m Harry Warren, ly Johnny Mercer)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Hugo Friedhofer (The Best Years of Our Lives)
Scoring of a Musical: Morris Stoloff (The Jolson Story)
Documentary: Seeds of Destiny
Cartoon: The Cat Concerto
One-Reel Short: Facing Your Danger
Two-Reel Short: A Boy and His Dog
Special Awards: Laurence Olivier; Harold Russell; Ernest Lubitsch; Claude Jarman Jnr Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Samuel Goldwyn

1947

Picture: Gentleman's Agreement
Director: Elia Kazan (Gentleman's Agreement)
Actor: Ronald Colman (A Double Life)
Actress: Loretta Young (The Farmer's Daughter)
Supporting Actor: Edmund Gwenn (Miracle on 34th Street)
Supporting Actress: Celeste Holm (Gentleman's Agreement)
Original Story: Valentine Davies (Miracle on 34th Street)
Original Screenplay: Sidney Sheldon (The Bachelor and the Bobby-Soxer)
Screenplay: George Seaton (Miracle on 34th Street)
B/w Cinematography: Guy Green (Great Expectations)
Colour Cinematography: Jack Cardiff (Black Narcissus)
B/w Art Direction: John Bryan (Great Expectations)
Colour Art Direction: Alfred Jung (Black Narcissus)
Sound: Gordon Sawyer and Goldwyn Sound Dept (The Bishop's Wife)
Editing: Francis Lyon, Robert Parrish (Body and Soul)
Special Effects: A. Arnold Gillespie, Warren Newcombe, Douglas Shearer, Michael Steinore (Green Dolphin Street)
Song: 'Zip-a-Dee-Doo-Dah' from Song of the South (m Allie Wrubel, ly Roy Gilbert)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Miklos Rozsa (A Double Life)
Scoring of a Musical: Alfred Newman (My Mother Wore Tights)
Documentary Short: First Steps
Documentary Feature: Design for Death
Cartoon: Tweetie Pie
One-Reel Short: Goodbye Miss Turlock
Two-Reel Short: Climbing the Matterhorn
Special Awards: James Baskett; Bill and Coo; Shoe-Shine (foreign film)

1948

Picture: Hamlet
Director: John Huston (The Treasure of the Sierra Madre)
Actor: Laurence Olivier (Hamlet)
Actress: Jane Wyman (Johnny Belinda)
Supporting Actor: Walter Huston (The Treasure of the Sierra Madre)
Supporting Actress: Claire Trevor (Key Largo)
Motion Picture Story: Richard Sweizer, David Wechsler (The Search)
Screenplay: John Huston (The Treasure of the Sierra Madre)
B/w Cinematography: William Daniels (The Naked City)
Colour Cinematography: Joseph Valentine, William V. Skall, Winton Hoch (Joan of Arc)
B/w Art Direction: Roger K. Furse (Hamlet)
Colour Art Direction: Hein Heckroth, Arthur Lawson (The Red Shoes)
B/w Costume Design: Roger K. Furse (Hamlet)
Colour Costume Design: Dorothy Jeakins, Karinska (Joan of Arc)
Sound: TCF Sound Dept (The Snake Pit)
Editing: Paul Weatherwax (The Naked City)
Special Effects: Paul Eagler, J. McMillan Johnson, Russell Shearman, Clarence Slifer, Charles Freeman, James G. Stewart (Portrait of Jennie)
Song: 'Buttons and Bows' from The Paleface (m/ly Jay Livingstone, Ray Evans)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Brian Easdale (The Red Shoes)
Scoring of a Musical: Johnny Green, Roger Edens (Easter Parade)
Documentary Short: Toward Independence
Documentary Feature: The Secret Land
Cartoon: The Little Orphan
One-Reel Short: Symphony of a City
Two-Reel Short: Seal Island
Special Awards: Ivan Jandl; Sid Grauman; Adolph Zukor; Walter Wanger; Monsieur Vincent (foreign film)
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Jerry Wald

1949

Picture: All the King's Men
Director: Joseph L. Mankiewicz (A Letter to Three Wives)
Actor: Broderick Crawford (All the King's Men)
Actress: Olivia De Havilland (The Heiress)
Supporting Actor: Dean Jagger (Twelve O'Clock High)
Supporting Actress: Mercedes McCambridge (All the King's Men)
Motion Picture Story: Douglas Morrow (The Stratton Story)
Screenplay: Joseph L. Mankiewicz (A Letter to Three Wives)
Story & Screenplay: Robert Pirosh (Battleground)
B/w Cinematography: Paul C. Vogel (Battleground)
Colour Cinematography: Winton Hoch (She Wore a Yellow Ribbon)
B/w Art Direction: John Meehan, Harry Horner (The Heiress)
Colour Art Direction: Cedric Gibbons, Paul Groesse (Little Women)
B/w Costume Design: Edith Head, Gile Steele (The Heiress)
Colour Costume Design: Leah Rhodes, Travilla, Marjorie Best (Adventures of Don Juan) Sound: TCF Sound Dept (Twelve O'Clock High)
Editing: Harry Gerstad (Champion)
Special Effects: Mighty Joe Young
Song: 'Baby It's Cold Outside' from Neptune's Daughter (m/ly Frank Loesser)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Aaron Copland (The Heiress)
Scoring of a Musical: Roger Edens, Lennie Hayton (On the Town)
Documentary Short: A Chance to Live
Documentary Feature: Daybreak in Udi
Cartoon: For Scent-imental Reasons
One-Reel Short: Aquatic House Party
Two-Reel Short: Van Gogh
Special Awards: Bobby Driscoll; Fred Astaire; Cecil B. De Mille; Jean Hersholt; The Bicycle Thief (foreign film)

1950
Picture: All About Eve
Director: Joseph L. Mankiewicz (All About Eve)
Actor: José Ferrer (Cyrano de Bergerac)
Actress: Judy Holliday (Born Yesterday)
Supporting Actor: George Sanders (All About Eve)
Supporting Actress: Josephine Hull (Harvey)
Motion Picture Story: Edna Anhalt, Edward Anhalt (Panic in the Streets)
Screenplay: Joseph L. Mankiewicz (All About Eve)
Story & Screenplay: Charles Brackett, Billy Wilder, D. M. Marshman Jnr (Sunset Boulevard)
B/w Cinematography: Robert Krasker (The Third Man)
Colour Cinematography: Robert Surtees (King Solomon's Mines)
B/w Art Direction: Hans Dreier, John Meehan (Sunset Boulevard)
Colour Art Direction: Hans Dreier, Walter Tyler (Samson and Delilah)
B/w Costume Design: Edith Head, Charles LeMaire (All About Eve)
Colour Costume Design: Edith Head, Dorothy Jeakins, Elois Jenssen, Gile Steele, Gwen Wakeling (Samson and Delilah)
Sound: TCF Sound Dept (All About Eve)
Editing: Ralph E. Winters, Conrad A. Nervig (King Solomon's Mines)
Special Effects: Destination Moon
Song: 'Mona Lisa' from Captain Carey (m/ly Ray Evans, Jay Livingston)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Franz Waxman (Sunset Boulevard)
Scoring of a Musical: Adolph Deutsch, Roger Edens (Annie Get Your Gun) Documentary Short: Why Korea?
Documentary Feature: The Titan: Story of Michelangelo
Cartoon: Gerald McBoing Boing
One-Reel Short: Grandad of Races
Two-Reel Short: Beaver Valley
Honorary Awards: George Murphy; Louis B. Mayer; The Walls of Malapaga (foreign film)
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Darryl F. Zanuck

1951
Picture: An American in Paris
Director: George Stevens (A Place in the Sun)
Actor: Humphrey Bogart (The African Queen)
Actress: Vivien Leigh (A Streetcar Named Desire)
Supporting Actor: Karl Malden (A Streetcar Named Desire)
Supporting Actress: Kim Hunter (A Streetcar Named Desire)
Motion Picture Story: Paul Dehn, James Bernard (Seven Days to Noon)
Screenplay: Michael Wilson, Harry Brown (A Place in the Sun)
Story & Screenplay: Alan Jay Lerner (An American in Paris)
B/w Cinematography: William C. Mellor (A Place in the Sun)
Colour Cinematography: Alfred Gilks, John Alton (An American in Paris)
B/w Art Direction: Richard Day (A Streetcar Named Desire)
Colour Art Direction: Cedric Gibbons, Preston Ames (An American in Paris)
B/w Costume Design: Edith Head (A Place in the Sun)
Colour Costume Design: Orry-Kelly, Walter Plunkett, Irene Sharaff (An American in Paris)
Sound: Douglas Shearer (The Great Caruso)
Editing: William Hornbeck (A Place in the Sun)
Special Effects: When Worlds Collide
Song: 'In the Cool, Cool, Cool of the Evening' from Here Comes the Groom (m Hoagy Carmichael, ly Johnny Mercer)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Franz Waxman (A Place in the Sun)
Scoring of a Musical: Johnny Green, Saul Chaplin (An American in Paris)
Documentary Short: Benjy
Documentary Feature: Kon-Tiki
Cartoon: Two Mouseketeers
One-Reel Short: World of Kids
Two-Reel Short: Nature's Half Acre
Honorary Awards: Gene Kelly; Rashomon (foreign film)
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Arthur Freed

1952
Picture: The Greatest Show on Earth
Director: John Ford (The Quiet Man)
Actor: Gary Cooper (High Noon)
Actress: Shirley Booth (Come Back, Little Sheba)
Supporting Actor: Anthony Quinn (Viva Zapata!)
Supporting Actress: Gloria Grahame (The Bad and the Beautiful)
Motion Picture Story: Frederic M. Frank, Theodore St John, Frank Cavett (The Greatest Show on Earth)
Screenplay: Charles Schnee (The Bad and the Beautiful)
Story & Screenplay: T. E. B. Clarke (The Lavender Hill Mob)
B/w Cinematography: Robert Surtees (The Bad and the Beautiful)
Colour Cinematography: Winton C. Hoch, Archie Stout (The Quiet Man)
B/w Art Direction: Cedric Gibbons, Edward Carfagno (The Bad and the Beautiful)
Colour Art Direction: Paul Sheriff (Moulin Rouge)
B/w Costume Design: Helen Rose (The Bad and the Beautiful)
Colour Costume Design: Marcel Vertes (Moulin Rouge)
Sound: London Film Sound Dept (Breaking the Sound Barrier)
Editing: Elmo Williams, Harry Gerstad (High Noon)
Special Effects: Plymouth Adventure
Song: 'High Noon' from High Noon (m Dimitri Tiomkin, ly Ned Washington)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Dimitri Tiomkin (High Noon)
Scoring of a Musical: Alfred Newman (With a Song in My Heart)
Documentary Short: Neighbors
Documentary Feature: The Sea around Us
Cartoon: Johann Mouse
One-Reel Short: Light in the Window
Two-Reel Short: Water Birds
Honorary Awards: George Alfred Mitchell; Joseph M. Schenck; Merian C. Cooper; Harold Lloyd; Bob Hope; Forbidden Games (foreign film)
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Cecil B. De Mille

1953
Picture: From Here to Eternity
Director: Fred Zinnemann (From Here to Eternity)
Actor: William Holden (Stalag 17)
Actress: Audrey Hepburn (Roman Holiday)
Supporting Actor: Frank Sinatra (From Here to Eternity)
Supporting Actress: Donna Reed (From Here to Eternity)
Motion Picture Story: Ian McLellan Hunter, fronting for the blacklisted Dalton Trumbo (Roman Holiday)
Screenplay: Daniel Taradash (From Here to Eternity)
Story & Screenplay: Charles Brackett, Walter Reisch, Richard Breen (Titanic)
B/w Cinematography: Burnett Guffey (From Here to Eternity)
Colour Cinematography: Loyal Griggs (Shane)
B/w Art Direction: Cedric Gibbons, Edward Carfagno (Julius Caesar)
Colour Art Direction: Lyle Wheeler, George W. Davis (The Robe)
B/w Costume Design: Edith Head (Roman Holiday)
Colour Costume Design: Charles LeMaire, Emile Santiago (The Robe)
Sound: J. P. Livadary and Columbia Sound Dept (From Here to Eternity)
Editing: William Lyon (From Here to Eternity)
Special Effects: The War of the Worlds
Song: 'Secret Love' from Calamity Jane (m Sammy Fain, ly Paul Francis Webster)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Bronislau Kaper (Lili)
Scoring of a Musical: Alfred Newman (Call Me Madam)
Documentary Short: The Alaskan Eskimo
Documentary Feature: The Living Desert
Cartoon: Toot, Whistle, Plunk and Boom
One-Reel Short: The Merry Wives of Windsor Overture
Two-Reel Short: Bear Country
Honorary Awards: Pete Smith; Joseph I. Breen; Twentieth Century-Fox for Cinemascope Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: George Stevens

1954
Picture: On the Waterfront
Director: Elia Kazan (On the Waterfront)
Actor: Marlon Brando (On the Waterfront)
Actress: Grace Kelly (The Country Girl)
Supporting Actor: Edmond O'Brien (The Barefoot Contessa)
Supporting Actress: Eva Marie Saint (On the Waterfront)
Motion Picture Story: Philip Yordan (Broken Lance)
Screenplay: George Seaton (The Country Girl)
Story & Screenplay: Budd Schulberg (On the Waterfront)
B/w Cinematography: Boris Kaufman (On the Waterfront)
Colour Cinematography: Milton Krasner (Three Coins in the Fountain)
B/w Art Direction: Richard Day (On the Waterfront)
Colour Art Direction: John Meehan (20,000 Leagues under the Sea)
B/w Costume Design: Edith Head (Sabrina)
Colour Costume Design: Sanzo Wada (Gate of Hell)
Sound: Leslie I. Carey (The Glenn Miller Story)
Editing: Gene Milford (On the Waterfront)
Special Effects: 20,000 Leagues under the Sea
Song: 'Three Coins in the Fountain' from Three Coins in the Fountain (m Jule Styne, ly Sammy Cahn)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Dimitri Tiomkin (The High and the Mighty)
Scoring of a Musical: Adolph Deutsch, Saul Chaplin (Seven Brides for Seven Brothers) Documentary Short: Thursday's Children
Documentary Feature: The Vanishing Prairie
Cartoon: When Magoo Flew
One-Reel Short: This Mechanical Age
Two-Reel Short: A Time out of War
Honorary Awards: Greta Garbo; Danny Kaye; Jon Whiteley; Vincent Winter; Gate of Hell (foreign film)

1955
Picture: Marty
Director: Delbert Mann (Marty)
Actor: Ernest Borgnine (Marty)
Actress: Anna Magnani (The Rose Tattoo)
Supporting Actor: Jack Lemmon (Mister Roberts)
Supporting Actress: Jo Van Fleet (East of Eden)
Motion Picture Story: Daniel Fuchs (Love Me or Leave Me)
Screenplay: Paddy Chayevsky (Marty)
Story & Screenplay: William Ludwig, Sonya Levien (Interrupted Melody)
B/w Cinematography: James Wong Howe (The Rose Tattoo)
Colour Cinematography: Robert Burks (To Catch a Wife)
B/w Art Direction: Hal Pereira, Tambi Larsen (The Rose Tattoo)
Colour Art Direction: William Flannery, Jo Mielziner (Picnic)
B/w Costume Design: Helen Rose (I'll Cry Tomorrow)
Colour Costume Design: Charles LeMaire (Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing)
Sound: Fred Hynes and Todd-AO Sound Dept (Oklahoma!)
Editing: Charles Nelson, William A. Lyon (Picnic)
Special Effects: The Bridges at Toko-Ri
Song: 'Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing' from Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing (m Sammy Fain, ly Paul Francis Webster)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Alfred Newman (Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing)
Scoring of a Musical: Robert Russell Bennett, Jay Blackton, Adolph Deutsch (Oklahoma!) Documentary Short: Men against the Arctic Documentary Feature: Helen Keller in Her Story
Cartoon: Speedy Gonzales
One-Reel Short: Survival City
Two-Reel Short: The Face of Lincoln
Honorary Awards: Samurai, the Legend of Musashi (foreign film)

1956
Picture: Around the World in Eighty Days
Foreign-Language Film: La Strada (Federico Fellini)
Director: George Stevens (Giant)
Actor: Yul Brynner (The King and I)
Actress: Ingrid Bergman (Anastasia)
Supporting Actor: Anthony Quinn (Lust for Life)
Supporting Actress: Dorothy Malone (Written on the Wind)
Motion Picture Story: Dalton Trumbo (as Robert Rich) (The Brave One)
Original Screenplay: Albert Lamorisse (The Red Balloon)
Adapted Screenplay: James Poe, John Farrow, S. J. Perelman (Around the World in Eighty Days)
B/w Cinematography: Joseph Ruttenberg (Somebody Up There Likes Me)
Colour Cinematography: Lionel Lindon (Around the World in Eighty Days)
B/w Art Direction: Cedric Gibbons, Malcolm F. Brown (Somebody Up There Likes Me)
Colour Art Direction: Lyle Wheeler, John DeCuir (The King and I)
B/w Costume Design: Jean Louis (The Solid Gold Cadillac)
Colour Costume Design: Irene Sharaff (The King and I)
Sound: Carl Faulkner and TCF Sound Dept (The King and I) Editing: Gene Ruggiero, Paul Weatherwax (Around the World in Eighty Days)
Special Effects: John Fulton (The Ten Commandments)
Song: 'Whatever Will Be, Will Be' from The Man Who Knew Too Much (m/ly Jay Livingston, Ray Evans)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Victor Young (Around the World in Eighty Days)
Scoring of a Musical: Alfred Newman, Ken Darby (The King and I) Documentary Short: The True Story of the Civil War
Documentary Feature: The Silent World
Cartoon: Mister Magoo's Puddle Jumper
One-Reel Short: Crashing the Water Barrier
Two-Reel Short: The Bespoke Overcoat
Honorary Award: Eddie Cantor
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Buddy Adler

1957
Picture: The Bridge on the River Kwai
Foreign-Language Film: The Nights of Cabiria (Federico Fellini)
Director: David Lean (The Bridge on the River Kwai)
Actor: Alec Guinness (The Bridge on the River Kwai)
Actress: Joanne Woodward (The Three Faces of Eve)
Supporting Actor: Red Buttons (Sayonara)
Supporting Actress: Miyoshi Umeki (Sayonara)
Original Story & Screenplay: George Wells (Designing Woman)
Adapted Screenplay: Pierre Boulle, Michael Wilson, Carl Foreman (The Bridge on the River Kwai)
Cinematography: Jack Hildyard (The Bridge on the River Kwai)
Art Direction: Ted Hayworth (Sayonara)
Costume Design: Orry-Kelly (Les Girls)
Sound: George Groves and Warner Sound Dept (Sayonara)
Editing: Peter Taylor (The Bridge on the River Kwai)
Special Effects: Walter Rossi (The Enemy Below)
Song: 'All the Way' from The Joker Is Wild (m James van Heusen, ly Sammy Cahn)
Music Scoring: Malcolm Arnold (The Bridge on the River Kwai)
Documentary Feature: Albert Schweitzer
Cartoon: Birds Anonymous
Live-Action Short: The Wetback Hound
Honorary Awards: Charles Brackett; B. B. Kahane; Gilbert 'Bronco Billy' Anderson

1958
Picture: Gigi
Foreign-Language Film: My Uncle (Jacques Tati)
Director: Vincente Minnelli (Gigi)
Actor: David Niven (Separate Tables)
Actress: Susan Hayward (I Want to Live!)
Supporting Actor: Burl Ives (The Big Country)
Supporting Actress: Wendy Hiller (Separate Tables)
Original Story & Screenplay: Nathan E. Douglas (the blacklisted Ned Young), Harold Jacob Smith (The Defiant Ones)
Adapted Screenplay: Alan Jay Lerner (Gigi)
B/w Cinematography: Sam Leavitt (The Defiant Ones)
Colour Cinematography: Joseph Ruttenberg (Gigi)
Art Direction: William A. Horning, Preston Ames (Gigi)
Costume Design: Cecil Beaton (Gigi)
Sound: Fred Hynes and the Todd-AO Sound Dept (South Pacific)
Editing: Adrienne Fazan (Gigi)
Special Effects: Tom Howard (Tom Thumb)
Song: 'Gigi' from Gigi (m Frederick Loewe, ly Alan Jay Lerner)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Dimitri Tiomkin (The Old Man and the Sea)
Scoring of a Musical: André Previn (Gigi)
Documentary Short: Ama Girls
Documentary Feature: White Wilderness
Cartoon: Knighty Knight Bugs
Live-Action Short: Grand Canyon
Honorary Award: Maurice Chevalier
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Jack L. Warner

1959
Picture: Ben-Hur
Foreign-Language Film: Black Orpheus (Marcel Camus)
Director: William Wyler (Ben-Hur)

Actor: Charlton Heston (Ben-Hur)
Actress: Simone Signoret (Room at the Top)
Supporting Actor: Hugh Griffith (Ben-Hur)
Supporting Actress: Shelley Winters (The Diary of Anne Frank)
Original Story & Screenplay: Russell Rouse, Clarence Greene, Stanley Shapiro, Maurice Richlin (Pillow Talk)
Adapted Screenplay: Neil Paterson (Room at the Top)
B/w Cinematography: William C. Mellor (The Diary of Anne Frank)
Colour Cinematography: Robert L. Surtees (Ben-Hur)
B/w Art Direction: Lyle R. Wheeler, George W. Davis (The Diary of Anne Frank)
Colour Art Direction: William A. Horning, Edward Carfagno (Ben-Hur)
B/w Costume Design: Orry-Kelly (Some Like It Hot)
Colour Costume Design: Elizabeth Haffenden (Ben-Hur)
Sound: Franklin E. Milton and MGM Sound Dept (Ben-Hur)
Editing: Ralph E. Winters, John D. Dunning (Ben-Hur)
Special Effects: Arnold Gillespie, Robert MacDonald, Milo Lory (Ben-Hur)
Song: 'High Hopes' from A Hole in the Head (m James Van Heusen, ly Sammy Cahn)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Miklos Rosza (Ben-Hur)
Scoring of a Musical: André Previn, Kim Darby (Porgy and Bess)
Documentary Short: Glass
Documentary Feature: Serengeti Shall Not Die
Cartoon: Moonbird
Live-Action Short: The Golden Fish
Honorary Awards: Lee De Forest; Buster Keaton

1960

Picture: The Apartment
Foreign-Language Film: The Virgin Spring (Ingmar Bergman)
Director: Billy Wilder (The Apartment)
Actor: Burt Lancaster (Elmer Gantry)
Actress: Elizabeth Taylor (Butterfield 8)
Supporting Actor: Peter Ustinov (Spartacus)
Supporting Actress: Shirley Jones (Elmer Gantry)
Original Story & Screenplay: Billy Wilder, I. A. L. Diamond (The Apartment)
Adapted Screenplay: Richard Brooks (Elmer Gantry)
B/w Cinematography: Freddie Francis (Sons and Lovers)
Colour Cinematography: Russell Metty (Spartacus)
B/w Art Direction: Alexander Trauner (The Apartment)
Colour Art Direction: Alexander Golitzen, Eric Orbom (Spartacus)
B/w Costume Design: Edith Head, Edward Stevenson (The Facts of Life)
Colour Costume Design: Valles, Bill Thomas (Spartacus)
Sound: Gordon E. Sawyer and Samuel Goldwyn Sound Dept (The Alamo)
Editing: Daniel Mandell (The Apartment)
Special Effects: Gene Warren, Tim Baar (MGM) (The Time Machine)
Song: 'Never on Sunday' from Never on Sunday (m/ly Manos Hadjidakis)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Ernest Gold (Exodus)
Scoring of a Musical: Morris Stoloff, Harry Sikman (Song without End) Documentary Short: Giuseppina
Documentary Feature: The Horse with the Flying Tail
Cartoon: Munro
Live-Action Short: Day of the Panther
Honorary Awards: Gary Cooper; Stan Laurel; Hayley Mills

1961

Picture: West Side Story
Foreign-Language Picture: Through a Glass Darkly (Ingmar Bergman)
Director: Jerome Robbins, Robert Wise (West Side Story)
Actor: Maximilian Schell (Judgment at Nuremberg)
Actress: Sophia Loren (Two Women)
Supporting Actor: George Chakiris (West Side Story)
Supporting Actress: Rita Moreno (West Side Story)
Original Story & Screenplay: William Inge (Splendor in the Grass)
Adapted Screenplay: Abby Mann (Judgment at Nuremberg)
B/w Cinematography: Eugene Schufftan (The Hustler)
Colour Cinematography: Daniel L. Fapp (West Side Story)
B/w Art Direction: Harry Horner (The Hustler)
Colour Art Direction: Boris Leven (West Side Story)
B/w Costume Design: Piero Gherardi (La Dolce Vita)
Colour Costume Design: Irene Sharaff (West Side Story)
Sound: Fred Hynes and Samuel Goldwyn Sound Dept, Gordon E. Sawyer (West Side Story)
Editing: Thomas Stanford (West Side Story)
Special Effects: Bill Warrington, Vivian C. Greenham (The Guns of Navarone)
Song: 'Moon River' from Breakfast at Tiffany's (m Henry Mancini, ly Johnny Mercer)
Scoring of a Drama or Comedy: Henry Mancini (Breakfast at Tiffany's)
Scoring of a Musical: Saul Chaplin, Johnny Green, Sid Ramin, Irwin Kostal (West Side Story)
Documentary Short: Project Hope
Documentary Feature: Le Ciel et la Boue
Cartoon: Ersatz
Live-Action Short: Seawards the Great Ships
Honorary Awards: William L. Hendricks; Fred L. Metzler; Jerome Robbins Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Stanley Kramer

1962

Picture: Lawrence of Arabia
Foreign-Language Film: Sundays and Cybele (Serge Bourgignon)
Director: David Lean (Lawrence of Arabia)
Actor: Gregory Peck (To Kill a Mockingbird)
Actress: Anne Bancroft (The Miracle Worker)
Supporting Actor: Ed Begley (Sweet Bird of Youth)
Supporting Actress: Patty Duke (The Miracle Worker)
Original Story & Screenplay: Ennio De Concini, Alfredo Gianetti, Pietro Germi (Divorce Italian Style)
Adapted Screenplay: Horton Foote (To Kill a Mockingbird)
B/w Cinematography: Jean Bourgoin, Walter Wottitz (The Longest Day)
Colour Cinematography: Fred A. Young (Lawrence of Arabia)
B/w Art Direction: Alexander Golitzen, Henry Bumstead (To Kill a Mockingbird)
Colour Art Direction: John Box, John Stoll (Lawrence of Arabia)
B/w Costume Design: Norma Koch (What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?) Colour Costume Design: Mary Wills (The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm) Sound: John Cox, Shepperton Studio Sound Dept (Lawrence of Arabia)
Editing: Anne Coates (Lawrence of Arabia)
Special Effects: Robert MacDonald, Jacques Maumont (The Longest Day)
Song: 'Days of Wine and Roses' from Days of Wine and Roses (m Henry Mancini, ly Johnny Mercer)
Original Score: Maurice Jarre (Lawrence of Arabia)
Adapted Score: Ray Heindorf (The Music Man)
Documentary Short: Dylan Thomas
Documentary Feature: Black Fox
Cartoon: The Hole
Live-Action Short: Happy Anniversary

1963

Picture: Tom Jones
Foreign-Language Film: 8? (Federico Fellini)
Director: Tony Richardson (Tom Jones)
Actor: Sidney Poitier (Lilies of the Field)
Actress: Patricia Neal (Hud)
Supporting Actor: Melvyn Douglas (Hud)
Supporting Actress: Margaret Rutherford (The VIPs)
Original Story & Screenplay: James R. Webb (How the West Was Won)
Adapted Screenplay: John Osborne (Tom Jones)
B/w Cinematography: James Wong Howe (Hud)
Colour Cinematography: Leon Shamroy (Cleopatra)
B/w Art Direction: Gene Callahan (America America)
Colour Art Direction: John DeCuir, Jack Martin Smith, Hilyard Brown, Herman Blumenthal, Elven Webb, Maurice Pelling, Boris Juraga (Cleopatra)
B/w Costume Design: Piero Gherardi (8?)
Colour Costume Design: Irene Sharaff, Vittorio Nino Novarese, Renie (Cleopatra)
Visual Effects: Emil Kosa Jnr (Cleopatra)
Sound Effects: Walter G. Elliott (It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World)
Sound: Franklin E. Milton, MGM Sound Dept (How the West Was Won)
Editing: Harold F. Cress (How the West Was Won)
Song: 'Call Me Irresponsible' from Papa's Delicate Condition (m James Van Heusen, ly Sammy Cahn)
Original Score: John Addison (Tom Jones)
Adapted Score: André Previn (Irma La Douce)
Documentary Short: Chagall
Documentary Feature: Robert Frost: A Lover's Quarrel with the World
Cartoon: The Critic
Live-Action Short: An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Sam Spiegel

1964

Picture: My Fair Lady
Foreign-Language Film: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow (Vittorio De Sica)
Director: George Cukor (My Fair Lady)
Actor: Rex Harrison (My Fair Lady)
Actress: Julie Andrews (Mary Poppins)
Supporting Actor: Peter Ustinov (Topkapi)
Supporting Actress: Lila Kedrova (Zorba the Greek)
Original Story & Screenplay: S. H. Barnett, Peter Stone, Frank Tarloff (Father Goose)
Adapted Screenplay: Edward Anhalt (Becket)
B/w Cinematography: Walter Lassally (Zorba the Greek)
Colour Cinematography: Harry Stradling (My Fair Lady)
B/w Art Direction: Vassilis Fotopoulos (Zorba the Greek)
Colour Art Direction: Gene Allen, Cecil Beaton (My Fair Lady)
B/w Costume Design: Dorothy Jeakins (The Night of the Iguana)
Colour Costume Design: Cecil Beaton (My Fair Lady)
Visual Effects: Peter Ellenshaw, Hamilton Luske, Eustace Lycett (Mary Poppins)
Sound Effects: Norman Wanstall (Goldfinger)
Sound: George R. Groves, Warner Sound Dept (My Fair Lady)
Editing: Cotton Warburton (Mary Poppins)
Song: 'Chim Chim Cheree' from Mary Poppins (m/ly Richard M. Sherman, Robert B. Sherman)
Original Score: Richard M. Sherman, Robert B. Sherman (Mary Poppins)
Adapted Score: André Previn (My Fair Lady)
Documentary Short: Nine from Little Rock
Documentary Feature: Jacques-Yves Cousteau's World without Sun
Cartoon: The Pink Phink
Live-Action Short: Casals Conducts: 1964
Honorary Award: William Tuttle (for make-up on Seven Faces of Dr Lao)

1965

Picture: The Sound of Music
Foreign-Language Film: The Shop on Main Street (Jan Kadar)
Director: Robert Wise (The Sound of Music)
Actor: Lee Marvin (Cat Ballou)
Actress: Julie Christie (Darling)
Supporting Actor: Martin Balsam (A Thousand Clowns)
Supporting Actress: Shelley Winters (A Patch of Blue)
Original Story & Screenplay: Frederic Raphael (Darling)
Adapted Screenplay: Robert Bolt (Dr Zhivago)
B/w Cinematography: Ernest Laszlo (Ship of Fools)
Colour Cinematography: Freddie Young (Dr Zhivago)
B/w Art Direction: Robert Clatworthy (Ship of Fools)
Colour Art Direction: John Box, Terry Marsh (Dr Zhivago)
B/w Costume Design: Julie Harris (Darling)
Colour Costume Design: Phyllis Dalton (Dr Zhivago)
Visual Effects: John Stears (Thunderball)
Sound Effects: Tregoweth Brown (The Great Race)
Sound: James P. Corcoran, TCF Sound Dept, Fred Hynes, Todd-AO Sound Dept (The Sound of Music)
Editing: William Reynolds (The Sound of Music)
Song: 'The Shadow of Your Smile' from The Sandpiper (m Johnny Mandel, ly Paul Francis Webster)
Original Score: Maurice Jarre (Dr Zhivago)
Adapted Score: Irwin Kostal (The Sound of Music)
Documentary Short: To Be Alive!
Documentary Feature: The Eleanor Roosevelt Story
Cartoon: The Dot and the Line
Live-Action Short: The Chicken
Honorary Award: Bob Hope
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: William Wyler

1966

Picture: A Man for All Seasons
Foreign-Language Film: A Man and a Woman (Claude Lelouch)
Director: Fred Zinnemann (A Man for All Seasons)
Actor: Paul Scofield (A Man for All Seasons)
Actress: Elizabeth Taylor (Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?)
Supporting Actor: Walter Matthau (The Fortune Cookie)
Supporting Actress: Sandy Dennis (Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?)
Original Story & Screenplay: Claude Lelouch, Pierre Uytterhoeven (A Man and a Woman)
Adapted Screenplay: Robert Bolt (A Man for All Seasons)
B/w Cinematography: Haskell Wexler (Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?)
Colour Cinematography: Ted Moore (A Man for All Seasons)
B/w Art Direction: Richard Sylbert (Who's Afraid o Virginia Woolf?)
Colour Art Direction: Jack Martin Smith, Dale Hennesy (Fantastic Voyage)
B/w Costume Design: Irene Sharaff (Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?)
Colour Costume Design: Elizabeth Haffenden, Joan Bridge (A Man for All Seasons)
Visual Effects: Art Cruickshank (Fantastic Voyage)
Sound Effects: Gordon Daniel (Grand Prix)
Sound: Franklin E. Milton, MGM Sound Dept (Grand Prix)
Editing: Frederic Steinkamp, Henry Berman, Stewart Linder, Frank Santillo (Grand Prix)
Song: 'Born Free' from Born Free (m John Barry, ly Don Black)
Original Score: John Barry (Born Free)
Adapted Score: Ken Thorne (A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum)
Documentary Short: A Year toward Tomorrow
Documentary Feature: The War Game
Cartoon: Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass Double Feature Live-Action Short: Wild Wings
Honorary Award: Yakima Canutt
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Robert Wise

1967

Picture: In the Heat of the Night
Foreign-Language Film: Closely Observed Trains (Jiri Menzel)
Director: Mike Nichols (The Graduate)
Actor: Rod Steiger (In the Heat of the Night)
Actress: Katharine Hepburn (Guess Who's Coming to Dinner); Barbra Streisand (Funny Girl)
Supporting Actor: George Kennedy (Cool Hand Luke)
Supporting Actress: Estelle Parsons (Bonnie and Clyde)
Original Story & Screenplay: William Rose (Guess Who's Coming to Dinner)
Adapted Screenplay: Sterling Silliphant (In the Heat of the Night)
Cinematography: Burnett Guffey (Bonnie and Clyde)
Art Direction: John Truscott, Edward Carrere (Camelot)
Costume Design: John Truscott (Camelot)
Special Effects: L. B. Abbott (Doctor Dolittle)
Sound Effects: John Poyner (The Dirty Dozen)
Sound: Samuel Goldwyn Studio Dept (In the Heat of the Night)
Editing: Hal Ashby (In the Heat of the Night)
Song: 'Talk to the Animals' from Doctor Dolittle (m/ly Leslie Bricusse)
Original Score: Elmer Bernstein (Thoroughly Modern Millie)
Adapted Score: Alfred Newman, Ken Darby (Camelot)
Documentary Short: The Redwoods
Documentary Feature: The Anderson Platoon
Cartoon: The Box
Live-Action Short: A Place to Stand
Honorary Award: Arthur Freed
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Alfred Hitchcock

1968

Picture: Oliver!
Director: Carol Reed (Oliver!)
Actor: Cliff Robertson (Charly)
Actress: Katharine Hepburn (The Lion in Winter)
Supporting Actor: Jack Albertson (The Subject Was Roses)

Supporting Actress: Ruth Gordon (Rosemary's Baby)
Original Story & Screenplay: Mel Brooks (The Producers)
Adapted Screenplay: James Goldman (The Lion in Winter)
Cinematography: Pasqualino De Santis (Romeo and Juliet)
Art Direction: John Box, Terence Marsh (Oliver!)
Costume Design: Danilo Donati (Romeo and Juliet)
Sound: Shepperton Sound Dept (Oliver!)
Editing: Frank P. Keller (Bullitt)
Special Effects: Stanley Kubrick (2001: A Space Odyssey)
Song: 'The Windmills of Your Mind' from The Thomas Crown Affair (m Michel Legrand, ly Alan and Marilyn Bergman)
Original Score: John Barry (The Lion in Winter)
Scoring of a Musical: John Green (Oliver!) Documentary Short: Why Man Creates
Documentary Feature: Journey into Self
Cartoon: Winnie the Pooh and the Blustery Day
Live-Action Short: Robert Kennedy Remembered
Honorary Awards: John Chambers (make-up for Planet of the Apes); Onna White (choreography for Oliver!)

1969

Picture: Midnight Cowboy
Foreign-Language Film: Z (Costa-Gavras)
Director: John Schlesinger (Midnight Cowboy)
Actor: John Wayne (True Grit)
Actress: Maggie Smith (The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie)
Supporting Actor: Gig Young (They Shoot Horses, Don't They?)
Supporting Actress: Goldie Hawn (Cactus Flower)
Original Story & Screenplay: William Goldman (Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid)
Adapted Screenplay: Waldo Salt (Midnight Cowboy)
Cinematography: Arthur Ibbetson (Anne of the Thousand Days)
Art Direction: John DeCuir, Jack Martin Smith, Herman Blumenthal (Hello, Dolly!)
Costume Design: Margaret Furse (Anne of the Thousand Days)
Sound: Jack Solomon, Murray Spivack (Hello, Dolly!)
Editing: Françoise Bonnot (Z)
Special Effects: Robbie Robertson (Marooned)
Song: 'Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head' from Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid (m Burt Bacharach, ly Hal David)
Original Score: Burt Bacharach (Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid)
Scoring of a Musical: Lennie Hayton, Lionel Newman (Hello, Dolly!)
Documentary Short: Czechoslovakia 1968
Documentary Feature: Arthur Rubinstein – the Love of Life
Cartoon: It's Tough to Be a Bird
Live-Action Short: The Magic Machines
Honorary Award: Cary Grant

1970

Picture: Patton
Foreign-Language Film: Investigation of a Citizen above Suspicion (Elio Petri)
Director: Franklin J. Schaffner (Patton)
Actor: George C. Scott (Patton)
Actress: Glenda Jackson (Women in Love)
Supporting Actor: John Mills (Ryan's Daughter)
Supporting Actress: Helen Hayes (Airport)
Original Story & Screenplay: Francis Ford Coppola, Edmund H. North (Patton)
Adapted Screenplay: Ring Lardner Jnr (*M*A*S*H*)
Cinematography: Freddie Young (Ryan's Daughter)
Art Direction: Urie McCleary, Gil Parrondo (Patton)
Costume Design: Nino Novarese (Cromwell)
Sound: Douglas Williams, Don Bassman (Patton)
Editing: Hugh S. Fowler (Patton)
Special Effects: A. D. Flowers, L. B. Abbott (Tora! Tora! Tora!)
Song: 'For All We Know' from Lovers and Other Strangers (m Fred Karlin, ly Robb Royer, James Griffin)
Original Score: Francis Lai (Love Story)
Original Song Score: The Beatles (Let It Be) Documentary Short: Interviews with My Lai Veterans
Documentary Feature: Woodstock
Cartoon: Is It Always Right to Be Right
Live-Action Short: The Resurrection of Bronco Billy
Honorary Awards: Lillian Gish; Orson Welles
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Ingmar Bergman

1971

Picture: The French Connection
Foreign-Language Film: The Garden of the Finzi-Continis (Vittorio De Sica)
Director: William Friedkin (The French Connection)
Actor: Gene Hackman (The French Connection)
Actress: Jane Fonda (Klute)
Supporting Actor: Ben Johnson (The Last Picture Show)
Supporting Actress: Cloris Leachman (The Last Picture Show)
Original Story & Screenplay: Paddy Chayevsky (The Hospital)
Adapted Screenplay: Ernest Tidyman (The French Connection)
Cinematography: Oswald Morris (Fiddler on the Roof)
Art Direction: John Box, Ernest Archer, Jack Maxsted, Gil Parrondo (Nicholas and Alexandra)
Costume Design: Yvonne Blake, Antonio Castillo (Nicholas and Alexandra)
Sound: Gordon K. McCallum, David Hildyard (Fiddler on the Roof)
Editing: Jerry Greenberg (The French Connection)
Special Effects: Alan Maley, Eustace Lycett, Danny Lee (Bedknobs and Broomsticks)
Song: Theme from Shaft (m/ly Isaac Hayes)
Original Dramatic Score: Michel Legrand (Summer of '42)
Adaptation and Original Song Score: John Williams (Fiddler on the Roof)
Documentary Short: Sentinels of Silence
Documentary Feature: The Hellstrom Chronicle
Animated Film: The Crunch Bird
Live-Action Short: Sentinels of Silence
Honorary Award: Charles Chaplin

1972

Picture: The Godfather
Foreign-Language Film: The Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie (Luis Buñuel)
Director: Bob Fosse (Cabaret)
Actor: Marlon Brando (The Godfather)
Actress: Liza Minnelli (Cabaret)
Supporting Actor: Joel Grey (Cabaret)
Supporting Actress: Eileen Heckart (Butterflies Are Free)
Original Story & Screenplay: Jeremy Larner (The Candidate)
Adapted Screenplay: Mario Puzo, Francis Ford Coppola (The Godfather)
Cinematography: Geoffrey Unsworth (Cabaret)
Art Direction: Rolf Zehetbauer, Jurgen Kiebach (Cabaret)
Costume Design: Anthony Powell (Travels with My Aunt)
Sound: Robert Knudson, David Hildyard (Cabaret)
Editing: David Bretherton (Cabaret)
Song: 'The Morning After' from The Poseidon Adventure (m/ly Al Kasha, Joel Hirschhorn)
Original Dramatic Score: Charles Chaplin, Raymond Rasch, Larry Russell (Limelight)
Adaptation and Original Song Score: Ralph Burns (Cabaret)
Documentary Short: This Tiny World
Documentary Feature: Marjoe
Animated Film: A Christmas Carol
Live-Action Short: Norman Rockwell's World ... An American Dream
Special Achievement Award: L. B. Abbott, A. D. Flowers (for visual effects, The Poseidon Adventure)
Honorary Award: Edward G. Robinson

1973

Picture: The Sting
Foreign-Language Film: Day for Night (François Truffaut)
Director: George Roy Hill (The Sting)
Actor: Jack Lemmon (Save the Tiger)
Actress: Glenda Jackson (A Touch of Class)
Supporting Actor: John Houseman (The Paper Chase)
Supporting Actress: Tatum O'Neal (Paper Moon)
Original Story & Screenplay: David S. Ward (The Sting)
Adapted Screenplay: William Peter Blatty (The Exorcist)
Cinematography: Sven Nykvist (Cries and Whispers)
Art Direction: Henry Bumstead (The Sting)
Costume Design: Edith Head (The Sting)
Sound: Robert Knudson, Chris Newman (The Exorcist)
Editing: William Reynolds (The Sting)
Song: 'The Way We Were' from The Way We Were (m Marvin Hamlisch, ly Alan and Marilyn Bergman)
Original Dramatic Score: Marvin Hamlisch (The Way We Were)
Adaptation and Original Song Score: Marvin Hamlisch (The Sting)
Documentary Short: Princeton: A Search for Answers
Documentary Feature: The Great American Cowboy
Animated Film: Frank Film
Live-Action Short: The Bolero
Honorary Awards: Henri Langlois; Groucho Marx
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Lawrence Weingarten

1974

Picture: The Godfather Part II
Foreign-Language Film: Amarcord (Federico Fellini)
Director: Francis Ford Coppola (The Godfather Part II)
Actor: Art Carney (Harry and Tonto)
Actress: Ellen Burstyn (Alice Doesn't Live Here Any More)
Supporting Actor: Robert De Niro (The Godfather Part II)
Supporting Actress: Ingrid Bergman (Murder on the Orient Express)
Original Story & Screenplay: Robert Towne (Chinatown)
Adapted Screenplay: Francis Ford Coppola, Mario Puzo (The Godfather Part II)
Cinematography: Fred Koenekamp, Joseph Biroc (The Towering Inferno)
Art Direction: Dean Tavoularis, Angelo Graham (The Godfather Part II)
Costume Design: Theoni V. Aldredge (The Great Gatsby) Sound: Ronald Pierce, Melvin Metcalfe Snr (Earthquake)
Editing: Harold F. Kress, Carl Kress (The Towering Inferno)
Song: 'We May Never Love Like This Again' from The Towering Inferno (m/ly Al Kasha, Joel Hirshhorn)
Original Dramatic Score: Nino Rota, Carmine Coppola (The Godfather Part II)
Adaptation and Original Song Score: Nelson Riddle (The Great Gatsby) Documentary Short: Don't
Documentary Feature: Hearts and Minds
Animated Film: Closed Mondays
Live-Action Short: One-Eyed Men Are Kings
Honorary Awards: Howard Hawks; Jean Renoir
Special Achievement Award: Frank Brendel, Glen Robinson, Albert Whitlock (for visual effects, Earthquake)

1975

Picture: One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest
Foreign-Language Film: Dersu Uzala (Akira Kurosawa)
Director: Milos Forman (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Actress: Louise Fletcher (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Supporting Actor: George Burns (The Sunshine Boys)
Supporting Actress: Lee Grant (Shampoo)
Original Screenplay: Frank Pierson (Dog Day Afternoon)
Adapted Screenplay: Lawrence Hauben, Bo Goldman (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Cinematography: John Alcott (Barry Lyndon)
Art Direction: Ken Adam, Roy Walker (Barry Lyndon) Costume Design: Britt Soderland, Milena Canonero (Barry Lyndon) Sound: Robert L. Hoyt, Roger Heman, Earl Madery, John Carter (Jaws)
Editing: Verna Fields (Jaws)
Song: 'I'm Easy' from Nashville (m/ly Keith Carradine)
Original Score: John Williams (Jaws)
Adaptation and Original Song Score: Leonard Rosenman (Barry Lyndon) Documentary Short: The End of the Game
Documentary Feature: The Man Who Skied Down Everest
Animated Film: Great
Live-Action Short: Angel and Big Joe
Honorary Award: Mary Pickford
Special Achievement Awards: Peter Berkos (sound effects, The Hindenburg); Albert Whitlock and Glen Robinson (visual effects, The Hindenburg) Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Mervyn Le Roy

1976

Picture: Rocky
Foreign-Language Film: Black and White in Colour (Jean-Jacques Annaud)
Director: John G. Avildsen (Rocky)
Actor: Peter Finch (Network)
Actress: Faye Dunaway (Network)
Supporting Actor: Jason Robards (All the President's Men)
Supporting Actress: Beatrice Straight (Network)
Original Screenplay: Paddy Chayevsky (Network)
Adapted Screenplay: William Goldman (All the President's Men)
Cinematography: Haskell Wexler (Bound for Glory)
Art Direction: George Jenkins (All the President's Men)
Costume Design: Danilo Donati (Fellini's Casanova)
Sound: Arthur Piantadosi, Les Fresholtz, Dick Alexander, Jim Webb (All the President's Men) Editing: Richard Halsey, Scott Conrad (Rocky)
Song: 'Evergreen' from A Star Is Born (m Barbra Streisand, ly Paul Williams)
Original Score: Jerry Goldsmith (The Omen)
Adaptation and Original Song Score: Leonard Rosenman (Bound for Glory)
Documentary Short: Number Our Days
Documentary Feature: Harlan County, USA
Animated Film: Leisure
Live-Action Short: In the Region of Ice
Special Achievement Awards: Carlo Rambaldi, Glen Robinson, Frank Van Der Veer (visual effects, King Kong); L. B. Abbott, Glen Robinson, Matthew Yuricich (visual effects, Logan's Run)
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Pandro S. Berman

1977

Picture: Annie Hall
Foreign-Language Film: Madame Rosa (Moshe Mizrahi)
Director: Woody Allen (Annie Hall)
Actor: Richard Dreyfuss (The Goodbye Girl)
Actress: Diane Keaton (Annie Hall)
Supporting Actor: Jason Robards (Julia)
Supporting Actress: Vanessa Redgrave (Julia)
Original Screenplay: Woody Allen, Marshall Brickman (Annie Hall)
Adapted Screenplay: Alvin Sargent (Julia)
Cinematography: Vilmos Zsigmond (Close Encounters of the Third Kind)
Art Direction: John Barry, Norman Reynolds, Leslie Dilley (Star Wars)
Costume Design: John Mollo (Star Wars)
Sound: Don MacDougall, Ray West, Bob Minkler, Derek Ball (Star Wars)
Editing: Marcia Lucas, Richard Chew (Star Wars)
Visual Effects: John Stears, John Dystra, Richard Edlund, Grant McCune, Robert Black (Star Wars)
Song: 'You Light Up My Life' from You Light Up My Life (m/ly Joseph Brooks)
Adaptation and Original Song Score: Jonathan Tunick (A Little Night Music)
Documentary Short: Gravity Is My Enemy
Documentary Feature: Who Are the DeBolts? And Where Did They Get Nineteen Kids?
Animated Film: Sand Castle
Live-Action Short: I'll Find a Way
Honorary Award: Margaret Booth (for contribution to the art of film editing)
Special Achievement Awards: Frank Warner (sound effects editing, Close Encounters of the Third Kind); Benjamin Burtt Jnr (sound effects, Star Wars)
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Walter Mirisch

1978

Picture: The Deer Hunter
Foreign-Language Film: Get Out Your Handkerchiefs (Bertrand Blier)
Director: Michael Cimino (The Deer Hunter)
Actor: Jon Voight (Coming Home)
Actress: Jane Fonda (Coming Home)
Supporting Actor: Christopher Walken (The Deer Hunter)
Supporting Actress: Maggie Smith (California Suite)
Original Screenplay: Nancy Dowd, Waldo Salt, Robert C. Jones (Coming Home)
Adapted Screenplay: Oliver Stone (Midnight Express)
Cinematography: Nestor Almendros (Days of Heaven)
Art Direction: Paul Sylbert, Edwin O'Donovan (Heaven Can Wait)
Costume Design: Anthony Powell (Death on the Nile)
Sound: Richard Portman, William McCaughey, Aaron Rochin, Darrin Knight (The Deer Hunter)
Editing: Peter Zinner (The Deer Hunter)

Song: 'Last Dance' from Thank God It's Friday (m/ly Paul Jabara)
Original Score: Giorgio Moroder (Midnight Express)
Adaptation and Original Song Score: Joe Renzetti (The Buddy Holly Story)
Documentary Short: The Flight of the Gossamer Condor
Documentary Feature: Scared Straight
Animated Film: Special Delivery
Live-Action Short: Teenage Father
Honorary Awards: Walter Lantz (for his animated pictures); Laurence Olivier (for the full body of his work); King Vidor (for his incomparable achievements)
Special Achievement Award: Les Bowie, Colin Chilvers, Denys Coop, Roy Field, Derek Meddings, Zoran Perisic (visual effects, Superman)

1979

Picture: Kramer vs Kramer
Foreign-Language Film: The Tin Drum (Volker Schlöndorff)
Director: Robert Benton (Kramer vs Kramer)
Actor: Dustin Hoffman (Kramer vs Kramer)
Actress: Sally Field (Norma Rae)
Supporting Actor: Melvyn Douglas (Being There)
Supporting Actress: Meryl Streep (Kramer vs Kramer)
Original Screenplay: Steve Tesich (Breaking Away)
Adapted Screenplay: Robert Benton (Kramer vs Kramer)
Cinematography: Vittorio Storaro (Apocalypse Now)
Art Direction: Philip Rosenberg, Tony Walton (All That Jazz)
Costume Design: Albert Wolsky (All That Jazz)
Sound: Walter Murch, Mark Berger, Richard Beggs, Nat Boxer (Apocalypse Now)
Editing: Alan Heim (All That Jazz)
Visual Effects: H. R. Giger, Carlo Rambaldi, Brian Johnson, Nick Allder, Denys Ayling (Alien)
Song: 'It Goes Like It Goes' from Norma Rae (m David Shire, ly Norman Gimbel)
Original Score: Georges Delerue (A Little Romance)
Adaptation and Original Song Score: Ralph Burns (All That Jazz)
Documentary Short: Paul Robeson: Tribute to an Artist
Documentary Feature: Best Boy
Animated Film: Every Child
Live-Action Short: Board and Care
Honorary Award: Alec Guinness (for advancing the art of screen acting)
Special Achievement Award: Alan Splet (sound editing, The Black Stallion)
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Ray Stark

1980

Picture: Ordinary People
Foreign-Language Film: Moscow Does Not Believe in Tears (Vladimir Menshov)
Director: Robert Redford (Ordinary People)
Actor: Robert De Niro (Raging Bull)
Actress: Sissy Spacek (Coal Miner's Daughter)
Supporting Actor: Timothy Hutton (Ordinary People)
Supporting Actress: Mary Steenburgen (Melvin and Howard)
Original Screenplay: Bo Goldman (Melvin and Howard)
Adapted Screenplay: Alvin Sargent (Ordinary People)
Cinematography: Geoffrey Unsworth, Ghislain Cloquet (Tess)
Art Direction: Pierre Guffroy, Jack Stephens (Tess)
Costume Design: Anthony Powell (Tess)
Sound: Bill Varney, Steve Maslow, Gregg Landacker, Peter Sutton (The Empire Strikes Back)
Editing: Thelma Schoonmaker (Raging Bull)
Song: 'Fame' from Fame (m Michael Gore, ly Dean Pitchford)
Original Score: Michael Gore (Fame)
Documentary Short: Karl Hess: Towards Liberty
Documentary Feature: From Mao to Mozart: Isaac Stern in China
Animated Film: The Fly
Live-Action Short: The Dollar Bottom
Honorary Award: Henry Fonda (in recognition of his brilliant accomplishments)
Special Achievement Award: Brian Johnson, Richard Edlund, Dennis Muren, Bruce Nicholson (visual effects, The Empire Strikes Back)

1981

Picture: Chariots of Fire
Foreign-Language Film: Mephisto (Istvan Szabo)
Director: Warren Beatty (Reds)
Actor: Henry Fonda (On Golden Pond)
Actress: Katharine Hepburn (On Golden Pond)
Supporting Actor: John Gielgud (Arthur)
Supporting Actress: Maureen Stapleton (Reds)
Original Screenplay: Colin Welland (Chariots of Fire)
Adapted Screenplay: Ernest Thompson (On Golden Pond)
Cinematography: Vittorio Storaro (Reds)
Art Direction: Norman Reynolds, Leslie Dilley (Raiders of the Lost Ark)
Costume Design: Milena Canonero (Chariots of Fire)
Make-Up: Rick Baker (An American Werewolf in London)
Sound: Bill Varney, Steve Maslow, Gregg Landaker, Roy Charman (Raiders of the Lost Ark)
Editing: Michael Kahn (Raiders of the Lost Ark)
Song: 'Arthur's Theme' from Arthur (m/ly Burt Bacharach, Carole Bayer Sager, Christopher Cross, Peter Allen)
Original Score: Vangelis (Chariots of Fire)
Documentary Short: Close Harmony
Documentary Feature: Genocide
Animated Film: Crac
Live-Action Short: Violet
Honorary Award: Barbara Stanwyck
Special Achievement Awards: Ben Burtt, Richard L. Anderson (sound effects editing, Raiders of the Lost Ark)
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Albert R. Broccoli

1982

Picture: Gandhi
Foreign-Language Picture: To Begin Again (José Luis Garci)
Director: Richard Attenborough (Gandhi)
Actor: Ben Kingsley (Gandhi)
Actress: Meryl Streep (Sophie's Choice)
Supporting Actor: Louis Gossett Jnr (An Officer and a Gentleman)
Supporting Actress: Jessica Lange (Tootsie)
Original Screenplay: John Briley (Gandhi)
Adapted Screenplay: Costa-Gavras, Donald Stewart (Missing)
Cinematography: Billy Williams, Ronnie Taylor (Gandhi)
Art Direction: Stuart Craig, Bob Lang (Gandhi)
Costume Design: John Mollo, Bhanu Athaiya (Gandhi)
Make-Up: Sarah Monzani, Michele Burke (Quest for Fire)
Sound: Robert Knudson, Robert Glass, Don Digirolamo, Gene Cantemassa (ET) Sound Effects Editing: Charles L. Campbell, Ben Burtt (ET) Editing: John Bloom (Gandhi)
Visual Effects: Carlo Rambaldi, Dennis Muren, Kenneth F. Smith (ET)
Song: 'Up Where We Belong' from An Officer and a Gentleman (m Jack Nitzsche, Buffy Sainte-Marie, ly Will Jennings)
Original Score: John Williams (ET)
Original Song Score or Adaptation: Henry Mancini, Leslie Bricusse (Victor/Victoria) Documentary Short: If You Love This Planet
Documentary Feature: Just Another Missing Kid
Animated Film: Tango
Live-Action Short: A Shocking Accident
Honorary Award: Mickey Rooney

1983

Picture: Terms of Endearment
Foreign-Language Film: Fanny and Alexander (Ingmar Bergman)
Director: James L. Brooks (Terms of Endearment)
Actor: Robert Duvall (Tender Mercies)
Actress: Shirley MacLaine (Terms of Endearment)
Supporting Actor: Jack Nicholson (Terms of Endearment)
Supporting Actress: Linda Hunt (The Year of Living Dangerously)
Original Screenplay: Horton Foote (Tender Mercies)
Adapted Screenplay: James L. Brooks (Terms of Endearment)
Cinematography: Sven Nykvist (Fanny and Alexander)
Art Direction: Anna Asp (Fanny and Alexander)
Costume Design: Marik Vos (Fanny and Alexander)
Sound: Mark Berger, Tom Scott, Randy Thom, David MacMillan (The Right Stuff)
Sound Effects Editing: Jay Boekelheide (The Right Stuff)
Editing: Glenn Farr, Lisa Fruchtman, Stephen A. Rotter, Douglas Stewart, Tom Rolf (The Right Stuff)
Song: 'Flashdance' from Flashdance (m Giorgio Moroder, ly Keith Forsey, Irene Cara)
Original Score: Bill Conti (The Right Stuff)
Original Song Score or Adaptation: Michel Legrand, Alan and Marilyn Bergman (Yentl)
Documentary Short: Flamenco at 5:15
Documentary Feature: He Makes Me Feel Like Dancin'
Animated Film: Sundae in New York
Live-Action Short: Boys and Girls
Honorary Award: Hal Roach
Special Achievement Awards: Richard Edlund, Dennis Muren, Ken Ralston, Phil Tippett (visual effects, Return of the Jedi)

1984

Picture: Amadeus
Foreign-Language Film: Dangerous Moves (Richard Dembo)
Director: Milos Forman (Amadeus)
Actor: F. Murray Abraham (Amadeus)
Actress: Sally Field (Places in the Heart)
Supporting Actor: Haing S. Ngor (The Killing Fields)
Supporting Actress: Peggy Ashcroft (A Passage to India)
Original Screenplay: Robert Benton (Places in the Heart)
Adapted Screenplay: Peter Shaffer (Amadeus)
Cinematography: Chris Menges (The Killing Fields)
Art Direction: Patrizia Von Brandenstein (Amadeus)
Costume Design: Theodor Pistek (Amadeus)
Make-Up: Paul LeBlanc, Dick Smith (Amadeus)
Sound: Mark Berger, Tom Scott, Todd Boekelheide, Chris Newman (Amadeus)
Editing: Jim Clark (The Killing Fields)
Visual Effects: Dennis Muren, Michael McAlister, Lorne Petersen, George Gibbs (Ghostbusters)
Song: 'I Just Called to Say I Love You' from The Woman in Red (m/ly Stevie Wonder)
Original Score: Maurice Jarre (A Passage to India)
Original Song Score or Adaptation: Prince (Purple Rain)
Documentary Short: The Stone Carvers
Documentary Feature: The Times of Harvey Milk
Animated Film: Charade
Live-Action Short: Up
Honorary Award: James Stewart
Special Achievement Award: Kay Rose (sound effects editing, The River)

1985

Picture: Out of Africa
Foreign-Language Film: The Official Story (Luis Puenzo)
Director: Sydney Pollack (Out of Africa)
Actor: William Hurt (Kiss of the Spider Woman)
Actress: Geraldine Page (The Trip to Bountiful)
Supporting Actor: Don Ameche (Cocoon)
Supporting Actress: Anjelica Huston (Prizzi's Honor)
Original Screenplay: William Kelley, Pamela Wallace, Earl W. Wallace (Witness)
Adapted Screenplay: Kurt Luedtke (Out of Africa)
Cinematography: David Watkin (Out of Africa)
Art Direction: Stephen Grimes (Out of Africa)
Costume Design: Emi Wada (Ran)
Make-Up: Michael Westmore, Zoltan Elek (Mask)
Sound: Chris Jenkins, Gary Alexander, Larry Stensvold, Peter Handford (Out of Africa)
Sound Effects Editing: Charles L. Campbell, Robert Rutledge (Back to the Future)
Editing: Thom Noble (Witness)
Visual Effects: Ken Ralston, Ralph McQuarrie, Scott Farrar, David Berry (Cocoon)
Song: 'Say You, Say Me' from White Nights (m/ly Lionel Richie)
Original Score: John Barry (Out of Africa)
Documentary Short: Witness to War
Documentary Feature: Broken Rainbow
Animated Film: Anna & Bella
Live-Action Short: Molly's Pilgrim
Honorary Awards: Paul Newman; Alex North

1986

Picture: Platoon
Foreign-Language Film: The Assault (Fons Rademakers)
Director: Oliver Stone (Platoon)
Actor: Paul Newman (The Color of Money)
Actress: Marlee Matlin (Children of a Lesser God)
Supporting Actor: Michael Caine (Hannah and Her Sisters)
Supporting Actress: Dianne Wiest (Hannah and Her Sisters)
Original Screenplay: Woody Allen (Hannah and Her Sisters)
Adapted Screenplay: Ruth Prawer Jhabvala (A Room with a View)
Cinematography: Chris Menges (The Mission)
Art Direction: Gianni Quaranta, Brian Ackland-Snow (A Room with a View)
Costume Design: Jenny Beavan, John Bright (A Room with a View)
Make-Up: Chris Walas, Stephan Dupuis (The Fly)
Sound: John K. Wilkinson, Richard Rogers, Charles Grenzbach, Simon Kaye (Platoon)
Sound Effects Editing: Don Sharpe (Aliens)
Editing: Claire Simpson (Platoon)
Visual Effects: Robert Skotak, Stan Winston, John Richardson, Suzanne Benson (Aliens)
Song: 'Take My Breath Away' from Top Gun (m Giorgio Moroder, ly Tom Whitlock)
Original Score: Herbie Hancock (Round Midnight)
Documentary Short: Women – For America, For the World
Documentary Feature: Artie Shaw: Time Is All You've Got Animated Film: A Greek Tragedy
Live-Action Short: Precious Images
Honorary Award: Ralph Bellamy
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Steven Spielberg

1987

Picture: The Last Emperor
Foreign-Language Film: Babette's Feast (Gabriel Axel)
Director: Bernardo Bertolucci (The Last Emperor)
Actor: Michael Douglas (Wall Street)
Actress: Cher (Moonstruck)
Supporting Actor: Sean Connery (The Untouchables)
Supporting Actress: Olympia Dukakis (Moonstruck)
Original Screenplay: John Patrick Shanley (Moonstruck)
Adapted Screenplay: Mark Peploe, Bernardo Bertolucci (The Last Emperor)
Cinematography: Vittorio Storaro (The Last Emperor)
Art Direction: Ferdinando Scarfiotti (The Last Emperor)
Costume Design: James Acheson (The Last Emperor)
Make-Up: Rick Bajer (Harry and the Hendersons)
Sound: Bill Rowe, Ivan Sharrock (The Last Emperor)
Editing: Gabriella Cristiani (The Last Emperor)
Visual Effects: Dennis Muren, William George, Harley Jessup, Kenneth Smith (Innerspace)
Song: 'The Time of My Life' from Dirty Dancing (m Franke Previte, John DeNicola, Donald Markowitz, ly Franke Previte)
Original Score: Ryuichi Sakamoto, David Byrne, Cong Su (The Last Emperor) Documentary Short: Young at Heart
Documentary Feature: The Ten-Year Lunch: The Wit and Legend of the Algonquin Round Table
Animated Film: The Man Who Planted Trees
Live-Action Short: Ray's Male Heterosexual Dance Hall
Special Achievement Awards: Stephen Flick, John Pospisil (sound effects, Robocop)
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Billy Wilder

1988

Picture: Rain Man
Foreign-Language Film: Pelle the Conqueror (Bille August)
Director: Barry Levinson (Rain Man)
Actor: Dustin Hoffman (Rain Man)
Actress: Jodie Foster (The Accused)
Supporting Actor: Kevin Kline (A Fish Called Wanda)
Supporting Actress: Geena Davis (The Accidental Tourist)
Original Screenplay: Ronald Bass, Barry Morrow (Rain Man)
Adapted Screenplay: Christopher Hampton (Dangerous Liaisons)
Cinematography: Peter Biziou (Mississippi Burning)
Art Direction: Stuart Craig (Dangerous Liaisons)
Costume Design: James Acheson (Dangerous Liaisons)
Make-Up: Ve Neill, Steve LaPorte, Robert Short (Beetlejuice)
Sound: Les Fresholtz, Dick Alexander, Vern Poore, Willie D. Burton (Bird)
Sound Effects Editing: Charles L. Campbell, Louis L. Edelman (Who Framed Roger Rabbit?)

Editing: Arthur Schimdt (Who Framed Roger Rabbit?)
Visual Effects: Ken Ralston, Richard Williams, Edward Jones, George Gibbs (Who Framed Roger Rabbit?)
Song: 'Let the River Run' from Working Girl (m/ly Carly Simon)
Original Score: Dave Grusin (The Milagro Beanfield War)
Documentary Short: You Don't Have to Die
Documentary Feature: Hotel Terminus: The Life and Times of Klaus Barbie
Animated Film: Tin Toy
Live-Action Short: The Appointments of Dennis Jennings
Special Achievement Award: Richard Williams (animation direction, Who Framed Roger Rabbit?)

1989
Picture: Driving Miss Daisy
Foreign-Language Film: Cinema Paradiso (Giuseppe Tornatore)
Director: Oliver Stone (Born on the Fourth of July)
Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis (My Left Foot)
Actress: Jessica Tandy (Driving Miss Daisy)
Supporting Actor: Denzel Washington (Glory)
Supporting Actress: Brenda Fricker (My Left Foot)
Original Screenplay: Tom Schulman (Dead Poets Society)
Adapted Screenplay: Alfred Uhry (Driving Miss Daisy)
Cinematography: Freddie Francis (Glory)
Art Direction: Anton Furst (Batman)
Costume Design: Phyllis Dalton (Henry V)
Make-Up: Manlio Rocchetti, Lynn Barber, Kevin Haney (Driving Miss Daisy)
Sound: Donald O. Mitchell, Kevin O'Connell, Greg P. Russell, Keith A. Wester (Black Rain)
Sound Effects Editing: Ben Burtt, Richard Hymns (Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade)
Editing: David Brenner, Joe Hutshing (Born on the Fourth of July)
Visual Effects: John Bruno, Dennis Muren, Hoyt Yeatman, Dennis Skotak (The Abyss)
Song: 'Under the Sea' from The Little Mermaid (m Alan Menken, ly Howard Ashman)
Original Score: Alan Menken (The Little Mermaid)
Documentary Short: The Johnstown Flood
Documentary Feature: Common Threads: Stories from the Quilt
Animated Film: Balance
Live-Action Short: Work Experience
Honorary Award: Akira Kurosawa

1990
Picture: Dances with Wolves
Foreign-Language Film: Journey of Hope (Xavier Koller)
Director: Kevin Costner (Dances with Wolves)
Actor: Jeremy Irons (Reversal of Fortune)
Actress: Kathy Bates (Misery)
Supporting Actor: Joe Pesci (GoodFellas)
Supporting Actress: Whoopi Goldberg (Ghost)
Original Screenplay: Bruce Joel Rubin (Ghost)
Adapted Screenplay: Michael Blake (Dances with Wolves)
Cinematography: Dean Semler (Dances with Wolves)
Art Direction: Richard Sylbert (Dick Tracy)
Costume Design: Franca Squarciapino (Cyrano de Bergerac)
Make-Up: John Caglione Jnr, Doug Drexler (Dick Tracy)
Sound: Russell Williams II, Jeffrey Perkins, Bill W. Benton, Greg Watkins (Dances with Wolves)
Sound Effects Editing: Cecelia Hall, George Watters II (The Hunt for Red October)
Editing: Neil Travis (Dances with Wolves)
Song: 'Sooner or Later' from Dick Tracy (m/ly Stephen Sondheim)
Original Score: John Barry (Dances with Wolves) Documentary Short: Days of Waiting
Documentary Feature: American Dream
Animated Film: Creature Comforts
Live-Action Short: The Lunch Date
Honorary Awards: Sophia Loren; Myrna Loy
Special Achievement Awards: Eric Brevig, Rob Bottin, Tim McGovern, Alex Funke (visual effects, Total Recall)
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Richard Zanuck and David Brown

1991
Picture: Silence of the Lambs
Foreign-Language Film: Mediterraneo (Gabriele Salvatores)
Director: Jonathan Demme (Silence of the Lambs)
Actor: Anthony Hopkins (Silence of the Lambs)
Actress: Jodie Foster (Silence of the Lambs)
Supporting Actor: Jack Palance (City Slickers)
Supporting Actress: Mercedes Ruehl (The Fisher King)
Original Screenplay: Callie Khouri (Thelma and Louise)
Adapted Screenplay: Ted Tally (Silence of the Lambs)
Cinematography: Robert Richardson (JFK)
Art Direction: Dennis Gassner (Bugsy)
Costume Design: Albert Wolsky (Bugsy)
Make-Up: Stan Winston, Jeff Dawn (Terminator 2)
Sound: Tom Johnson, Gary Rydstrom, Gary Summers, Lee Orloff (Terminator 2)
Sound Effects Editing: Gary Rydstrom, Gloria S. Borders (Terminator 2)
Editing: Joe Hutshing, Pietro Scalia (JFK)
Visual Effects: Dennis Muren, Stan Winston, Gene Warren Jnr, Robert Skotak (Terminator 2)
Song: 'Beauty and the Beast' from Beauty and the Beast (m Alan Menken, ly Howard Ashman)
Original Score: Alan Menken (Beauty and the Beast)
Documentary Short: Deadly Deception
Documentary Feature: In the Shadow of the Stars
Animated Film: Manipulation
Live-Action Short: Session Man
Honorary Award: Satyajit Ray
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: George Lucas

1992
Picture: Unforgiven
Foreign-Language Film: Indochine (Régis Wargnier)
Director: Clint Eastwood (Unforgiven)
Actor: Al Pacino (Scent of a Woman)
Actress: Emma Thompson (Howards End)
Supporting Actor: Gene Hackman (Unforgiven)
Supporting Actress: Marisa Tomei (My Cousin Vinny)
Original Screenplay: Neil Jordan (The Crying Game)
Adapted Screenplay: Ruth Prawer Jhabvala (Howards End)
Cinematography: Philippe Rousselot (A River Runs through It)
Art Direction: Luciana Arrighi (Howards End)
Costume Design: Eiko Ishioka (Bram Stoker's Dracula)
Make-Up: Greg Cannom, Michele Burke, Matthew W. Mungle (Bram Stoker's Dracula)
Sound: Chris Jenkins, Doug Hemphill, Mark Smith, Simon Kaye (The Last of the Mohicans)
Sound Effects Editing: Tom C. McCarthy, David E. Stone (Bram Stoker's Dracula)
Editing: Joel Cox (Unforgiven)
Visual Effects: Ken Ralston, Doug Chiang, Doug Smythe, Tom Woodruff (Death Becomes Her)
Song: 'A Whole New World' from Aladdin (m Alan Menken, ly Tim Rice)
Original Score: Alan Menken (Aladdin)
Documentary Short: Educating Peter
Documentary Feature: The Panama Deception
Animated Film: Mona Lisa Descending a Staircase
Live-Action Short: Omnibus
Honorary Award: Federico Fellini

1993
Picture: Schindler's List
Foreign-Language Film: Belle Époque (Fernando Trueba)
Director: Steven Spielberg (Schindler's List)
Actor: Tom Hanks (Philadelphia)
Actress: Holly Hunter (The Piano)
Supporting Actor: Tommy Lee Jones (The Fugitive)
Supporting Actress: Anna Paquin (The Piano)
Original Screenplay: Jane Campion (The Piano)
Adapted Screenplay: Steve Zaillian (Schindler's List)
Cinematography: Janusz Kaminski (Schindler's List)
Art Direction: Allan Starski (Schindler's List)
Costume Design: Gabriella Pescucci (The Age of Innocence)
Make-Up: Greg Cannom, Ve Neill, Yolanda Toussieng (Mrs Doubtfire)
Sound: Gary Summers, Gary Rydstrom, Shawn Murphy, Rod Judkins (Jurassic Park)
Sound Effects Editing: Gary Rydstrom, Richard Hymns (Jurassic Park)
Editing: Michael Kahn (Schindler's List)
Visual Effects: Dennis Muren, Stan Winston, Phil Tippett, Michael Lantieri (Jurassic Park)
Song: 'Streets of Philadelphia' from Philadelphia (m/ly Bruce Springsteen)
Original Score: John Williams (Schindler's List)
Documentary Short: Defending Our Lives
Documentary Feature: I Am a Promise
Animated Film: The Wrong Trousers
Live-Action Short: Black Rider
Honorary Award: Deborah Kerr

1994
Picture: Forrest Gump
Foreign-Language Film: Burnt By the Sun (Nikita Mikhalkov)
Director: Robert Zemeckis (Forrest Gump)
Actor: Tom Hanks (Forrest Gump)
Actress: Jessica Lange (Blue Sky)
Supporting Actor: Martin Landau (Ed Wood)
Supporting Actress: Dianne Wiest (Bullets Over Broadway)
Original Screenplay: Quentin Tarantino, Roger Avary (Pulp Fiction)
Adapted Screenplay: Eric Roth (Forrest Gump)
Cinematography: John Toll (Legends of the Fall)
Art Direction: Ken Adam, Carolyn Scott (The Madness of King George)
Costume Design: Lizzy Gardiner, Tim Chappel (The Adventures of Priscilla, Queen of the Desert)
Make-up: Rick Baker, Ve Neill, Yolanda Toussieng (Ed Wood)
Sound: Gregg Landaker, Steve Maslow, Bob Beemer, David R.B. MacMillan (Speed)
Sound Effects Editing: Stephen Hunter Flick (Speed)
Editing: Arthur Schmidt (Forrest Gump)
Visual Effects: Ken Ralston, George Murphy, Stephen Rosenbaum, Allen Hall (Forrest Gump)
Song: 'Can You Feel the Love Tonight' from The Lion King (m Elton John, ly Tim Rice)
Original Score: Hans Zimmer (The Lion King)
Documentary Short: A Time For Justice
Documentary Feature: Maya Lin: A Strong Clear Vision
Animated film: Bob's Birthday
Live-Action Short: Franz Kafka's It's A Wonderful Life
Honorary Award: Michelangelo Antonioni
Irving G. Thalberg Memorial Award: Clint Eastwood

1995
Picture: Braveheart
Foreign-Language Film: Antonia's Line (Marleen Gorris)
Director: Mel Gibson (Braveheart)
Actor: Nicolas Cage (Leaving Las Vegas)
Actress: Susan Sarandon (Dead Man Walking)
Supporting Actor: Kevin Spacey (The Usual Suspects)
Supporting Actress: Mira Sorvino (Mighty Aphrodite)
Original Screenplay: Christopher McQuarrie (The Usual Suspects)
Adapted Screenplay: Emma Thompson (Sense and Sensibility)
Cinematography: John Toll (Braveheart)
Art Direction: Eugenio Zanetti (Restoration)
Costume Design: James Acheson (Restoration)
Make-up: Peter Frampton, Paul Pattison, Lois Burwell (Braveheart)
Sound: Rick Dior, Steve Pederson, Scott Millan, David MacMillan (Apollo 13)
Sound Effects Editing: Lon Bender, Per Hallberg (Braveheart)
Editing: Michael J. Hill, Daniel P. Hanley (Apollo 13)
Visual Effects: Scott E. Anderson, Charles Gibson, Neal Scanlan, John Cox (Babe)
Song: 'Colours of the Wind' from Pocahontas (m Alan Menken, ly Stephen Schwartz)
Original Dramatic Score: Luis Enriquez Bacalov (Il Postino)
Original Musical or Comedy Score: Pocahontas (Alan Menken, Stephen Schwartz) Documentary Short: One Survivor Remembers
Documentary Feature: Anne Frank Remembered
Animated film: A Close Shave
Live-Action Short: Lieberman in Love
Honorary Awards: Kirk Douglas, Chuck Jones

1996
Picture: The English Patient
Foreign-Language Film: Kolya (Jan Sverák)
Director: Anthony Minghella (The English Patient)
Actor: Geoffrey Rush (Shine)
Actress: Frances McDormand (Fargo)
Supporting Actor: Cuba Gooding, Jnr (Jerry Maguire)
Supporting Actress: Juliette Binoche (The English Patient)
Original Screenplay: Fargo (Ethan Coen, Joel Coen)
Adapted Screenplay: Sling Blade (Billy Bob Thornton)
Cinematography: John Seale (The English Patient)
Art Direction: Stuart Craig (The English Patient)
Costume Design: Ann Roth (The English Patient)
Make-up: David Leroy Anderson, Rick Baker (The Nutty Professor) Sound: Mark Berger, Walter Murch, Chris Newman, David Parker (The English Patient)
Sound Effects Editing: Bruce Stambler (The Ghost and the Darkness)
Editing: Walter Murch (The English Patient)
Visual Effects: Volker Engel, Clay Pinney, Douglas Smith, Joseph Viskocil (Independence Day)
Song: 'You Must Love Me' from Evita (m Andrew Lloyd Webber, ly Tim Rice)
Original Dramatic Score: Gabriel Yared (The English Patient)
Original Musical or Comedy Score: Rachel Portman (Emma) Documentary Short: Breathing Lessons: The Life And Work of Mark O'Brien (Jessica Yu)
Documentary Feature: When We Were Kings (Leon Gast, David Sonenberg)
Animated Film: Quest (Tyron Montgomery, Thomas Stellmach)
Live-Action Short: Dear Diary (David Frankel, Barry Jossen)
Honorary Award: Michael Kidd
Irving G. Thalberg Memorial Award: Saul Zaentz

1997
Picture: Titanic
Foreign-Language Film: Character (Mike Van Diem)
Director: James Cameron (Titanic)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (As Good as It Gets)
Actress: Helen Hunt (As Good as It Gets)
Supporting Actor: Robin Williams (Good Will Hunting)
Supporting Actress: Kim Basinger (LA Confidential)
Original Screenplay: Ben Affleck, Matt Damon (Good Will Hunting)
Adapted Screenplay: Curtis Hanson, Brian Helgeland (LA Confidential)
Cinematography: Russell Carpenter (Titanic)
Art Direction: Peter Lamont (Titanic)
Costume Design: Deborah L. Scott (Titanic)
Make-up: David Leroy Anderson, Rick Baker (Men in Black) Sound: Tom Johnson, Gary Rydstrom, Gary Summers, Mark Ulano (Titanic)
Sound Effects Editing: Tom Bellfort, Christopher Boyes (Titanic)
Editing: Conrad Buff, James Cameron, Richard A. Harris (Titanic)
Visual Effects: Thomas L. Fisher, Michael Kanfer, Mark Lasoff, Robert Legato (Titanic)
Song: 'My Heart Will Go On' from Titanic (m James Horner, ly Will Jennings)
Original Dramatic Score: James Horner (Titanic)
Original Musical or Comedy Score: Anne Dudley (The Full Monty)
Documentary Short: A Story of Healing (Donna Dewey, Carol Pasternak)
Documentary Feature: The Long Way Home (Rabbi Marvin Hier, Richard Trank)
Animated Film: Geri's Game (Jan Pinkava)
Live-Action Short: Visas and Virtue (Chris Donahue, Chris Tashima) Honorary Award: Stanley Donen

1998
Picture: Shakespeare in Love
Foreign Language Film: Life is Beautiful (Roberto Benigni)
Director: Steven Spielberg (Saving Private Ryan)
Actor: Roberto Benigni (Life is Beautiful)
Actress: Gwyneth Paltrow (Shakespeare in Love)
Supporting Actor: James Coburn (Affliction)
Supporting Actress: Judi Dench (Shakespeare in Love)
Original Screenplay: Shakespeare in Love (Marc Norman, Tom Stoppard)
Adapted Screenplay: Bill Condon (Gods and Monsters)
Cinematography: Janusz Kaminski (Saving Private Ryan)
Art Direction: Martin Childs (Shakespeare in Love)
Costume Design: Sandy Powell (Shakespeare in Love)
Make-up: Jenny Shircore (Elizabeth)
Sound: Gary Rydstrom, Gary Summers, Andy Nelson, Ronald Judkins (Saving Private Ryan) Sound Effects Editing: Gary Rydstrom, Richard Hymns (Saving Private Ryan) Editing: Michael Kahn (Saving Private Ryan)

Visual Effects: Joel Hynek, Nicholas Brooks, Stuart Robertson, Kevin Mack (What Dreams May Come)
Song: 'When You Believe' from The Prince of Egypt (m/l Stephen Schwartz)
Original Score: Nicola Piovani (Life is Beautiful)
Original Musical or Comedy Score: Stephen Warbeck (Shakespeare in Love)
Documentary Short: The Personals: Improvisation on Romance in the Golden Years (Keiko Ibi)
Documentary Feature: The Last Days (James Moll, Ken Lipper)
Animated film: Bunny (Chris Wedge)
Live-Action Short: Election Night/Valgaften (Kim Magnusson, Anders Thomas Jensen)
Honorary Award: Elia Kazan
Irving G.Thalberg Memorial Award: Norman Jewison

1999
Picture: American Beauty
Foreign Language Film: All About My Mother (Pedro Almodovar)
Director: Sam Mendes (American Beauty)
Actor: Kevin Spacey (American Beauty)
Actress: Hilary Swank (Boys Don't Cry)
Supporting Actor: Michael Caine (The Cider House Rules)
Supporting Actress: Angelina Jolie (Girl, Interrupted)
Original Screenplay: Alan Ball (American Beauty)
Adapted Screenplay: John Irving (The Cider House Rules)
Cinematography: Conrad L. Hall (American Beauty)
Art Direction: Rick Heinrichs (Sleepy Hollow)
Costume Design: Lindy Hemming (Topsy-Turvy)
Make-up: Christine Blundell, Trefor Proud(Topsy-Turvy)
Sound: John Reitz, Gregg Rudloff, David Campbell, David Lee (The Matrix)
Sound Effects Editing: Dane A. Davis (The Matrix)
Editing: Zach Staenberg (The Matrix)
Visual Effects: John Gaeta, Janek Sirrs, Steve Courtley, Jon Thum (The Matrix)
Song: You'll Be in My Heart from Tarzan (m/l Phil Collins)
Original Score: John Corigliano (The Red Violin)
Documentary Short: King Gimp (Susan Hannah Hadary, William A. Whiteford)
Documentary Feature: One Day in September (Arthur Cohn, Kevin MacDonald)
Animated film: The Old Man and the Sea (Alexandre Petrov)
Live-Action Short: My Mother Dreams The Satan's Disciples in New York (Barbara Schock, Tammy Tiehel)
Honorary Award: Andrzej Wajda
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Warren Beatty

2000 Picture: Gladiator
Foreign Language Film: Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon (Ang Lee)
Director: Steven Soderbergh (Traffic)
Actor: Russell Crowe (Gladiator)
Actress: Julia Roberts (Erin Brockovich)
Supporting Actor: Benicio Del Toro (Traffic)
Supporting Actress: Marcia Gay Harden (Pollock)
Original Screenplay: Alan Ball (American Beauty)
Adapted Screenplay: Stephen Gaghan (Traffic)
Cinematography: Peter Pau (Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon)
Art Direction: Tim Yip (Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon)
Costume Design: Janty Yates (Gladiator)
Make-up: Rick Baker, Gail Ryan (Dr Seuss' How the Grinch Stole Christmas)
Sound: Scott Millan, Bob Beemer, Ken Weston (Gladiator)
Sound Effects Editing: Jon Johnson (U-571)
Editing: Stephen Mirrione (Traffic)
Visual Effects: John Nelson, Neil Corbould, Tim Burke, Ron Harvey (Gladiator)
Song: 'Things Have Changed' from Wonder Boys (m/l Bob Dylan)
Original Score: Tan Dun (Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon)
Documentary Short: Big Mama (Tracy Seretean)
Documentary Feature: Into the Arms of Strangers: Stories of the Kindertransport (Mark Jonathan Harris, Deborah Oppenheimer)
Animated film: Father and Daugher (Michael Dudok de Wit)
Live-Action Short: Quiero Ser/I Want to Be (Florian Gallenberger)
Honorary Award: Jack Cardiff
Irving Thalberg Memorial Award: Dino de :Laurentiis

2001
Picture: A Beautiful Mind
Foreign Language Film: No Man's Land (Danis Tanovic)
Director: Ron Howard (A Beautiful Mind)
Actor: Denzel Washington (Training Day)
Actress: Halle Berry (Monster's Ball)
Supporting Actor: Jim Broadbent (Iris)
Supporting Actress: Jennifer Connelly (A Beautiful Mind)
Original Screenplay: Julian Fellowes (Gosford Park)
Adapted Screenplay: Akiva Goldsman (A Beautiful Mind)
Cinematography: Andrew Lesnie (The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring)
Art Direction: Catherine Martin (Moulin Rouge)
Costume Design: Catherine Martin, Angus Strathie (Moulin Rouge)
Make-up: Peter Owen, Richard Taylor (The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring)
Sound: Mike Minkler, Myron Nettinga, Chris Munro (Black Hawk Down)
Sound Effects Editing: George Watters II, Christopher Boyes (Pearl Harbor)
Editing: Pietro Scalia (Black Hawk Down)
Visual Effects: Jim Rygiel, Randall William Cook, Richard Taylor, Mark Stetson (The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring)
Song: 'If I Didn't Have You' from Monsters, Inc (m/l Randy Newman)
Original Score: Howard Shore (The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring)
Documentary Short: Thoth (Sarah Kernochan, Lynn Appelle)
Documentary Feature: Murder on a Sunday Morning (Jean-Xavier de Lestrade, Denis Poncet)
Animated Feature: Shrek (Andrew Adamson, Vicky Jenson)
Animated Short: For the Birds (Ralph Eggleston)
Live-Action Short: the accountant (Ray McKinnon, Lisa Blount)
Honorary Award: Sidney Poitier, Robert Redford

2002
Picture: Chicago
Foreign Language Film: Nowhere in Africa/Nirgendwo in Afrika (Caroline Link)
Director: Roman Polanski (The Pianist)
Actor: Adrien Brody (The Pianist)
Actress: Nicole Kidman (The Hours)
Supporting Actor: Chris Cooper (Adaptation)
Supporting Actress: Catherine Zeta-Jones (Chicago)
Original Screenplay: Pedro Almodovar (Talk to Her/Hable con Ella)
Adapted Screenplay: Ronald Harwood (The Pianist)
Cinematography: Conrad L. Hall (Road to Perdition)
Art Direction: John Myhre (Chicago)
Costume Design: Colleen Atwood (Chicago)
Make-up: John E. Jackson, Beatrice De Alba (Frida)
Sound: Michael Minkler, Dominick Tavella, David Lee (Chicago)
Sound Effects Editing: Ethan Van der Ryn, Mike Hopkins (The Lord of the Rings: The Two Towers)
Editing: Martin Walsh (Chicago)
Visual Effects: Jim Rygiel, Joe Letteri, Randall William Cook, Alex Funke (The Lord of the Rings: The Two Towers)
Song: 'Lose Yourself' from 8 Mile (m/l Eminem, m Jeff Bass, m Luis Resto)
Original Score: Elliot Goldenthal (Frida)
Documentary Short: Twin Towers (Bill Guttentag, Robert David Port)
Documentary Feature: Bowling for Columbine (Michael Moore, Michael Donovan)
Animated Feature: Spirited Away/Sen to Chihiro no Kamikakushi (Hayao Miyazaki)
Animated Short: The Chubbchubbs! (Eric Armstrong)
Live-Action Short: This Charming Man/Der Er En Yndig Mand (Martin Strange-Hansen, Mie Andreasen)
Honorary Award: Peter O'Toole

2003
Picture: The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King
Foreign Language Film: The Barbarian Invasions/Les Invasions Barbares (Denys Arcand)
Director: Peter Jackson (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Actor: Sean Penn (Mystic River)
Actress: Charlize Theron (Monster)
Supporting Actor: Tim Robbins (Mystic River)
Supporting Actress: Renee Zellwegger (Cold Mountain)
Original Screenplay: Sofia Coppola (Lost in Translation)
Adapted Screenplay: Fran Walsh, Philippa Boyens, Peter Jackson (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Cinematography: Russell Boyd (Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World)
Art Direction: Grant Major (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Costume Design: Ngila Dickson, Richard Taylor (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Make-up: Richard Taylor, Peter King (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Sound: Christopher Boyes, Michael Semanick, Michael Hedges, Hammond Peek (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Sound Effects Editing: Richard King (Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World)
Editing: Jamie Selkirk (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Visual Effects: Jim Rygiel, Joe Letteri, Randall William Cook, Alex Funke (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Song: 'Into the West' from The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King (m/l Fran Walsh, Howard Shore, Annie Lennox)
Original Score: Howard Shore (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Documentary Short: Chernobyl Heart (Maryann DeLeo)
Documentary Feature: Fog of War: Eleven Lessons from the Life of Robert S. McNamara (Errol Morris, Michael Williams)
Animated Feature: Finding Nemo (Andrew Stanton)
Animated Short: Harvie Krumpet (Adam Elliot)
Live-Action Short: Two Soldiers (Aaron Schneider, Andrew J. Sacks) Honorary Award: Blake Edwards

2004
Picture: Million Dollar Baby
Foreign Language Film: The Sea Inside/Mar Adentro
Director: Clint Eastwood (Million Dollar Baby)
Actor: Jamie Foxx (Ray)
Actress: Hilary Swank (Million Dollar Baby)
Supporting Actor: Morgan Freeman (Million Dollar Baby)
Supporting Actress: Cate Blanchett (The Aviator)
Original Screenplay: Charlie Kaufman, Michel Gondry, Pierre Bismuth (Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind)
Adapted Screenplay: Alexander Payne, Jim Taylor (Sideways)
Cinematography: Robert Richardson (The Aviator)
Art Direction: Dante Ferretti (The Aviator)
Costume Design: Sandy Powell (The Aviator)
Make-up: Valli O'Reilly, Bill Corso (Lemony Snicket's A Series of Unfortunate Events)
Sound: Scott Millan, Greg Orloff, Bob Beemer, Steve Cantamessa (Ray)
Sound Effects Editing: Michael Silvers, Randy Thorn (The Incredibles)
Editing: Thelma Schoonmaker (The Aviator)
Visual Effects: John Dykstra, Scott Stokdyk, Anthony LaMolinara, John Frazier (Spider-Man 2)
Song: 'Al Otro Lado Del Rio' from The Motorcycle Diaries/Diarios de Motocicleta (m/l Jorge Drexler)
Original Score: Jan A. P. Kaczmarek (Finding Neverland)
Documentary Short: Mighty Times: The Children's March (Robert Hudson, Robert Huston)
Documentary Feature: Born into Brothels: Calcutta's Red Light Kids (Ross Kauffman, Zana Briski)
Animated Feature: The Incredibles (Brad Bird)
Animated Short: Ryan (Chris Landreth)
Live-Action Short: Wasp (Andrea Arnold)
Honorary Award: Sidney Lumet

2005
Picture: Crash
Foreign Language Film: Tsotsi (Gavin Hood)
Director: Ang Lee (Brokeback Mountain)
Actor: Philip Seymour Hoffman (Capote)
Actress: Reese Witherspoon (Walk the Line)
Supporting Actor: George Clooney (Syriana)
Supporting Actress: Rachel Weisz (The Constant Gardener)
Original Screenplay: Paul Haggis (Crash)
Adapted Screenplay: Larry McMurtry; Diana Ossana (Brokeback Mountain)
Cinematography: Dion Beebe (Memoirs of Geisha)
Art Direction: John Myhre, Gretchen Rau (Memoirs of a Geisha)
Costume Design: Colleen Atwood (Memoirs of a Geisha)
Make-up: Howard Berger, Tami Lane (The Chronicles of Narnia: The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe)
Sound: Christopher Boyes, Michael Semanick, Michael Hedges, Hammond Peek (King Kong)
Sound Effects Editing: Mike Hopkins, Ethan Van der Ryn (King Kong) Editing: Hughes Winborne (Crash)
Visual Effects: Joe Letteri, Brian Van't Hul, Christian Rivers, Richard Taylor (King Kong)
Song: 'It's Hard Out Here for a Pimp' from Hustle & Flow (Jordan Houston; Cedric Coleman; Paul Beauregard)
Original Score: Gustavo Santaolall (Brokeback Mountain)
Documentary Short: John Canemaker, Peggy Stern (The Moon and the Son)
Documentary Feature: La Marche de l'Empereur (Luc Jacquet, Yves Darondeau)
Animated Feature: Wallace & Gromit in The Curse of the Were-Rabbit (Steve Box, Nick Parks)
Animated Short: A Note of Triumph: The Golden Age of Norman Corwin (Corinne Marrinan, Eric Simonson)
Live-Action Short: Six Shooter (Martin McDonagh) Honorary Award: Rachel McAdams

Books
70 Years of The Oscar: The Official History of the Academy Awards, Robert Osborne (Abbeville Press, Revised Edition 1999)
The Oscars: The Secret History of Hollywood's Academy Awards, Anthony Holden (Little, Brown, 1993)
The Academy Awards: The Complete History of Oscar, Gail Kinn, Jim Piazza (Black Dog & Leventhal, 2002)

BAFTA AWARDS

The British Academy of Film and Television Arts began in 1947 as the British Film Academy, becoming the Society of Film and Television Arts in 1959, and changing its name to its present title in 1975. The BAFTA award, a bronze theatrical mask, was originally nicknamed a Stella. At the beginning, there were two awards for feature films – one for the best film from any source and one for the best British film. Over the years, the awards have widened. The film winners in the major categories are listed below.

1947
Film: The Best Years of Our Lives (William Wyler)
British Film: Odd Man Out (Carol Reed)

1948
Film: Hamlet (Laurence Olivier)
British Film: The Fallen Idol (Carol Reed)

1949
Film: The Bicycle Thief (Vittorio De Sica)
British Film: The Third Man (Carol Reed)

1950
Film: All About Eve (Joseph L. Mankiewicz)
British Film: The Blue Lamp (Basil Dearden)

1951
Film: La Ronde (Max Ophuls)
British Film: The Lavender Hill Mob (Charles Crichton)

1952
Film: The Sound Barrier (US: Breaking the Sound Barrier) (David Lean)
British Film: The Sound Barrier (David Lean)
Actor: Ralph Richardson (The Sound Barrier)
Actress: Vivien Leigh (A Streetcar Named Desire)
Foreign Actor: Marlon Brando (Viva Zapata!)
Foreign Actress: Simone Signoret (Casque d'Or)
Newcomer: Claire Bloom (Limelight)

1953
Film: Forbidden Games (René Clément)
British Film: Genevieve (Henry Cornelius)
Actor: John Gielgud (Julius Caesar)
Actress: Audrey Hepburn (Roman Holiday)
Foreign Actor: Marlon Brando (Julius Caesar)
Foreign Actress: Leslie Caron (Lili)
Newcomer: Norman Wisdom (Trouble in Store)

1954
Film: The Wages of Fear (Henri-Georges Clouzot)
British Film: Hobson's Choice (David Lean)

Actor: Kenneth More (Doctor in the House)
Actress: Yvonne Mitchell (The Divided Heart)
Foreign Actor: Marlon Brando (On the Waterfront)
Foreign Actress: Cornell Borchers (The Divided Heart)
Newcomer: David Kossoff (Chance Meeting)
Screenplay: Robin Estridge, George Tabori (Young Lovers aka Chance Meeting)

1955
Film: Richard III (Laurence Olivier)
British Film: Richard III (Laurence Olivier)
Actor: Laurence Olivier (Richard III)
Actress: Katie Johnson (The Ladykillers)
Foreign Actor: Ernest Borgnine (Marty)
Foreign Actress: Betsy Blair (Marty)
Newcomer: Paul Scofield (That Lady)
Screenplay: William Rose (The Ladykillers)

1956
Film: Gervaise (René Clément)
British Film: Reach for the Sky (Lewis Gilbert)
Actor: Peter Finch (A Town Like Alice aka The Rape of Malaya)
Actress: Virginia McKenna (A Town Like Alice aka The Rape of Malaya)
Foreign Actor: François Périer (Gervaise)
Foreign Actress: Anna Magnani (The Rose Tattoo)
Newcomer: Eli Wallach (Baby Doll)
Screenplay: Nigel Balchin (The Man Who Never Was)

1957
Film: The Bridge on the River Kwai (David Lean)
British Film: The Bridge on the River Kwai (David Lean)
Actor: Alec Guinness (The Bridge on the River Kwai)
Actress: Heather Sears (The Story of Esther Costello)
Foreign Actor: Henry Fonda (Twelve Angry Men)
Foreign Actress: Simone Signoret (The Witches of Salem)
Newcomer: Eric Barker (Brothers in Law)
Screenplay: Pierre Boulle (The Bridge on the River Kwai)

1958
Film: Room at the Top (Jack Clayton)
British Film: Room at the Top (Jack Clayton)
Actor: Trevor Howard (The Key)
Actress: Irene Worth (Orders to Kill)
Foreign Actor: Sidney Poitier (The Defiant Ones)
Foreign Actress: Simone Signoret (Room at the Top)
Newcomer: Paul Massie (Orders to Kill)
Screenplay: Paul Dehn (Orders to Kill)

1959
Film: Ben-Hur (William Wyler)
British Film: Sapphire (Basil Dearden)
Actor: Peter Sellers (I'm All Right Jack)
Actress: Audrey Hepburn (The Nun's Story)
Foreign Actor: Jack Lemmon (Some Like It Hot)
Foreign Actress: Shirley MacLaine (Ask Any Girl)
Newcomer: Hayley Mills (Tiger Bay)
Screenplay: John Boulting, Frank Harvey, Alan Hackney (I'm All Right Jack)

1960
Film: The Apartment (Billy Wilder)
British Film: Saturday Night and Sunday Morning (Karel Reisz)
Actor: Peter Finch (The Trials of Oscar Wilde)
Actress: Rachel Roberts (Saturday Night and Sunday Morning)
Foreign Actor: Jack Lemmon (The Apartment)
Foreign Actress: Shirley MacLaine (The Apartment)
Newcomer: Albert Finney (Saturday Night and Sunday Morning)
Screenplay: Bryan Forbes (The Angry Silence)

1961
Film: Ballad of a Soldier (Grigori Chukrai); The Hustler (Robert Rossen)
British Film: A Taste of Honey (Tony Richardson)
Actor: Peter Finch (No Love for Johnnie)
Actress: Dora Bryan (A Taste of Honey)
Foreign Actor: Paul Newman (The Hustler)
Foreign Actress: Sophia Loren (Two Women)
Newcomer: Rita Tushingham (A Taste of Honey)
Screenplay: Shelagh Delaney, Tony Richardson (A Taste of Honey); Val Guest, Wolf Mankowitz (The Day the Earth Caught Fire)

1962
Film: Lawrence of Arabia (David Lean)
British Film: Lawrence of Arabia (David Lean)
Actor: Peter O'Toole (Lawrence of Arabia)
Actress: Leslie Caron (The L-Shaped Room)
Foreign Actor: Burt Lancaster (Birdman of Alcatraz)
Foreign Actress: Anne Bancroft (The Miracle Worker)
Newcomer: Tom Courtenay (The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner)
Screenplay: Robert Bolt (Lawrence of Arabia)

1963
Film: Tom Jones (Tony Richardson)
British Film: Tom Jones (Tony Richardson)
Actor: Dirk Bogarde (The Servant)
Actress: Rachel Roberts (This Sporting Life)
Foreign Actor: Marcello Mastroianni (Divorce Italian Style)
Foreign Actress: Patricia Neal (Hud)
Newcomer: James Fox (The Servant)
Screenplay: John Osborne (Tom Jones)
Cinematography: b/w Douglas Slocombe (The Servant); colour Ted Moore (From Russia with Love)

1964
Film: Dr Strangelove (Stanley Kubrick)
British Film: Dr Strangelove (Stanley Kubrick)
Actor: Richard Attenborough (Séance on a Wet Afternoon; Guns at Batasi)
Actress: Audrey Hepburn (Charade)
Foreign Actor: Marcello Mastroianni (Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow)
Foreign Actress: Anne Bancroft (The Pumpkin Eater)
Newcomer: Julie Andrews (Mary Poppins)
Screenplay: Harold Pinter (The Pumpkin Eater)
Cinematography: b/w Oswald Morris (The Pumpkin Eater); colour Geoffrey Unsworth (Becket)
Production Design: b/w Ken Adam (Dr Strangelove); colour John Bryan (Becket)

1965
Film: My Fair Lady (George Cukor)
British Film: The Ipcress File (Sidney J. Furie)
Actor: Dirk Bogarde (Darling)
Actress: Julie Christie (Darling)
Foreign Actor: Lee Marvin (Cat Ballou; The Killers)
Foreign Actress: Patricia Neal (In Harm's Way)
Newcomer: Judi Dench (Four in the Morning)
Screenplay: Frederic Raphael (Darling)
Cinematography: b/w Oswald Morris (The Hill); colour Otto Heller (The Ipcress File) Production Design: b/w Ray Simm (Darling); colour Ken Adam (The Ipcress File)

1966
Film: Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? (Mike Nichols)
British Film: The Spy Who Came in from the Cold (Martin Ritt)
Actor: Richard Burton (Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?; The Spy Who Came in from the Cold)
Actress: Elizabeth Taylor (Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?)
Foreign Actor: Rod Steiger (The Pawnbroker)
Foreign Actress: Jeanne Moreau (Viva Maria!)
Newcomer: Vivien Merchant (Alfie)
Screenplay: David Mercer (Morgan – A Suitable Case for Treatment)
Cinematography: b/w Oswald Morris (The Spy Who Came in from the Cold); colour Christopher Challis (Arabesque)
Production Design: b/w Tambi Larsen (The Spy Who Came in from the Cold); colour Wilfred Shingleton (The Blue Max)

1967
Film: A Man for All Seasons (Fred Zinnemann)
British Film: A Man for All Seasons (Fred Zinnemann)
Actor: Paul Scofield (A Man for All Seasons)
Actress: Edith Evans (The Whisperers)
Foreign Actor: Rod Steiger (In the Heat of the Night)
Foreign Actress: Anouk Aimée (A Man and a Woman)
Newcomer: Faye Dunaway (Bonnie and Clyde)
Screenplay: Robert Bolt (A Man for All Seasons)
Cinematography: b/w Gerry Turpin (The Whisperers); colour Ted Moore (A Man for All Seasons)
Production Design: John Box (A Man for All Seasons)

1968
Film: The Graduate (Mike Nichols)
Director: Mike Nichols (The Graduate)
Actor: Spencer Tracy (Guess Who's Coming to Dinner?)
Actress: Katharine Hepburn (Guess Who's Coming to Dinner?)
Supporting Actor: Ian Holm (The Bofors Gun)
Supporting Actress: Billie Whitelaw (The Twisted Nerve; Charlie Bubbles)
Newcomer: Dustin Hoffman (The Graduate)
Screenplay: Buck Henry, Calder Willingham (The Graduate)
Cinematography: Geoffrey Unsworth (2001: A Space Odyssey)
Music: John Barry (The Lion in Winter)
Production Design: Tony Masters, Harry Lange, Ernie Archer (2001: A Space Odyssey)

1969
Film: Midnight Cowboy (John Schlesinger)
Director: John Schlesinger (Midnight Cowboy)
Actor: Dustin Hoffman (Midnight Cowboy; John and Mary)
Actress: Maggie Smith (The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie)
Supporting Actor: Laurence Olivier (Oh! What a Lovely War)
Supporting Actress: Celia Johnson (The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie)
Newcomer: Jon Voight (Midnight Cowboy)
Screenplay: Waldo Salt (Midnight Cowboy)
Cinematography: Gerry Turpin (Oh! What a Lovely War)
Music: Mikis Theodorakis (Z)
Production Design: Don Ashton (Oh! What a Lovely War)

1970
Film: Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid (George Roy Hill)
Director: George Roy Hill (Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid)
Actor: Robert Redford (Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid; Tell Them Willie Boy Is Here; Downhill Racer)
Actress: Katharine Ross (Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid; Tell Them Willie Boy Is Here)
Supporting Actor: Colin Welland (Kes)
Supporting Actress: Susannah York (They Shoot Horses, Don't They?)
Newcomer: David Bradley (Kes)
Screenplay: William Goldman (Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid)
Cinematography: Conrad Hall (Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid)
Music: Burt Bacharach (Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid)
Production Design: Mario Garbuglia (Waterloo)

1971
Film: Sunday, Bloody Sunday (John Schlesinger)
Director: John Schlesinger (Sunday, Bloody Sunday)
Actor: Peter Finch (Sunday, Bloody Sunday)
Actress: Glenda Jackson (Sunday, Bloody Sunday)
Supporting Actor: Edward Fox (The Go-Between) Supporting Actress: Margaret Leighton (The Go-Between) Newcomer: Dominic Guard (The Go-Between)
Screenplay: Harold Pinter (The Go-Between)
Cinematography: Pasqualino De Santis (Death in Venice)
Music: Michel Legrand (Summer of '42)
Production Design: Ferdinando Scarfiotti (Death in Venice)

1972
Film: Cabaret (Bob Fosse)
Director: Bob Fosse (Cabaret)
Actor: Gene Hackman (The French Connection; The Poseidon Adventure)
Actress: Liza Minnelli (Cabaret)
Supporting Actor: Ben Johnson (The Last Picture Show)
Supporting Actress: Cloris Leachman (The Last Picture Show)
Newcomer: Joel Grey (Cabaret)
Screenplay: Peter Bogdanovich, Larry McMurtry (The Last Picture Show)
Cinematography: Geoffrey Unsworth (Cabaret; Alice's Adventures in Wonderland)
Music: Nina Rota (The Godfather)
Production Design: Rolf Zehetbauer (Cabaret)

1973
Film: Day for Night (François Truffaut)
Director: François Truffaut (Day for Night)
Actor: Walter Matthau (Pete 'n' Tillie; Charley Varrick)
Actress: Stéphane Audran (The Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie; Just before Nightfall)
Supporting Actor: Arthur Lowe (O Lucky Man!)
Supporting Actress: Valentina Cortese (Day for Night)
Newcomer: Peter Egan (The Hireling)
Screenplay: Luis Buñuel, Jean-Claude Carrière (The Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie)
Cinematography: Anthony Richmond (Don't Look Now)
Music: Alan Price (O Lucky Man!)
Production Design: Natasha Kroll (The Hireling)

1974
Film: Lacombe Lucien (Louis Malle)
Director: Roman Polanski (Chinatown)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (Chinatown; The Last Detail)
Actress: Joanne Woodward (Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams)
Supporting Actor: John Gielgud (Murder on the Orient Express)
Supporting Actress: Ingrid Bergman (Murder on the Orient Express)
Newcomer: Georgina Hale (Mahler)
Screenplay: Robert Towne (Chinatown; The Last Detail)
Cinematography: Douglas Slocombe (The Great Gatsby)
Music: Richard Rodney Bennett (Murder on the Orient Express) Production Design: John Box (The Great Gatsby)

1975
Film: Alice Doesn't Live Here Any More (Martin Scorsese)
Director: Stanley Kubrick (Barry Lyndon)
Actor: Al Pacino (The Godfather Part II; Dog Day Afternoon)
Actress: Ellen Burstyn (Alice Doesn't Live Here Any More)
Supporting Actor: Fred Astaire (The Towering Inferno)
Supporting Actress: Diane Ladd (Alice Doesn't Live Here Any More)
Newcomer: Valerie Perrine (Lenny)
Screenplay: Robert Getchell (Alice Doesn't Live Here Any More)
Cinematography: John Alcott (Barry Lyndon)
Music: John Williams (Jaws; The Towering Inferno)
Production Design: John Box (Rollerball)

1976
Film: One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (Milos Forman)
Director: Milos Forman (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Actress: Louise Fletcher (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Supporting Actor: Brad Dourif (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Supporting Actress: Jodie Foster (Taxi Driver; Bugsy Malone)
Newcomer: Jodie Foster (Taxi Driver; Bugsy Malone)
Screenplay: Alan Parker (Bugsy Malone)
Cinematography: Russell Boyd (Picnic at Hanging Rock)
Music: Bernard Herrmann (Taxi Driver)
Production Design: Geoffrey Kirkland (Bugsy Malone)

1977
Film: Annie Hall (Woody Allen)
Director: Woody Allen (Annie Hall)
Actor: Peter Finch (Network)
Actress: Diane Keaton (Annie Hall)
Supporting Actor: Edward Fox (A Bridge Too Far)
Supporting Actress: Jenny Agutter (Equus)
Newcomer: Isabelle Huppert (The Lacemaker)
Screenplay: Woody Allen, Marshall Brickman (Annie Hall)
Cinematography: Geoffrey Unsworth (A Bridge Too Far)
Music: John Addison (A Bridge Too Far)
Production Design: Danilo Donati (Fellini's Casanova)

1978
Film: Julia (Fred Zinnemann)
Director: Alan Parker (Midnight Express)
Actor: Richard Dreyfuss (The Goodbye Girl)
Actress: Jane Fonda (Julia)
Supporting Actor: John Hurt (Midnight Express)
Supporting Actress: Geraldine Page (Interiors)
Newcomer: Christopher Reeve (Superman)
Screenplay: Alvin Sargent (Julia)
Cinematography: Douglas Slocombe (Julia)
Music: John Williams (Star Wars)
Production Design: Joe Alves (Close Encounters of the Third Kind)

1979
Film: Manhattan (Woody Allen)
Director: Francis Ford Coppola (Apocalypse Now)
Actor: Jack Lemmon (The China Syndrome)
Actress: Jane Fonda (The China Syndrome)
Supporting Actor: Robert Duvall (Apocalypse Now)
Supporting Actress: Rachel Roberts (Yanks)
Newcomer: Dennis Christopher (Breaking Away)
Screenplay: Woody Allen, Marshall Brickman (Manhattan)
Cinematography: Vilmos Zsigmond (The Deer Hunter)
Music: Ennio Morricone (Days of Heaven)
Production Design: Michael Seymour (Alien)

1980
Film: The Elephant Man (David Lynch)
Director: Akira Kurosawa (Kagemusha)
Actor: John Hurt (The Elephant Man)
Actress: Judy Davis (My Brilliant Career)
Newcomer: Judy Davis (My Brilliant Career)
Screenplay: Jerzy Kozinski (Being There)
Cinematography: Giuseppe Rotunno (All That Jazz)
Music: John Williams (The Empire Strikes Back) Production Design: Stuart Craig (The Elephant Man)

1981
Film: Chariots of Fire (Hugh Hudson)
Director: Louis Malle (Atlantic City)
Actor: Burt Lancaster (Atlantic City)
Actress: Meryl Streep (The French Lieutenant's Woman)
Supporting Artist: Ian Holm (Chariots of Fire)
Newcomer: Joe Pesci (Raging Bull)
Screenplay: Bill Forsyth (Gregory's Girl)
Cinematography: Geoffrey Unsworth, Ghislain Cloquet (Tess)
Music: Carl Davis (The French Lieutenant's Woman)
Production Design: Norman Reynolds (Raiders of the Lost Ark)

1982
Film: Gandhi (Richard Attenborough)
Foreign-Language Film: Christ Stopped at Eboli (Francesco Rosi)
Director: Richard Attenborough (Gandhi)
Actor: Ben Kingsley (Gandhi)
Actress: Katharine Hepburn (On Golden Pond)
Supporting Actor: Jack Nicholson (Reds)
Supporting Actress: Maureen Stapleton (Reds); Rohini Hattangadi (Gandhi)
Newcomer: Ben Kingsley (Gandhi)
Screenplay: Costa-Gavras, Donald Stewart (Missing)
Cinematography: Jordan Cronenweth (Blade Runner)
Music: John Williams (ET)
Production Design: Lawrence G. Paull (Blade Runner)

1983
Film: Educating Rita (Lewis Gilbert)
Foreign-Language Film: Danton (Andrzej Wajda)
Director: Bill Forsyth (Local Hero)
Actor: Michael Caine (Educating Rita)
Actress: Julie Walters (Educating Rita)
Supporting Actor: Denholm Elliott (Trading Places)
Supporting Actress: Jamie Lee Curtis (Trading Places)
Newcomer: Phyllis Logan (Another Time, Another Place)
Adapted Screenplay: Ruth Prawer Jhabvala (Heat and Dust)
Original Screenplay: Paul D. Zimmerman (King of Comedy)
Cinematography: Sven Nykvist (Fanny and Alexander)
Music: Ryuichi Sakamoto (Merry Christmas, Mr Lawrence)
Production Design: Franco Zeffirelli, Gianni Quaranta (La Traviata)

1984
Film: The Killing Fields (Roland Joffe)
Foreign-Language Film: Carmen (Carlos Saura)
Director: Wim Wenders (Paris, Texas)
Actor: Haing S. Ngor (The Killing Fields)
Actress: Maggie Smith (A Private Function)
Supporting Actor: Denholm Elliott (A Private Function)
Supporting Actress: Liz Smith (A Private Function)
Newcomer: Haing S. Ngor (The Killing Fields)
Adapted Screenplay: Bruce Robinson (The Killing Fields)
Original Screenplay: Woody Allen (Broadway Danny Rose)
Cinematography: Chris Menges (The Killing Fields)
Music: Ennio Morricone (Once Upon a Time in America)
Production Design: Roy Walker (The Killing Fields)

1985
Film: The Purple Rose of Cairo (Woody Allen)
Foreign-Language Film: Colonel Redl (Istvá Szabó)
Actor: William Hurt (Kiss of the Spider Woman)
Actress: Peggy Ashcroft (A Passage to India)
Supporting Actor: Denholm Elliott (Defence of the Realm)
Supporting Actress: Rosanna Arquette (Desperately Seeking Susan)
Adapted Screenplay: Richard Condon, Janet Roach (Prizzi's Honor)
Original Screenplay: Woody Allen (The Purple Rose of Cairo)
Cinematography: Miroslav Ondricek (Amadeus)
Music: Maurice Jarre (Witness)
Production Design: Norman Garwood (Brazil)

1986
Film: A Room with a View (James Ivory)
Foreign-Language Film: Ran (Akira Kurosawa)
Director: Woody Allen (Hannah and Her Sisters)
Actor: Bob Hoskins (Mona Lisa)
Actress: Maggie Smith (A Room with a View)
Supporting Actor: Ray McAnally (The Mission)
Supporting Actress: Judi Dench (A Room with a View)
Adapted Screenplay: Kurt Luedtke (Out of Africa)
Original Screenplay: Woody Allen (Hannah and Her Sisters)
Cinematography: David Watkin (Out of Africa)
Music: Ennio Morricone (The Mission)
Production Design: Gianni Quaranta, Brian Ackland-Snow (A Room with a View)

1987
Film: Jean de Florette (Claude Berri)
Foreign-Language Film: The Sacrifice (Andrei Tarkovsky)
Director: Oliver Stone (Platoon)
Actor: Sean Connery (The Name of the Rose)
Actress: Anne Bancroft (84 Charing Cross Road)
Supporting Actor: Daniel Auteuil (Jean de Florette)
Supporting Actress: Susan Wooldridge (Hope and Glory)
Adapted Screenplay: Gérard Brach, Claude Berri (Jean de Florette)
Original Screenplay: David Leland (Wish You Were Here)
Cinematography: Bruno Nuytten (Jean de Florette)
Music: Ennio Morricone (The Untouchables)
Production Design: Santo Loquasto (Radio Days)

1988
Film: The Last Emperor (Bernardo Bertolucci)
Foreign-Language Film: Babette's Feast (Gabriel Axel)
Director: Louis Malle (Au Revoir les Enfants)
Actor: John Cleese (A Fish Called Wanda)
Actress: Maggie Smith (The Lonely Passion of Judith Hearne)
Supporting Actor: Michael Palin (A Fish Called Wanda)
Supporting Actress: Judi Dench (A Handful of Dust)
Adapted Screenplay: Jean-Claude Carrière, Philip Kaufman (The Unbearable Lightness of Being)
Original Screenplay: Shawn Slovo (A World Apart)
Cinematography: Allen Daviau (Empire of the Sun)
Music: John Williams (Empire of the Sun)
Production Design: Dean Tavoularis (Tucker: The Man and His Dream)

1989
Film: Dead Poets Society (Peter Weir)
Foreign-Language Film: Life and Nothing But (Bertrand Tavernier)
Director: Kenneth Branagh (Henry V)
Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis (My Left Foot)
Actress: Pauline Collins (Shirley Valentine)
Supporting Actor: Ray McAnally (My Left Foot)
Supporting Actress: Michelle Pfeiffer (Dangerous Liaisons)
Adapted Screenplay: Christopher Hampton (Dangerous Liaisons)
Original Screenplay: Nora Ephron (When Harry Met Sally)
Cinematography: Peter Biziou (Mississippi Burning)
Music: Maurice Jarre (Dead Poets Society)
Production Design: Dante Ferretti (Adventures of Baron Munchausen)

1990
Film: GoodFellas (Martin Scorsese)
Foreign-Language Film: Nuovo Cinema Paradiso (Giuseppe Tornatore)
Director: Martin Scorsese (GoodFellas)
Actor: Philippe Noiret (Nuovo Cinema Paradiso)
Actress: Jessica Tandy (Driving Miss Daisy)
Supporting Actor: Salvatore Cascio (Nuovo Cinema Paradiso)
Supporting Actress: Whoopi Goldberg (Ghost)
Adapted Screenplay: Nicholas Pileggi, Martin Scorsese (GoodFellas)
Original Screenplay: Giuseppe Tornatore (Nuovo Cinema Paradiso)
Cinematography: Vittorio Storaro (The Sheltering Sky)
Music: Ennio and Andrea Morricone (Nuovo Cinema Paradiso) Production Design: Richard Sylbert (Dick Tracy)

1991
Film: The Commitments (Alan Parker)
Foreign-Language Film: The Nasty Girl (Das Schreckliche Mädchen) (Michael Verhoeven)
Director: Alan Parker (The Commitments)
Actor: Anthony Hopkins (The Silence of the Lambs)
Actress: Jodie Foster (The Silence of the Lambs)
Supporting Actor: Alan Rickman (Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves)
Supporting Actress: Kate Nelligan (Frankie and Johnnie)
Adapted Screenplay: Dick Clement, Ian La Frenais, Roddy Doyle (The Commitments)
Original Screenplay: Anthony Minghella (Truly Madly Deeply)
Cinematography: Pierre Lhomme (Cyrano de Bergerac)
Music: Jean-Claude Petit (Cyrano de Bergerac)
Production Design: Bo Welch (Edward Scissorhands)

1992
Film: Howards End (James Ivory)
Foreign-Language Film: Raise the Red Lantern (Zhang Zimou)
Director: Robert Altman (The Player)
Actor: Robert Downey Jnr (Chaplin)
Actress: Emma Thompson (Howards End)
Supporting Actor: Gene Hackman (Unforgiven)
Supporting Actress: Miranda Richardson (Damage)
Adapted Screenplay: Michael Tolkin (The Player)
Original Screenplay: Woody Allen (Husbands and Wives)
Cinematography: Dante Spinotti (The Last of the Mohicans)
Music: David Hirschfelder (Strictly Ballroom)
Production Design: Catherine Martin (Strictly Ballroom)

1993
Film: Schindler's List (Steven Spielberg)
Foreign-Language Film: Farewell My Concubine (Chen Kaige)
British Film: Shadowlands (Richard Attenborough)
Director: Steven Spielberg (Schindler's List)
Actor: Anthony Hopkins (The Remains of the Day)
Actress: Holly Hunter (The Piano)
Supporting Actor: Ralph Fiennes (Schindler's List)
Supporting Actress: Miriam Margolyes (The Age of Innocence)
Adapted Screenplay: Steven Zaillian (Schindler's List)
Original Screenplay: Danny Rubin, Harold Ramis (Groundhog Day)
Cinematography: Janusz Kaminski (Schindler's List)
Music: John Williams (Schindler's List)
Production Design: Andrew McAlpine (The Piano)

1994
Film: Four Weddings and a Funeral (Mike Newell)
Foreign-Language Film: To Live (Zhang Yimou)
British Film: Shallow Grave (Danny Boyle)
Director: Mike Newell (Four Weddings and a Funeral)
Actor: Hugh Grant (Four Weddings and a Funeral)
Actress: Susan Sarandon (The Client)
Supporting Actor: Samuel L. Jackson (Pulp Fiction)
Supporting Actress: Kristin Scott Thomas (Four Weddings and a Funeral)
Adapted Screenplay: Paul Attanasio (Quiz Show)
Original Screenplay: Quentin Tarantino and Roger Avary (Pulp Fiction)
Cinematography: Philippe Rousselot (Interview with the Vampire)
Music: Don Was (Backbeat)
Production Design: Dante Ferretti (Interview with the Vampire)

1995
Film: Sense and Sensibility (Ang Lee)
Foreign-Language Film: The Postman/Il Postino (Michael Radford)
British Film: The Madness of King George (Nicholas Hytner)
Director: Michael Radford (The Postman/Il Postino)
Actor: Nigel Hawthorne (The Madness of King George)
Actress: Emma Thompson (Sense and Sensibility)
Supporting Actor: Tim Roth (Rob Roy)
Supporting Actress: Kate Winslet (Sense and Sensibility)
Adapted Screenplay: John Hodge (Trainspotting)
Original Screenplay: Christopher McQuarrie (The Usual Suspects)
Cinematography: John Toll (Braveheart)
Music: Luis Bacalov (Il Postino)
Production Design: Michael Corenblith (Apollo 13)

1996
Film: The English Patient (Anthony Minghella)
Foreign-Language Film: Ridicule (Patrice Leconte)
British Film: Secrets and Lies (Mike Leigh)
Director: Joel Coen (Fargo)
Actor: Geoffrey Rush (Shine)
Actress: Brenda Blethyn (Secrets and Lies)
Supporting Actor: Paul Scofield (The Crucible)
Supporting Actress: Juliette Binoche (The English Patient)
Adapted Screenplay: Anthony Minghella (The English Patient)
Original Screenplay: Mike Leigh (Secrets and Lies)
Cinematography: John Seale (The English Patient)
Music: Gabriel Yard (The English Patient)
Production Design: Tony Burrough (Richard III)

1997
Film: The Full Monty (Peter Cattaneo)
Foreign-Language Film: L'Appartement (Gilles Mimouni)
British Film: Nil by Mouth (Gary Oldman)
Director: Baz Luhrmann (William Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet)
Actor: Robert Carlyle (The Full Monty)
Actress: Judi Dench (Mrs Brown)
Supporting Actor: Tom Wilkinson (The Full Monty)
Supporting Actress: Sigourney Weaver (The Ice Storm)
Adapted Screenplay: Baz Luhrmann, Craig Pearce (William Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet)
Original Screenplay: Gary Oldman (Nil by Mouth)
Audience Award: The Full Monty (Peter Cattaneo)
Cinematography: Eduardo Serra (The Wings of the Dove)
Music: Nellee Hooper (William Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet) Production Design: Catherine Martin (William Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet)

1998
Film: Shakespeare in Love (John Madden)
Foreign Language Film: Central Station Brazil/Central Do Brasil (Walter Salles)
British Film: Elizabeth (Shekhar Kapur)
Director: Peter Weir (The Truman Show)
Actor: Robert Begnini (Life is Beautiful)
Actress: Cate Blanchett (Elizabeth)
Supporting Actor: Geoffrey Rush (Shakespeare in Love)
Supporting Actress: Judi Dench (Shakespeare in Love)
Adapted Screenplay: Elaine May (Primary Colors)
Original Screenplay: Andrew Niccol (The Truman Show)
Audience Award: Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels (Guy Ritchie)
Cinematography: Remi Adefarasin (Elizabeth)
Music: David Hirschfelder (Elizabeth)
Production Design: Dennis Gassner (The Truman Show) Editing: David Gamble (Shakespeare in Love)

1999
Film: American Beauty (Sam Mendes)
Foreign Language Film: All About My Mother (Pedro Almodóvar)
British Film: East is East (Damien O'Donnell)
Director: Pedro Almdóvar (All About My Mother)
Actor: Kevin Spacey (American Beauty)
Actress: Annette Bening (American Beauty)
Supporting Actor: Jude Law (The Talented Mr Ripley)
Supporting Actress: Maggie Smith (Tea with Mussolini)
Adapted Screenplay: Neil Jordan (The End of the Affair)

Original Screenplay: Charlie Kaufman (Being John Malkovich)
Audience Award: Notting Hill (Roger Michell)
Cinematography: Conrad L. Hall (American Beauty)
Music: Thomas Newman (American Beauty)
Production Design: Rick Heinrichs (Sleepy Hollow)
Editing: Tariq Anwar, Christopher Greenbury (American Beauty)
Costume Design: Colleen Atwood (Sleepy Hollow)
Most Promising Newcomer: Richard Kwietniowksi (Love and Death on Long Island)

2000
Film: Gladiator (Ridley Scott)
Foreign Language Film: Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon (Ang Lee)
British Film: Billy Elliott (Stephen Daldry)
Director: Ang Lee (Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon)
Actor: Jamie Bell (Billy Elliott)
Actress: Julia Roberts (Erin Brockovich)
Supporting Actor: Benicio Del Toro (Traffic)
Supporting Actress: Julie Walters (Billy Elliott)
Adapted Screenplay: Stephen Gaghan (Traffic)
Original Screenplay: Cameron Crowe (Almost Famous) Audience Award: Gladiator (Ridley Scott)
Cinematography: John Mathieson (Gladiator)
Music: Tan Dun (Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon)
Production Design: Arthur Max (Gladiator)
Editing: Pietro Scalia (Gladiator)
Costume Design: Tim Yip (Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon)
Most Promising Newcomer: Peter Pawllikowski (Last Resort)

2001
Film: The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring (Peter Jackson)
Foreign Language Film: Amores Perros (Alejandro Gonzalez Inarritu)
British Film: Gosford Park (Robert Altman)
Director: Peter Jackson (The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring)
Actor: Russell Crowe (A Beautiful Mind)
Actress: Judi Dench (Iris)
Supporting Actor: Jim Broadbent (Moulin Rouge)
Supporting Actress: Jennifer Connelly (A Beautiful Mind)
Adapted Screenplay: Ted Elliott, Terry Rossio, Joe Stillman, Roger S.H. Schulman (Shrek)
Original Screenplay: Guillaume Laurant, Jean-Pierre Jeunet (Le Fabuleux Destin d'Amélie Poulain) Audience Award: The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring
Cinematography: Roger Deakins (The Man Who Wasn't There)
Music: Craig Armstrong, Marius De Vries (Moulin Rouge)
Production Design: Aline Bonetto (Le Fabuleux Destin d'Amélie Poulain)
Editing: Mary Sweeney (Mulholland Drive)
Costume Design: Jenny Beavan (Gosford Park)
Most Promising Newcomer: Joel Hopkins, Nicola Usborne (Jump Tomorrow)

2002
Film: The Pianist (Roman Polanski)
Foreign Language Film: Talk to Her/Hable con Ella (Pedro Almodovar)
British Film: The Warrior (Asif Kapadia)
Director: Roman Polanski (The Pianist)
Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis (Gangs of New York)
Actress: Nicole Kidman (The Hours)
Supporting Actor: Christopher Walken (Catch Me If You Can)
Supporting Actress: Catherine Zeta Jones (Chicago)
Adapted Screenplay: Charlie Kaufman, Donald Kaufman (Adaptation)
Original Screenplay: Pedro Almodovar (Talk to Her/Hable con Ella)
Audience Award: The Lord of the Rings: The Two Towers (Peter Jackson)
Cinematography: Conrad L. Hall (Road to Perdition)
Music: Philip Glass (The Hours)
Production Design: Dennis Gassner (Road to Perdition)
Editing: Daniel Rezende (City of God/Cidade de Deus)
Costume Design: Ngila Dickson, Richard Taylor (The Lord of the Rings: The Two Towers)
Most Promising Newcomer: Asif Kapadia (The Warrior)

2003
Film: The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King (Peter Jackson)
Foreign Language Film: In This World (Michael Winterbottom)
British Film: Touching the Void (Kevin Macdonald)
Director: Peter Weit (Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World)
Actor: Bill Murray (Lost in Translation)
Actress: Scarlett Johansson (Lost in Translation)
Supporting Actor: Bill Nighy (Love Actually)
Supporting Actress: Renee Zellweger (Cold Mountain)
Adapted Screenplay: The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King (Fran Walsh, Philippa Boyens, Peter Jackson)
Original Screenplay: Tom McCarthy (The Station Agent)
Audience Award: The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King (Peter Jackson)
Cinematography: Andrew Lesnie (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Music: Gabriel Yared, T. Bone Burnett (Cold Mountain)
Production Design: William Sandell (Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World)
Editing: Sarah Flack (Lost in Translation)
Costume Design: Wendy Stites (Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World)
Most Promising Newcomer: Emily Young (Kiss of Life)

2004
Film: The Aviator
Foreign Language Film: The Motorcylce Diaries/Diarios de Motocicleta (Walter Salles)
British Film: My Summer of Love (Pawel Pawlikowski)
Director: Mike Leigh (Vera Drake)
Actor: Jamie Foxx (Ray)
Actress: Imedla Staunton (Vera Drake)
Supporting Actor: Clive Owen (Closer)
Supporting Actress: Cate Blanchett (The Aviator)
Adapted Screenplay: Sideways (Alexander Payne, Jim Taylor)
Original Screenplay: Charlie Kaufman (Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind)
Audience Award: Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban (Alfonso Cuaron)
Cinematography: Dione Beebe, Paul Cameron (Collateral)
Music: Gustavo Santaolalla (The Motorcylce Diaries/Diarios de Motocicleta)
Production Design: Dante Ferretti (The Aviator)
Editing: Valdis Oskardottir (Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind)
Costume Design: Jacqueline Durran (Vera Drake)
Most Promising Newcomer: Amma Asante (A Way of Life)

2005
Film: Brokeback Mountain (Ang Lee)
Foreign Language Film: De Battre Mon Coeur s'est Arrête (Pascal Cauche)
British Film: Steve Box, Nick Park (Wallace & Gromit in the Curse of the Were-Rabbit)
Director: Ang Lee (Brokeback Mountain)
Actor: Philip Seymour Hoffman (Capote)
Actress: Reese Witherspoon (Walk the Line)
Supporting Actor: Jake Gyllenhaal (Brokeback Mountain)
Supporting Actress: Thandie Newton (Crash)
Adapted Screenplay: Larry McMurtry; Diana Ossana (Brokeback Mountain)
Original Screenplay: Paul Haggis (Crash)
Audience Award:
Cinematography: Dion Beebe (Memoirs of a Geisha)
Music: Pail Massey, Doug Hemphill, Peter F. Kurland, Donald Sylvester (Walk the Line)
Production Design: Stuart Craig (Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire)
Editing: Claire Simpson (The Constant Gardener)
Costume Design: Colleen Atwood (Memoirs of a Geisha)
Most Promising Newcomer: Peter Pawllikowski (Last Resort)

GOLDEN GLOBES

The Golden Globes are awarded by the Hollywood Foreign Press Association, which consists of less than a hundred Los Angeles-based journalists who work for overseas publications. The awards owe their importance to the fact that they are shown on television and provide an indication of the likely Oscar winners. The main film awards are:

1943
Picture: The Song of Bernadette
Actor: Paul Lukas (Watch on the Rhine)
Actress: Jennifer Jones (The Song of Bernadette)
Supporting Actor: Akim Tamiroff (For Whom the Bell Tolls)
Supporting Actress: Katina Paxinou (For Whom the Bell Tolls)
Director: Henry King (The Song of Bernadette)

1944
Picture: Going My Way
Actor: Alexander Knox (Wilson)
Actress: Ingrid Bergman (Gaslight)
Supporting Actor: Barry Fitzgerald (Going My Way)
Supporting Actress: Agnes Moorehead (Mrs Parkington)
Director: Leo McCarey (Going My Way)

1945
Picture: The Lost Weekend
Actor: Ray Milland (The Lost Weekend)
Actress: Ingrid Bergman (The Bells Of St. Mary's)
Supporting Actor: J. Carroll Naish (A Medal for Benny) Supporting Actress: Angela Lansbury (The Picture of Dorian Gray)
Director: Billy Wilder (The Lost Weekend)
Picture Promoting International Understanding: The House I Live In (Mervyn LeRoy)

1946
Picture: The Best Years of Our Lives
Actress: Rosalind Russell (Sister Kenny)
Actor: Clifton Webb (The Razor's Edge)
Supporting Actress: Anne Baxter (The Razor's Edge)
Director: Frank Capra (It's a Wonderful Life)
Picture Promoting International Understanding: The Last Chance (Leopold Lindtberg)
Special Achievement: Harold Russell (The Best Years of Our Lives)

1947
Picture: Gentleman's Agreement
Actor: Ronald Colman (A Double Life)
Actress: Rosalind Russell (Mourning Becomes Electra)
Supporting Actor: Edmund Gwenn (Miracle On 34th Street)
Supporting Actress Celeste Holm (Gentleman's Agreement)
Male New Star: Richard Widmark (Kiss Of Death)
Female New Star: Lois Maxwell (That Hagen Girl)
Juvenile: Dean Stockwell (Gentleman's Agreement)
Director: Elia Kazan (Gentleman's Agreement)
Screenplay: George Seaton (Miracle on 34th Street)
Original Score: Max Steiner (Life with Father)
Cinematography: Jack Cardiff (Black Narcissus)
Special Achievement: Walt Disney (Bambi in Hindustani)

1948
Picture: Johnny Belinda; The Treasure Of the Sierra Madre
Actor: Laurence Olivier (Hamlet)
Actress: Jane Wyman (Johnny Belinda)
Supporting Actor: Walter Huston (The Treasure Of the Sierra Madre)
Supporting Actress: Ellen Corby (I Remember Mama)
Juvenile: Ivan Jandl (The Search)
Director: John Huston (The Treasure Of the Sierra Madre)
Screenplay: Richard Schweizer, David Wechsler (The Search)
Original Score: Brian Easdale (The Red Shoes)
Cinematography: Gabriel Figueroa (The Pearl)
Picture Promoting International Understanding: The Search (Fred Zinnemann)

1949
Picture: All the King's Men
Actor: Broderick Crawford (All the King's Men)
Actress: Olivia de Havilland (The Heiress)
Supporting Actor: James Whitmore (Battleground)
Supporting Actress: Mercedes McCambridge (All the King's Men)
Male New Star: Richard Todd (The Hasty Heart)
Female New Star: Mercedes McCambridge (All the King's Men)
Director: Robert Rossen (All the King's Men)
Screenplay: Robert Pirosh (Battleground)
Original Score: John E. Green (The Inspector General)
Cinematography: Franz F. Planer (Champion)
Foreign Film: The Bicycle Thief
Picture Promoting International Understanding: The Hasty Heart (Vincent Sherman) Outstanding Use Of Color: The Adventures Of Ichabod and Mr. Toad

1950
Picture: Sunset Boulevard
Actor, Drama: José Ferrer (Cyrano de Bergerac)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Fred Astaire (Three Little Words)
Actress, Drama: Gloria Swanson (Sunset Boulevard)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Judy Holliday (Born Yesterday)
Supporting Actor: Edmund Gwenn (Mister 880)
Supporting Actress: Josephine Hull (Harvey)
New Star: Gene Nelson (Tea for Two)
Director: Billy Wilder (Sunset Boulevard)
Screenplay: Joseph L. Mankiewicz (All About Eve)
Original Score: Franz Waxman (Sunset Boulevard)
B&W Cinematography: Franz F. Planer (Cyrano de Bergerac)
Colour Cinematography: Robert L. Surtees (King Solomon's Mines)
Picture Promoting International Understanding: Broken Arrow (Delmer Daves)
Henrietta Award: Gregory Peck, Jane Wyman

1951
Picture, Drama: A Place In the Sun
Picture, Musical or Comedy: An American In Paris
Actor, Drama: Fredric March (Death of a Salesman)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Danny Kaye (On the Riviera)
Actress, Drama: Jane Wyman (The Blue Veil)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: June Allyson (Too Young To Kiss)
Supporting Actor: Peter Ustinov (Quo Vadis?)
Supporting Actress: Kim Hunter (A Streetcar Named Desire)
Male New Star: Kevin McCarthy (Death of a Salesman)
Female New Star: Pier Angeli (Teresa)
Director: Laszlo Benedek (Death of a Salesman)
Screenplay: Robert Buckner (Bright Victory)
Original Score: Victor Young (A September Affair)
B&W Cinematography: Franz F. Planer (Death of a Salesman)
Colour Cinematography: William V. Skall, Robert L. Surtees (Quo Vadis?)
Picture Promoting International Understanding: The Day the Earth Stood Still (Robert Wise)
Henrietta Award: Esther Williams
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Cecil B. DeMille

1952
Picture, Drama: The Greatest Show on Earth
Picture, Musical or Comedy: With a Song in My Heart
Actor, Drama: Gary Cooper (High Noon)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Donald O'Connor (Singin' In the Rain)
Actress, Drama: Shirley Booth (Come Back, Little Sheba)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Susan Hayward (With a Song in My Heart)
Supporting Actor: Millard Mitchell (My Six Convicts)
Supporting Actress: Katy Jurado (High Noon)
Male New Star: Richard Burton (My Cousin Rachel)
Female Star Of The Year: Collette Marchand (Moulin Rouge)
Juvenile: Brandon de Wilde (The Member of the Wedding)
Director: Cecil B. DeMille (The Greatest Show On Earth)
Screenplay: Michael Wilson (5 Fingers)
Original Score: Dimitri Tiomkin (High Noon)
B&W Cinematography: Floyd Crosby (High Noon)
Colour Cinematography: George Barnes, J. Peverell Marley (The Greatest Show on Earth)
Picture Promoting International Understanding: Anything Can Happen (George Seaton)
Special Achievement: Francis Kee Teller (Navajo)
Henrietta Award: Susan Hayward, John Wayne
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Walt Disney, Stanley Kramer, Adolph Zukor

1953
Picture: The Robe
Actor, Drama: Spencer Tracy (The Actress)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: David Niven (The Moon Is Blue)
Actress, Drama: Audrey Hepburn (Roman Holiday)

Actress, Musical or Comedy: Ethel Merman (Call Me Madam)
Supporting Actor: Frank Sinatra (From Here To Eternity)
Supporting Actress: Grace Kelly (Mogambo)
Male New Star: Richard Egan, Steve Forrest, Hugh O'Brien
Female New Star: Pat Crowley, Bella Darvi, Barbara Rush
Director: Fred Zinnemann (From Here to Eternity)
Screenplay: Helen Deutsch (Lili)
Picture Promoting International Understanding: Little Boy Lost (George Seaton) Documentary: A Queen Is Crowned
Special Achievement: Jack Cummings, Walt Disney, Guy Madison
Henrietta Award: Alan Ladd, Marilyn Monroe, Robert Taylor
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Darryl F. Zanuck

1954

Picture, Drama*: On the Waterfront*
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Carmen Jones
Actor, Drama: Marlon Brando (On the Waterfront)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: James Mason (A Star Is Born)
Actress, Drama: Grace Kelly (The Country Girl)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Judy Garland (A Star Is Born)
Supporting Actor: Edmond O'Brien (The Barefoot Contessa)
Supporting Actress: Jan Sterling (The High and the Mighty)
Male New Star Of The Year: Joe Adams, George Nader, Jeff Richards
Female New Star: Shirley MacLaine, Kim Novak, Karen Sharpe
Director: Elia Kazan (On the Waterfront)
Screenplay: Ernest Lehman, Samuel Taylor, Billy Wilder (Sabrina)
B&W Cinematography: Boris Kaufman (On the Waterfront)
Colour Cinematography: Joseph Ruttenberg (Brigadoon)
Foreign Film: Genevieve, The Lady Of the Camelias, No Way Back, Twenty-Four Eyes
Picture Promoting International Understanding: Broken Lance (Edward Dmytryk)
Special Achievement: Anywhere In Our Time, John Ford, Herbert Kalmus, Dimitri Tiomkin
Henrietta Award: Audrey Hepburn, Gregory Peck
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Jean Hersholt

1955

Picture, Drama: East of Eden
Picture, Outdoor Drama: Wichita
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Guys and Dolls
Actor, Drama: Ernest Borgnine (Marty)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Tom Ewell (The Seven Year Itch)
Actress, Drama: Anna Magnani (The Rose Tattoo)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Jean Simmons (Guys and Dolls)
Supporting Actor: Arthur Kennedy (Trial)
Supporting Actress: Marisa Pavan (The Rose Tattoo)
Male New Star: Ray Danton, Russ Tamblyn
Female New Star: Anita Ekberg, Victoria Shaw, Dana Wynter
Director: Joshua Logan (Picnic)
Foreign Film: Dangerous Curves, Eyes Of Children, Sons, Mothers and a General, Stella, The Word
Picture Promoting International Understanding: Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing (Henry King)
Special Achievement: James Dean (East Of Eden)
Henrietta Award: Marlon Brando, Grace Kelly
Hollywood Citizenship Award: Esther Williams
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Jack L. Warner

1956

Picture, Drama: Around the World in 80 Days
Picture, Musical or Comedy: The King and I
Actor, Drama: Kirk Douglas (Lust for Life)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Cantinflas (Around the World in 80 Days)
Actress, Drama: Ingrid Bergman (Anastasia)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Deborah Kerr (The King and I)
Supporting Actor; Earl Holliman (The Rainmaker)
Supporting Actress: Eileen Heckart (The Bad Seed)
Male New Star: John Kerr, Paul Newman, Anthony Perkins
Female New Star: Carroll Baker, Jayne Mansfield, Natalie Wood
Male New Foreign Star: Jacques Bergerac
Female New Foreign Star: Taina Elg
Director: Elia Kazan (Baby Doll)
Foreign Film: Before Sundown, A Girl in Black, Richard III, Roses On the Arm, War and Peace, The White Reindeer
Picture Promoting International Understanding: Battle Hymn (Douglas Sirk)
Special Achievement: Edwin Schallert, Elizabeth Taylor, Dimitri Tiomkin
Henrietta Award: James Dean, Kim Novak
Hollywood Citizenship Award: Ronald Reagan
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Mervyn LeRoy

1957

Picture - Drama: The Bridge on the River Kwai
Picture - Musical or Comedy*: Les Girls*
Actor, Drama: Alec Guinness (The Bridge on the River Kwai)
Actor, Musical Or Comedy: Frank Sinatra (Pal Joey)
Actress, Drama: Joanne Woodward (The Three Faces of Eve)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Kay Kendall (Les Girls)
Supporting Actor: Red Buttons (Sayonara)
Supporting Actress: Elsa Lanchester (Witness for the Prosecution)
Male New Star: James Garner, John Saxon, Patrick Wayne
Feamle New Star: Sandra Dee, Carolyn Jones, Diane Varsi
Director: David Lean (The Bridge on the River Kwai)
Foreign Film: The Confessions of Felix Krull, Tizoc, Woman In ■ Dressing Gown, Yellow Crow
Picture Promoting International Understanding: The Happy Road (Gene Kelly)
Special Achievement: Hugo Friedhofer, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Bob Hope, Le Roy Prinze, Jean Simmons
Henrietta Award: Tony Curtis, Doris Day
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Buddy Adler

1958

Picture, Drama: The Defiant Ones
Picture, Comedy: Auntie Mame
Picture, Musical: Gigi
Actor, Drama: David Niven (Separate Tables)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Danny Kaye (Me and the Colonel)
Actress, Drama: Susan Hayward (I Want To Live!)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Rosalind Russell (Auntie Mame)
Supporting Actor: Burl Ives (The Big Country)
Supporting Actress: Hermione Gingold (Gigi)
Male New Star: Bradford Dillman, John Gavin, Efrem Zimbalist, Jr.
Female New Star: Linda Cristal, Susan Kohner, Tina Louise Juvenile: David Ladd (The Proud Rebel)
Director: Vincente Minnelli (Gigi)
Samuel Goldwyn International Award: Two Eyes, Twelve Hands
Picture Promoting International Understanding: The Inn of the Sixth Happiness (Mark Robson)
Special Achievement: Shirley MacLaine
Henrietta Award: Rock Hudson, Deborah Kerr
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Maurice Chevalier

1959

Picture, Drama: Ben-Hur
Picture, Comedy: Some Like It Hot
Picture, Musical: Porgy and Bess
Actor, Drama: Anthony Franciosa, (Career)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Jack Lemmon (Some Like It Hot)
Actress, Drama: Elizabeth Taylor (Suddenly, Last Summer)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Marilyn Monroe (Some Like It Hot)
Supporting Actor: Stephen Boyd (Ben-Hur)
Supporting Actress: Susan Kohner (Imitation of Life)
Male New Star: Barry Coe, Troy Donahue, George Hamilton, James Shigeta
Female New Star: Angie Dickinson, Janet Munro, Stella Stevens, Tuesday Weld
Director: William Wyler (Ben-Hur)
Original Score: Ernest Gold (On the Beach)
Samuel Goldwyn International Award: Room at the Top
Picture Promoting International Understanding: The Diary Of Anne Frank (George Stevens)
Special Achievement: Francis X. Bushman, Hedda Hopper, Andrew Marton, Ramon Novarro, Louella Parsons, Fred Zinnemann
Henrietta Award: Doris Day, Rock Hudson
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Bing Crosby

1960

Picture, Drama: Spartacus
Picture, Comedy: The Apartment
Picture, Musical: Song without End - The Story Of Franz Liszt
Actor, Drama: Burt Lancaster (Elmer Gantry)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Jack Lemmon (The Apartment)
Actress, Drama: Greer Garson (Sunrise at Campobello)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Shirley MacLaine (The Apartment)
Supporting Actor: Sal Mineo (Exodus)
Supporting Actress: Janet Leigh (Psycho)
Male New Star: Michael Callan, Mark Damon, Brett Halsey
Female New Star: Ina Balin, Nancy Kwan, Hayley Mills
Director: Jack Cardiff (Sons and Lovers)
Original Score: Dimitri Tiomkin (The Alamo)
Samuel Goldwyn International Award: Never On Sunday
Picture Promoting International Understanding: Hand In Hand (Philip Leacock)
Special Achievement: Cantinflas, Stanley Kramer, Fred Zinnemann
Henrietta Award: Tony Curtis, Rock Hudson, Gina Lollobrigida
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Fred Astaire

1961

Picture, Drama: The Guns of Navarone
Picture, Comedy: A Majority of One Picture, Musical: West Side Story
Actor, Drama: Maximilian Schell (Judgment at Nuremberg)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Glenn Ford (Pocketful of Miracles)
Actress, Drama: Geraldine Page (Summer and Smoke)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Rosalind Russell (A Majority of One)
Supporting Actor: George Chakiris (West Side Story)
Supporting Actress: Rita Moreno (West Side Story)
Male New Star: Warren Beatty, Richard Beymer, Bobby Darin
Female New Star: Ann-Margret, Jane Fonda, Christine Kaufman Director: Stanley Kramer (Judgment at Nuremberg)
Original Score: Dimitri Tiomkin (The Guns of Navarone)
Original Song: 'Town without Pity' from Town Without Pity (m Dimitri Tiomkin, l Ned Washington)
Samuel Goldwyn International Award: The Mark
Picture Promoting International Understanding: A Majority of One (Mervyn LeRoy)
Special Achievement: Army Archerd, Samuel Bronston, Mike Connolly
Henrietta Award: Charlton Heston, Marilyn Monroe
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Judy Garland

1962

Picture, Drama: Lawrence of Arabia
Picture, Comedy: That Touch of Mink
Picture, Musical: The Music Man
Actor, Drama: Gregory Peck (To Kill a Mockingbird)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Marcello Mastroianni (Divorce - Italian Style)
Actress, Drama: Geraldine Page (Sweet Bird of Youth)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Rosalind Russell (Gypsy)
Suppporting Actor: Omar Sharif (Lawrence of Arabia)
Supporting Actress: Angela Lansbury (The Manchurian Candidate)
Male New Star: Keir Dullea, Omar Sharif, Terence Stamp
Female New Star: Patty Duke, Sue Lyon, Rita Tushingham
Director: David Lean (Lawrence of Arabia)
Original Score: Elmer Bernstein (To Kill a Mockingbird)
B&W Cinematography: Jean Bourgoin, Pierre Levent, Henri Persin, Walter Wottitz (The Longest Day)
Colour Cinematography: Fred A. Young (Lawrence of Arabia)
Samuel Goldwyn International Award: Sundays and Cybèle
Picture Promoting International Understanding: To Kill a Mockingbird (Robert Mulligan)
Special Achievement: Nat 'King' Cole
Henrietta Award: Doris Day, Rock Hudson
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Bob Hope

1963

Picture, Drama: The Cardinal
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Tom Jones
Actor, Drama: Sidney Poitier (Lilies of the Field)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Alberto Sordi (To Bed - Or Not To Bed)
Actress, Drama: Leslie Caron (The L-Shaped Room)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Shirley MacLaine (Irma la Douce)
Supporting Actor: John Huston (The Cardinal)
Supporting Actress: Margaret Rutherford (The VIPs)
Male New Star: Albert Finney, Stathis Giallelis, Robert Walker Jnr
Female New Star: Ursula Andress, Tippi Hedren, Elke Sommer
Director: Elia Kazan (America, America)
Samuel Goldwyn International Award: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow
Picture Promoting International Understanding: Lilies of the Field (Ralph Nelson)
Special Achievement: Connie Francis
Henrietta Award: Sophia Loren, Paul Newman
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Joseph E. Levine

1964

Picture, Drama: Becket
Picture, Musical or Comedy: My Fair Lady
Actor, Drama: Peter O'Toole (Becket)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Rex Harrison (My Fair Lady)
Actress, Drama: Anne Bancroft (The Pumpkin Eater)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Julie Andrews (Mary Poppins)
Supporting Actor: Edmond O'Brien (Seven Days in May)
Supporting Actress: Agnes Moorehead (Hush... Hush, Sweet Charlotte)
Male New Star: Harve Presnell, George Segal, Topol
Female New Star: Mia Farrow, Celia Kaye, Mary Ann Mobley
Director: George Cukor (My Fair Lady)
Original Score: Dimitri Tiomkin (The Fall of the Roman Empire)
Original Song: 'Circus World' from Circus World (m Dimitri Tiomkin, l Ned Washington)
Samuel Goldwyn International Award: Marriage Italian Style
Henrietta Award: Sophia Loren, Marcello Mastroianni
Cecil B. DeMille Award: James Stewart

1965

Picture, Drama: Doctor Zhivago
Picture, Musical or Comedy: The Sound Of Music
Actor, Drama: Omar Sharif (Doctor Zhivago)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Lee Marvin (Cat Ballou)
Actress, Drama: Samantha Eggar (The Collector)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Julie Andrews (The Sound Of Music)
Supporting Actor: Oskar Werner (The Spy Who Came In From the Cold)
Supporting Actress: Ruth Gordon (Inside Daisy Clover)
Male New Star: Robert Redford
Female New Star: Elizabeth Hartman (A Patch of Blue)
Director: David Lean (Doctor Zhivago)
Screenplay: Robert Bolt (Doctor Zhivago)
Original Score: Maurice Jarre (Doctor Zhivago)
Original Song: 'Forget Domani' from The Yellow Rolls-Royce (m Riz Ortolani l Norman Newell)
Foreign Language Film: Juliet of the Spirits
English Language Foreign Film: Darling
Henrietta Award: Paul Newman, Natalie Wood
Cecil B. DeMille Award: John Wayne

1966

Picture, Drama: A Man for All Seasons
Picture, Musical or Comedy: The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming
Actor, Drama: Paul Scofield (A Man for All Seasons)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Alan Arkin (The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming)
Actress, Drama: Anouk Aimée (A Man and a Woman)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Lynn Redgrave (Georgy Girl)
Supporting Actor: Richard Attenborough (The Sand Pebbles)
Supporting Actress: Jocelyn Lagarde (Hawaii)
Male New Star: James Farentino (The Pad... And How to Use It)
Female New Star: Camilla Sparv (Dead Heat on a Merry-Go-Round)
Director: Fred Zinnemann (A Man for All Seasons)
Screenplay: Robert Bolt (A Man for All Seasons)
Original Score: Elmer Bernstein (Hawaii)

Original Song: 'Strangers in the Night' from A Man Could Get Killed (m Bert Kampfert | Charles Singleton, Eddie Snyder)
Foreign Language Film: A Man and a Woman
English Language Foreign Film: Alfie
Henrietta Award: Julie Andrews, Steve McQueen
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Charlton Heston

1967
Picture, Drama: In the Heat of the Night
Picture, Musical or Comedy: The Graduate
Actor, Drama: Rod Steiger (In the Heat of the Night)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Richard Harris (Camelot)
Actress, Drama: Edith Evans (The Whisperers)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Anne Bancroft (The Graduate)
Supporting Actor: Richard Attenborough (Doctor Dolittle)
Supporting Actress: Carol Channing (Thoroughly Modern Millie)
Male New Star: Dustin Hoffman (The Graduate)
Female New Star: Katharine Ross (Games, The Graduate)
Director: Mike Nichols (The Graduate)
Screenplay: Sterling Silliphant (In the Heat of the Night)
Original Score: Frederick Loewe (Camelot)
Original Song: 'If Ever I Should Leave You' from Camelot (m Frederick Loewe | Alan Jay Lerner)
Foreign Language Film: Live For Life
English Language Foreign Film: The Fox
Henrietta Award: Julie Andrews, Laurence Harvey
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Kirk Douglas

1968
Picture, Drama: The Lion in Winter
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Funny Girl
Actor, Drama: Peter O'Toole (The Lion in Winter)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Ron Moody (Oliver!)
Actress, Drama: Joanne Woodward (Rachel, Rachel)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Barbra Streisand (Funny Girl)
Supporting Actor: Daniel Massey (Star!)
Supporting Actress: Ruth Gordon (Rosemary's Baby)
Male New Star: Leonard Whiting (Romeo and Juliet)
Female New Star: Olivia Hussey (Romeo and Juliet)
Director: Paul Newman (Rachel, Rachel)
Screenplay: Sterling Silliphant (Charly)
Original Score: Alex North (The Shoes of the Fisherman)
Original Song: 'The Windmills Of Your Mind' from The Thomas Crown Affair (m Michel Legrand | Alan Bergman, Marilyn Bergman)
Foreign Language Film: War and Peace
English Language Foreign Film: Romeo and Juliet
Henrietta Award: Sophia Loren, Sidney Poitier
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Gregory Peck

1969
Picture, Drama: Anne of the Thousand Days
Picture, Musical or Comedy: The Secret of Santa Vittoria
Actor, Drama: John Wayne (True Grit)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Peter O'Toole (Goodbye, Mr. Chips)
Actress, Drama: Geneviève Bujold (Anne of the Thousand Days)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Patty Duke (Me, Natalie)
Supporting Actor: Gig Young (They Shoot Horses, Don't They?)
Supporting Actress: Goldie Hawn (Cactus Flower)
Male New Star: Jon Voight (Midnight Cowboy)
Female New Star: Ali MacGraw (Goodbye, Columbus)
Director: Charles Jarrott (Anne of the Thousand Days)
Screenplay: Bridget Boland, John Hale (Anne of the Thousand Days)
Original Score: Burt Bacharach (Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid)
Original Song: 'Jean' from The Prime Of Miss Jean Brodie (m/l Rod McKuen)
Foreign Language Film: Z
English Language Foreign Film: Oh! What a Lovely War
Henrietta Award: Steve McQueen, Barbra Streisand
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Joan Crawford

1970
Picture, Drama: Love Story
Picture, Comedy or Musical: *M*A*S*H*
Actor, Drama: George C. Scott (Patton)
Actor, Comedy or Musical: Albert Finney (Scrooge)
Actress, Drama: Ali MacGraw (Love Story)
Actress, Comedy or Musical: Carrie Snodgress (Diary of a Mad Housewife)
Supporting Actor: John Mills (Ryan's Daughter)
Supporting Actress: Carrie Snodgress (Diary of a Mad Housewife), Karen Black (Five Easy Pieces)
Director: Arthur Hiller (Love Story)
Best Screenplay: Erich Segal (Love Story)
Best Score: Francis Lai (Love Story)
Best Song: 'Whistling Away the Dark' from Darling Lili (m Henry Mancini | Johnny Mercer)
Foreign Language Film: Rider in the Rain
English Language Foreign Film: Women in Love
Henrietta Award: Clint Eastwood, Barbra Streisand
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Frank Sinatra

1971
Picture, Drama: The French Connection
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Fiddler on the Roof
Actor, Drama: Gene Hackman (The French Connection)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Topol (Fiddler on the Roof)
Actress, Drama: Jane Fonda (Klute)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Twiggy (The Boy Friend)
Supporting Actor: Ben Johnson (The Last Picture Show)
Supporting Actress: Ann-Margret (Carnal Knowledge)
Male New Star: Desi Arnaz Jnr
Female New Star: Twiggy (The Boy Friend)
Director: William Friedkin (The French Connection)
Screenplay: Paddy Chayefsky (The Hospital)
Original Score: Isaac Hayes (Shaft)
Original Song: 'Life Is What You Make It' from Kotch (m Marvin Hamlisch | Johnny Mercer)
Foreign Language Film: The Policeman
English Language Foreign Film: Sunday Bloody Sunday
Henrietta Award: Charles Bronson, Sean Connery, Ali MacGraw
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Alfred Hitchcock

1972
Picture, Drama: The Godfather
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Cabaret
Actor, Drama: Marlon Brando (The Godfather)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Jack Lemmon (Avanti!)
Actress, Drama: Liv Ullmann (The Emigrants)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Liza Minnelli (Cabaret)
Supporting Actor: Joel Grey (Cabaret)
Supporting Actress: Shelley Winters (The Poseidon Adventure)
Male New Star: Edward Albert (Butterflies Are Free)
Female New Star: Diana Ross (Lady Sings the Blues)
Director: Francis Ford Coppola (The Godfather)
Screenplay: Francis Ford Coppola, Mario Puzo (The Godfather)
Original Score: Nino Rota (The Godfather)
Original Song: 'Ben' from Ben (m Walter Scharf | Don Black)
Foreign Language Film: The Emigrants; The New Land
English Language Foreign Film: Young Winston
Documentary: Elvis on Tour
Henrietta Award: Marlon Brando, Jane Fonda
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Samuel Goldwyn

1973
Picture, Drama: The Exorcist
Picture, Musical or Comedy: American Graffiti
Actor, Drama: Al Pacino (Serpico)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: George Segal (A Touch of Class)
Actress, Drama: Marsha Mason (Cinderella Liberty)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Glenda Jackson (A Touch of Class)
Supporting Actor: John Houseman (The Paper Chase)
Supporting Actress: Linda Blair (The Exorcist)
Male New Star: Paul Le Mat (American Graffiti)
Female New Star: Linda Blair (The Exorcist)
Director: William Friedkin (The Exorcist)
Screenplay: William Peter Blatty (The Exorcist)
Original Score: Neil Diamond (Jonathan Livingston Seagull)
Original Song: 'The Way We Were' from The Way We Were (m Marvin Hamlisch | Alan Bergman, Marilyn Bergman)
Foreign Film: The Pedestrian
Documentary: Visions of Eight
Henrietta Award: Marlon Brando, Elizabeth Taylor
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Bette Davis

1974
Picture, Drama: Chinatown
Picture, Musical or Comedy: The Longest Yard
Actor, Drama: Jack Nicholson (Chinatown)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Art Carney (Harry & Tonto)
Actress, Drama: Gena Rowlands (A Woman under the Influence)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Raquel Welch (The Three Musketeers)
Supporting Actor: Fred Astaire (The Towering Inferno)
Supporting Actress: Karen Black (The Great Gatsby)
Male New Star: Joseph Bottoms (The Dove)
Female New Star: Susan Flannery (The Towering Inferno)
Director: Roman Polanski (Chinatown)
Screenplay: Robert Towne (Chinatown)
Original Score: Alan Jay Lerner, Frederick Loewe (The Little Prince)
Original Song: 'Benji's Theme' from Benji (m Euel Box | Betty Box)
Foreign Film: Scenes from a Marriage
Documentary: Animals Are Beautiful People
Henrietta Award: Robert Redford, Barbra Streisand
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Hal B. Wallis

1975
Picture, Drama: One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest
Picture, Musical or Comedy: The Sunshine Boys
Actor, Drama: Jack Nicholson (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Walter Matthau (The Sunshine Boys)
Actress, Drama: Louise Fletcher (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Ann-Margret (Tommy) Supporting Actor: Richard Benjamin (The Sunshine Boys)
Supporting Actress: Brenda Vaccaro (Jacqueline Susann's Once Is Not Enough)
Male New Star: Brad Dourif (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Female New Star: Marilyn Hassett (The Other Side Of the Mountain)
Director: Milos Forman (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Screenplay: Bo Goldman, Lawrence Hauben (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Original Score: John Williams (Jaws)
Original Song: 'I'm Easy' from Nashville (m/l Keith Carradine)
Foreign Film: Lies My Father Told Me
Documentary: Youthquake

1976 Picture , Drama: Rocky
Picture, Musical or Comedy: A Star Is Born
Actor, Drama: Peter Finch (Network)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Kris Kristofferson (A Star Is Born)
Actress, Drama: Faye Dunaway (Network)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Barbra Streisand (A Star Is Born) Supporting Actor: Laurence Olivier (Marathon Man)
Supporting Actress: Katharine Ross (Voyage of the Damned)
Male New Star: Arnold Schwarzenegger (Stay Hungry)
Female New Star: Jessica Lange (King Kong)
Director: Sidney Lumet (Network)
Screenplay: Paddy Chayefsky (Network)
Original Score: Kenny Ascher, Paul Williams (A Star Is Born)
Original Song: 'Evergreen' from A Star Is Born (m Barbra Streisand | Paul Williams)
Foreign Film: Face to Face
Documentary: Altars of the World
Henrietta Award: Sophia Loren, Robert Redford
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Walter Mirisch

1977
Picture, Drama: The Turning Point
Picture, Musical or Comedy: The Goodbye Girl
Actor, Drama: Richard Burton (Equus)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Richard Dreyfuss (The Goodbye Girl)
Actress, Drama: Jane Fonda (Julia)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Diane Keaton (Annie Hall), Marsha Mason (The Goodbye Girl)
Supporting Actor: Peter Firth (Equus)
Supporting Actress: Vanessa Redgrave (Julia)
Director: Herbert Ross: (The Turning Point)
Screenplay: Neil Simon (The Goodbye Girl)
Original Score: John Williams (Star Wars aka Star Wars: Episode IV: A New Hope)
Original Song: 'You Light up My Life' from You Light up My Life (m/l Joseph Brooks) Foreign Film: A Special Day
Henrietta Award: Robert Redford, Barbra Streisand
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Red Skelton

1978 Picture, Drama: Midnight Express
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Heaven Can Wait
Actor, Drama: Jon Voight (Coming Home)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Warren Beatty (Heaven Can Wait)
Actress, Drama: Jane Fonda (Coming Home)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Maggie Smith (California Suite)
Supporting Actor: John Hurt (Midnight Express)
Supporting Actress: Dyan Cannon (Heaven Can Wait)
Male New Star: Brad Davis
Female New Star: Irene Miracle
Director: Michael Cimino (The Deer Hunter)
Screenplay: Oliver Stone (Midnight Express)
Original Score: Giorgio Moroder (Midnight Express)
Original Song: 'Last Dance' from Thank God it's Friday (m/l Paul Jabara)
Foreign Film: Autumn Sonata
Henrietta Award: Jane Fonda, John Travolta
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Lucille Ball

1979
Picture, Drama: Kramer vs Kramer
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Breaking Away
Actor, Drama: Dustin Hoffman (Kramer vs Kramer)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Peter Sellers (Being There)
Actress, Drama: Sally Field (Norma Rae)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Bette Midler (The Rose)
Supporting Actor: Melvyn Douglas (Being There), Robert Duvall (Apocalypse Now)
Supporting Actress: Meryl Streep (Kramer vs Kramer)
New Male Star: Rick Schroder
New Female Star: Bette Midler
Director: Francis Ford Coppola (Apocalypse Now)
Screenplay: Robert Benton (Kramer vs Kramer)
Original Score: Carmine Coppola, Francis Ford Coppola (Apocalypse Now)
Original Song: 'The Rose' from The Rose (m/l Amanda McBroom)
Foreign Film: La Cage aux Folles
Henrietta Award: Jane Fonda, Roger Moore
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Henry Fonda

1980
Picture, Drama: Ordinary People
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Coal Miner's Daughter
Actor, Drama: Robert De Niro (Raging Bull)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Ray Sharkey (The Idolmaker)
Actress, Drama: Mary Tyler Moore (Ordinary People)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Sissy Spacek (Coal Miner's Daughter)
Supporting Actor: Timothy Hutton (Ordinary People)
Supporting Actress: Mary Steenburgen (Melvin and Howard)
Male New Star: Timothy Hutton
Female New Star: Nastassja Kinski
Director: Robert Redford (Ordinary People)
Screenplay: William Peter Blatty (The Ninth Configuration)
Original Score: Dominic Frontiere (The Stunt Man)
Original Song: 'Fame' from Fame (m Michael Gore | Dean Pitchford)
Foreign Film: Tess
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Gene Kelly

1981
Picture, Drama: On Golden Pond
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Arthur
Actor, Drama: Henry Fonda (On Golden Pond)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Dudley Moore (Arthur)
Actress, Drama: Meryl Streep (The French Lieutenant's Woman)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Bernadette Peters (Pennies from Heaven)
Supporting Actor: John Gielgud (Arthur)
Supporting Actress: Joan Hackett (Only When I Laugh)
New Star: Pia Zadora (Butterfly)
Director: Warren Beatty (Reds)
Screenplay: Ernest Thompson (On Golden Pond)
Original Song: 'Arthur's Theme' from Arthur (m/l Peter Allen, Burt Bacharach, Christopher Cross, Carole Bayer Sager)

Foreign Film: Chariots of Fire
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Sidney Poitier

1982
Picture, Drama: ET: The Extra-Terrestrial
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Tootsie
Actor, Drama: Ben Kingsley (Gandhi)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Dustin Hoffman (Tootsie)
Actress, Drama: Meryl Streep (Sophie's Choice)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Julie Andrews (Victor/Victoria)
Supporting Actor: Louis Gossett Jnr (An Officer and A Gentleman)
Supporting Actress: Jessica Lange (Tootsie)
Male New Star: Ben Kinglsey
Female New Star: Sandahl Bergman
Director: Richard Attenborough (Gandhi)
Screenplay: John Briley (Gandhi)
Original Score: John Williams (ET: The Extra-Terrestrial)
Original Song: ‘Up Where We Belong’ from An Officer and A Gentleman (m Jack Nitzsche, Buffy Sainte-Marie l Wilbur Jennings)
Foreign Film: Gandhi
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Laurence Olivier

1983
Picture, Drama: Terms of Endearment
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Yentl
Actor, Drama: Tom Courtenay (The Dresser); Robert Duvall (Tender Mercies)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Michael Caine (Educating Rita)
Actress, Drama: Shirley MacLaine (Terms of Endearment)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Julie Walters (Educating Rita)
Supporting Actor: Jack Nicholson (Terms of Endearment)
Supporting Actress: Cher (Silkwood)
Director: Barbra Streisand (Yentl)
Screenplay: James L. Brooks (Terms of Endearment)
Original Score: Giorgio Moroder (Flashdance)
Original Song: ‘Flashdance - What a Feeling’ from Flashdance (m Giorgio Moroder l Irene Cara, Keith Forsey)
Foreign Film: Fanny & Alexander
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Paul Newman

1984
Picture, Drama: Amadeus
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Romancing the Stone
Actor, Drama: F. Murray Abraham (Amadeus)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Dudley Moore (Micki & Maude)
Actress, Drama: Sally Field (Places in the Heart)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Kathleen Turner (Romancing the Stone)
Supporting Actor: Haing S Ngor (The Killing Fields)
Supporting Actress: Peggy Ashcroft (A Passage To India)
Director: Milos Forman (Amadeus)
Screenplay: Peter Shaffer (Amadeus)
Original Score: Maurice Jarre (A Passage To India)
Original Song: ‘I Just Called To Say I Love You’ from The Woman In Red (m/l Stevie Wonder) Foreign Film: A Passage to India
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Elizabeth Taylor

1985
Picture, Drama: Out of Africa
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Prizzi's Honor
Actor, Drama: Jon Voight (Runaway Train)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Jack Nicholson (Prizzi's Honor)
Actress, Drama: Whoopi Goldberg (The Color Purple)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Kathleen Turner (Prizzi's Honor)
Supporting Actor: Klaus Maria Brandauer (Out of Africa)
Supporting Actress: Meg Tilly (Agnes of God)
Director: John Huston (Prizzi's Honor)
Screenplay: Woody Allen (The Purple Rose of Cairo)
Original Score: Out of Africa (John Barry)
Original Song: ‘Say You, Say Me’ from White Nights (m/l Lionel Richie) Foreign Film: The Official Story
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Barbara Stanwyck

1986
Picture, Drama: Platoon
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Hannah and Her Sisters
Actor, Drama: Bob Hoskins (Mona Lisa)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Paul Hogan (“Crocodile” Dundee)
Actress, Drama: Marlee Matlin (Children of a Lesser God)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Sissy Spacek (Crimes of the Heart)
Supporting Actor: Tom Berenger (Platoon)
Supporting Actress: Maggie Smith (A Room With a View)
Director: Oliver Stone (Platoon)
Screenplay: Robert Bolt (The Mission)
Original Score: Ennio Morricone (The Mission)
Original Song: ‘Take My Breath Away’ from Top Gun (m Giorgio Moroder l Tom Whitlock)
Foreign Film: The Assault
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Anthony Quinn

1987
Picture, Drama: The Last Emperor
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Hope and Glory
Actor, Drama: Michael Douglas (Wall Street)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Robin Williams (Good Morning, Vietnam)
Actress, Drama: Sally Kirkland (Anna)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Cher (Moonstruck)
Supporting Actor: Sean Connery (The Untouchables)
Supporting Actress: Olympia Dukakis (Moonstruck)
Director: Bernardo Bertolucci (The Last Emperor)
Screenplay: Bernardo Bertolucci, Mark Peploe (The Last Emperor)
Original Score: David Byrne, Ryuichi Sakamoto, Cong Su (The Last Emperor)
Original Song: ‘(I've Had) The Time Of My Life’ from Dirty Dancing (m John DeNicola, Donald Markowitz, Franke Previte l Lyric by Franke Previte)
Foreign Film: My Life as a Dog
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Clint Eastwood

1988
Picture, Drama: Rain Man
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Working Girl
Actor, Drama: Dustin Hoffman (Rain Man)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Tom Hanks (Big)
Actress, Drama: Shirley MacLaine (Madame Sousatzka); Sigourney Weaver (Gorillas in the Mist)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Melanie Griffith (Working Girl)
Supporting Actor: Martin Landau (Tucker: The Man and His Dream)
Supporting Actress: Sigourney Weaver (Working Girl)
Director: Clint Eastwood (Bird)
Screenplay: Naomi Foner (Running On Empty)
Original Score: Maurice Jarre (Gorillas in the Mist)
Original Song: ‘Let the River Run’ from Working Girl (m/l Carly Simon)
Foreign Film: Pelle the Conqueror
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Doris Day

1989
Picture, Drama: Born On the Fourth of July
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Driving Miss Daisy
Actor, Drama: Tom Cruise (Born On the Fourth of July)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Morgan Freeman (Driving Miss Daisy)
Actress, Drama: Michelle Pfeiffer (The Fabulous Baker Boys)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Jessica Tandy (Driving Miss Daisy)
Supporting Actor: Denzel Washington (Glory)
Supporting Actress: Julia Roberts (Steel Magnolias)
Director: Oliver Stone (Born On the Fourth of July)
Screenplay: Ron Kovic, Oliver Stone (Born On the Fourth of July)
Original Score: Alan Menken (The Little Mermaid)
Original Song: ‘Under the Sea’ from The Little Mermaid (m Alan Menken l Howard Ashman)
Foreign Film: Cinema Paradiso
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Audrey Hepburn

1990
Picture, Drama: Dances with Wolves
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Green Card
Actor, Drama: Jeremy Irons (Reversal of Fortune)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Gérard Depardieu (Green Card)
Actress, Drama: Kathy Bates (Misery)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Julia Roberts (Pretty Woman)
Supporting Actor: Bruce Davison (Longtime Companion)
Supporting Actress: Whoopi Goldberg (Ghost)
Director: Kevin Costner (Dances with Wolves)
Screenplay: Michael Blake (Dances with Wolves)
Original Score: Richard Horowitz, Ryuichi Sakamoto (The Sheltering Sky)
Original Song: ‘Blaze Of Glory’ from Young Guns II (m/l Jon Bon Jovi)
Foreign Film: Cyrano de Bergerac
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Jack Lemmon

1991
Picture, Drama: Bugsy
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Beauty and the Beast
Actor, Drama: Nick Nolte (The Prince Of Tides)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Robin Williams (The Fisher King)
Actress, Drama: Jodie Foster (The Silence of the Lambs)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Bette Midler (For the Boys)
Supporting Actor: Jack Palance (City Slickers)
Supporting Actress: Mercedes Ruehl (The Fisher King)
Director: Oliver Stone (JFK)
Screenplay: Callie Khouri (Thelma & Louise)
Original Score: Alan Menken (Beauty and the Beast)
Original Song: ‘Beauty and the Beast’ from Beauty and the Beast (m Alan Menken l Howard Ashman)
Foreign Film: Europa Europa
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Robert Mitchum

1992
Picture, Drama: Scent of a Woman
Picture, Musical or Comedy: The Player
Actor, Drama: Al Pacino (Scent of a Woman)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Tim Robbins (The Player)
Actress, Drama: Emma Thompson (Howards End)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Miranda Richardson (Enchanted April)
Supporting Actor: Gene Hackman (Unforgiven)
Supporting Actress: Joan Plowright (Enchanted April)
Director: Clint Eastwood (Unforgiven)
Screenplay: Bo Goldman (Scent of a Woman)
Original Score: Alan Menken (Aladdin)
Original Song: ‘A Whole New World’ from Aladdin (m Alan Menken l Tim Rice)
Foreign Film: Indochine
Special Achievement Award: Robin Williams (vocal performance, Aladdin)
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Lauren Bacall

1993
Picture, Drama: Schindler's List
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Mrs. Doubtfire
Actor, Drama: Tom Hanks (Philadelphia)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Robin Williams (Mrs. Doubtfire)
Actress, Drama: Holly Hunter (The Piano)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Angela Bassett (What's Love Got To Do With It)
Supporting Actor: Tommy Lee Jones (The Fugitive)
Supporting Actress: Winona Ryder (The Age of Innocence)
Director: Steven Spielberg (Schindler's List)
Screenplay: Steven Zaillian (Schindler's List)
Original Score: Kitaro (Heaven & Earth)
Original Song: ‘Streets Of Philadelphia’ from Philadelphia (m/l Bruce Springsteen)
Foreign Film: Farewell My Concubine
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Robert Redford

1994
Picture, Drama: Forrest Gump
Picture, Musical or Comedy: The Lion King
Actor, Drama: Tom Hanks (Forrest Gump)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Hugh Grant (Four Weddings and a Funeral)
Actress, Drama: Jessica Lange (Blue Sky)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Jamie Lee Curtis (True Lies)
Supporting Actor: Martin Landau (Ed Wood)
Supporting Actress: Dianne Wiest (Bullets Over Broadway)
Director: Robert Zemeckis (Forrest Gump)
Screenplay: Quentin Tarantino (Pulp Fiction)
Original Score: Hans Zimmer (The Lion King)
Original Song: ‘Can You Feel the Love Tonight?’ from The Lion King (m Elton John l Tim Rice)
Foreign Film: Farinelli: Il Castrato
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Sophia Loren

1995
Picture, Drama: Sense and Sensibility
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Babe
Actor, Drama: Nicolas Cage (Leaving Las Vegas)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: John Travolta (Get Shorty)
Actress, Drama: Sharon Stone (Casino)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Nicole Kidman (To Die For) Supporting Actor: Brad Pitt (12 Monkeys)
Supporting Actress: Mira Sorvino (Mighty Aphrodite)
Director: Mel Gibson (Braveheart)
Screenplay: Emma Thompson (Sense and Sensibility)
Original Score: Maurice Jarre (A Walk In the Clouds)
Original Song: ‘Colors of the Wind’ from Pocahontas (m Alan Menken l Stephen Schwartz) Foreign Film: Les Misérables
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Sean Connery

1996
Picture, Drama: The English Patient
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Evita
Actor, Drama: Geoffrey Rush (Shine)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Tom Cruise (Jerry Maguire)
Actress, Drama: Brenda Blethyn (Secrets & Lies)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Madonna (Evita)
Supporting Actor: Edward Norton (Primal Fear)
Supporting Actress: Lauren Bacall (The Mirror Has Two Faces)
Director: Milos Forman (The People vs. Larry Flynt)
Screenplay: Scott Alexander, Larry Karaszewski (The People vs. Larry Flynt)
Original Score: Gabriel Yared (The English Patient)
Original Song: ‘You Must Love Me’ from Evita (m Andrew Lloyd Webber, l Tim Rice)
Foreign Film: Kolya
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Dustin Hoffman

1997
Picture, Drama: Titanic
Picture, Musical or Comedy: As Good As It Gets Actor, Drama: Peter Fonda (Ulee's Gold)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Jack Nicholson (As Good As It Gets)
Actress, Drama: Judi Dench (Mrs Brown)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Helen Hunt (As Good As It Gets)
Supporting Actor: Burt Reynolds (Boogie Nights)
Supporting Actress: Kim Basinger (L.A. Confidential)
Director: James Cameron (Titanic)
Screenplay: Ben Affleck/Matt Damon (Good Will Hunting)
Original Score: James Horner (Titanic)
Original Song: ‘My Heart Will Go On’ from Titanic (m James Horner. l Wilbur Jennings) Foreign Film: My Life in Pink
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Shirley MacLaine

1998
Picture, Drama: Saving Private Ryan
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Shakespeare In Love
Actor, Drama: Jim Carrey (The Truman Show)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Michael Caine (Little Voice)
Actress, Drama: Cate Blanchett (Elizabeth)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Gwyneth Paltrow (Shakespeare In Love)
Supporting Actor: Ed Harris (The Truman Show)
Supporting Actress: Lynn Redgrave (Gods and Monsters)
Director: Steven Spielberg (Saving Private Ryan)
Screenplay: Marc Norman, Tom Stoppard (Shakespeare In Love)
Original Score: Burkhard Dallwitz, Philip Glass (The Truman Show)
Original Song: ‘The Prayer’ from Quest For Camelot (m/l David Foster, Carole Bayer Sager) Foreign Film: Central Station
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Jack Nicholson

1999
Picture, Drama: American Beauty
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Toy Story 2
Actor, Drama: Denzel Washington (The Hurricane)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Jim Carrey (Man On the Moon)
Actress, Drama: Hilary Swank (Boys Don't Cry)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Janet McTeer (Tumbleweeds)
Supporting Actor: Tom Cruise (Magnolia)
Supporting Actress: Angelina Jolie (Girl, Interrupted)
Director: Sam Mendes (American Beauty)
Screenplay: Alan Ball (American Beauty)
Original Score: Ennio Morricone (The Legend Of 1900)
Original Song: ‘You'll Be in My Heart’ from Tarzan (m/l Phil Collins)
Foreign Film: All About My Mother
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Barbra Streisand

2000
Picture, Drama: Gladiator
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Almost Famous

Actor, Drama: Tom Hanks (Cast Away)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: George Clooney (O Brother, Where Art Thou?)
Actress, Drama: Julia Roberts (Erin Brockovich)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Renée Zellweger (Nurse Betty)
Supporting Actor: Benicio Del Toro (Traffic)
Supporting Actress: Kate Hudson (Almost Famous)
Director: Ang Lee (Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon)
Screenplay: Stephen Gaghan (Traffic)
Original Score: Lisa Gerrard, Hans Zimmer (Gladiator)
Original Song: 'Things Have Changed' from Wonder Boys (m/l Bob Dylan) Foreign Film: Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Al Pacino

2001

Picture, Drama: A Beautiful Mind
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Moulin Rouge
Actor, Drama: Russell Crowe (A Beautiful Mind)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Gene Hackman (The Royal Tenenbaums)
Actress, Drama: Sissy Spacek (In the Bedroom)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Nicole Kidman (Moulin Rouge)
Supporting Actor: Jim Broadbent (Iris)
Supporting Actress: Jennifer Connelly (A Beautiful Mind)
Director: Robert Altman (Gosford Park)
Screenplay: Akiva Goldsman (A Beautiful Mind)
Original Score: Craig Armstrong (Moulin Rouge)
Original Song: 'Until...' from Kate & Leopold (m/l Sting)
Foreign Film: No Man's Land
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Harrison Ford

2002

Picture, Drama: The Hours
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Chicago
Actor, Drama: Jack Nicholson (About Schmidt)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Richard Gere (Chicago)
Actress, Drama: Nicole Kidman (The Hours)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Renée Zellweger (Chicago)
Supporting Actor: Chris Cooper (Adaptation)
Supporting Actress: Meryl Streep (Adaptation)
Director: Martin Scorsese (Gangs of New York)
Screenplay: Alexander Payne, Jim Taylor (About Schmidt)
Original Score: Elliot Goldenthal (Frida)
Original Song: 'The Hands That Built America' from Gangs of New York (m/l Bono, Adam Clayton, The Edge, Larry Mullen)
Foreign Film: Talk to Her
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Gene Hackman

2003

Picture, Drama: The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Lost in Translation
Actor, Drama: Sean Penn (Mystic River)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Bill Murray (Lost in Translation)
Actress, Drama: Charlize Theron (Monster)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Diane Keaton (Something's Gotta Give)
Supporting Actor: Tim Robbins (Mystic River)
Supporting Actress: Renee Zellweger (Cold Mountain)
Director: Peter Jackson (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Screenplay: Sofia Coppola (Lost in Translation)
Original Score: Howard Shore (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Original Song: 'Into the West' from The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King (m/l Howard Shore, Fran Walsh, Annie Lennox)
Foreign Film: Osama
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Michael Douglas

2004

Picture, Drama: The Aviator
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Sideways
Actor, Drama: Leonardo DiCaprio (The Aviator)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Jamie Foxx (Ray)
Actress, Drama: Hilary Swank (Million Dollar Baby)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Annette Bening (Being Julia)
Supporting Actor: Clive Owen (Closer)
Supporting Actress: Natalie Portman (Closer)
Director: Clint Eastwood (Million Dollar Baby)
Screenplay: Alexander Payne, Jim Taylor (Sideways)
Original Score: Howard Shore (The Aviator)
Original Song: 'Old Habits Die Hard' from Alfie (m/l Mick Jagger, David A. Stewart)
Foreign Film: The Sea Inside
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Robin Williams

2005

Picture, Drama: Brokeback Mountain
Picture, Musical or Comedy: Walk the Line
Actor, Drama: Philip Seymour Hoffman (Capote)
Actor, Musical or Comedy: Joaquin Phoenix (Walk the Line)
Actress, Drama: Felicity Huffman (Transamerica)
Actress, Musical or Comedy: Reese Witherspoon (Walk the Line)
Supporting Actor: George Clooney (Syriana)
Supporting Actress: Rachel Weisz (The Constant Gardener)
Director: Ang Lee (Brokeback Mountain)
Screenplay: Larry McMurtry, Diana Ossana (Brokeback Mountain)
Original Score: John Williams (Memoirs of a Geisha)
Original Song: 'A Love That Will Never Grow Old' from Brokeback Mountain (m Gustavo Santaolalla, l Bernie Taupin)
Foreign Film: Paradise Now
Cecil B. DeMille Award: Anthony Hopkins

CANNES FILM FESTIVAL AWARDS

The Cannes Film Festival, held each year in May, has established itself as the world's leading festival. The first, in 1939, was abandoned when Hitler invaded Poland and it resumed in 1946. There was no festival in 1948 and 1950, and the one in 1968 was disrupted by the nationwide demonstrations. In 1946, there was a multitude of prizes, one for each participating nation, although there was an International Jury Prize, which went to The Battle of the Rails (La Bataille du Rail), directed by René Clément. In 1947, six prizes were given for various vague genres of film. In 1949, a Grand Prize was given to the best film, together with other prizes for direction, acting, writing, composing, and set design. A special Jury Prize was added in 1951, and the Palme d'Or (Golden Palm) for best film was inaugurated in 1955. Over the years the juries have varied the nature of the awards, according to whim, although always retaining a prize for the best film. The main prizewinners since 1949 are:

1949

Grand Prix: The Third Man (Carol Reed)
Director: René Clément (The Walls of Malapaga/Le Mura di Malapaga)
Actor: Edward G. Robinson (House of Strangers)
Actress: Isa Miranda (The Walls of Malapaga/Le Mura di Malapaga)

1951

Grand Prix: Miracle in Milan/Miracolo a Milano (Vittoria De Sica); Miss Julie (Alf Sjöberg)
Director: Luis Buñuel (Los Olvidados)
Actor: Michael Redgrave (The Browning Version)
Actress: Bette Davis (All About Eve)

1952

Grand Prix: Two Pennyworth of Hope/Due Soldi di Speranza (Renato Castellani); Othello (Orson Welles)
Director: Christian-Jaque (Fanfan la Tulipe)
Actor: Marlon Brando (Viva Zapata)
Actress: Lee Grant (Detective Story)

1953

Grand Prix: The Wages of Fear (Henri-Georges Clouzot)
Actor: Charles Vanel (The Wages of Fear)

1954

Grand Prix: Gate of Hell/Jigoku-Mon (Teinosuke Kinugasa)

1955

Palme d'Or: Marty (Delbert Mann)
Director: Sergei Vasiliev (The Heroes of Shipka/Geroite Na Shipka); Jules Dassin (Rififi) Performance: Spencer Tracy

1956

Palme d'Or: The Silent World/Le Monde du Silence (Jacques Yves Cousteau, Louis Malle)
Director: Sergei Yutkevich (Othello)
Performance: Susan Hayward (I'll Cry Tomorrow)

1957

Palme d'Or: Friendly Persuasion (William Wyler)
Director: Robert Bresson (A Man Escaped/Un Condamné à Mort S'Est Échappé)
Actor: John Kitzmiller (Valley of Peace/Dolina Miru)
Actress: Giulietta Masina (Cabiria/Nights of Cabiria)

1958

Palme d'Or: The Cranes Are Flying/Letiat Zhuravli (Mikhail Kalatozov)
Director: Ingmar Bergman (So Close to Life/Nara Livet)
Actor: Paul Newman (The Long Hot Summer)
Actress: Bibi Andersson, Eva Dahlbeck, Barbro Hiortas-Ornas, Ingrid Thulin (So Close to Life/Nara Livet)

1959

Palme d'Or: Black Orpheus/Orfeu Negro (Marcel Camus)
Director: François Truffaut (The 400 Blows/Les Quatre Cents Coups)
Actor: Dean Stockwell, Bradford Dillman, Orson Welles (Compulsion)
Actress: Simone Signoret (Room at the Top)

1960

Palme d'Or: La Dolce Vita (Federico Fellini)
Actress: Melina Mercouri (Never on Sunday); Jeanne Moreau (Moderato Cantabile)

1961

Palme d'Or: Viridiana (Luis Buñuel); Une Aussi Longue Absence (Henri Colpi)
Director: Julia Solntseva (The Flaming Years/Povest' Plamennykh Ket)
Actor: Anthony Perkins (Goodbye Again)
Actress: Sophia Loren (Two Women/La Ciociara)

1962

Palme d'Or: The Given Word/O Pagador de Promessas (Anselmo Duarte)
Actor: Ralph Richardson, Jason Robards Jnr, Dean Stockwell (Long Day's Journey into Night); Murray Melvin (A Taste of Honey)
Actress: Katharine Hepburn (Long Day's Journey into Night); Rita Tushingham (A Taste of Honey)

1963

Palme d'Or: The Leopard/Il Gattopardo (Luchino Visconti)
Actor: Richard Harris (This Sporting Life)
Actress: Marina Vlady (Queen Bee, aka The Conjugal Bed/Una Storia Moderna: L'Ape Regina)

1964

Palme d'Or: The Umbrellas of Cherbourg/Les Parapluies de Cherbourg (Jacques Demy)
Actor: Saro Urzi (Seduced and Abandoned/Sedotta e Abbandonata); Antal Pager (The Lark/Pacsirta)
Actress: Anne Bancroft (The Pumpkin Eater); Barbara Barrie (One Potato, Two Potato)

1965

Palme d'Or: The Knack ... And How to Get It (Richard Lester)
Director: Liviu Ciulei (The Forest of the Hanged/Padurea Spinzuratilor)
Actor: Terence Stamp (The Collector)
Actress: Samantha Eggar (The Collector)

1966

Palme d'Or: A Man and a Woman/Un Homme et une Femme (Claude Lelouch); The Birds, the Bees, and the Italians/Signore et Signori (Pietro Germi)
Director: Sergei Yutkevich (Lenin in Poland/Lenin en Poland)
Actor: Per Oscarrson (Hunger/Sult)
Actress: Vanessa Redgrave (Morgan!)

1967

Palme d'Or: Blow Up (Michelangelo Antonioni)
Director: Ferenc Kósa (Ten Thousand Suns/Tízezer Nap)
Actor: Odded Kotier (Three Days and a Child)
Actress: Pia Degermark (Elvira Madigan)

1969

Palme d'Or: If... (Lindsay Anderson)
Director: Glauber Rocha (Antonio das Mortes); Vojtech Jasn (All My Good Countrymen/Vsichni Dobri Rodaci)
Actor: Jean-Louis Trintignant (Z)
Actress: Vanessa Redgrave (Isadora)

1970

Palme d'Or: *M*A*S*H* (Robert Altman)
Director: John Boorman (Leo the Last)
Actor: Marcello Mastroianni (Jealousy, Italian Style/Dramma della Gelosia ... Tutti i Particolari in Cronaca)
Actress: Ottavia Piccolo (Metello)

1971

Palme d'Or: The Go-Between (Joseph Losey)
Actor: Riccardo Cucciolla (Sacco e Vanzetti)
Actress: Kitty Winn (Panic in Needle Park)

1972

Palme d'Or: The Mattei Affair/Il Caso Mattei (Francesco Rossi); The Working Class Go to Heaven, aka Lulu the Tool/La Classe Operaia Va in Paradiso (Elio Petri)
Director: Miklós Jancsó (Red Psalm/Még Kér A Nép)
Actor: Jean Yanne (We Will Not Grow Old Together/Nous Ne Vieillirons Pas Ensemble)
Actress: Susannah York (Images)

1973

Palme d'Or: Scarecrow (Jerry Schatzberg); The Hireling (Alan Bridges)
Actor: Giancarlo Giannini (Love and Anarchy/Film d'Amore e d'Anarchia)
Actress: Joanne Woodward (The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds)

1974

Palme d'Or: The Conversation (Francis Ford Coppola)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (The Last Detail)
Actress: Marie-José Nat (Les Violons du Bal)

1975

Palme d'Or: Chronicle of the Burning Years/Ahdat Sanawouach Eldjamr (Mohammed Lakhdar Hamina)
Director: Michel Brault (The Orders/Les Ordres); Costa-Gavras (Special Section/Section Spéciale)
Actor: Vittorio Gassman (Scent of a Woman/Profumo di Donna)
Actress: Valerie Perrine (Lenny)

1976

Palme d'Or: Taxi Driver (Martin Scorsese)
Director: Ettore Scola (Down and Dirty/Brutti, Sporchi e Cattivi)
Actor: José Luis Gomez (Pascual Duarte)
Actress: Mari Töröcsic (Where Are You, Mrs Dery?/Deryne, Hol Van?); Dominique Sanda (The Inheritance/L'Eredità Ferramonti)

1977

Palme d'Or: Padre Padrone (Paolo and Vittorio Taviani)
Actor: Fernando Rey (Elisa, My Life/Elisa, Vida Mia)
Actress: Shelley Duvall (Three Women); Monique Mercure (J. A. Martin Photographe)

1978

Palme d'Or: The Tree of Wooden Clogs/L'Albero degli Zoccoli (Ermanno Olmi)
Director: Nagisa Oshima (The Empire of Passion/Ai No Borei)
Actor: Jon Voight (Coming Home)
Actress: Jill Clayburgh (An Unmarried Woman); Isabelle Huppert (Violette/Violette Nozière)

1979

Palme d'Or: The Tin Drum/Die Blechtrommel (Volker Schlöndorff); Apocalypse Now (Francis Ford Coppola)
Director: Terrence Malick (Days of Heaven)
Actor: Jack Lemmon (The China Syndrome)
Actress: Sally Field (Norma Rae)

1980

Palme d'Or: Kagemusha (Akira Kurosawa); All That Jazz (Bob Fosse)
Actor: Michel Piccoli (Leap into the Void/Salto nel Vuoto)
Actress: Anouk Aimée (Leap into the Void/Salto nel Vuoto)

1981

Palme d'Or: Man of Iron/Czolowieck z Zelaza (Andrzej Wajda)
Actor: Ugo Tognazzi (Tragedy of a Ridiculous Man/La Tragedia di un Uomo Ridicolo)
Actress: Isabelle Adjani (Quartet; Possession)

1982

Palme d'Or: Missing (Costa-Gavras); Yol (Yilmaz Güney, Serif Gören)
Director: Werner Herzog (Fitzcarraldo)
Actor: Jack Lemmon (Missing)
Actress: Jadwiga Jankowska-Cieslak (Another Way/Egymásra Nézve)

1983

Palme d'Or: The Ballad of Narayama/Narayama Bushi Ko (Shohei Imamura)
Actor: Gian Maria Volonte (The Death of Mario Ricci/La Mort de Mario Ricci)
Actress: Hanna Schygulla (Story of Piera/Storia di Piera)

1984
Palme d'Or: Paris, Texas (Wim Wenders)
Director: Bertrand Tavernier (A Sunday in the Country (Un Dimanche à la Campagne))
Actor: Alfredo Landa, Francisco Rabal (The Holy Innocents/Los Santos Innocentes)
Actress: Helen Mirren (Cal)

1985
Palme d'Or: When Father Was Away on Business/Otak Na Sluzbenom Putu (Emir Kusturica)
Director: André Téchiné (Rendezvous)
Actor: William Hurt (Kiss of the Spider Woman)
Actress: Cher (Mask); Norma Aleandro (The Official Story/La Historia Oficial)

1986
Palme d'Or: The Mission (Roland Joffe)
Director: Martin Scorsese (After Hours)
Actor: Michel Blanc (Menage (Tenue de Soirée)); Bob Hoskins (Mona Lisa)
Actress: Barbara Sukowa (Rosa Luxemburg); Fernanda Torres (I Love You/Eu Sei Que Vou Te Amar)

1987
Palme d'Or: Under Satan's Sun/Sous le Soleil de Satan (Maurice Pialat)
Director: Wim Wenders (Wings of Desire/Der Himmel über Berlin)
Actor: Marcello Mastroianni (Dark Eyes/Ocie Ciornie)
Actress: Barbara Hershey (Shy People)

1988
Palme d'Or: Pelle the Conqueror/Pell Erobreren (Bille August)
Director: Fernando E. Solanas (South/Sur)
Actor: Forest Whitaker (Bird)
Actress: Barbara Hershey, Johdi May, Linda Mvusi (A World Apart)

1989
Palme d'Or: sex, lies and videotape (Steven Soderbergh)
Director: Emir Kusturica (The Time of the Gypsies)
Actor: James Spader (sex, lies and videotape)
Actress: Meryl Streep (A Cry in the Dark, aka Evil Angels)

1990
Palme d'Or: Wild at Heart (David Lynch)
Director: Pavel Lounguine (Taxi Blues)
Actor: Gérard Depardieu (Cyrano de Bergerac)
Actress: Krystyna Janda (Interrogation/Przesluchanie)

1991
Palme d'Or: Barton Fink (Joel and Ethan Coen)
Director: Joel Coen (Barton Fink)
Actor: John Turturro (Barton Fink)
Actress: Irene Jacob (The Double Life of Veronique/La Double Vie de Véronique)

1992
Palme d'Or: Best Intentions (Den Goda Vilijan) (Bille August)
Director: Robert Altman (The Player)
Actor: Tim Robbins (The Player)
Actress: Pernilla August (Best Intentions/Den Goda Vilijan)

1993
Palme d'Or: Farewell My Concubine (Chen Kaige); The Piano (Jane Campion)
Director: Mike Leigh (Naked)
Actor: David Thewlis (Naked)
Actress: Holly Hunter (The Piano)

1994
Palme d'Or: Pulp Fiction (Quentin Tarantino)
Director: Nanni Moretti (Dear Diary)
Actor: Ge You (To Live)
Actress: Virna Lisi (Queen Margaret/La Reine Margot)

1995
Palme d'Or: Underground (Emir Kusturica)
Director: Mathieu Kassovitz (La Haine)
Actor: Jonathan Pryce (Carrington)
Actress: Helen Mirren (The Madness of King George)

1996
Palme d'Or: Secrets and Lies (Mike Leigh)
Director: Joel Coen (Fargo)
Actor: Daniel Auteuil, Pascal Duquenne (The Eighth Day)
Actress: Brenda Blethyn (Secrets and Lies)

1997
Palme d'Or: The Eel (Shohei Imamura); The Taste of Cherries (Abbas Kiorostami)
Director: Wong Kar-Wai (Happy Together)
Actor: Sean Penn (She's So Lovely)
Actress: Kathy Burke (Nil by Mouth)

1998
Palme d'Or: Eternity and a Day (Theo Angelopoulos)
Director: John Boorman (The General)
Actor: Peter Mullen (My Name Is Joe)
Actress: Élodie Bouchez, Natacha Régnier (Dream Life of Angels/Vie Rêve des Anges)

1999
Palme d'Or: Rosetta (Jean-Pierre Dardenne, Luc Dardenne)
Director: Pedro Almodóvar (All About My Mother)
Actor: Emil Schotté (L'Humanité)
Actress: Séverine Caneele (L'Humanité), Emilie Dequenne (Rosetta)

2000
Palme d'Or: Dancer in the Dark (Lars von Trier)
Director: Edward Yang (A One and a Two/Yi yi)
Actor: Tony Leung Chiu Wai (In the Mood for Love)
Actress: Björk (Dancer in the Dark)

2001
Palme d'Or: The Son's Room (Nanni Moretti)
Director: Joel Coen (The Man Who Wasn't There); David Lynch (Mulholland Drive)
Actor: Benoit Magimel (The Piano Teacher/La Pianiste)
Actress: Actress Isabel Huppert (The Piano Teacher/La Pianiste)

2002
Palme d'Or: The Pianist (Roman Polanski)
Director: Im Kwon-taek (Strokes of Fire/Chi-hwa-seon); Paul Thomas Anderson (Punch-Drunk Love)
Actor: Olivier Gourmet (The Son/Le Fils)
Actress: Mies Vailla Menneisyyttä (Kati Outinen)

2003
Palme d'Or: Elephant (Gus Van Sant)
Director: Gus Van Sant (Elephant)
Actor: Muzaffer Ozdemir, Emin Toprak (Uzak)
Actress: Marie-Josee Croze (The Barbarian Invasions/Les Invasions Barbares)

2004
Palme d'Or: Fahrenheit 9/11 (Michael Moore)
Director: Tony Gatlif (Exils)
Actor: Yuga Yagira (Dare Mo Shiranai)
Actress: Maggie Cheung (Clean)

2005
Palme d'Or: L'Enfant (Jean-Pierre and Luc Dardenne)
Director: Michael Haneke (Hidden/Cache)
Actor: Tommy Lee Jones (The Three Burials of Melquiades Estrada)
Actress: Hana Laszlo (Free Zone)

Books
Hollywood on the Riviera: The Inside Story of the Cannes Film Festival, Cari Beauchamp and Henri Béhar (1992)
Hype and Glory, William Goldman (Macdonald, 1990)

GOLDEN BEAR AWARDS

The Berlin Film Festival began in 1951. Its main prize is the Golden Bear for best feature, which was inaugurated in 1956. The Golden Bear winners are:

1956
Invitation to the Dance (Gene Kelly)

1957
Twelve Angry Men (Sidney Lumet)

1958
Wild Strawberries/Smultonstället (Ingmar Bergman)

1959
The Cousins/Les Cousins (Claude Chabrol)

1960
Lazarillo/El Lazarillo de Tormes (Cesar Ardavin)

1961
The Night/La Notte (Michelangelo Antonioni)

1962
A Kind of Loving (John Schlesinger)

1963
Bushido/Bushido Zankoku Monogatari (Tadashi Imai); The Devil/Il Diavolo (US: To Bed ... Or Not to Bed) (Gian Luigi Polidoro)

1964
Dry Summer aka I Had My Brother's Wife/Süsuz Yaz (Ismail Metin)

1965
Alphaville (Jean-Luc Godard)

1966
Cul-de-Sac (Roman Polanski)

1967
Le Départ (Jerzy Skolimowski)

1968
Ole Dole Doff (Jan Troell)

1969
Early Years/Rani Radovi (Zelimir Zilnik)

1970
No prize awarded

1971
The Garden of the Finzi Contini (Vittorio de Sica)

1972
The Canterbury Tales (Pier Paolo Pasolini)

1973
Distant Thunder (Satyajit Ray)

1974
The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz (Ted Kotcheff)

1975
Adoption/Orökbefogadás (Márta Mészáros)

1976
Buffalo Bill and the Indians (Robert Altman)

1977
The Ascent/Voskhozhdenie (Larisa Sheptiko)

1978
The Trout/Las Truchas (José Luis Garcia Sánchez); The Words of Max/Las Palabras de Max (Emilio Martinez-Lazaro)

1979
David (Peter Lilienthal)

1980
Heartland (Richard Pearce); Palermo Oder Wolfsberg (Werner Schroeter)

1981
Fast, Fast/Depiesa, Deprisa (Carlos Saura)

1982
Veronika Voss/Die Sehnsucht der Veronica Voss (Rainer Werner Fassbinder)

1983
Ascendancy (Edward Bennett); The Beehive/La Colmena (Mario Camus)

1984
Love Streams (John Cassavetes)

1985
Wetherby (David Hare); The Woman and the Stranger/Die Frau und Der Fremde (Rainer Simon)

1986
Stammheim (Reinhard Hauff)

1987
The Theme/Thema (Gleb Panfilov)

1988
Red Sorghum/Hong Gao Liang (Zhang Yimou)

1989
Rain Man (Barry Levinson)

1990
Music Box (Costa-Gavras); Larks on a String (Jiri Menzel)

1991
House of Smiles (Marco Ferreri)

1992
Grand Canyon (Lawrence Kasdan)

1993
The Woman from the Lake of Scented Souls/Xiang Hun N (Xei Fei); The Wedding Banquet/Xiyan (Ang Lee)

1994
In The Name of the Father (Jim Sheridan)

1995
Fresh Bait/L'Appat (Bertrand Tavernier)

1996
Sense and Sensibility (Ang Lee)

1997
The People vs Larry Flynt (Milos Forman)

1998
Central Station (Walter Salles)

1999
The Thin Red Line (Terence Malick)

2000
Magnolia (Paul Thomas Anderson)

2001
Intimacy (Patrice Chéreau)

2002
Bloody Sunday (Paul Greengrass); Spirited Away/Sen To Chihiro No Kamikakushi (Hayao Miyazaki)

2003
In This World (Michael Winterbottom)

2004
Head-On/Gegen die Wand (Fatih Akin)

2005
U-Carmen e-Khayelitsha (Mark Dornford-May)

GOLDEN LION AWARDS

The Venice Film Festival, held every September, began in 1934, was suspended in 1942, and started again in 1946. Its main award is the Golden Lion of St Mark, which since 1980 has been given to the best feature film. The Golden Lion winners are:

1980
Gloria (John Cassavetes); Atlantic City (Louis Malle)

1981
The German Sisters/Die Bleierne Zeit (Margarethe Von Trotta)

1982
The State of Things (Wim Wenders)

1983
First Name Carmen Prénom: Carmen (Jean-Luc Godard)

1984
The Year of the Quiet Sun/Rok Spokojnego Slonca (Krzysztof Zanussi)

1985
Vagabonde/aka Sans Toit Ni Loi (Agnès Varda)

1986
The Green Ray US: Summer/Le Rayon Vert (Eric Rohmer)

1987
Au Revoir les Enfants (Louis Malle)

1988
The Legend of the Holy Drinker/La Leggenda del Santo Bevitore (Ermanno Olmi)

1989
A City of Sadness/Beiqing Chengshi (Hou Hsiao-hsien)

1990
Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead (Tom Stoppard)

1991
Urga (Nikita Mikhalkov)

1992
The Story of Qiu Ju/Qiu Ju de Guansi (Yang Zimou)

1993
Short Cuts (Robert Altman); Three Colours: Blue/Trois Couleurs: Bleu (Krzysztof Kiéslowski)

1994
Before the Rain (Milcho Manchevski); Vive l'Amour/Aiqing Wansui (Tsai Ming-liang)

1995
Cyclo (Tran Anh Hung)

1996
Michael Collins (Neil Jordan)

1997
Fireworks/Hana-Bi (Takeshi Kitano)

1998
They All Laughed/Cosi Ridevano (Gianni Amelio)

1999
Not One Less/Yi Ge Dou Bu Neng Shao (Zhang Yimou)

2000
The Circle/Dayereh (Jafar Panahi)

2001
Monsoon Wedding (Mira Nair)

2002
The Magdalene Sisters (Peter Mullan)

2003
The Return/Vozvrashcheniye (Andrei Zvyagintsev)

2004
Vera Drake (Mike Leigh)

2005
Brokeback Mountain (Ang Lee)

EUROPEAN FILM AWARDS

The European Film Awards, known until 1997 as Felixes, were inaugurated in 1988. The European Film Academy announced in 1995 that it would no longer administer the award, partly because of financial problems, but also because it was impossible 'to put a single name on something as multifaceted and complicated as European cinema.' However, after a rethink and new sources of finance, the awards are continuing, though they were privatized from 1997. The main prizewinners were:

1988
Film: A Short Film about Killing (Krzysztof Kiéslowski)
Director: Wim Wenders (Wings of Desire)
Actor: Max Von Sydow (Pelle the Conqueror)
Actress: Carmen Maura (Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown)
Supporting Actor: Curt Bois (Wings of Desire)
Supporting Actress: Johnna Ter Steege (The Vanishing)
Screenplay: Louis Malle (Au Revoir, les Enfants)

1989
Film: Landscape in the Mist (Theo Angelopoulos)
Director: Géza Bereményi (The Midas Touch)
Actor: Philippe Noiret (Life and Nothing But; Cinema Paradiso)
Actress: Ruth Sheen (High Hopes)
Supporting Performance: Edna Doré (High Hopes) Screenplay: Maria Khmelik (Little Vera)

1990
Film: Open Doors (Porte Aperte) (Gianni Amelio)
Actor: Kenneth Branagh (Henry V)
Actress: Carmen Maura (Ay! Carmela)
Supporting Actor: Dimitri Pevsov (Mother (Matj))
Supporting Actress: Malin Ek (The Guardian Angel (Skyddsanglen))
Screenplay: Vitaly Kanevsky (Don't Move, Die and Rise Again (Zamri Umi Voskresni))

1991
Film: Riff-Raff (Ken Loach)
Actor: Michel Bouquet (Toto le Héros)
Actress: Clotilde Courau (Le Petit Criminel)
Supporting Actor: Ricky Memphis (Ultrè)
Supporting Actress: Marta Keler (Virginia)
Screenplay: Jaco Van Dormael (Toto le Héros)

1992
Film: Il Ladro di Bambini (Gianni Amelio)
Actor: Matti Pellonpää (La Vie de Bohème)
Actress: Juliette Binoche (Les Amants du Pont-Neuf)
Supporting Actor: André Wilms (La Vie de Bohème)
Supporting Actress: Ghita Norby (Freud Flyttar Hemifran)
Screenplay: István Szabó (Edes Emma, Draga Böbe)

1993
Film: Urga (Nikita Mikhalkov)
Actor: Daniel Auteuil (Un Coeur en Hiver)
Actress: Maia Morgenstern (Balanta)

1994
Film: Lamerica (Gianni Amelio)
Lifetime achievement: Robert Bresson

1995
Film: Land and Freedom (Ken Loach)

1996
Film: Breaking the Waves (Lars von Trier)
Young Film: Some Mother's Son (Terry George)
Actress: Emily Watson (Breaking the Waves)
Actor: Ian McKellen (Richard III)
Screenwriter: Arief Aliev, Sergai Bodrov, Boris Giler (The Prisoner of the Mountains)

1997
Film: The Full Monty (Peter Cattaneo)
Actor: Bob Hoskins (TwentyFourSeven)
Actress: Juliette Binoche (The English Patient)
Screenwriter: Chris Vander Stappen, Alain Berline (Ma Vie en Rose)

1998
Film: Life Is Beautiful (Roberto Begnini)
Actor: Roberto Begnini (Life Is Beautiful)
Actress: Élodie Bouchez, Natacha Régnier (Dream Life of Angels/Vie Rêve des Anges)
Screenwriter: Peter Howitt (Sliding Doors)
Cinematographer: Adrian Biddle (The Butcher Boy)
Oustanding European Achievement in World Cinema: Stellan Skarsgard (Amistad, Good Will Hunting)
European Discovery: Thomas Vinterberg (Festen); Erick Zonca (The Dream Life of Angels / La Vie Revee des Anges)
Special Achievement: Jeremy Irons
Audience Awards: actor: Antonio Banderas (Mask of Zorro); actress: Kate Winslet (Titanic); director: Roland Emmerich (Godzilla)

1999
Film: All About My Mother (Pedro Almodóvar)
Actor: Ralph Fiennes (Sunshine)
Actress: Cecilia Roth (All About My Mother)
Screenwriter: Istvan Szabo (Sunshine)
Cinematographer: Lajos Koltai (The Legend of 1900/La Leggenda Del Pianista Sull'Oceano; Sunshine)
Oustanding European Achievement in World Cinema: Antonio Banderas (Crazy in Alabama); Roman Polanski (The Ninth Gate)
European Discovery: Tim Roth (The War Zone)
Audience Awards: actor: Sean Connery (Entrapment); actress Catherine Zeta-Jones (Entrapment); director: Pedro Almodóvar (All About My Mother)
Lifetime Achievement: Ennio Morricone

2000
Film: Dancer in the Dark (Lars von Trier)
Actor: Sergi López (Harry, He's Here to Help/Harry, Un Ami Qui Vous Vent Du Bien)
Actress: Björk (Dancer in the Dark)
Screenwriter: Agnès Jaoui, Jean-Pierre Bacri (It Takes All Kinds/Le Goût Des Autres)
Cinematographer: Vittorio Storaro (Goya in Bodeaux/Goya En Burdeos)
Oustanding European Achievement in World Cinema: Roberto Benigni; Jean Réno
European Discovery: Laurent Cantet (Human Resources/Ressources Humaines)
Audience Awards: actor: Ingvar Eggert Sigurdsson (Angels of the Universe/Englar Alheimsins); actress: Björk (Dancer in the Dark); director: Lars von Trier (Dancer in the Dark) Lifetime Achievement: Richard Harris

2001
Film: Le Fabuleux Destin d'Amélie Poulain (Jean-Pierre Jeunet)
Director: Jean-Pierre Jeunet (Le Fabuleux Destin d'Amélie Poulain)
Actor: Ben Kingsley (Sexy Beast)
Actress: Isabelle Huppert (The Piano Teacher/La Pianiste)
Screenwriter: Danis Tanovic (No Man's Land)
Cinematographer: Bruno Delbonnel (Le Fabuleux Destin d'Amélie Poulain)
Oustanding European Achievement in World Cinema: Ewan McGregor
European Discovery: Achero Mañas (El Bola)
Audience Awards: actor: Colin Firth (Bridget Jones's Diary); actress: Juliette Binoche (Chocolat); director: Jean-Pierre Jeunet (Le Fabuleux Destin d'Amélie Poulain); Lifetime Achievement: Monty Python

2002
Film: Talk with Her/Hable Con Ella (Pedro Almodóvar)
Director: Pedro Almodóvar (Talk with Her/Hable Con Ella)
Actor: Sergio Castellitto (Bella Martha)
Actress: Catherine Deneuve, Isabelle Huppert, Emmanuelle Béart, Fanny Ardant, Virginie Ledoyen, Danielle Darrieux, Ludivine Sagnier, Firmine Richard (8 Women/8 Femmes)
Screenwriter: Pedro Almodóvar (Talk with Her/Hable Con Ella)
Cinematographer: Pawel Edelman (The Pianist)
Oustanding European Achievement in World Cinema: Victoria Abril
European Discovery: György Pálfi (Hukkle)
Audience Awards: actor: Javier Cámara (Talk with Her/Hable Con Ella); actress: Kate Winslet (Iris); director: Pedro Almodóvar (Talk with Her/Hable Con Ella) Lifetime Achievement: Tonino Guerra

2003
Film: Good Bye Lenin! (Stefan Arndt)
Director: Lars von Trier (Dogville)
Actor: Daniel Bruhl (Good Bye Lenin!)
Actress: Charlotte Rampling (Swimming Pool)
Screenwriter: Bernd Lichtenberg (Good Bye Lenin)
Cinematographer: Anthony Dod Mantle (Dogville)
Oustanding European Achievement in World Cinema:
European Discovery: The Return/Vozvrashcheniye (Andrie Zvagintsev)
Audience Awards: actor: Daniel Bruhl (Good Bye Lenin!); actress: Katrin Sass (Good Bye Lenin!) director: Wolfgang Becker (Good Bye Lenin!) Lifetime Achievement: Claude Chabrol

2004
Film: Head-On/Gegen die Wand (Fatih Akin)
Director: Alejandro Amenabar (The Sea Inside/Mar Adentro)
Actor: Javier Nardem (The Sea Inside/Mar Adentro)
Actress: Imelda Staunton (Vera Drake)
Screenwriter: Agnes Jaoui, Jean-Pierre Backri (Look at Me/Comme un Image)
Cinematographer: Eduardo Serra (Girl with a Pearl Earring)
Composer: Bruno Coulais (Les Choristes)
Oustanding European Achievement in World Cinema: Liv Ulmann
European Discovery: A Children's Story/Certi Bambini (Andrea Frazzi, Antonio Frazzi)
Audience Awards: actor: Daniel Bruhl (Love in Thoughts/Was Nützt die Liebe in Gedanken); actress: Penelope Cruz (Don't Move/Non ti Mouvere); director: Fatih Akin (Head-On/Gegen die Wand) Lifetime Achievement: Carlos Saura

2005
Film: Hidden/Cache (Michael Haneke)
Director: Michael Haneke (Hidden/Cache)
Actor: Daniel Auteuil (Hidden/Cache)
Actress: Julia Jentsch (Sophie Scholl: The Final Days/Sophie Scholl: Die Letzten Tage)
Screenwriter: Hany Abu-Assad, Bero Beyer (Paradise Now)
Cinematographer: Franz Lustig (Don't Come Knocking)
Composer: Ripert Gregson-Williams, Andrea Guerra (Hotel Rwanda)
Editor: Michael Hudecek, Nadine Muse (Hidden/Cache)
Production Designer: Aline Bonetto (A Very Long Engagement/Un Long Deimanche de Fiancailles)
Oustanding European Achievement in World Cinema: Maurice Jarre
European Discovery: Anklaget (Jacob Thuesen)
Audience Awards: actor: Orlando Bloom (Kingdom of Heaven); actress: Julia Jentsch (Sophie Scholl: The Final Days/Sophie Scholl: Die Letzten Tage) director: Marc Rothemund (Sophie Scholl: The Final Days/Sophie Scholl: Die Letzten Tage)
Lifetime Achievement: Sean Connery

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CINEMATOGRAPHERS' ANNUAL AWARDS

This professional association gives an award for the best cinematography of the year. Its winners are:

1986	Jordan Cronenweth (Peggy Sue Got Married)
1987	Allen Daviau (Empire of the Sun)
1988	Conrad L. Hall (Tequila Sunrise)
1989	Haskell Wexler (Blaze)
1990	Dean Semler (Dances with Wolves)
1991	Allen Daviau (Bugsy)
1992	Stephen H. Burum (Hoffa)
1993	Conrad L. Hall (Searching for Bobby Fischer)
1994	Roger Deakins (The Shawshank Redemption)
1995	John Toll (Braveheart)
1996	John Seale (The English Patient)
1997	Russell Carpenter (Titanic)
1998	John Toll (The Thin Red Line)
1999	Conrad L. Hall (American Beauty)
2000	Caleb Deschanel (The Patriot)
2001	Roger Deakins (The Man Who Wasn't There)
2002	Conrad L. Hall (Road to Perdition)
2003	John Schwartzman (Seabiscuit)
2004	Bruno Delbonnel (A Very Long Engagement/Un Long Dimanche de Fiancailles)

THE DIRECTORS GUILD OF AMERICA AWARDS

The National Union of Directors presents annual awards for feature film direction, which also usually provide an indication of the likely Oscar winner for best direction. Its winners are:

1948	Joseph Mankiewicz (A Letter to Three Wives)
1949	Robert Rossen (All the King's Men)
1950	Joseph Mankiewicz (All About Eve)
1951	George Stevens (A Place in the Sun)
1952	John Ford (The Quiet Man)
1953	Fred Zinnemann (From Here to Eternity)
1954	Elia Kazan (On the Waterfront)
1955	Delbert Mann (Marty)
1956	George Stevens (Giant)
1957	David Lean (Bridge on the River Kwai)
1958	Vincente Minnelli (Gigi)
1959	William Wyler (Ben-Hur)
1960	Billy Wilder (The Apartment)
1961	Robert Wise, Jerome Robbins (West Side Story)
1962	David Lean (Lawrence of Arabia)
1963	Tony Richardson (Tom Jones)
1964	George Cukor (My Fair Lady)
1965	Robert Wise (The Sound of Music)
1966	Fred Zinnemann (A Man for All Seasons)
1967	Mike Nichols (The Graduate)
1968	Anthony Harvey (The Lion in Winter)
1969	John Schlesinger (Midnight Cowboy)
1970	Franklin J. Schaffner (Patton)
1971	William Friedkin (The French Connection)
1972	Francis Ford Coppola (The Godfather)
1973	George Roy Hill (The Sting)
1974	Francis Ford Coppola (The Godfather, Part II)
1975	Milos Forman (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
1976	John G. Avildsen (Rocky)
1977	Woody Allen (Annie Hall)
1978	Michael Cimino (The Deer Hunter)
1979	Robert Benton (Kramer vs Kramer)
1980	Robert Redford (Ordinary People)
1981	Warren Beatty (Reds)
1982	Richard Attenborough (Gandhi)
1983	James L. Brooks (Terms of Endearment)
1984	Milos Forman (Amadeus)
1985	Steven Spielberg (The Color Purple)
1986	Oliver Stone (Platoon)
1987	Bernardo Bertolucci (The Last Emperor)
1988	Barry Levinson (Rain Man)
1989	Oliver Stone (Born on the Fourth of July)
1990	Kevin Costner (Dances with Wolves)
1991	Jonathan Demme (Silence of the Lambs)
1992	Clint Eastwood (Unforgiven)
1993	Steven Spielberg (Schindler's List)
1994	Robert Zemeckis (Forrest Gump)
1995	Ron Howard (Apollo 13)
1996	Anthony Minghella (The English Patient)
1997	James Cameron (Titanic)
1998	Steven Spielberg (Saving Private Ryan)
1999	Sam Mendes (American Beauty)
2000	Ang Lee (Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon)
2001	Ron Howard (A Beautiful Mind)
2002	Rob Marshall (Chicago)
2003	Peter Jackson (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
2004	Clint Eastwood (Million Dollar Baby)
2005	Ang Lee (Brokeback Mountain)

LONDON CRITICS' CIRCLE AWARDS (ALFS)

The Critics' Circle was founded in 1913. The Film

Critics' Circle, based in London, has more than 80 members, and began presenting awards, known as ALFS (Awards of the London Film Critics' Circle), in 1980. Its prizes include the Dilys Powell Award for lifetime achievement. Until 1991, there was no separate award for actress of the year; the term 'actor' applied to men and women.

1980
Film: Apocalypse Now (Francis Ford Coppola)
Foreign Film: Agni Vera (Pal Gabor); The Marriage of Maria Braun (Rainer Werner Fassbinder)
Director: Nicolas Roeg (Bad Timing)
Screenwriter: Steve Tesich (Breaking Away)
Special Award: Gillian Armstrong (My Brilliant Career); Peter Sellers (Being There)

1981
Film: Chariots of Fire (Hugh Hudson)
Foreign Film: Man of Iron (Andrzej Wajda)
Director: Andrzej Wajda (Man of Iron)
Screenwriter: Colin Welland (Chariots of Fire)
Special Award: Freddie Francis (The Elephant Man); Bill Forsyth (Gregory's Girl; That Sinking Feeling)

1982
Film: Missing (Costa-Gavras)
Foreign Film: Mephisto (Istvan Szabo)
Director: Costa-Gavras (Missing)
Screenwriter: Costa-Gavras, Donald Stewart (Missing)
Special Award: David Puttnam; Lawrence Paull, Douglas Trumbull, Syd Mean (Blade Runner)

1983
Film: King of Comedy (Martin Scorsese)
Foreign Film: Yol (Serif Goren)
Director: Andrzej Wajda (Danton)
Actor: Ben Kingsley (Gandhi)
Screenwriter: Ruth Prawer Jhabvala (Heat and Dust)
Special Award: Artifical Eye; Jonathan Hodgson (Night Club)

1984
Film: Paris, Texas (Wim Wenders)
Foreign Film: A Sunday in the Country (Bertrand Tavernier)
Director: Neil Jordan (The Company of Wolves)
Actor: Albert Finney (Under the Volcano); Harry Dean Stanton (Paris, Texas)
Screenwriter: Philip Kaufman (The Right Stuff)
Special Award: Iain McCall (animation: Christmas for Sale)

1985
Film: The Purple Rose of Cairo (Woody Allen)
Foreign Film: Heimat (Edgar Reitz)
Director: Roland Joffe (The Killing Fields)
Actor: Richard Farnsworth (The Grey Fox); James Mason (The Shooting Party)
Screenwriter: Alan Bennett (A Private Function)
Special Award: Palace Pictures

1986
Film: A Room with a View (James Ivory)
Foreign Film: Ran (Akira Kurosawa)
Director: Akira Kurosawa (Ran)
Actor: Bob Hoskins (Mona Lisa); William Hurt (Kiss of the Spider Woman)
Screenwriter: Woody Allen (Hannah and Her Sisters)
Special Award: Lillian Gish; Alexandre Trauner; John Barry (Out of Africa)

1987
Film: Hope and Glory (John Boorman)
Foreign Film: Jean de Florette (Claude Berri)
Director: Stanley Kubrick (Full Metal Jacket)
Actor: Sean Connery (The Untouchables); Gary Oldman (Prick Up Your Ears)
Screenwriter: Alan Bennett (Prick Up Your Ears)
Special Award: Pinewood Studios; Tommie Manderson (make-up); David Rose; Ennio Morricone

1988
Film: House of Games (David Mamet)
Foreign Film: Babette's Feast (Gabriel Axel)
Director: John Huston (The Dead)
Actor: Leo McKern (Travelling North); Stéphane Audran (Babette's Feast)
Screenwriter: David Mamet (House of Games)
Special Award: Leslie Halliwell; Leslie Hardcastle, David Francis (Museum of Moving Image); Dilys Powell; Miklos Rozsa

1989
Film: Distant Voices, Still Lives (Terence Davies)
Foreign Film: Au Revoir, les Enfants (Louis Malle)
Director: Terence Davies (Distant Voices, Still Lives)
Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis (My Left Foot)
Screenwriter: Christopher Hampton (Dangerous Liaisons)
Special Award: Alec Guinness, Charles Crichton; Artifical Eye

1990
Film: Crimes and Misdemeanors (Woody Allen)
Foreign Film: Cinema Paradiso (Giuseppe Tornatore)
Director: Woody Allen (Crimes and Misdemeanors)
Actor: Philippe Noiret (Cinema Paradiso)
Screenwriter: Woody Allen (Crimes and Misdemeanors)
Special Award: Penelope Houston

1991
Film: Thelma and Louise (Ridley Scott)
British Film: Life Is Sweet (Mike Leigh)
Foreign Film: Cyrano de Bergerac (Jean-Paul Rappeneau)
Director: Ridley Scott (Thelma and Louise)
British Director: Alan Parker (The Commitments)
Actor: Gérard Depardieu (Cyrano de Bergerac)
British Actor: Alan Rickman (Close My Eyes, Truly Madly Deeply, Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves, Quigley Down Under)
Actress: Susan Sarandon (Thelma and Louise, White Palace)
Screenwriter: David Mamet (Homicide)
British Screenwriter: Dick Clement, Ian La Frenais, Roddy Doyle (The Commitments)
British Producer: Lynda Myles, Roger Randall-Cutler (The Commitments)
British Technical Achievement: Peter Greenaway (Prospero's Books)
International Newcomer: Annette Bening (The Grifters, Guilty by Suspicion, Regarding Henry, Postcards from the Edge, Valmont)
Dilys Powell Award: Dirk Bogarde
Special Award: John Sayles

1992
Film: Unforgiven (Clint Eastwood)
British Film: Howards End (James Ivory)
Foreign Film: Raise the Red Lantern (Zhang Zimou)
Director: Robert Altman (The Player)
British Director: Neil Jordan (The Crying Game)
Actor: Robert Downey, Jnr (Chaplin)
British Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis (Last of the Mohicans)
Actress: Judy Davis (Husbands and Wives, Barton Fink, Naked Lunch)
Screenwriter: Michael Tolkin (The Player)
British Screenwriter: Neil Jordan (The Crying Game)
British Producer: Stephen Woolley (The Crying Game)
British Technical Achievement: Roger Deakins (Barton Fink)
International Newcomer: Baz Luhrmann (Strictly Ballroom)
British Newcomer: Peter Chelsom (Hear My Song)
Dilys Powell Award: Frederick Young
Special Award: Freddie Francis

1993
Film: The Piano (Jane Campion)
British Film: The Remains of the Day (James Ivory)
Foreign Film: Un Coeur en Hiver (Claude Sautet)
Director: James Ivory (The Remains of the Day)
British Director: Ken Loach (Raining Stones)
Actor: Anthony Hopkins (The Remains of the Day)
British Actor: David Thewlis (Naked)
Actress: Holly Hunter (The Piano)
British Actress: Miranda Richardson (Damage)
Screenwriter: Harold Ramis, Danny Rubin (Groundhog Day)
British Screenwriter: Roddy Doyle (The Snapper)
British Producer: Kenneth Branagh (Much Ado about Nothing)
British Technical Achievement: Ken Adam (Addams Family Values)
International Newcomer: Quentin Tarantino (Reservoir Dogs)
British Newcomer: Vadim Jean, Gary Sinyor (Leon, the Pig Farmer)
Dilys Powell Award: Christopher Lee
Special Award: Kate Maberly (The Secret Garden)

1994
Film: Schindler's List (Steven Spielberg)
British Film: Four Weddings and a Funeral (Mike Newell)
Foreign Film: Farewell My Concubine (Chen Kaige)
Director: Steven Spielberg (Schindler's List)
British Director: Mike Newell (Four Weddings and a Funeral)
Actor: John Travolta (Pulp Fiction)
British Actor: Ralph Fiennes (Schindler's List)
Actress: Linda Fiorentino (The Last Seduction)
British Actress: Crissy Rock (Ladybird Ladybird)
Screenwriter: Quentin Tarantino (Pulp Fiction)
British Screenwriter: Richard Curtis (Four Weddings and a Funeral)
British Producer: Duncan Kenworthy (Four Weddings and a Funeral)
British Technical Achievement: Roger Deakins (The Hudsucker Proxy)
International Newcomer: Jim Carrey (The Mask, Ace Ventura Pet Detective)
British Newcomer: Iain Softley (Backbeat)
Dilys Powell Award: Richard Attenborough
Special Award: Hugh Grant (Four Weddings and a Funeral); Barry Norman

1995
Film: Babe (Chris Noonan)
British Film: The Madness of King George (Nicholas Hytner)
Foreign Film: Il Postino (Michael Radford)
Director: Peter Jackson (Heavenly Creatures)
British Director: Michael Radford (Il Postino)
Actor: Johnny Depp (Ed Wood, Don Juan de Marco)
British Actor: Nigel Hawthorne (The Madness of King George) Actress: Nicole Kidman (To Die For)
British Actress: Kate Winslet (Heavenly Creatures)
Screenwriter: Paul Attanasio (Quiz Show, Disclosure)
British Screenwriter: Alan Bennett (The Madness of King George)
British Producer: Simon Fields, Peter Chelsom (Funny Bones)
British Technical Achievement: Ken Adam (The Madness of King George)
International Newcomer: Chris Noonan (Babe)
British Newcomer: Danny Boyle (Shallow Grave)
Dilys Powell Award: Wendy Hiller
Special Award: Peter Rogers; John Gielgud

1996
Film: Fargo (Joel Coen)
British Film: Secrets and Lies (Mike Leigh)
Foreign Film: Les Misérables (Claude Lelouch)
Director: Joel Coen (Fargo)
British Director: Mike Leigh (Secrets and Lies)
Actor: Morgan Freeman (Seven)
British Actor: Ewan McGregor (Trainspotting, Brassed Off, The Pillow Book, Emma)
Actress: Frances McDormand (Fargo)
British Actress: Brenda Blethyn (Secrets and Lies)
Screenwriter: Joel and Ethan Coen (Fargo)
British Screenwriter: Emma Thompson (Sense and Sensibility)
British Producer: Andrew Macdonald (Trainspotting)
British Newcomer: Emily Watson (Breaking the Waves)
Dilys Powell Award: John Mills
Special Award: Fred Zinnemann; Jack Cardiff; Norman Wisdom

1997
Film: LA Confidential (Curtis Hanson)
British Film: The Full Monty (Peter Cattaneo)
Foreign Film: Ridicule (Patrice Leconte)
Director: Curtis Hanson (LA Confidential)
British Director: Anthony Minghella (The English Patient)
Actor: Al Pacino (Donnie Brasco, Looking for Richard)
British Actor: Robert Carlyle (The Full Monty)
Actress: Claire Danes (William Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet)
British Actress: Judi Dench (Mrs Brown)
British Supporting Actress: Minnie Driver (Big Night, Grosse Pointe Blank, Sleepers)
Screenwriter: Brian Helgeland, Curtis Hanson (LA Confidential)
British Screenwriter: Simon Beaufoy (The Full Monty)
British Producer: Uberto Pasolini (The Full Monty)
British Newcomer: Peter Cattaneo (The Full Monty)
Dilys Powell Award: Michael Caine
Special Award: Woody Allen; Paul Scofield; Martin Scorsese; Kevin Spacey

1998
Film: Saving Private Ryan (Steven Spielberg)
British Film: Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels (Guy Ritchie)
Foreign Film: Shall We Dance? (Masayuki Suo)
Director: Peter Weir (The Truman Show)
British Director: John Boorman (The General)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (As Good as It Gets)
British Actor: Brendan Gleeson (The General)
British Supporting Actor: Nigel Hawthorne (The Object of My Affection)
Actress: Cate Blanchett (Elizabeth)
British Actress: Helena Bonham Carter (The Wings of the Dove)
British Supporting Actress: Minne Driver (Good Will Hunting); Kate Beckinsale (The Last Days of Disco)
Screenwriter: Andrew Niccol (The Truman Show, Gattaca)
British Screenwriter: Guy Ritchie (Lock Stock and Two Smoking Barrels)
British Producer: Alison Owen, Tim Bevan, Eric Fellner (Elizabeth)
British Newcomer: Peter Mullan (My Name Is Joe)
Dilys Powell Award: Albert Finney, John Hurt Lifetime Achievement: John Boorman, John Box

1999
Film: American Beauty (Sam Mendes)
British Film: East is East (Damien O'Donnell)
Foreign Film: All About My Mother (Pedro Almodóvar)
Director: Sam Mendes (American Beauty)
British Director: Lynne Ramsay (Ratcatcher)
Actor: Kevin Spacey (American Beauty)
British Actor: Jeremy Northam (Happy, Texas; An Ideal Husband; The Winslow Boy)
British Supporting Actor: Michael Caine (Little Voice)
Actress: Annette Bening (American Beauty)
British Actress: Emily Watson (Angela's Ashes, Hilary and Jackie)
British Supporting Actress: Lynn Redgrave (Gods and Monsters)
Screenwriter: Alan Ball (American Beauty)
British Screenwriter: Ayub Khan-Din (East is East)
British Producer: Leslie Udwin (East is East)
British Newcomer: Martha Fiennes (Onegin)
Dilys Powell Award: Mike Leigh

2000
Film: Being John Malkovich (Spike Jonze)
British Film: Billy Elliott (Stephen Daldry)
Foreign Film: Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon (Ang Lee)
Director: Stephen Daldry (Billy Elliott)
Actor: Russell Crowe (Gladiator, The Insider)
British Actor: Jim Broadbent (Topsy-Turvy)
British Supporting Actor: Albert Finney (Erin Brockovich)
Actress: Julia Roberts (Erin Brockovich)
British Actress: Julie Walters (Billy Elliott)
British Supporting Actress: Samantha Morton (Sweet and Lowdown)
Screenwriter: Charlie Kaufman (Being John Malkovich)
British Screenwriter: Christopher Nolan (Memento)
British Producer: Greg Brenman, Jonathan Finn (Billy Elliott)
British Newcomer: Jamie Bell (Billy Elliott)
Dilys Powell Award: Richard Harris

2001
Film: Moulin Rouge (Baz Luhrmann)
British Film: Gosford Park (Robert Altman)
Foreign Film: Le Fabuleux Destin d'Amélie Poulain
Director: Alejandro González Iñárritu (Amores Perros)
British Director: Gurinder Chadha (What's Cooking?)
Actor: Billy Bob Thornton (The Man Who Wasn't There)
British Actor: Ewan McGregor (Moulin Rouge)
British Supporting Actor: Paul Bettany (A Knight's Tale)
Actress: Nicole Kidman (Moulin Rouge, The Others)
British Actress: Judi Dench (Iris)
British Supporting Actress: Helen Mirren (Last Orders, Gosford Park)
Screenwriter: Ethan Coen, Joel Coen (The Man Who Wasn't There)
British Screenwriter: Helen Fielding, Andrew Davies, Richard Curtis (Bridget Jones's Diary)
British Newcomer: Colin Farrell (Tigerland)
Dilys Powell Award: Charlotte Rampling

2002
Film: About Schmidt (Alexander Payne)
British Film: All or Nothing (Mike Leigh)
Foreign Film: Y Tu Mama Tambien (Alfonso Cuaron)
Director: Philip Noyce (The Quiet American/Rabbit Proof Fence)
British Director: Christopher Nolan (Insomnia)

Actor: Michael Caine (The Quiet American)
British Actor: Hugh Grant (About a Boy)
British Supporting Actor: Kenneth Branagh (Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets)
Actress: Stockard Channing (The Business of Strangers)
British Actress: Lesley Manville (All or Nothing)
British Supporting Actress: Emily Watson (Red Dragon)
Screenwriter: Andrew Bovell (Lantana)
British Screenwriter: Steven Knight (Dirty Pretty Things)
British Newcomer: Keira Knightley (Bend It Like Beckham)
Dilys Powell Award: Lewis Gilbert

2003
Film: Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World (Peter Weir)
British Film: The Magdalene Sisters (Peter Mullan)
Foreign Film: Good Bye Lenin! (Wolfgang Becker)
Director: Clint Eastwood (Mystic River)
British Director: Peter Mullan (The Magdalene Sisters)
Actor: Sean Penn (Mystic River)
British Actor: Paul Bettany (Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World)
British Supporting Actor: Bill Nighy (Love Actually)
Actress: Julianne Moore (Far from Heaven)
British Actress: Anne Reid (The Mother)
British Supporting Actress: Emma Thompson (Love Actually)
Screenwriter: Peter Weir, John Collee (Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World)
British Screenwriter: David Hare (The Hours)
British Newcomer: David Mackenzie (Young Adam)

2004
Film: Sideways (Alexander Payne)
British Film: Vera Drake (Mike Leigh)
Foreign Film: Motorcycle Diaries/ Diarios de motocicleta (Walter Salles)
Director: Martin Scorsese (The Aviator)
British Director: Mike Leigh (Vera Drake)
Actor: Jamie Foxx (Ray)
British Actor: Daniel Craig (Enduring Love)
British Supporting Actor: Philip Davis (Vera Drake)
Actress: Imedla Staunton (Vera Drake)
British Actress: Kate Winslet (Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind); Eva Birthistle (Ae Fond Kiss)
British Supporting Actress: Romola Garai (Inside I'm Dancing)
Screenwriter: Charlie Kaufman (Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind)
British Screenwriter: Mike Leigh (Vera Drake)
British Newcomer: Nathalie Press (My Summer of Love)
Dilys Powell Award: Ken Loach

THE NATIONAL SOCIETY OF FILM CRITICS' AWARDS

Formed in 1966, this American organization comprises around 40 critics from publications across the United States. Their main awards are as follows:

1966
Film: Blow Up (Michelangelo Antonioni)
Director: Michelangelo Antonioni (Blow Up)
Actor: Michael Caine (Alfie)
Actress: Sylvie (The Shameless Old Lady)

1967
Film: Persona (Ingmar Bergman)
Director: Ingmar Bergman (Persona)
Actor: Rod Steiger (In the Heat of the Night)
Actress: Bibi Andersson (Persona)
Supporting Actor: Gene Hackman (Bonnie and Clyde)
Supporting Actress: Marjorie Rhodes (The Family Way)
Screenplay: David Newman, Robert Benton (Bonnie and Clyde)
Cinematography: Haskell Wexler (In the Heat of the Night)

1968
Film: Shame (Ingmar Bergman)
Director: Ingmar Bergman (Shame, Hour of the Wolf)
Actor: Per Oscarsson (Hunger)
Actress: Liv Ullmann (Shame)
Supporting Actor: Seymour Cassel (Faces)
Supporting Actress: Billie Whitelaw (Charlie Bubbles)
Screenplay: John Cassavetes (Faces)
Cinematography: William A. Fraker (Bullitt)

1969
Film: Z (Costa-Gavras)
Director: François Truffaut (Stolen Kisses)
Actor: Jon Voight (Midnight Cowboy)
Actress: Vanessa Redgrave (The Loves of Isadora)
Supporting Actor: Jack Nicholson (Easy Rider)
Supporting Actress: Sian Phillips (Goodbye, Mr Chips)
Screenplay: Paul Mazursky and Larry Tucker (Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice) Cinematography: Lucien Ballard (The Wild Bunch)

1970
Film: *M*A*S*H* (Robert Altman)
Director: Ingmar Bergman (The Passion of Anna)
Actor: George C. Scott (Patton)
Actress: Glenda Jackson (Women in Love)
Supporting Actor: Chief Dan George (Little Big Man)
Supporting Actress: Lois Smith (Five Easy Pieces)
Screenplay: Eric Rohmer (My Night at Maud's)
Cinematography: Nestor Almendros (The Wild Child, My Night at Maud's)

1971
Film: Claire's Knee (Eric Rohmer)
Director: Bernardo Bertolucci (The Conformist)
Actor: Peter Finch (Sunday, Bloody Sunday)
Actress: Jane Fonda (Klute)
Supporting Actor: Bruce Dern (Drive, He Said)
Supporting Actress: Ellen Burstyn (The Last Picture Show)
Screenplay: Penelope Gilliatt (Sunday, Bloody Sunday)
Cinematography: Vittorio Storaro (The Conformist)

1972
Film: The Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie (Luis Buñuel)
Director: Luis Buñuel (The Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie)
Actor: Al Pacino (The Godfather)
Actress: Cicely Tyson (Sounder)
Supporting Actor: Joel Grey (Cabaret); Eddie Albert (The Heartbreak Kid)
Supporting Actress: Jeannie Berlin (The Heartbreak Kid)
Screenplay: Ingmar Bergman (Cries and Whispers)
Cinematography: Sven Nykvist (Cries and Whispers)

1973
Film: Day for Night (François Truffaut)
Director: François Truffaut (Day for Night)
Actor: Marlon Brando (Last Tango in Paris)
Actress: Liv Ullmann (The New Land)
Supporting Actor: Robert De Niro (Mean Streets)
Supporting Actress: Valentina Cortese (Day for Night)
Screenplay: George Lucas, Gloria Katz, Willard Huyck (American Graffiti)
Cinematography: Vilmos Zsigmond (The Long Goodbye)

1974
Film: Scenes from a Marriage (Ingmar Bergman)
Director: Francis Ford Coppola (The Godfather, Part II, The Conversation)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (Chinatown, The Last Detail)
Actress: Liv Ullmann (Scenes from a Marriage)
Supporting Actor: Holger Löwenadler (Lacombe, Lucien)
Supporting Actress: Bibi Andersson (Scenes from a Marriage)
Screenplay: Ingmar Bergman (Scenes from a Marriage)
Cinematography: Gordon Willis (The Godfather, Part II, The Parallax View)
Special Award: Jean Renoir

1975
Film: Nashville (Robert Altman)
Director: Robert Altman (Nashville)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Actress: Isabelle Adjani (The Story of Adèle H)
Supporting Actor: Henry Gibson (Nashville)
Supporting Actress: Lily Tomlin (Nashville)
Screenplay: Robert Towne, Warren Beatty (Shampoo)
Cinematography: John Alcott (Barry Lyndon)
Special Award: Ingmar Bergman (The Magic Flute)

1976
Film: All the President's Men (Alan J. Pakula)
Director: Martin Scorsese (Taxi Driver)
Actor: Robert De Niro (Taxi Driver)
Actress: Sissy Spacek (Carrie)
Supporting Actor: Jason Robards (All the President's Men)
Supporting Actress: Jodie Foster (Taxi Driver)
Screenplay: Alan Tanner, John Berger (Jonah Who Will Be 25 in the Year 2000)
Cinematography: Haskell Wexler (Bound for Glory)

1977
Film: Annie Hall (Woody Allen)
Director: Luis Buñuel (That Obscure Object of Desire)
Actor: Art Carney (The Late Show)
Actress: Diane Keaton (Annie Hall)
Supporting Actor: Edward Fox (A Bridge Too Far)
Supporting Actress: Ann Wedgeworth (Handle with Care)
Screenplay: Woody Allen, Marshall Brickman (Annie Hall)
Cinematography: Thomas Mauch (Aguirre, Wrath of God)

1978
Film: Get Out Your Handkerchiefs (Bertrand Blier)
Director: Terrence Malick (Days of Heaven)
Actor: Gary Busey (The Buddy Holly Story)
Actress: Ingrid Bergman (Autumn Sonata)
Supporting Actor: Richard Farnsworth (Comes a Horseman); Robert Morley (Who Is Killing the Great Chefs of Europe?)
Supporting Actress: Meryl Streep (The Deer Hunter)
Screenplay: Paul Mazursky (An Unmarried Woman)
Cinematography: Nestor Almendros (Days of Heaven)

1979
Film: Breaking Away (Peter Yates)
Director: Robert Benton (Kramer vs Kramer); Woody Allen (Manhattan)
Actor: Dustin Hoffman (Kramer vs Kramer, Agatha)
Actress: Sally Field (Norma Rae)
Supporting Actor: Frederic Forrest (Apocalypse Now, The Rose)
Supporting Actress: Meryl Streep (Kramer vs Kramer, The Seduction of Joe Tynan, Manhattan)
Screenplay: Steve Tesich (Breaking Away)
Cinematography: Caleb Deschanel (Being There, The Black Stallion)

1980
Film: Melvin and Howard (Jonathan Demme)
Director: Martin Scorsese (Raging Bull)
Actor: Peter O'Toole (The Stunt Man)
Actress: Sissy Spacek (Coal Miner's Daughter)
Supporting Actor: Joe Pesci (Raging Bull)
Supporting Actress: Mary Steenburgen (Melvin and Howard)
Screenplay: Bo Goldman (Melvin and Howard)
Cinematography: Michael Chapman (Raging Bull)

1981
Film: Atlantic City (Louis Malle)
Director: Louis Malle (Atlantic City)
Actor: Burt Lancaster (Atlantic City)
Actress: Marilia Pera (Pixote)
Supporting Actor: Robert Preston (S.O.B.)
Supporting Actress: Maureen Stapleton (Reds)
Screenplay: John Guare (Atlantic City)
Cinematography: Gordon Willis (Pennies from Heaven)

1982
Film: Tootsie (Sydney Pollack)
Director: Steven Spielberg (E.T. – the Extra-Terrestrial)
Actor: Dustin Hoffman (Tootsie)
Actress: Meryl Streep (Sophie's Choice)
Supporting Actor: Mickey Rourke (Diner)
Supporting Actress: Jessica Lange (Tootsie)
Screenplay: Murray Schisgal, Larry Gelbart (Tootsie)
Cinematography: Philippe Rousselot (Diva)

1983
Film: The Night of the Shooting Stars (Paolo and Vittorio Taviani)
Director: Paolo and Vittorio Taviani (The Night of the Shooting Stars)
Actor: Gérard Depardieu (Danton, The Return of Martin Guerre)
Actress: Debra Winger (Terms of Endearment)
Supporting Actor: Jack Nicholson (Terms of Endearment)
Supporting Actress: Sandra Bernhard (King of Comedy)
Screenplay: Bill Forsyth (Local Hero)
Cinematography: Hiro Narita (Never Cry Wolf)

1984
Film: Stranger than Paradise (Jim Jarmusch)
Director: Robert Bresson (L'Argent)
Actor: Steve Martin (All of Me)
Actress: Vanessa Redgrave (The Bostonians)
Supporting Actor: John Malkovich (Places in the Heart, The Killing Fields)
Supporting Actress: Melanie Griffith (Body Double)
Screenplay: Babaloo Mandel, Lowell Ganz, Bruce Jay Friedman (Splash)
Cinematography: Chris Menges (Comfort and Joy, The Killing Fields)
Documentary: Stop Making Sense (Jonathan Demme)

1985
Film: Ran (Akira Kurosawa)
Director: John Huston (Prizzi's Honor)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (Prizzi's Honor)
Actress: Vanessa Redgrave (Wetherby)
Supporting Actor: John Gielgud (Plenty, The Shooting Party)
Supporting Actress: Anjelica Huston (Prizzi's Honor)
Screenplay: Albert Brooks, Monica Johnson (Lost in America)
Cinematography: Takao Saito (Ran)
Documentary: Shoah (Claude Lanzmann)

1986
Film: Blue Velvet (David Lynch)
Director: David Lynch (Blue Velvet)
Actor: Bob Hoskins (Mona Lisa)
Actress: Chloe Webb (Sid and Nancy)
Supporting Actor: Dennis Hopper (Blue Velvet)
Supporting Actress: Dianne Wiest (Hannah and Her Sisters)
Screenplay: Hanif Kureishi (My Beautiful Laundrette)
Cinematography: Frederic Elmes (Blue Velvet)
Documentary: Marlene (Maximilian Schell)

1987
Film: The Dead (John Huston)
Director: John Boorman (Hope and Glory)
Actor: Steve Martin (Roxanne)
Actress: Emily Lloyd (Wish You Were Here)
Supporting Actor: Morgan Freeman (Street Smart)
Supporting Actress: Kathy Baker (Street Smart)
Screenplay: John Boorman (Hope and Glory)
Cinematography: Philippe Rousselot (Hope and Glory)

1988
Film: The Unbearable Lightness of Being (Philip Kaufman) Director: Philip Kaufman (The Unbearable Lightness of Being)
Actor: Michael Keaton (Beetlejuice, Clean and Sober)
Actress: Judy Davis (High Tide)
Supporting Actor: Dean Stockwell (Married to the Mob, Tucker: The Man and His Dream)
Supporting Actress: Mercedes Ruehl (Married to the Mob)
Screenplay: Ron Shelton (Bull Durham)
Cinematography: Henri Alekan (Wings of Desire)
Documentary: The Thin Blue Line (Errol Morris)

1989
Film: Drugstore Cowboy (Gus Van Sant)
Director: Gus Van Sant (Drugstore Cowboy)
Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis (My Left Foot)
Actress: Michelle Pfeiffer (The Fabulous Baker Boys)
Supporting Actor: Beau Bridges (The Fabulous Baker Boys)
Supporting Actress: Anjelica Huston (Enemies: A Love Story)
Screenplay: Gus Van Sant, Daniel Yost (Drugstore Cowboy)
Cinematography: Michael Ballhaus (The Fabulous Baker Boys)
Documentary: Roger and Me (Michael Moore)

1990
Film: GoodFellas (Martin Scorsese)
Foreign Film: Ariel (Aki Kaurismaki)
Director: Martin Scorsese (GoodFellas)
Actor: Jeremy Irons (Reversal of Fortune)
Actress: Anjelica Huston (The Grifters, The Witches)
Supporting Actor: Bruce Davison (Longtime Companion)
Supporting Actress: Annette Bening (The Grifters)
Screenplay: Charles Burnett (To Sleep with Anger)

Cinematography: Peter Suschitzky (Where the Heart Is) Documentary: Berkeley in the Sixties (Mark Kitchell)

1991
Film: Life Is Sweet (Mike Leigh)
Foreign Film: The Double Life of Véronique (Krzysztof Kiéslowski)
Director: David Cronenberg (Naked Lunch)
Actor: River Phoenix (My Own Private Idaho)
Actress: Alison Steadman (Life Is Sweet)
Supporting Actor: Harvey Keitel (Bugsy, Thelma & Louise, Mortal Thoughts)
Supporting Actress: Jane Horrocks (Life Is Sweet)
Screenplay: David Cronenberg (Naked Lunch)
Cinematography: Roger Deakins (Barton Fink)
Experimental Film: Archangel (Guy Maddin)
Documentary: Paris Is Burning (Jennie Livingston)

1992
Film: Unforgiven (Clint Eastwood)
Foreign Film: Raise the Red Lantern (Zhang Yimou)
Director: Clint Eastwood (Unforgiven)
Actor: Stephen Rea (The Crying Game)
Actress: Emma Thompson (Howards End)
Supporting Actor: Gene Hackman (Unforgiven)
Supporting Actress: Judy Davis (Husbands and Wives)
Screenplay: David Webb Peoples (Unforgiven)
Cinematography: Zhao Fei (Raise the Red Lantern)
New Director: Allison Anders (Gas Food Lodging)
Documentary: American Dream (Barbara Kopple)

1993
Film: Schindler's List (Steven Spielberg)
Foreign Film: The Story of Qiu Ju (Zhang Yimou)
Director: Steven Spielberg (Schindler's List)
Actor: David Thewlis (Naked)
Actress: Holly Hunter (The Piano)
Supporting Actor: Ralph Fiennes (Schindler's List)
Supporting Actress: Madeleine Stowe (Short Cuts)
Screenplay: Jane Campion (The Piano)
Cinematography: Janusz Kaminski (Schindler's List)
Documentary: Visions of Light, the Art of Cinematography (Arnold Glassman, Todd McCarthy, Stuart Samuels)

1994
Film: Pulp Fiction (Quentin Tarantino)
Foreign Film: Red (Krzysztof Kiéslowski)
Director: Quentin Tarantino (Pulp Fiction)
Actor: Paul Newman (Nobody's Fool)
Actress: Jennifer Jason Leigh (Mrs Parker and the Vicious Circle)
Supporting Actor: Martin Landau (Ed Wood)
Supporting Actress: Dianne Wiest (Bullets over Broadway)
Screenplay: Quentin Tarantino (Pulp Fiction)
Cinematography: Stefan Czapsky (Ed Wood)
Documentary: Hoop Dreams (Steve James)

1995
Film: Babe (Chris Noonan)
Foreign Film: Wild Reeds (André Téchiné)
Director: Mike Figgis (Leaving Las Vegas)
Actor: Nicolas Cage (Leaving Las Vegas)
Actress: Elisabeth Shue (Leaving Las Vegas)
Supporting Actor: Don Cheadle (Devil in a Blue Dress)
Supporting Actress: Joan Allen (Nixon)
Screenplay: Amy Heckerling (Clueless)
Cinematography: Tak Fujimoto (Devil in a Blue Dress)
Documentary: Crumb (Terry Zwigoff)

1996
Film: Breaking the Waves (Lars Von Trier)
Foreign Film: La Cérémonie (Claude Chabrol)
Director: Lars Von Trier (Breaking the Waves)
Actor: Eddie Murphy (The Nutty Professor)
Actress: Emily Watson (Breaking the Waves)
Supporting Actor: Martin Donovan (The Portrait of a Lady); Tony Shalhoub (Big Night)
Supporting Actress: Barbara Hershey (The Portrait of a Lady)
Screenplay: Albert Brooks, Monica Johnson (Mother)
Cinematography: Robby Muller (Breaking the Waves, Dead Man)
Documentary: When We Were Kings (Leon Gast)

1997
Film: LA Confidential (Curtis Hanson)
Foreign Film: La Promesse (Jean-Pierre Dardenne, Luc Dardenne)
Director: Curtis Hanson (LA Confidential)
Actor: Robert Duvall (The Apostle)
Actress: Julie Christie (Afterglow)
Supporting Actor: Burt Reynolds (Boogie Nights)
Supporting Actress: Julianne Moore (Boogie Nights)
Screenplay: Brian Helgeland, Curtis Hanson (LA Confidential)
Cinematography: Roger Deakins (Kundun)
Documentary: Fast, Cheap & Out of Control (Errol Morris)

1998
Film: Out of Sight (Steven Soderbergh)
Foreign Film: Taste of Cherry (Abbas Kiarostami)
Director: Steven Soderbergh (Out of Sight)
Actor: Nick Nolte (Affliction)
Actress: Ally Sheedy (High Art)
Supporting Actor: Bill Murray (Rushmore)
Supporting Actress: Judi Dench (Shakespeare in Love)
Screenplay: Scott Frank (Out of Sight)
Cinematography: John Toll (The Thin Red Line)
Documentary: The Farm: Angola USA (Liz Garbus, Jonathan Stack)

1999
Film: Being John Malkovich (Spike Jonze); Topsy-Turvy (Mike Leigh)
Foreign Film: Conte D'Automne (Eric Rohmer)
Director: Mike Leigh (Topsy-Turvy)
Actor: Russell Crowe (The Insider)
Actress: Reese Witherspoon (Election)
Supporting Actor: Christopher Plummer (The Insider)
Supporting Actress: Chloe Sevigny (Boys Don't Cry)
Screenplay: Charlie Kaufman (Being John Malkovich)
Cinematography: Conrad L. Hall (American Beauty)
Documentary: Buena Vista Social Club (Wim Wenders)

2000
Film: A One and a Two/Yi Yi (Edward Yang)
Director: Steven Soderbergh (Erin Brockovich, Traffic)
Actor: Javier Bardem (Before Night Falls)
Actress: Laura Linney (You Can Count On Me)
Supporting Actor: Benicio Del Toro (Traffic)
Supporting Actress: Elaine May (Small Time Crooks)
Screenplay: Kenneth Lonergan (You Can Count On Me)
Cinematography: Agnes Godard (Beau Travail)
Documentary: The Life and Times of Hank Greenberg (Aviva Kempner)

2001
Film: Mulholland Drive (David Lynch)
Foreign Film: In the Mood for Love/Dut Yeung Nin Wa (Wong Kar-wai)
Director: Robert Altman (Gosford Park)
Actor: Gene Hackman (The Royal Tenenbaums)
Actress: Naomi Watts (Mulholland Drive)
Supporting Actor: Steve Buscemi (Ghost World)
Supporting Actress: Helen Mirren (Gosford Park)
Screenplay: Julian Fellowes (Gosford Park)
Cinematography: Christopher Doyle, Mark Li Ping-bing (In the Mood for Love/Dut Yeung Nin Wa)
Documentary: The Gleaners and I/Les Glaneurs et La Glaneuse (Agnes Varda)

2002
Film: The Pianist (Roman Polanski)
Foreign Film: Y Tu Mama Tambien (Alfonso Cuaron)
Director: Roman Polanski (The Pianist)
Actor: Adrien Brody (The Pianist)
Actress: Diane Lane (Unfaithful)
Supporting Actor: Christopher Walken (Catch Me If You Can)
Supporting Actress: Patricia Clarkson (Far From Heaven)
Screenplay: Ronald Harwood (The Pianist)
Cinematography: Edward Lachman (Far from Heaven)
Documentary: Standing in the Shadows of Motown (Paul Justman)

2003
Film: American Splendor (Shari Springer Berman, Robert Pulcini)
Foreign Film: The Man Without a Past/ Mies Vailla Menneisyytta (Aki Kaurismaki
Director: Clint Eastwood (Mystic River)
Actor: Bill Murray (Lost in Translation)
Actress: Charlize Theron (Monster)
Supporting Actor: Peter Sarsgaard (Shattered Glass)
Supporting Actress: Patricia Clarkson (The Station Agent; Pieces of April)
Screenplay: Shari Springer Berman, Robert Pulcini (American Splendor)
Cinematography: Russell Boyd (Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World)
Documentary: To Be and To Have/Etre et Avoir (Nicolas Philbert)

2004
Film: Million Dollar Baby (Clint Eastwood)
Foreign Film: Moulade (Ousmane Sembene)
Director: Zhang Yimou (Hero/Ying Xiong; House of Flying Daggers/Shi Mian Mai Fu)
Actor: Jamie Foxx (Ray)
Actress: Hilary Swank (Million Dollar Baby); Imelda Staunton (Vera Drake)
Supporting Actor: Thomas Haden Church (Sideways)
Supporting Actress: Virginia Madsen (Sideways)
Screenplay: Alexander Payne, Jim Taylor (Sideways)
Cinematography: Xiaoding Zhao (House of Flying Daggers/ Shi Mian Mai Fu) Documentary: Tarnation (Jonathan Caouette)

2005
Film: Capote (Bennett Miller)
Foreign Film: Head-On/Gegen die Wand (Fatih Akin)
Director: David Cronenberg (A History of Violence)
Actor: Philip Seymour Hoffman (Capote)
Actress: Reese Witherspoon (Walk the Line)
Supporting Actor: Ed Harris (A History of Violence)
Supporting Actress: Amy Adams (Junebug)
Screenplay: Noah Baumbach (The Squid and the Whale)
Cinematography: Christopher Doyle, Pung-Leung Kwan, Yiu-Fai Lu (2046)
Documentary: Grizzly Man (Werner Herzog)

NEW YORK FILM CRITICS' CIRCLE AWARDS

The New York Film Critics' Circle was formed in 1935, and consists of around 30 critics from the city's publications. Its main awards have been:

1935
Film: The Informer (John Ford)
Director: John Ford (The Informer)
Actor: Charles Laughton (Mutiny on the Bounty, Ruggles of Red Gap)
Actress: Greta Garbo (Anna Karenina)

1936
Film: Mr Deeds Goes to Town (Frank Capra)
Director: Rouben Mamoulian (The Gay Desperado)
Actor: Walter Huston (Dodsworth)
Actress: Luise Rainer (The Great Ziegfeld)
Foreign Film: Carnival in Flanders/La Kermesse Héroïque (Jacques Feyder)

1937
Film: The Life of Emile Zola (William Dieterle)
Director: Gregory La Cava (Stage Door)
Actor: Paul Muni (The Life of Emile Zola)
Actress: Greta Garbo (Camille)
Foreign Film: Mayerling (Anatole Litvak)

1938
Film: The Citadel (King Vidor)
Director: Alfred Hitchcock (The Lady Vanishes)
Actor: James Cagney (Angels with Dirty Faces)
Actress: Margaret Sullavan (Three Comrades)
Foreign Film: La Grande Illusion (Jean Renoir)
Special Award: Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs (Walt Disney)

1939
Film: Wuthering Heights (William Wyler)
Director: John Ford (Stagecoach)
Actor: James Stewart (Mr Smith Goes to Washington)
Actress: Vivien Leigh (Gone with the Wind)
Foreign Film: Harvest (Marcel Pagnol)

1940
Film: The Grapes of Wrath (John Ford)
Director: John Ford (The Grapes of Wrath, The Long Voyage Home)
Actor: Charles Chaplin (The Great Dictator: award refused)
Actress: Katharine Hepburn (The Philadelphia Story)
Foreign Film: The Baker's Wife (Marcel Pagnol)
Special Award: Fantasia (Walt Disney)

1941
Film: Citizen Kane (Orson Welles)
Director: John Ford (How Green Was My Valley)
Actor: Gary Cooper (Sergeant York)
Actress: Joan Fontaine (Suspicion)

1942
Film: In Which We Serve (Noël Coward, David Lean)
Director: John Farrow (Wake Island)
Actor: James Cagney (Yankee Doodle Dandy)
Actress: Agnes Moorehead (The Magnificent Ambersons)

1943
Film: Watch on the Rhine (Herbert Shumlin)
Director: George Stevens (The More the Merrier)
Actor: Paul Lukas (Watch on the Rhine)
Actress: Ida Lupino (The Hard Way)

1944
Film: Going My Way (Leo McCarey)
Director: Leo McCarey (Going My Way)
Actor: Barry Fitzgerald (Going My Way)
Actress: Tallulah Bankhead (Lifeboat)

1945
Film: The Lost Weekend (Billy Wilder)
Director: Billy Wilder (The Lost Weekend)
Actor: Ernest Borgnine (Marty)
Actress: Ingrid Bergman (Spellbound, The Bells of St Mary's)
Special Awards: The True Glory (Garson Kanin, Carol Reed); The Fighting Lady (William Wyler)

1946
Film: The Best Years of Our Lives (William Wyler)
Director: William Wyler (The Best Years of Our Lives)
Actor: Laurence Olivier (Henry V)
Actress: Celia Johnson (Brief Encounter)
Foreign Film: Open City (Roberto Rossellini)

1947
Film: Gentleman's Agreement (Elia Kazan)
Director: Elia Kazan (Gentleman's Agreement, Boomerang)
Actor: William Powell (Life with Father, The Senator Was Indiscreet)
Actress: Deborah Kerr (Black Narcissus, The Adventuress)
Foreign Film: To Live in Peace (Luigi Zampa)

1948
Film: The Treasure of the Sierra Madre (John Huston)
Director: John Huston (The Treasure of the Sierra Madre)
Actor: Laurence Olivier (Hamlet)
Actress: Olivia de Havilland (The Snake Pit)
Foreign Film: Paisan (Roberto Rossellini)

1949
Film: All the King's Men (Robert Rossen)
Director: Carol Reed (The Fallen Idol)
Actor: Broderick Crawford (All the King's Men)
Actress: Olivia de Havilland (The Heiress)
Foreign Film: The Bicycle Thief (Vittorio De Sica)

1950
Film: All About Eve (Joseph L. Mankiewicz)
Director: Joseph L. Mankiewicz (All About Eve)
Actor: Gregory Peck (Twelve o'Clock High)
Actress: Bette Davis (All About Eve)
Foreign Film: Ways of Love (Roberto Rossellini)

1951
Film: A Streetcar Named Desire (Elia Kazan)
Director: Elia Kazan (A Streetcar Named Desire)
Actor: Arthur Kennedy (Bright Victory)
Actress: Vivien Leigh (A Streetcar Named Desire)
Foreign Film: Miracle in Milan (Vittorio De Sica)

1952
Film: High Noon (Fred Zinnemann)
Director: Fred Zinnemann (High Noon)
Actor: Ralph Richardson (Breaking the Sound Barrier)
Actress: Shirley Booth (Come Back, Little Sheba)
Foreign Film: Forbidden Games (René Clément)

1953
Film: From Here to Eternity (Fred Zinnemann)
Director: Fred Zinnemann (From Here to Eternity)
Actor: Burt Lancaster (From Here to Eternity)
Actress: Audrey Hepburn (Roman Holiday)
Foreign Film: Justice Is Done (André Cayette)

1954
Film: On the Waterfront (Elia Kazan)
Director: Elia Kazan (On the Waterfront)
Actor: Marlon Brando (On the Waterfront)
Actress: Grace Kelly (The Country Girl, Rear Window, Dial M for Murder)
Foreign Film: Gate of Hell (Teinosuke Kinugaza)

1955
Film: Marty (Delbert Mann)
Director: David Lean (Summertime)
Actor: Ernest Borgnine (Marty)
Actress: Anna Magnani (The Rose Tattoo)
Foreign Film: Umberto D (Vittorio De Sica)

1956
Film: Around the World in 80 Days (Michael Anderson)
Director: John Huston (Moby Dick)
Actor: Kirk Douglas (Lust for Life)
Actress: Ingrid Bergman (Anastasia)
Foreign Film: La Strada (Federico Fellini)
Screenplay: S. J. Perelman (Around the World in 80 Days)

1957
Film: The Bridge on the River Kwai (David Lean)
Director: David Lean (The Bridge on the River Kwai)
Actor: Alec Guinness (The Bridge on the River Kwai)
Actress: Deborah Kerr (Heaven Knows, Mr Allison)
Foreign Film: Gervaise (René Clément)

1958
Film: The Defiant Ones (Stanley Kramer)
Director: Stanley Kramer (The Defiant Ones)
Actor: David Niven (Separate Tables)
Actress: Susan Hayward (I Want to Live!)
Screenplay: Nathan E. Douglas, Harold Jacob Smith (The Defiant Ones)
Foreign Film: My Uncle (Jacques Tati)

1959
Film: Ben-Hur (William Wyler)
Director: Fred Zinnemann (The Nun's Story)
Actor: James Stewart (Anatomy of a Murder)
Actress: Audrey Hepburn (The Nun's Story)
Screenplay: Wendell Mayes (Anatomy of a Murder)
Foreign Film: The 400 Blows (François Truffaut)

1960
Film: The Apartment (Billy Wilder); Sons and Lovers (Jack Cardiff)
Director: Billy Wilder (The Apartment); Jack Cardiff (Sons and Lovers)
Actor: Burt Lancaster (Elmer Gantry)
Actress: Deborah Kerr (The Sundowners)
Screenplay: Billy Wilder, I. A. L. Diamond (The Apartment)
Foreign Film: Hiroshima, Mon Amour (Alain Resnais)

1961
Film: West Side Story (Robert Wise, Jerome Robbins)
Director: Robert Rossen (The Hustler)
Actor: Maximilian Schell (Judgement at Nuremberg)
Actress: Sophia Loren (Two Women)
Foreign Film: La Dolce Vita (Federico Fellini)

1962
No awards were made, because of a newspaper strike

1963
Film: Tom Jones (Tony Richardson)
Director: Tony Richardson (Tom Jones)
Actor: Albert Finney (Tom Jones)
Actress: Patricia Neal (Hud)
Foreign Film: 8? (Federico Fellini)

1964
Film: My Fair Lady (George Cukor)
Director: Stanley Kubrick (Dr Strangelove)
Actor: Rex Harrison (My Fair Lady)
Actress: Kim Stanley (Seance on a Wet Afternoon)
Screenplay: Harold Pinter (The Servant)
Foreign Film: That Man from Rio (Philippe De Broca)

1965
Film: Darling (John Schlesinger)
Director: John Schlesinger (Darling)
Actor: Oskar Werner (Ship of Fools)
Actress: Julie Christie (Darling)
Foreign Film: Juliet of the Spirits (Federico Fellini)

1966
Film: A Man for All Seasons (Fred Zinnemann)
Director: Fred Zinnemann (A Man for All Seasons)
Actor: Paul Scofield (A Man for All Seasons)
Actress: Elizabeth Taylor (Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?); Lynn Redgrave (Georgy Girl)
Screenplay: Robert Bolt (A Man for All Seasons)
Foreign Film: The Shop on Main Street (Jan Kadar, Elmar Klos)

1967
Film: In the Heat of the Night (Norman Jewison)
Director: Mike Nichols (The Graduate)
Actor: Rod Steiger (In the Heat of the Night)
Actress: Edith Evans (The Whisperers)
Screenplay: David Newman, Robert Benton (Bonnie and Clyde)
Foreign Film: La Guerre Est Finie (Alain Resnais)

1968
Film: The Lion in Winter (Anthony Harvey)
Director: Paul Newman (Rachel, Rachel)
Actor: Alan Arkin (The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter)
Actress: Joanne Woodward (Rachel, Rachel)
Screenplay: Lorenzo Semple, Jnr (Pretty Poison)
Foreign Film: War and Peace (Sergei Bondarchuk)

1969
Film: Z (Costa-Gavras)
Director: Costa-Gavras (Z)
Actor: Jon Voight (Midnight Cowboy)
Actress: Jane Fonda (They Shoot Horses, Don't They?)
Supporting Actor: Jack Nicholson (Easy Rider)
Supporting Actress: Dyan Cannon (Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice) Screenplay: Larry Tucker, Paul Mazursky (Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice)

1970
Film: Five Easy Pieces (Bob Rafelson)
Director: Bob Rafelson (Five Easy Pieces)
Actor: George C. Scott (Patton)
Actress: Glenda Jackson (Women in Love)
Supporting Actor: Chief Dan George (Little Big Man)
Supporting Actress: Karen Black (Five Easy Pieces)
Screenplay: Eric Rohmer (My Night at Maud's)

1971
Film: A Clockwork Orange (Stanley Kubrick)
Director: Stanley Kubrick (A Clockwork Orange)
Actor: Gene Hackman (The French Connection)
Actress: Jane Fonda (Klute)
Supporting Actor: Ben Johnson (The Last Picture Show)
Supporting Actress: Ellen Burstyn (The Last Picture Show)
Screenplay: Peter Bogdanovich, Larry McMurtry (The Last Picture Show); Penelope Gilliatt (Sunday, Bloody Sunday)

1972
Film: Cries and Whispers (Ingmar Bergman)
Director: Ingmar Bergman (Cries and Whispers)
Actor: Laurence Olivier (Sleuth)
Actress: Liv Ullmann (Cries and Whispers, The Emigrants)
Supporting Actor: Robert Duvall (The Godfather)
Supporting Actress: Jeannie Berlin (The Heartbreak Kid)
Screenplay: Ingmar Bergman (Cries and Whispers)
Special Citation: The Sorrow and the Pity (Marcel Ophuls)

1973
Film: Day for Night (François Truffaut)
Director: François Truffaut (Day for Night)
Actor: Marlon Brando (Last Tango in Paris)
Actress: Joanne Woodward (Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams)
Supporting Actor: Robert De Niro (Bang the Drum Slowly)
Supporting Actress: Valentina Cortese (Day for Night)
Screenplay: George Lucas, Gloria Katz, Willard Huyck (American Graffiti)

1974
Film: Amarcord (Federico Fellini)
Director: Federico Fellini (Amarcord)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (Chinatown, The Last Detail)
Actress: Liv Ullmann (Scenes from a Marriage)
Supporting Actor: Charles Boyer (Stavisky)
Supporting Actress: Valerie Perrine (Lenny)
Screenplay: Ingmar Bergman (Scenes from a Marriage)

1975
Film: Nashville (Robert Altman)
Director: Robert Altman (Nashville)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest)
Actress: Isabelle Adjani (The Story of Adele H.)
Supporting Actor: Alan Arkin (Hearts of the West)
Supporting Actress: Lily Tomlin (Nashville)
Screenplay: François Truffaut, Jean Gruault, Suzanne Schiffman (The Story of Adele H.)

1976
Film: All the President's Men (Alan J. Pakula)
Director: Alan J. Pakula (All the President's Men)
Actor: Robert De Niro (Taxi Driver)
Actress: Liv Ullmann (Face to Face)
Supporting Actor: Jason Robards (All the President's Men)
Supporting Actress: Talia Shire (Rocky)
Screenplay: Paddy Chayefsky (Network)

1977
Film: Annie Hall (Woody Allen)
Director: Woody Allen (Annie Hall)
Actor: John Gielgud (Providence)
Actress: Diane Keaton (Annie Hall)
Supporting Actor: Maximilian Schell (Julia)
Supporting Actress: Sissy Spacek (Three Women)
Screenplay: Woody Allen, Marshall Brickman (Annie Hall)

1978
Film: The Deer Hunter (Michael Cimino)
Director: Terrence Malick (Days of Heaven)
Actor: Jon Voight (Coming Home)
Actress: Ingrid Bergman (Autumn Sonata)
Supporting Actor: Christopher Walken (The Deer Hunter)
Supporting Actress: Colleen Dewhurst (Interiors)
Screenplay: Paul Mazursky (An Unmarried Woman)
Foreign Film: Bread and Chocolate (Franco Brusati)

1979
Film: Kramer vs Kramer (Robert Benton)
Director: Woody Allen (Manhattan)
Actor: Dustin Hoffman (Kramer vs Kramer)
Actress: Sally Field (Norma Rae)
Supporting Actor: Melvyn Douglas (Being There)
Supporting Actress: Meryl Streep (Kramer vs Kramer, The Seduction of Joe Tynan)
Screenplay: Steve Tesich (Breaking Away)
Foreign Film: The Tree of Wooden Clogs (Ermanno Olmi)

1980
Film: Ordinary People (Robert Redford)
Director: Jonathan Demme (Melvin and Howard)
Actor: Robert De Niro (Raging Bull)
Actress: Sissy Spacek (Coal Miner's Daughter)
Supporting Actor: Joe Pesci (Raging Bull)
Supporting Actress: Mary Steenburgen (Melvin and Howard)
Screenplay: Bo Goldman (Melvin and Howard)
Cinematography: Geoffrey Unsworth, Ghislain Cloquet (Tess)
Foreign Film: Mon Oncle d'Amérique (Alain Resnais) Documentary: Best Boy (Ira Wohl)

1981
Film: Reds (Warren Beatty)
Director: Sidney Lumet (Prince of the City)
Actor: Burt Lancaster (Atlantic City)
Actress: Glenda Jackson (Stevie)
Supporting Actor: John Gielgud (Arthur)
Supporting Actress: Mona Washbourne (Stevie)
Screenplay: John Guare (Atlantic City)
Cinematography: David Watkin (Chariots of Fire)
Foreign Film: Pixote (Hector Babenco)
Special Prize: Napoleon (Abel Gance); Andrzej Wajda, Krzysztof Zanussi

1982
Film: Gandhi (Richard Attenborough)
Director: Sydney Pollack (Tootsie)
Actor: Ben Kingsley (Gandhi)
Actress: Meryl Streep (Sophie's Choice)
Supporting Actor: John Lithgow (The World According to Garp)
Supporting Actress: Jessica Lange (Tootsie)
Screenplay: Murray Schisgal, Larry Gelbart (Tootsie)
Cinematography: Nestor Almendros (Sophie's Choice)
Foreign Film: Time Stands Still (Peter Gothar)

1983
Film: Terms of Endearment (James L. Brooks)
Director: Ingmar Bergman (Fanny and Alexander)
Actor: Robert Duvall (Tender Mercies)
Actress: Shirley MacLaine (Terms of Endearment)
Supporting Actor: Jack Nicholson (Terms of Endearment)
Supporting Actress: Linda Hunt (The Year of Living Dangerously)
Screenplay: Bill Forsyth (Local Hero)
Cinematography: Gordon Willis (Zelig)
Foreign Film: Fanny and Alexander (Ingmar Bergman)

1984
Film: A Passage to India (David Lean)
Director: David Lean (A Passage to India)
Actor: Steve Martin (All of Me)
Actress: Peggy Ashcroft (A Passage to India)
Supporting Actor: Ralph Richardson (Greystoke: The Legend of Tarzan, Lord of the Apes)
Supporting Actress: Christine Lahti (Swing Shift)
Screenplay: Robert Benton (Places in the Heart)
Cinematography: Chris Menges (The Killing Fields)
Foreign Film: A Sunday in the Country (Bertrand Tavernier)
Documentary: The Times of Harvey Milk (Robert Epstein)

1985
Film: Prizzi's Honor (John Huston)
Director: John Huston (Prizzi's Honor)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (Prizzi's Honor)
Actress: Norma Aleandro (The Official Story)
Supporting Actor: Klaus Maria Brandauer (Out of Africa)
Supporting Actress: Anjelica Huston (Prizzi's Honor)
Screenplay: Woody Allen (The Purple Rose of Cairo)
Cinematography: David Watkin (Out of Africa)
Foreign Film: Ran (Akira Kurosawa)
Documentary: Shoah (Claude Lanzmann)

1986
Film: Hannah and Her Sisters (Woody Allen)
Director: Woody Allen (Hannah and Her Sisters)
Actor: Bob Hoskins (Mona Lisa)
Actress: Sissy Spacek (Crimes of the Heart)
Supporting Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis (My Beautiful Laundrette, A Room with a View)
Supporting Actress: Dianne Wiest (Hannah and Her Sisters)
Screenplay: Hanif Kureishi (My Beautiful Laundrette)
Cinematography: Tony Pierce-Roberts (A Room with a View)
Foreign Film: The Decline of the American Empire (Denys Arcand)
Documentary: Marlene (Maximilian Schell)

1987
Film: Broadcast News (James L. Brooks)
Director: James L. Brooks (Broadcast News)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (The Witches of Eastwick, Ironweed, Broadcast News)
Actress: Holly Hunter (Broadcast News)
Supporting Actor: Morgan Freeman (Street Smart)
Supporting Actress: Vanessa Redgrave (Prick Up Your Ears)
Screenplay: James L. Brooks (Broadcast News)
Cinematography: Vittorio Storaro (The Last Emperor)
Foreign Film: My Life as a Dog (Lasse Hallstrom)

1988
Film: The Accidental Tourist (Lawrence Kasdan)
Director: Chris Menges (A World Apart)
Actor: Jeremy Irons (Dead Ringers)
Actress: Meryl Streep (A Cry in the Dark)
Supporting Actor: Dean Stockwell (Married to the Mob, Tucker: The Man and His Dream)
Supporting Actress: Diane Venora (Bird)
Screenplay: Ron Shelton (Bull Durham)
Cinematography: Henri Alekan (Wings of Desire)
Foreign Film: Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown (Pedro Almodóvar)
Documentary: The Thin Blue Line (Errol Morris)

1989
Film: My Left Foot (Jim Sheridan)
Director: Paul Mazursky (Enemies – a Love Story)
Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis (My Left Foot)
Actress: Michelle Pfeiffer (The Fabulous Baker Boys)
Supporting Actor: Alan Alda (Crimes and Misdemeanors)
Supporting Actress: Lena Olin (Enemies – a Love Story)
Screenplay: Gus Van Sant, Daniel Yost (Drugstore Cowboy)
Cinematography: Ernest Dickerson (Do the Right Thing)
Foreign Film: The Story of Women (Claude Chabrol)
New Director: Kenneth Branagh (Henry V)
Documentary: Roger and Me (Michael Moore)

1990
Film: GoodFellas (Martin Scorsese)
Director: Martin Scorsese (GoodFellas)
Actor: Robert De Niro (GoodFellas, Awakenings)
Actress: Joanne Woodward (Mr and Mrs Bridge)
Supporting Actor: Bruce Davison (Longtime Companion)
Supporting Actress: Jennifer Jason Leigh (Miami Blues, Last Exit to Brooklyn)
Screenplay: Ruth Prawer Jhabvala (Mr and Mrs Bridge)
Cinematography: Vittorio Storaro (The Sheltering Sky)
Foreign Film: The Nasty Girl (Michael Verhoeven)
New Director: Whit Stillman (Metropolitan)

1991
Film: Silence of the Lambs (Jonathan Demme)
Director: Jonathan Demme (Silence of the Lambs)
Actor: Anthony Hopkins (Silence of the Lambs)
Actress: Jodie Foster (Silence of the Lambs)
Supporting Actor: Samuel L. Jackson (Jungle Fever)
Supporting Actress: Judy Davis (Naked Lunch, Barton Fink)
Screenplay: David Cronenberg (Naked Lunch)
Cinematography: Roger Deakins (Barton Fink)
Foreign Film: Europa, Europa (Agnieszka Holland)
New Director: John Singleton (Boyz N the Hood)
Documentary: Paris Is Burning (Jennie Livingston)

1992
Film: The Player (Robert Altman)
Director: Robert Altman (The Player)
Actor: Denzel Washington (Malcolm X)
Actress: Emma Thompson (Howards End)
Supporting Actor: Gene Hackman (Unforgiven)
Supporting Actress: Miranda Richardson (The Crying Game, Damage, Enchanted April)
Screenplay: Neil Jordan (The Crying Game)
Cinematography: Jean Lapine (The Player)
Foreign Film: Raise the Red Lantern (Zhang Yimou)
New Director: Allison Anders (Gas Food Lodging)
Documentary: Brother's Keeper (Joe Berlinger, Bruce Sinofsky)

1993
Film: Schindler's List (Steven Spielberg)
Director: Jane Campion (The Piano)
Actor: David Thewlis (Naked)
Actress: Holly Hunter (The Piano)
Supporting Actor: Ralph Fiennes (Schindler's List)
Supporting Actress: Gong Li (Farewell, My Concubine)
Screenplay: Jane Campion (The Piano)
Cinematography: Janusz Kaminski (Schindler's List)
Foreign Film: Farewell, My Concubine (Chen Kaige)
Documentary: Visions of Light, the Art of Cinematography (Arnold Glassman, Todd McCarthy, Stuart Samuels)

1994
Film: Quiz Show (Robert Redford)
Director: Quentin Tarantino (Pulp Fiction)
Actor: Paul Newman (Nobody's Fool)
Actress: Linda Fiorentino (The Last Seduction)
Supporting Actor: Martin Landau (Ed Wood)
Supporting Actress: Dianne Wiest (Bullets over Broadway)
Screenplay: Quentin Tarantino (Pulp Fiction)
Cinematography: Stefan Czapsky (Ed Wood)
Foreign Film: Red (Krzysztof Kieślowski)
New Director: Darnel Martin (I Like It Like That)
Documentary: Hoop Dreams (Steve James)
Special Award: Jean-Luc Godard

1995
Film: Leaving Las Vegas (Mike Figgis)
Director: Ang Lee (Sense and Sensibility)
Actor: Nicolas Cage (Leaving Las Vegas)
Actress: Jennifer Jason Leigh (Georgia)
Supporting Actor: Kevin Spacey (Seven, The Usual Suspects, Swimming with Sharks)
Supporting Actress: Mira Sorvino (Mighty Aphrodite)
Screenplay: Emma Thompson (Sense and Sensibility)
Cinematography: Le Yue (Shanghai Triad)
Foreign Film: Shanghai Triad (Zhang Yimou)
New Director: Chris Noonan (Babe)
Documentary: Crumb (Terry Zwigoff)

1996
Film: Fargo (Joel Coen)
Director: Lars Von Trier (Breaking the Waves)
Actor: Geoffrey Rush (Shine)
Actress: Emily Watson (Breaking the Waves)
Supporting Actor: Harry Belafonte (Kansas City)
Supporting Actress: Courtney Love (The People vs Larry Flynt)
Screenplay: Albert Brooks, Monica Johnson (Mother)
Cinematography: Robby Muller (Breaking the Waves, Dead Man)
Foreign Film: The White Balloon (Jafar Panahi)
First Film: Big Night (Stanley Tucci, Campbell Scott)
Documentary: When We Were Kings (Leon Gast)

1997
Film: LA Confidential (Curtis Hanson)
Director: Curtis Hanson (LA Confidential)
Actor: Peter Fonda (Ulee's Gold)
Actress: Julie Christie (Afterglow)
Supporting Actor: Burt Reynolds (Boogie Nights)
Supporting Actress: Joan Cusack (In and Out)
Screenplay: Curtis Hanson, Brian Helgeland (LA Confidential)
Cinematography: Roger Deakins (Kundun)
Foreign Film: Ponette (Jacques Doillon)
First Film: In the Company of Men (Neil LaBute) Documentary: Fast, Cheap and Out of Control (Errol Morris)

1998
Film: Saving Private Ryan (Steven Spielberg)
Director: Terrence Malick (The Thin Red Line)
Actor: Nick Nolte (Affliction)
Actress: Cameron Diaz (There's Something about Mary)
Supporting Actor: Bill Murray (Rushmore)
Supporting Actress: Lisa Kudrow (The Opposite of Sex)
Screenplay: Tom Stoppard, Marc Norman (Shakespeare in Love)
Cinematography: John Toll (The Thin Red Line)
Foreign Film: Celebration/Festen (Thomas Vinterberg)
First Film: Love and Death in Long Island (Richard Kwietniowski) Documentary: The Farm (Jonathan Stack, Liz Garbus, Wilbert Rideau)

1999
Film: Topsy-Turvy (Mike Leigh)
Director: Mike Leigh (Topsy-Turvy)
Actor: Richard Farnsworth (The Straight Story)
Actress: Hilary Swank (Boys Don't Cry)
Supporting Actor: John Malkovich (Being John Malkovich)
Supporting Actress: Catherine Keener (Being John Malkovich)
Screenplay: Alexander Payne, Jim Taylor (Election)
Cinematography: Freddie Francis (The Straight Story)
Foreign Film: All About My Mother (Pedro Almodóvar)
Animated Feature: South Park, Bigger, Longer and Uncut (Trey Parker)
First Film: Being John Malkovich (Spike Jonze)
Documentary: Buena Vista Social Club (Wim Wenders)

2000
Film: Traffic (Steven Soderbergh)
Director: Steven Soderbergh (Erin Brockovich)
Actor: Tom Hanks (Castaway)
Actress: Laura Linney (You Can Count On Me)
Supporting Actor: Benicio Del Toro (Traffic)
Supporting Actress: Marcia Gay Harden (Pollock)
Screenplay: You Can Count On Me (Ken Lonergan)
Cinematography: Peter Pau (Crouching Tiger/Hidden Dragon/Zu Hu Zang Long)
Foreign Film: A One and a Two/Yi yi (Edward Yang)
Animated Feature: Chicken Run (Peter Lord, Nick Park)
First Film: George Washington (David Gordon Green)
Documentary: The Life and Times of Hank Greenberg (Aviva Kempner)

2001
Film: Mulholland Drive (David Lynch)
Director: Robert Altman (Gosford Park)
Actor: Tom Wilkinson (In the Bedroom)
Actress: Sissy Spacek (In the Bedroom)
Supporting Actor: Steve Buscemi (Ghost World)
Supporting Actress: Helen Mirren (Gosford Park)
Screenplay: Julian Fellowes (Gosford Park)
Cinematography: Christopher Doyle, Mark Li Ping-Bing (In the Mood for Love/Dut Yeung Nin Wa)
Foreign Film: In the Mood for Love/Dut Yeung Nin Wa (Wong Kar-wai)
Animated Feature: Waking Life (Richard Linklater)
First Film: In the Bedroom (Todd Field)
Documentary: The Gleaners and I/Les Glaneurs et La Glaneuse (Agnes Varda)

2002
Film: Far from Heaven (Todd Haynes)
Director: Todd Haynes (Far from Heaven)
Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis (Gangs of New York)
Actress: Diane Lane (Unfaithful)
Supporting Actor: Dennis Quaid (Far from Heaven)
Supporting Actress: Patricia Clarkson (Far from Heaven)
Screenplay: Charlie Kaufman; Donald Kaufman (Adaptation)
Cinematography: Edward Lachman (Far from Heaven)
Foreign Film: Y Tu Mama Tambien (Alfonso Cuaron)
Animated Feature: Spirited Away/Sen To Chihiro No Kamikakushi (Hayao Miyazaki)
First Film: Roger Dodger (Dylan Kidd)
Documentary: Standing in the Shadows of Motown (Paul Justman)

2003
Film: The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King (Peter Jackson)
Director: Sofia Coppola (Lost in Translation)
Actor: Bill Murray (Lost in Translation)
Actress: Hope Davis (American Splendor; The Secret Lives of Dentists)
Supporting Actor: Eugene Levy (A Mighty Wind)
Supporting Actress: Shohreh Aghdashloo (House of Sand and Fog)
Screenplay: Craig Lucas (The Secret Lives of Dentists)
Cinematography: Harris Savides (Elephant)
Foreign Film: City of God/Cidade de Deus (Fernando Meirelles, Katia Lund)
Animated Feature: Belleville Rendez-vous/Les Triplettes de Belleville (Sylvain Chomet)
First Film: American Splendor (Shari Springer Berman, Robert Pulcini)
Documentary: Capturing the Friedmans (Andrew Jarecki)

2004
Film: Sideways (Alexander Payne)
Director: Clint Eastwood (Million Dollar Baby)
Actor: Paul Giametti (Sideways)
Actress: Imelda Staunton (Vera Drake)
Supporting Actor: Clive Owen (Closer)
Supporting Actress: Virginia Madsen (Sideways)
Screenplay: Alexander Payne, Jim Taylor (Sideways)
Cinematography: Christopher Doyle (Hero/Ying Xiong)
Foreign Film: Bad Education/Mala Educacion (Pedro Almodovar)
Animated Feature: The Incredibles (Brad Bird)
First Film: Maria Full of Grace (Joshua Marston) Documentary: Fahrenheit 9/11 (Michael Moore)

2005
Film: Brokeback Mountain (Ang Lee)
Director: Ang Lee (Brokeback Mountain)
Actor: Heath Ledger (Brokeback Mountain)
Actress: Reese Witherspoon (Walk the Line)
Supporting Actor: William Hurt (A History of Violence)
Supporting Actress: Maria Bello (A History of Violence)
Screenplay: Noah Baumbach (The Squid and the Whale)
Cinematography: Christopher Doyle, Yiu-Fai Lai, Pung-Leung Kwan (2046)
Foreign Film: 2046 (Kar Wai Wong)
Animated Feature: Howl's Moving Castle/Hauru No Ugoku Shiro (Hayao Miyazaki)
First Film: Capote (Bennett Miller)
Documentary: Grizzly Man (Werner Herzog); The White Diamond (Werner Herzog)

LOS ANGELES FILM CRITICS ASSOCIATION AWARDS

The Los Angeles film critics, who work close to Hollywood, formed an association in 1975. Their main awards have been:

1975
Film: Dog Day Afternoon (Sidney Lumet); One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (Milos Forman)
Foreign Film: And Now My Love (Claude Lelouch)
Actor: Al Pacino (Dog Day Afternoon)
Actress: Florinda Bolkan (A Brief Vacation)
Director: Sidney Lumet (Dog Day Afternoon)
Screenplay: Joan Tewkesbury (Nashville)
Cinematography: John Alcott (Barry Lyndon)
Special Award: Love among the Ruins (George Cukor)

1976
Film: Network (Sidney Lumet); Rocky (John G. Avildsen)
Foreign Film: Face to Face (Ingmar Bergman)
Actor: Robert De Niro (Taxi Driver)
Actress: Liv Ullmann (Face to Face)
Director: Sidney Lumet (Network)
Screenplay: Paddy Chayefsky (Network)
Cinematography: Haskell Wexler (Bound for Glory)
Music: Bernard Herrmann (Taxi Driver)
Special Award: Marcel Ophuls (The Memory of Justice)
Life Award: Allan Dwan
New Generation: Martin Scorsese, Jodie Foster (Taxi Driver)

1977
Film: Star Wars (George Lucas)
Foreign Film: That Obscure Object of Desire (Luis Buñuel)
Actor: Richard Dreyfuss (The Goodbye Girl)
Actress: Shelley Duvall (3 Women)
Supporting Actor: Jason Robards (Julia)
Supporting Actress: Vanessa Redgrave (Julia)
Director: Herbert Ross (The Turning Point)
Screenplay: Woody Allen, Marshall Brickman (Annie Hall)
Cinematography: Douglas Slocombe (Julia)
Music: John Williams (Star Wars)
Special Award: Barbara Kopple (Harlan County, USA)
Life Achievement: King Vidor
New Generation: Joan Micklin Silver (Between the Lines)

1978
Film: Coming Home (Hal Ashby)
Foreign Film: Madame Rosa (Moshe Mizrahi)
Actor: Jon Voight (Coming Home)
Actress: Jane Fonda (Coming Home, Comes a Horseman, California Suite)
Supporting Actor: Robert Morley (Who Is Killing the Great Chefs of Europe?)
Supporting Actress: Maureen Stapleton (Interiors); Mona Washbourne (Stevie)
Director: Michael Cimino (The Deer Hunter)
Screenplay: Paul Mazursky (An Unmarried Woman)
Cinematography: Nestor Almendros (Days of Heaven)
Music: Giorgio Moroder (Midnight Express)
Life Achievement: Orson Welles
New Generation: Gary Busey (The Buddy Holly Story)

1979
Film: Kramer vs Kramer (Robert Benton)
Foreign Film: Soldier of Orange (Paul Verhoeven)
Actor: Dustin Hoffman (Kramer vs Kramer)
Actress: Sally Field (Norma Rae)
Supporting Actor: Melvyn Douglas (Being There, The Seduction of Joe Tynan)
Supporting Actress: Meryl Streep (Kramer vs Kramer, Manhattan, The Seduction of Joe Tynan)
Director: Robert Benton (Kramer vs Kramer)
Screenplay: Robert Benton (Kramer vs Kramer)
Cinematography: Caleb Deschanel (The Black Stallion)
Music: Carmine Coppola (The Black Stallion)
Life Achievement: John Huston
New Generation: John Carpenter (Halloween)

1980
Film: Raging Bull (Martin Scorsese)
Foreign Film: The Tin Drum (Volker Schlöndorff)
Actor: Robert De Niro (Raging Bull)
Actress: Sissy Spacek (Coal Miner's Daughter)
Supporting Actor: Timothy Hutton (Ordinary People)
Supporting Actress: Mary Steenburgen (Melvin and Howard)
Director: Roman Polanski (Tess)
Screenplay: John Sayles (Return of the Secaucus 7)
Cinematography: Ghislain Cloquet, Geoffrey Unsworth (Tess)
Music: Ry Cooder (The Long Riders)
Experimental/Independent Film: Journeys from Berlin (Yvonne Rainer); Demon Lover Diary (Joel Demot)
Life Achievement: Robert Mitchum
New Generation: Carroll Ballard (The Black Stallion)

1981
Film: Atlantic City (Louis Malle)
Foreign Film: Pixote (Hector Babenco)

Actor: Burt Lancaster (Atlantic City)
Actress: Meryl Streep (The French Lieutenant's Woman)
Supporting Actor: John Gielgud (Arthur)
Supporting Actress: Maureen Stapleton (Reds)
Director: Warren Beatty (Reds)
Screenplay: John Guare (Atlantic City)
Cinematography: Vittorio Storaro (Reds)
Music: Randy Newman (Ragtime)
Experimental/Independent Film: The Art of Worldly Wisdom (Bruce Elder)
Special Award: Kevin Brownlow (Napoleon)
Life Achievement: Barbara Stanwyck
New Generation: John Guare (Atlantic City)

1982
Film: E.T. – the Extra-Terrestrial (Steven Spielberg)
Foreign Film: The Road Warrior/Mad Max 2 (George Miller)
Actor: Ben Kingsley (Gandhi)
Actress: Meryl Streep (Sophie's Choice)
Supporting Actor: John Lithgow (The World According to Garp)
Supporting Actress: Glenn Close (The World According to Garp)
Director: Steven Spielberg (E.T. – the Extra-Terrestrial)
Screenplay: Larry Gelbart, Murray Schisgal (Tootsie)
Cinematography: Jordan Cronenweth (Blade Runner)
Music: James Horner & the Busboys (48 Hrs)
Experimental/Independent Film: Chan Is Missing (Wayne Wang)
Special Award: Carlo Rimbaldi (E.T. – the Extra-Terrestrial)
Life Achievement: Robert Preston
New Generation: Melissa Mathison (E.T. – the Extra-Terrestrial)

1983
Film: Terms of Endearment (James L. Brooks)
Foreign Film: Fanny and Alexander (Ingmar Bergman)
Actor: Robert Duvall (Tender Mercies)
Actress: Shirley MacLaine (Terms of Endearment)
Supporting Actor: Jack Nicholson (Terms of Endearment)
Supporting Actress: Linda Hunt (The Year of Living Dangerously)
Director: James L. Brooks (Terms of Endearment)
Screenplay: James L. Brooks (Terms of Endearment)
Cinematography: Sven Nykvist (Fanny and Alexander)
Music: Philip Glass (Koyaanisqatsi)
Experimental/Independent Film: So Is This (Michael Snow)
Life Achievement: Myrna Loy
New Generation: Sean Penn (Bad Boys, Fast Times at Ridgemont High)

1984
Film: Amadeus (Milos Forman)
Foreign Film: The Fourth Man (Paul Verhoeven)
Actor: F. Murray Abraham (Amadeus); Albert Finney (Under the Volcano)
Actress: Kathleen Turner (Crimes of Passion, Romancing the Stone)
Supporting Actor: Adolph Caesar (A Soldier's Story)
Supporting Actress: Peggy Ashcroft (A Passage to India)
Director: Milos Forman (Amadeus)
Screenplay: Peter Shaffer (Amadeus)
Cinematography: Chris Menges (The Killing Fields)
Music: Ennio Morricone (Once Upon a Time in America)
Experimental/Independent Film: George Kuchar (oeuvre)
Life Achievement: Rouben Mamoulian
New Generation: Alan Rudolph (Choose Me)
Special Award: Andrew Sarris; François Truffaut

1985
Film: Brazil (Terry Gilliam)
Foreign Film: Ran (Akira Kurosawa); The Official Story (Luis Puenzo)
Actor: William Hurt (Kiss of the Spider Woman)
Actress: Meryl Streep (Out of Africa)
Supporting Actor: John Gielgud (Plenty, The Shooting Party)
Supporting Actress: Anjelica Huston (Prizzi's Honor)
Director: Terry Gilliam (Brazil)
Screenplay: Terry Gilliam, Charles McKeown, Tom Stoppard (Brazil)
Cinematography: David Watkin (Out of Africa)
Music: Toru Takemitsu (Ran)
Experimental/Independent Film: Fear of Emptiness (Rosa Von Praunheim)
Life Achievement: Akira Kurosawa
New Generation: Laura Dern (Mask, Smooth Talk)
Special Award: Claude Lanzmann (Shoah)

1986
Film: Hannah and Her Sisters (Woody Allen)
Foreign Film: Vagabond (Agnès Varda)
Actor: Bob Hoskins (Mona Lisa)
Actress: Sandrine Bonnaire (Vagabond)
Supporting Actor: Dennis Hopper (Blue Velvet, Hoosiers)
Supporting Actress: Cathy Tyson (Mona Lisa)
Director: David Lynch (Blue Velvet)
Screenplay: Woody Allen (Hannah and Her Sisters)
Cinematography: Chris Menges (The Mission)
Music: Herbie Hancock, Dexter Gordon (Round Midnight)
Experimental/Independent Film: Magdalena Criaga (Nina Menkes); He Stands in the Desert Counting the Seconds of His Life (Jonas Mekas)
Life Achievement: John Cassavetes
New Generation: Spike Lee

1987
Film: Hope and Glory (John Boorman)
Foreign Film: Au Revoir, les Enfants (Louis Malle)
Actor: Steve Martin (Roxanne); Jack Nicholson (Ironweed, The Witches of Eastwick)
Actress: Holly Hunter (Broadcast News); Sally Kirkland (Anna)
Supporting Actor: Morgan Freeman (Street Smart)
Supporting Actress: Olympia Dukakis (Moonstruck)
Director: John Boorman (Hope and Glory)
Screenplay: John Boorman (Hope and Glory)
Cinematography: Vittorio Storaro (The Last Emperor)
Music: David Byrne, Ryuichi Sakamoto, Cong Su (The Last Emperor)
Experimental/Independent Film: Mala Noche (Gus Van Sant)
Life Achievement: Joel McCrea; Samuel Fuller
New Generation: Pedro Almodóvar
Special Award: Pierre Sauvage (Weapons of the Spirit)

1988
Film: Little Dorrit (Christine Edzard)
Foreign Film: Wings of Desire (Wim Wenders)
Actor: Tom Hanks (Big, Punchline)
Actress: Christine Lahti (Running on Empty)
Supporting Actor: Alec Guinness (Little Dorrit)
Supporting Actress: Geneviève Bujold (Dead Ringers, The Moderns)
Director: David Cronenberg (Dead Ringers)
Screenplay: Ron Shelton (Bull Durham)
Cinematography: Henri Alekan (Wings of Desire)
Music: Mark Isham (The Moderns)
Documentary: Hotel Terminus: The Life and Times of Klaus Barbie (Marcel Ophuls)
Experimental/Independent Film: The Last of England (Derek Jarman); Amerika (Al Razutis)
Life Achievement: Don Siegel
New Generation: Mira Nair
Special Award: Who Framed Roger Rabbit? (Robert Zemeckis)

1989
Film: Do the Right Thing (Spike Lee)
Foreign Film: Distant Voices, Still Lives (Terence Davies); The Story of Women (Claude Chabrol)
Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis (My Left Foot)
Actress: Andie MacDowell (sex, lies and videotape); Michelle Pfeiffer (The Fabulous Baker Boys)
Supporting Actor: Danny Aiello (Do the Right Thing)
Supporting Actress: Brenda Fricker (My Left Foot)
Director: Spike Lee (Do the Right Thing)
Screenplay: Gus Van Sant, Daniel Yost (Drugstore Cowboy)
Cinematography: Michael Ballhaus (The Fabulous Baker Boys)
Music: Bill Lee (Do the Right Thing)
Documentary: Roger & Me (Michael Moore)
Animation: The Little Mermaid (John Musker, Ron Clements)
Experimental/Independent Film: The Long Weekend (o' Despair) (Gregg Araki)
Life Achievement: Stanley Donen
New Generation: Laura San Giacomo (sex, lies and videotape)
Special Award: Margaret Herrick Library of the Academy of Motion Film Arts & Sciences

1990
Film: GoodFellas (Martin Scorsese)
Foreign Film: Life and Nothing But (Bertrand Tavernier)
Actor: Jeremy Irons (Reversal of Fortune)
Best Actress: Anjelica Huston (The Grifters, The Witches)
Supporting Actor: Joe Pesci (GoodFellas)
Supporting Actress: Lorraine Bracco (GoodFellas)
Director: Martin Scorsese (GoodFellas)
Screenplay: Nicholas Kazan (Reversal of Fortune)
Cinematography: Michael Ballhaus (GoodFellas)
Music: Richard Horowitz, Ryuichi Sakamoto (The Sheltering Sky)
Documentary: Paris Is Burning (Jennie Livingston)
Animation: The Rescuers Down Under (Hendel Butoy, Mike Gabriel) Experimental/Independent Film: Tongues Untied (Marlon Riggs)
Life Achievement: Chuck Jones; Blake Edwards
New Generation: Jane Campion (Sweetie)
Special Award: Charles Burnett (To Sleep with Anger)

1991
Film: Bugsy (Barry Levinson)
Foreign Film: La Belle Noiseuse (Jacques Rivette)
Actor: Nick Nolte (Prince of Tides)
Actress: Mercedes Ruehl (The Fisher King)
Supporting Actor: Michael Lerner (Barton Fink)
Supporting Actress: Jane Horrocks (Life Is Sweet)
Director: Barry Levinson (Bugsy)
Screenplay: James Toback (Bugsy)
Cinematography: Roger Deakins (Barton Fink, Homicide)
Music: Zbigniew Preisner (The Double Life of Véronique, At Play in the Fields of the Lord, Europa, Europa)
Documentary: American Dream (Barbara Kopple)
Animation: Beauty and the Beast (Gary Trousdale, Kirk Wise)
Experimental/Independent Film: All the Vermeers in New York (Jon Jost, Henry Rosenthal)
Special Award: National Film Board of Canada
Life Achievement: Budd Boetticher
New Generation: Carl Franklin (One False Move)

1992
Film: Unforgiven (Clint Eastwood)
Foreign Film: The Crying Game (Neil Jordan)
Actor: Clint Eastwood (Unforgiven)
Actress: Emma Thompson (Howards End)
Supporting Actor: Gene Hackman (Unforgiven)
Supporting Actress: Judy Davis (Husbands and Wives)
Director: Clint Eastwood (Unforgiven)
Screenplay: David Webb Peoples (Unforgiven)
Cinematography: Zhao Fei (Raise the Red Lantern)
Music: Zbigniew Preisner (Damage)
Documentary: Black Harvest (Bob Connolly, Robin Anderson); Threat (Stefan Jarl)
Animation: Aladdin (John Musker, Ron Clements) Experimental/Independent Film: It Wasn't Love (Sadie Benning)

1993
Film: Schindler's List (Steven Spielberg)
Foreign Film: Farewell My Concubine (Chen Kaige)
Actor: Anthony Hopkins (Shadowlands, Remains of the Day)
Actress: Holly Hunter (The Piano)
Supporting Actor: Tommy Lee Jones (The Fugitive)
Supporting Actress: Rosie Perez (Fearless); Anna Paquin (The Piano)
Director: Jane Campion (The Piano)
Screenplay: Jane Campion (The Piano)
Cinematography: Janusz Kaminski (Schindler's List); Stuart Dryburgh (The Piano)
Music: Zbigniew Preisner (Three Colours: Blue, The Secret Garden, Olivier, Olivier)
Production Design: Allan Starski (Schindler's List)
Documentary: It's All True (Orson Welles, Myron Meisel, Bill Krohn, Richard Wilson)
Animation: The Mighty River (Frederic Back)
Experimental/Independent Film: Silverlake Live: The View from Here (Tom Joslin, Peter Friedman)
Life Achievement: John Alton
New Generation: Leonardo DiCaprio (What's Eating Gilbert Grape?)

1994
Film: Pulp Fiction (Quentin Tarantino)
Foreign Film: Three Colours: Red (Krzysztof Kiéslowski)
Actor: John Travolta (Pulp Fiction)
Actress: Jessica Lange (Blue Sky)
Supporting Actor: Martin Landau (Ed Wood)
Supporting Actress: Dianne Wiest (Bullets over Broadway)
Director: Quentin Tarantino (Pulp Fiction)
Screenplay: Quentin Tarantino, Roger Avary (Pulp Fiction)
Cinematography: Stefan Czapsky (Ed Wood)
Music: Howard Shore (Ed Wood)
Production Design: Dennis Gassner (The Hudsucker Proxy)
Documentary: Hoop Dreams (Steve James, Peter Gilbert)
Animation: Roger Allers, Rob Minkoff (The Lion King)
Experimental/Independent Film: Remembrance of Things Fast (John Maybury)
Special Award: Pauline Kael
Life Achievement: Billy Wilder
New Generation: John Dahl (The Last Seduction)

1995
Film: Leaving Las Vegas (Mike Figgis)
Foreign Film: Wild Reeds (André Téchiné)
Actor: Nicolas Cage (Leaving Las Vegas)
Actress: Elisabeth Shue (Leaving Las Vegas)
Supporting Actor: Don Cheadle (Devil in a Blue Dress)
Supporting Actress: Joan Allen (Nixon)
Director: Mike Figgis (Leaving Las Vegas)
Screenplay: Emma Thompson (Sense and Sensibility)
Cinematography: Lu Yue (Shanghai Triad)
Music: Patrick Doyle (A Little Princess) Production Design: Bo Welch (A Little Princess)
Documentary: Crumb (Terry Zwigoff)
Animation: John Lasseter (Toy Story)
Experimental/Independent Film: From the Journals of Jean Seberg (Mark Rappaport)
Life Achievement: André De Toth
New Generation: Alfonso Cuaron (A Little Princess)

1996
Film: Secrets and Lies (Mike Leigh)
Foreign Film: La Cérémonie (Claude Chabrol)
Actor: Geoffrey Rush (Shine)
Actress: Brenda Blethyn (Secrets and Lies)
Supporting Actor: Edward Norton (Everyone Says I Love You, The People vs Larry Flynt, Primal Fear)
Supporting Actress: Barbara Hershey (The Portrait of a Lady)
Director: Mike Leigh (Secrets and Lies)
Screenplay: Ethan and Joel Coen (Fargo)
Cinematography: Chris Menges (Michael Collins); John Seale (The English Patient)
Music: Hal Willner and the Hey Hey Club Musicians (Kansas City)
Production Design: Brian Morris (Evita); Janet Patterson (The Portrait of a Lady)
Documentary: When We Were Kings (Leon Gast)
Animation: Nick Park (Creature Comforts, A Grand Day Out, The Wrong Trousers, A Close Shave)
Experimental/Independent Film: Sonic Outlaws (Craig Baldwin)
Life Achievement: Roger Corman
New Generation: Emily Watson (Breaking the Waves)

1997
Film: LA Confidential (Curtis Hanson)
Foreign Film: La Promesse (Jean-Pierre Dardenne, Luc Dardenne)
Actor: Robert Duvall (The Apostle)
Actress: Helena Bonham Carter (The Wings of the Dove)
Supporting Actor: Burt Reynolds (Boogie Nights)
Supporting Actress: Julianne Moore (Boogie Nights)
Director: Curtis Hanson (LA Confidential)
Screenplay: Curtis Hanson, Brian Helgeland (LA Confidential)
Cinematography: Dante Spinotti (LA Confidential)
Music: Philip Glass (Kundun)
Production Design: Peter Lamont (Titanic)
Animation: The Spirit of Christmas (Trey Parker, Matt Stone); Hercules (John Musker, Ron Clements)
Documentary: Riding the Rails (Michael Uys, Lexy Lovell)
Life Achievement: Joseph Lewis
Special Award: Peter Bogdanovich
New Generation: Paul Thomas Anderson (Hard Eight, Boogie Nights)

1998
Film: Saving Private Ryan (Steven Spielberg)
Foreign Film: Celebration/Festen (Thomas Vinterberg)
Actor: Ian McKellen (Gods and Monsters)
Actress: Ally Sheedy (High Art); Fernanda Montenegro (Central Station)
Supporting Actor: Billy Bob Thornton (A Simple Plan); Bill Murray (Rushmore, Wild Things)
Supporting Actress: Joan Allen (Pleasantville)
Director: Steven Spielberg (Saving Private Ryan)
Screenplay: Warren Beatty, Jeremy Pisker (Bulworth)
Cinematography: Janusz Kaminski (Saving Private Ryan)

Music: Elliot Goldenthal (The Butcher Boy)
Production Design: Jeannine Oppewall (Pleasantville)
Animation: A Bug's Life (John Lasseter, Andrew Stanton); T.R.A.N.S.I.T. (Piet Kroon)
Documentary: The Farm (Jonathan Stack, Liz Garbus, Wilbert Rideau)
Experimental/Independent Film: Elizabeth Subrin (Shuttle)
Life Achievement: Julius Epstein, Abraham Polonsky
New Generation: Wes Anderson (Rushmore, Bottle Rocket)

1999

Film: The Insider (Michael Mann)
Foreign Film: All About My Mother (Pedro Almodfivar)
Actor: Russell Crowe (The Insider)
Actress: Hilary Swank (Boys Don't Cry)
Supporting Actor: Christopher Plummer (The Insider)
Supporting Actress: Chloe Sevigny (Boys Don't Cry)
Director: Sam Mendes (American Beauty)
Screenplay: Charlie Kaufman (Being John Malkovich)
Cinematography: Dante Spinotti (The Insider)
Music: Trey Parker, Marc Shaiman (South Park: Bigger, Longer and Uncut)
Production Design: Rick Heinrichs (Sleepy Hollow)
Animation: The Iron Giant (Brad Bird)
Documentary: Buena Vista Social Club (Wim Wenders)
Experimental/Independent Film: Owen Land
Life Achievement: Dede Allen
New Generation: Alexander Payne, Jim Taylor (Citizen Ruth, Election)

2000

Film: Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon (Ang Lee)
Foreign Film: A One and a Two/Yi yi (Edward Yang)
Actor: Michael Douglas (Wonder Boys)
Actress: Julia Roberts (Erin Brockovich)
Supporting Actor: Willem Dafoe (Shadow of the Vampire)
Supporting Actress: Frances McDormand (Almost Famous, Wonder Boys)
Director: Steven Soderbergh (Erin Brockovich, Traffic)
Screenplay: Kenneth Lonergan (You Can Count on Me)
Cinematography: Peter Pau (Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon)
Music: Tan Dun (Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon)
Production Design: Tim Yip (Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon)
Animation: Chicken Run (Nick Park, Peter Lord)
Documentary: Dark Days (Marc Singer)
Life Achievement: Conrad L. Hall
New Generation: Mark Ruffalo (You Can Count On Me)

2001

Film: In the Bedroom (Todd Field)
Foreign Film: No Man's Land (Danis Tanovic)
Actor: Denzel Washington (Training Day)
Actress: Sissy Spacek (In the Bedroom)
Supporting Actor: Jim Broadbent (Moulin Rouge)
Supporting Actress: Kate Winslet (Iris)
Director: David Lynch (Mulholland Drive)
Screenplay: Christopher Nolan (Memento)
Cinematography: Roger Deakins (The Man Who Wasn't There)
Music: Howard Shore (The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring)
Production Design: Catherine Martin (Moulin Rouge)
Animation: Shrek (Andrew Adamson, Vicky Jenson)
Documentary: The Gleaners and I/Les Glaneurs et La Glaneuse (Agnes Varda)
Experimental/Independent Film: Trent Harris (The Beaver Trilogy)
Life Achievement: Ennio Morricone
New Generation: John Cameron Mitchell (Hedwig & the Angry Inch)

2002

Film: About Schmidt (Alexander Payne)
Foreign Film: Y Tu Mama Tambien (Alfonso Cuaron)
Actor: Jack Nicholson (About Schmidt); Daniel Day-Lewis (Gangs of New York)
Actress: Julianne Moore (Far From Heaven)
Supporting Actor: Chris Cooper (Adaptation)
Supporting Actress: Edie Falco (Sunshine State)
Director: Pedro Almodovar (Talk to Her)
Screenplay: Alexander Payne, Jim Taylor (About Schmidt)
Cinematography: Edward Lachman (Far From Heaven)
Music: Elmer Bernstein (Far From Heaven)
Production Design: Dante Ferretti (Gangs of New York)
Animation: Spirited Away/Sen To Chihiro No Kamikakushi (Hayao Miyazaki)
Documentary: The Cockettes (Bill Webber, David Weismann)
Experimental/Independent Film: Michael Snow (Corpus Collosum); Kenneth Anger for his body of work Life Achievement: Arthur Penn
New Generation: Lynne Ramsay (Morvern Callar)

2003

Film: American Splendor (Shari Springer Berman, Robert Pulcini)
Foreign Film: The Man on the Train/L'Homme du Train (Patrice Leconte)
Actor: Bill Murray (Lost in Translation)
Actress: Naomi Watts (21 Grams)
Supporting Actor: Bill Nighy (AKA; I Capture the Castle; Lawless Heart; Love Actually)
Supporting Actress: Shohreh Aghdashloo (House of Sand and Fog)
Director: Peter Jackson (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King)
Screenplay: Shari Springer Berman, Robert Pulcini (American Splendor)
Cinematography: Eduardo Serra (Girl with a Pearl Earring)
Music: Benoit Charest, Mathieu Chedid (Belleville Rendez-vous/Les Triplettes de Belleville)
Production Design: Grant Major (Lord of the Ring: The Return of the King)
Animation: Belleville Rendez-vous/Les Triplettes de Belleville (Sylvain Chomet)
Documentary: The Fog of War: Eleven Lessons from the Life of Robert McNamara (Errol Morris)
Life Achievement: Robert Altman
New Generation: Scarlett Johansson

2004

Film: Sideways (Alexander Payne)
Foreign Film: House of Flying Daggers/Shi Mian Mai Fu (Zhang Yimou)
Actor: Liam Neeson (Kinsey)
Actress: Imeld Staunton (Vera Drake)
Supporting Actor: Thomas Haden Church (Sideways)
Supporting Actress: Virginia Madsen (Sideways)
Director: Alexander Payne (Sideways)
Screenplay: Alexander Payne, Jim Taylor (Sideways)
Cinematography: Dion Beebe, Paul Cameron (Collateral)
Music: Michael Giacchino (The Incredibles)
Production Design: Dante Ferretti (The Aviator)
Animation: The Incredibles (Brad Bird)
Documentary: Born into Brothels: Calcutta's Red Light Kids (Zana Briski, Ross Kauffman) Experimental/Independent Film: Star Spangled to Death (Ken Jacobs)
Life Achievement: Jerry Lewis
New Generation: Joshua Marston, Catalina Sandino Moreno (Maria Full of Grace)

2005

Film: Brokeback Mountain (Ang Lee)
Foreign Film: Hidden/Cache (Michael Haneke)
Actor: Philip Seymour Hoffman (Capote)
Actress: Vera Farmiga (Down to the Bone)
Supporting Actor: William Hurt (A History of Violence)
Supporting Actress: Catherine Keener (Capote; Ballad of Jack and Rose; The 40 Year Old Virgin; The Interpreter)
Director: Ang Lee (Brokeback Mountain)
Screenplay: Dan Futterman (Capote); Noah Baumbach (The Squid and the Whate)
Cinematography: Robert Elswit (Good Night, and Good Luck)
Music: Joe Hisaishi, Youmi Kimura (Howl's Moving Castle/Hauru No Ugoku Shiro)
Production Design: William Change (2046)
Animation: Wallace & Gromit: The Curse of the Were-Rabbit (Steve Box, Nick Park)
Documentary: Grizzly Man (Werner Herzog)
Experimental/Independent Film: La Commune (Paris, 1871) (Peter Watkins)
Life Achievement: Richard Widmark
New Generation: Terrence Howard (Hustle & Flow)

9

MOVIE BOOKS AND PERIODICALS

This is given because it has been requested; but it is given with some diffidence. The best books for you will depend upon your particular interest. As autobiographies, biographies, and other relevant books are covered in the Companion's individual entries, what follows is a basic list of books and periodicals covering more general aspects of cinema. Those that are starred are particularly recommended as encapsulating a feeling about the movies wider than their own particular subject.

Many will be out of print, so the publisher and publication date (usually taken from my own copies and therefore not necessarily the first edition) are given in most instances to assist in tracking them down. There are specialist bookshops that can, at some cost, supply second-hand copies, and many will attempt to find out-of-print books for customers for a nominal service charge. Probably the best bookshops are the Cinema Bookshop in London's Great Russell Street, the bookshop in London's National Film Theatre, and Larry Edmunds' Bookshop on Los Angeles's Hollywood Boulevard, but there are many other general shops with a good selection of new and second-hand film books.

Annual Guides

BFI Film and Television Handbook (British Film Institute). Digest of film and television production in Britain, produced by the British Film Institute.
Film Review, F. Maurice Speed and (since 1989) James Cameron-Wilson (W. H. Allen). Reviews and credits of films released in Britain during the year, together with general essays, film books of the year, obituaries, etc. First published 1945.
Halliwell's Film & Video Guide, John Walker (Harper Entertainment). A companion to Halliwell's Who's Who in the Movies: reviews and star ratings for 20,000 films, together with technical and creative production credits and critics' comments, UK and US video, laser disc, video CD, and soundtrack availability, and index to three and four-star films and leading directors. First published 1977.
International Motion Picture Almanac (Quigley Publications). Provides a who's who and information on the movie industry, from a US perspective. First published 1930.
Leonard Maltin's Movie and Video Guide (Plume). Reviews and star ratings for around 20,000 films, with details of director and cast, US video and laser disc availability, and index of leading directors and stars. First published 1969.
Projections, ed. John Boorman and Walter Donohue (Faber & Faber). Essays by 'film-makers on film-making'. First published 1992.
Screen World, ed. John Willis (Applause). A pictorial and statistical record, together with credits, of the year's releases in the USA. First published 1949.
Variety International Film Guide, ed. Peter Cowie (Hamlyn). Reports on film-making around the world. First published 1964.
Virgin Film Guide, ed. the editors of Cinebooks (Virgin). Reviews and star ratings for around 4,000 films, together with technical and production credits, classification by genre, the Motion Picture Association of America rating and the British Board of Film Classification certificate, and an index of directors. First published 1992.

Reference

A–Z of Movie Directors, Ronald Bergan (Proteus, 1982).
The American Film Institute Catalog: Feature Films 1921–1930, ed. Kenneth W. Munden (Bowker, 1971).
The American Movies Reference Book: The Sound Era, ed. Paul Michael (Prentice Hall, 1969).
British Film Actors' Credits, 1895–1987, Scott Palmer (St James Press, 1988).
The British Film Catalogue Vol: The Fiction Film 1985-1994 by Denis Gifford (Fitzroy Dearborn, 2001).
The British Film Catalogue Vol. 2: Non-Fiction Film 1888-1984 by Denis Gifford (Fitzroy Dearborn, 2001).
Character People, Ken D. Jones, Arthur F. McClure, and Alfred E. Twomey (Citadel Press, 1976).
Cinema: A Critical Dictionary Vols 1–2, ed. Richard Roud (Secker & Warburg, 1980).
The Complete Film Dictionary, Ira Konigsberg (Bloomsbury, 1988).
The Complete Index to British Sound Films since 1928, ed. Alan Goble (Bowker Saur, 1999).
The Complete Index to Literary Sources in Films, ed. Alan Goble (Bowker Saur, 1999).
The Contemporary British & Irish Directors ed. Yoram Allon, Del Cullen, Hannah Patterson (Wallflower, 2001).
The Contemporary North American Directors ed. Yoram Allon, Del Cullen (Wallflower, 2001).
Cult Movie Stars, Danny Peary (Simon & Schuster, 1991).
Dictionary of Film Makers, Georges Sadoul, translated and updated by Peter Morris (University of California, 1972).
The Encyclopedia of Animated Cartoons, Jeff Lenburg (Facts on File, 1991).
Encyclopedia of European Cinema, ed. Ginette Vincendeau (Cassell/BFI, 1995).
Encyclopedia of Fantastic Film, R.G. Young (Applause, 2000).
The Encyclopedia of Film, James Monaco and the editors of Baseline (Perigee, 1991).
The Encyclopedia of Hollywood, Scott Siegel and Barbara Siegel (Avon Books, 1990).
The Encyclopedia of Monsters, Jeff Rovin (Facts on File, 1989).
The Encyclopedia of the Musical Film, Stanley Green (OUP, 1981).
Fashion in Film, ed. Regine and Peter W. Engelmeier (Prestel, 1997).
Film Fanatics' Guide, David Jones (Merlin, 1988).
Filmmaking on the Fringe: The Good, the Bad and the Deviant Directors, Maitland McDonagh (Citadel, 1995).
Focal Encyclopaedia of Film Techniques (Focal Press, 1969).
The Guinness Book of Movie Facts and Feats, Patrick Robinson (Guinness Publishing, fifth edition, 1993).
*_The Great Movie Stars Vols 1–3_, David Shipman (various, 1970/1991).
Hollywood Musicals Year by Year, Stanley Green (Hal Leonard, 1990).
The Illustrated Directory of Film Character Actors, David Quinlan (Batsford, 1985).
The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Cartoon Animals, Jeff Rovin (Prentice Hall, 1991).
The Illustrated Who's Who of Hollywood Directors: The Studio System in the Sound Era, Michael Barson (Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 1995)
The International Dictionary of Films and Filmmakers Vols 1–4, ed. Nicholas Thomas (St James Press, 1992).
The International Encyclopedia of Film, ed. Roger Manvell (Rainbird, 1972).
*_The International Film Encyclopedia_, Ephraim Katz (Macmillan, 1980).
Leonard Maltin's Movie Encyclopedia (Plume, 1994).
The Movie Directors Story, Joel W. Finler (Octopus, 1985).
Movie Parade, Paul Rotha (Studio, 1936).
The New Biographical Dictionary of Film, David Thomson (Little Brown, 2002).
Nonfiction Film: A Critical History (Indiana University Press, 1993).
The Oxford Companion to Film, ed. Liz-Anne Bawden (OUP, 1976).
The Oxford History of World Cinema, ed Geoffrey Nowell-Smith (OUP, 1996).
The Picturegoer's Who's Who and Encyclopaedia of the Screen Today (Odhams Press, 1933).
Quinlan's Illustrated Directory of Film Character Actors, David Quinlan (Batsford, 1997).
Quinlan's Illustrated Directory of Film Comedy Stars, David Quinlan (Batsford, 1992).
Quinlan's Illustrated Directory of Film Stars, David Quinlan (Batsford, fifth edition, 2000).
Quinlan's Illustrated Guide to Film Directors, David Quinlan (Batsford, 1983).
Reel Women: Pioneers of the Cinema, 1896 to the Present, Ally Acker (Batsford, 1991).
Variety's Who's Who in Showbusiness, ed. Mike Kaplan (Bowker, revised edition, 1989).
Who Played Who on the Screen, Roy Pickard (Batsford, 1988).
Who Was Who on Screen, Evelyn Mack Truitt (Bowker, 1984).
Who's Who in Hollywood Vols 1–2, David Ragan (Facts on File, 1992).
Who's Who of the Horrors and Other Fantasy Films, David J. Hogan (Barnes, 1980).
Women in Film: An International Guide, ed. Annette Kuhn with Susannah Radstone (Fawcett Columbine, 1990).
World Film Encyclopedia: A Universal Screen Guide, ed. Clarence Winchester (Amalgamated Press, 1933).

Histories

*_The American Film Industry: An Historical Dictionary_, Anthony Slide (Limelight, 1990).
The American Movie, William K. Everson (Atheneum, 1963).
The American Silent Film, William K. Everson (OUP, 1978).
Archaeology of the Cinema, C. W. Ceram (Thames & Hudson, 1965).
Archaeology of the Cinema, K. W. Marek (Harcourt, Brace, 1965).
The Best Remaining Seats, Ben M. Hall (Da Capo Press, 1988).
The British Film Collection 1896–1984, Patricia Warren (Elm Tree Books, 1984).
The Chronicle of the Movies, ed. Julian Brown (Hamlyn, 1991).
Cinema: The First Hundred Years, David Shipman (Weidenfeld & Nicolson, 1993).
A Concise History of the Cinema Vols 1–2, ed. Peter Cowie (Zwemmer/Barnes, 1971).
The Contemporary Cinema, Penelope Houston (Penguin, 1963).
Early American Cinema, Anthony Slide (Zwemmer, 1971).
*_Film: An International History of the Medium_, Robert Sklar (Thames & Hudson, 1993).
The Film Till Now, Paul Rotha and Richard Griffith (Spring Books, 1967).
Flashback: A Brief History of Film, Louis Giannetti and Scott Eyman (Prentice Hall, 1986).
The History of Movie Photography, Brian Coe (Eastview, 1981).
The History of the British Film 1896–1906, Rachael Low and Roger Manvell (Allen & Unwin, 1948).
The History of the British Film 1906–1914, Rachael Low (Allen & Unwin).
The History of the British Film 1914–1918, Rachael Low (Allen & Unwin).
The History of the British Film 1918–1929, Rachael Low (Allen & Unwin).
The History of the British Film: Documentary and Educational Films of the 30s, Rachael Low (Allen & Unwin).
*_The History of the British Film: Film Making in 1930s Britain_, Rachael Low (Allen & Unwin, 1985).
The History of the British Film: Films of Comment and Persuasion of the 30s, Rachael Low (Allen & Unwin).
Hollywood: 60 Great Years, 1930–1990, Jack Lodge, John Russell Taylor, Adrian Turner, Douglas Jarvis, David Castell, Mark Kermode (Prion, 1992).
The Hollywood Story, Joel W. Finler (Octopus, 1988).
The Illustrated History of the Cinema, ed. Ann Lloyd, consultant ed. David Robinson (Orbis, 1986).
The International Film Industry: An Historical Dictionary, Anthony Slide (Greenwood, 1989).
*_The Liveliest Art_, Arthur Knight (Macmillan, 1957).
The Long View: An International History of Cinema, Basil Wright (Secker & Warburg, 1974)
A Million and One Nights, Terry Ramsaye (Simon & Schuster, 1964).
The Miracle of the Movies, Leslie Wood (Burke, 1947).
Movie Parade, Paul Rotha (The Studio, 1936).
Movie-Made America: A Cultural History of American Movies, Robert Sklar (Random House, 1975).
*_The Movies_, Raymond Griffith and Arthur Mayer (Simon & Schuster, 1970).
*_A Pictorial History of the Silent Screen_, Daniel Blum (Spring Books, 1953).
*_A Pictorial History of the Talkies_, Daniel Blum (Grosset & Dunlap, 1958).
*_A Short History of the Movies_, Gerald Mast (Bobbs-Merrill, third edition, 1981).
Speed of Sound: Hollywood and the Talkie Revolution, Scott Eyman (Simon & Schuster, 1997).
Spellbound in Darkness: A History of the Silent Film, George C. Pratt (N.Y. Graphic Society, 1973).
*_The Story of Cinema Vols 1–2_, David Shipman (Hodder and Stoughton, 1982).
Variety History of Show Business (Hamlyn, 1993).
World Cinema 1895–1980, David Robinson (Eyre Methuen, 1981).

Movie Music

Music and the Silent Film: Contexts and Case Studies 1895–1924, Martin Miller Marks (OUP, 1998).
Music for the Movies, Tony Thomas (2nd ed., Gazelle, 1998).
Twenty-Four Frames Under: A Buried History of Film Music, Russell Lack (Quartet, 1997).

Studio Histories

Columbia

The Columbia Story, Clive Hirshhorn (Hamlyn, 1999).

Frank Capra: The Catastrophe of Success, Joseph McBride (Simon & Schuster, 1992).

Hail Columbia, Rochelle Larkin (Arlington House, 1975).

Hit & Run: How Jon Peters and Peter Guber Took Sony For a Ride in Hollywood, Nancy Griffin & Kim Masters (Simon & Schuster, 1996).

Indecent Exposure – A True Story of Hollywood and Wall Street, David McClintick (Columbus, 1982).

King Cohn*, Bob Thomas (Barrie & Rockliff, 1967).

The Name above the Title, Frank Capra (Macmillan, 1971).

Out of Focus: Power, Pride and Prejudice – David Puttnam in Hollywood, Charles Kipps (Century, 1989).

Disney

The Art of Walt Disney, Christopher Finch (Abrams, 1973).

Disneywar: The Battle for the Magic Kingdom, James B. Stewart (Simon and Schuster, 2005).

The Disney Studio Story, Richard Holliss and Brian Sibley (Octopus, 1988).

The Disney Version, Richard Schickel (Pavilion, 1986).

The Walt Disney Biography, Bob Thomas (Simon & Schuster, 1977).

Walt Disney: Hollywood's Dark Prince, Marc Eliot (Andre Deutsch, 1994).

Fox

Don't Say Yes until I Finish Talking, Mel Gussow (Doubleday, 1971).

The Films of 20th Century-Fox, Tony Thomas and Aubrey Solomon (Citadel, 1985).

Skouras, King of the Fox Studios, Carlo Curti (Holloway House, 1967).

The Studio*, John Gregory Dunne (W. H. Allen, 1970).

Upton Sinclair Presents William Fox (Upton Sinclair, 1933).

Zanuck: The Rise and Fall of Hollywood's Last Tycoon, Leonard Mosley (Granada, 1984).

The Zanucks of Hollywood: The Dark Legacy of a Movie Dynasty, Marlys J. Harris (Crown, 1989).

mgm

Fade Out: The Calamitous Final Days of MGM, Peter Bart (Simon & Schuster, 1990).

Heyday: An Autobiography, Dore Schary (Little, Brown, 1979).

The Lion's Share: The Story of an Entertainment Empire, Bosley Crowther (Dutton, 1957).

Merchant of Dreams: Louis B. Mayer, MGM and the Secret Hollywood* (Sidgwick & Jackson, 1993).

The MGM Story, John Douglas Eames (Pyramid, 1990).

MGM: When the Lion Roars, Peter Hay (Turner, 1993).

Picture*, Lillian Ross (Rinehart, 1952).

Thalberg: Life and Legend, Bob Thomas (Doubleday, 1969).

Paramount

Mountain of Dreams, Leslie Halliwell (Stonehill, 1976).

The Paramount Story, John Douglas Eames (Octopus, 1985).

The Public Is Never Wrong, Adolph Zukor with Dale Kramer (Putnam, 1953).

RKO

Empire: The Life, Legend and Madness of Howard Hughes, Donald L. Bartlett and James B. Steele (Norton, 1979).

The RKO Story, Richard Jewell and Vernon Harbin (Arlington House, 1982).

United Artists

Final Cut: Dreams and Disaster in the Making of Heaven's Gate, Steven Bach (Jonathan Cape, 1985).

The United Artists Story, Ronald Bergan (Octopus, 1986).

United Artists: The Company Built by the Stars, Tino Balio (University of Wisconsin, 1976).

Universal

The Horror Factory: The Horror Films of Universal 1931–55, Bruce Dettman and Michael Bedford (Gordon Press, 1976).

Universal Pictures: A Panoramic History, Michael G. Fitzgerald (Arlington House, 1977).

The Universal Story, Clive Hirshhorn (Hamlyn, 2000).

Warner Bros

The Devil's Candy: The Bonfire of the Vanities Goes to Hollywood*, Julie Salamon (Jonathan Cape, 1992).

Here's Looking at You Kid: 50 Years of Fighting, Working and Dreaming at Warner Bros, James R. Silke (Little, Brown, 1976).

Inside Warner Brothers 1935–1951, Rudy Behlmer (Viking, 1985).

The Warner Bros Story, Clive Hirshhorn (Octopus, 1979).

Warner Brothers, Charles Higham (Scribner, 1976).

National Cinemas

Australia

Australian Cinema, ed. Scott Murray (Allen & Unwin, 1994).

Australian Cinema 1970–1985, Brian McFarlane (Secker & Warburg, 1987).

The Australian Film Book 1930–Today, Simon Brand (Dreamweaver, 1985).

Australian Film: The Inside Story, Ken G. Hall (Summit, 1980).

History and Heartburn: The Saga of Australian Film 1896-1978, Eric Reade (Fairleight Dickinson University Press, 1981).

Austria

Austrian Cinema: A History, Robert von Dassanowsky (McFarland & Company, 2005)

Bulgaria

The Bulgarian Cinema, Ronald Holloway (Associated Unioversity Press, 1986)

Britain

The Age of the Dream Palace: Cinema and Society in Britain 1930–1939, Jeffrey Richards (Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1984).

All Our Yesterdays: 90 Years of British Cinema, ed. Charles Barr (BFI, 1986).

Arrows of Desire: The Films of Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger, Ian Christie (Waterstone, 1985).

An Autobiography of British Cinema, Brian McFarlane (Methuen/BFI, 1996).

The Beginnings of the Cinema in England, John Barnes (David & Charles, 1976).

Black in the British Frame, Stephen Bourne (Cassell, 1998).

British Cinema History, ed. James Curran and Vincent Porter (Weidenfeld & Nicolson, 1983).

British Cinema: The Lights that Failed, James Park (Batsford, 1990).

British Cinemas and Their Audiences, J. P. Mayer (Dobson, 1948).

British Film Music, John Huntley (Skelton Robinson, 1947).

British Film Studios, Patricia Warren (Batsford, 1995).

The Carry On Companion, Robert Ross (Batsford, 1996).

A Critical History of British Cinema, Roy Armes (OUP, 1978).

Ealing Studios*, Charles Barr (David & Charles, 1977).

Elstree: The British Hollywood, Patricia Warren (Elm Tree, 1983).

The Encyclopedia of British Film, ed Brian McFarlane (Methuen/BFI, 2003)

Fifty Classic British Films, 1932–1982: A Pictorial Record, Anthony Slide (Dover, 1985).

The Film Business: A History of British Cinema 1896–1972, Ernest Betts (Allen & Unwin, 1973).

The Finest Years: British Cinema of the 1940s*, Charles Drazin (André Deutsch, 1998).

Forever Ealing, George Perry (Pavilion, 1981).

Gainsborough Pictures, ed. Pam Cook (Cassell, 1998).

The Golden Gong: Fifty Years of the Rank Organization, Its Films and Its Stars, Quentin Falk (Columbus, 1987).

The Great British Picture Show, George Perry (Hart-Davis, MacGibbon, 1974).

Hammer, House of Horror, Howard Maxford (Batsford, 1996).

The Hammer Story, Marcus Hearn, Alan Barnes (Titan, 1998).

Hollywood England: The British Film Industry in the Sixties*, Alexander Walker (Michael Joseph, 1974).

The House of Horror: The Complete Story of Hammer Films, ed. Allen Eyles, Robert Adkinson, and Nicholas Frey (Lorrimer, 1973).

In Search of Gandhi*, Richard Attenborough (The Bodley Head, 1982).

J. Arthur Rank and the British Film Industry, Geoffrey Macnab (Routledge, 1993).

Keeping the British End Up: The Complete Guide to British Sex Films, Simon Sheridan (Reynolds and Hearn 2001).

Kiss Kiss Bang Bang: The Unofficial James Bond Film Companion, Alan Barnes and Marcus Hearn (Batsford, 1996).

Mass Observation at the Movies, ed. Jeffrey Richards and Dorothy Sheridan (Routledge, 1987).

A Mirror for England: British Movies from Austerity to Affluence, Raymond Durgnat (Faber & Faber, 1970).

Monty Python Encyclopedia, Robert Ross (Batsford, 1998).

My Indecision Is Final: The Rise and Fall of Goldcrest Films, Jake Eberts and Terry Ilott (Faber & Faber, 1990).

National Heroes: British Cinema in the Seventies and Eighties*, Alexander Walker (Harrap, 1985).

The Once and Future Film: British Cinema in the Seventies and Eighties, John Walker (Methuen, 1985).

The Rise of the Cinema in Great Britain, John Barnes (Bishopsgate, 1983).

Sex, Class and Realism: British Cinema 1956–1963, John Hill (BFI, 1986).

Shepperton Babylon: The Lost Worlds of British Cinema, Matthew Sweet (Faber and Faber, 2005)

Travels in Greeneland: The Cinema of Graham Greene, Quentin Falk (Quartet, 1990).

Twenty Years of British Films, Michael Balcon, Ernest Lindgren, Forsyth Hardy, Roger Manvell (Falcon Press, 1947).

China

City on Fire: Hong Kong Cinema, Lisa Odham Stokes and Michael Hoover (Verso, 1999).

Hong Kong Babylon, Fredric Dannen and Barry Long (Faber & Faber, 1997).

Hong Kong Cinema, Stephen Teo (BFI, 1997).

New Chinese Cinema, ed. Klaus Eder and Deac Rossell (BFI, 1993).

Sex and Zen and a Bullet in the Head, Stefan Hammond and Mike Williams (Titan, 1997).

Eastern Europe

The Czechoslovak New Wave, Peter Hames (University of California Press, 1985).

Directory of Eastern European Filmmakers and Films, ed. Keith Shiri (Flicks Books, 1992).

The Most Important Art: East European Film after 1945, Miura Leihm and Antonin J. Leihm (University of California Press, 1977).

Polish Film: A Twentieth-Century History, Charles Ford, Robert Hammond (McFarland, 2005).

World Cinema 1: Poland, Frank Bren (Flicks Books, 1990).

France

The Cinema in France After the New Wave, Jill Forbes (BFI/Macmillan, 1992).

Fifty Classic French Films, 1912–1982: A Pictorial Record, Anthony Slide (Dover, 1987).

French Cinema in the 80s: Nostalgia and the Crisis of Masculinity, Phil Powrie (OUP, 1997).

French Cinema Since 1946: Vol 1: The Great Tradition, Roy Armes (Tantivy/Barnes, 1970).

French Cinema Since 1946: Vol 2: The Personal Style, Roy Armes (Tantivy/Barnes, 1970).

The Golden Age of French Cinema 1929–1939, John W. Martin (Columbus, 1983).

The Great French Films, James Reid Paris (Citadel, 1983).

The New Wave, James Monaco (OUP, 1976).

Germany

From Caligari to Hitler, Siegfried Kracauer (Princeton University Press, 1947).

From Caligari to Hitler: A Psychological History of the German Film, Siegfried Kracauer (Noonday Press, 1960).

From Hitler to Heimat, Anton Kaes (Harvard University Press, 1989).

The Great German Films, Frederick W. Ott (Citadel, 1986).

The Haunted Screen: Expressionism in German Cinema and the Influence of Max Reinhardt*, Lotte H. Eisner (University of California Press, 1969).

Nazi Cinem, Erwin Leiser (Secker and Warburg, 1974)

The New German Cinema, John Sandford (Oswald Wolff, 1980).

New German Cinema: A History, Thomas Elsaesser (BFI/Macmillan, 1989).

Ireland

Cinema and Ireland, Kevin Rockett, Luke Gibbons, John Hill (Croom Helm, 1987).

World Cinema 4: Ireland, Brian McIlroy (Flicks Books, 1989).

India

Bollywood: The Indian Cinema Story, Nasreen Munni Kabir (Channel 4 Books, 2002).

Bollywood: Popular Indian Cinema, ed Lalit Mohan Joshi (Dakini, 2002).

Italy

Italian Cinema from Neorealism to the Present, Peter Bonadella (Ungar, 1985).

Italian Films, Robin Buss (Batsford, 1989).

Off Screen: Women and Film in Italy, ed. Giuliana Bruno and Maria Nadotti (Routledge, 1988).

Spaghetti Nightmares: Italian Fantasy-Horrors as Seen through the Eyes of Their Protagonists, Luca M. Palmerini and Gaetano Misretta (Fantasma, 1996).

Spaghetti Westerns: The Good, the Bad and the Violent, Thomas Weisser (McFarland, 1992).

Japan

Eros Plus Massacre: An Introduction to Japanese New Wave Cinema, David Desser (Indiana University Press, 1988).

A Hundred Years of Japanese Film by Donald Richie (Kondansha, 2002).

Japan: Screen Guide, Arne Svensson (Barnes, 1970).

The Japanese Film: Art and Industry, Joseph Anderson and Donald Richie (Grove Press, 1960).

Japanese Film Directors, Audie Bock (Kodansha, 1985).

Japanese Films: A Filmography and Commentary, 1921–1989, Beverley Bare Buehrer (St James Press, 1990).

The Japanese Movie: An Illustrated History*, Donald Ritchie (Kodansha, 1966).

Japanese Science Fiction, Fantasy and Horror Films, Stuart Galbraith IV (McFarland, 1994)

Monsters Are Attacking Tokyo: The Incredible World of Japanese Fantasy Films, Stuart Galbraith IV (Feral House, 1998).

Mexico

Mexican Cinema: Reflections of a Society 1986–1988, Carl J. Mora (University of California Press, 1989).

Mexican Cinema, ed. Paulo Antonio Paranagua (BFI/IMCINE, 1995).

Russia

Kino: A History of the Russian and Soviet Film*, Jay Leda (Allen & Unwin, 1983).

Silent Witness: Russian Films 1908–1919, ed. Paolo Cherchi Usai, Lorenzo Codelli, Carlo Montanaro, David Robinson (BFI, 1989).

Scandinavia

Scandinavian Cinema: Films and Film-makers in Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Norway and Sweden, Peter Cowie (Tantivy, 1992).

Sweden Vols 1–2, Peter Cowie (Zwemmer/Barnes, 1970).

World Cinema 2: Sweden, Brian McIlroy (Flicks Books, 1986).

South America

Argentine Cinema, ed. Tim Barnard (Nightwood, 1986).

Magical Reels: A History of Cinema in Latin America, John King (Verso, second edition, 1999).

Mexican Cinema, ed. Paulo Antonio Paranagua (BFI, 1996).

Mexican Cinema: Reflections of a Society 1986–1988, Carl J. Mora (University of California Press, 1989).

South American Cinema: Dictionary of Film Makers, Luis Trelles Plazaola (University of Puerto Rico, 1989).

Twenty-Five Years of the New Latin American Cinema, ed. Michael Chanan (BFI, 1983).

Spain

New Cinema in Spain, Vicente Molina Foix (BFI, 1977).

Out of the Past: Spanish Cinema after Franco, John Hopewell (BFI, 1986).

Spanish Film under Franco, Virginia Higginbotham (University of Texas Press, 1988).

The World of Luis Buñuel, ed. Joan Mellen (OUP, 1978).

United States

A Personal Journey with Martin Scorsese through American Movies*, Martin Scorsese, Michael Henry Wilson (Faber, 1997).

Adventures in the Screen Trade: A Personal View of* Hollywood and Screenwriting, William Goldman (Macdonald, 1983).

*_America at the Movies_, Margaret Farrand Thorp (Yale University Press, 1939).

American Cinema: Directors and Directions 1929–1968, Andrew Sarris (Dutton, 1968).

American Film Music, William Darby and Jack Du Bois (McFarland, 1990).

Behind the Scenes, Rudy Behlmer (Samuel French, 1990).

Blockbuster: How Hollywood Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Summer, Tom Shone (Simon and Schuster, 2004)

Canned Goods as Caviar: American Film Comedies of the 1930s, Gerald Weales (University of Chicago Press, 1985).

The Chaplin Encyclopedia, Glenn Mitchell (Batsford, 1997).

The Citizen Kane Book, Pauline Kael (Secker & Warburg, 1971).

*_City of Nets: A Portrait of Hollywood in the 1940s_, Otto Friedrich (Headline, 1987).

Close Encounters of the Third Kind Diary, Bob Balaban (Paradise Press, 1978).

David I. Selznick's Hollywood, Ronald Haver (Secker & Warburg, 1980).

Down and Dirty Pictures: Miramax, Sundance, and theRise of Independent Film, Peter Biskind (Simon and Schuster, 2004).

*_Easy Riders, Raging Bulls: How the Sex-Drugs-and-Rock'n'Roll Generation Saved Hollywood_, Peter Biskind (Simon & Schuster, 1998).

An Empire of Their Own: How the Jews Invented Hollywood, Neal Gabler (W. H. Allen, 1988).

Hanging On in Paradise, Fred Lawrence Guiles (McGraw-Hill, 1975).

Hollywood at Sunset, Charles Higham (Saturday Review Press, 1972).

Hollywood in the Twenties, David Robinson (Zwemmer, 1968).

Hollywood in the Thirties, John Baxter (Zwemmer, 1968).

Hollywood in the Forties, Charles Higham and Joel Greenberg (Zwemmer, 1968).

Hollywood in the Fifties, Charles Higham and Joel Greenberg (Zwemmer, 1972).

Hollywood in the Sixties, John Baxter (Zwemmer, 1972).

Hollywood in the Seventies, Les Keyser (Zwemmer, 1984).

Hollywood the Dream Factory, Hortense Powdermaker (Secker & Warburg, 1950).

Hollywood the Haunted House, Paul Mayersberg (Allen Lane, 1967).

Hollywood: The Movie Colony, the Movie Makers, Leo Rosten (Harcourt, Brace, 1941).

Hollywood: The Pioneers, Kevin Brownlow and John Kobal (Collins, 1979).

Hollywood Talks Turkey: The Screen's Greatest Flops, Doug McClelland (Faber & Faber, 1989).

Hollywood: The Years of Innocence, John Kobal (Thames & Hudson, 1985).

Hollywood Tycoons, Norman Zierold (Hamish Hamilton, 1969).

The Laurel and Hardy Encyclopedia, Glenn Mitchell (Batsford, 1995).

*_The Making of the Wizard of Oz_, Aljean Harmetz (Pavilion, 1989).

The Marx Brothers Encyclopedia, Glenn Mitchell (Batsford, 1996).

Masters of Starlight: Photographers in Hollywood, David Fahey and Linda Rich (Columbus, 1988).

Medium Cool: The Movies of the 1960s, Ethan Mordden (Knopf, 1990).

*_The Movie Moguls_, Philip French (Weidenfeld & Nicolson, 1969).

*_My Life with Cleopatra_, Walter Wanger and Joe Hyams (Bantam, 1963).

Naked Hollywood: Money and Power in the Movies Today, Nicolas Kent (BBC Books, 1991).

*_Of Mice and Magic: A History of American Animated Cartoons_, Leonard Maltin (Plume, 1987).

Offscreen Onscreen: Inside Stories of 60 Great Films, Peter van Gelder (Aurum, 1990).

Open Wide: How Hollywood Box Office Became a National Obsession, Dade Hayes, Jonathan Bing (Hyperion, 2004).

*_The Parade's Gone By..._, Kevin Brownlow (Secker & Warburg, 1960).

Radical Hollywood: The Untold Story Behind America's Favorite Movies, Paul Buhle, David Wagner (The New Press, 2002).

Rebels on the Backlot: Six Maverick Directors and How They Conquered the Hollywood System, Sharon Waxman (HarperCollins, 2005).

The Rise of the American Film, Lewis Jacobs (Harcourt, Brace, 1939).

Round Up the Usual Suspects: The Making of Casablanca – Bogart, Bergman, & World War II, Aljean Harmetz (Weidenfeld & Nicolson, 1993).

Seeing Is Believing: How Hollywood Taught Us to Stop Worrying and Love the Fifties, Peter Biskind (Pantheon, 1983).

Sometime in the Sun: The Hollywood Years of Fitzgerald, Faulkner, Nathanael West, Aldous Huxley, and James Agee, Tom Dardis (Scribner, 1976).

A Star Is Born: The Making of the 1954 Movie and its 1983 Restoration, Ronald Haver (Knopf, 1988).

Strangers in Paradise: The Hollywood Emigrés 1933–1950, John Russell Taylor (Faber & Faber, 1983).

Tales from the Hollywood Raj: The British in California, Sheridan Morley (Weidenfeld & Nicolson, 1983).

*_The War, the West and the Wilderness_, Kevin Brownlow (Secker & Warburg, 1979).

We're in the Money: Depression America and Its Films, Andrew Bergman (New York University Press, 1979).

The Whole Equation: A History of Hollywood, David Thomson (Knopf, 2004).

Writers in Hollywood, Ian Hamilton (Heinemann, 1989).

Censorship and Related Issues

Behind the Mask of Innocence, Kevin Brownlow (Jonathan Cape, 1990).

Brief Encounters: Lesbians and Gays in British Cinema 1930–1971, Stephen Bourne (Cassell, 1996).

The British Board of Film Censors: Film Censorship in Britain 1896–1950, James C. Robertson (Croom Helm, 1985).

The Celluloid Closet: Homosexuality in the Movies, Vito Russo (HarperCollins, 1987).

Censored, Tom Dewe Mathews (Chatto & Windus, 1994).

*_Cinema, Censorship and Sexuality 1909–1925_, Annette Kuhn (Routledge, 1989).

The Dame in the Kimono: Hollywood Censorship and the Production Code from the 1920s to the 1960s, Leonard J. Leff and Jerold L. Simmons (Weidenfeld & Nicolson, 1990).

*_The Face on the Cutting Room Floor: The Story of Movie and Television Censorship_, Murray Schumach (Morrow, 1964).

Film Censorship, Guy Phelps (Gollancz, 1975).

From Reverence to Rape: The Treatment of Women in the Movies, Molly Haskell (Holt, Rinehart & Winston, 1974).

The Hidden Cinema: British Film Censorship in Action 1913–1972, James Robertson (Routledge, 1993).

Hollywood Censored, Gregory D. Black (Cambridge University Press, 1994).

Hollywood Lolitas: The Nymphet Syndrome in the Movies, Marianne Sinclair (Henry Holt, 1988).

Images in the Dark: An Encyclopedia of Gay and Lesbian Film and Video, Raymond Murray (Plume, 1996).

See No Evil - Banned Films and Video Controversy, David Kerekes and David Slater (Head Press, 2000).

Sex in the Movies: The Celluloid Sacrifice, Alexander Walker (Penguin, 1986).

Sin and Censorship, Frank Walsh (Yale, 1996).

Sin in Soft Focus: Pre-Code Hollywood, Mark A. Vieira (Harry N. Abrams, 1999).

What the Censor Saw, John Trevelyan (Michael Joseph, 1973).

The Critics

*_Agee on Film: Reviews and Comments_, James Agee (Beacon Press, 1964).

Around Cinemas, James Agate (Home and Van Thal, 1946).

Before My Eyes: Film Criticism and Comment, Stanley Kauffmann (Harper & Row, 1980).

*_The C. A. Lejeune Film Reader_, ed. Anthony Lejeune (Carcanet, 1991).

*_Chestnuts in Her Lap_, C. A. Lejeune (Phoenix House, 1947).

Cruising the Movies: A Sexual Guide to 'Oldies' on TV, Boyd McDonald (Gay Presses of New York, 1985).

Deadline at Dawn: Film Writings 1980–1990, Judith Williamson (Marion Boyars, 1992).

*_The Dilys Powell Film Reader_, ed. Christopher Cook (OUP, 1991).

Dilys Powell – The Golden Screen: Fifty Years of Films, ed. George Perry (Pavilion, 1989).

Drawn and Quartered, Richard Winnington (Saturn Press, 1948).

Durgnat on Film, Raymond Durgnat (Faber & Faber, 1976).

Film Criticism and Caricatures 1943-53, Richard Winnington (Elek, 1975).

Halliwell's Hundred: A Nostalgic Choice of Films from the Golden Age, Leslie Halliwell (Granada, 1982).

Halliwell's Top 1000: The Ultimate Movie Countdown, John Walker (HarperCollins Entertainment, 2005)

John Simon on Film: Criticism 1982-2001, John Simon (Applause, 2005)

Let's Go to the Pictures, Iris Barry (Chatto & Windus, 1936).

Movies into Film: Film Criticism 1967–1970, John Simon (Delta, 1971).

*_On Movies_, Dwight Macdonald (Prentice Hall, 1969).

100 Best Films of the Century, Barry Norman (Chapmans, 1992).

Pauline Kael's _New Yorker_ reviews have been collected in the following volumes:

I Lost It at the Movies, 1964; _Kiss Kiss Bang Bang_, 1968; _Going Steady_, 1970; _Deeper into Movies_, 1974; _Reeling_, 1976; _When the Lights Go Down_, 1980; _Taking It All In_, 1984; _State of the Art_, 1986; _Hooked_, 1990; _Movie Love_, 1992.

Her capsule reviews were collected in _5001 Nights at the Movies_, 1982.

*_The Pleasure Dome: The Collected Film Criticism 1935–1940_, Graham Greene (Secker & Warburg, 1972).

The Private Eye, the Cowboy and the Very Naked Girl, Judith Crist (Paperback Library, 1970).

Private Screenings: Views of the Cinema of the Sixties, John Simon (Macmillan, 1967).

*_Produced and Abandoned: The National Society of Film Critics Write on the Best Films You've Never Seen_, ed. Michael Sragow (Mercury House, 1990).

Shots in the Dark, ed. Edgar Anstey, Roger Manvell, Ernest Lindgren, Paul Rotha (Allan Wingate, 1951).

Three-Quarter Face, Penelope Gilliatt (Secker & Warburg, 1980).

Violent Screen: A Critic's 13 Years on the Front Lines of Movie Mayhem, Stephen Hunter (Bancroft Press, 1996).

You Ain't Heard Nothin' Yet: The American Talking Film: History and Memory 1927–1949, Andrew Sarris (OUP, 1998).

Film Theory and Practice

The Art of the Film, Ernest Lindgren (Allen & Unwin, 1948).

The Art of the Motion Picture, Vachel Indsay (Modern Library, reissued, 2000).

Celluloid: The Film Today, Paul Rotha (Longman, 1931).

Concepts in Film Theory, Dudley Andrew (OUP, 1984).

A Discovery of Cinema, Thorold Dickinson (OUP, 1970).

Documentary Film, Paul Rotha (Faber & Faber, 1936).

*_Film_, Roger Manvell (Pelican, 1944).

Film as Art, Rudolph Arnheim (Faber & Faber, 1969).

Film as Film, V. F. Perkins (Penguin, 1972).

Film Form, Sergei Eisenstein (Harcourt, Brace, 1947).

Film Language: A Semiotics of the Cinema, Christian Metz (OUP, 1974).

Film Sense, Sergei Eisenstein (Harcourt, Brace, 1949).

Film Technique and Film Acting, V. L. Pudovkin (Vision/Mayflower, 1958).

Footnotes to the Film, ed. Charles Davy (Lovat Dickson, 1938).

A Grammar of Film, Raymond Spottiswoode (Jonathan Cape, 1937).

Grierson on Documentary, ed. Forsyth Hardy (Faber & Faber, 1966).

The Immediate Experience, Robert Warshow (Doubleday, 1962).

Independent Filmmaking, Lenny Lipton (Straight Arrow, 1972).

Kino-Eye: The Writing of Dziga Vertov, ed. Annette Michelson (Pluto Press, 1984).

The Major Film Theories, J. Dudley Andrew (OUP, 1976).

Movies and Methods Vols 1–2, ed. Bill Nichols (University of California Press, 1985).

Rotha on the Film, Paul Rotha (Faber & Faber, 1958).

The Secret Language of Film, Jean-Claude Carrière (Faber & Faber, 1994).

Signs and Meanings in the Cinema, Peter Wollen (Secker & Warburg, 1974).

The Struggle for the Film, Hans Richter (Scolar Press, 1986).

The Technique of Film Editing, Karel Reisz (Focal Press, 1968).

What Is Cinema? Vols 1–2, André Bazin (University of California Press, 1971).

Individual Movies

The Devil's Candy: The Bonfire of the Vanities Goes Hollywood, Julie Salamon (Jonathan Cape, 1992).

Ultimate Porno, Pier Nico Solinas (Eyecontact, 1981). On the making of _Caligula_.

Casablanca: As Time Goes By, Frank Miller (Turner, 1992).

Round Up the Usual Suspects: The Making of Casablanca – Bogart, Bergman, & World War II, Aljean Harmetz (Weidenfeld & Nicolson, 1995).

Meeting at the Sphinx: Gabriel Pascal's Production of Bernard Shaw's Caesar and Cleopatra, Marjorie Deans (Macdonald, 1945).

My Life with Cleopatra, Walter Wanger and Joe Hyams (Corgi, 1963).

Close Encounters of the Third Kind Diary, Bob Balaban (Paradise Press, 1978).

The Citizen Kane Book, Pauline Kael (Secker & Warburg, 1971).

The Making of Citizen Kane, Robert L. Carringer (John Murray, 1985).

The Godfather Book, Peter Cowie (Faber, 1997).

How It Happened Here, Kevin Brownlow (Secker & Warburg, 1968). On the making of _It Happened Here_.

Killer Instinct, Jane Hamsher (Orion, 1997). On the making of _Natural Born Killers_.

The Making of King Kong, Orville Goldner and George E. Turner (Ballantine, 1975). On the 1933 film.

The Creation of Dino De Laurentiis's King Kong, Bruce Bahrenburg (Star, 1976).

By Any Means Necessary: The Trials and Tribulations of the Making of Malcolm X, Spike Lee with Ralph Wiley (Vintage, 1993).

Making Priscilla, Al Clarke (Penguin, 1994). On the making of _The Adventures of Priscilla, Queen of the Desert_.

Picture, Lillian Ross (Gollancz, 1953). On the making of _The Red Badge of Courage_.

A Star Is Born: The Making of the 1954 Movie and its 1983 Restoration, Ronald Haver (Harper & Row, 1990).

Scott of the Antarctic: The Film and Its Production, David James (Convoy, 1948).

The Story of The Fifth Element, Luc Besson (Titan, 1998).

The Lost Worlds of 2001, Arthur C. Clarke (Sidgwick and Jackson, 1972).

Monster: Living Off the Big Screen, John Gregory Dunne (Random House, 1997). On the writing of _Up Close and Personal_.

The Making of The Wizard of Oz, Aljean Harmetz (Pavilion, 1989).

Titanic and the Making of James Cameron, Paula Parisi (Orion, 1998).

Types of Film

Animated

The Encyclopedia of Walt Disney's Animated Characters: From Mickey Mouse to Hercules, John Grant (Hyperion, 1997).

Looney Tunes and Merrie Melodies: A Complete Illustrated Guide to the Warner Bros Cartoons, Jerry Beck, Will Friedwald (Henry Holt, 1989).

Of Mice and Magic: A History of American Animated Cartoons, Leonard Maltin (Plume, 1987).

B Movies

B Movies, Don Miller (Curtis, 1973).

Kings of the B's: Working within the Hollywood System, ed. Todd McCarthy and Charles Flynn (E. P. Dutton, 1975).

Second Feature: The Best of the 'B' Films, John Cocchi (Citadel, 1991).

Comedy

Canned Goods as Caviar: American Film Comedies of the 1930s, Gerald Weales (University of Chicago Press, 1985).

The Carry-On Book, Kenneth Eastaugh (David & Charles, 1978).

The Comic Mind, Gerald Mast (University of Chicago Press, 1979).

The Great Funnies: A History of Film Comedies, David Robinson (Studio Vista/Dutton, 1969).

Monty Python: Complete and Utter Theory of the Grotesque, ed. John O. Thompson (BFI, 1982).

Screwball: Hollywood's Madcap Romantic Comedies, Ed Sikov (Crown, 1989).

Crime

The BFI Companion to Crime, ed. Phil Hardy (Cassell/BFI, 1997).

Dark City: The Lost World of Film Noir, Eddie Muller (Titan, 1998).

The Great Cop Pictures, James Robert Parish (Scarecrow, 1989).

Crime Movies, Carlos Clarens (W. W. Norton, 1980).

Dark City: The Film Noir, Spencer Selby (St James Press, 1984).

Film Noir: An Encyclopedic Reference Guide, ed. Alain Silver and Elizabeth Ward (Bloomsbury, 1988).

The Great Detective Pictures, James Robert Parish and Michael R. Pitts (Scarecrow, 1990).

A Pictorial History of Crime Films, Ian Cameron (Hamlyn, 1975).

Prison Pictures from Hollywood, James Robert Parish (McFarland, 1990).

Cult

Cult Movies Vols 1–3, Danny Peary (Delacorte, 1981)

The Incredibly Strange Film Book, Jonathan Ross (Simon & Schuster, 1993).

Incredibly Strange Films, ed. V. Vale and Andrea Juno (Re/Search, 1986).

The Official Splatter Movie Guide Vols 1–2, John McCarty (St Martin's Press, 1989/1992).

The Psychotronic Encyclopedia of Film, Michael Weldon (Plexus, 1989).

Shock Xpress – the Essential Guide to Exploitation Cinema Vols 1–2, ed. Stefan Jaworzyn (Titan, 1993/1994).

Splatter Movies, John McCarty (Columbus, 1984).

Fantasy and Science Fiction

The A–Z of Science Fiction & Fantasy Film, Howard Maxford (Batsford, 1998).

Aurum Film Encyclopedia: Science Fiction, ed. Phil Hardy (Aurum, 1984).

The Encyclopedia of Fantastic Film: Ali Baba to Zombies, R. G. Young (Applause, 2000)

Fantastic Cinema: An Illustrated Survey, Peter Nicholls (Ebury Press, 1984).

The Film Fantasy Scrapbook, Ray Harryhausen (Titan Books, 1984).

The Illustrated Dinosaur Movie Guide, Stephen Jones (Titan, 1993).

Keep Watching the Skies, Brian J. Robb (Shelwing/McFarland, 1998)

The Primal Screen: A History of Science Fiction Film, John Brosnan (Orbit, 1991).

The Science Fiction Image: The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Science Fiction in Film, Television, Radio and the Theater, Gene Wright (Columbus, 1983).

History

Epic Film: Myth and History, Derek Elley (Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1984).

Epic Films: Casts, Credits and Commentary on Over 250 Historical Spectacle Movies, Gary A. Smith (McFarland, 1991).

The Hollywood History of the World, George Fraser MacDonald (William Morrow, 1988).

Hollywood Holyland, Ken Darby (Scarecrow, 1992).

Religion in the Cinema, Ivan Butler (Barnes, 1979).

Past Imperfect: History According to the Movies, ed Mark C.Carnes (Henry Holt, 1995).

Visions of Yesterday, Jeffrey Richards (Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1973).

Horror

A–Z of Horror Films, Howard Maxford (Batsford, 1996).

Aurum Film Encyclopedia: Horror, ed. Phil Hardy (Aurum Press, revised edition, 1993).

The BFI Companion to Horror, ed. Kim Newman (Cassell, 1997).

Caligari's Children: The Film as Tale of Terror, S. S. Prawer (OUP, 1980).

The Dracula Centenary Book, Peter Haining (Souvenir Press, 1987).

English Gothic: A Century of Horror Cinema, Jonathan Rigby (Reynolds and Hearn, 2000).

The Frankenstein File, ed. Peter Haining (New English Library, 1977).

Hammer, House of Horror: Behind the Screams, Howard Maxford (Batsford, 1996).

A Heritage of Horror: The English Gothic Cinema 1946–1972, David Pirie (Gordon Fraser, 1973).

Hollywood Gothic, David J. Skal (W. W. Norton, 1990).

Horror Film Directors 1931–1990, Dennis Fischer (McFarland, 1991).

Horror Movies, Carlos Clarens (Secker & Warburg, 1967).

The Illustrated Frankenstein Movie Guide, Stephen Jones (Titan, 1994).

The Illustrated Vampire Movie Guide, Stephen Jones (Titan, 1993).

Immoral Tales: Sex and Horror Cinema in Europe 1956-1984, Cathal Tohill and Pete Tombs (Primitive, 1994).

Let's Scare 'Em, Rick Atkins (Shelwing/McFarland, 1998).

Movie Monsters, Denis Gifford (Studio Vista, 1969).

Necronomican Book 1, ed. Andy Black (Creation, 1997).

Nightmare Movies: A Critical Guide to Contemporary Horror Films, Kim Newman (Harmony Books, 1988).

Nightwalkers: Gothic Horror Movies – The Modern Era, Robert Lanier Wright (Taylor Publishing, 1997).

The Vampire Cinema, David Pirie (Galley Press, 1977).

The Vampire Film, Alan Silver and James Ursini (Barnes, 1976).

Musicals

All Singing! All Talking! All Dancing! A Pictorial History of the Movie Musical, John Springer (Cadillac, 1966).

The American Film Musical, Rick Altman (BFI/Indiana University Press, 1989).

Encyclopedia of Rock Music on Film, Linda J. Sandahl (Blandford Press, 1986).

Gotta Sing! Gotta Dance!: A Pictorial History of Film Musicals, John Kobal (Hamlyn, 1971).

The Hollywood Musical, Jane Feuer (BFI, 1982).

The Hollywood Musical, Clive Hirshhorn (Crown, 1981).

Hollywood Sings: An Inside Look at Sixty Years of Academy Award-Nominated Songs, Susan Sackett (Billboard, 1995).

The Rock and Roll Movie Encyclopedia of the 1950s, Mark Thomas McGee (McFarland, 1990).

A Song in the Dark: The Birth of the Musical Film, Richard Barrios (OUP, 1995).

The World of Entertainment! Hollywood's Greatest Musicals, Hugh Fordin (Doubleday, 1975).

War

Hollywood at War, Ken D. Jones and Arthur F. McClure (Barnes, 1973).

Hollywood's Vietnam: From the Green Berets to Apocalypse Now, Gilbert Adair (Proteus, 1981).

A Pictorial History of War Films, Clyde Jeavons (Hamlyn, 1974).

War Movies, Jay Hyams (Gallery Books, 1984).

Western

B Western Actors Encyclopedia, Ted Holland (Shelwing/McFarland, 1998).

The Film Encyclopedia of Westerns, ed. Phil Hardy (Octopus, 1985).

The BFI Companion to the Western, ed. Edward Buscombe (BFI/André Deutsch, 1988).

The Golden Corral, Ed Andreychuk (Shelwing/McFarland, 1998).

Horizons West, Jim Kitses (Thames & Hudson, 1969).

The Life and Times of the Western Movie, Jay Hyams (Columbus, 1983).

The Movie Book of the Western, ed. Ian Cameron and Douglas Pye (Studio Vista/Cassell, 1996)

A Pictorial History of the Western Film, William K. Everson (Citadel, 1969).

Shoot 'Em Ups, Les Adams and Buck Rainey (Arlington House, 1978).

The Western, Allen Eyles (Tantivy, 1975).

The Western from Silents to the Seventies, William K. Everson and George N. Fenin (Penguin, 1973).

Westerns, Philip French (Secker & Warburg, 1977).

Wild West Movies, Kim Newman (Bloomsbury, 1990).

Other

Black Action Films, James Robert Parish and George H. Hill (McFarland, 1989).

Martial Arts Movies: From Bruce Lee to the Ninjas, Richard Meyers, Amy Harlib, Bill and Karen Palmer (Citadel, 1985).

Road Movies: A Complete Guide to Cinema on Wheels, Mark Williams (Proteus, 1982).

The Samurai Film, Alain Silver (Columbus, 1983).

Sports in the Movies, Ronald Bergen (Proteus, 1982).

Journalism and Gossip

Do You Sleep in the Nude?, Rex Reed (W. H. Allen, 1969).

*_The 50-Year Decline and Fall of Hollywood_, Ezra Goodman (Simon & Schuster, 1961).

Gods and Monsters: Movers, Shakers, and Other Casualties of the Hollywood Machine, Peter Biskind (Nation Books, 2004).

*_Hollywood Babylon_, Kenneth Anger (Straight Arrow, 1975).

Hollywood Babylon II, Kenneth Anger (Arrow Books, 1986).

Hollywood Confidential, Coral Amende (Plume, 1997).

Hollywood Revisited, Sheilah Graham (St Martin's Press, 1985).

Hollywood's Unsolved Mysteries, John Austin (SPI Books, 1992).

If You're Talking to Me, Your Career Must Be in Trouble: Movies, Mayhem and Malice, Joe Queenan (Picador, 1994).

Moiveland: Hollywood and the Great American Dream Culture, Jerome Charyn (Putnam, 1989).

Opening Shots: The Unusual, Unexpected, Potentially Career-Threatening First Roles that Launched the Careers of 70 Hollywood Stars, Damine Bona (Workman Publishing, 1994).

People Will Talk, John Kobal (Aurum, 1986).

The Prince, The Showgirl and Me: The Colin Clark Diaries, Colin Clark (HarperCollins, 1995).

Rolling Breaks and Other Movie Business, Aljean Harmetz (Alfred A. Knopf, 1983).

Scratch an Actor: The Intimate Lowdown on Hollywood Nightlife, Sheilah Graham (W. H. Allen, 1969).

Self-Creations: 13 Impersonalities, Thomas B. Morgan (Michael Joseph, 1966). Includes profiles of Gary Cooper, Sammy Davis Jnr, Elia Kazan, Teenage Heroes (Frankie Avalon, Edd Byrnes), John Wayne.

The Seven Deadly Sins of Hollywood, Thomas Wiseman (Oldbourne, 1957).

Travolta to Keaton, Rex Reed (William Morrow, 1979).

Fiction

The Adventures of Lucky Pierre: Director's Cut, Robert Coover (Grove Press, 2002). In Cinecity, a pornographic movie actor becomes the hapless star of nine movies.

Beggar's Cup, Eric Blau (Knopf, 1993). A Hollywood producer of horror movies decides to make a biopic of Zionist leader Theodor Herzl.

Blonde, Joyce Carol Oates (Fourth Dimension, 2000). A fictionalized biography of Marilyn Monroe. It was made into a TV mini-series in 2001, starring Poppy Montgomery.

Blue Movie, Terry Southern (Calder and Boyars, 1973). A leading director attempts to make a film covering every aspect of love and desire.

Boy Wonder, James Robert Baker (NAL, 1988). Friends and enemies remember the dazzling career of Shark Trager, the quintessential Hollywood producer of the last quarter of the twentieth century.

By Design, Richard E. Grant (Picador, 1998). In Hollywood, an interior designer and a masseuse are involved with stars making the disaster movie to end all disaster movies.

Cannes: The Movie, Ian Johnstone (Chatto and Windus, 1990). The director of the 50th Cannes Film Festival in 1995 tries to come to terms with political, commercial and criminal pressures.

The Carpetbaggers, Harold Robbins (1949). A millionaire playboy and plane-maker (who resembles Howard Hughes) moves to Hollywood in the 20s and 30s; filmed by Edward Dmytryk in 1954.

The Comedy Writer, Peter Farrelly (Doubleday, 1998). A would-be comedy writer heads for Los Angeles and mixes with peculiar people.

Concerning a Woman of Sin, ed. Daniel Talbot (Consul, 1960). Anthology of nine stories set in Hollywood: Ben Hecht's title story; John O'Hara's 'Brother'; Christopher Isherwood's 'The World in the Evening'; F. Scott Fitzgerald's 'Crazy Sunday'; William Saroyan's 'The Brokenhearted Comedian and the Girl Who Took the Place of His Unfaithful Wife'; Irwin Shaw's 'The City Was in Total Darkness'; Budd Schulberg's 'A Table at Ciro's'; Ring Lardner's 'The Love Nest'.

The Chrysanthemum Palace, Bruce Wagner (Simon and Schuster, 2005). Three middle-aged Hollywood actors live in the shadow of their more famous parents.

The Day of the Locust, Nathanael West (1939). An account of Hollywood's dispossessed; filmed by John Schlesinger in 1975.

Death by Hollywood, Steven Bochco (Bloomsbury, 2003). An LA cop investigates the murder of an actor.

The Deer Park, Norman Mailer (Allan Wingate, 1957). A young writer compromises his talent as he becomes involved in the lives of a movie director, a temperamental Hollywood star, and a sleazy producer.

Dirty Eddie, Ludwig Bemelmans (1947). Farcical fun at the expense of Hollywood.

The Disenchanted, Budd Schulberg (Random House, 1950). A young screenwriter in Hollywood witnesses the final collapse of an alcoholic writer (who resembles Scott Fitzgerald).

The Distant Laughter, Bryan Forbes (Collins, 1972). A film director with a failing marriage to an actress embarks on his new film, a love story.

The Dream Merchants, Harold Robbins (1961). A film director becomes successful in the early days of Hollywood; made into a TV movie in 1980 by Vincent Sherman.

The Ecstasy Business, Richard Condon (William Heinemann, 1967). The world's greatest director of thrillers makes a new film starring a British superstar, whose ambition is to sleep with every female in the world between the ages of eighteen and twenty-four, and his voluptuous former wife, whom he keeps remarrying.

The Englishman's Boy, Guy Vanderheaghe (Doubleday, 1997). A hack is hired by a sleazy producer to write an epic western.

The Errol Flynn Movie, Geoff Nicholson (Hodder and Stoughton, 1993). An unknown actor cast as Errol Flynn in a biopic by an Australian director begins to realize how much he has in common with the late hell-raiser.

Farewell Leicester Square, Betty Miller (Robert Hale, 1941; Persephone, 2000). In the 1930s, an English film director attempts to come to terms with being a Jew in an anti-semitic society.

The Film Explainer, Gert Hoffman (Secker & Warburg, 1995). An elderly man who is the film explainer and pianist at a village cinema faces an uncertain future as his employer considers showing talkies. Filmed as Kinoerzähler, directed by Bernhard Sinkel and starring Armin Muller-Stahl in 1993.

Flicker, Theodore Roszak (Summit, 1991). A film buff is drawn into a conspiracy to control the world through cinema as he investigates the disappearance of a horror-movie director.

Force Majeure, Bruce Wagner (Random House, 1991). A Hollywood screenwriter looks for success and love in Beverly Hills.

Fowler's End, Gerald Kersh (Heinemann, 1957). A young man takes over as manager of a dingy flea-pit of a cinema in darkest North London.

Get Shorty, Elmore Leonard (Delacorte Press, 1990). A Miami debt collector for the mob goes to Los Angeles and discovers that he has the requisite talents to be a movie producer. Filmed in 1995 by Barry Sonnenfeld, starring John Travolta, Gene Hackman and Rene Russo.

Gone Tomorrow, Gary Indiana (Hodder and Stoughton, 1993). An actor goes to Colombia to appear in a film financed by a drug dealer and made by a disciple of a dead, drug-addicted, homosexual German director (who resembles Rainer Werner Fassbinder).

I, Fatty, Jerry Stahl (Alison & Busby, 2005). Silent screen comedian Fatty Arbuckle is offered up as a scapegoat by the studios in order to appease the Christian lobby.

I Was Howard Hughes, Steven Carter (Bloomsbury, 2005). A biographer works on the life of aviator and film tycoon Howard Hughes.

I'm Losing You, Bruce Wagner (Villard, 1996). Denizens of Hollywood strive for success.

Ice Fire Water, Leslie Epstein (W. W. Norton, 1999). A nonagenerain Jewish composer recalls his adventures during World War II, his time in Hollwyood and his romancing of actresses Sonja Henie, Carmen Miranda and Esther Williams.

Inside Daisy Clover, Gavin Lambert (1959). The problems of a young actress in 30s Hollywood; filmed by Robert Mulligan in 1965.

In The Beauty of the Lilies, John Updike (Hamish Hamilton, 1996). In a history of four generations of an American family in the 20th century, a beauty queen – Miss Delaware Peach of 1947 – becomes a Hollywood star.

It's All True, David Freeman (Simon and Schuster, 2004). An unsuccessful screenwriter observes the lives of other failures.

Jimmy Dean Prepares, Sam Toperoff (Granta, 1998). A re-creation of the life of James Dean, using actual events, but told as a novel.

Karoo, Steve Tesich (Harcourt Brace, 1998). A Hollywood script doctor watches his life disintegrate.

Keystone, Peter Lovesey (Arrow, 1984). An English vaudeville comedian joins Mack Sennett's studio in 1915, becomes a Keystone Kop and is framed for murder.

The Last Tycoon, Scott Fitzgerald (1941). The travails of a film producer (who resembles Irving Thalberg); filmed by Elia Kazan in 1976.

The Late Great Creature Show, Brock Brower (Atheneum, 1972). An ageing star of horror movies is determined to end his career in a spectacular fashion.

The Little Sister, Raymond Chandler (Hamish Hamilton, 1949). A thriller that touches on life in Los Angeles.

Loser Takes All, Graham Greene (Bodley Head, 1955). Not strictly a novel about film, but it does feature Herbert Drethter, the boss of a large organisation, who is based on Alexander Korda. The story of an accountant who spends his honeymoon gambling in Monte Carlo, it was filmed in 1956 by Ken Annakin, starrring Glynis Johns, Rossano Brazzi and Robert Morley, and in 1990 by James Scott, starring Molly Ringwald, Robert Lindsay and John Gielgud. Greene wrote that the earlier film was 'a disaster of miscasting, with a middle-aged actress as the twenty-year old heroine, a romantic Italian star as the English assistant accountant, and Robert Morley playing Robert Morley'.

The Loved One, Evelyn Waugh (Little, Brown, 1948). An English poet in Hollywood shocks the crusty expatriate community by going to work in a pet's funeral parlour. Described by its author as 'a little nightmare produced by the unaccustomed high living of a brief visit to Hollywood'; filmed by Tony Richardson in 1965.

Maybe the Moon, Armistead Maupin (Bantam, 1993). A diminutive actress who once played an elf in a hit movie longs for her chance of stardom. The book is dedicated to the late Tamara DeTreaux, who played ET in some scenes of the film.

Merton of the Movies, Harry Leon Wilson (1922). An innocent becomes a Hollywood star in the early silent days; filmed in 1924, in 1932 (as Make Me a Star) by William Beaudine, and in 1947 by Robert Alton.

Most Likely to Succeed, John Dos Passos (Prentice-Hall, 1954). A Marxist playwright goes to Hollywood.

A Mouse Is Born, Anita Loos (Jonathan Cape, 1951). A film star known as 'The Bust' tells of her rise to fame, fortune, and pregnancy.

Moving Pictures, Terry Pratchett (Victor Gollancz, 1990). In the Discworld, moving pictures come into being in Holy Wood, threatening the fabric of reality.

Nobody Ordered Wolves, Jeffrey Dell. A satire on the film business.

Nosferatu in Love, Jim Shepard. (Alfred A. Knopf, 1998). F.W. Murnau is haunted by his past as he makes the first vampire film.

One Hell of An Actor, Garson Kanin (Harper & Row, 1977). The author investigates the career of a man some claim to have been America's greatest actor, and probes the mystery of his son, a Hollywood film director.

Pandaemonium, Leslie Epstein (St Martin's Press, 1998). Actor Peter Lorre tells how, during the beginnings of World War II, a charismatic director attempted to film Antigone as a Western.

Pink, Gus Van Sant (Faber, 1997). A middle-aged homosexual TV director becomes involved with two young men who use sex to enter into another dimension.

The Player, Michael Tolkin (Atlantic Monthly Press, 1988). A film producer gets away with murder; filmed by Robert Altman in 1992.

Playland, John Gregory Dunne (Granta, 1994). The life and times of a child star as she grows up in the Hollywood of the 1940s and 50s.

Popcorn, Ben Elton (Simon & Schuster, 1996). An award-winning Hollywood director of violent films confronts the realities of his fiction when two serial killers break into his home.

Postcards from the Edge, Carrie Fisher (Simon & Schuster, 1987). A film actress tries to deal with her drug addiction and her overbearing showbiz mother; filmed by Mike Nichols in 1990.

Prater Violet, Christopher Isherwood (Methuen, 1946). In London in the mid-30s, a novelist is hired to work on the script of an historical romance with a Viennese film director.

The Producer, Richard Brooks (Simon & Schuster, 1961). An independent producer (who resembles Mark Hellinger) risks everything on one film.

Queen of Desire, Sam Toperoff (HarperCollins, 1992). Variations on the life of Marilyn Monroe.

Queenie, Michael Korda (Linden/Simon & Schuster, 1985). A half-caste girl from Calcutta (who resembles Merle Oberon) becomes a glamorous film star.

The Rewrite Man, Bryan Forbes (Michael Joseph, 1983). A scriptwriter goes to the South of France to try to salvage an historical epic that has run into trouble on- and off-screen.

San Remo Drive: A Novel from Memory, Leslie Epstein (Handsel, 2003). An artist recalls growing up in the 1950s as part of a talented and dysfunctional Hollywood family.

Screen, Barry Malzberg (Olympia Press, 1970). A New York City Welfare Department investigator fantasizes about being married to Sophia Loren, seducing Elizabeth Taylor, and being seduced by Brigitte Bardot.

The Silver Castle, Clive James (Jonathan Cape, 1997). A Bombay street urchin is obsessed with Bollywood and its stars.

The Slide Area, Gavin Lambert (Penguin, 1959). Short stories about life in Hollywood.

A Slightly Used Woman, Peter Kortner (W. H. Allen, 1973). Scandal threatens to ruin for the second time the career of a Hollywood film star, trying to make a comeback in a TV series aimed at a family audience.

Still, Adam Thorpe (Secker, 1995). A failed middle-aged director ponders his film covering the great events of the 20th century.

Still Holding, Bruce Wagner (Simon and Schuster, 2003). The world's sexiest actor is left brain-damaged after being attacked by a rabid fan.

The Symbol, Alva Bessie (Bodley Head, 1967). A voluptuous small-town girl (who resembles Marilyn Monroe) becomes a Hollywood star but fails to find love.

To See Ourselves, Rachel Field and Arthur Pederson (Collins, 1939). A small-town furniture salesman, together with his wife and dog, leaves Idaho to try, and fail, to become a screenwriter in Hollywood.

The Starter Wife, Gigi Levangie Grazer (Simon and Schuster, 2005). A 40-something wife of a Hollywood producer tries to remake her life after she is dumped by her husband.

The Twins of Tribeca, Rachel Pine (Miramax, 2005). A naive woman goes to work for an independent film company run by two demanding and competitive brothers (who may bear some resemblance to Harvey and Bob Weinstein).

The True and Outstanding Adventures of the Hunt Sisters, Elisabeth Robinson (Little, Brown, 2003). A producer attempts to make a film of Don Quixote..

A Voyage to Puerilia, Elmer Rice (1930). A satire on Hollywood.

What Makes Sammy Run, Budd Schulberg (1961). Classic story of a producer (who resembles Jerry Wald) on the make.

White Hunter, Black Heart, Peter Viertel (W. H. Allen, 1954). A film director (who resembles John Huston) is more interested in shooting big game than his movie in Africa; filmed in 1990 by Clint Eastwood.

Film Periodicals

American Cinematographer: The International Journal of Film and Electronic Production Techniques, established 1920. Covers current cinema from the point of view of the cinematographer. Published monthly in Hollywood.

American Film: Film, Video and Television Arts. News and features on current cinema. Published bi-monthly, six times a year, from New York.

The Dark Side: The Magazine of the Macabre and Fantastic. British magazine covering horror films, video, and books. Published monthly.

Empire. British magazine, with news and features on current cinema, and reviews of new cinema, video, laser disc, and soundtrack releases. Published monthly.

Entertainment Weekly. American magazine covering all aspects of show-business: movies, television, books, music, and video.

Fangoria. Long-established American magazine covering horror, including films and books. Published monthly, except February and December.

Film Comment. Magazine covering current and past cinema. Published bi-monthly, six times a year, by the Film Society of Lincoln Center, New York.

Film Dope. British magazine providing biographical information and credits of actors, directors, and others involved in films. Published at irregular intervals, two or three times a year.

Film Review. British magazine with features and reviews of current cinema and video releases. Published monthly with special extra issues, including a video movie guide and a yearbook.

Films in Review. American magazine with reviews of new releases and features on past and current cinema. Published bi-monthly.

The Hollywood Reporter. US trade daily and weekly.

Impact. British magazine covering action movies and stars from around the world. Published monthly.

The Independent Film & Video Monthly. US magazine published by the Foundation for Independent Video and Film, covering all aspects of independent film-making. Published monthly except February and September.

Monthly Film Bulletin 1934–91. Monthly magazine containing reviews and complete credits for all feature films released in Britain. From May 1991, it was incorporated into Sight and Sound.

Movieline's Hollywood Life. Los Angeles-based magazine, with news and features on current cinema. Published monthly except February.

Moving Pictures International. Trade publication covering the business of movies, television and the new media. Published ten times a year.

Premiere. US magazine, with news and features on current cinema. Published monthly.

Screen International. British trade weekly.

Shivers. British magazine covering horror films, videos, and personalities. Published monthly.

Sight and Sound. Magazine with an academic approach to current and past films, published by the British Film Institute. Quarterly from 1935 until May 1991, when it became a monthly, incorporating the Monthly Film Bulletin. Now includes reviews and complete credits of all current cinema releases, and short reviews of new videos.

Starburst. British magazine covering science fiction in all its forms, including film and television. Published monthly.

Total Film. British magazine, with news and features on current cinema, and reviews of new cinema, video, laser disc, and soundtrack releases. Published monthly.

US. American magazine featuring interviews and news on current show-business stars. Published monthly.

Variety. US trade daily and weekly.

10

MOVIE GUIDES ON CD-ROM

General Guides

Most movie guides on CD-ROM have ceased publication, including Microsoft's Cinemania (the 1997 edition was, unfortunately, the last), VideoHound Multimedia, the Mega Movie Guide, the Blockbuster Entertainment Guide and the All-Movie Guide, some of which can be still found at bargain prices.

- The Cannes Film Festival (EMME Interactive, £30 or $24.95).

Minimum system requirements: IBM-compatible PC 386 or 486 with Windows 3.1 with 4 Mb of RAM, SVGA display.

A history of the first 50 years of the Cannes Film Festival from 1939 to 1990, providing details of all award-winners, together with 2,000 film stills, and some grainy and not very interesting newsreel footage of past festivals.

Specialist Guides

Now that the British Film Institute's database SIFT (Summary of Information on Film and Television) is no longer available on CD-Rom, the only remaining guides for film enthusiasts are:

- The Complete Index to World Film by Alan Goble (Valan Publishing, £150).

Goble's CITWF, certified by the Guinness Book of Records as the world's largest published film database, covers more than a century of cinema, with information on 381,393 films from 175 countries, and includes credits for 296,178 actors, 51,066 directors, 18,834 cinematographers, 19,057 composers, and 15,734 authors. It also includes reference sources. It is available for PC and Macintosh.

- The Complete Index to British Film since 1895 by Alan Goble (Valan Publishing, £27).

A subset of the above Index, providing information on 24,292 films, 43,502 people and 7,894 companies, up to the end of 2003.

- The Complete Index to Silent Film by Alan Goble (Valan Publishing, £40).

A subset of The Complete Index to World Film, providing information on 128,717 films from more than 65 countries, 77.068 people and 10,302 companies from 1890 to 1930.

11

MOVIE RESOURCES ON THE INTERNET

The Internet is a great source of movie information, gossip and reviews. More than other media, it is also in a constant state of flux, with publications appearing and disappearing with great speed. For that reason, I have listed just the most useful websites, ones that are likely to stay around, and which also provide the best starting points, by classifying current sources of information.

The World Wide Web

The World Wide Web often seems more of a maze, in which you can easily become lost in a series of dead ends. Search engines can save a lot of wasted effort. The best on-line search engine is Google (www.google.com). These days, simple search engines are built into the latest operating systems of both Windows and Macintosh computers. Also available are some excellent commercial search engines that reside on your computer's hard disk; there are at least two useful free ones that can be downloaded to your computer from the Internet: Webferret (at http:www.ferretsoft.com) and Copernic (http:www.copernic.com). If you are searching for information on a new movie, particularly if it's a blockbuster, then frequently you'll be able to reach it by typing: 'http:www.nameofthemovie.com'. Godzilla, for instance, could be found at http:www.godzilla.com. The addresses (or Universal Resource Locators) below are not given in full. You'll need to add 'http:' to the beginning of each one.

Fan Pages

These range from those originated by enthusiastic and usually uncritical fans of a particular personality to official fan clubs and pages organized by the actors and actresses themselves – everyone from yesterday's sex symbol Mamie Van Doren to today's hottest stars, such as Leonardo DiCaprio, have their own official sites. The best places to begin a search for a favourite is at sites that provide alphabetical lists of fan sites:

- Celebsite (www.celebsite.com) has links to celebrity sites for actors, actresses, directors, comedians, producers and musicians.
- Fan Links (www.tnef.com/stars/) provides links to actors and actresses.
- Fan Sites (www.fansites.com) provides links to more than 2,500 sites for actors and actresses. Oddly, it indexes them by first names.
- Star Seeker (www.starseeker.com/index.com) is a collection of links to fan pages, news, and movies.

Film Reference

- All Movie Guide (www.allmovie.com/) provides casts and production information for many movies.
- The Complete Index To World Film since 1895 (www.citwf.com) provides details on more than 381,00 films for a subscription of £30 a year.
- Internet Movie Database (uk.imdb.com or us.imdb.com) details more than 180,000 films with some 2.4m filmography entries, and includes links to other sites of interest.
- Movie Database (www.tvguide.com/movies/database/) has full production details, cast credits and reviews for more than 35,000 movies, with biographical information from Ephraim Katz's Movie Encyclopedia.

Movie Publications

- Boxoffice Magazine (www.boxoff.com/) is a monthly trade publication with an on-line site featuring news stories and interviews with directors and stars.
- Bright Lights Film Journal (www.slip.net/gmm/bright.html) is a quarterly magazine of movie analysis, history and commentary.
- Cinescape (www.cinescape.com/) has news and features on science-fiction and fantasy movies.
- The Dark Side (www.ebony.co.uk/darkside/) is an on-line site for the British monthly horror magazine.
- Entertainment Weekly (cgi.pathfinder.com/ew) has star interviews, reviews and celebrity gossip.
- Empire Magazine (www.futurenet.com) is the on-line version of the best-selling British film monthly.
- Film Comment (www.interactive.line.com/film/cover.html) is an on-line version of the bimonthly publication of the Film Society of Lincoln Center.
- Film Review (www.visimag.com) is designed to persuade people to buy the monthly British film magazine, but includes a few features.
- FilmScore Monthly (www.filmscoremonthly.com) covers film music and composers.
- Film Threat (www.filmthreat.com) has information on independent film-makers.
- Hollywood Reporter (www.hollywoodreporter.com) is a trade publication providing free news and a subscription service for those who want to know more.
- Movieline (www.movieline.mag.com) is the on-line version of the American movie monthly.
- Motion Picture (www.motionpicture.com) offers news and gossip, as well as reviews of movies currently in cinemas, and on video and television.
- People (cgi.pathfinder.com/people) has celebrity gossip and interviews.
- Premiere Magazine (www.premieremag.com/) is the on-line version of the American movie monthly.
- Total Film (www.futurenet.com) is the on-line version of the British movie monthly.
- Variety (www.variety.com): the showbusiness trade paper provides news and has a subscription service for those who want Daily Variety on-line.

Movie News and Features

- About Movies (www.about.com/entertainment) has features and links to such subjects as anime, classic movies, cult movies, film buffs, Hollywood movies, home video, independent movies and box-office reports.
- Ain't It Cool News (www.aint-it-cool-news.com) has gossip and advance information on audiences' reactions to previews of new films. The film studios don't like it, but they're doing their best to co-opt it.
- E! Online (www.eonline.com/) for celebrity gossip and features.
- Hollywood Online (www.hollywood.com) for trailers, photos and information.
- Jam! (www.jam.canoe.ca/Movies/) for news, interviews and reviews on current movies and personalities.
- Movie Snapshot (www.moviesnapshot.com/) has news-service reviews, features, interviews and photographs on Hollywood.
- Movieweb (www.movieweb.com/) has previews of, and information on, current and upcoming movies.
- Film Scouts (www.filmscouts.com/) has news about film and leading festivals, including Cannes, Sundance and Toronto.

Search Engines and Links

- Cinema Sites (www.cinema-sites.com/) has links to reviews, previews, screenings, fan pages, magazines, journals, festivals and more.
- Movie Review Query Engine (www.mrqe.com/lookup?) will search the Web for reviews of particular films.
- Movie Thing (www.moviething.com) has quizzes, information and links on movies and celebrities.
- Yahoo! (www.dir.yahoo.com/Entertainment/Movies_and_Film/) provides links to everything from actors and actresses, awards, box-office reports to news, reviews, screenplays and more, classified under 40 headings.

Specialist Sites

- American Movie Classics Company (www.amctv.com/home.html) has features on classic movies and video releases.
- Asian Film Connections (www.asianfilms.org/index.html) has information on the films of China, Hong Kong, Japan, Korea and Taiwan.
- The Bollywood World (www.bollywoodworld.com/) has information, reviews, news and interviews on Indian movies.
- Britfilms (www.britfilms.com) provides information on British films and film-making.
- Fantastica Daily (www.fantasticadaily.com) covers science-fiction and fantasy.
- Film Festivals (www.filmfestivals.com) has information on the world's leading film festivals.
- Film Music Review (www.americanmusicpreservation.com/) covers film scores and songs.
- Films: Research and Resources (www.tc.umn.edu/~yahnk001/film/cinema.htm) , compiled by Professor, includes a work-in-progress, Cinema History, as well as useful links and information on current directors and recommended films.
- Future Movies (www.futuremovies.co.uk/) is an on-line film magazine covering current releases and world cinema.
- Greatest Films (www.filmsite.org/) contains plot summaries, commentary and film posters of classic films, compiled by Tim Dirks.
- Hong Kong Movies (www.hkmdb.com) are covered in depth with reviews and interviews.
- Horror Movies (www.horrormovies.com/) provides a classified guide.
- Midnight Eye (www.midnighteye.com/index.php) provides information, reviews and interviews on Japanese film.
- Metacritic (www.metacritic.com/) compiles reviews from American critics and publications for film and DVD.
- The Movie Times (www.the-movie-times.com/) provides movie box-office information, movie release schedules, reviews, and information on actors and actresses.
- Roger Ebert on Movies (rogerebert.suntimes.com/apps/pbcs.dll/frontpage) has reviews by an influential critic.
- The Silent Era (www.silentera.com/index.html) gives comprehensive coverage to silent films and stars.
- Silent Movies (www.csse.monash.edu.au/~pringle/silent/) provides information on silents and links to other sites of interest.
- The Silent-Movies.Org (silent-movies.com) is devoted to silent films.
- Rotten Tomatoes (www.rottentomatoes.com/) provides an overall rating of current releases based on the views of mainly American critics.
- Silver Screen Legends (www.cowboypal.com/cowboy2.html) links to old-time cowboy film stars, such as Rex Allen, Monte Hale and Tex Ritter.
- Science-Fiction Flicks (www.sciflicks.com/) has information on sf movies.
- Soundtracknet (www.soundtrack.net/) has the subtitle "the art of film and television music"
- Women in Cinema (www.people.virginia.edu/~pm9k/libsci/womFilm.html) is just what it says it is.

Professional Organizations

- Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences (www.oscars.org/ampas/) for everything you want to know about the Oscars and AMPAS's other activities.
- American Film Institute (www.afionline.org/) has information on its activities and its ever-increasing film lists covering various aspects of American cinema.
- The British Film Institute (www.bfi.org.uk/) for information on its activities and what's on at the National Film Theatre.
- The Bill Douglas Centre at the University of Exeter (www.ex.ac.uk/bill.douglas/) has information aspects of cinema, particularly on its early days.
- Directors Guild of America (www.dga.org/) includes interviews with its distinguished members.
- US National Film Registry (www.cs.cmu.edu/afs/cs.cmu.edu/user/clamen/misc/movies/NFR-Titles.html) lists the 'culturally, historically, or esthetically important' films selected by the Library of Congress for preservation.

Studios and Production Companies

- Aardman Animations (www.aardman.com/) is the home of Wallace and Gromit.
- Buena Vista (bvp.wdp.com/BVI/) has information on upcoming and current releases.
- Disney Pictures (www.disney.com/DisneyPictures/index.html) has information on upcoming and current releases, and merchandise to buy.
- Fine Line Features (www.flf.com) details its current and upcoming releases.
- Fox Searchlight (www.foxsearchlight) has information on upcoming and current releases.
- Jim Henson Company (www.henson.com) has movie information and Muppets galore.
- MCA/Universal Studios (www.mca.com) has information on upcoming and current releases.
- MGM/UA Pictures (www.mgmua.com) has information on upcoming and current releases.
- Miramax Films (www.miramax.com) has information on upcoming and current releases.
- New Line Cinema (www.newline.com/) has details of its releases.
- October Films (www.octoberfilms.com) details its art-house releases (like Hilary and Jackie and Touch of Evil).

- Paramount Pictures (www.paramount.com/BronsonGate.htm) has information on upcoming and current releases.
- Sony (www.music.sony.com/index.alternate.html) has information on upcoming and current releases.
- Star Wars (www.starwars.com) has information on the current and upcoming films in the series.
- Troma (www.troma.com/) has information about the studio responsible for the Toxic Avenger.
- Twentieth Century-Fox (www.fox.com) has information on upcoming and current releases.
- UIP (www.uip.com/lingos/uk/uk_index.html) has information on the films it distributes in English, Dutch, French, German and Spanish.
- Universal (www.universalstudios.com) has information on upcoming and current releases.
- View Askew (www.viewaskew.com/) for information on the films of director Kevin Smith.
- Warner's (www.warnerbros.com) has information on upcoming and current releases.

Usenet

Newsgroups provide the opportunity to share news, gossip and information with like-minded people. You can subscribe directly to groups, or access them through the World Wide Web by way of Deja News (http:www.dejanews.com). There are newsgroups devoted to individuals, such as Woody Allen, Alfred Hitchcock and Stanley Kubrick. But the more general discussion groups include:

- alt.celebrities has gossip about the famous, though curiosity is often focused on the sexual proclivities of the stars.
- alt.fan.actors has discussion of the current favourite male performers.
- alt.fan.actors.dead deals with stars of the past.
- alt.fan.british-actors discusses British actors.
- alt.fan-james.bond discusses in minute detail every aspect of the films.
- alt.movies discusses all aspects of movies and movie-going.
- alt.asian-movies deals mainly with Hong Kong movies and their stars.
- alt.movies.cinematography holds discussions of techniques and equipment.
- alt.cult-movies deals with a wide variety of movies, some seemingly with a cult of only one fan.
- alt.movies.monster finds Godzilla endlessly fascinating.
- alt.movies.independent discusses movies that you might otherwise miss, or never hear of.
- alt.movies.silent has often erudite discussions on the silent era.
- alt.movies.uk deals with British films and releases.
- alt.showbiz.gossip is similar in style to alt.celebrities.
- alt.movies.visual-effects discusses how film-makers achieve their spectacular effects.
- rec.arts.movies.announce has birthday lists and box-office grosses.
- rec.arts.movies.current-films has opinions and discussions on the latest films, and the critical response to them.
- rec.arts.movies.international discusses and reviews foreign films.
- rec.arts.movies.misc discusses all aspects of movies, much as does alt.movies.
- rec.arts.movies.movie-going discusses the physical pleasures and discomforts of cinemas and their audiences.
- rec.arts.movies.past-films deals with classic genres.
- rec.arts.movies.people has discussion and opinion on those in front of, and behind, the camera.
- rec.arts.movies.production deals with technical matters, and questions and discussions on movie-making equipment.
- rec.arts.movies.reviews has reviews and often heated discussions on the worth of particular movies.
- rec.arts.sf.movies deals with sf and fantasy movies and their stars.
- rec.music.movies concerns itself with movie music, composers and soundtrack releases.
- uk.media.films discusses British films and personalities.

12

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE CINEMA

1873

America: Eadweard Muybridge, an English photographer, uses cameras spaced along a race-track to capture the movement of a galloping horse.

1878

America: Muybridge improves his method of taking photographs of animals in motion. He begins work on a projector.

1881

America: Muybridge perfects his Zoopraxiscope, which uses rotating glass disks containing painted images based on his photographs. He lectures on his work in America and, from 1892, in Europe, inspiring others.

1884

America: American artist Thomas Eakins, one of Muybridge's assistants, creates a single-motion picture camera.

Britain: John Rudge, an inventor living in Bath, patents a means of showing animations with a magic lantern. William Friese-Greene later demonstrates it as his own invention.

Germany: Ottomar Anschütz photographs animals and men in motion which can be viewed on his Tachyscope.

1885

America: George Eastman markets film on a roll, made of sensitized paper.

Britain: William Friese-Greene, a Bath photographer, exhibits the results of his experiments in film: an image of a girl moving her eyes.

1887

Germany: Ottomar Anschütz demonstrates his Electro-Tachyscope, which uses a sequence of still photographs fitted on a large wheel and viewed through a small hole to produce the effect of motion. His machines are shown around the world, as penny-in-the-slot novelties.

1888

Britain: French inventor Louis Augustin Le Prince patents a machine to film and project a sequence of images.

1889

America: Eastman's company, now named Eastman Kodak, begins to manufacture roll-film on celluloid.

Thomas Edison takes out a patent on perforated film.

Britain: William Friese-Greene obtains a patent for a moving picture camera.

1890

France: Louis Augustin Le Prince boards a train for Paris at Dijon and vanishes. He is never seen again.

1891

America: Edison applies for a patent on the Kinetoscope, a cabinet for displaying film to one spectator at a time, designed by his assistant William Dickson.

1892

France: Émile Renaud exhibits his Praxinoscope, which projects brief animations of hand-drawn images onto a screen.

1893

Britain: Friese-Greene patents a rapid-sequence camera.

1894

America: Fred Ott, one of Edison's workers, is recorded sneezing on film shot in the inventor's 'Black Maria' studio. Edison's assistant Dickson makes films to show in the Kinetoscope. They last around 20 seconds and feature vaudeville acts and famous personalities, including Buffalo Bill Cody.

Edison begins to manufacture Kinetoscopes but doubts whether 'there is any commercial future in it'. The first Kinetoscope parlour opens in New York. More follow in other cities, although the glimpse of a Spanish dancer's ankle upsets some.

Britain: In October, Edison's Kinetoscope goes on show in Oxford Street, London.

Robert W. Paul, a London scientific instrument maker, is asked to copy Edison's Kinetoscope and discovers that Edison has not patented his invention in England. He works on improving it, by projecting images on a screen and by incorporating a wheel shaped like a Maltese cross to stop each frame of film for a moment in order to make the image seem less jerky.

Germany: Ottomar Anschütz demonstrates a projection system in Berlin.

1895

Films average between 40 to 80 feet in length, running for little more than a minute at most.

America: The American Mutoscope Company is set up to manufacture peep-show machines. It soon goes into film production proper and is renamed the Biograph Company.

Britain: Robert W. Paul and photographer Birt Acres begin to collaborate on designing a motion picture camera. Acres films sporting events, including the Derby.

France: Louis and Auguste Lumière, partners in a photographic business, patent the Cinématographe, a camera and projector, in February. In March, they demonstrate the system with a film of their workers leaving the factory and go on to hold other demonstrations. The brothers open Le Cinématographe, the first-ever public film show, in the basement of the Grand Café in Paris on 28 December. Twelve films are shown during the half-hour show.

Germany: In Berlin, Max Skladanowsky patents his Bioskop projector and gives a public show of films in November.

1896

America: Edison demonstrates the new Vitascope, a projector designed by Thomas Armat. The first public show is held in a New York music hall on 23 April.

In June, the Lumière show opens in New York.

Britain: In January, Birt Acres demonstrates motion picture projection in London and founds the Northern Photographic Works.

On 20 February, the Lumière show opens in London. It transfers in March to the Empire Music Hall, Leicester Square.

On 21 February, Robert W. Paul demonstrates his method of motion picture projection, the Theatrograph. Shortly after, his films open at Olympia and become a special attraction at music halls, including the Alhambra, Leicester Square.

Paul makes the first British fiction film, The Soldier's Courtship, on the roof of the Alhambra in April. He films the Derby winners and screens it the next day to appreciative audiences. The Derby is later shown in colour, with the tints added by hand.

In Kingston-upon-Thames, the first cinema opens in a converted shop. It fails. But film flourishes as an attraction at fairground sideshows.

Denmark: Peter Elfelt shoots the first Danish film, a fake short of huskies pulling a sledge in the snows of Greenland.

France: Charles and Émile Pathé found the Pathé Frères, mainly to sell phonographs, but soon become involved in film production.

In Paris, George Méliès begins to make films with trick effects.

Auguste Baron begins working on a process of adding sound to film. He also invents a system of multi-screen cinema, Cinématorama, without attracting much interest.

Germany: Oskar Messter develops a motion picture camera and projection system.

India: The Lumière show opens in Bombay.

South Africa: Carl Hertz, a magician, shows as part of his stage act films bought, together with a projector, from Paul. He then takes them to Australia.

Spain: The first public film show of Lumière's films takes place in Madrid to an audience mainly of schoolgirls.

1897

France: In Paris, Alexander Rapoutat opens the first cinema devoted to newsreels.

One hundred and fifty people die in a Paris cinema fire caused by a burning projector, creating widespread concern about the safety of cinemas and equipment.

Spain: Fructuoso Gelabert makes the country's first fictional film, Riña en un Café.

1898

America: Biograph cameramen film war in Cuba.

Britain: Cecil M. Hepworth, son of a magic-lantern lecturer, writes Animated Photography, the first handbook on cinema.

In Brighton, G. A. Smith becomes the first Englishman to use double exposure for trick effects in Cinderella and the Fairy Godmother and other films.

The French Gaumont company opens a London office and begins making films at Dulwich.

American Charles Urban forms the Warwick Trading Company, which soon becomes a major producer and distributor.

1899

Films average around 70 feet in length, running for just over a minute.

Britain: Supply of American films dries up as Edison tries to combat what he regards as piracy. R. W. Paul opens one of Britain's earliest studios at New Southgate, North London, consisting of a stage, similar to that of a theatre, with a camera platform running on wheels in front of it. Among the first films produced is Dickens's A Christmas Carol.

Cecil M. Hepworth begins film production.

France: Auguste Baron perfects his system of sound cinema, but can find no one interested in exploiting his method.

Méliès' Cinderella is one of the first films to approach a narrative style.

1900

Australia: Joseph Perry directs films for the Salvation Army, including Soldiers of the Cross, mixing brief movies, lantern slides, and music.

Britain: The Warwick Trading Company's Joseph Rosenthal becomes the most celebrated of war cameramen with his film of the Boer War, which he follows with action from the Boxer Rebellion in China.

France: Léon Gaumont demonstrates synchronized sound and pictures.

1901

Britain: Will Barker founds the Autoscope Company and erects a rudimentary open-air studio at Stamford Hill, London.

G. H. Cricks and H. M. Sharp open a studio at Mitcham, Surrey, and make Saved from the Burning Wreck and a series of shorts featuring music-hall comedian Fred Evans.

1902

Films begin to reach a length of 250 feet or so, running for around four minutes.

Britain: Gaumont's Chronophone, by which gramophone recordings are synchronized to films of music-hall performers, is installed at the London Pavilion.

France: Charles Pathé opens a studio and begins turning out a film a day.

Méliès makes A Trip to the Moon, the first science-fiction film.

Germany: Oskar Messter establishes a production company in Berlin and begins to make films using cabaret artists and actors.

Spain: Segundo de Chomón begins to make films full of trick effects, but finds it hard to attract finance. He is later to work in Italy on Cabiria and in France on Napoleon.

1903

America: Edwin S. Porter makes Life of an American Fireman, mixing real-life and staged action to tell a story. He follows it with Uncle Tom's Cabin and The Great Train Robbery, an exciting western drama which causes a sensation and influences future directors.

Britain: Cecil Hepworth builds an indoor studio at Walton-on-Thames and films scenes from Alice in Wonderland.

Denmark: Peter Elfelt makes the country's first fiction film, Capital Punishment (Henrettelsen).

France: Méliès makes another science-fiction film full of trick effects, Impossible Voyage.

1904

America: At the St Louis Exhibition, George C. Hale presents Hale's Tours: travelogues shown in a mock-up of a railway carriage with train sound-effects and a swinging floor to simulate movement. Similar shows open in other American cities.

Cinema owner William Fox founds a distribution company.

German inventor Oskar Messter demonstrates sound films at the St Louis World Exposition.

Britain: The Clarendon Film Company opens a studio in Croydon.

1905

America: The first nickelodeon, a simple cinema where the price of admission is five cents, opens in Pittsburgh.

Vitagraph, which will become the most successful production company of its day, opens its own studio in Brooklyn. Its stars include Florence Turner and plump comedian John Bunny.

Variety begins publication.

Britain: Cecil Hepworth, using his family as actors, makes Rescued by Rover at the cost of £7 and sells 400 copies of it at £8 a time. Actors who are to begin their careers at his studio include Chrissie White, Alma Taylor, Helen Mathers, and Ronald Colman.

The first purpose-built cinemas open in London: the New Gallery in Regent Street and the Rialto in Coventry Street.

Italy: La Presa di Roma is the country's first feature film.

1906

Films are reaching 850 feet in length, running for around 14 minutes.

America: Cartoonist Winsor McCay incorporates an animated cartoon into his vaudeville act.

Carl Laemmle opens a nickelodeon in Chicago.

Pennsylvania cinema owner S. L. Rothafel adds the scent of roses to the showing of the Pasadena Rose Bowl game, the first use of smells in the cinema.

Australia: Charles Tait makes The Story of the Kelly Gang, one of the longest narrative films so far, running for more than 40 minutes.

Britain: In Ealing, Will Barker opens the Barker Motion Picture Company, which amalgamates with the Warwick Trading Company. He shoots a film of Shakespeare's Hamlet in a day.

Hale's Tours opens in Oxford Street, London.

The first news cinema, the Daily Bioscope, opens in London.

G. A. Smith patents his Kinemacolor colour process.

Denmark: Ole Olsen, a former fairground operator, establishes Nordisk Films, which soon becomes one of Europe's biggest production companies.

France: Charles Pathé signs music-hall performer André Deed to make comic films.

Sweden: Inventor Sven Berglund works on a system of recording sound on film by an optical process.

1907

America: Gilbert M. Anderson and George K. Spoor form Essanay production company in Chicago.

Finland: Apollo Studios release the first Finnish feature, The Moonshiners.

France: Actor Charles Le Bargy and other people from the Comédie Française form Film d'Art to make artistic films. Camille Saint-Saëns is to write the scores for its first production, The Assassination of the Duke de Guise.

1908

America: Anderson moves Essanay to California, away from Edison's law suits, and begins starring as 'Bronco Billy' in more than 300 westerns in eight years, despite the fact that he can hardly sit on a horse.

D. W. Griffith, an actor and writer, directs his first film, The Adventures of Dollie, for Biograph.

Hale's Tours goes into liquidation.

Argentina: Mario Gallo makes El Fusilamiento de Dorrego, the country's first feature film using professional actors.

Brazil: Portuguese-born director and cinematographer Antonio Leal makes Os Estranguladores and Os Guaranis.

Britain: The Gaumont Company hold the first Trade Show. Sir Geoffrey Tearle plays Romeo for Gaumont's version of Romeo and Juliet.

Colour films are shown for the first time at London's Palace Theatre.

The British Cinephone system of recorded sound synchronized to pictures begins to be installed in cinemas.

Electric Theatres becomes the first British cinema chain.

France: Max Linder becomes Pathé's leading comedian when André Deed leaves to make films in Italy.

1909

America: Edison, with seven leading film production companies and France's Pathé and Méliès, forms the Motion Picture Patents Company, claiming a monopoly on film production, and attempting to control distribution and license exhibition.

Distributors William Fox and Carl Laemmle decide to fight the monopoly by making their own films.

In December, D. W. Griffith directs his 100th one-reel film for Biograph. His films for the year include The Violin Maker of Cremona, starring Mary Pickford, who had begun her career months earlier as an extra. She becomes known as 'The Biograph Girl with the Curls'.

Australia: A 4,000-seater cinema opens in Melbourne. In Sydney, the Colonial cinema shows films non-stop from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Ireland: Irish novelist James Joyce opens Dublin's first cinema, with the aid of Swiss financiers.

1910

America: Pathé's Weekly becomes the first newsreel.

Britain: Montague Pyke opens a cinema chain offering greater comfort and luxury.

Paul closes his studio and returns to making scientific instruments.

Denmark: Actress Asta Nielsen creates a sensation in The Abyss, as a man-hungry circus performer.

1911

America: Photoplay and Motion Picture Story Magazine are the world's first fan magazines.

Britain: London's Scala Theatre begins a two-year run of showing colour films.

France: The lavish Gaumont Palace opens in Paris as the world's biggest and best cinema.

Italy: Giovanni Pastrone's The Fall of Troy, with its cast of thousands, is the first epic movie.

1912

America: Dorothy and Lillian Gish begin their careers in films by Griffith.

Mack Sennett forms Keystone with two partners and begins making slapstick comedies.

Carl Laemmle founds Universal Pictures.

Adolph Zukor founds the Famous Players Film Company and begins by importing the French Queen Elizabeth, starring Sarah Bernhardt.

Britain: The British Board of Film Censors is established.

Fred Karno decides to make a second tour of America's music halls. Among his troupe are Charlie Chaplin and Stan Laurel, who will not return.

France: Film d'Art releases Louis Mercanton's Les Amours de la Reine Élizabeth, starring an ageing Sarah Bernhardt, thus helping cinema gain respectability.

Auguste Baron invents a new multi-screen process, Multirama, but can find no backers.

Gaumont gives the first public show in Paris of its Chronophone, synchronizing sound and pictures.

Germany: Shooting begins at Babelsberg studios of Asta Nielsen in The Death Dance.

Italy: Enrico Guazzoni's Quo Vadis?, a 12-reel epic of Roman life with a spectacular chariot race, is a box-office hit around the world.

Sweden: Inventor Sven Berglund claims to be the first to perfect a system of recording sound on film by an optical process.

1913

America: Mary Pickford signs a five-year contract with Adolph Zukor to become one of the first female film stars.

Fatty Arbuckle signs to make comedies for Mack Sennett.

Charlie Chaplin is spotted by Mack Sennett and goes to Hollywood.

The Adventures of Kathlyn, starring Kathlyn Williams, is the first serial, in 13 parts, to reach the cinemas.

Edison demonstrates his Kinetophone for synchronizing sound and pictures.

Orlando Kellum develops his system of synchronizing sound and pictures.

Vitagraph opens a studio in Santa Monica, California.

Jesse Lasky sets up the Jesse Lasky Feature Play Company.

Britain: Cinema attendance in Britain reaches an average of 10 visits a year.

Will Barker films Jane Shore.

Hepworth makes Dickens's Barnaby Rudge, restaging the Gordon Riots.

Eugene Lauste invents a method of recording sound on film, but fails to arouse any interest as war approaches. He emigrates to America.

India: Dadasaheb Phalke makes the first feature, Raja Harishchandra.

Sweden: Actor Victor Sjöström turns director with Ingeborg Holm.

Mauritz Stiller's The Vampire runs into censorship problems.

Venezuela: Lucas Manzano and Enrique Zimmerman direct the country's first feature film, La Dama de las Cayenas, based on Alexandre Dumas's Camille.

1914

America: Cecil B. De Mille shoots The Squaw Man in Los Angeles, converting a barn into a studio.

Mack Sennett makes the first comedy feature, Tillie's Punctured Romance, starring Chaplin, Mabel Normand, and Marie Dressler.

Pearl White stars in the serial The Perils of Pauline.

Winsor McCay creates the cartoon Gertie the Dinosaur.

William Fox produces his first feature.

Paramount Pictures is formed as a distribution company.

Poet Vachel Lindsay writes Art of the Moving Picture, one of the first critical studies of the new medium.

Britain: George Pearson directs A Study in Scarlet, the first major screen treatment of Sherlock Holmes.

Gaumont opens its new studio at Lime Grove, Shepherd's Bush.

France: Méliès runs out of money. His films are sold and many are destroyed to recover the celluloid.

Germany: Oskar Messter begins a weekly newsreel which is distributed around the world.

Italy: Giovanni Pastrone finishes the influential epic Cabiria.

1915

America: D. W. Griffith's The Birth of a Nation, 12 reels long and photographed by Bill Bitzer, causes a sensation when it opens in New York. It becomes the first film to be screened at the White House.

Cecil B. De Mille makes The Cheat, influential for its style and sexually suggestive content.

Chaplin goes to work for Essanay at $1,000 a week.

Douglas Fairbanks makes his film debut.

Triangle Films is set up by D. W. Griffith, Thomas Ince, and Mack Sennett.

Metro Pictures is founded and soon becomes a leading, though not particularly profitable, production company.

Edwin S. Porter retires from films.

Britain: A million people vote the six most popular British film stars as Alma Taylor, Elizabeth Risdon, Charlie Chaplin, Stewart Rome, Chrissie White, and Fred Evans.

Denmark: Nordisk releases more than 140 films during the year.

1916

America: D. W. Griffith releases the spectacular epic Intolerance, but audiences stay away.

Chaplin signs with Mutual for $10,000 a week. Mary Pickford demands and gets more from Zukor.

Zukor and Lasky acquire an interest in Paramount Pictures and merge their production companies.

Samuel Goldfish and his partners Archibald and Edgar Selwyn found Goldwyn Pictures. Goldfish soon takes the name as his own.

Britain: Hepworth's Coming through the Rye is seen by Queen Alexandra as the first film to have a Royal Command Performance.

Italy: Leading stage actress Eleanora Duse makes her only film, Cenere, but is disappointed with the result.

1917

America: Charlie Chaplin makes the first of his two-reel comedies, The Cure and Easy Street.

Fatty Arbuckle founds his own studio. Vaudeville performer Buster Keaton appears in many of his films.

After beginning as a Chaplin imitator, Harold Lloyd begins to define his own distinctive personality as a bespectacled, shy young man.

Erich Von Stroheim makes the first of his many appearances as a vicious Prussian officer in For France.

Douglas Fairbanks's earnings are more than $750,000 a year.

Britain: Cinema attendances reach 20 million a week.

Germany: The German High Command forms UFA to make propaganda films. It absorbs many other production companies, as well as controlling the largest chain of cinemas in the country.

1918

America: Chaplin makes his first film, A Dog's Life, in his own studio, which resembles a British village. His Shoulder Arms, parodying war films, is a success.

Oscar Micheaux makes The Homesteader, from his novel, establishing the best-known production company making films for black audiences.

Warner Bros releases its first major feature, My Four Years in Germany.

1919

America: Lon Chaney becomes a star with The Miracle Man.

D. W. Griffith shoots Broken Blossoms with Richard Barthelmess and Lillian Gish.

Charlie Chaplin, D. W. Griffith, Mary Pickford, and Douglas Fairbanks form United Artists. Hollywood quips, 'The lunatics have taken charge of the asylum.'

Hal Roach opens his own studio and begins to make comedy films with such stars as Harold Lloyd, Laurel and Hardy, and Charley Chase.

Australia: Raymond Longford makes The Sentimental Bloke, the country's best-regarded silent.

Germany: Ernst Lubitsch establishes himself as a leading director with Madame Dubarry, starring Pola Negri and Emil Jannings as Louis XV.

Sweden: Yearly attendances reach eight million.

USSR: The film industry is nationalized.

1920

America: Douglas Fairbanks marries Mary Pickford. He begins his swashbuckling career with The Mark of Zorro.

Fatty Arbuckle is arrested on charges of rape and manslaughter following the death of Virginia Rappe at a party. His films are withdrawn from cinemas and the scandal ends his Hollywood career, despite his acquittal.

Britain: Paramount opens a London studio, but it soon folds.

Denmark: Nordisk's output falls to eight films a year.

Germany: Robert Weine directs the expressionist The Cabinet of Dr Caligari.

Paul Wegner directs The Golem, an influential monster movie.

Norway

Rasmus Breistein makes the first feature, Anna, the Gypsy Girl.

Sweden

Mauritz Stiller's comedy Erotikon excites audiences with its sexual innuendo.

1921

America: Charlie Chaplin's feature The Kid makes Jackie Coogan a star at the age of six.

Rudolph Valentino stars in The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse and creates a sensation. His appeal to women is increased by his next film, The Sheik.

Max Linder makes two features, Seven Years Bad Luck and Be My Wife.

D. W. Griffith makes Dream Street, with sound synchronized on disk at the film's beginning, using Orlando Kellum's system. It is a hit, but exhibitors remain unconvinced that talking pictures have a future.

Britain: The Glorious Adventure is the first feature in colour to be made in England.

At a meeting called to save the British film industry, William Friese-Greene makes a passionate speech in favour of the continuance of British production, sits down, and dies, penniless. A monument erected over his grave in Highgate Cemetery reads, 'The Inventor of Kinematography. His Genius Bestowed Upon Humanity The Boon of Commercial Cinematography Of Which He Was The First Inventor And Patentee.'

Germany: UFA is privatized and soon becomes a leading company with large studios, laboratories, and cinemas.

Japan: Actor Teinosuke Kinugasa turns director with The Death of My Sister and soon exerts a powerful influence on the development of Japanese cinema.

Sweden: Benjamin Christensen directs the sexually explicit Witchcraft through the Ages.

Greta Garbo makes her debut as an extra in A Fortune Hunter.

Sven Berglund demonstrates his sound system in Stockholm.

1922

America: Harold Lloyd's Grandma's Boy establishes him as a gifted and original comedian.

Robert Flaherty makes Nanook of the North.

The Toll of the Sea, with Anna May Wong, is the first feature to be made using Technicolor's two-colour process.

The Power of Love, with Noah Beery, is the first feature to be made in 3-D.

Rin Tin Tin makes his debut in The Man from Hell's River and becomes the greatest dog star, saving Warner from bankruptcy during the 20s.

Irving Thalberg fires Erich Von Stroheim as director of Merry Go Round at Universal.

Director William Desmond Taylor is murdered and scandal follows with revelations of his involvement with Mabel Normand and others. Producers and distributors get together to form an association to 'maintain the highest possible moral and artistic standards'. The righteous Will Hays is chosen to head it.

The Cohn Brothers start C. B. C. Film Sales Corporation, which is to become Columbia Pictures in 1924.

Walt Disney founds Laugh-O-Gram Films in Kansas City with Ub Iwerks.

Samuel Goldwyn is forced out of Goldwyn Pictures.

Britain: The first British serial is released: The Great London Mystery, in 16 episodes, starring Lady Doris Stapleton and David Devant, the magician.

Germany: Fritz Lang makes Dr Mabuse the Gambler, about a master criminal.

F. W. Murnau directs the vampire film Nosferatu.

Ernst Lubitsch leaves to work in Hollywood.

Sven Berglund demonstrates his sound system in Berlin.

1923

America: Lon Chaney stars in The Hunchback of Notre Dame.

Harold Lloyd makes Safety Last, performing its dangerous stunts.

Cecil B. De Mille turns from sex to religion with The Ten Commandments. James Cruze makes an epic western, The Covered Wagon, for Paramount.

Eric Von Stroheim turns Frank Norris's novel McTeague into an eight-hour epic which he cuts to four hours. Thalberg orders it reduced to two hours and finally releases it as Greed, a flawed masterpiece. Stroheim hardly works in Hollywood again.

The high-living Mabel Normand survives the scandal of William Desmond Taylor's death but her career falters when her chauffeur kills a millionaire at a party with her pistol.

Wallace Reid, Paramount's leading actor, dies of drug addiction at the age of 30. Mrs Wallace Reid stars in the anti-drug film Human Wreckage, as part of Hollywood's new moral crusade.

Disney goes to Hollywood to start his own studio.

Britain: The British National Film League is formed to promote local movies with 'British Film Week', in which exhibitors are urged to show British films. The audiences stay away.

Victor McLaglen and others campaign for protection of British films.

After becoming a star in America in The White Rose, directed by D. W. Griffith, Ivor Novello offers a solution to the problem of English films in America: 'What we must do is establish our stars in the States. It is to see certain actors that the people in America go to the pictures.'

Germany: The government attempts to protect its film industry by allowing only German producers to import foreign films. American companies open German production offices to overcome the problem.

Hans Dreier leaves UFA for Hollywood where he joins Paramount to become head of its art department.

Italy: Guazzoni's epic Messalina captures the imagination with its climactic chariot race.

Sweden: Victor Sjöström leaves for Hollywood, where he will be known as Seastrom and direct for MGM.

1924

America: Buster Keaton's comic skills show to advantage in Sherlock Jr and the Navigator.

Douglas Fairbanks stars in The Thief of Bagdad.

English romantic novelist Elinor Glyn supervises the filming of her Three Weeks, about love on a tiger-skin rug. Two years later she will proclaim Clara Bow the 'It' girl.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is formed from Metro Pictures, Louis B. Mayer's production company, and the Goldwyn Company. In charge of production is Irving Thalberg.

Scandal and rumours of murder follow the sudden death of producer and director Thomas Ince aboard William Randolph Hearst's yacht.

Britain: British film-making falters: Ideal Studios, British and Colonial, Stoll and Samuelson close. Broadwest and Hepworth cut production. But Michael Balcon and partners found Gainsborough Pictures at Islington Studios.

Germany: F. W. Murnau directs The Last Laugh, starring Emil Jannings.

Fritz Lang makes the epic Die Nibelungen.

Sweden: Mauritz Stiller directs The Atonement of Gösta Berling with Greta Garbo.

1925

America: Charlie Chaplin makes The Gold Rush.

Lon Chaney stars in The Phantom of the Opera.

MGM release Ben Hur, directed by Fred Niblo, after production problems.

Willis O'Brien creates the special effects for The Lost World, which include a dinosaur rampaging through London.

Joan Crawford makes her screen debut.

Stiller and Garbo sign contracts with MGM.

Warner Bros buys Vitagraph.

Britain: The Lost World becomes the world's first in-flight movie when it is shown on an Imperial Airways flight from London to France, but it is not until the 60s that in-flight movies become routine.

Lee De Forest Phonofilms opens a studio in Clapham, London to make films with integral sound, which are shown in music halls.

The British Empire Exhibition cinema at Wembley is the first in the UK to be equipped for showing talkies.

France: Leading comedian Max Linder and his wife are found dead in their hotel rooms, apparent suicides.

Germany: Ewald-André Dupont directs Variety starring Emil Jannings and English actor Warwick Ward.

Sweden: Mauritz Stiller and Greta Garbo leave for Hollywood, as does Benjamin Christensen.

USSR: Eisenstein makes Strike and The Battleship Potemkin, which are to influence all film-makers who see them.

1926

America: Buster Keaton makes his comic masterpiece, The General.

Ronald Colman stars in Beau Geste.

Stiller leaves MGM without making a film. He makes Hotel Imperial for Paramount.

The first all-sound film programme is shown at the Warner in New York in August using the Vitaphone method, with music recorded on heavy disks played at 33[fr1/3] rpm.

Rudolph Valentino dies.

Britain: Alfred Hitchcock directs The Lodger, about Jack the Ripper.

France: Jean Renoir makes Nana.

Germany: During a period of national financial problems, UFA gets a cash injection from the US studios Universal, Paramount and MGM in return for forming a releasing organisation, Parafamet, which will distribute ten films from each of the partners and guarantee that three quarters of UFA's cinemas will show Parafamet productions. In return Paramount and MGM agree to distribute ten UFA films of their choice in the USA.

Japan: Kinugasa's A Page of Madness almost does away with the need for titles.

USSR: Pudovkin's Mother is a brilliantly edited social melodrama.

1927

America: On 6 October The Jazz Singer opens at the Warner, and Al Jolson's cry of 'you ain't heard nothin' yet' ushers in the era of sound. It takes $3.5m at the box-office.

On 28 October, the first Fox Movietone newsreel with sound is shown at the Roxy, New York.

Cecil B. De Mille makes The King of Kings, on the life of Christ.

Garbo and John Gilbert are a romantic pair in Flesh and the Devil.

New York's lavish Roxy Theater, dubbed 'The Cathedral of the Motion Picture', opens, seating nearly 6,000.

William Fox shows his first sound-on-film short in January and in May shows Seventh Heaven with a synchronized musical accompaniment.

Will Hays draws up a production code for the industry, emphasizing morality.

Britain: Alfred Hitchcock directs the boxing drama The Ring.

The Cinematograph Films Act makes it compulsory for British cinemas to show seven and a half per cent local films, rising to 20 per cent by 1936. British studios begin to turn out 'quota quickies', low-budget films made with little finesse to satisfy the law.

Victor McLaglen decides to go to Hollywood.

British Lion Film Corporation opens studios at Beaconsfield.

George Tootell, organist of London's Stoll Theatre, publishes How to Play the Cinema Organ.

France: Abel Gance's epic five-hour Napoleon uses three screens to cinematic effect. It will be shown in the US in a 70-minute version in 1929.

Germany: Fritz Lang directs his futuristic, spectacular Metropolis.

F. W. Murnau leaves for Hollywood, where he makes Sunrise.

Sweden: Mauritz Stiller leaves Hollywood and returns to Stockholm to direct for the theatre.

1928

America: King Vidor's The Crowd tackles the impersonal nature of modern life.

Victor Sjöström directs The Wind, starring Lillian Gish.

Warner produce the first all-talking film, The Lights of New York.

Walt Disney makes the first Mickey Mouse cartoon and follows it with the first sound cartoon, Steamboat Willie, again starring Mickey Mouse.

RKO Radio Pictures is founded.

Frank Capra is hired by Columbia. His involvement, together with the acumen of Harry Cohn, is to take the studio from poverty row to the status of a major.

Britain: The Jazz Singer causes a sensation when it opens in London in September.

Alfred Hitchcock makes Blackmail, Britain's first all-talking feature film. Joan Barry speaks the dialogue for its Polish-born star Anny Ondra.

Herbert Wilcox directs Dawn, with Sybil Thorndike as Nurse Edith Cavell.

Opposition to sound remains strong. Edward Wood, editor of Picture Show annual, writes: 'True progress in picture plays must be based on maintaining the silence of the screen'. British distributors predict failure for the development.

In a poll for Picturegoer, the public vote Ivor Novello the most popular male actor, followed by Ronald Colman, Ramon Novarro, Matheson Lang, Harold Lloyd and Milton Sills.

France: Carl Theodor Dreyer's The Passion of Joan of Arc stars Maria Falconetti in her only screen role. It will be banned by the British censors.

Luis Buñuel makes Le Chien Andalou with Salvador Dali.

Germany: The Germans try to set up a European union to compete with Hollywood on equal terms. It fails.

Sweden: Mauritz Stiller dies.

USSR: Eisenstein makes a propaganda masterpiece, October.

Pudovkin makes Storm over Asia, about a Mongolian trapper who becomes a puppet emperor.

Dovzhenko makes Arsenal, set in World War I.

Dziga Vertov makes the abstract documentary The Man with the Movie Camera.

Kinugasa travels to Moscow from Japan to meet Eisenstein and Pudovkin.

1929

America: Cinema attendances reach 95 million in the second year of talkies, an increase of 38 million since 1927.

King Vidor makes Hallelujah with an all-black cast.

MGM's Broadway Melody is the first film musical with an original score.

The Marx Brothers make their debut in The Cocoanuts.

Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford make their first sound film, Shakespeare's The Taming of the Shrew, 'with additional dialogue by Sam Taylor'.

The coming of sound ends many careers; Constance and Norma Talmadge retire. Those soon to return to Europe include Emil Jannings, Pola Negri, and Vilma Banky.

Warner Bros buy First National Pictures.

Fox develop a wide-screen system, Fox Grandeur, but it fails to catch on.

The first Academy Awards ceremony is held.

The Reverend William H. Short, head of the Motion Picture Research Council, recruits a team of social psychologists to investigate the effect of films on children, hoping to prove that they are damaging.

Britain: New studios, occupied by producer Archibald Nettlefold, open at Walton-on-Thames on the site of Hepworth's original studio.

France: Charles Pathé retires.

Méliès is found running a sweet-stall at a Paris station and is belatedly honoured for his contribution to cinema.

Germany: G. W. Pabst makes Pandora's Box, aka Lulu, with American actress Louise Brooks.

Karl Freund, leading German cinematographer, moves to Hollywood, as does director William Dieterle.

1930

America: Lewis Milestone makes the anti-war All Quiet on the Western Front.

Romantic star John Gilbert disappoints in his sound film Redemption.

The Marx Brothers star in Animal Crackers.

MGM publicize Anna Christie with the line 'Garbo Talks!'

The Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America agree to a production code largely drawn up by the Reverend Daniel A. Lord, a Jesuit moralist. Its central principle is that 'no picture shall be produced which will lower the moral standards of those who see it'.

William Fox loses control of his company. Upton Sinclair, in his biography published in 1933, is to charge that Fox was forced out 'by a criminal conspiracy of Wall Street bankers'.

Monogram Productions opens, and will become one of the more successful 'Poverty Row' companies, turning out low-budget genre movies.

Britain: Tom Walls directs and stars in Ben Travers's Aldwych farce Rookery Nook, with most of its original cast, including Ralph Lynn and Robertson Hare.

Basil Dean founds the New Ealing Studios.

Denmark: George Schéevoigt makes the first talkie, Eskimo.

France: Demonstrators wreck a Paris cinema showing Luis Buñuel's surrealist L'Age d'Or, made in collaboration with Salvador Dali.

Germany: Joseph Von Sternberg makes The Blue Angel, starring Emil Jannings and Marlene Dietrich. Von Sternberg and Dietrich leave for Hollywood.

USSR: Alexander Dovzhenko makes the lyrical Earth.

1931

America: Chaplin stars in his sentimental comedy City Lights.

Cimarron, about the Oklahoma land rush, is a rugged epic.

Warner begins its gritty gangster films with The Public Enemy and Little Caesar, a cycle which is to make stars of Edward G. Robinson, James Cagney, and Humphrey Bogart.

Horror movies also catch the public imagination: Tod Browning makes Dracula, starring Bela Lugosi, and James Whale directs Frankenstein, starring Boris Karloff, for Universal, beginning that studio's long involvement with horror.

David O. Selznick becomes production chief at RKO.

Britain: Basil Dean produces Gracie Fields' first film, Sally in Our Alley.

Top films at the box-office include Ben Travers's farce Plunder and the American films Hell's Angels, One Heavenly Night, and Trader Horn.

Alexander Korda founds London Films.

The British Board of Film Censors report that its examiners took exception to 284 films and totally rejected 34, with action on another eight outstanding. The report added: 'There has unquestionably been a tendency of late for films to become more and more daring, the result probably of the large number of stage plays which are now presented on the screen, and of the licence which is today allowed in current fiction.'

France: René Clair makes the satirical JaxgA[Nous la Liberté, which is to inspire Chaplin's Modern Times and the equally influential Le Million, an example of the possibilities of the film musical.

Jean Cocteau's experimental The Blood of a Poet excites admiration and derision.

Maurice Pagnol founds a film company and writes and produces film versions of his stage hit Marius and its successor Fanny, starring Raimu.

Germany: Fritz Lang directs M, starring Peter Lorre as a child murderer.

Leontine Sagan's all-female Mädchen in Uniform, about a schoolgirl's love for her female teacher, causes a sensation. The Nazis will ban it as an attack on authoritarianism.

India: Alam Ara, the first Indian talking picture, includes six songs and sets a lasting fashion.

Japan: Heinosuke Gosho's The Neighbour's Wife and Mine is the first talkie.

Norway: Tancred Ibsen makes the first talkie, The Big Baptism.

1932

America: MGM's star-studded Grand Hotel is the hit of the year.

Mervyn Le Roy's I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang, starring Paul Muni, epitomizes the Depression.

Howard Hawks directs Scarface, inspired by Al Capone.

Mae West makes her screen debut at the age of 40 in Night after Night.

Rouben Mamoulian directs Frederic March in Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde for Paramount.

Johnny Weismuller as Tarzan the Ape Man provides escapist fare in the first of a series that will keep him occupied until the late 40s.

Marie Dressler tops the first Motion Picture Herald-Fame poll of US distributors for the top money-making stars, followed by Janet Gaynor, Joan Crawford, Charles Farrell, and Greta Garbo.

Australia: Ken G. Hall makes the first talkie, On Our Selection, which becomes the most successful Australian film of the 30s and 40s.

Britain: Walter Forde directs an exciting and influential train thriller, Rome Express.

The Sunday Entertainments Act allows cinemas to open on Sundays.

Gaumont opens a bigger and better studio at Lime Grove, one that will be able to handle the production of four films at the same time.

Britain produces 141 features, which is a little less than France (143) and Germany (164).

France: Jean Renoir makes Boudu Saved from Drowning.

Danish director Carl Dreyer makes his first sound movie, Vampyr.

Germany: Leni Riefenstahl directs and stars in The Blue Light.

Spain: José Buchs makes the first talkie, Carceleras.

1933

America: The average time for making a film is now 22 days. The average cost is $70,000. Production rises to 547 films.

Roman Scandals and 42nd Street are the big hits of the year.

King Kong is the sensation of the year.

Fred Astaire dances for the first time with Ginger Rogers in Flying Down to Rio. They are to make nine more films together.

The Marx Brothers reach new heights of delirium in Duck Soup.

Garbo insists on John Gilbert as her co-star in Queen Christina. It is his last film.

Frank Capra directs Lady for a Day for Columbia.

James Whale makes The Invisible Man for Universal.

Selznick leaves RKO to join MGM. Merian C. Cooper takes over, following the success of his King Kong (co-director) for the studio. He lasts only a year.

Warner's production chief, Darryl F. Zanuck, leaves the studio.

Mae West has two box-office hits with She Done Him Wrong and I'm No Angel.

Mary Pickford retires and refuses to let her films be seen. She is to become ever more reclusive until her death in 1979.

Marie Dressler tops the box-office poll, followed by Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor, Eddie Cantor, and Wallace Beery.

The Reverend William Short's team reports, in Our Movie Made Children, that films are 'extremely likely to create a haphazard, promiscuous and undesirable national consciousness', though the research findings, on closer examination, prove to be much more inconclusive, and are ignored.

Australia: Errol Flynn makes his film debut as Fletcher Christian in Charles Chauvel's In the Wake of the Bounty.

Britain: Average cost of a British film is £20,000. Production reaches 169 films.

Alexander Korda directs The Private Life of Henry VIII with Charles Laughton. Its success brings him financial backing.

Victor Savile's The Good Companions, starring Jessie Matthews, brings J. B. Priestley's bestselling novel to the screen.

Czechoslovakia: Gustav Machaty's Ecstasy becomes notorious for a scene with its star, Hedy Kiesler, naked. Five years later she goes to Hollywood, where she is renamed Hedy Lamarr.

France: Erich Von Stroheim stars in Jean Renoir's La Grande Illusion and makes his home in Paris.

Raymond Bernard directs an epic version of Les Misérables starring Harry Baur.

Jean Vigo makes his rebellious Zero for Conduct, which is immediately banned.

Germany: As the Nazis come to power, Dr Joseph Goebbels assumes control of the arts. He bans Fritz Lang's The Testament of Dr Mabuse, but offers to make him head of film production. Lang leaves for France and then goes to Hollywood. Many other producers, directors, and actors are to follow him into exile.

1934

America: Frank Capra directs It Happened One Night with Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert, and helps create a genre of screwball comedies.

W. C. Fields establishes himself in five films, including Six of a Kind.

Bette Davis seizes her opportunity in Of Human Bondage, from Somerset Maugham's novel.

Astaire and Rogers are together again in The Gay Divorcée.

The Production Code Administration is established under Joseph Breen to clean up films. Producers put the emphasis on family films and turn to Dickens and Victorian authors.

Will Rogers is voted America's top money-making star, followed by Clark Gable, Janet Gaynor, Wallace Beery, and Mae West.

Britain: Hitchcock directs the spy drama The Man Who Knew Too Much.

Anna Neagle flirts in Nell Gwynn, directed by future husband Herbert Wilcox.

Jessie Matthews stars in one of the few successful local musicals, Evergreen.

Basil Dean directs Sings as We Go, starring Gracie Fields.

J. Arthur Rank, heir to a flour and milling fortune, founds the Religious Film Society to make evangelical films and also the commercial British National Films. Its first film is Turn of the Tide, about Yorkshire fishing families.

France: Jean Vigo makes his masterpiece, L'Atalante. Its producers recut it and it flops at the box-office. Vigo dies at the age of 29 shortly after.

1935

America: George Cukor's David Copperfield, with W. C. Fields as Mr Micawber, is perfect family entertainment.

Charles Laughton's Captain Bligh in Mutiny on the Bounty, directed by Frank Lloyd, becomes the most memorable, and most often imitated, of screen villains.

Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy are together for the first of many times in Naughty Marietta.

Victor McLaglen stars in John Ford's The Informer.

Max Reinhardt transfers Shakespeare to the screen in A Midsummer Night's Dream, with James Cagney as Bottom and Mickey Rooney as Puck.

James Whale makes The Bride of Frankenstein for Universal, with the electric-haired Elsa Lanchester in the title role.

Becky Sharp, based on Thackeray's Vanity Fair, is the first feature to be made in three-colour Technicolor.

Fox merges with Twentieth Century Pictures to become Twentieth Century-Fox, with Darryl F. Zanuck in charge of production and Joseph Schenck as chairman.

Herbert Yates founds Republic Studios, which is to become the most successful producer of 'B' movies.

David O. Selznick forms Selznick Independent Pictures, his own production company.

Shirley Temple tops the list of America's money-making stars, followed by Will Rogers, Clark Gable, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, and Joan Crawford.

Britain: Alfred Hitchcock makes the comedy thriller The Thirty-Nine Steps with Robert Donat and Madeleine Carroll.

Harold Young directs The Scarlet Pimpernel, starring Leslie Howard and Merle Oberon.

France: Jacques Feyder directs Carnival in Flanders, inspired by Old Master paintings.

Germany: Leni Riefenstahl directs Triumph of the Will, a documentary about Hitler's 1934 Nuremberg Rally.

The government sets up a censorship board, which is to ban many European and American films. It will also ban film criticism in the coming year.

1936

America: San Francisco, with Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Jeanette MacDonald, and a spectacular earthquake, is the box-office hit of the year.

Frank Capra directs for Columbia Mr Deeds Goes to Town, starring Gary Cooper.

Chaplin mocks the mechanical aspects of society in Modern Times.

Fritz Lang makes his first Hollywood film, Fury, about a lynch mob.

Douglas Fairbanks retires.

Irving Thalberg dies.

Carl Laemmle is ousted from Universal. But the company does well with Deanna Durbin's Three Smart Girls.

Selznick's first independent production is Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Shirley Temple remains America's top money-making star, followed by Clark Gable, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, Robert Taylor, and Joe E. Brown.

Britain: Charles Laughton is at his best as Rembrandt, directed by Alexander Korda.

Korda produces H. G. Wells's futuristic Things to Come, directed by William Cameron Menzies, and the intriguing The Man Who Could Work Miracles.

René Clair makes The Ghost Goes West, starring Robert Donat.

Alfred Hitchcock directs the brooding Sabotage.

Basil Wright and Harry Watt make Night Mail, a documentary about a mail train with music by Benjamin Britten and words by W. H. Auden.

J. Arthur Rank opens the company's new Pinewood studios in Buckinghamshire.

Vigo's Zero for Conduct gets a British release and is disliked by critics. 'Nought for direction. Nought for acting,' writes the Observer's C. A. Lejeune.

France: Pagnol directs César, the last of his Marius trilogy.

Jean Renoir makes the charming 40-minute A Day in the Country, although it is not seen until 1946.

Anatole Litvak, who left Germany when the Nazis came to power, directs the romantic Mayerling. He is invited to Hollywood.

Sweden: Ingrid Bergman stars in Gustaf Molander's Intermezzo, which she will remake in Hollywood for David O. Selznick three years later, bringing her international stardom.

1937

America: Garbo stars as Camille, directed by George Cukor.

Roland Colman and Douglas Fairbanks Jnr add distinction to the romantic, swashbuckling fantasy The Prisoner of Zenda.

Frank Capra provides more escapism in Lost Horizon for Columbia.

Laurel and Hardy reach comic perfection in Way Out West.

Disney's first animated feature, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, is a huge success.

America's top five money-making stars are Shirley Temple, Clark Gable, Robert Taylor, Bing Crosby, and Joan Withers.

Britain: Will Hay stars in his best comedy, Oh, Mr Porter, with help from Moore Marriott and Graham Moffat.

Flora Robson stars as Elizabeth I in Fire over England.

Anna Neagle takes the title role in Herbert Wilcox's successful Victoria the Great.

Wings of the Morning is the first British film to be made in Technicolor.

MGM open a British offshoot at Denham Studios.

France: Jean Renoir directs a prison-camp drama, La Grande Illusion, with Jean Gabin and Erich Von Stroheim, promoting tolerance between nations. It is banned in Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy.

Jean Gabin stars as the romantic gangster in Julien Duvivier's Pépé Le Moko. At Von Stroheim's suggestion, MGM acquire the rights to remake it. Duvivier and his female star Mireille Balin leave for Hollywood, but Gabin turns down the trip. Balin is back in France without making a film within a year.

Germany: Director Detlef Sierck makes La Habanera, attacking US colonialism, and leaves for Hollywood, where he becomes Douglas Sirk.

Goebbels puts film production under state control.

USSR: Eisenstein's Bezhin Meadow is banned.

1938

America: Errol Flynn brings new panache to swashbucklers in The Adventures of Robin Hood.

James Cagney stars as the doomed gangster in Angels with Dirty Faces, directed by Michael Curtiz.

Walter Wanger acquires the rights to Pépé Le Moko and remakes it as Algiers, with Charles Boyer and Hedy Lamarr.

Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland star in Love Finds Andy Hardy, the first of a wholesome series.

Shirley Temple still has the public enthralled, again topping the list of America's money-making stars, followed by Clark Gable, Sonja Henie, Mickey Rooney, and Spencer Tracy.

Britain: Hitchcock makes The Lady Vanishes with its very English chorus of Caldicott and Charters, played by Naughton Wayne and Basil Radford.

Bernard Shaw's Pygmalion is filmed with Wendy Hillier in the role of Eliza and earns the author a shared Oscar for best screenplay.

Michael Balcon becomes head of production at Ealing Studios.

France: Marcel Pagnol writes and directs The Baker's Wife with Raimu.

Marcel Carné's Port of Shadows, starring Jean Gabin and Michèle Morgan, establishes him as a leading director.

Méliès dies.

Germany: Leni Riefenstahl's Olympia, a film of the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin, is released.

USSR: Eisenstein makes Alexander Nevsky, a patriotic epic about a German defeat, with a score by Prokoviev.

1939

America: David O. Selznick's Gone with the Wind, despite its production problems, swiftly becomes a Hollywood classic and a box-office phenomenon.

Judy Garland stars in The Wizard of Oz with Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr, and Jack Haley.

Garbo stars in Ninotchka, directed by Ernst Lubitsch and with Billy Wilder among the contributors to its witty script.

John Ford makes Stagecoach, giving John Wayne a boost to stardom and reviving the western.

Marlene Dietrich mocks western conventions in Destry Rides Again.

Charles Laughton stars as Quasimodo in The Hunchback of Notre Dame.

Laurence Olivier scores as Heathcliff in Wuthering Heights, directed by William Wyler.

Frank Capra makes the populist Mr Smith Goes to Washington, with James Stewart.

In a national poll, 22 million people vote Jeanette MacDonald America's most popular actress. But the professionals' poll of top money-makers is headed by Mickey Rooney, followed by Tyrone Power, Spencer Tracy, Clark Gable, and Shirley Temple, whose appeal is slipping as she grows older.

Britain: As the Second World War begins, cinemas are closed, briefly. Directors are urged to make films to raise morale – and to encourage America to enter the war. Pinewood Studios is used for food storage.

Zoltan Korda makes the rousing The Four Feathers with John Clements, Ralph Richardson, and C. Aubrey Smith.

Robert Donat and Greer Garson star in Goodbye Mr Chips, directed by Sam Wood at MGM's British studio.

Hitchcock directs the dull Jamaica Inn and then heads for Hollywood.

France: Marcel Carné's Le Jour Se Lève consolidates his reputation. Hollywood is to remake it eight years later with a happy ending as The Long Night.

Jean Renoir's The Rules of the Game is banned by the government soon after its release. He leaves for Italy.

Spain: As Franco is triumphant in the civil war, Luis Buñuel moves to New York.

1940

America: Walt Disney's Pinocchio builds on the success of Snow White; the studio's ambitious Fantasia marries animations to classical music and is the first feature to use stereo sound.

Rebecca, Hitchcock's first Hollywood film for David O. Selznick, combines mystery and romance with an impeccable cast headed by Laurence Olivier and Joan Fontaine.

Hitchcock also makes the suspenseful Foreign Correspondent, which encourages the US to enter the war.

George Cukor directs the sparkling The Philadelphia Story, teaming Katharine Hepburn, Cary Grant, and James Stewart.

Howard Hawks scores with the snappy newspaper comedy His Girl Friday.

Chaplin mocks Hitler and Mussolini, but also becomes sententious in The Great Dictator.

John Ford makes the sombre, populist The Grapes of Wrath.

Writer Preston Sturges turns director with The Great McGinty, the first of his exuberant comedies.

W. C. Fields writes (as Mahatma Kane Jeeves) and stars in his best comedy, The Bank Dick.

Mickey Rooney heads the list of top money-making stars, followed by Spencer Tracy, Clark Gable, singing cowboy Gene Autry, and Tyrone Power.

Australia: Charles Chauvel's First World War film Forty Thousand Horsemen is the first movie to attract attention outside the country for more than a decade.

Britain: Korda produces, Michael Powell and others direct, the great fantasy The Thief of Bagdad, pitting Sabu against the wicked Conrad Veidt.

Thorold Dickinson makes the suspenseful Gaslight with Anton Walbrook and Diana Wynyard.

Carol Reed directs the comedy thriller Night Train to Munich.

Quentin Reynolds narrates the documentary London Can Take It, directed by Harry Watt, designed to persuade the US to take up arms.

1941

America: Howard Hawks's Sergeant York, about a hero of the First World War, is the hit of the year.

Orson Welles, playing with 'the biggest electric train set a boy ever had', directs and stars in Citizen Kane. The film is attacked by the newspapers of William Randolph Hearst, the model for Kane.

Preston Sturges's Sullivan's Travels emphasizes the value of comedy.

Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh star in Alexander Korda's That Hamilton Woman, a mixture of sex and patriotism.

Writer John Huston turns director with the thriller The Maltese Falcon, with Humphrey Bogart, Mary Astor, Sidney Greenstreet, and Peter Lorre.

William Dieterle remakes the Faust story as All that Money Can Buy, with Walter Huston as the Devil.

Walt Disney releases another classic animated feature, Dumbo.

After starring in George Cukor's Two-Faced Woman, Garbo retires.

Jean Renoir makes his home in Hollywood.

Mickey Rooney remains America's top money-making star, testifying to the enduring appeal of the sentimental small-town Andy Hardy series, followed by Clark Gable, Abbott and Costello, Bob Hope, and Spencer Tracy.

Britain: Michael Powell's The Forty-Ninth Parallel stars Eric Portman as a German trying to escape from Canada to the US.

Dangerous Moonlight combines romance and the war with the music of Richard Addinsell's 'Warsaw Concerto' to provide some welcome escapism.

Leslie Howard brings The Scarlet Pimpernel up to date by directing and starring in Pimpernel Smith.

Humphrey Jennings directs the documentary Listen to Britain, about the effects of the war.

Harry Watt's Target for Tonight effectively tells the story of an RAF raid over Germany.

J. Arthur Rank acquires the Odeon cinema chain.

USSR: Land of Youth is a 3-D film that does away with the requirement for the audience to wear glasses.

1942

America: Michael Curtiz overcomes severe production problems to deliver, surprisingly, a Hollywood classic, Casablanca, with Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman.

Mervyn Le Roy's Random Harvest, with Ronald Colman and Greer Garson, is the weepie of the year, though running it close is Now, Voyager, with Bette Davis and Paul Henreid.

Orson Welles's The Magnificent Ambersons is re-edited without his approval.

Walt Disney scores again with the animated feature Bambi.

Ernst Lubitsch's To Be or Not to Be, starring Jack Benny, is fun at the expense of the Nazis.

Sam Wood's Kings Row, with Ann Sheridan and Robert Cummings, is gripping melodrama.

Jacques Tourneur's Cat People begins another cycle of horror movies, under producer Val Lewton.

Olsen and Johnson star in the anarchic comedy Hellzapoppin.

William Wyler's Mrs Miniver shows the plucky British coping with the war and scores heavily at the box-office.

Abbott and Costello head the poll of top money-making stars, followed by Clark Gable, Gary Cooper, Mickey Rooney, and Bob Hope.

Britain: David Lean and Noël Coward direct In Which We Serve, the archetypal British war film.

Went the Day Well?, directed by Alberto Cavalcanti from a Graham Greene story, shows German paratroopers invading an English village.

Thorold Dickinson's propaganda film The Next of Kin is a popular success.

Robert Donat as Young Mr Pitt, directed by Carol Reed, provides more wartime propaganda.

Italy: Luchino Visconti's first film, Ossessione, based on James M. Cain's The Postman Always Rings Twice, begins the flowering of neo-realist films.

1943

America: Howard Hughes's aerodynamic bra lifts Jane Russell to stardom in The Outlaw.

The Warner production of Irving Berlin's musical This Is the Army and Sam Wood's ponderous version of Ernest Hemingway's For Whom the Bell Tolls are the hits of the year.

Stormy Weather, a black musical with Bill Robinson, Lena Horne, and Fats Waller, is the liveliest film of the year.

The forces' pin-up Betty Grable heads the list of top money-making stars, followed by Bob Hope, Abbott and Costello, Bing Crosby, and Gary Cooper.

Britain: Frank Launder and Sidney Gilliat's Millions Like Us deals effectively with a family's wartime difficulties.

Gainsborough Films hit on what was to be a successful formula of historical romances with The Man in Grey, directed by Leslie Arliss and starring James Mason and Margaret Lockwood.

Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger make The Life and Death of Colonel Blimp.

David MacDonald's Desert Victory is a classic war documentary.

Leslie Howard dies when his plane is shot down by Nazis.

R. W. Paul dies.

Denmark: Carl Theodor Dreyer makes the spellbinding melodrama with a message, Day of Wrath.

Germany: Josef Von Baky directs Münchausen, commemorating the 25th anniversary of UFA.

1944

America: Leo McCarey's Going My Way, with Bing Crosby, is the hit of the year.

Billy Wilder's Double Indemnity, with Fred MacMurray and Barbara Stanwyck, is a classic film noir.

Otto Preminger's Laura, with Dana Andrews and Clifton Webb, is another early example of film noir.

Preston Sturges's Hail the Conquering Hero is a deft comedy of small-town attitudes to returning heroes.

Producer Arthur Freed makes MGM the home of the lavish musical, beginning with Vincente Minnelli's Meet Me in St Louis, with Judy Garland.

Luis Buñuel heads for Mexico to make films.

Bing Crosby is the top money-making star in America, followed by Gary Cooper, Bob Hope, Betty Grable, and Spencer Tracy.

Britain: Laurence Olivier makes Shakespeare's Henry V into a rousing patriotic boost to wartime spirits.

Carol Reed's semi-documentary The Way Ahead, with David Niven and Stanley Holloway, is a hit with audiences.

Sidney Gilliat's wartime story of romance and revenge, Waterloo Road, catches the mood of the moment.

Sweden: Alf Sjöberg makes Frenzy, scripted by Ingmar Bergman, and starring Mai Zetterling and Alf Kjellin.

1945

America: The Bells of St Mary's and Hitchcock's Spellbound, both starring Ingrid Bergman, are the hits of the year.

Billy Wilder makes an alcoholic classic, The Lost Weekend, starring Ray Milland.

Bing Crosby remains the top money-making star, followed by Van Johnson, Greer Garson, Betty Grable, and Spencer Tracy.

Britain: The documentary True Glory provides an uplifting account of the last years of the war.

David Lean has audiences laughing and weeping with Brief Encounter and Blithe Spirit, both written by Noël Coward.

Anthony Asquith's The Way to the Stars, written by Terence Rattigan, successfully recreates the wartime mood.

Robert Hamer makes a classic compendium of spooky stories, Dead of Night.

Leslie Arliss directs another successful piece of period hokum for Gainsborough, The Wicked Lady, with Margaret Lockwood and James Mason.

France: Marcel Carné makes his masterpiece Les Enfants du Paradis with Arletty and Jean-Louis Barrault.

Vigo's 12-year-old Zero for Conduct is seen for the first time.

Italy: Roberto Rossellini's Rome, Open City, using mainly amateur actors, electrifies audiences with its realistic approach.

USSR: Eisenstein makes Ivan the Terrible, Part II.

1946

America: Film audiences reach 100 million a week.

William Wyler's The Best Years of Our Lives, produced by Sam Goldwyn, is the box-office hit of the year with its stories of servicemen returning to civilian life.

Larry Parks stars as Al Jolson in The Jolson Story, another of the year's hits.

Duel in the Sun, produced by David O. Selznik and directed mainly by King Vidor, brings passion and profit back to the western.

Hitchcock does some of his best work in Notorious, with Cary Grant and Ingrid Bergman.

Howard Hawks's The Big Sleep, with Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall, is a classic tough thriller.

Frank Capra's optimistic It's a Wonderful Life is received coolly, although it goes on to become a Christmas-time classic.

Universal merge with International Pictures to become Universal-International.

Bing Crosby is the American box-office favourite, followed by Ingrid Bergman, Van Johnson, Gary Cooper, and Bob Hope.

Australia: Harry Watt's The Overlanders, starring Chips Rafferty, is the first and best result of Ealing Studio's involvement in Australian film.

Britain: 25 million Britons go to the cinema each week.

Humphrey Jennings's documentary A Diary for Timothy encapsulates feelings about the war and the future.

David Lean makes a superb adaptation of Dickens's Great Expectations.

Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger's A Matter of Life and Death (aka Stairway to Heaven) is a witty, stylish fantasy.

Caesar and Cleopatra, with Claude Rains and Vivien Leigh, is, at more than £1m, the most expensive British film so far, but no one cares for it.

Margaret Lockwood becomes Britain's favourite female star.

Feature-film production resumes at Pinewood.

Sir Alexander Korda says that discussions about the British film industry 'succeed only in betraying the sad fact that we have not got one – as yet.'

France: Jean Cocteau's austere and poetic Beauty and the Beast is an artistic success.

Italy: Roberto Rossellini consolidates his reputation with his war film Paisa.

Vittorio de Sica's Shoeshine is another key film in the neo-realist movement, with its story of two boys trying to survive in Nazi-occupied Rome.

1947

America: Edward Dmytryk's tense thriller Crossfire confronts racial bigotry.

The House Un-American Activities Committee, chaired by J. Parnell Thomas, holds its first hearings in Los Angeles, at which friendly witnesses condemn Communist subversion in Hollywood. HUAC subpoenas witnesses to appear at further hearings. Writers, directors, and producers who refuse to answer HUAC's questions on their political affiliations, known as the Hollywood Ten, are sentenced to prison (where some find as a fellow inmate J. Parnell Thomas, sentenced for misappropriation of funds). Blacklisting by the studios of those with left-wing sympathies begins and is to continue throughout the 50s. Carl Foreman, Joseph Losey, and Jules Dassin are among those who are to leave the US for Britain.

The top five money-making stars are the bland Bing Crosby, Betty Grable, Ingrid Bergman, Gary Cooper, and Humphrey Bogart.

Britain: Ronald Hamer's It Always Rains on Sunday, starring Googie Withers and John McCallum, is a sensational low-life melodrama.

Carol Reed directs Odd Man Out, starring James Mason, a performance that takes him to Hollywood.

The Boulting Brothers film Brighton Rock, Graham Greene's tale of a petty criminal, starring Richard Attenborough.

Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger's heady Black Narcissus is one of the cinema's most beautiful films.

American studios embargo their films being shown, following a tax imposed on export. As Rank gears up to fill the cinemas with British films, the embargo is lifted, causing Rank financial problems. Managing director John Davis, who regards producers and directors as extravagant, wields the axe.

France: Claude Autant-Lara's Devil in the Flesh makes Gérard Philipe a star.

1948

America: Jules Dassin's The Naked City adopts a semi-documentary approach to a murder mystery.

Fred Astaire returns to dancing in Easter Parade, with Judy Garland.

The melodramatic Johnny Belinda, directed by Jean Negulesco, makes Jane Wyman a star.

The Supreme Court rules that the five major studios can no longer own cinemas, so breaking their monopoly of the industry.

Millionaire Howard Hughes buys RKO.

America's top five money-making stars are Bing Crosby, Betty Grable, Abbott and Costello, Gary Cooper, and Bob Hope.

The big studios threaten to cease funding the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences when they discover that the British movie Hamlet is a favourite to win the Oscar for best picture.

Britain: David Lean's Oliver Twist is another successful Dickens adaptation, notable for Alec Guinness's performance as Fagin.

Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger's The Red Shoes, with Moira Shearer, makes ballet box-office.

Carol Reed's The Fallen Idol, with Ralph Richardson, is a near-perfect piece of small-scale cinema.

Iceland: Loftur Gudmundsson makes the first talkie, Between the Mountains and the Sea.

Italy: Vittorio De Sica's The Bicycle Thief is hailed as a neo-realist classic.

Luchino Visconti takes neo-realism to its limits with La Terra Trema, about a Sicilian fisherman and his family.

Giuseppe De Santis's Bitter Rice attacks American corruption of Italian culture, but it is Silvano Mangano at work in the rice fields who attracts international attention.

USSR: Eisenstein dies less than three weeks after his 50th birthday.

1949

America: William Dieterle's glossy Portrait of Jennie, with Jennifer Jones and Joseph Cotten, is David O. Selznick's last production with his company, which he folds soon after.

James Cagney is back at his energetic best as a brutal gangster in the searing White Heat.

Cecil B. De Mille's Samson and Delilah, with Victor Mature and Hedy Lamarr in the title roles, is a hit despite derisive reviews.

Gene Kelly and Stanley Donen's On the Town, produced by Arthur Freed and with a cast that includes Kelly, Frank Sinatra, and Vera-Ellen, is one of the best-ever musicals.

Larry Parks scores another hit with Jolson Sings Again.

The top five money-making stars are Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Abbott and Costello, John Wayne, and Gary Cooper.

Britain: Carol Reed directs the thrilling The Third Man, starring Orson Welles and with Anton Karas's haunting zither music.

Three Ealing comedies make the studio's reputation: Henry Cornelius's Passport to Pimlico, Alexander Mackendrick's Whisky Galore, and Robert Hamer's Kind Hearts and Coronets.

Rank sells its Shepherd's Bush studios to BBC-TV.

France: Jacques Tati's Jour de Fête introduces his gentle humour to the world.

1950

America: Billy Wilder's Sunset Boulevard is a tart classic, with William Holden as the innocent who becomes involved with ageing star Gloria Swanson.

Joseph Mankiewicz's All about Eve gives Bette Davis the best role of her career as a bitchy actress.

Delmer Daves's Broken Arrow is the first revisionist western, on the side of the Indians.

Judy Holliday scores as the not-so-dumb chorus girl in Born Yesterday, directed by George Cukor.

Disney's live-action film Treasure Island provides Robert Newton with the opportunity for an eye-rolling, lip-smacking performance as Long John Silver.

The top five money-making stars are John Wayne, Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Betty Grable, and James Stewart.

Britain: Basil Dearden directs the crime drama The Blue Lamp, starring Dirk Bogarde and Jack Warner, which is to inspire the long-running television series Dixon of Dock Green.

The Boulting Brothers make a tense and influential thriller, Seven Days to Noon.

Frank Launder's The Happiest Days of Your Life is a sprightly comedy, sparked by the performances of Alastair Sim and Margaret Rutherford.

The prison-camp drama, The Wooden Horse, is a success, as nostalgia for recent heroics continues.

France: Jean Cocteau's Orpheus is a fantastic success and a successful fantasy.

Max Ophuls makes the stylish and sexy La Ronde. Its banning in New York leads to a court case that eventually frees films from local censorship.

Robert Bresson directs the austere The Diary of a Country Priest.

Italy: Ingrid Bergman stars in Stromboli, directed by Roberto Rossellini, and scandalizes many when she has a child by him, an event that is to keep her away from Hollywood for much of the decade.

Mexico: Luis Buñuel signals his re-emergence with The Young and the Damned.

Sweden: Alf Sjöberg directs Anita Björk and Ulf Palme in an exemplary version of Strindberg's Miss Julie.

1951

America: Vincente Minnelli scores with An American in Paris, culminating in a ballet sequence for Gene Kelly and Leslie Caron.

Marlon Brando makes his film debut in the role that brought him fame on Broadway: Stanley Kowalski in A Streetcar Named Desire, directed by Elia Kazan.

Montgomery Clift is at his best in the steamy A Place in the Sun, also starring Elizabeth Taylor and directed by George Stevens.

Hitchcock makes the quirky Strangers on a Train, with Farley Granger and Robert Walker.

Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis star in Sailor, Beware to become the top comedy act.

Howard Hawks's The Thing begins a cycle of monster movies, based on fear of the atom bomb.

Larry Parks admits to having been a Communist at the HUAC hearings. His contract with Columbia, and his film career, ends.

Louis B. Mayer is forced out of MGM, to be replaced by Dore Schary.

The box-office favourites are John Wayne, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, Betty Grable, Abbott and Costello, and Bing Crosby.

Britain: Ealing comedies keep audiences happy with Charles Crichton's The Lavender Hill Mob and Alexander Mackendrick's The Man in the White Suit, starring Alec Guinness.

John Huston's The African Queen delights, with the antagonistic Humphrey Bogart and Katharine Hepburn.

Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger's The Tales of Hoffman combines operetta and ballet in a remarkable way.

John Boulting directs the pageant-like The Magic Box, on the life of William Friese-Greene, as part of the Festival of Britain celebrations.

France: Robert Bresson's Diary of a Country Priest gains him international fame.

Japan: Kurosawa's Rashomon opens Western eyes to Japanese cinema.

Yashujiro Ozu makes the complex family drama Early Summer.

1952

America: Cecil B. De Mille's circus film, The Greatest Show on Earth, is a smash hit.

This Is Cinerama, a film using stereo sound and a wide-screen process that requires three projectors, causes a sensation with its opening roller-coaster ride, but the system is cumbersome and there are no more than 40 cinemas equipped to show its films by the early 60s.

Fred Zinnemann makes a classic western, High Noon, with Gary Cooper, which can be read as a condemnation of blacklisting in Hollywood.

Gene Kelly stars in Singin' in the Rain, a brilliant musical about Hollywood at the time the talkies arrived.

Charlie Chaplin's Limelight seems a sentimental farewell to his own past.

Arch Oboler's Bwana Devil revives interest in 3-D films.

Charlie Chaplin leaves to visit Britain and is told by the Attorney-General not to return.

John Garfield dies of a heart attack. Friends claim it was caused by the stress of his appearance as an unfriendly witness before HUAC and his subsequent blacklisting.

Decca Records takes over Universal.

Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis are tops at the box-office, followed by Gary Cooper, John Wayne, Bing Crosby, and Bob Hope.

Britain: David Lean directs the topical The Sound Barrier, with Ralph Richardson and Nigel Patrick.

Anthony Asquith's version of Oscar Wilde's The Importance of Being Earnest captures Edith Evans's definitive performance as Lady Bracknell.

The National Film Theatre is created from a cinema built for the Festival of Britain.

France: René Clément directs Forbidden Games, a sombre film of childhood trauma.

Jacques Becker's Casque d'Or, with Simone Signoret and Serge Reggiani, is an impeccable piece of film-making.

Brigitte Bardot lands her first significant role in The Lighthouse Keeper's Daughter and marries her mentor, Roger Vadim.

Fernandel becomes an international star in The Little World of Don Camillo.

Italy: Vittorio De Sica makes the deeply pessimistic Umberto D, a study of neglected old age.

Federico Fellini directs the satirical The White Sheik.

Japan: Kenji Mizoguchi directs The Life of Oharu, about a samurai's daughter's ill-fated love for a servant.

1953

America: In an attempt to combat falling audiences and the influence of television, Twentieth Century-Fox shows off CinemaScope, its new wide-screen process, with The Robe, which becomes the most successful film of the year and one of the big hits of the decade.

From Here to Eternity, with Burt Lancaster and Deborah Kerr rolling in the sand and sea, is also a box-office success.

Vincente Minnelli makes another classic musical for MGM, The Band Wagon, with Fred Astaire and his English equivalent, Jack Buchanan.

George Stevens's western Shane pits Alan Ladd against Jack Palance.

Joseph Mankiewicz's Julius Caesar combines the classical English acting of John Gielgud and the Method of Marlon Brando.

The horror film The House of Wax, starring Vincent Price, gives 3-D films a further fillip. It is directed by the one-eyed André de Toth.

Chaplin sells his Hollywood studio and settles in Switzerland.

Gary Cooper is the top money-making star followed by Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, John Wayne, Alan Ladd, and Bing Crosby.

Britain: Cosy comedy predominates, exemplified by Henry Cornelius's Genevieve, with Kenneth More.

The Cruel Sea, with its stiff-upper-lipped officers still fighting the war, is a good representative of the alternative, and audiences flock to it.

Cecil Hepworth dies.

France: Jacques Tati's Monsieur Hulot's Holiday develops his concept of comedy without stars.

Henri-Georges Clouzot's thriller The Wages of Fear electrifies audiences and provides Yves Montand with his first serious role.

Italy: Federico Fellini's I Vitelloni, in the neo-realist tradition, focuses on the aimless young.

Jean Renoir, having left the US, makes the unsuccessful The Golden Coach with Anna Magnani.

Japan: Yashujiro Ozu's Tokyo Story is an austere and moving drama of disappointments.

Teinosuke Kinugasa's 12th-century saga Gate of Hell wins the top prize at Cannes and an Oscar.

Kenji Mizoguchi's 16th-century story Ugetsu Monogatari is hailed at the Venice Film Festival.

Mexico: Luis Buñuel makes a brilliantly faithful version of The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe with Dan O'Herlihy.

1954

America: Elia Kazan's On the Waterfront, with Marlon Brando and Rod Steiger at their best, can be read as his apologia for naming names to HUAC; it is powerfully convincing on its own terms.

Brando also plays a somewhat elderly rebel in The Wild One, a biker movie that causes controversy.

Hitchcock's teasing thriller Rear Window stars Grace Kelly and James Stewart as a voyeuristic photographer.

Judy Garland and James Mason bring passion to the remake of A Star Is Born, but it at first fails to find an audience and is drastically cut.

Gordon Douglas's Them!, with its giant ants, is the first of a cycle of post-atomic monster movies.

Paramount's VistaVision wide-screen process makes its debut in White Christmas, a cosy musical with Bing Crosby. The process fades by the end of the 50s.

Samuel Z. Arkoff and James H. Nicholson found American International Pictures (AIP), the low-budget film company that includes Roger Corman among its producers.

John Wayne is America's top money-making star, followed by Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, Gary Cooper, James Stewart, and Marilyn Monroe.

Britain: David Lean's Hobson's Choice features Charles Laughton at his best.

Alexander Mackendrick's Ealing comedy The Maggie comes perilously close to Whisky Galore but manages to amuse.

Frank Launder's The Belles of St Trinian's, with Alastair Sim in drag, is a commercial success and brings three sequels.

Ralph Thomas's Doctor in the House, with Dirk Bogarde and James Robertson Justice, is a comic success, but unfortunately results in several sequels.

The BBFC bans The Wild One, which will not be seen in Britain until 1968.

Italy: Vittorio De Sica makes Sophia Loren a star in The Gold of Naples, the first of their six collaborations.

Federico Fellini's La Strada, with Giulietta Masina and Anthony Quinn, infuses neo-realism with poetry in its story of an ill-used simpleton.

Japan: Akira Kurosawa directs the exciting and action-filled epic The Seven Samurai with Toshiro Mifune.

Poland: Andrzej Wajda directs A Generation starring Zbigniew Cybulski.

1955

America: A new star is born, and quickly dies: James Dean makes East of Eden and Rebel without a Cause – before crashing his sports car and becoming an enduring screen icon.

Spencer Tracy stars with Robert Ryan in John Sturges's seminal suspense thriller, Bad Day at Black Rock.

Paddy Chayevsky's TV play Marty transfers successfully to the screen, bringing stardom to Ernest Borgnine.

Billy Wilder's The Seven Year Itch makes the most of Marilyn Monroe's comic talents.

Charles Laughton directs The Night of the Hunter; its reputation is to grow with the years.

Rock 'n' roll arrives with Bill Haley and the Comets singing 'Rock around the Clock' behind the credits of The Blackboard Jungle, about life in a slum school. Within months, Haley and others will be starring in cheap exploitation movies, such as Rock around the Clock and Don't Knock the Rock, and popular music will never be the same.

Robert Aldrich's Kiss Me Deadly announces the arrival of an overwrought talent.

Oklahoma is shown in Todd-AO, a new wide-screen process promoted by showman Mike Todd.

Disney opens the first Disneyland, extending the appeal of its films and characters.

Hitchcock luminaries James Stewart and Grace Kelly head America's money-making stars, followed by John Wayne, William Holden, and Gary Cooper.

Britain: Yet another war film, Michael Anderson's The Dam Busters, does well, thanks to R. C. Sherriff's script and the acting of Michael Redgrave and others.

Alexander Mackendrick's The Ladykillers is almost the last of the Ealing comedies.

John Halas and Joy Batchelor direct Britain's first animated feature, George Orwell's Animal Farm.

Brigitte Bardot stars with Dirk Bogarde in Doctor at Sea.

Hammer Films, a small production company recycling TV programmes, strikes it rich with The Quatermass Experiment, a horror movie based on a BBC serial written by Nigel Kneale.

France: Jean Renoir makes a frothy musical, French Cancan, with Jean Gabin.

Henri-Georges Clouzot's Les Diaboliques is a grim suspense story.

Henri Verneuil's The Sheep Has Five Legs gives comedian Fernandel the six roles of his life.

Jules Dassin's film Rififi, with its tense safe-cracking sequence, captures audiences' imaginations around the world.

Max Ophuls directs the sumptuous Lola Montes.

India: Satyajit Ray's Pather Panchali is an art-house hit in the West.

Sweden: Bergman's comedy Smiles of a Summer Night brings him international recognition.

1956

America: Cecil B. De Mille's The Ten Commandments tops the box-office.

George Stevens's family saga Giant also does well, owing in part to the growing cult around James Dean.

Mike Todd's star-packed Around the World in Eighty Days, in Todd-AO, is a hit.

John Ford's The Searchers provides John Wayne with his best, most complex role.

Forbidden Planet, starring Leslie Nielsen, gives a science-fiction twist to Shakespeare's The Tempest.

The blacklisted Dalton Trumbo, writing under a pseudonym, wins an Oscar for The Brave One.

Fox experiment with CinemaScope 55, using 55mm film, for Carousel, but the process is not a success.

Dore Schary is sacked from MGM.

Darryl F. Zanuck leaves Twentieth Century-Fox.

Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis split.

Fritz Lang decides he has had enough of Hollywood.

William Holden is the top money-making star, followed by John Wayne, James Stewart, Burt Lancaster, and Glenn Ford.

Britain: Jack Lee's war film A Town Like Alice, with Virginia McKenna and Peter Finch, is a hit.

Hammer Films switches its attention to horror, reviving a Universal favourite with The Curse of Frankenstein, starring Christopher Lee and Peter Cushing and directed by Terence Fisher.

Lindsay Anderson, Karel Reisz, and others issue the Free Cinema manifesto.

The BBC buys Ealing Studios.

France: Robert Bresson's A Man Escaped details an escape by a Resistance fighter imprisoned by the Nazis.

India: Satyajit Ray makes Aparajito, a sequel to Pather Panchali.

Italy: Fellini's Cabiria (aka The Nights of Cabiria) is a life-enhancing look at Roman low-life.

Japan: Kon Ichikawa directs the horrifying war film The Burmese Harp.

Poland: Andrzej Wajda directs Kanal, starring Zbigniew Cybulski as one of the Polish partisans trapped in the sewers of Warsaw by the Nazis.

1957

America: Stanley Kubrick directs the overpowering Paths of Glory, set in the First World War.

Don Siegel's The Invasion of the Body Snatchers is a brilliantly effective paranoid parable.

Sidney Lumet makes Twelve Angry Men, a TV play that transfers successfully to the screen.

Alexander Mackendrick makes the moody, brilliant Sweet Smell of Success, with Burt Lancaster and Tony Curtis.

Mark Robson's Peyton Place, from a bestselling novel, is a hit; in the 60s it will become a long-running TV soap opera.

William Hanna and Joseph Barbera found Hanna-Barbera Productions to make family entertainment for television, including such animated series as The Flintstones.

Rock Hudson becomes America's top star at the box-office, followed by John Wayne, Pat Boone, Elvis Presley, and Frank Sinatra.

Argentina: Leopold Torre Nilsson gains international recognition with The House of the Angel.

Britain: David Lean's The Bridge on the River Kwai, produced by Sam Spiegel and starring William Holden and Alec Guinness, is the box-office success of the year.

Hammer Films remake Dracula, with Christopher Lee in the title role, and The Revenge of Frankenstein, with Peter Cushing.

France: Brigitte Bardot becomes an international star as Roger Vadim's And God Created Woman is released around the world.

Japan: Akira Kurosawa's Throne of Blood re-invents Shakespeare's Macbeth.

Sweden: Ingmar Bergman's reputation is made with The Seventh Seal, with the gaunt Max Von Sydow as a knight returning from the Crusades, and the gentler Wild Strawberries, starring Victor Sjöström.

USSR: Mikhail Kalatozov makes the sleek love story The Cranes Are Flying.

1958

America: Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical South Pacific, despite its old-fashioned air and airs, is the hit of the year.

Orson Welles stars in, and directs, the brooding thriller Touch of Evil.

Hitchcock's dizzying thriller Vertigo stars James Stewart as a man trying to remake the past.

Harry Cohn, head of Columbia, dies.

Mike Todd is killed in a plane crash.

The top five money-making stars are Glenn Ford, Elizabeth Taylor, Jerry Lewis, Marlon Brando, and Rock Hudson.

Britain: Gerald Thomas's Carry On Sergeant, an army farce produced by Peter Rogers, is a surprising hit; it begins a sequence of low-budget Carry On comedies that are to become a profitable staple of British cinema.

Mark Robson directs The Inn of the Sixth Happiness starring Ingrid Bergman, with Wales standing in for its Chinese locations.

France: Louis Malle's Lift to the Scaffold (aka Frantic) and The Lovers, both starring Jeanne Moreau, announce the arrival of the French 'New Wave'.

Mexico: Luis Buñuel directs Nazarin, about a priest who tries to follow Christ's example.

Poland: Andrzej Wajda makes the compelling Ashes and Diamonds, starring Zbigniew Cybulski as a man confused about killing after the end of war.

Sweden: Ingmar Bergman's startling The Face stars Max Von Sydow as a 19th-century magician.

1959

America: William Wyler's Ben Hur takes epic amounts of money at the box-office.

Hitchcock makes his chase thriller North by Northwest, with Cary Grant doing the running.

Billy Wilder directs his comic masterpiece Some Like It Hot.

Behind the Great Wall is the first film to be shown in Aromarama. It is also the last.

Joseph E. Levine buys US rights to Hercules, a cheap Italian film, and spends $1.2m on promoting it; it becomes a hit, making body-builder Steve Reeves a star and starting a cycle of muscle-man movies.

Herbert Yates resigns as president of Republic Pictures and production ceases.

Cecil B. De Mille dies.

Rock Hudson is America's top money-making star, along with Cary Grant, James Stewart, Doris Day, and Debbie Reynolds.

Brazil: French director Marcel Camus's Black Orpheus uses myth and carnival to impressive effect.

Britain: Jack Cardiff's Room at the Top claims to bring sex and the industrial north into British films.

Tony Richard and John Osborne form Woodfall Films with producer Harry Saltzman to film Osborne's Look Back in Anger, a play that helped bring a new realism to British theatre.

Young Hayley Mills becomes a star in Tiger Bay, directed by J. Lee-Thompson.

Peter Cushing and Christopher Lee star in The Mummy for Hammer, directed by Terence Fisher.

Rank backs Richard Attenborough, Bryan Forbes, and others in founding Allied Film Makers.

France: Claude Chabrol's The Cousins rides the New Wave.

Cocteau's final masterpiece is Testament of Orpheus . François Truffaut's The 400 Blows is the first of his semi-autobiographical films to track the life of Antoine Doinel, played by Jean-Pierre Léaud.

Alain Resnais directs Hiroshima, Mon Amour, written by Marguerite Duras.

Germany: Bernard Wicki directs The Bridge, about boy soldiers in the last days of the war.

Greece: Jules Dassin makes Never on Sunday, with Melina Mercouri and a hummable score by Monos Hadjidakis.

India: Satyajit Ray makes The World of Apu, the third film in his trilogy.

USSR: Grigori Chukrai's Ballad of a Soldier focuses on the detail of everyday life.

1960

America: Alfred Hitchcock's creepy Psycho, with a twitchy Anthony Perkins, scores at the box-office.

John Sturges remakes The Seven Samurai as a western, The Magnificent Seven. It results in three sequels.

Roger Corman's The House of Usher for AIP, starring Vincent Price, starts a new horror cycle.

John Cassavetes makes the semi-improvised Shadows, which is to influence many independent film-makers.

Scent of Mystery is the first feature to be shown in Smell-o-Vision. It is also the last.

Joseph E. Levine repeats his success with Hercules Unchained, again starring Steve Reeves.

New York's Roxy Theater, once the largest and grandest cinema in the world, is demolished 33 years after it was opened.

Doris Day and Rock Hudson, a double act in innocuous comedies, are America's top stars at the box-office, followed by Cary Grant, Elizabeth Taylor, and Debbie Reynolds.

Australia: Fred Zinnemann makes The Sundowners, with Robert Mitchum, Deborah Kerr, and the ubiquitous Chips Rafferty.

Britain: Karel Reisz's gritty, anti-authoritarian Saturday Night and Sunday Morning, with Albert Finney, is to transform British cinema, for a time.

Michael Powell's voyeuristic Peeping Tom upsets audiences and critics.

Richard Attenborough and Bryan Forbes produce, and Guy Green directs, the topical The Angry Silence.

Jack Cardiff directs D. H. Lawrence's Sons and Lovers, with Dean Stockwell and Trevor Howard.

France: Jean-Luc Godard's Breathless is a New Wave hit in art cinemas and makes a star of Jean-Paul Belmondo.

Louis Malle directs the inventive comedy Zazie dans le Métro.

François Truffaut makes Shoot the Pianist, starring Charles Aznavour.

Italy: Fellini's La Dolce Vita, starring Marcello Mastroianni and Anita Ekberg, is a worldwide hit, with its depiction of the wasted lives of the rich in Rome.

Visconti directs Rocco and His Brothers, with Alain Delon, about a peasant family in Milan.

Michelangelo's L'Avventura, with Monica Vitti, and La Notte, starring Marcello Mastroianni, Jeanne Moreau, and Monica Vitti, make the emptiness of life seem attractive.

Vittorio De Sica's Two Women gives Sophia Loren her best screen role.

1961

America: Robert Wise and Jerome Robbins make a successful film of the stage hit West Side Story.

Robert Rossen directs the brilliantly handled The Hustler, with Paul Newman and Jackie Gleason.

Disney releases One Hundred and One Dalmatians, which is to be its last splendid animated feature for 30 years.

Elizabeth Taylor becomes the top money-making star, followed by Rock Hudson, Doris Day, John Wayne, and Cary Grant.

Britain: Tony Richardson directs another 'kitchen sink' drama, A Taste of Honey, with Rita Tushingham, Dora Bryan, and Murray Melvin.

Basil Dearden's Victim, starring Dirk Bogarde, is one of the first films to deal sympathetically with homosexuality.

Joseph Losey makes the science-fiction The Damned for Hammer Films.

Pop singer Cliff Richard stars in the innocuous musical The Young Ones, directed by Sidney J. Furie.

France: Alain Resnais directs the enigmatic Last Year at Marienbad.

Italy: Poet and novelist Pier Paolo Pasolini directs his first film, the low-life Accatone.

Francesco Rosi makes Salvatore Giuliano, about a Sicilian bandit.

Pietro Germi's Divorce Italian Style mocks the country's divorce laws.

Ermanno Olmi makes the social comedy The Job.

Japan: Kurosawa directs Yojimbo, with Toshiro Mifune as a wandering samurai.

Spain: Luis Buñuel returns to Spain at the government's invitation and makes the sacrilegious Viridiana; it is promptly banned.

Sweden: Max Von Sydow goes to Hollywood to play Christ in The Greatest Story Ever Told.

1962

America: John Frankenheimer directs the brilliantly plotted thriller The Manchurian Candidate.

Robert Aldrich shocks by casting Bette Davis and Joan Crawford as two ageing, homicidal harridans in Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?

Darryl F. Zanuck returns to Twentieth Century-Fox as president with his son Richard as head of production as the company runs into difficulties over the out-of-control Cleopatra, starring Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor. His production of The Longest Day, about the Allied landings at Normandy, is a hit.

MCA acquire Universal.

Doris Day and Rock Hudson bounce back as the top money-makers, followed by Cary Grant, John Wayne, and Elvis Presley.

Britain: Tony Richardson directs the anti-authoritarian The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner, starring Tom Courtenay.

John Schlesinger makes A Kind of Loving, with Alan Bates, June Ritchie, and Thora Hird.

David Lean's painstaking epic Lawrence of Arabia brings stardom to the lanky Peter O'Toole in the title role as the short, enigmatic hero.

Sean Connery plays James Bond in Dr No, a role that elevates him to stardom and begins a profitable cycle of films.

France: François Truffaut directs Jules and Jim, starring Jeanne Moreau as the woman shared by two friends.

Germany: 26 film-makers issue a manifesto for a new German feature film.

Japan: Yashujiro Ozu makes his last film, An Autumn Afternoon, on the loneliness of old age.

Mexico: Luis Buñuel directs The Exterminating Angel, about dinner guests who find themselves unable to leave the room.

Poland: Roman Polanski's Knife in the Water is attacked by the authorities and he soon leaves to work elsewhere.

USSR: Andrei Tarkovsky makes the tragic Ivan's Childhood, about a boy who joins the partisans.

1963

America: Martin Ritt directs the incisive character drama Hud, well acted by Paul Newman, Patricia Neal, and Melvyn Douglas.

Cleopatra is released but fails to make a profit.

Andy Warhol and his entourage begin making films at his Factory.

AIP's Beach Party, with Annette Funicello and Frankie Avalon, begins a cycle of beach movies.

Doris Day remains the top money-making star, followed by John Wayne, Rock Hudson, Jack Lemmon, and Cary Grant.

Brazil: Glauber Rocha gains an international reputation with his grim and violent Black God, White Devil.

Britain: Joseph Losey directs The Servant, scripted by Harold Pinter and starring Dirk Bogarde and James Fox.

Lindsay Anderson makes the tough This Sporting Life, written by David Storey and starring Richard Harris and Rachel Roberts.

Tony Richardson and John Osborne bring sex and exuberance to the cinema in Tom Jones, portrayed by Albert Finney.

John Schlesinger's Billy Liar, starring Tom Courtenay and Julie Christie, is another seminal film in the revival of British cinema, taken from Keith Waterhouse's novel of adolescent fantasy.

Italy: Fellini's brilliantly self-indulgent 8[fr1/2], with Marcello Mastroianni, depicts an artist suffering from a creative block.

Visconti makes a perfect adaptation of Giuseppe de Lampedusa's The Leopard, about the decline of the Sicilian aristocracy.

1964

America: Disney's Mary Poppins, with Julie Andrews, is the hit of the year.

Franklin Schaffner's The Best Man, starring Henry Fonda, is a brilliant political melodrama, as is John Frankenheimer's Seven Days in May, with Kirk Douglas.

Sidney Lumet's Fail Safe deals frighteningly with the threat of nuclear war.

Doris Day is still the most bankable star, followed by Jack Lemmon, Rock Hudson, John Wayne, and Cary Grant.

Britain: Stanley Kubrick makes the blackly comic Dr Strangelove, with Peter Sellers and George C. Scott.

Richard Lester finds a way to make the Beatles funny in A Hard Day's Night

Guy Hamilton directs the Bond film Goldfinger.

Michael Winner makes The System, about sex at the seaside.

France: Jacques Demy's musical The Umbrellas of Cherbourg, written by Michel Legrand, charms audiences everywhere.

Greece: Michael Cacoyannis's Zorba the Greek, with Anthony Quinn and the music of Mikis Theodorakis, is an international hit.

Italy: Sergio Leone borrows the plot of Kurosawa's Yojimbo for his western A Fistful of Dollars, starring a young American television actor, Clint Eastwood. Its success is helped by the evocative music of Ennio Morricone.

Antonioni's The Red Desert, with Monica Vitti and Richard Harris, revels in the possibilities for colour in film.

Bernardo Bertolucci's Before the Revolution heralds the arrival of a new, politicized talent.

Japan: Masaki Kobayashi's Kwaidan is a collection of perfectly composed ghost stories.

USSR: Innokenti Smoktunovsky is an impressive Hamlet in a version of Shakespeare's tragedy directed by Grigori Kozintsev.

1965

America: Robert Wise's The Sound of Music, starring Julie Andrews, is a massive hit.

Daniel Mann directs Our Man Flint, starring James Coburn, in an attempt to duplicate the success of the Bond movies. It fails.

David Lean's romantic Dr Zhivago, starring Omar Sharif and Julie Christie, is a worldwide box-office hit.

The Bond movies take British actor Sean Connery to the top of the list of money-making stars, followed by John Wayne, Doris Day, Julie Andrews, and Jack Lemmon.

Britain: The new Bond movie, Thunderball, is another big hit.

Sidney J. Furie's The Ipcress File, with Michael Caine as a shabby agent, attempts to cash in on the Bond phenomenon.

Richard Lester's comic The Knack gives impetus to the image of what is soon to be called 'Swinging London'.

John Schlesinger's Darling, with Julie Christie, catches the mood of the moment.

Roman Polanski makes the psychological horror film Repulsion, with Catherine Deneuve.

Czechoslovakia: Milos Forman directs A Blonde in Love (aka Loves of a Blonde).

France: Jean-Luc Godard directs the futuristic Alphaville, starring Eddie Constantine.

Hungary: Miklós Jancsó's The Round-Up gains him international recognition.

Italy: Fellini makes his first film in colour, the exuberant Juliet of the Spirits.

Sergio Leone's For a Few Dollars More establishes spaghetti westerns and Clint Eastwood as forces to be reckoned with.

1966

America: Sidney Lumet's The Group, from Mary McCarthy's novel, is the most talked-about film of the year with its cast of unknowns, who mostly remain so.

Mike Nichols films Edward Albee's Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? with Hollywood's most famous couple, Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor, as the embattled husband and wife.

Roger Corman's The Wild Angels for AIP begins a cycle of biker and youthful-protest movies.

Charles Bluhdorn's Gulf Western acquire Paramount Pictures.

Seven Arts Productions acquires Warner Bros.

Two British talents, Julie Andrews and Sean Connery, head the poll of money-making stars, followed by Elizabeth Taylor, Jack Lemmon, and Richard Burton.

Britain: Fred Zinnemann directs an impeccable version of Robert Bolt's play A Man for All Seasons, finely performed by Paul Scofield and Robert Shaw.

Michael Caine becomes an international star as the raffish Alfie, directed by Lewis Gilbert from Bill Naughton's play.

Antonioni comes to London to make Blow-Up with David Hemmings as a fashionable fashion photographer.

Karel Reisz directs the anarchic Morgan, which gives David Warner his best role before he goes to Hollywood to become a fixture in horror movies.

Silvio Narrizano's Georgy Girl, with James Mason and Lynn Redgrave, gives further impetus to the image of London as the place to be.

Universal Pictures establish a London office and other American companies step up local productions.

Czechoslovakia: Vera Chytilova makes the lively comedy Daisies, which runs into censorship problems.

Jiri Menzel directs the mainly comic Closely Observed Trains.

France: Claude Lelouch directs the romantic A Man and a Woman, with Jean-Louis Trintignant and Anouk Aimée and the music of Francis Lai.

Robert Bresson directs Balthazar, about the life of a donkey, with a non-professional cast.

Italy: Gillo Pontecorvo's The Battle of Algiers uses a documentary style to great effect.

Sergio Leone's spaghetti western The Good, the Bad and the Ugly not only confirms Clint Eastwood as a star but also elevates former bit-player Lee Van Cleef.

Spain: Orson Welles finishes his Shakespeare adaptation, Chimes at Midnight, with himself as Falstaff.

Sweden: Ingmar Bergman directs the intense Persona, with Liv Ullmann and Bibi Andersson.

USSR: Andrei Tarkovsky's masterly historical work Andrei Rublev is banned.

1967

America: Mike Nichols' The Graduate, with Dustin Hoffman, hits a nerve with the young and is the hit of the year, followed by the safer inter-racial Guess Who's Coming to Dinner, starring Spencer Tracy, Katharine Hepburn, and Sidney Poitier.

Norman Jewison's thriller In the Heat of the Night is a better examination of racial prejudice, excellently acted by Sidney Poitier and Rod Steiger.

Arthur Penn's Bonnie and Clyde sets a new style for gangster films and brings stardom to Warren Beatty and Faye Dunaway.

Robert Aldrich establishes his own film studio following the success of his war film The Dirty Dozen.

Julie Andrews retains her appeal at the box-office, followed by Lee Marvin, Paul Newman, Dean Martin, and Sean Connery.

Britain: Joseph Losey directs Accident, scripted by Harold Pinter and starring Michael York and Dirk Bogarde.

Czechoslovakia: Milos Forman directs the comic The Foreman's Ball. In France the next year when the Russians invade, he subsequently goes to America, as does his colleague Ivan Passer.

France: Luis Buñuel directs the elegant, teasing Belle de Jour, starring Catherine Deneuve.

Jean-Luc Godard makes the ferocious Weekend.

Hungary: Miklós Jancsó makes the epic The Red and the White.

Italy: Pasolini directs a version of Sophocles's tragedy Oedipus Rex.

Poland: Jerzy Skolimowski's Hands Up is banned and he leaves the country, later working in Britain.

Leading actor Zbigniew Cybulski dies in an accident.

Sweden: Bo Widerberg's ravishing Elvira Madigan is an international success.

Vilgot Sjöman's I Am Curious – Yellow is a worldwide sensation and begins a cycle of indifferent sexploitation movies.

USSR: Sergei Bondarchuk makes an epic version of War and Peace, with spectacular battle scenes.

1968

America: Funny Girl, with Barbra Streisand repeating her Broadway performance as Fanny Brice, is the box-office success of the year.

Stanley Kubrick's 2001: A Space Odyssey is a trip that finds favour with the young and begins a new cycle of science-fiction films.

Franklin J. Schaffner's Planet of the Apes is also a hit; its success results in several inferior sequels.

Andy Warhol's underground film Flesh, about a day in the life of a male prostitute, played by Joe Dallesandro, surfaces as a surprise hit. In a small part is Maurice Braddell, once a promising English actor and writer of the 30s.

British director Peter Yates makes Bullitt, with Steve McQueen, notable for its car chases.

Sidney Poitier becomes the first black actor to head the poll of money-making stars, followed by Paul Newman, Julie Andrews, John Wayne, and Clint Eastwood.

Britain: Lindsay Anderson directs If..., a powerful film about schoolboy rebellion, starring Malcolm McDowell.

Carol Reed makes the best British musical film, Oliver!, from Lionel Bart's stage success.

Ralph Thomas's Carry On up the Khyber is the best of the series, with Kenneth Williams, Charles Hawtrey and company.

Cuba: Tomás Gutiérrez Alea's Memories of Underdevelopment explores life under Castro.

France: Claude Chabrol's Les Biches, starring Stéphane Audran, deals with a bisexual love triangle.

Italy: Franco Zeffirelli makes Shakespeare box-office with his version of Romeo and Juliet, starring Leonard Whiting and Olivia Hussey.

Sergio Leone, with US backing, makes Once upon a Time in the West, with Henry Fonda as a ruthless killer.

1969

America: Dennis Hopper and Peter Fonda add social relevance to the biker movie in Easy Rider, a surprise hit that has Hollywood attempting to repeat its success by hiring other young directors.

British director John Schlesinger makes a quintessential American movie, Midnight Cowboy, starring Dustin Hoffman and Jon Voight.

George Roy Hill's Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid, with its memorable pairing of Paul Newman and Robert Redford, and Sam Peckinpah's elegiac The Wild Bunch, show there is life left in the western.

Sidney Pollack directs the dark They Shoot Horses, Don't They?, with Gig Young and Jane Fonda.

George Romero's relentless, low-budget Night of the Living Dead revives the horror genre.

Kinney takes over Warner Bros. The company is renamed Warner Communications and takes in Kinney's other entertainment interests, including publishing, video, and record companies.

Paul Newman, Sidney Poitier, and Barbra Streisand form a major new production company, First Artists.

Darryl Zanuck resigns from Twentieth Century-Fox.

Paul Newman becomes the top box-office star, followed by John Wayne, Steve McQueen, Dustin Hoffman, and Clint Eastwood.

Brazil: Glauber Rocha's brooding Antonio das Mortes is banned and he leaves the country.

Britain: Ken Russell's adaptation of D. H. Lawrence's Women in Love, starring Glenda Jackson, is a success, gaining notoriety for its nude wrestling scene between Alan Bates and Oliver Reed.

Richard Attenborough directs Oh, What a Lovely War, from Joan Littlewood's stage show.

George Lazenby replaces Sean Connery as James Bond, but On Her Majesty's Secret Service does poorly at the box-office.

Ken Loach's Kes, produced by Tony Garnett, brings socially conscious talents to the cinema.

Bryan Forbes is appointed head of production by EMI at Elstree and announces an ambitious programme.

Egypt: Shadi Abdelsalam gains international notice with The Night of Counting the Years, about tomb robbers.

France: Costa-Gavras's political thriller Z, with Yves Montand, is a worldwide hit, but it is banned in Greece and Spain.

Jean-Pierre Melville's The Army in the Shadows is a gripping documentary-style film about the French Resistance.

Eric Rohmer's civilized My Night at Maud's is an international success.

Germany: Rainer Werner Fassbinder, working in experimental theatre, turns to films with his troupe and makes Love Is Colder than Death.

India: Satyajit Ray directs Days and Nights in the Forest, about the impact of rural life on some city boys.

1970

America: Woodstock, the great hippie gathering of 'love, peace and music' in 1969, is captured on film by Michael Wadleigh.

Robert Altman's anti-establishment *M*A*S*H*, with Elliott Gould and Donald Sutherland, is a hit, as is the three-handkerchief weepie Love Story, directed by Arthur Hiller.

George C. Scott scores as Patton, directed by Franklin Schaffner.

Roger Corman founds his own production and distribution company, New World Pictures.

Paul Newman remains the top money-making star, followed by Clint Eastwood, Steve McQueen, John Wayne, and Elliott Gould.

Australia: After years of procrastination, the government decides to support the local film industry, including the establishment of a film and television school.

Britain: Nicolas Roeg and Donald Cammel direct the complex Performance, with James Fox and Mick Jagger, which seems the last gasp of 60s permissiveness.

Joseph Losey turns to the past in his continuing dissection of the class system in The Go-Between.

Ken Russell courts controversy with The Music Lovers, starring Richard Chamberlain as Tchaikovsky, with Glenda Jackson.

David Lean's epic Ryan's Daughter is not liked, and he loses his confidence in directing.

France: Claude Chabrol makes the Hitchcockian thrillers The Butcher and La Rupture, with Stéphane Audran.

Hong Kong: King Hu makes the martial arts epic A Touch of Zen.

Italy: Pasolini directs the Greek tragedy Medea, starring Maria Callas.

Japan: The wide-screen process Imax is shown for the first time.

Spain: Luis Buñuel makes Tristana, a complex black comedy with Catherine Deneuve and Fernando Rey.

Sweden: Jan Troell's The Emigrants, about Swedes leaving their homeland for America, is a hit in the two countries.

1971

America: William Friedkin's gritty thriller The French Connection, with Gene Hackman, is a hit.

Peter Bogdanovich makes the impressive, nostalgic The Last Picture Show, with Ben Johnson.

Milos Forman's first US film, Taking Off, is a gentle satire on America.

Alan J. Pakula directs the adult thriller Klute, with Jane Fonda and Donald Sutherland.

Don Siegel makes Dirty Harry, starring Clint Eastwood as a maverick cop, a role he is to play often.

Steve McQueen joins Newman, Poitier, and Streisand in First Artists. The company's first production is Pocket Money, starring Newman and directed by Stuart Rosenberg.

John Wayne takes over as the top box-office attraction, followed by Clint Eastwood, Paul Newman, Steve McQueen, and George C. Scott.

Australia: Nicolas Roeg makes the eerily effective Walkabout, with Jenny Agutter and David Gulpilil.

Britain: Stanley Kubrick's controversial A Clockwork Orange, based on Anthony Burgess's novel, is the first film to use Dolby sound.

Ken Russell shocks with his exuberant The Devils, starring Vanessa Redgrave and Oliver Reed.

John Schlesinger makes the stylish Sunday, Bloody Sunday, with Peter Finch and Glenda Jackson as two people in love with the same man.

Roman Polanski emphasizes the violence in his version of Shakespeare's Macbeth.

Mike Hodges makes the tough thriller Get Carter, with Michael Caine.

Bryan Forbes quits as head of production for EMI at Elstree a year early.

The National Film School opens.

Hungary: Miklós Jancsó makes the colourful Red Psalm, about a workers' strike.

Italy: Pasolini's Decameron brings him an international hit. He is to follow it with the similar Canterbury Tales and Arabian Nights.

Yugoslavia: Dusan Makavejev's WR: Mysteries of the Organism is an international hit; after it is banned, he leaves the country.

1972

America: Francis Ford Coppola's brilliant The Godfather, with Marlon Brando and Al Pacino, treats the Mafia as a normal family business.

Bob Fosse gives bite and style to Cabaret, with Liza Minnelli, Joel Grey, and Michael York.

John Boorman's Deliverance is a superior thriller.

The success of Ronald Neame's The Poseidon Adventure begins a cycle of disaster movies.

Dustin Hoffman joins First Artists. It releases the muddled Up the Sandbox, starring Barbra Streisand.

Clint Eastwood is the top box-office star, followed by George C. Scott, Gene Hackman, John Wayne, and Barbra Streisand.

Britain: Lindsay Anderson directs the satirical O Lucky Man!, starring Malcolm McDowell.

Ken Loach makes Family Life, from David Mercer's play of a dysfunctional family.

Bill Douglas's My Childhood wins an award for the best first feature at the Venice Film Festival.

Lord (J. Arthur) Rank dies.

France: Luis Buñuel makes the hilarious and savage The Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie, with Fernando Rey, Delphine Seyrig, and Stéphane Audran.

Germany: Werner Herzog directs the startling Aguirre, Wrath of God, starring Klaus Kinski.

Rainer Werner Fassbinder makes The Bitter Tears of Petra Von Kant, about lesbian jealousies, with Hanna Schygulla.

Italy: Marlon Brando stars in Bertolucci's Last Tango in Paris, an explicit exploration of lust.

Francesco Rosi investigates political corruption in The Mattei Affair.

Sweden: Ingmar Bergman's Cries and Whispers, with Harriet Andersson and Liv Ullmann, is tough but important viewing.

1973

America: William Friedkin's horror movie The Exorcist becomes a controversial hit.

George Roy Hill's The Sting re-unites Robert Redford and Paul Newman to become a big hit, helped by Marvin Hamlisch's use of Scott Joplin's ragtime tunes.

Terrence Malick's seminal Badlands, with Sissy Spacek and Martin Sheen, follows two young lovers on a killing spree.

Martin Scorsese's Mean Streets reveals him as a major talent.

Bruce Lee kicks his way to stardom in Robert Clouse's Enter the Dragon and begins a Western fashion for martial arts films. Lee himself dies suddenly, but becomes a continuing cult.

Clint Eastwood is the top box-office star, followed by Ryan O'Neal, Steve McQueen, Burt Reynolds, and Robert Redford.

Britain: Nicolas Roeg directs the chilling Don't Look Now, with Donald Sutherland and Julie Christie.

Roger Moore takes over as James Bond in Live and Let Die.

Cinema admissions keep falling and are now down to 142 million a year.

France: François Truffaut's Day for Night, about the world of cinema, is an international hit.

Germany: Rainer Werner Fassbinder's Ali: Fear Eats the Soul brings him international recognition.

India: Satyajit Ray makes Distant Thunder, about the breakdown of traditional values.

Italy: Marco Ferreri scandalizes audiences with Blow-Out, in which four men indulge in a prolonged and terminal orgy of food and sex.

Netherlands: Paul Verhoeven's Turkish Delight, starring Rutger Hauer, is an international success.

1974

America: Francis Ford Coppola's The Godfather II, with Robert De Niro, is a rare sequel that matches the original.

Roman Polanski makes the complex thriller Chinatown, with Jack Nicholson.

John Guillermin's The Towering Inferno reveals the public's voracious appetite for disaster movies.

Michael Winner directs the vigilante movie Death Wish, starring Charles Bronson, which is to be followed by several sequels.

Universal Pictures introduces Sensurround, low-frequency sound effects, to add to the impact of Earthquake. The system gains a limited acceptance and is used in some other of its features.

Australia: Peter Weir's The Cars that Ate Paris gives notice of the stirrings of new and exciting talents.

Britain: Sidney Lumet directs the glossy Murder on the Orient Express, from Agatha Christie's novel.

Michael Apted directs the pop musical Stardust, with Adam Faith and David Essex.

Lew Grade announces that he will spend millions of dollars on film production in the coming year.

British Lion announce a new slim-line Shepperton Studios.

France: Louis Malle's delicate exploration of collaboration in Lacombe, Lucien is attacked by many and he decides to move to America.

Bertrand Blier's Going Places features two bright young stars, Gérard Depardieu and Patrick Dewaere.

Germany: Werner Herzog directs the disturbing and affecting The Enigma of Kaspar Hauser.

Italy: Fellini directs the nostalgic Amarcord.

Senegal: Ousmane Sembène's exuberant satire Xala is one of the first films from Africa to gain international attention.

1975

America: Steven Spielberg's Jaws is a monster hit and will spawn several sequels.

Milos Forman's anti-authoritarian One Flew over the Cuckoo's Nest gives Jack Nicholson one of his best roles.

Robert Redford is the top box-office star, followed by Barbra Streisand, Al Pacino, Charles Bronson, and Paul Newman.

Australia: Peter Weir makes the enigmatic Picnic at Hanging Rock.

Britain: Jim Sharman's The Rocky Horror Picture Show, from Richard O'Brien's stage hit, starring Tim Curry as a transvestite transsexual from Transylvania, becomes a cult phenomenon.

The Monty Python team make fun of Arthurian legends in Monty Python and the Holy Grail, directed by Terry Gilliam and Terry Jones.

Ken Russell directs Tommy, The Who's rock opera, starring Ann-Margret.

EMI cut back at Elstree Studios.

Lew Grade announces the formation of Associated General Films with the General Cinema chain in America, to finance films on an equal basis, with the cinemas providing a US release.

Charlie Chaplin receives a knighthood.

Italy: Pasolini's Salo, based on the Marquis de Sade's writings, causes controversy. Britain is one of the countries that bans it. Pasolini himself is murdered soon afterwards.

USSR: Andrei Tarkovsky's Mirror upsets the authorities and he leaves the country.

1976

America: Alan J. Pakula's exciting All the President's Men, with Dustin Hoffman and Robert Redford, dramatizes the Washington Post's investigation into the Watergate affair.

Martin Scorsese's coruscating Taxi Driver, starring Robert De Niro, is concerned with the malaise of urban violence.

Sidney Lumet's Network is a brilliantly melodramatic satire on the excesses of television, written by Paddy Chayevsky; its star Peter Finch dies soon after its release.

Sylvester Stallone writes and stars in the old-fashioned boxing drama Rocky, directed by John G. Avildsen; it brings him stardom and is to be followed by four sequels.

Brazil: Bruno Barreto's erotic Dona Flor and Her Two Husbands becomes an international success.

Britain: Nicolas Roeg makes the science-fiction The Man Who Fell to Earth, starring David Bowie.

Alan Parker directs the gangster film Bugsy Malone with a cast of children.

Derek Jarman makes Sebastiane, about homosexual desire in the Roman empire, in Latin.

Germany: Wim Wenders' leisurely road movie Kings of the Road is admired by many.

Italy: Bertolucci's 1900 tracks Italian history through the first half of the 20th century.

Japan: Nagisa Oshima's controversial In the Realm of the Senses is a claustrophobic examination of sexual obsession. Britain and other countries ban it.

Sweden: Ingmar Bergman's Face to Face, made for television, is edited down for cinema release; it is among his best films.

1977

America: The success of Woody Allen's comedy Annie Hall, with Diane Keaton, makes them both stars.

George Lucas's Star Wars gives fantasy and science fiction a spectacular box-office boost. It is followed by another fantasy, Steven Spielberg's Close Encounters of the Third Kind.

John Travolta becomes a star in the disco-dancing hit Saturday Night Fever, a film that also dominates the pop charts with the Bee Gees' songs.

Burt Reynolds scores a surprising hit in Hal Needham's coarse chase comedy Smokey and the Bandit.

Sylvester Stallone is the top box-office star, followed by Barbra Streisand, Clint Eastwood, Burt Reynolds, and Robert Redford.

Australia: Bruce Beresford makes the period piece The Getting of Wisdom. Within five years, he will be in Hollywood.

Peter Weir directs The Last Wave, with Richard Chamberlain.

Britain: Richard Attenborough directs the ambitious A Bridge Too Far, the story of the Allied defeat at Arnhem.

Alan Parker makes the successful Midnight Express, from a script by Oliver Stone.

Lord (Lew) Grade announces plans to spend $125m on film production. His partnership with Boston's General Cinema Corporation is ended.

Goldcrest Films is founded. It becomes a leading production company, producing films that include Gandhi and The Killing Fields.

Herbert Wilcox dies.

Sir Michael Balcon dies.

France: Philippe de Broca's comedy thriller Dear Inspector is a popular success.

Germany: Wim Wenders makes the art-house hit The American Friend.

Rainer Werner Fassbinder's English-language Despair, written by Tom Stoppard and starring Dirk Bogarde, is expected to be his popular breakthrough, but it fails.

Italy: The Taviani brothers, Paolo and Vittorio, score with Padro Padrone, about a son's problems with a violent father.

1978

America: Grease, a celebration of 50s music starring John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John, is the hit of the year, followed by the youthful comedy National Lampoon's Animal House.

Michael Cimino's The Deer Hunter makes the Vietnam war box-office.

John Carpenter's Halloween scares cinema audiences, fuelling the horror revival.

Walter Hill directs the existential thriller The Driver.

Terrence Malick's Days of Heaven is the second film from an exciting talent. But audiences do not respond, and he withdraws from film-making.

Louis Malle directs his first American film, Pretty Baby, with Brooke Shields as a young prostitute.

Orion Pictures is founded by former executives of United Artists and becomes, for a while, an important producer.

Burt Reynolds is the top money-making star, followed by John Travolta, Richard Dreyfuss, Warren Beatty, and Clint Eastwood.

Australia: Fred Schepisi's aboriginal tragedy The Chant of Jimmy Blacksmith is a success, and soon takes him to Hollywood, together with his cinematographer, Ian Baker. Other directors who will go to Hollywood include Graeme Clifford, Simon Wincer, and Richard Franklin.

Philip Noyce makes Newsfront, a valediction to newsreel cameramen. He, too, will be in Hollywood by the 90s.

Britain: Joan Collins stars in The Stud, based on Jackie Collins's novel, which is a surprising box-office hit.

Martin Rosen's Watership Down is an animated version of Richard Adams's bestselling novel about rabbits.

Lew Grade announces $120m productions. He renames his company Associated Communication Corporation and, with EMI, forms a new distribution company in North America.

France: Eduardo Molinaro's screen version of La Cage aux Folles makes this transvestite comedy an international hit, one that spawns two sequels.

Bertrand Blier's Get Out Your Handkerchiefs re-unites Gérard Depardieu and Patrick Dewaere.

Germany: Rainer Werner Fassbinder directs The Marriage of Maria Braun, starring Hanna Schygulla.

Italy: Ermanno Olmi makes The Tree of Wooden Clogs with a non-professional cast.

Japan: Nagisa Oshima directs the award-winning Empire of Passion, about adultery and murder.

Turkey: Yilmaz Güney supervises from prison the shooting of The Herd.

1979

America: Richard Donner's Superman, starring Christopher Reeve, is the hit of the year.

Robert Benton's Kramer vs Kramer, a domestic drama with Dustin Hoffman and Meryl Streep, also scores at the box-office.

Francis Ford Coppola's ambitious Apocalypse Now casts the Vietnam war as America's heart of darkness.

Woody Allen makes Manhattan, a film in love with New York.

Blake Edwards's 10 brings brief stardom to the unlikely pairing of Dudley Moore and Bo Derek.

Hal Ashby's comedy Being There stars Peter Sellers as a dim gardener who becomes a political savant.

Menahem Golan and Yoram Globus take over Cannon Films and announce ambitious production plans.

First Artists runs into financial problems.

Burt Reynolds remains the leading box-office attraction, followed by Clint Eastwood, Jane Fonda, Woody Allen, and Barbra Streisand.

Australia: Gillian Armstrong's My Brilliant Career makes Judy Davis a star.

George Miller's apocalyptic road movie Mad Max brings Mel Gibson to the fore.

Britain: Ridley Scott directs the science-fiction thriller Alien.

Franc Roddam makes the Mods and Rockers musical Quadrophenia, with music by The Who.

John Schlesinger's Yanks deals with American GIs in Britain during World War II.

Joan Collins tries to repeat her success with The Bitch, directed by Gerry O'Hara from a story by sister Jackie.

HandMade Films is formed to finance Monty Python's Life of Brian after Lord (Bernard) Delfont disapproves of the script and withdraws EMI's backing.

Thorn take over EMI.

Lord (Lew) Grade buys the Classic Cinema chain.

France: François Truffaut's cycle of films about Antoine Doinel starring Jean-Pierre Léaud comes to an end after 20 years with Love on the Run.

Germany: Volker Schlöndorff's The Tin Drum is an international success.

Werner Herzog remakes Nosferatu, with Klaus Kinski.

Hong Kong: Tsui Hark directs the martial arts fantasy The Butterfly Murders.

Poland: Andrzej Wajda's The Conductor stars John Gielgud as a man returning to his country.

Krzysztof Kieslowski's Camera Buff is a lively political allegory.

Turkey: Yilmaz Güney supervises from prison the shooting of The Enemy.

1980

America: Martin Scorsese's Raging Bull, with a devastating performance by an overweight Robert De Niro, is to become the critics' favourite movie of the decade.

The failure of Michael Cimino's profligate western epic Heaven's Gate virtually destroys United Artists, which is taken over by MGM.

Robert Redford directs Ordinary People, about an unhappy family, with Donald Sutherland, Mary Tyler Moore, and Timothy Hutton; it succeeds at the box-office.

George Lucas continues his science-fiction saga with The Empire Strikes Back.

David Lynch makes The Elephant Man, with John Hurt in the title role.

Burt Reynolds still attracts crowds at the box-office, followed by Robert Redford, Clint Eastwood, Jane Fonda, and Dustin Hoffman.

Australia: Bruce Beresford makes the anti-colonial Breaker Morant.

Britain: John Mackenzie makes the tough thriller The Long Good Friday, with Bob Hoskins and Helen Mirren.

Bill Forsyth's low-budget comedy Gregory's Girl is a hit.

Derek Jarman directs a low-budget version of Shakespeare's The Tempest.

Rank announces a £12m production package at the Cannes Film Festival – and a month later decides to cancel it.

Kevin Brownlow's five-hour reconstruction of Abel Gance's Napoleon is shown in London.

Alfred Hitchcock, who is knighted this year, dies.

Canada: Louis Malle makes the elegiac Atlantic City, with Burt Lancaster as an ageing petty crook.

France: François Truffaut's The Last Metro is to become the French critics' favourite film of the 80s.

Alain Resnais's My American Uncle is a meticulous, pessimistic dissection of human life.

Hungary: Imre Gyöngyössy, Katalin Petényi, and Barna Kabay make The Revolt of Job.

Japan: Akira Kurosawa makes the medieval epic Kagemusha with American backing.

Mozambique: Brazilian director Ruy Guerra makes the country's first feature, Mueda, Memory and Massacre.

Netherlands: Paul Verhoeven directs the controversial Spetters, full of sex and violence and with a cast that includes Rutger Hauer and Jeroen Krabbé, who will both become international stars.

Spain: Pedro Almodóvar makes the sexually delirious Labyrinth of Passion.

1981

America: Steven Spielberg hits the jackpot with the adventure Raiders of the Lost Ark, starring Harrison Ford.

Warren Beatty directs and stars in the epic Reds, about the life of John Reed.

Walter Hill makes a tense thriller, Southern Comfort, which is also an allegory of Vietnam.

Mark Rydell's nostalgic On Golden Pond is a hit, with the pairing of Henry Fonda and Katharine Hepburn.

Burt Reynolds scores in Hal Needham's coarse chase comedy The Cannonball Run.

Dudley Moore enjoys his brief moment of stardom in the comedy Arthur, although John Gielgud steals all the notices.

Oil multi-millionaire Marvin Davis buys Twentieth Century-Fox.

First Artists releases its final film, An Enemy of the People, starring Steve McQueen.

Burt Reynolds continues to dominate at the box-office, followed by Clint Eastwood, Dudley Moore, Dolly Parton, and Jane Fonda.

Australia: Peter Weir's Gallipoli brings Mel Gibson international recognition.

George Miller's Mad Max II, aka The Road Warrior, confirms Gibson's status.

Brazil: Hector Babenco makes Pixote, about street-wise, homeless kids.

Britain: Rank closes 27 cinemas. Audiences fall to 86 million.

Hugh Hudson directs Chariots of Fire, which is an international success and is hailed as a revitalization of the local industry. Its writer, Colin Welland, shouts 'The British are coming!' at the Oscar ceremonies.

Karel Reisz makes The French Lieutenant's Woman, scripted by Harold Pinter and starring Meryl Streep and Jeremy Irons.

Leading film-makers write a letter pleading for help to save the industry as fewer than ever British movies reach the cinemas.

Lord Grade's big-budget production Raise the Titanic is a flop. He comments that it would have been cheaper to have lowered the Atlantic. His losses on film production are more than £26m.

France: Jean-Jacques Beineix's Diva becomes a cult hit.

Germany: Wolfgang Petersen directs The Boat, an international success.

Czech director Istvan Szabo's Mephisto makes Klaus Maria Brandauer a star.

Poland: Andrzej Wajda directs Man of Iron, about the emergence of Solidarity.

1982

America: Steven Spielberg makes the box-office smash E.T., with its ugly but lovable alien.

Dustin Hoffman dons drag for the comedy Tootsie.

Ridley Scott designs an unpalatable future in his thriller Blade Runner.

Costa-Gavras makes the tense Missing, about American involvement in the overthrow of Allende's government in Chile; Jack Lemmon and Sissy Spacek star.

Barry Levinson's Diner is a little masterpiece of observation.

Walter Hill's 48 Hours makes the fast-talking Eddie Murphy a star.

Coca-Cola acquires Columbia Pictures.

Burt Reynolds remains the box-office favourite, followed by Clint Eastwood, Sylvester Stallone, Dudley Moore, and Richard Pryor.

Britain: Lindsay Anderson's savage Britannia Hospital divides the critics and does badly at the box-office. It will be his last British feature.

James Ivory directs Ruth Prawer Jhabvala's novel of colonial India, Heat and Dust, produced by Ismail Merchant.

Peter Greenaway's The Draughtsman's Contract is an art-house success.

Cannon buy the Classic Cinema chain.

France: Daniel Vigne makes The Return of Martin Guerre, starring Gérard Depardieu.

Depardieu also stars as Danton, a vivid historical re-creation directed by Andrzej Wajda.

Patrick Dewaere commits suicide.

Germany: Werner Herzog makes the strange Fitzcarraldo with Klaus Kinski as an obsessive.

Fassbinder makes the teasing Veronika Voss, about the troubles of an ageing star. He dies soon afterwards of a drug overdose.

Hungary: Marta Mészéros makes the autobiographical Diary for My Children about the country's recent history.

Italy: Paolo and Vittorio Taviani make the nostalgic The Night of San Lorenzo.

Mali: Souleymane Cissé directs The Wind, about romance and repression in Africa.

Poland: Ryszard Bugajski's harrowing and uplifting Interrogation, starring Krystyna Janda, is banned. It will not be seen until 1990. Bugajski leaves for North America.

Spain: Pedro Almodóvar directs Dark Habits, set in a decadent convent.

Sweden: Ingmar Bergman's final cinema film, Fanny and Alexander, is one of his best.

Turkey: Having escaped from prison, Yilmaz Güney edits in Switzerland The Way, made by Serif Gören under his supervision.

1983

America: Richard Marquand directs Return of the Jedi, the third of George Lucas's Star Wars movies, and it is a box-office smash.

John Landis's Trading Places, with Dan Aykroyd and Eddie Murphy, does well at the box-office.

James L. Brooks's Terms of Endearment, with Jack Nicholson and Shirley MacLaine, is another popular success.

Martin Scorsese's King of Comedy, with Robert De Niro and Jerry Lewis, takes an uncomfortable look at show-business and the people it attracts.

Clint Eastwood is the box-office champion, followed by Eddie Murphy, Sylvester Stallone, Burt Reynolds, and John Travolta.

Britain: Lewis Gilbert's Educating Rita, starring Julie Walters and Michael Caine, is a hit.

Bill Forsyth makes the quirky comedy Local Hero, with Burt Lancaster.

Richard Eyre's The Ploughman's Lunch, starring Jonathan Pryce, is an incisive social drama.

Richard Attenborough's Gandhi, which he spent more than a decade setting up, is finally released to plaudits.

Sean Connery returns one last time as James Bond in Never Say Never Again.

France: Euzhan Palcy's Sugar Cane Alley is an evocative account of colonial life.

Spain: Carlos Saura makes the dance drama Carmen.

1984

America: Ivan Reitman's comic fantasy Ghostbusters is the biggest hit of the year.

Martin Brest's Beverly Hills Cop is another hit for Eddie Murphy, mixing comedy and violence.

Joe Dante's Gremlins, a comic horror movie, also does well at the box-office.

Sergio Leone directs the complex gangster film Once upon a Time in America, which its producers recut.

Rob Reiner's This Is Spinal Tap makes fun of the pretensions of rock.

Milos Forman directs Amadeus, with Tom Hulce as Mozart and F. Murray Abraham as his rival, Salieri.

Disney creates Touchstone Films to give it a brand name for films not intended for a family audience. Its first release is Splash, a fantasy about a mermaid.

James Cameron uses body-builder Arnold Schwarzenegger to good effect as a bad cyborg in The Terminator.

Marvin Davis sells half of Twentieth Century-Fox to Rupert Murdoch.

Clint Eastwood remains the box-office favourite, followed by Bill Murray, Harrison Ford, Eddie Murphy, and Sally Field.

Argentina: Maria Luisa Bemberg's Camila is a powerful period piece about a woman who defies Church and government.

Britain: Cinema admissions reach their lowest-ever level of 55 million.

Roland Joffe directs the ambitious and harrowing The Killing Fields, with Sam Waterston and Haing S. Ngor.

Peter Yates directs the delightful The Dresser, with Albert Finney as a Donald Wolfit-like actor and Tom Courtenay as his dresser.

Hugh Hudson attempts to take Tarzan seriously in Greystoke, starring Christopher Lambert.

Bill Forsyth makes a comedy about a Glaswegian ice-cream war, Comfort and Joy. It is his last local feature before he leaves for Hollywood.

The Video Recordings Act establishes censorship for video cassettes.

China: Chen Kaige's Yellow Earth, photographed by Yang Zimou, makes the most of vast landscapes in its story of a peasant family.

France: Claude Zidi's Le Cop, with Philippe Noiret as a corrupt policeman, is a domestic hit.

Germany: Wolfgang Petersen directs the fantasy The Neverending Story and goes to Hollywood.

Wim Wenders' English-language Paris, Texas brings him international acclaim.

Edgar Reitz makes the 15-hour saga Heimat.

Hungary: Istvan Szabo makes Colonel Redl, about an officer forced to commit suicide, starring Klaus Maria Brandauer.

India: Satyajit Ray directs Home and the World, about a man who brings his wife out of purdah.

1985

America: Robert Zemeckis's comedy Back to the Future, with Michael J. Fox, is the hit of the year.

Australian director Peter Weir directs the tense Witness, starring Harrison Ford; Hollywood is to remain Weir's future base.

Sydney Pollack's Out of Africa meets with critical and popular success.

Martin Scorsese directs the sprightly urban fable After Hours.

Paul Verhoeven makes his first English-language film Flesh Blood, with Rutger Hauer; it fails.

Rupert Murdoch acquires Twentieth Century-Fox.

Sylvester Stallone is the box-office favourite, followed by Eddie Murphy, Clint Eastwood, Michael J. Fox, and Chevy Chase.

Argentina: Luis Puenzo's The Official Version is an international hit.

Britain: Stephen Frears makes My Beautiful Laundrette, with Daniel Day-Lewis and Gordon Warnecke as an unlikely couple.

Miranda Richardson attracts attention as Ruth Ellis, the last woman to be hanged, in Dance with a Stranger, directed by Mike Newell.

David Lean makes A Passage to India, with Peggy Ashcroft, Alec Guinness, and Victor Banerjee.

Malcolm Mowbray directs Alan Bennett's comedy A Private Function, with Michael Palin and Denholm Elliott, and then leaves for Hollywood.

Terry Gilliam's satirical Brazil receives mixed notices.

Hugh Hudson's Revolution flops at the box-office and causes financial problems for Goldcrest, ending its powerful production role.

Roger Moore makes his last Bond film, A View to a Kill. He is replaced by Timothy Dalton.

British Film Year is held, to revive interest in the cinema.

Brazil: Hector Babenco makes Kiss of the Spider Woman, with William Hurt and Raul Julia and American money. Insisting that Brazilian cinema is dead, he moves to Hollywood.

France: Maurice Pialat's Police, about a tough, bigoted cop and starring Gérard Depardieu, is a domestic hit.

François Truffaut dies.

Germany: Percy Adlon directs the witty romantic comedy Sugerbaby with Marianne Sagebrecht.

Hong Kong: Actor and director Jackie Chan does well with his mix of martial arts, comedy and spectacular stunts in Police Story.

Japan: Akira Kurosawa, out of favour in his own country, makes Ran, based on Shakespeare's King Lear, with foreign finance.

Taiwan: Hou Hsiao-hsien explores the tensions with mainland China in The Time to Live and the Time to Die.

Yugoslavia: Emir Kusturica directs When Father Was Away on Business, a child's-eye view of politics.

1986

America: Tony Scott's Top Gun, starring Tom Cruise as a naval fighter pilot, is the hit of the year.

Woody Allen is near his wittiest in Hannah and Her Sisters, with Michael Caine and Mia Farrow.

David Cronenberg remakes the 50s horror The Fly, starring Jeff Goldblum and Geena Davis, with gruesome special effects.

David Lynch directs the elegantly perverse Blue Velvet.

Bill Sherwood's independently made Parting Glances is the first feature to deal with AIDS.

Ted Turner takes over MGM/UA.

Tom Cruise is now America's top box-office star, followed by Eddie Murphy, Paul Hogan, Rodney Dangerfield, and Bette Midler.

Australia: Crocodile Dundee makes Paul Hogan an international star and becomes the country's most successful film.

Britain: The Merchant-Ivory A Room with a View, starring Maggie Smith and Helena Bonham Carter, is a hit.

Derek Jarman makes Caravaggio, on the life of the painter.

Producer David Puttnam leaves for Hollywood to become production head of Columbia Pictures.

Canada: Denys Arcand makes the witty conversation piece The Decline of the American Empire.

China: Tian Zhuangzhuang makes the stunningly visual Horse Thief.

Chen Kaige directs The Big Parade, about army volunteers training for a march-past in Beijing's Tiananmen Square. The army force him to make changes.

Finland: Aki Kaurismäki makes Hamlet Goes Business, updating Shakespeare's play.

France: Claude Berri's versions of Marcel Pagnol's novels, Jean de Florette and Manon des Sources, with Yves Montand, Daniel Auteuil, and Emmanuelle Béart, are international hits.

Mexico: Jaime Humberto Hermosillo makes the gay comedy Dona Herlinda and Her Son.

Spain: Pedro Almodóvar sets out to shock with Matador, full of images of sex and death.

Sweden: Andrei Tarkovsky makes his last film, Sacrifice, dying soon afterwards at the age of 54.

1987

America: Eddie Murphy's appeal makes Beverly Hills Cop II a success at the box-office.

Adrian Lyne's Fatal Attraction, with Michael Douglas and Glenn Close, is a talking point and a box-office hit.

Oliver Stone's study of corporate corruption, Wall Street, also stars Michael Douglas, with Charlie Sheen.

Mel Gibson stars as a reckless cop with Danny Glover in Richard Donner's Lethal Weapon; its success brings several sequels.

Paul Verhoeven directs the science-fiction Robocop with wit, pace, and plenty of violence.

Brian De Palma's The Untouchables has the incorruptible Kevin Costner and Sean Connery battling against Robert De Niro's Al Capone.

John Huston's final film, The Dead, is one of his best.

David Mamet makes the tricky House of Games.

David Puttnam leaves Columbia, to be replaced by Dawn Steel.

Eddie Murphy is the box-office favourite, followed by Michael Douglas, Michael J. Fox, Arnold Schwarzenegger, and Paul Hogan.

Australia: John Duigan directs the charming The Year My Voice Broke.

Britain: John Boorman's Hope and Glory focuses on a young boy's experience of the Blitz.

David Leland's Wish You Were Here benefits from the assured performance of Emily Lloyd as a rebellious teenager. She soon heads for Hollywood.

Stephen Frears directs Prick Up Your Ears, about murdered playwright Joe Orton, with Gary Oldman and Alfred Molina.

Richard Attenborough makes Cry Freedom, about the death of black activist Steve Biko in South Africa.

Canada: Jean-Claude Lauzon's Night Zoo is an international art-house hit.

China: Zhang Yimou gains an international reputation with Red Sorghum, starring Gong Li.

Denmark: Gabriel Axel makes the art-house hit, the ironic and elegant Babette's Feast.

Germany: Wim Wenders directs Wings of Desire, with Bruno Ganz and Otto Sander as two angels visiting Berlin.

Italy: Bernardo Bertolucci makes the visually splendid The Last Emperor, about the life of China's last imperial ruler.

Mali: Souleymane Cissé's Yeelen concerns a battle between magicians.

Norway: Nils Gaup finds an international audience for his Pathfinder, based on a Lapp legend.

Sweden: Bille August makes Pelle the Conqueror, an epic about Swedish workers in 19th-century Denmark, starring Max Von Sydow.

Lasse Hallström's My Life as a Dog is an international success and takes the director to Hollywood.

1988

America: Robert Zemeckis's Who Framed Roger Rabbit, with Bob Hoskins, combines live action and animation in a remarkable way and is a box-office hit.

Barry Levinson's successful Rain Man teams Tom Cruise as a slick salesman with Dustin Hoffman as his autistic brother.

Martin Brest directs Midnight Run, an action-filled comedy with Robert De Niro and Charles Grodin.

Tim Burton's ghostly Beetlejuice, with Michael Keaton, is a hit.

The Museum of the Moving Image opens in New York.

Tom Cruise is top gun at the box-office, followed by Eddie Murphy, Tom Hanks, Arnold Schwarzenegger, and Paul Hogan.

Argentina: Fernando Solanas's South, about a political prisoner returning home, is an international art-house hit.

Australia: The government establishes a Film Finance Corporation to invest in films and TV miniseries. The first film it backs, The Delinquents, starring American Charlie Schlatter and local Kylie Minogue, upsets local producers by its emphasis on commerce and US sales rather than quality.

Britain: A Fish Called Wanda, directed by veteran Ealing hand Charles Crichton and written by its star, John Cleese, is the most successful British comedy for years.

Terence Davies makes his autobiographical Distant Voices, Still Lives.

The Museum of the Moving Image opens in London.

France: Louis Malle's Au Revoir les Enfants, concerned with inadvertent betrayal during the German occupation, is much admired in France and liked elsewhere.

Germany: Percy Adlon's Bagdad Café is an international hit. He is to go to America with his star Marianne Sagebrecht to make Rosalie Goes Shopping, which fails to repeat the success.

India: Mira Nair's lively Salaam Bombay! focuses on a tea-boy's adventures on the streets of the city, using a non-professional cast.

taly: Giuseppe Tornatore's Cinema Paradiso, a nostalgic celebration of cinema, is a much-loved international hit, with sympathetic performances from Philippe Noiret and the young Salvatore Cascio.

Japan: Cinemas achieve their smallest-ever attendance.

Poland: Krzysztof Kieslowski's bleakly unforgettable A Short Film about Killing and the equally memorable A Short Film about Love are the cinema versions of two of the Decalogues, on the Ten Commandments, that he made for television.

Senegal: Ousmane Sembène and Thierno Faty Sow's Camp de Thiaroye is a powerful indictment of colonialism.

South Africa: Oliver Schmitz's Mapantsula, written by, and starring, Thomas Mogotlane, is a lively look at life in a black township.

Spain: Pedro Almodóvar's Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown, with Carmen Maura, is an international hit.

USSR: Vasili Pichul's 'kitchen sink' drama Little Vera is an international hit.

1989

America: Rob Reiner directs the witty romantic comedy When Harry Met Sally, with Billy Crystal and Meg Ryan.

Tim Burton's Batman, with Michael Keaton in the title role and Jack Nicholson as The Joker, breaks US box-office records by taking $100m in 10 days.

Steven Spielberg's Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom, with Harrison Ford, is another romping hit.

Spike Lee directs the witty and passionate Do the Right Thing, about racism.

Steven Soderberg has an unexpected critical hit with his independently made sex, lies and videotape, with James Spader and Andie MacDowell.

Peter Weir makes Dead Poets Society, with Robin Williams as a charismatic teacher.

Phil Alden Robinson directs a successful fantasy, Field of Dreams, with Kevin Costner.

Oliver Stone makes the rousing anti-war drama Born on the Fourth of July, with Tom Cruise.

Sony buys Columbia Pictures from Coca-Cola.

Time Inc. buy Warner Communications to become Time Warner.

Jack Nicholson ousts Tom Cruise as the box-office favourite, both ahead of Robin Williams, Michael Douglas, and Tom Hanks.

Australia: Yahoo Serious's Young Einstein is the second-most successful Australian film so far.

Britain: Kenneth Branagh's impressive Henry V stresses the futility of war.

Philip Savile's Fellow Traveller probes the effect of the 50s blacklist on an American screenwriter.

Michael Caton-Jones makes Scandal, starring Joanne Whalley-Kilmer as Christine Keeler.

Pauline Collins scores as Shirley Valentine, directed by Lewis Gilbert.

Mike Newell directs Sour-Sweet, about a Chinese family in London.

Peter Greenaway's The Cook, the Thief, His Wife and Her Lover is an art-house hit.

Burkina Faso: Idrissa Ouedraogo directs Yaaba, a riveting account of African village life.

Canada: Deny Arcand's Jesus of Montreal, starring Lothaire Bluteau, is an international success.

China: Zhang Yimou directs Ju Dou, starring Gong Li as an adulterous wife at the mercy of an impotent old husband. The authorities ban it.

France: Bertrand Tavernier's Life and Nothing But is a complex story of disillusion, set at the time of World War I and starring Philippe Noiret.

Luc Besson's love affair with the sea results in The Big Blue.

Jean-Jacques Annaud's charming The Bear focuses on an orphaned cub.

Patrice Leconte makes the stylish M. Hire, with Michel Blanc.

Germany: Uli Edel makes the English-language Last Exit to Brooklyn, from Hubert Selby's grim novel of Brooklyn street life.

Hong Kong: John Woo's violent The Killer, starring Chow Yun-Fat, is an international hit.

Ireland: Jim Sheridan directs My Left Foot with a remarkable performance from Daniel Day-Lewis as the writer Christy Brown, a sufferer from cerebral palsy.

New Zealand: Peter Jackson attracts attention with the gross Bad Taste.

1990

America: Kevin Costner directs, as well as starring in, Dances with Wolves, an epic revisionist western on the side of the Indians.

Macaulay Culkin becomes the most popular child star since Shirley Temple in Chris Columbus's Home Alone, produced and written by John Hughes, which also becomes the most popular comedy yet made.

Martin Scorsese's GoodFellas, with Robert De Niro, Ray Liotta, and Joe Pesci, is a chilling Mafia movie.

Bruce Beresford's nostalgic Driving Miss Daisy is a hit.

Jerry Zucker's romantic fantasy Ghost, starring Patrick Swayze, Demi Moore, and Whoopi Goldberg, is a hit.

Julia Roberts becomes a star in Garry Marshall's Pretty Woman, as a tart with a heart of gold.

Stephen Frears directs The Grifters, with John Cusack and Annette Bening.

Paul Verhoeven makes the science-fiction Total Recall, with Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Brian De Palma's The Bonfire of the Vanities is a flop.

Steve Barron's Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles becomes the most successful independent movie so far.

Matsushita acquires Universal when it buys parent company MCA.

Arnold Schwarzenegger is the top money-making star, followed by Julia Roberts, Bruce Willis, Tom Cruise, and Mel Gibson.

Australia: John Duigan's Flirting is a successful sequel to The Year My Voice Broke.

Belgium: Gerard Corbiau's The Music Teacher is an art-house hit.

Britain: Peter Medak directs a home-grown true-life gangster movie, The Krays, starring Gary and Martin Kemp.

Michael Caton-Jones makes Memphis Belle, a throwback to the war films of the 50s.

Burkina Faso: Idrissa Ouedraogo directs Tilai, an African tragedy.

France: Jean-Paul Rappeneau makes the definitive Cyrano de Bergerac, with Gérard Depardieu in the title role.

Luc Besson directs the chic thriller Nikita, with Anne Parillaud.

Louis Malle makes the elegiac Milou in May.

Germany: Michael Verhoeven's The Nasty Girl, about a schoolgirl who digs into her hometown's Nazi past, is an international hit.

Italy: Maurizio Nichetti's The Icicle Thief attacks television's treatment of films.

Netherlands: George Sluizer directs the chilling The Vanishing, which he is later to remake in Hollywood with a happy ending.

Spain: Pedro Almodóvar's Tie Me Up! Tie Me Down! with Victoria Abril is a hit.

1991

America: James Cameron's Terminator 2: Judgment Day, with Arnold Schwarzenegger as a good cyborg, is the hit of the year.

Jonathan Demme's violent thriller The Silence of the Lambs boosts Anthony Hopkins, as a cannibalistic killer, to stardom.

Kevin Reynolds's glum Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves, starring Kevin Costner, is also a box-office success.

Ridley Scott makes a feminist road movie, Thelma and Louise, with Susan Sarandon and Geena Davis.

Ron Underwood's City Slickers, with Billy Crystal and Jack Palance, is a superior comedy.

Joel and Ethan Coen make the surreal Hollywood comedy Barton Fink, starring John Turturro.

Disney produces its best animated feature for years with Beauty and the Beast, the first to receive an Oscar nomination as best picture.

Oliver Stone mixes technical wizardry and paranoid conspiracies to create JFK, on the assassination of Kennedy.

John Singleton makes his directing debut with the deeply felt Boyz N the Hood.

Orion runs into financial problems.

Kevin Costner heads the box-office stars, followed by Arnold Schwarzenegger, Robin Williams, Julia Roberts, and young Macaulay Culkin.

Belgium: Jaco Von Dormael's Toto the Hero is an international success.

Britain: Ken Loach's Hidden Agenda, about British brutality in Ireland, is given limited distribution. Also briefly seen is his Riff-Raff, about life and death on a building site.

Mike Newell's period piece Enchanted April does better in the US than in Britain.

Peter Greenaway's Prospero's Books is a variation on Shakespeare's The Tempest, with John Gielgud.

Derek Jarman directs Edward II, a modern-dress version of Marlowe's tragedy.

Canada: Bruce Beresford makes the historical Black Robe, starring Lothaire Bluteau.

China: Zhang Yimou directs Raise the Red Lantern, an allegory of sexual politics.

Denmark: Lars Von Trier makes Europa (US: Zentropa).

France: Patrice Leconte directs The Hairdresser's Husband, with Jean Rochefort.

Yves Roberts' My Father's Glory, about Maurice Pagnol's early life, is an art-house hit.

Italy: Robert Benigni's Mafia comedy Johnny Stecchino breaks box-office records.

Mexico: Alfonso Arau's Like Water for Chocolate is the most successful Mexican film so far, an international hit.

Poland: Krzysztof Kieslowski makes the enigmatic The Double Life of Veronique.

Spain: Vicente Aranda makes the erotic The Lovers, starring Victoria Abril.

Taiwan: Edward Yang's A Brighter Summer Day deals with social tensions through a story of young love.

1992

America: Clint Eastwood revives the western with the stark Unforgiven.

Paul Verhoeven's sex-laden thriller Basic Instinct, with Michael Douglas and Sharon Stone, is a controversial hit.

Tim Burton scores again with Batman Returns, taking $100m at the US box-office in 11 days.

Disney's Aladdin, using Robin Williams's voice to clever effect, is another animated classic.

Robert Altman's sly satire on Hollywood, The Player, has stars lining up to play themselves.

Mick Jackson's The Bodyguard, starring Kevin Costner and Whitney Houston, is a smash hit.

Penelope Spheeris's Wayne's World, with Mike Myers and Dana Carvey, is a surprise hit.

Quentin Tarantino makes his directing debut with the startling Reservoir Dogs.

Tom Cruise tops the list of American money-making stars, followed by Mel Gibson, Kevin Costner, Jack Nicholson, and Macaulay Culkin.

Australia: Baz Luhrmann's Strictly Ballroom is a comedy hit and its star, Paul Mercurio, goes to Hollywood to star in the erotic thriller Exit to Eden.

Geoffrey Wright makes the violent Romper Stomper, about racist skinheads.

Belgium: Rémy Belvaux, André Bonzel, and Benoît Poelvoorde make the provocative Man Bites Dog, about a serial killer.

Britain: Cinema admissions top 102 million.

The Merchant-Ivory version of E. M. Forster's Howards End, with Anthony Hopkins and Emma Thompson, is an impeccable period piece.

Richard Attenborough makes the biopic Chaplin, with Robert Downey Jnr as the great clown.

Kenneth Branagh makes the comedy Peter's Friends, about a reunion.

Terence Davies directs another slice of his life, The Long Day Closes.

China: Zhang Yimou's tale of a peasant seeking justice, The Story of Qiu Ju, starring Gong Li, gets official approval.

France: Jacques Rivette releases La Belle Noiseuse, about an artist, in both a long and a short version.

Hong Kong: John Woo scores with the violent gangster movie Hard-Boiled, with Chow Yun-Fat.

Ireland: Neil Jordan directs the intriguing thriller The Crying Game, with Stephen Rea, Forest Whitaker, and Jaye Davidson.

Mexico: Maria Novaro's Danzon is an art-house hit.

Sweden: Bille August directs The Best Intentions, from a script by Ingmar Bergman, about his parents.

1993

America: Steven Spielberg makes the juvenile Jurassic Park, which takes $100m at the box-office in nine days, and, in black and white, the adult Schindler's List.

Jonathan Demme's Philadelphia, starring Tom Hanks and Denzil Washington, is the first Hollywood film to deal with AIDS. It is a hit.

Harold Ramis directs the smart comedy Groundhog Day with Bill Murray.

John McTiernan's Last Action Hero, starring Arnold Schwarzenegger, costs $100m and takes under $30m at the US box-office.

Blake Edwards's Son of the Pink Panther, starring Italian comic actor Roberto Benigni, flops.

John Woo's first Hollywood film, Hard Target, is a pale shadow of his Hong Kong movies.

Whoopi Goldberg briefly becomes the highest-paid actress in history, with a fee of $8.5m for making a sequel to Sister Act. It is topped by the $9m paid to Julia Roberts to star in Mary Reilly.

A survey shows that many old films are decaying faster than they can be preserved. Fewer than one in 10 of films made in the 1910s survives in a complete form, and one in five of the features of the 20s. Deterioration is even prevalent in post-50s films on acetate, with colours fading and the film itself turning to brown sludge.

Paramount is taken over by the entertainment conglomerate Viacom.

Clint Eastwood reigns as top star at the box-office, followed by Tom Cruise, Robin Williams, Kevin Costner and Harrison Ford.

Australia: Jane Campion's The Piano, starring Holly Hunter, Harvey Keitel, and Sam Neill, is both an art-house and popular hit.

Britain: Richard Attenborough directs the understated Shadowlands, with Anthony Hopkins and Debra Winger.

Sally Potter makes the exotic Orlando, starring Tilda Swinton.

Gary Sinyor and Vadim Jean's low-budget comedy Leon the Pig Farmer amuses some.

Derek Jarman completes Blue, dealing with his illness, shortly before dying of AIDS.

The Guardian readers vote Cinema Paradiso their favourite contemporary film.

The biggest films of the year are Jurassic Park, The Bodyguard and Home Alone 2. The most popular British films are two from Kenneth Branagh – Much Ado About Nothing (which just squeezes into the UK's top 20 box office successes) and Peter's Friends.

Canada: Jean-Claude Lauzon makes the tragi-comic Léolo.

China: Tian Zhuangzhuang's The Blue Kite, about recent Chinese history, is banned, but is seen in the West.

Chen Kaige makes the epic Farewell My Concubine.

France: Claude Berri's downbeat Germinal becomes the most expensive French film made so far; but the box-office hit is Jean-Marie Poire's knockabout comedy Les Visiteurs.

Japan: Takeshi Kitano gains a cult following by directing, and starring in, the thriller Sonatine.

New Zealand: Peter Jackson attracts attention with the gross Braindead.

Spain: Bigas Luna's Jamón, Jamón is an art-house hit.

Sweden: Cinematographer Sven Nykvist turns director with the austere The Ox.

Taiwan: Ang Lee's The Wedding Banquet is an international success.

Hou Hsiao-hsien's The Puppetmaster is an art-house hit.

1994

America: Forrest Gump, with its retarded hero, becomes a box-office phenomenon, the fourth most popular US film yet.

Disney's The Lion King becomes the most successful of all its animated features.

Keanu Reeves stars in Little Buddha, directed by Bernardo Bertolucci, and Speed, directed by Dutch former cinematographer Jan De Bont; the latter boosts his bankability.

Tom Cruise and Brad Pitt become immortal in Neil Jordan's Interview with the Vampire.

Quentin Tarantino scores with Pulp Fiction, reviving the career of John Travolta.

Oliver Stone makes Natural Born Killers, a satire on the media treatment of serial killers.

The Mask, starring Jim Carrey, is the comedy hit of the year.

Bill Forsyth's Being Human, with Robin Williams, flops at the box-office and he expresses disillusion with Hollywood.

Sony report a loss, due to Columbia's poor performance.

Universal's heads complain that Matsushita's management is cramping their style.

Steven Spielberg, David Geffen, and Jeffrey Katzenberg announce the formation of a major new studio.

Cinematographer Jan De Bont makes an exciting debut as director with Speed, a film that turns Keanu Reeves into an action hero and catapults Sandra Bullock to stardom.

Hollywood dominates the world's screens, with The Lion King grossing $358m at foreign box offices, followed by Schindler's List ($221m), True Lies ($218m), and The Flintstones ($210m).

Tom Hanks is the top star at the box office, followed by newcomer Jim Carrey, Arnold Schwarzenegger, Tom Cruise and Harrison Ford.

Australia: Stephan Elliott's drag comedy The Adventures of Priscilla, Queen of the Desert, starring Terence Stamp, is a hit.

Rolf de Heer's Bad Boy Bubby, about an unbalanced man's first contact with the world, is liked and reviled in equal measure.

Britain: Mike Newell's Four Weddings and a Funeral, written by Richard Curtis, becomes the most successful British film yet and catapults Hugh Grant to stardom.

Ken Loach's controversial Ladybird, Ladybird is his biggest success since Kes.

Kenneth Branagh makes an epic version of Mary Shelley's Frankenstein.

Franco Zeffirelli begins his version of Jane Eyre at Ealing, as the studios' directors, facing debts of £6.5m, call in the receivers.

Ridley and Tony Scott head a syndicate that announces its intention of buying Shepperton Studios.

A tough new censorship law will prevent the video release of many films. The BBFC dithers about granting Stone's Natural Born Killers a certificate.

China: Zhang Yimou directs To Live, with Gong Li. The authorities forbid him to make films in China for five years and ban Gong Li from visiting the West.

Cuba: Tomás Gutiérrez Alea and Juan Carlos Tabío's Strawberry and Chocolate examines homosexuality in Castro's Cuba.

France: The government resists a US trade agreement that would have removed protection for local film-makers.

Readers of a French trade magazine vote as the top three films ever made Marcel Carné's Les Enfants du Paradis, Milos Forman's One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest and Robert Wise and Jerome Robbins' West Side Story.

Italy: Roberto Benigni's The Monster breaks box-office records.

Poland: As his Three Colours: Red opens in Europe, Kieslowski announces that he will make no more films.

Spain: Fernando Trueba's Belle Époque is an art-house hit.

The governments plan a tax on dubbed films to protect local producers.

1995

America: Presidential hopeful Bob Dole accuses Hollywood of producing 'nightmares of depravity drenched in violence and sex'.

Batman Forever, directed by Joel Schumacher, with Val Kilmer taking over as Batman and Jim Carrey as The Riddler breaks box-office records by taking $53.3m in its opening weekend.

Waterworld, starring Kevin Costner and directed by Kevin Reynolds (though he left during post-production) becomes the most expensive film so far made, costing around $175m, which was $100m over budget. It takes $88m at the US box-office.

Toy Story, directed by John Lasseter, the first computer-generated feature, makes conventional animated films look old-fashioned.

After Dumb and Dumber follows Ace Ventura: Pet Detective and The Mask by earning more than $100m at the box-office, Jim Carrey is paid $20m to make a darker comedy, The Cable Guy.

Ed Wood, by general consent America's worst director, is celebrated in a biopic starring Johnny Depp that also brings Martin Landau an Oscar for his supporting role as Bela Lugosi.

After much re-editing and re-shooting, Mary Reilly, which brought Julia Roberts a record fee, is released and flops at the box-office.

Demi Moore becomes the highest paid actress in history, receiving $12m to make the thriller Striptease, which also fails to excite audiences.

Paul Verhoeven's controversial Showgirls, a film about Las Vegas' lap-dancers, is greeted with critical disdain and audience indifference.

Antonia Bird's British film Priest, about a homosexual priest, is condemned by the Catholic League for Civil and Religious Rights and its American release is delayed.

Scottish heroes figure in two rousing nationalistic US-financed epics: Rob Roy, starring Liam Neeson and directed by Michael Caton-Jones, and Braveheart (filmed mainly in Ireland) with star and director Mel Gibson as William Wallace.

Hollywood films take $5.1 billion from foreign cinemas, at least as much as they earn in the US. Some, such as the dire First Knight take $85 million in foreign revenue, compared to $38 million in the US. The biggest foreign earner of the year is Die Hard With a Vengeance, with $254 million.

Australia: Babe, a film about a talking pig who wants to be a sheepdog, directed by Chris Noonan and produced by George Miller (of 'Mad Max' fame) is a surprising international hit.

Belgium: Jan Bucquoy's The Sexual Life of the Belgians 1950-1978 enjoys some international success, though it does little for the reputation of the Belgians as lovers.

Britain: The National Heritage Select Committee reports that despite the growth in cinema audiences – up from an all-time low of 58m in 1984 to 124m in 1994 – British films managed to capture 2.5 per cent of British box-office receipts in 1993, while American films took a 94.2 per cent share.

The government announces that the National Lottery will contribute at least £80m to film production and distribution over five years.

Ken Loach's impassioned political Land and Freedom, set in the Spanish Civil War, emphasises his lonely pre-eminence among British directors.

Theatre director Nicholas Hytner makes an impressive debut with The Madness of King George, starring Nigel Hawthorne.

Danny Boyle's energetic Scottish thriller Shallow Grave, written by John Hodge and produced by Andrew Macdonald announces the arrival of excellent new talents, including its stars Christopher Eccleston and Ewan McGregor.

France: the Prime Minister insists that his Cabinet watch La Haine, Mathieu Kassovitz's passionate film about life and racism on a rundown housing estate, which also wins him the best director award at the Cannes Film Festival.

Luc Besson reaches an international audience with his thriller Leon (US: The Professional), with a cast that includes Gary Oldman, Nathalie Portman and Danny Aiello alongside French star Jean Reno.

Jean-Pierre Jeunet follows his quirky Delicatessen with another extraordinary, though flawed, movie The City of Lost Children.

Hong Kong: Wong Kar-Wai's Chungking Express establishes him as an director of great individuality.

Italy: Michael Radford directs Italian star Massimo Troisi in the romantic Il Postino. Troisi dies of a heart attack within days of finishing the film.

Macedonia: Milo Manchevski's Before the Rain explores, in a circular narrative, the roots of nationalistic hatred of the kind that destroyed Yugoslavia.

New Zealand: Peter Jackson turns from gross horror to true crime, with the disturbing, sensitively directed Heavenly Creatures, about two schoolgirl murderers.

Lee Tamahori's Once Were Warriors is a powerful film about Maori life in an Auckland slum. He leaves for Hollywood to make a thriller, Mulholland Falls.

Russia: Nikita Mikhalkov's Burnt By The Sun deals movingly with the horrors and personal betrayals of a totalitarian system.

1996

America: Sensation and spectacular special effects, become the defining mark of Hollywood films: Independence Day, Twister and Mission Impossible all become runaway hits at the box office, with Independence Day becoming the fastest grossing film so far, taking $104.3m in its first week.

Jim Carrey's box-office appeal falters with the release of The Cable Guy.

Eddie Murphy revives his career in a remake of the Jerry Lewis vehicle The Nutty Professor.

Steven Spielberg begins shooting The Lost World, a sequel to his Jurassic Park, starring Jeff Goldblum.

Hugh Wilson's The First Wives Club, starring Goldie Hawn, Bette Midler and Diane Keaton as deserted women who take revenge on errant husbands, becomes the most talked-about movie of the autumn.

Fox Family Films and producer John Hughes begin a search to find a new child actor to replace Macaulay Culkin, too old at 16, in Home Alone III.

Matthew McConaughey is hailed as a new star following his performance in the courtroom drama A Time to Kill, based on John Grisham's novel.

Meanwhile Grisham claims Oliver Stone's Natural Born Killers was responsible for the shooting of a friend and suggests that artists should take responsibility for the effect of their works.

MGM/UA is put up for sale by Credit Lyonnais, the French bank, and acquired in a management buyout for $1.3 billion by its current chairman Frank Mancuso, backed by Kirk Kerkorian, a former owner, and the Australian television company Seven Network.

Time Warner takes over the Turner Broadcasting System for $7.3 billion to become once again the world's largest media company.

John Calley, president of United Artists, leaves to head Sony Pictures Entertainment, which includes Columbia and TriStar Pictures, following the departure of several leading executives.

The recently discovered The Life and Death of King Richard III, released in 1912 and the earliest American feature film to survive in a complete form, is shown at Los Angeles County Museum of Art. Running for 55 minutes and based on Shakespeare's play, it stars the British-born Frederick Warde and is directed by James Keane.

William Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, an updated treatment by director Baz Luhrmann, starring Claire Danes and Leonardo DiCaprio, is a hit at the box-office.

Il Postino becomes the highest-grossing foreign-language film shown in the US, taking more than $21m at the box-office.

After heavy lobbying by US companies, the European Parliament rejects its Culture Committee's recommendation that it increase the protection of European film and television from American imports.

Ted Turner says that he is 'personally appalled' by David Cronenberg's Crash, but will not stop the release of the film by his company Fine Line Features. But the release date, originally set for October, is put back to March 1997.

The box-office success of Wes Craven's Scream, with a self-referential script from Kevin Williamson, starts a new cycle of teenage horror and slasher movies.

A survey by Variety finds that films with budgets greater than $60m are more likely to make profits than cheaper movies.

Australia: After the killing of 35 people by a gunman in Port Arthur, Tasmania, the government announces toughter censorship laws for film, video, and television, including electronic filters on all new TV sets to prevent children from watching violent programmes.

Scott Hicks's Shine enjoys international acclaim and he signs a deal with new Hollywood studio DreamWorks SKG.

Britain: The first weekend in January is the best-ever for British cinemas, with £7,240,081 taken at the box office. The most popular films are Seven and GoldenEye, starring Pierce Brosnan as the new James Bond.

Director Danny Boyle, writer John Hodge and producer Andrew Macdonald have a hit with Trainspotting, based on Irvine Welsh's novel of drug addiction, which takes more than $18m at the British box office. The film is cut by four seconds and has some of its dialogue re-dubbed for its American release.

Mike Leigh's Secrets and Lies is his most accessible film so far, and a winner of the Palme D'Or at the Cannes Film Festival. But local audiences show little interest, though it does well in France.

The Jane Austen cycle reaches its peak with Sense and Sensibility, directed by Ang Lee and winning an Oscar for Emma Thompson as screenwriter.

Liam Neeson switches from Scottish hero Rob Roy to Irish patriot Michael Collins in a controversial biopic directed by Neil Jordan.

Rank, which stopped fully financing films in the late 1960s, announces that it will finance films costing less than $7m, rather than its previous policy of investing no more than half the budget in films that already had an American distributor. But it is rumoured that the company has plans to sell Pinewood studios and Rank Film Distributors.

ITV announces that it plans to invest at least £100m in British production over five years, producing at least 10 films a year.

Top films at the British box-office are Independence Day, which took $61m, Toy Story, Seven, Mission: Impossible, Twister, Sense and Sensibility, Jumanji and Trainspotting.

The Arts Council announces that it will award up to six franchises to production companies for six years, allowing them access to lottery cash to develop and finance British films.

The Home Office, claiming widespread public concern about violence on television and films, demands that the BBFC reports on how it proposes to reduce the level of violence on videos, adding that significant cuts must be made. James Ferman, director of the BBFC, says that censorship cannot change 'the culture of violence which permeates much mainstream filmmaking'. In the past three years, the Board had made cuts to 369 videos, amounting to six hours, and banned a further 14 from distribution. He adds that several recent films were likely to receive significant cuts when classified for video release in 1997. 'The real solution is for Hollywood to wake up with a conscience. But I have my doubts. There is too much money at stake.'

As the BBFC takes its time in granting a certificate to David Cronenberg's Crash, the Conservative government's Heritage Secretary calls for local authorities to use their powers under the Cinemas Act to ban its showing.

Jeremy Irons says that he will leave Britain if Lolita fails to find a distributor.

France: Producers campaign for curbs on American films.

David Cronenberg's Crash is shown uncut with a 16 certificate and enjoys a successful run.

Italy: TV and film producers demand production and distribution quotas to protect the ailing local industry against American imports.

Japan: The lowest number of admissions (119.6m) for 46 years and the second-worst box-office figures are recorded, despite an increase in the number of screens by more than 50 over the previous year.

Romania: The government-owned Romaniafilm announces that it will sell off around 300 of its 400 cinemas.

Ukraine: Local producers are worried that, since the country's independence in 1991, its feature film production has fallen from 40 films in 1992 to six in 1995.

1997

America: Cinema admissions reach 1.388 billion, the highest figure since 1959.

The average cost of a Hollywood movie is $75.6m ($53.4m on production and $22.2 on publicity and advertising), an increase of 166 per cent in the last ten years and a 34 per cent rise since 1996.

Studios, led by Fox and Universal, develop 'off-balance-sheet financing', in which three years o films are owned by outside investors and, after five years, when revenues have been collected, they are bought back from the investors. The studios collect fees from the investors for marketing and distribution and also retain most of the net profits. Business Week reported that Fox's New Millennium Investors had $40m in equity and $960m in debt, while Universal's Galaxy Investors had $44m in equity from outside investors and $1.06 billion in debt, none of which shows up in the studios' balance sheets.

Universal Studios buy independent distributor and producer October Films, the last remaining independent studio, for $15m.

Oklahoma City Police seize videos of The Tin Drum after a judge declares the film obscene. MPAA President Jack Valenti says that he is 'deeply troubled' by their action.

American distributors show no interest in Adrian Lyne's film Lolita.

The National Federation of the Blind ask Disney to stop production on a live-action version of the cartoon character Mr Magoo, starring Leslie Nielsen, on the grounds that there is nothing funny in watching 'an ill-tempered and incompetent blind man stumble into things and misunderstand his surroundings'. Production continues: the film flops at the box-office.

The Peacemaker, the first release from the new studio DreamWorks, underwhelms critics and audiences, and does nothing to enhance George Clooney's reputation as Hollywood's rising star.

Sony Pictures enjoys its best year with hits Men in Black, My Best Friend's Wedding, Jerry Maguire and The Fifth Element.

James Cameron's Titanic becomes the most expensive film yet made, as it goes over budget to reach a cost of $200m.

According to a Harris poll, the most popular movie actors are Clint Eastwood, Mel Gibson, Tom Cruise, John Wayne, Kevin Costner, Arnold Schwarzenegger, Richard Gere and Sean Connery. The most popular actress is Demi Moore. Those whose popularity is slipping include Steven Seagal, Tom Hanks, Paul Newman and Sylvester Stallone.

Britain: The Full Monty becomes the highest-grossing movie so far in Britain.

Cinema attendances reach their highest figure – 138.9m – since the late 60s.

Mike Leigh, after receiving the BAFTA award for best British film for Secrets and Lies, reveals that he had resigned from the Academy in protest after being ignored in the past.

Polygram announces continuing losses from its film business in the first quarter of the year and arranges a £50m loan from the European Investment Bank to help finance its future production and distribution.

The BBFC pass David Cronenberg's Crash without cuts, but it is banned by three councils, including Westminster, which covers many London cinemas.

The Labour government's first budget provides improved tax relief that is likely to boost local film production.

After three consortia are given lottery money to make films, Mick Southworth, managing director of Film Four Distributors, warns, 'The depressing reality is that more than 50 per cent of British films fail to get a domestic UK theatrical release.'

Labour Home Secretary Jack Straw criticizes James Ferman for passing two sexually explicit films for sale in licensed sex shops. He blocks the appointment of Lord Birkett as chairman of the British Board of Film Classification, and appoints Andreas Whittam Smith, the former editor of the Independent newspaper, as chairman. Whittam Smith says that one of the first things he will look at is pornography on video.

David Aukin, Channel 4's head of film, objects to the Broadcasting Standards Commission censure of the channel for showing Ken Loach's Ladybird, Ladybird for violence and language that goes 'beyond acceptable boundaries'. He leaves to set up Hal Films, part of the growing Miramax empire.

Alan Parker is appointed chairman of the British Film Institute, an organization he once claimed was '28 intellectuals in a library'.

Rank sells its film distribution business and film library to Carlton TV for £65m.

The government's Film Policy Review Group proposes a voluntary levy on film revenues to create a basis for a fund to support the distribution and development of British films. Companies that choose not to contribute to the fund will be barred from receiving any subsidies. Also suggested is a relaxation of the definition of British films to include Hollywood-financed films made in the UK and using British talent.

Denmark: Sydney Pollack sues Danish state television for screening one of his films in a cut version, claiming damage to his professional reputation.

France: Cannes celebrates its 50th Film Festival, but the films on show are less worthy of acclaim: it opens with Luc Besson's fantasy The Fifth Element, which critics hate but which goes on to top the US box-office.

Cinema attendance passes the 140m mark for the first time in ten years, as film production reaches its highest level of the last decade.

A French economist, Professor Patrick Messerlin, says that the system of subsidies and quotas designed to protect the French film industry is both costly and useless, with the quality and number of locally made films falling as subsidies have grown. He adds that the tax on cinema tickets affects box-office successes more than flops. French producers, he says, tend to make quasi-American films to the detriment of local culture.

Germany: Producer Artur Brauner denounces as scandalous the local complaints over naming a street or square after Marlene Dietrich. 'She was the only major German entertainer who maintained her integrity during the Third Reich,' he says.

India: Four leading film industry figures are shot dead in daytime in three months of the summer, including Gulshan Kumar, a producer who refused to pay extortion money to local gangsters.

Japan: After a 14-year-old boy is arrested for killing an 11-year-old and leaving his severed head by his school gates, Japanese police and politicians blame the crime on American horror films.

Hayao Miyazaki's anime Princess Mononoke beats E.T. – the Extra-Terrestrial to become Japan's biggest box-office success. Masayuki Suo's Shall We Dance?, about the exotic rituals of ballroom dancing, becomes an international success.

South Korea: Censors ban Wong Kar-Wai's Cannes award-winning movie Happy Together, objecting to its homosexual theme.

1998

America: Despite critical misgivings, James Cameron's Titanic becomes a massive hit, with a worldwide gross of more than $1 billion, and elevates Leonardo DiCaprio to superstardom. 'So does this prove, once and for all, that size does matter?' asks Cameron. The film goes on to win 11 Oscars, including best film and best director, and be nominated for three more.

A video store offers to edit Titanic for its customers, removing scenes that contain nudity or references to sexual activity, claiming 2,000 people have asked for the service. Paramount threatens to sue for copyright violation. The Artists Rights Foundation asks it to stop, on the grounds that 'the protection of American cultural heritage for future generations depends upon our ability to protect the work of artists from any alteration that seeks to "improve" the efforts of the original artists'.

The paraplegic Christopher Reeve stars as the crippled photographer in a well-received TV movie remake of Rear Window. But Gus Van Sant's colour remake of Alfred Hitchcock's Psycho opens to lukewarm reviews.

Jim Carrey maintains his star status with The Truman Show, which attracts audiences and rave reviews.

Jackie Chan finally cracks the American market with Rush Hour, teaming him with Chris Tucker.

The unexpected success of Waterboy allows Adam Sandler to command a $20m-a-movie pay cheque.

Despite being released after the similar Deep Impact, the disaster movie Armageddon becomes the year's big hit, taking more than $200m at the US box-office.

DreamWorks SKG enjoys its first hits with Steven Spielberg's Saving Private Ryan, which takes more than $360m at the world's box-offices, and the animated feature Antz.

Universal's poorly performing movies at the box-office, including the big-budget Meet Joe Black and Babe: Pig in the City, result in the departure of top executives.

Britain: Only three British-made films – Sliding Doors, Spiceworld: The Movie and Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels, feature in the year's Top 20. The list is dominated by Titanic, which takes more than three times as much as the next most popular film, Doctor Dolittle.

The government scraps plans for a voluntary levy on companies involved in British films, which was to raise £15m to help distribution and development.

The National Film and Television School puts Ealing Studios up for sale, while the Rank Organization considers whether to sell off Pinewood Studios.

Sean Connery announces plans to set up a film studio in Scotland.

The government announces the formation of a Film Council, which will combine the activities of the BFI, British Screen, the British Film Commission and the film-funding activities of the Arts Council.

Indian director's Yash Johar's Bollywood film Kuch Kuch Kotai Hai is a hit with Asian audiences in London, and becomes for a time one of the top 10 movies showing in the city.

Polygram is sold for $10.4 billion to Seagram, owners of Universal Studios, who want it for its music division: the future of its film production business remains undecided.

France: Cinema attendance reaches 175m, but the numbers watching French-made films go down from 51m in 1997 to 44m. The French share of the box-office drops to 27 per cent, against 68 per cent for American films.

Gérard Depardieu stars in the most expensive French film so far made, Asterix and Obelix vs Caesar, which is budgeted at $48m.

Enduring star Alain Delon announces his retirement, adding, 'The Americans have completed their conquest. We are outflanked, shrivelled and completely chewed up.'

Italy: Robert Benigni scores as writer, director and star of Life Is Beautiful, which goes on to win 28 international awards, including the Grand Jury prize at the Cannes Film Festival, and European Film and Actor of the Year.

Japan: Hideo Nakatao directs Ringu/Ring a horror movie that becomes an international hit. He will go on to direct a sequel Ringu 2/Ring 2, both of which will be later remade in Hollwood and start a worldwide appetite for Asian horror movies.

Netherlands: Ben Sombogaert's family film Abeltje, based on a popular book about a flying lift boy, is the most expensive Dutch film so far made, with a budget of $4.6m.

Singapore: Money No Enough, a low-budget film directed by Tay Teck-lock, becomes the highest-grossing Chinese-language film, taking $3m in its first two months.

South Korea: The government resists the USA's demands that it scrap its quota system which makes cinemas show local movies for 106 days a year. Local producers, directors and actors claim that the abolition of the system would erase 'the soul of Korean cinema'.

1999

America: The movie business enjoys a bumper year, with ticket sales totalling $7.5 billion for 1.5 billion admissions, the hioghest number for 40 years.

A survey finds that young adults are the most frequent movie-goers, with a fifth of the population accounting for two-thirds of the audience. The favourite genres are action movies and comedies.

Star Wars Episode 1: The Phantom Menace dominates the box-office, though it is critically reviled.

M. Night Shyamalan's creepy The Sixth Sense is the surprise of the year, and creates a new child star in Haley Joel Osment.

The Wachowski Brothers' Matrix, starring Keanu Reeves, dazzles with its martial arts choreography.

Mike Myers, whose first outing as Austin Powers did modestly at the box-office, scores with the sequel Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me, which is the fifth most successful film of the year.

The very low-budget The Blair Witch Project, shot on black and white film and video, becomes probably the most profitable movie ever, taking more than $140m on an outlay of $100,000 or so. Its success alerts marketing department to the power of the Internet.

Director Stanley Kubrick dies just after completing his Eyes Wide Shut. It opens to a mixed critical response and small audiences.

Former presidents Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter lead an appeal to Hollywood to reduce the amount of sex and violence to which children are exposed.

Federal antitrust investigators began an inquiry into the distribution of movies by the big motion picture studios.

Sony Pictures Entertainment contracts 34 leading screenwriters, including Paul Attanasio Ron Bass Nora Ephron Scott Frank to provide work over four years, guaranteeing each writer at least two per cent of the film's gross.

The cost of marketing and distributing movies reached $25.3 million a film for the 221 pictures produced by Hollywood's leading studios. This put the average cost of making and marketing a film at $78 million

More than a million copies on DVD of Titanic go to retailers, making it the best-selling title so far.

Warner Bros top executives Robert Daly and Terry Semel, announced that they will leave the company by the end of the year.

Hollywood unions are concerned about the number of films being made outside the US, including two Star Wars films and Mission: Impossible 2, filming in Australia. Over a quarter of US films and TV is now made overseas. Fewer stunt performers are in work, it is said, because of the use of digital technology.

According to the Hollywood Reporter, the Top 10 bankable Hollywood stars are Tom Hanks, Mel Gibson, Tom Cruise, Harrison Ford, Jim Carrey, Leonardo DiCaprio, John Travolta, Julia Roberts, Robin Williams and Brad Pitt.

Entertainment writers and editors named the 25 most significant stars of the century as Charlie Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Lillian Gish, Douglas Fairbanks, Rudolph Valentino, Greta Garbo, Laurel and Hardy, Clark Gable, James Cagney, Judy Garland, Cary Grant, Katharine Hepburn, Fred Astaire, Bette Davis, Shirley Temple, Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall, John Wayne, James Stewart, Marlon Bando, Marilyn Monroe, Sidney Poitier, James Nicholson, Meryl Streep, Arnold Schwarzenegger, and Mickey Mouse.

Australia: Gregor Jordan's blackly comic thriller Two Hands is a local hit and receives 11 nominations at the Australian Film Institute awards. Heath Ledger, its young star, moves to Hollywood.

Britain: James Ferman, retiring from the British Board of Film Classification says 'I believe that there is too much violence in American screen entertainment, and that European and Asian film industries are beginning to ape the Americans for commercial gain.'

Producer Stephen Woolley criticises the BBFC for giving Neil Jordan's The End of the Affair an 18 certificate; in other countries it receives a lower certification.

Guy Ritchie's Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels grabs the attention of audiences, and is followed by a dozen more local gangster movies.

John Madden's US-backed Shakespeare in Love is a box-office hit, as is the comedy Notting Hill, which unites Hugh Grant with Julia Roberts in a comedy that owes a little to Four Weddings and a Funeral.

Damien O'Donnell's comedy East is East and Peter Mullen's often-surreal Orphans are among admired works by new directors. But Lynne Ramsay's gritty Ratcatcher, which is praised by critics, takes only $382,000 at the box office.

Mike Hodges' oblique thriller Croupier opens almost unnoticed, though it later becomes a cult success in America.

Canada: More Hollywood productions are made in the country, because costs are lower than in the USA.

Canadian audiences at Stanley Kubrick's Eyes Wide Shut see a movie with 65 seconds of digital masking of genitalia during its orgy scene.

France: Claude Zidi's $49 million Asterix and Obelix vs. Caesar, the most expensive French film sets new box-office records at home.

Out of 180 French films released during the year, only three broke even at the box-office. Said director Luc Besson, 'There is a dramatic deficit between what France makes and what it consumes.'

Director Bertrand Tavernier leads a group of French filmmakers who demand that critics stop writing unfavourable reviews of French films until the public has a chance to make up its own mind.

Poland: Jerzy Hoffman's With Fire and Sword is a runaway success at the box-office, clocking up a record 7.1m admissions.

2000

America: Tom Cruise reasserts his box-office strength by starring in and producing Mission: Impossible 2, which takes more than $545m at cinemas around the world.

Ridley Scott revives an almost forgotten genre of Roman epics with Gladiator, which is a box-office hit and makes a star of Russel Crowe..

British director Sam Menes scores with his first film, the US movie American Beauty, which wins five Oscars, including one for him and for actor Kevin Spacey.

After the science-fiction animated film Titan AE does poorly at the box office, Twentieth Century Fox announce that it will close its animation studio.

Actors end their strike over payment for commercials. But Hollywood studios begin to give the go-ahead to more movies, fearing the effect of the threatened strikes by the Writers Guild of America and unions representing TV and film actors are that could shut down production in the US in 2001.

The Journal of the American Medical Association publishes reseeach showing that family films, from Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs to Toy Story, contain a surprising amount of violence. The most came in the 1998 Quest for Camelot, with 24 minutes of violence. At least one character was killed in 37 of the 76 features examined.

The Directors' Guild calls for an overhaul of the movie ratings system.

Britain: Rank's connection with cinema ends: it sells its Odeon Cinemas for $448m and Pinewood Studios for $99.2 (£62m).

An Ideal Husband is the only one of 11 films released and funded through National Lottery money to make a profit. So far, around £13.5m in lottery money has been spent by three companies to produce and distribute films since the scheme began in 1997. The Film Council says that it is happy with the work being done by the companies, which have been allocated £92m for film production over six years.

Channel 4 announces that FilmFour will make a minimum of seven films over the bext three years in a joint venture with Warners.

Stephen Daldry's Billy Elliot, about a miner's son who wants to be a ballet dancer, delights audiences.

China: Ang Lee's Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon/Wo Hu Zang Long with its flying sword fights is a hit with Western audiences.

The number of Western films allowed to be seen in China increases to 20 a year, with promises that the number will rise to 40 a year in the near future.

Actor director Jian Wen is banned from making filmsd for seven years by the government on the grounds that his Devils on the Doorstep/Guizi Lai Le is 'not patriotic enough'.

France: In a merger Vivendi and Canal Plus take control of US studio Universal Pictures in a deal with its Canadian owners, Seagram.

Taxi 2, the sequel to a hit of two years ago, produced by Luc Besson sets new opening day box office records, with 759,000 admission, beating the record set by Star Wars: Episode I - The Phantom Menace of 450,500.

President Jacques Chirac says that the US should do more to make French films more accessible to the American public Virginie Despentes Rape Me/Baise-Moi, which begins with a rape and contains violence and explicit sex, is declared pornographic by the Council of State. Its distributors say that they will ignore the ban.

Mexico: Antonio Serrano's Sex, Shame and Tears/Sexo, Pudor Y Lagrimas becomes the highest grossing Mexican films so far, and ranks behind Titanic and Disney's Tarzan as the third top-grossing film.

A government decision to end the law that only childre'n and documentary films could be dubbed in Spanish and allow the dubbing of all films upsets local film-makers. Says Arturo Ripstein 'it's just another form of Yankee imperialism'. The studios insist that audiences in rural areas have difficulties with subtitles.

2001

America: The terrorist attack on New York on September 11 delays the release date of many films, notably Arnold Schwarzenegger's Collateral Damage. Hollywood executives are consulted about how best to keep national morale high. More people go to the movies, which do not become noticeably less violent. Ridley Scott's Black Hawk Down, about a botched American incursion into Somalia, does well at the box-office.

Halle Berry becomes the first black actress to win an Oscar as best actress for Monster's Ball. The best actor award goes to Denzel Washington, and there is also an honorary award for Sidney Poitier, who blazed a trail in Hollywood for black actors.

Sequels and new versions of mouldering movies make up much of the year's films. Producers Joel Silver and Robert Zemeckis take a cheap horror from the '60s, William Castle's 13 Ghosts, and add expensive special effects, but merely prove that more can be less. Among the notable individual films of the year are Terry Zwigoff's Ghost World, the Coen Brothers' The Man Who Wasn't There, shot in black and white, Todd Field's In the Bedroom, and Richard Kelly's Donnie Darko. David Lynch directs the puzzling Mulholland Drive, a compendium of the odd motifs from his previous films.

Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone, the first adaptation of J. K. Rowling's books about a teenage wizard, is the biggest box-office draw, closely followed by Peter Jackson's epic first film of J. R. R. Tolkien's trilogy The Lord of the Rings. Two animated movies, DreamWorks Shrek and Pixar's Monsters, Inc are also bit hits.

Sony Pictures is criticised for inventing quotes from non-existent critics to sell its films.

Argentina: Fabian Bielinsky's first film Nine Queens/Nueve Reinas, about a con-man's scam at a time of national economic chaos, is a local hit and also does well on the international circuit. But it is passed over as the entry for the foreign-language Oscar in favour of Lucho Bender's Best Wishes.

Australia: Stand-up Eric Bana comedian scores a success as Australia's favourite ex-convict in Chopper. He leaves for the United States to become The Hulk in a blockbuster movie on the comic-book monster. Baz Luhrmann's musical Moulin Rouge with Nicole Kidman is an international (American-financed) hit. But Dein Perry's Bootmen fails to match the success of the boisterous dance group Tapdogs, whose story it tells. Director Ray Lawrence's first film in more than a decade is the excellent domestic drama Lantana, starring Anthony LaPaglia.

Britain: Pinewood Studios, bought by former TV tycoon Michael Grade from Rank, merges with Shepperton, run by directors Ridley and Tony Scott, to form a massive new production facility. Trade paper Screen International reports that a third of British films made in the last two years, many financed by lottery money, still sit of the shelves waiting for distribution.

Romantic comedy Bridget Jones's Diary, with Hugh Grant and Colin Firth playing to American star Renne Zellweger, is a hit. But the adaptation of another British novel, Captain Corelli's Mandolin, disappoints.

French director Patrice Chéreau's English-language Intimacy, based on a story by Hanif Kureishi, causes a minor sensation with its sexual scenes between Mark Rylance's barman and Kerry Fox's erring wife. American Robert Altman directs an immaculate cast of British actors in Gosford Park, an examination of master-servant relationships in the '30s that wins an Oscar for its writer Julian Fellowes. US-based Australian director Fred Schepisi directs a brilliant ensemble cast in Last Orders, from Graham Swift's novel of working-class life and death.

France: Leading politicians urge the public to see Amelie, Jean-Pierre Jeunet's movie about a fantasy Montmartre starring the saucer-eyed Audrey Tatou as a waitress who wants everyone to be happy. Audiences overseas need no persuasion to enjoy its suger-coated charm. They are less happy with Catherine Breillat's Fat Girl/A Ma Soeur with its depiction of a young girl's first experiences of sex.

Matthieu Kassovitz's pulp thriller Purple Rivers and Christophe Gans's clever martial-arts horror movie The Brotherhood of the Wolf shows that French directors were taking note of Hollywood styles. Francis Veber demonstrates his touch for easy comedy with Le Placard, about a hetrosexual man pretending to be gay in order to keep his job.

Harsher films come from Austrian director Michael Haneke's The Piano Teacher, with Isabelle Huppert involved in a sadomasochistic relationship, and Robert Guédiguian's The Town is Quiet, his continuing examination of working-class life in Marseilles.

Germany: German audiences reach a new record of 163.1m admissions. The local hit is Manitou's Shoe/Der Schuh Des Manitu, a send-up of Karl May's stories of cowboys and Indians. Oliver Hirschbiegel's psychological thriller The Experiment does better internationally.

Italy: Nanni Moretti's The Son's Room, a study of grief and recovery, wins the Palme D'Or at Cannes and is an international success. Dario Argento's Sleepless/Non Ho Sonno, about an insomniac detective, is surprisingly tame.

Japan: Takeshi Kitan's mainly English-language Brother, about a Japanese gangster in Los Angeles, is a disappointment, but Shohei Imamura scores with his curious sexual fantasy Warm Water Under a Red Bridge. But it is the master of animation Hayao Miyazaki who dominates. His Spirited Away/Sen To Chihiro No Kamikakushi becomes the highest-grossing film so far. Rintaro's anime Metropolis, set in a future city inhabited by robots and humans, does well internationally. Hironbu Sakaguchi attempts photo-realistic computer animation in his Final Fantasy: The Spirits Within, based on his video-game.

Mexico: Writer-director Alejandro González Iñárritu's Amores Perros, of three interlocking lives in Mexico City, is an international sensation and focuses attention on the country's cinema, where production is enjoying a revival.

2002

America: Attack of the clones becomes the theme in Hollywood, as it remakes European films (The Others, Vanilla Sky, Insomnia, The Ring) or relies on ancient TV cartoons (Scooby-Doo) and comic-book superheroes (Spider-Man with The Hulk and Daredevil already filming) for inspiration..

Chicago, Rob Marshall's version of the 27-year-old Broadway show, becomes the first musical to win an Oscar for best picture since Oliver! In 1968.

Hollywood studios threaten legal action against a video rental company that edits violence and bad language out of blockbuster films before renting them. The studios also sue to keep off the market a special DVD player that will skip over any violence and also mute swearing. Their opponents accuse the studios of hypocrisy since many movies are sanitized for showing on TV.

Eddie Murphy is among the stars whose fortunes falter. He makes three poorly received movies with The Adventures of Pluto Nash, Showtime and I Spy, though he still commands a salary of $20m plus 20 per cent of the gross. Sylvester Stallone's Detox fails to get a cinema release. He threatens to return to past glories with Rocky V. Robin Williams, following the failure of the comedy Death to Smoochy, re-invents himself as a serious actor, with two psychopathic roles in One Hour Photo and Insomnia.

Three movies that were held over from 2001 because of the 9/11 terrorist attack, Collateral Damage with Arnold Schwarzenegger, Bad Company with Anthony Hopkins and Big Trouble with Tim Allen, all flop at the box-office. Michael Caine has to lobby its producers to get a release for The Quiet American, based on Graham Greene's novel of American involvement in Vietnam.

Box-office receipts boom with the escapist fantasies Spider-Man, Harry Potter and The Lord of the Rings earning vast sums. But the surprise of the year is the small-scale comedy My Big Fat Greek Wedding, based on a one-woman show by its writer and star Nia Vadalos, which becomes the most successful romantic comedy yet made.

Despite the successes, many studios find themselves affected by the financial problems of the conglomerates that control them. Universal suffers from Vivendi's over-ambitious expansion that leaves the French company with massive debts, AOL TimeWarner, where Warner had its best-ever year with the hits Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone and Ocean's Eleven, reports the largest corporate loss in history, while Disney writes off a $74m loss on its animated feature Treasure Planet.

Michael Moore's documentary Bowling for Columbine, on the American attitude to guns, is screened in official competition at the Cannes Film Festival, a rare event for a non-fiction film, and attracts enthusiastic audiences when it is shown around Europe.

Screenwriter Tracy Keenan Wynn and more than 170 other screenwriters combine in a class action against Hollywood studios for disciminating against them on the grounds of age.

Australia: Philip Noyce returns home after twelve years in Hollywood to make the much-praised Rabbit Proof Fence, based on a true story of young Aborigine girls who, taken by the government to be trained as domestic staff, escape to make the longt trek home.

The exodus of young actors to Hollywood continues, as Heath Ledger, Hugh Jackman, Rachel Griffiths and Naomi Watts follow in the footsteps of Geffrey Rush, Cate Blanchett, Guy Pearce, Hugo Weaving and others.

Britain: While cinema admissions fall in France, Germany, Spain and Italy, the UK's grows by more than ten per cent, with sales reaching more than 176m tickets.

But after a series of expensive flops, Film Four closes and is re-absorbed into Channel 4 television, its ambitions over. Its film Buffalo Soldiers, about crooked US soldiers in West Germany, which was completed in 2001 still awaits a British or American release. Natural Nylon, the production company begun by Ewan Mcgregor, Jude Law and others as an English equivalent to United Artists, is also moribund.

Neil Jordan and Terry Gilliam are among the directors whose films fail to get the necessary financing. Mike Barker's To Kill a King, a movie about Oliver Cromwell and Charles I, nearly closes down halfway through production, until saved by extra money at the last minute.

Lord (Richard) Attenborough chairs a company that plans to create an international film and television studio near Cardiff in Wales. The first film for more than 40 years to carry the name of Ealing Studios is Oliver Parker's heavy-handed version of The Importance of Being Earnest.

Ken Loach protests about the 18 certificate given by the BBFC to his film Sweet Sixteen, which means that its mainly teenage cast will be unable to see the film. Distributors and cinema chains complain that a young audience is being denied the chance to see Spider-Man. The BBFC introduces a new classification of 12A which allows children under 12 to view films provided they are accompanied by an adult.

Sir Alan Parker, chairman of the Film Council tells his fellow producers and directors that the UK film industry needs "nothing less than radical re-invention."

France: The financial difficulties of Vivendi are likely to result in the sale of its American studio Universal. The uncompromising Gaspar Noé's Irreversible causes controversy with its scenes of rape and violence.

A new live-action adventure of Asterix, Mission Cleopatra, is a big local hit. Francois Ozon does well with 8 Women, bringing together an elegant collection of French actress of several generations in the country house murder mystery. Bertrand Tavernier explores French film-making during the Nazi occupation in Safe Conduct, and Claude Miller's Betty Fisher and Other Stories is an intense and intriguing version of a Ruth Rendell novel.

Japan: Veteran director Yoji Yamada, best known for his long-running Tora-San movies, found an international audience with Twilight Samurai/Tasogare Seibei, focusing on the domestic travails of a low-level and reluctant warrior.

Mexico: Alfonso Cuaron's exuberant and socially conscious road movie And Your Mother Too is another sign of a new vitality in Mexican cinema.

Russia: Aleksandr Sokurov's Russian Ark is an astonishing tour de force with its dramatic tour of the Hermitage Museum done in a single 96 minute take, involving a cast of some two thousand actors and three orchestras.

2003

America: The Return of the King, Peter Jackson's triumphant conclusion to his epic The Lord of the Rings trilogy, is the year's top box-office success and garners 11 Oscars, including best picture and best director.

Disney says that it intends to abandon traditional hand-drawn animation and concentrate on features using computer generated images. Its Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl is the first movie to be beased on a theme-park ride and is a box-office hit, taking more than $300m in the US.

Arnold Schwarzenegger is elected governor of California. Vin Diesel and wrestler The Rock attempt to take his place as action heroes.

Britain: The British Film Institute abandons plans to create a Film Centre in London to replace the Museum of the Moving Image, which it closed in 1999.

The Film Council reports that £13m of lottery money invested in 20 British films has generated £125m at the box office, whereas the Arts Council spent £100m of lottery money on films and saw a return of £6m.

Sex Lives of the Potato Men, a low-brow comedy starring Johnny Vegas, Mackenzie Crook and Mark Gatiss, is characterized by The Times as "one of the most nauseous films ever made".

The best British film of the year is Kevin Macdonald's Touching the Void, a semi-documentary on a mountaineering expedition that went wrong. The box-office success is Richard Curtis' romantic comedy Love Actually, starring Hugh Grant as a prime minister who falls for Downing Street's tea-lady.

France: Bruno Dumont's first English-language film, Twentynine Palms, dismays many admirers of his earlier disturbing movies, such as L'Humanite, with its sudden outburst of violence, rape, madness and suicide.

Alexandre Aja's horror movie Switchblade Romance/Haute Tension, in which two women are apparently terrorized by a homicidal maniac, finds an international audience.

Germany: Wolfgang Becker's sly comedy Goodbye Lenni! has fun at the notion of a son trying to persuade his ailing mother that East Germany was still a Communist state. It starred the Spanish-born actor Daniel Bruhl at the beginning of his international career.

Japan: Satoshi Kon's anime Tokyo Godfathers, is an effective big city variation on John Ford's 1948 Western Three Godfathers a street-level examination of the meaning of family. Takeshi Kitano's Zatoichi revives a long-running hero of Japanese film and television: a blind masseur, gambler and expert swordsman memorably incarnated in the 1960s and 70s by Shintaro Katsu.

2004

America: Michael Moore's anti-Bush documentary Fahrenheit 9/11 wins the Palme d'Or at the Cannes Film Festival and becomes a worldwide hit and talking point.

Mel Gibson's The Passion of The Christ, which he mainly finances himself at a cost of £30m, attracts a fervently Christian audience around the world and becomes a surprising hit, taking more than $370m at the US box-office.

DreamWorks animated sequel Shrek 2 is the top box-office draw of the year, becoming the highest-ever grossing animated films. Its success allows DreamWorks animation to be spun off from its parent company.

Japanese director Takashi Shimizu remakes his horror hit The Grudge in Hollywood, the fifth time he has dealt with the matter of a haunted house.

Ben Stiller becomes the nation's favourite comic actor with roles in Starsky and Hutch, Dodgebal, Along Came Polly and Meet the Fockers, one of the most successful comedies ever, ranking fourth in the year's top-grossing films. He, together with co-stars Owen Wilson and Vince Vaughn, become ubiquitous presences.

Oliver Stone's epic Alexander is an unexpected flop, earning less than a quarter of its cost back at the US box-office. The performance of its star, Colin Farrell, is received with derision by the critics.

Quentin Tarantino returns to directing with the violent Kill Bill, a hommage to the kung-fu flicks of his days working in a video store, starring Uma Thuirman as an unstoppable assassin.

Britain: Mike Leigh's Vera Drake, a drama set in the 1950s of a well-meaning backstreet abortionist, receives three Oscar nominations. It does better at the BAFTAs, winning awards for Leigh and for Imelda Staunton's performance in the title role.

France: Christophe Barratier's sentimental The Chorus/Les Choristes, about a school choir, finds a response at home and abroad and leads to a renewed interest in choral singing. Patrice Leconte's Intimate Strangers is a witty romantic drama about a unhappily married woman who enters the wrong office, mistaking a tax consultant for a psychiatrist. It was matched by Agnès Jaoui's Look at Me/Comme Un Image, about the relationship between a successful, selfish writer and his overweight daughter. The misfire of the year is Jan Kounen's comicbook Western, Blueberry, starring Vincent Cassel.

Germany: Oliver Hirschbiegel's Downfall/Der Untergang coolly and brilliantly recreates Hitler's last days in his Berlin bunker, based in part on the reminiscences of his last secretary, Traudl Junge, and aided by an impressive performance from Bruno Ganz as a visibly crumbling Fuhrer.

The German-born Turkish writer-director Fatih Akin scores with his topical and angry Head-On/Gegen die Wand, which examines the lives of two unhappy Turkish immigrants in Hamburg.

Japan: Hayao Miyazaki's anime Howl's Moving Castl/Hauru No Ugoku Shiro tops the Japanese and the French box-office and shows that traditional animated techniques can still pack a punch.

2005

America: The Family Entertainment and Copyright Act is passed. It makes using a video-camera in a cinema for purposes of piracy an imprisonable offence. It also permits the use of technology to skip objectionable material in CDs or DVDs, such as the use of Clear Play DVD players that filter movies for graphic violence, nudity and strong language.

While the US box-office slumps to its lowest level this century, Hollywood maintains its liking for comic book and fantasy films. George Lucas' Star Wars: Episode III – Revenge of the Sith is the year's biggest-grossing film, followed by Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire, The Chronicles of Narnia: The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe, War of the Worlds and King Kong. And Director Bryan Singer begins work on Superman Returns starring Brandon Routh.

Members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences ignore the year's blockbuster movies and pick smaller scale films for the Oscar nominations – Brokeback Mountain, Capote, Crash, Good Night, and Good Luck, Munich – all of which have done no more than moderate business at the box-office.

Paramount buy DreamWorks for $1.6bn, the studio founded in 1994 by Steven Spielberg, Jeffrey Katzenberg, and David Geffen and begin integrating the two studios, which involves the sacking of many executives.

A French documentary The March of the Penguins is a surprise hit, becoming the most successful French movie ever released in the US.

Harvey and Bob Weinstein part from Miramax, the independent production company they set up in 1979, and Disney, its owners from 1993. While Disney retains the name and the film libraries, the Weinsteins keep the name of their other company, Dimension, and plan to start a new, integrated media company.

Michael Eisner steps down as boss of Disney. He is replaced by company president Robert Iger, who begins negotiations to acquire the animation studio Pixar.

Belgium: The Dardenne brothers, writer-directors Jean-Pierre and Luc, win the Palme d'Or at the Cannes Film Festival for theirt incisive The Child/L'Enfant, about a poor young couple trying to cope with their new-born baby.

Britain: British films did better business at the box-office than they had for several years, particularly if Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire, with its British cast and director, is included in their numbers.

But all is not well. The government's vacillation over tax breaks to investors causes problems. And many Hollywood productions that once would have been made in Britain go to Eastern Europe, where costs are lower. Overseas investment drops from $980 million in 2004 to just over $556 million in 2005.

Nick Park and Steve Box's laboriously hand-crafted and animated Wallace & Gromit: The Curse of the Were-Rabbit is an international success, taking the taste for Wensleydale and Stinking Bishop cheeses around the world.

Local low-budget comedies, such as Julian Jarrold's Kinky Boots and Michael Winterbottom's Tristram Shandy: A Cock and Bull Story find appreciative audiences.

A new James Bond, in the person of English actor Daniel Craig, takes over the role from Pierce Brosnan.

France: Michael Haneke's Hidden/Cache, a film about the stalking of a Parisian TV personality that investigates France's guilt-ridden colonial past, is hailed as a masterpiece.

Jacques Audiard's The Beat That My Heart Skipped is that rare thing, a remake of an American movie, James Toback's 1978 film noir Fingers. It also improves on the original, in a telling drama of a young man who has to choose between being a gangster or a classical pianist

Arnaud Desplechin's Kings and Queen/Rois et Reine, about the parallel lives of two former lovers, features two new stars of French cinema, Emmanuelle Devos and Mathieu Amalric, as well as one of the most enduring, Catherine Deneuve.

HALLIWELL'S FILM, VIDEO AND DVD GUIDE 2006

26TH EDITION

Edited by John Walker

With over 23,000 entries, this fully updated guide is a mine of essential information covering the past hundred years of cinema, from classics of the silver screen to the very latest blockbusters. The undisputed bible for film enthusiasts and trivia buffs, this is an entertaining, indispensable guide for movie lovers everywhere.

The longest running guide to the film industry is fully revised and updated to include:

- Concise plot synopses for every film
- Film cast and credit information
- Critical evaluations
- Reviews from other critics
- Fascinating behind-the-scenes gossip and facts
- Pithy quotes and movie dialogue
- Alternative film titles
- Original publicity tags
- Easy-to-follow icons for: family viewing suitability; video, DVD and soundtrack availability; Oscar awards and nominations
- Quick reference guide to the best films ever
- Index of leading directors
- Academy Award® winners, listed by year

ISBN 0 00 720550 3

£22.50

HALLIWELL'S TOP 1000

Edited by John Walker

'At the end of the day, Halliwell is top of the pile'
Film Review

Halliwell's Top 1000, in the form of a fully illustrated countdown, with additional top-ten lists from industry insiders, film stars and directors.

Each movie provides a plot summary and includes key information, such as:

- cast and crew on the film
- any awards the movie won
- key critical comments on the movie's release
- DVD and soundtrack availibility
- quotes from famous critics and showbiz personalities plus other interesting information such as original film titles, gossip from behind the scenes and quotes from the director and stars.

Finally, with this book, the Halliwell's Hall of Fame will be established once and for all!

ISBN 0 00 718165 5

£15.99

HALLIWELL'S FILM QUIZ BOOK

Andrew Murray
Edited by John Walker

Test your knowledge of the great and the good, the who and the what, and the general A-Z of the movie world in the Halliwell's Film Quiz Book.

At which motel is it advisable not to take a shower?

Who said, 'I coulda had class. I coulda been a contender'?

Who was the first James Bond ever to appear on screen?

What's Wallace's favourite kind of cheese?

What was Disney's original name for Mickey?

From Welles to Tarantino, from the founding fathers of film to the Coen brothers, from Canada and Asia to Australia and the UK, the Halliwell's Film Quiz Book is a comprehensive and fun movie-world challenge for film buffs great and small.

ISBN 0 00 653194 6

£5.99

THE ART OF THE LORD OF THE RINGS

By Gary Russell

The definitive guide to the design of the movie, incorporating the best artwork from the trilogy plus many never-before-published paintings, sketches, digital shots and photos.

Each part of the trilogy is accompanied by over 500 illustrations, from the earliest pencil sketches and conceptual drawings to magnificent paintings that shaped the look of the films.

Peter Jackson and Andy Serkis are among twelve contributors who explain the background to the images.

The Art of the Fellowship of the Rings
ISBN 0 00 713563 7
£25

The Art of the Two Towers
ISBN 0 00 713564 5
£25

The Art of the Return of the King
ISBN 0 00 713565 3
£25

The Art of the Lord of the Rings Trilogy
ISBN 0 00 719192 8
£25

KISS ME LIKE A STRANGER

My Search for Love and Art

By Gene Wilder

‘Pure Gene Wilder! Uproarishly funny and at times very moving.
It made me want to go and see every Gene Wilder movie again.’
Mel Brooks

Gene Wilder is one of the great comic actors who defined film comedy in the 1970s and 80s, starring in movies ranging from The Producers to Blazing Saddles to Willy Wonker and the Chocolate Factory.

But this is no traditional autobiography, rather an intelligent, quirky, humorous account of key events that have effected him, his acting and – most importantly – his love life. As the subtitle so aptly puts in, this is his search for love and art.

‘Funny, unusual and completely convincing.’
The Mail on Sunday

‘Wilder’s prose is as probingly honest as his best performances.’
Sunday Times

‘Like it’s author, it has great charm and intelligence.’
Daily Mail – Critic’s Choice

ISBN: 0 00 720804 9

£10.99

KING DONG

A new and original take on the iconic story of man meets giant ape in the biggest and hairiest parody of all time.

By Edgar Rider Ragged

When struggling movie director Carl Deadman learns of the fabled King Dong, a beast legendary for its sheer massiveness (nudge nudge, wink wink), he hatches a plot to make an audience-grabbing feature with more sex appeal than anyone has ever dared commit to film.

Accompanied by platinum-blonde starlet Ann Darling (who will do anything to get her name in lights) and her dresser, Fey Ray (who will just do anything), Deadman charts Captain Rumbuggery's foul ship the Vulture for deepest-darkest-dangerousest Africa. Teaming up with intrepid explorer Indiana Bones, so-called for his passion for energetic archaeology, this motley band of would-be heroes must dodge cannibals, pirates, wailing jungle-swingers, dinosaurs and a whole host of other Hollywood clichés before they can enjoy a king-size climax and lots of monkeying around on an American landmark.

Will Fey Ray find passage aboard the Vulture?

Will Ann sacrifice her virginity again for the sake of art?

Will Marzipan, lord of the jungle, ever walk straight again?

Will King Dong be stiff competition in the ratings?

Will this novel ape the success of the classic film?

Is Edgar Rider Ragged's Son of Dong an inevitability?

Read this excruciating new book and find out!

ISBN 0 00 720812 X

£6.99

GEORGE LUCAS: A BIOGRAPHY

By John Baxter

Despite his frank dislike of directing, George Lucas has made himself one of the most important figures in the history of film-making. His production company, Lucasfilm, is phenomenally successful, and his Industrial Light and Magic is the finest special effects studio in the world.

Yet, for all his achievements, Lucas remains an elusive, almost anonymous figure, shunning the limelight and spending much of his time on his isolated Skywalker Ranch complex in northern California. Now John Baxter, acclaimed biographer of Steven Spielberg, Stanley Kubrick and Woody Allen, sheds new light on this great movie mogul, tracing his small-town origins in Modesto, California (brilliantly recreated in his first major film as director, American Graffiti) and his subsequent phenomenal success with Star Wars, its successors, and the three Indiana Jones films. Together, these comprise the most popular group of films ever made.

'A detailed account of the making of the movies and a motherlode of delicious industry gossip.'
Entertainment Weekly

ISBN 0 00 653081 8

£8.99

ENJOYED THIS BOOK? WHY NOT TRY OTHER GREAT HARPERCOLLINS TITLES – AT 10% OFF!

Buy great books direct from HarperCollins at 10% off recommended retail price.
FREE postage and packing in the UK.

☐ Halliwell's Film, Video and DVD Guide 2006 (26th edition) Edited by John Walker 0-00-720550-3	£22.50
☐ Halliwell's Top 1000 Edited by John Walker 0-00-718165-5	£15.99
☐ Halliwell's Film Quiz Book Andrew Murray, edited by John Walker 0-00-653194-6	£5.99
☐ The Art of the Fellowship of the Rings Gary Russell 0-00-713563-7	£25
☐ The Art of the Two Towers Gary Russell 0-00-713564-5	£25
☐ The Art of the Return of the King Gary Russell 0-00-713565-3	£25
☐ The Art of the Lord of the Rings Trilogy Gary Russell 0-00-719192-8	£25
☐ Kiss Me Like a Stranger Gene Wilder 0-00-720804-9	£10.99
☐ King Dong Edgar Rider Ragged 0-00-720812-X	£6.99
☐ George Lucas: A Biography John Baxter 0-00-653081-8	£8.99

Total cost ________

10% discount ________

Final total ________

To purchase by Visa/Mastercard/Switch simply call 08707 871724 or fax on 08707 871725

To pay by cheque, send a copy of this form with a cheque made payable to
'HarperCollins Publishers' to: Mail Order Dept. (Ref: BOB4), HarperCollins Publishers, Westerhill Road, Bishopbriggs, G64 2QT, making sure to include your full name, postal address and phone number.

From time to time HarperCollins may wish to use your personal data to send you details of other HarperCollins publications and offers. If you wish to receive information on other HarperCollins publications and offers please tick this box ☐

Do not send cash or currency. Prices correct at time of press.
Prices and availability are subject to change without notice.
Delivery overseas and to Ireland incurs a £2 per book postage and packing charge.

The essential guide to the who, what, why and how of cinema

HALLIWELL'S WHO'S WHO is an essential, addictive and hugely entertaining companion for everyone who enjoys films. It offers a wealth of fully updated information, with comprehensive entries that get to the very heart of the film industry.

★ THE PEOPLE

Biographies and filmographies of all the key players, highlighting significant work, outstanding performances and pithy quotes

★ THE AWARDS

From Oscars to BAFTAs and the Cannes Film Festival, listed in full, year-by-year

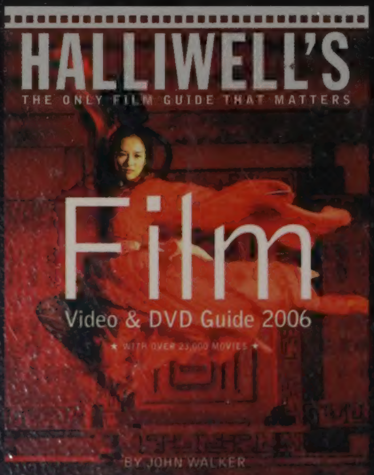
★ A GLOBAL HISTORY OF CINEMA

From its beginnings to the present day, listed chronologically, plus a country-by-country breakdown of national film industries

★ A COMPREHENSIVE BACKGROUND TO THE INDUSTRY

Movie themes and genres, studio details, technologies and trends

'It's excellent value for money and of the many reference books around, this is the one we delve into most.'
THE GUARDIAN



HALLIWELL'S
THE ONLY FILM GUIDE THAT MATTERS Film
Video & DVD Guide 2006
★ WITH OVER 23,000 MOVIES ★
BY JOHN WALKER

Also available

'Indispensable' VARIETY

ISBN 0-00-716957-4
UK £18.99*
*recommended price
01899 >
9 780007 169573

Visit www.AuthorTracker.co.uk for exclusive information on your favourite HarperCollins authors

Cover photograph of Daniel Craig © Joseph King/Corbis Outline